Wanted 62 Acres of New York

New York, Sept. 3.—The suit brought by the Trinity church corporation by Isaac Edwards, Joel B. Edwards and several others, heirs of Robert Edwards, to establish their title to 62 acres of land in the residential and business districts of New York city, was today dismissed by Justice Beach, in the Supreme Court. The plaintiffs, residents of South Carolina, assert that they are heirs and lineal descendants of the two brothers and the sister of Robert Edwards, who prior to May 26, 1780, was lawfully possessed in fee simple of a certain tract of land beginning at the southeast corner of Broadway and Canal street, thence to the line of Chatham Square, thence southwest to the line of Chatham Square to the eastern terminus of New Chambers street, thence west along New Chambers and Chambers street to its intersection with Broadway. The plaintiffs allege that on May 26, 1780, Robert Edwards, in consideration of 1,000 pounds sterling, leased this tract of land to the Trinity church corporation for a term of 99 years. Robert Edwards died in 1795 intestate, and never having been married, left as heirs brothers and sisters. The suit was to recover possession of the land and for a decision compelling the Trinity church corporation to account for the rents and profits arising therefrom since the expiration of the lease.

Won a Wife With an Egg

Ross Williams, of Enid, O. T., wrote a love story on an egg ready for shipment several weeks ago, and as a result he won himself a bride. What this young man said on the egg was this: "On a farm in the Cherokee strip I sit a sad and lonely bachelor, thinking sadly over my fate, and would love to come off the nest and join my life with that of some comely young lady of not too many Summers' growth. Should the message on this egg meet the eye of a fair one who is matrimonially inclined on short acquaintance, and who thinks she could endure a prairie life with a student of nature's beauty, address Ross Williams, Enid, O. T. In due course of time this reply came: "DEAR MR. WILLIAMS—From the quiet precincts of my boudoir I write thee. I am lonely, too, and have often longed to quit city life and go West, where the tall, wild grass sways in the wind as if listening to the sweet song of the chimea bugs. After chopping wood to kindle the fire, and after the fire was ready for business and the pan was sizzling in the sparkling fat, I was about to break an egg in the pan, when, behold! your message met my gaze. It seemed like a dream of a lost, unknown love. Perhaps our fates would trot along together. I am comely, but not so fair. Age, 23; no money, but plenty of grit. Let us exchange photographs. It may all end in another American union, long to be preserved. Methinks I know you now."

"BESSIE CARROLL," Chicago, Ill.

Further correspondence resulted, and a few days later the young people were married.—New York Herald.

Pedagogue Grade-Up in Kansas.

It is understood that Superintendent Stryker, in order to "grade up" the teachers, has prepared an entirely new set of questions for the next examinations. Among them are those: "You can frequently see a white horse; why do you never see a white colt?" "Why does a horse eat grass backward and a cow forward?" "Why does a hop vine wind one way and a bean vine another? Explain fully." "Why does a horse tethered with a rope always unravel it, while a cow twists it into knots?" "What is the length of a flour barrel?" "What animals have no upper teeth, and why?" "Why did Abdul Hamid delay acceptance of the proffered mediation of the powers?" "After the Omaha platform, what is the greatest American document written since the Declaration of Independence?" "Give a historical fact of the following great men: Wm. Stryker, G. Washington, Wm. Shakespeare, Jerry Simpson, Napoleon."

At Holdgate, Ohio, last week, fifteen armed tramps surprised and captured the farm house of John Williams about night and stopped the wedding of his daughter to Frank Collins. They drove the family from the house, devoured the bridal supper and ransacked the house. The wedding was postponed. The guests formed into a posse and went in pursuit of the tramps.

A woman's character is likened to a postage stamp, says an exchange. One black mark ruins it. Man's like a treasury note no matter how many stains it has it will pass at par. When a woman falls from grace her character is generally ruined forever. On the other hand a man may straighten up and be received into the best society again. All of which is too true—but being true does not make it right by a great deal.

A Singular Girl

Mr. J. F. Bek, of Goose Creek, to us, reports something rather strange and remarkable in his family. He says he has a daughter 17 years old who has never spoken to him in her life. She talks with the other members of the family, but refuses to talk to him, yet her parental affection toward him seems to be as great or greater than that of his other children. She frequently goes with him away from home on a visit and listens to him talk, but never returns a word or answers a question for him. Her usual facilities are as good as the average and she is to an extent educated, can read a written. These are the facts as given to us by Mr. Bek himself. He does not know how to account for it—Marshville Home.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing his work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it will not cure. Send for list of testimonials.

In the Klondike Gold-Region.

San Francisco, Sept. 1.—The Bulletin has received a letter from Charles H. Hines, dated Dawson City, July 27. Mr. Hines is a well-known newspaper writer, and his letter is the first written by a trained newspaper man to come out of the Klondike gold region. He says: "The rich diggings have been comparatively little during the summer, although the output from Eldorado and Bonanza creeks was famous and there is plenty of gold to sight. There is every prospect for an immense output of gold from this district next spring. The total output of about seven million dollars, the season is as near as I can judge, but very little of the ground has been worked, and the jumps will, like the tailings of the old California placers, pay out thousands of dollars as when worked with improved machinery. The placers are the most puzzling and deceiving I have ever seen. Imagine a man working on good color and finding the ground worth only a few dollars per day, and then turning to a waste of mud and moss, with no surface indications, and uttering a bonanza. This is the situation here and all over Alaska. The man who comes here to mine does so at the expense of health and happiness and it is with him a question of making a fortune quickly or taking chances with death."

How They Cure Alcoholism.

Mrs. Alec Tweedie has recently brought out a book entitled "Through Finland to Caris," full of racy chat of travel. She speaks of Finland as being like Norway "riddled with telephones," and tells the following little story to illustrate the excessive use of the telephone by Finnish folk: "Pekka was mad in love with Inna, a wondrously beautiful maiden. He heard rumors that she was trifling with another. He could not stand the torture, even for a few hours, and so up the mansion of the family Heikkila. "Joy, he heard the voice of Inna in answer, and said: Is it you, dear one? I, Pekka am here. "A soft sigh replied. "Are you glad to hear Pekka? Do you care for him just a little? "Yes," sighed the fair maid. "Darling, it is not true that you care for Armas Heikkila?" "No, no," she cried. "You like me—you love me?" "Yes," she softly murmured. "Will you be my wife?" "I will, Pekka." "Overjoyed, Pekka almost hugged the wretched box that brought him such glad tidings. "When may I come to see you darling—my little wife?" "Come, Pekka, come for dinner at 3 o'clock." A few more sweet nothings, and, quite enraptured, Pekka returned to his office routine. At 3 o'clock, spick and span, with a golden ring in his pocket, he presented himself at the house of the Heikkilas. He went toward her to receive her motherly congratulations. She rushed forward to meet him, as all good mothers-in-law should and, throwing herself into his arms, she cried— "Take me, Pekka, dearest Pekka: I am yours till death." "Mine!" "Yes. I have loved you long, darling Pekka, and I am ready whenever you can fix a day for our marriage." "Tablan. Moral: Beware of telephoner."

Lawsuit Against Judge Greene.

Proceedings have been begun against Judge L. L. Greene, for damages. The case arises out of an application for a writ of habeas corpus, in the case of the State against Harris down on Hunting Creek Harris was placed in jail. His attorneys applied to Judge Greene for a writ of habeas corpus. He refused to grant. Application was made to Associate Justice Forbes, who granted the writ. The case cannot be tried before next spring term. The case will excite considerable interest.—Wilkesboro Chronicle.

Coldseekers Discouraged.

A Post-Intelligencer correspondent, writing on August 25, from Skagway, says that a three days downpour has discouraged many goldseekers, only hundred returning in a single day from the trail, where the mud reached five feet deep. The men are fearfully mired up to their shoulders, and the horses are of no shot, because they cannot be moved from the stiff mud. The horses are so mired up that by the exhaustive work of packing, and without a horse miner has no hope of getting through. Men as packers are in great demand, receiving from $8 to $10 per day and board. The work is very hard, a man being required to carry 100 pounds to the lead, and to keep it up all day through mud and rain. A person cannot stand it long. A great many are cutting down their supplies to barely enough to carry them over the winter, and are pushing on to the lake post haste, to get down to the river before snow flies.

A Needed Invention.

The Brooklyn man who stopped the policeman on the corner just a minute before the policeman stopped him looked as if he had been through a Klondike winter and had left the country afterward through the little end of a thrashing machine. "Here, Mr. Policeman," he began, when the policeman put in: "What's the matter with you anyhow?" he asked. "Domestic, purely domestic," he explained. "Glad to hear there are no foreign complications," said the officer, encouragingly. "There ain't; there is a s there never was; but what us married men need is protection." "Well, hasn't the Dingley bill gone through a whooping? What more do you want?" smiled the officer, who was disposed to be facetious. "Yes; but that's got nothing to do with my case," contended the man indignantly. "What us married men want is protection against our wives. Look at me, Mr. Officer; look at me. I'm a married man, and my condition is entirely due to my wife."

You are sober enough, I guess, said the officer looking him over. "Course I am. 'Tain't that neither. What we want is some of these here inventions, who are turning out all kinds of machines that are doing all kinds of things, we don't have any use for once in a thousand years, to get right down on their marrowbones and invent a machine that will go on the letter a wife hands to her husband to mail when he's got something else to think about, so that when he passes a mail box or a carrier or the postoffice, this same invention will yank the letter out of his pocket and chuck the whole thing where it belongs. Then when the letters are collected and sent back to their owners for future use now a thing like that would have saved me from looking like I look now and would have made it possible for me to go back home before two weeks."

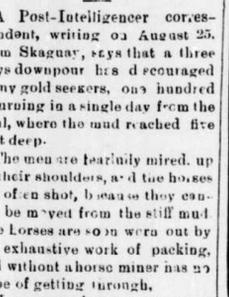

"Why," began the officer, when the man shut him off.

"Aw, don't why me any whys," he said. "By gosh, I carried that letter around two weeks, and it ought to go to the place in four days, and when it didn't it kept my wife from doing something or other one of the new women societies she belongs to wanted her to do, and so she just lit into me, and you see what a wreck I am." "Where are you going?" asked the officer kindly, as the man started off. "Darred if I know," he said, "I guess I'll go down here to the nearest saloon and throw dice to see whether I'll go to a hotel or a hospital."—New York Sun.

is called summer gripe in New York. The symptoms are similar to the familiar influenza, except that pains in the joints are not an accompaniment. A severe cold in the head and sneezing that is almost incessant are the chief characteristics. IMPOSITIONS.

The Practice of Which Should Cease.

There are two enterprises in Greenville that are greatly imposed upon—far more than they should be. Doubtless there are others also, but only two have been selected to call attention to at this time. In many instances people may do this thoughtlessly and without regarding it at all as an imposition, but upon taking a proper view of the matter it can be looked upon in no other light. We do not write about these matters in any spirit of complaint or censure, but only from the standpoint of justice and right, and we hope those who read it will take that view of it, bearing in mind the Golden Rule "Do unto others as ye would that they should do unto you."

The first of these enterprises we will mention is the Telephone Exchange. The owners of this industry have at considerable expenditure of time and money put in this exchange. That it is a great convenience to the business interests of the community need not be argued at all. The only means the owners have of reimbursing themselves or even making a per cent. on their investment is by renting their telephones to subscribers, who cheerfully pay a monthly rental for the benefit they receive. Now where the imposition comes in is that so many people who are not subscribers to the exchange, and who in no way contribute a penny to maintain it, take the liberty of going into any store of office where there is a telephone and use it as much as they please. Is this right? Think a moment and you will admit that it is wrong, morally if not legally. Such a practice is taking advantage, without just compensation, of what the labor and means of another has provided, and no man has a moral right to do this. The sense of pride, to say nothing of justice and right, should prevent people taking advantage of others. If the use of a telephone is a convenience, a benefit or a pleasure to them, they should be willing to pay for it.

The other enterprise we have in mind to mention as being the brunt of much imposition is the REFLECTOR. We are running a newspaper in Greenville, and the only means we have of making a living out of it or getting a return for the labor expended and money invested in it, is by selling copies of the paper and renting space in its columns to advertisers. Now there are numbers of people who read the REFLECTOR every day and never contribute a cent to its support. These may think it a very small thing to pick up a paper somebody else has paid for and read it. And so it is a small thing, yet those who do it impose both on the publisher, by using the product of his labor without compensation, and on the purchaser or subscriber, by appropriating to one's own use what another has purchased. The same question may be asked here as in the telephone example: Is this right? Take a moment's serious reflection on the subject and you will answer that it is not right but is a moral wrong.

To illustrate both these examples, people have no more moral right to use a telephone without paying for it, or to use a paper without paying for it, than they have to go on a train or steamboat and take a trip without paying fare, or than they have to get dinner at a hotel and not pay for it. As said at the outset this article is only written from the standpoint of justice and right, and in the hope that it will cause those to whom it applies to think impartially on these matters; and help them to correct the moral wrong they are doing. If the labor of another is worth using it is entitled to compensation.

At a convention of Colorado Democrats, held in Denver on the 6th, it was decided that hereafter there shall be no more fusion by that party with any other. The platform endorsed refers in laudatory terms to W. J. Bryan.

There has been an outbreak of yellow fever at Ocean Springs, Miss. The announcement has caused great excitement throughout the extreme Southern States and all the large cities are establishing a quarantine as a preventive of a repetition of the terror the plague caused in 1878. Yellow fever is a dangerous and deadly disease and we hope there will be no spread of it.

MONUMENT TO OUR DEAD.

The Movement Renewed to Erect One.

In another column Mr. B. F. Sugg, Secretary of Bryan Grimes Camp of Pitt County Confederate Veterans, brings before the public the question of building a monument to the Confederate dead of the county. His letter sufficiently explains the plan for raising the fund. THE REFLECTOR wishes to endorse this step and to urge the people of the county to do what they can toward honoring the memory of our dead heroes. We do not know yet what ladies will be requested to serve on the committee, but let it be said when the list is made public that none fail to give a hearty response to the call for their aid. With the noble women of Pitt county enlisted in such a movement it will be carried on to success.

WHICHAARD ITEMS.

WHICHAARD, N. C., Sept. 13th '97. A very large crowd attended the yearly meeting at Briery Swamp yesterday. The warm, dry weather is causing cotton to open rapidly. Ernest Whickard who has been very sick with fever is improving. Miss Jennie Warren is very sick. Charley Braley, A. C. L. agent at Pactoles, gave us a pleasant call this morning. Miss Corie Hearne, of Greenville, spent last week with relatives near here. Miss Ella Wilson, of Beaufort county, is visiting relatives here. Miss Mary Whitehurst who has been teaching near here has closed her school for the present. Misses Stella Ward, of Greenville and Odessa Rawls, of Robesonville, are visiting Mrs. H. S. Congleton. We are glad to know that J. L. Perkins is improving. J. J. Mason left this morning to accept a position at Grimesland. C. L. Whickard, of Norfolk, spent a few days at his old home last week. The Oak Grove Sunday School had a picnic at Keelsville last Friday. We hear it was a success. J. S. Mooring will return to Chapel Hill tomorrow.

BUILD THE MONUMENT.

EDITOR REFLECTOR:—Will you allow me space in your paper to again put in agitation the raising of a fund to erect a monument to the memory of the Confederate soldiers of Pitt county. This matter was prominently before the people of the county last fall; but owing to the short crops and low prices of produce very little was done.

It is our purpose now to raise a fund amply sufficient to erect a monument that will be an honor and a credit to the cause we so dearly love and in order to do so we are now arranging a committee list of ladies who we will ask to fully canvass their respective neighborhoods and raise as much as they can for this fund. In order to do this work easily and with as little trouble as possible to them, we will put on that committee sixty working ladies and ask them to raise ten dollars each. With this amount added to another fund that we hope to raise, we will have a magnificent monument to the memory of those who so nobly faced the foe in Southern Rights and Liberty. The committee will be made known at an early day and we very earnestly ask their much needed aid in this work. B. F. SUGG, Secretary Bryan Grimes Camp, Confederate Veterans of Pitt county.

MONUMENT COMMITTEE.

All Are Requested to Help Raise the Fund.

The following ladies have been selected to assist in raising a fund to erect a monument to the Pitt county soldiers. Each one is requested to canvass her respective neighborhood for subscriptions, and to turn the amount over to J. G. Moye, Greenville, who is Treasurer of the monument fund. B. F. SUGG, Sec. PUBLIC OFFICE A PRIVATE SNAP.

Of making new offices and filling them with ink there is no end. State Auditor Ayer's zeal in ousting Stewart Bros. as Public Printers is now explained. A new office of superintendent of printing has been created, and H. W. Ayer fills it and draws a salary of $30 a month. Not only so, but the Connellan printing office has been moved into the establishment of Brims Bros., who will hereafter print that paper. It has been intimated that Brims Bros. do this free of charge in consideration of getting the contract for State printing on their own terms.

It also came to light yesterday that another new office has been created, that of assistant secretary of the North Carolina Railroad, at a salary of $600 per year. Who is to fill it? A son of State Treasury Worth. The good things are kept in the official tandem. The young man is capable, and he served as book-keeper in the Wilson ton bank which now has a "cuckoo" having on deposit all the money that comes into the hands of the secretary and treasurer of the North Carolina Railroad.

On Wednesday Governor Russell's brother Tom assumed the duties as warden of the penitentiary. He has been there several months at the expense of the State learning under efficient Warden Ledbetter, who is relieved. Not only so, but elegant apartments have been fitted up, at the expense of the tax-payers, for his family, and no rent is charged for them. Indeed, until the last meeting of the directors, it was they were all housed at the expense of the tax-payers, and it was only after protest by a member of the board that the large family of the officers were ordered to pay board.

We have heretofore printed two columns showing the extent to which nepotism prevails under the administration. Recent events indicate that the motto of our rulers is "Public Office is a Private Snag."—Raleigh News and Observer.

WOLF MOUNTAIN WORK.

The young Methodist minister who had just been appointed to the Wolf Mountain circuit conceived the idea of establishing a mission in the corn juice neighborhood and on Sunday rode over the ridge to investigate the field. Along in the afternoon he approached a cabin with a swaback roof and a large stork and direct chimney, with deep, sticky holes in its sides, from which the smoke escaped without the trouble of ascending to the top. He drew up in front of the cabin and shouted: "Hello!" The door opened and a redheaded woman with a great snuff stick in her mouth, appeared and answered: "Hi!" "My good woman," said the minister, "have you many Methodist about here?" "Yep; I think they air purty plenty. Tobe Owens was air purty with his fox houn's right across the creek thar yis'ere day."

Reminiscences.

"Married men are coming home now, telling yarns about big fish. 'Yes, and the young men tell bigger yarns about the girls who fall in love with them.' 'And the girls tell whoppers about the men who fall in love with them.' 'What do the married women have to tell?' 'They tell everybody how awfully dirty their houses got while they were away.'—Chicago Record.

STATE NEWS.

Both ice and frost were reported in the western part of the State Monday morning. There are 210 students enrolled at Wake Forest college and fully 60 more are expected. There are fully 40 Indians from the Cherokee reservation in this State, at the government school at Cerule, Pa. At Franklin's Spring morning, immediately after Rev. M. D. ... of the Methodist Episcopal church had pronounced the benediction, he was stricken with paralysis. A few days ago lightning struck the barn of Abram Fisher, near Jamesville, in Martin county. The barn, stables, all his feed stuff, two horses and four cows were destroyed.

Mr. Rockefeller Gives $250,000

J. D. Rockefeller has redeemed his promise to the American Baptist Missionary Union and the American Baptist Home Missionary Society, and has sent his check for the balance of the $250,000 promised by him upon the condition that the two societies would raise $236,000. The American Baptist Missionary Union in this city has received a check from him for $121,267. The American Baptist Home Missionary Society, whose headquarters are in New York city, received a check for the balance necessary to cancel its indebtedness.

On February 11th last the announcement was made that these two societies were struggling along under a total indebtedness of about $486,000. Mr. Rockefeller, who had previously given each society $30,000; then said that if the two societies would raise $236,000 he would increase his subscription to a total of $250,000. The two societies strained every nerve and raised the money. Mr. Rockefeller then kept his part of the agreement.—Boston Dispatch.

The Mosquito's Arrival.

Amos has returned to the city. This is the season when Amos Keeter comes to this section, and he is on hand in good time.

Every one knows Amos. There is not a man, woman or child in the city who has not been bitten by his sharp practice. The wandering vagabond arrived in the city a few days since; but though many were expecting him, no one seems to know just when he came in. It is certain, however, that he has alighted, for he has been up to his old game of hide and seek—hiding in the day and seeking whom he might devour at night.

It is believed by some that Amos has lately been in New Jersey, as he has many celebrated relatives there, while others think he has been in the large regents. Soon after his arrival he was heard to remark very sentimentally: "There'll be a hot time in the old town tonight." Then he slipped quietly into the depot restaurant, worked Uncle Bud Kennedle for a bite, and lit out.

Amos' tricks are old and well known, but he never fails to breed a victim. He approaches you with a song about "Cousin," presents a long bill to you, and before you know what he is about, gets a hook into you and tans you for what he wants. It is usually two bit. His career is somewhat paradoxical. Though he looks puny and sickly, he thrives best in malarial districts. Women lay awake at nights fearing him; he makes babies cry, men curse him and put strong bars at the windows to keep him out, yet he is received into every home in Atlanta.

Every one tries to crush him, but he flies high and lives on the fat of the land. With all of his keen machinations, every one who knows him declares him to be a regular sacker. Like red wine, Amos Keeter is to be avoided, for in the end he stings like an adder and in the other end he biteth like a serpent.

The pesky skeeters are more numerous this year than ever before, it would seem, from the great wail of complaint which arises from the homes in this city these nights. They are a different breed from those which afflicted us last year, being much larger and stronger, and therefore much fiercer. They are wearing stripes on their legs this year. It is uncertain whether this is a bid for the ball and chain attachment, or whether they are only imitating the latest in bathing suits.—Atlanta Journal.

By actual count 10,000 people between July 1, and August 28 left the Pacific coast for the gold fields of Alaska and the Klondike region.

REFLECTIONS.

Of Wilmington Star Twinklings. Gen. Weyler is said to be worth about $7,000,000. How much of this was made in the butcher business is not stated.

Those South Carolina jarkys who recently "buried the devil" did very well if they don't get back into the old habit of raising him.

The newspaper man who invented the word blizzard, recently fell from a window in a Kansas town and broke his neck. We are expecting a medicine to hear from the other fellow who invented the sizzard. He has escaped the fates thus far.

Some people who have tried the late fad of not eating any breakfast say it is a great thing. If they can acquire the habit of going without dinner and supper too they may get the art of living cheap down to a fine point.

Hobart's Meanness.

Hobart is a small fellow. He has caused Wm. Seagraves, a her at the R.R. railroad at Jersey City, to be dismissed. Seagraves had orders not to admit any one through the gates until the trains were ready. Here is what happened says an exchange: Seagraves was at his post Thursday afternoon when a tall, heavy man attempted to force his way past the user and through the gates.

"You can't go through there, sir, until the train is ready," said Seagraves. "I can't, eh?" said the man, still tugging his way. "You probably don't know who I am?" "I don't care who you are," replied the young man. "I have my orders not to allow anybody through."

"Well, I'm going through. Here's my card." He lifted a card, raves standing at his post with a bit of cardboard in his hand. It bore the inscription: "Garret V. Hobart."

"I didn't care whether it was the president of the United States himself. I had no authority to allow any one through," said Seagraves yesterday. "However, I did not think that the vice-president of the United States was so small as to take revenge upon a poor working man and take the bread out of the mouths of himself and family. Yet that is just what he has done to me."

A VALUABLE PRESCRIPTION. Editor Morrison, of the Worthington, Ind. Sun writes: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters and I can cheerfully recommend it for constipation and sick headache, and as a general system tonic it has no equal."

Mrs. Annie Stecher, 227 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, was all run down, could not eat nor digest food, had a headache which never left her and felt tired and weary, but six bottles of Electric Bitters restored her health and renewed her strength. Prices 25 c. and $1 per bottle at J. L. Wooten's drug store.

Baltimore's Population. The annual police census just completed shows an increase of 4,259 voters over last year's figures. The white voters of the city, according to the census, number 107,754. At the rate of one voter to every five inhabitants Baltimore's present population should be 625,270. At the same rate the increase of 4,259 voters would also indicate an increase of over 21,000 in the city's population during the last year.—Baltimore Sun.

They are wearing stripes on their legs this year. It is uncertain whether this is a bid for the ball and chain attachment, or whether they are only imitating the latest in bathing suits.—Atlanta Journal.

THE BALL.

You will remember a woman How carelessly she sang, When you were out here waiting For a girl to sing.

I thought you must have forgotten; And seemed so careless and gay, As you waltz'd around the room with your partners.

You see, I had a lovely fairy, An angel, and woman too; There is something of earth and heaven In all that you say and do.

Y. S. I know that love is jealous, And I love you with all my soul, So my time with a heart full of longing Beyond my mind's control.

So please be good to me sweetheart, I really think you might, When you know how much I have suffered.

Out here in the darkness tonight, Let us waltz down there in the garden Where none but the moon can see, I have so much to tell,

And you promised to listen to me. Ah, now that we're out in the moonlight, You seem once more, all my own, I wish that this were our Eden.
