

THE EASTERN REFLECTOR.
GREENVILLE, N. C.

D. J. WHITCHARD, Ed. & Owner.

Entered at the Post Office at Greenville, N. C., as Second-Class Mail Matter.

FRIDAY, APRIL 14, 1899.

PAY UP AND GET A BIG PRIZE.

By special arrangement made with the publishers of the Farm Journal we are enabled to offer a 3 year subscription to that paper to every new subscriber who pays for the Eastern Reflector year ahead and the same offer is made to every old subscriber who will pay all back dues and one year in advance—both papers for the year of only one.

In order to get the Farm Journal as a premium for advance payment it will be necessary to walk right up to the captain's office, for we have only a limited number of year subscriptions to dispose of. The Farm Journal is on solid foundation and perfectly trustworthy.

The board of aldermen met last Saturday and as a precaution against smallpox passed an ordinance to the effect that no one is to be unclean for any person to go, remain or be within two hundred feet of the passenger depot here, while a passenger train is standing on the track. This ordinance does not apply to passengers going to or from the trains, or the employees of any railroad, express, or other passenger carrying company, doing business in the town, or to any person engaged in the United States mail service. Any person violating this ordinance is subject to a fine of $2.00. Since this ordinance went into effect the town marshal has had little trouble in keeping the people away from the trains.—Salem Express.

Greenville might do a good thing by adopting an ordinance similar to the above and keep all persons who have no business there from loitering around the depot at train time. So many loafers around the depot are a nuisance any time, and now while there is so much danger of spreading disease there is all the more reason that they should not be allowed to congregate there.

Ex Justice Stephen J. Field, of the United States Supreme Court, died in Washington on Monday evening.

A Knotty Economic Question.

That very vexing social problem—the wages of the women—has been taken up by the Women's Cause. The article in the issue of the 1st of April is well written and makes a good case for the women's cause. It is the opinion of the chief speaker that one of the reasons for the disparity is that women start in to work with a temporary excess of "support," or "they know they are working until they marry." It seems that this relative to man's learning anxiety to labor increasingly aroused an amount, and the lecturer proceeded to advance the argument that the right of women to vote would, by making them "factors in the State," bring about economic equality.

Another member of the League took up a different line of reasoning, and contended that the difference in wages was due to the fact that "women can live on less than man." She argued that, however, that "women should have more clothes, and not make them themselves, and should wear more."

There is, no doubt, a basis of truth in the suggestions of both the Lecturers, but not a solution of disparity. Why there should be unequal pay for equal work is a question of morals rather than of economics.—Philadelphia Record.

Did Not Die in Vain.

The heroes of the Spanish American war whose bodies now rest in Arlington Cemetery came from every section of the Union, and each nearly made grave pledges in an assurance of an indissoluble bond of national unity under the Stars and Stripes. These brave men who gave their lives for their country in Cuba and Puerto Rico did not die in vain.

A SHARP CONFLICT.
Which Results in Driving the Philippines From the City of Santa Cruz.

Manila, April 10.—(Special P.)—General Lawton has captured Santa Cruz, at the extreme end of the lake. He drove the rebels, who were commanded by a Chinaman named Pao Wah, into the mountains. The Americans had six men wounded. The rebels lost eight men killed and forty men wounded.

An expedition consisting of about 1,200 men, commanded by General Lawton, left San Pedro Macuti, on the River Pasig, on Saturday night, with the purpose of crossing Laguna de Bay, and capturing the town of Santa Cruz, on the eastern shore of the lake. The American troops were then, as planned, to sweep the enemy to the south. The force consisted of 200 picked sharpshooters from the various regiments, Hawthorne's, only a limited number of year subscriptions to dispose of. The Farm Journal is on solid foundation and perfectly trustworthy.

The new carried ration for the town marshal has had little trouble in keeping the people away from the trains.—Salem Express.

General Lawton's plan was to reach Santa Cruz on Sunday morning and, by a rapid march, to destroy any rebel garrisons or shipping along the lake and then, to scourge the country to the south of the lake, a distance not yet explored by the Americans.

Santa Cruz, the Philippines' stronghold on Lake Laguna de Bay, and it fell into the hands of General Lawton's expedition after one of the most interesting and important battles of the war.

TRINITY NOTES.

President Kilgus is in South Carolina where he went by invitation of the Educational Committee of the South Carolina Conference to deliver a series of addresses in the interest of the Twentieth Century Fund. He will be gone for several days.

Prof. Edwin Mims delivered an address at Wake Forest, Thursday evening, April 10th. He also attended the Epworth League Conference at New Bern, where he spoke Friday evening.

The Archive for April is out. It contains articles of special interest. Since the catalogue went to press in February the Library accessions have been 291 volumes, and 124 pamphlets. Of the former, 159 were purchased, and 50 were donated the past year. Over a thousand volumes and two hundred pamphlets were added to the Library.

Bishop Warren A. Gandler, of Oxford, Ga., delivered the second series of the Avera Bible Lectures, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings last week. His subject was the Pauline letters of the Captivity. The lectures and the visit of Bishop Gandler were greatly appreciated by the College and the Community.

RUSSELL'S FUTURE HOME.
A Question of Concern to The Governor.

Raleigh, N. C., April 11.—Some weeks ago mention was made of the fact that Governor Russell, who is so zealous to them, by getting him a government place at Washington. The plan is to get James E. Boyd, not Ewart, appointed judge to appoint his assistant to succeed him in the department of justice and then to have Russell take the place of the assistant. This would give Russell a footing in Washington, so he could later practice law there. He has avowed his intention not to return to Wilmington to live. Last week he went to New York from Washington, it is said, to see his former law partner, with a view to ascertaining if there was any opening in New York. It is said that matters did not go to suit the governor at Washington, as the office, etc., and hence the trip to New York. The Republicans are leading their guns for Russell and will make things lively for him at their next convention.—Wilmington Messenger.

Happenings in North Carolina.

Charles Lane, a twelve-year-old boy of Mecklenburg county, committed suicide by hanging himself.

The Supreme Court on Tuesday decided that the removing of W. H. Doyas Superintendent of the State prison, by the Legislature, was illegal.

Secretary Whitsett has made the announcement that the next meeting of North Carolina Teachers Assembly will be held at Morehead City.

Chad Kenley, a youth of Goldsboro, died quite suddenly on Monday, having been sick only two days. He was a great nephew of Mr. H. A. Sutton, of Greenville.

A town settled with water or brandy and laid on a vaccination saw great relief from the painfulness. A Greensboro man, who was from the Record, put the towel on the sore and undertook to stimulate it with the brandy by the circuitous route of the stomach but the experiment was a failure.

A Town Without a Street.

Thurmond, Fayette county, twelve miles from Quinnimont, a very important point on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, is one of the most unique towns in the State, says a Fayetteville, Va., dispatch to the Baltimore Sun. The place is important because it is the junction point of two coal branches with the main line, and unique because it is without a street or road. The only space to walk is on the railroad track, and thus the two or three hundred inhabitants go to and fro. The mountain side is so precipitous that a street is an impossibility, and the New River Valley is so wild and rough that no wagon road traverses it for a distance of over thirty miles; roads cross at several points at places, but the other towns are totally isolated and the people of Thurmond never see a horse unless one passes on the cars.

War's Cost and its Fruits.

The war, with its consequences, will eat up $1,000,000,000 before we are ready to close the accounts, and then we shall have nothing to show for it, except distant islands, which we do not want, and which, if we were wise, we will turn over to the inhabitants thereof with our blessing. We did not count the loss to be done except to carry our work to its logical conclusion without regard to cost. The American white man's burden has been already a heavy one. It is certain to be much larger one before it is laid down.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Hawk and Chicken Fight.

Alex. Anderson, a colored man of this township, tells a strange story of a hawk and chicken fight. One day last week a hawk attacked a hen and small chickens, about one hundred yards from his house. His wife ran, screaming at the top of her voice, as a woman will when a hawk is after a chicken. In the meantime, the old hen engaged his help in a lively combat and had knocked him into a small hole of water, and was still fighting, so Alex says, when his wife ran up, accompanied by a small dog. She seized the hawk by the head, just when the dog caught him, and pulling with all her might pulled his head off. The honors of the fight seem to be about equal with woman, dog and old hen.

"Strangers sometimes mildly wonder what newspapers or sheets of blank paper are tied on the windows or balconies of certain houses for," says the Mexican Herald (City of Mexico). "A sheet of newspaper, thus arranged is a sign meaning that there are rooms to rent in the house in which it is displayed, and is just as significant in its import, as three golden balls over a pawnbroker's shop are in other countries."

Build Farmers.

When the farmers are busy at home and do not come to town the merchants feel the need of some goods for them. If the town had factories these additional sources of business would be supplied.

Died.

Keep at It.

Advertising may be good and yet not be successful, because it is not persistent. That clever journal "Brains," puts it thus: "There is but one right way to advertise and that is to hammer your name, your occupation, your business so thoroughly in the people's heads, that if they walk in their sleep they will turn their eyes toward your store. The newspaper is your friend. It helps to build up the community that supports you."

DEATH CLAIMS ALL.

There came times in the lives of all of us when we must lay aside the duties of our daily occupations, and consider, also, a wish to die, often with sadness, how slight is our tenure upon the places we now occupy. Death, even when it comes as the end of a long and useful life, like the setting of the sun at the end of a beautiful day, inspires us with awe, and turns the mind into channels far removed from the paltry things of this half-conscious existence which we call life; but when it comes to one in the morning of life, while the flowers of hope of future fruit of realization are just beginning to bloom, and while the rosate line of life is but a young girl, the death of youth promises so much of happiness, there is something inexplicably sad connected with it. But the heritage of life is death. The interest of that heritage is sorrow from the cradle to the grave.

Only a few days ago I was called from the active duties of college life to wait in the presence of death. My mother was dying, and when I arrived at her bedside I was called to the lamp of life was nearly burned out. The event of a few hours proved that my fears were well grounded, and it died Friday night, March 31, at fifteen minutes of eleven o'clock. He has put the interest and received the heritage of life, and now he is beyond the river in the presence of the Infinite who made the heart, who knows its motives unaltered by the ancients which intervene between the motive and the act.

We mourn his early death, our hearts are full of grief, but we have the consolation of knowing that He who gave the life knows best, and He has taken it, and now our brother is beyond the reach of human weal.

County Directors.

The Board of County Directors for the public schools of this county, appointed by the last Legislature, met and organized Monday. The Board consists of A. G. Cox, S. M. Jones and W. F. Harding. They elected A. G. Cox chairman, and after finishing routine business adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.

The editor of the Farm Journal asks: "Why have a mortgage on the farm, poor crops, frustration, and a broken skeleton in the closet, or any other pain or trouble when you can get the Farm Journal for the balance of 1899 and all of 1900, 1901, 1902 and 1903, for 15 cents per year, by paying a year in advance for THE EASTERN REFLECTOR? This you can do if you are not too late."

It is human nature to trade where one has confidence. A man will buy more liberally, four out of five times, if it is considered that if he made a mistake, he could get his money back.—Outlook.
