What news, this morning? asked the President. Well, said the Secretary, I'm not sure.

A new kind of a church lottery is the device of a congregation in Hartford, Conn., which is going to equip its pastor for a two years' stay in the Klondike on condition that if he makes a strike he shall pay out of the church debt.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, May 30, 98.

Brigadier Gen. Shafter, who is in command of the troops sent to Santiago de Cuba to help Commodore Schley capture or wipe out the Spanish fleet that Schley has lured up to that harbor, did not travel in a luxurious observation car, nor carry a porcelain bath tub with them—Gen. Miles travels with all these things—but he and his men will give a good account of themselves all the same.

News of the capture of Santiago by Gen. Shafter is daily expected, and about the same time Schley will either destroy or capture the entire Spanish fleet, and has already disabled the outer forts and some of the warships.

From leaks through the government censor mill there are reasons to believe that about the same time Gen. Shafter's command left Florida for Santiago another large body of troops embarked for Porto Rico, which is to be captured and permanently held. If these two movements succeed, the public will be obliged to forgive Gen. Miles for having succeeded in getting the general invasion of Cuba and movement on Havana, although it will probably continue to poke fun at his idea of how a soldier ought to travel. He says he needs at least 10,000 men to invade Cuba, and his critics are a special train, with private observation car and porcelain bath tub attachments.

Major General M. C. Butler, ex-Senator from S. C. was recently commissioned and ordered to duty as commander of the first division of the 2nd Army Corps, at Camp Alger, under Major General Graham, Ex-Gov. of Ala., has also received his commission as Brigadier General, his commission holder created quite a sensation, inasmuch as the war-revenue bill, which is still before the Senate, in which he accused Mr. McKinley of duplicity in connection with the silver question, and jumped all over Secretary Gage for his efforts in attempting to irrevocably commit the administration to the gold standard. He received the rank of Major General last September, pronouncing the failure of the bimetallic commission headed by Senator Wolcott, and stated that it had never been exercised. He recalled the fact that Mr. McKinley, Senator Allison, and other prominent Republicans had upon several occasions voted for silver, and was very sarcastic in all of their expense. He suddenly decided to reorganize the Supreme Court in order to assert the right of the United States to issue irredeemable paper money and said that national honor was not endangered by issue of paper. Mr. Chandler's reference to the Supreme Court judge tender decision against Senator Hoar who considered it a reflection upon his brother, at that time Attorney General, and he made a reply, ending as follows: "Stating my belief that the honorable Senator (Mr. Chandler) has been misled, I declare upon my responsibility as a Senator and as a gentleman the charge that the Supreme Court was paid off to declare the issue of legal tender notes constitutional is as vile a slander as ever threatened its dignity under the stamp."

Cear Reed is still holding his own in the fight he is making against the annexation of Hawaii. In fact, he is doing better than holding his own. He gained a victory, although it may be only temporary, when Senator Lodge was compelled to withdraw his annexation amendment to the war-revenue bill, and the Senate agreed to let annexation alone until after the war-revenue bill was passed. Reed had told those members of the House who wish him to allow the annexation resolution to be voted upon that the Senate would not pass it until after it had been passed. He is still after him in the House, but the most he will promise is to allow a vote after the war-revenue bill is passed. But he is likely to pay dearly for his triumph, temporary as it is. It is semi-officially stated that if Congress doesn't act, Mr. McKinley will send Hawaii as a war measure. Unless he withdraws his party are mistaken, he has by his attitude on this question destroyed any chance he might have had to be nominated for President in 1900.
