

Funerary co-operate for what? To re-war Butler, Ayer, Thompson, and others for their aid in overturning a State government which was a mad, ideal, ideal, legislative and judicial, as substituting for a government, which in nearly every part, from the Governor to the court house magistrate, is a stench in the nostrils of the people? Yes, co-operate, so that Butler may have another term as Senator, Ayer another term as Auditor, Thompson another term as Secretary of State, etc., etc. — Concord Times.

THE YELLOW FLAG. Plan of an artist by which he saves himself from the consequences of a bad idea. An artist whose habits are convivial, but who is willing to work if no one calls on him, removed to a suburban town last summer so that he might finish a lot of illustrations which he had promised. "New York is all right," he said to his friends, "I know too many people here, and my friends keep calling on me in my studio, and this really interferes with my work. I have selected Lonelyville because my wife likes it and I know absolutely no one in the place. I have ordered for a year's work, and I simply must do it on time. My friends may come to see me on Sundays, but not on weekdays." Several weeks later some of his friends from New York went out to see the artist on Sunday and they found him enthusiastic about the place. "There is a fine lot of fellows here," he said, "and I have enjoyed the town immensely. I have joined a yacht club, a bowling club, a whist club, and a Saturday night smoker club. Found several old friends out here also." "But I thought that you came here so that you might do your work without interruption," said one of his callers. "Well, yes, that was my reason, and as soon as I have met all the boys and each of them has made his call on me I can settle down and make up for lost time." A month later the publishers for whom this artist worked began to complain that they had received no illustrations from him. The artist made promises and broke them. Finally one of the publishers went out to Lonelyville to investigate. He found that the artist was out yachting. He waited for him, and then laid down the law to him. "This book must come out on time," said the publisher, "and I will wait for you just one month more on which to finish your illustrations. If they are not done then, we will get another man, and never give you another word." When the publisher went, the artist said to his wife: "Now what am I going to do about this? I can't post-pones for a month. They wouldn't understand my purpose. The committee from the yacht club is coming here tomorrow afternoon, and on the following day I expect some of the whist club men, and so it goes. What am I to do?" The artist's wife was ingenious, and she explained a little scheme of her own to her husband. When the committee from the yacht club called, they saw a big, yellow flag flying over the house. Underneath it was a big placard on which was printed, "My wife is out yachting. Please do not call." They did keep off, and soon all Lonelyville knew about it. The local health officer went out to investigate, and after a short conversation with the artist's wife he went away with a broad smile on his face. When the whist club called, the artist's wife questioned him about the case, he looked serious and said that he was not at liberty to say what the doctor said, but that no one could catch it unless he went into the house. During the next month the flag waved and no one saw the artist. The publisher got his illustrations, and then the flag was hauled down, and the health officer announced that it would be safe to call on the artist. His friends in Lonelyville came around to see him and congratulate him on his recovery. He didn't look like a man who had been through a serious illness. "What was the disease," they asked. "Losing," said the artist seriously. He then explained the whole thing to them, and they all laughed heartily. He then explained the whole thing to them, and they all laughed heartily. When the tug ran near the coast and was in the act of landing the men and supplies a Spanish cavalry swept down upon them and poured in a hot fire upon the tug, but their aim was poor and the distance too great. They could not reach the tug. In the meantime the cruiser Wilmington, which was cruising near the coast, was ordered to open fire on the cavalry with small guns. The gunners aim was true and several shells landed in the midst of the cavalry, killing sixteen and wounding thirty. Nothing stimulates a man or a soldier more than a happy knowledge of woman's approval and assistance. The beautiful flag presented by the women of Pitt county to Company B. was turned into the great fire in 1896 and Company H. is now without colors. We hope the brave women of Pitt county will continue their aid and efforts to present to the Company before it leaves Greenville next week a beautiful flag commensurate with distinction conferred upon Pitt county by the naming of the Company in honor of that gallant soldier and splendid citizen and gentleman Gen. Bryan Grimes, whose memory every patriot holds dear. We know there are willing hands and loving hearts who will respond to this most sacred pleasure. We trust it will begin before another issue of the Reflector that we may be able to show through its columns that the good women of the county are with them, in sustaining their country's honor.

WAR PERMITS.
"It has been decided by the Company that if war should be declared, free permits to enter the United States Military or Naval service will be granted on application to all persons now insured with us whose policy contracts require the same. This will include policies issued on our present form, which are not yet two years old, as well as old policies not containing the two years limitation; but persons of this nature will not be granted under policies not yet two years old, unless war shall actually be declared and the parties are about to enter the service. It has not yet been decided what action will be taken if war should be declared and parties then desire to insure with us and enter the United States service."

Yours truly,
EDWARD L. DOBBINS, Secretary.

You will see from the above action of the Company that the Mutual Benefit is still up-to-date, and is always pursuing the most liberal and just course towards its policy-holders. We do not make any flourish of trumpets when we show a spirit of liberality, because it is natural and expected that the Mutual Benefit will always be patriotic and do the right thing. In case war is not declared, the permits will not be granted, as it will not be necessary, and the Company desires to avoid that expense and trouble. In case war is declared, every one of our policy-holders will be protected.

Yours truly,

BABY'S SMOOTH, FAIR SKIN

"Tells all about her Troubles when Baby Broke out with Scrofula Sores."

"At the age of two months, my baby began to have sores break out on his bright face. We used all the external applications that we could think of, but to no avail. The sores spread all over one side of his face. He was now four years old and tried his medicine, and in a week the sores were gone. But to my surprise in two weeks more another eruption broke out and spread over my baby's arm. It grew worse and worse, and when he was three months old, I began giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla. I also took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before the first bottle was finished, the sores were well and have never returned. He is now four years old and has never had any signs of those scrofulous sores since he was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, for which I feel very grateful. My boy owes his good health and smooth, fair skin to this great medicine. Mrs. H. W. Warner, Parsons, Delaware."

Our Veteran Physician.
Dr. C. J. O'Hagan, who is attending the State Medical Convention at Charlotte, was elected as one of the delegates to the American Medical Convention. At a banquet Wednesday night he responded to the toast "North Carolina Medical Society." Speaking of him the Charlotte Observer says:

"Dr. O'Hagan is one of the old men in the convention. His hair is whitened by the snows of 77 winters, but his mind and eye are as bright as if he had never been old. He is a perpetual springtime had warmed upon him. The doctor is one of the old war surgeons. He and Dr. Joseph Graham were comrades in '61-'65."

Wall Pitt County Patriotism Respond.
The county of Pitt so well known all over this land has now an opportunity to do credit and honor to itself. It is no more a compliment to the citizenship of the county that Capt. Bryan Grimes should be named in honor of his father here, and the distinguished honor it shared and enjoyed by every patriotic citizen of his people. The call to arms has been heard. Many of the different counties of the State have raised companies and some two Captains Smith is now recruiting Co. H. Pitt Rifles, and it is to the honor of the county to accept the call. Pitt county has as good material as any county in the State and we believe the young men will take a pleasurable pride in responding to their country's honor.

The Greenville Tobacco Market.
The Greenville tobacco market is continually falling to the front. American tobacco has already been made for the creation of several new houses and numerous which will place Greenville second to no market in the State. We have always said that Greenville occupied the most enviable position of any market in the east and within the next few years we believe our prediction will be fulfilled without the expenditure of a doubt.

Money in Circulation

Never before in the history of the country has there been so much money in circulation as there is now.

The April statement of the treasury shows the amount to be 1,756,658,945. Our stock of gold and the amount of gold in circulation are also greater than ever before. Our net gain in gold since the destruction of the Maine has been more than $70,000,000. The recent increase of circulation has been due, of course, to the large expenditure of the government for war equipment and supplies.

If we were analyzing

The total money circulation in this country at the beginning of the civil war was $334,697,744. A year after the war ended the circulation was $673,488,844.

If we get a quantity of a war indemnity from Spain, which we certainly should have, and money turned loose as it was just after the civil war, there is every reason to expect an era of prosperity no distant day.—Atlanta

"What did he do?"

"He just enlisted me in the company he is getting up and told me to report for duty tomorrow morning."
