LOCAL REFLECTIONS.

Seed Peanuts at S. M. Schulz's. Is this spring or not? That's the question.

The evening train gets in before night now.

The lawn mower is peeping out of the cellar.

The weather is making an effort to get better.

Greenville is so far free from baseball fever.

The farmers are beginning to transplant tobacco.

S. J. Nobles has opened a barber shop on Third street.

We hope winter will not give us a return date until next season.

W. A. Bright and Chas. Daniel are both building in South Greenville.

The tobacco warehouse boys have plenty of time on their hands now.

Eleven clerks are kept busy by the rush at Frank Wilson's special sale.

The dogwood and jasmine blooms are adding their fragrance to the spring breezes.

Justice W. H. Long is all smiles over the arrival of a young attorney at his home.

Greenville's town election will be held the first of June. No interest has yet been shown in it.

Somebody left a pair of kid gloves at Frank Wilson's. They are being held for owner.

Federal court at Newbern next week. Greenville will have a number of representatives.

The sparrows had a picnic today feasting on the flying ants as they came out of their winter quarters.

If you want one of those handsome aluminum card cases and some nice cards call at REFLECTOR office.

Joe Smith has opened a confection and fruit store in the room recently occupied by the Chinese laundry.

When you are nervous and sleepless, take Hood's Sarsaparilla. It makes the nerves strong and gives refreshing sleep.

Don't cut the acquaintance of your flannels yet. They have been a close sticking friend to you through the winter.

We heard a man at the depot, Thursday evening, ask how far is it in the country? That depends on where you want to go to, young man.

The future of Greenville is what her business men will make it, and it is time they were doing something toward making more enterprise for the town.

The average boy came to Sunday school alone, but it generally takes a father, mother and half a dozen uncles and aunts to escort him to the circus.

Advertising is one of the legitimate necessary expenses of business, and must be met the same as insurance, taxes or the payment of salaries.—B. Van Zandt.

The old law students of the late Hon. John Manning propose to testify their appreciation of him by presenting to the University a marble bust of him. For this purpose an appeal is made by a committee of his former students for contributions of from one to five dollars, to be sent to Prof. J. Crawford Biggs at Chapel Hill.

QUESTION ON ELECTION LAW.

PARMELE, N. C., April 20, 1899. EDITOR REFLECTOR:

Suppose a voter had been living in a county long enough to have entitled him the legal right to register and vote under the election law preceding the present, and living in said county at and prior to the time the present election law was enacted, but not as long as the present law provides and requires; does the present election law disqualify said voter in May, next, municipal elections?

Please reply through the columns of your paper, as many will appreciate a correct answer.

Yours for the right,
 Vox.

[With no more information than is to be had at present on this subject we could not undertake to give an answer to the above question. It is well known that the last General Assembly enacted a general election law. They also enacted a law governing the elections in cities and towns. The two were separate and distinct acts, but just how they relate to or affect each other we could not say without having copies of the law to examine. Owing to the suit between Barnes Brothers and Edwards & Broughton over the State printing, the printing of the election law has been delayed and not yet sent out.—ED. REFLECTOR.]

Will Cross the Waters.

It is learned here that J. Nick Gorman, formerly of this city, but now of Richmond, Va., will leave for Europe in the near future on a business trip. Mr. Gorman is a prominent and well known tobaccoist and will cross the waters in the interest of the weed.—Durham Herald.

A Former Pastor Sick.

The Dispatch is sorry to learn of the serious illness of Rev. J. H. Lambeth, pastor of the Baptist church at this place, who is now at Roxboro. We did not learn the nature of his illness, but understand he has been sick several days. We trust Mr. Lambeth will be restored to health in a short while.—Lexington Dispatch.

The Farm Journal is cream, not skim-milk, and just the paper for the man who keeps cows. We give it for the balance of 1899, and all of 1900, 1901, 1902 and 1903, nearly five years, to every subscriber to THE EASTERN REFLECTOR who will pay a year ahead. Walk right up to the captain's office without delay.

BECOMING A MOTHER.

A Sure Way to Avoid Danger.

Every true woman wants to be a mother. A baby is the dream of her life—the crowning glory of womanhood—true happiness can never be known without the blessings a child brings.

Yet the ordeal through which all mothers must pass is so full of pain, anxiety and fear, that many a young life is sacrificed because of the inability to undergo the struggle of childbirth.

It is not necessary to suffer in bringing new life into the world. By the use of "Mother's Friend," the suffering and danger can be avoided, and the hour robbed of its dread and pain. This remedy is praised by thousands who have tested it. Every woman is anxious to learn how to avoid the pain and suffering which may be in store for her. The little book, "Before Baby is Born," will be sent free to any address upon application to the Bradfield Regulator Co., Atlanta, Georgia.

Special Rates.

The Atlantic Coast Line will sell tickets from all points to Richmond, Va., on account of the meeting of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church, May 17th to 30th, at one fare for the round trip.

Reduced rate tickets will also be sold to the Confederate Veterans' reunion at Charleston, S. C., May 10th to 13th. The round trip fare from Greenville to Charleston will be $6.50.

INFERIOR SERVICE.

Passenger Coaches Should Be Better.

Sometime ago THE REFLECTOR called the attention of the railroad authorities to the character of the passenger coaches which they use on this branch of their road, between Weldon and Kinston. Recently we took occasion to make a further observation of this matter, and the disparagement is so great that we cannot refrain from speaking about it again.

The coaches which are now in use on this important branch are really discreditable to the Coast Line system. The first-class coach is more or less repulsive to people who wish to have a feeling of comfort when they travel. The interior is very uninviting, the seats are badly worn and with holes in them in many places, and the woodwork is so battered and dingy that no amount of dusting and rubbing can make it look clean.

Going from this line to the main line one cannot help noticing the great contrast. Over there the second-class coach is far superior in every particular to the first-class coach on this branch. The coaches here are even inferior to those in use on the Rocky Mount-Plymouth branch. During the past week we traveled on both these branch lines and also on the main line and could not help noticing the difference in the appearance.

Judging alone from observation we believe that, locally speaking, the Weldon-Kinston branch brings as much revenue to the company as any other equal number of miles on its system, and it should be entitled to as good service. We took careful notice of this twice during the past week and there were as many local passengers from the stations between Greenville and Weldon as there were between Weldon and Fayetteville on the main line.

Greenville people would certainly appreciate better coaches being placed on this division, and we believe the people at other stations along the line, as well as all from elsewhere who travel over this road, would heartily join in this appreciation if the Coast Line officials place a better equipment on it.

Must Pay Tax or Can't Recover.

Following is one of the provisions of the machinery act passed by the last Legislature:

"If any person shall, with a view to evading the payment of taxes, fail or refuse to give in to the assessor any bonds, notes, claims or other evidences of debt which are subject to taxation under this act, the same shall not be recoverable by action at law or suit in equity before any of the courts of this State until they have been listed and the tax paid thereon."

Somebody Head Us.

You have read of the old fellow who yoked himself up with the calf, when the calf ran away and the old man yelled out—"Here we come, d— our fool souls, somebody head us."

People who were near the county Court House at 12 today when the fire alarm was given saw something very much like this. The steamer hose wagon came out into North Elm a-biling, when the old black horse ran out of his collar and harness, leaving only one horse to the wagon. Then the driver got down, took the place of the horse and came along up street. He said never a word but looked just like one imagines the old fellow did when yoked up with the calf.—Greensboro Record.

Correspondents Wanted.

THE REFLECTOR wants active correspondents at Bethel, Pactolus, Grimesland, Centreville, Grifton, Ayden, Falkland and Farmville, and would like for some one at each of these points, who will serve the paper regularly, to communicate with us or call at the office, the latter preferred, as better arrangement can be made in person. To the right person we will make it well worth the time taken to furnish us the news.

Feet Froze Off.

In S. W. Morrisette's poultry coop in front of his store were to be seen Monday and Tuesday some ducks whose feet were frozen off in the winter. The fowls hobble along on the stubs of legs which look like the feet had been chopped off and the legs had healed from the cut. They were brought to Mr. Morrisette by Mr. John T. Brinkley.—Scotland Neck Commonwealth.

Have Had None.

It is worthy of note that while nearly every neighboring town around us has had a touch of small-pox, Greenville has so far kept entirely free of the malady. Newbern, Kinston, Goldsboro, Wilson, Rocky Mount, Tarboro and Washington have all had more or less of the disease, but there has not been even a suspected case in Greenville nor anywhere in Pitt county.

GREENE COUNTY MUDDLE.

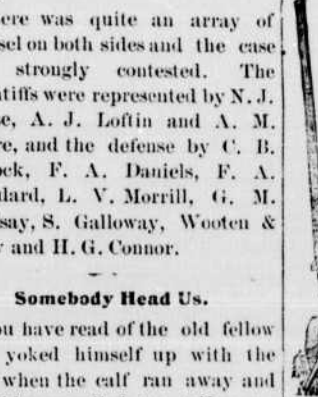

Decision in Favor of Fusionists.

Ever since the last election there has been a muddle in our neighboring county, Greene, as to who is entitled to hold the offices of the county. When the polls were declared the Superior Court Clerk gave certificates of election to the fusion candidates, the returns indicating that they had a small majority. It being evident that there had been irregularities at certain precincts, the Democratic candidates took a petition setting forth these irregularities before Judge Robinson at the December term of court, and he ordered a recount of the ballots. This recount showed that the Democratic candidates had received a majority of the votes. On the strength of this the Legislature seated the Democratic candidates, notwithstanding the fusion candidates held the certificate from the Clerk, and this course was generally approved by the people.

As to the county officers there was not so peaceable a conclusion of the matter, but on the contrary there has been constant litigation. There has been something of a dual government of county affairs, both sides trying to run things and both sides receiving more or less recognition from the public. The Democratic candidates had gotten possession of the Sheriff's and County Commissioners' offices, and against these the fusionist candidates brought mandamus proceedings for the insignia of office, claiming that the title was already vested in them by virtue of the certificate of election given by the Clerk. The mandamus proceeding was heard before Judge Timberlake. His decision, which has just been rendered, was in favor of the plaintiffs, the fusion candidates. This decision dispossesses the Democrats, but leaves the way open to them to take action under quo warranto proceedings.

ATTENTION TOBACCO FARMERS!

The time will soon be here to house another crop. If you wish to house your next crop easier than you ever housed a crop in your lives, and with less expense, prepare your land by laying off every eighth row five feet wide for truck row, and send in your orders right away for what trucks you may need. (Three trucks are enough to house twenty acres.) As the time is short and the supply limited, those wishing trucks will do well to place their orders right away.

It is strange that those who give it very clearly that they are Christians should be so blind to the fact that an ill temper marries and kills their power for good service. The world at once doubts the Christianity of a man when it sees him belching out red hot fires of ill temper. More than that the least flash of ill temper is hurtful to any professing Christian's standing and influence among men. Every spark of it that it would seem awakens the inference that there is a seething and lurid caldron of it in the heart. From this caldron at an unguarded point this spark has flashed and escaped to light. The overthrow and subjection and utter displacement of an ill temper is what above all things the world expects to see as an effect of Christianity in men. And the world has a right to expect it. We repeat that it is strange that so many professing Christians are rendered powerless for service in the church on account of an uncontrolled temper without apparent knowledge of the cause. It is sad but true that many parents even have shown themselves of influence over their own children on account of it. Mr. Drummond, we believe it was, wrote that the evil effects of ill temper in retarding the growth of the kingdom of Christ was greater far than the salmons of the world. This is a strong statement but we are unprepared to call its correctness into question.—C. Lumber-ton Robesonian.

Greenville (Miss.) society was in a flutter last week over a notable wedding, which is reported in The Delta Light House as follows: "Miss Jennie Yerger, the beautiful daughter of the Hon. Wm. G. Yerger, married Wednesday night last. We had the pleasure of viewing the presents presented to this distinguished daughter. We can say, without contradiction, that there were enough, if it were turned into cash money, to build a mile of railroad track. Miss Yerger received more valuable presents than any other bride has ever received in Greenville. So the scripture in this case has been fulfilled, "Those that have can get more in abundance."

The High Point Citizen says that a subscriber informed that paper a few days ago, that Jacob Cox, a citizen of Randolph county, some time ago married his third wife within six weeks after the death of his first, and does not seem to think matrimony a failure. This leads the Georgian who, one day last week, married his third wife within ten months.—Lexington Dispatch.

A certain Mr. Scott, it is told, had a young wife who was a doting husband. By some accident she was injured, and he was obliged to attend to her in his own house. For a great many days he attended to her in his own house, and he was very diligent. At last she died, and he was very sorry. He looked over the bill of fare and found nothing to his liking. He had, however, seen a fine duck resting on the fire. "I'll have that," said he.

"You cannot see," replied the landlord. "It is for Mr. Scott's dinner."

"I know Mr. Scott very well," replied the traveler. "He is not in your house."

"Very sorry," said the landlord, "but he has ordered the duck to be ready for him this evening at 8 o'clock."

And to the man who had traveled, who had ordered the duck to be ready for him this evening at 8 o'clock, he said, "I am very sorry, but he has ordered the duck to be ready for him this evening at 8 o'clock."

SMART SPELLING.

A LESSON ON SPELLING THAT WAS WELL TAKEN. A young man of the name of Webster was in the habit of reading the paper to his wife. He was one day reading the paper to his wife when he came to a word which he did not know how to spell. He asked her to spell it for him. She said she would do so. He then asked her to spell the word for him again. She did so. He then asked her to spell the word for him a third time. She did so. He then asked her to spell the word for him a fourth time. She did so. He then asked her to spell the word for him a fifth time. She did so. He then asked her to spell the word for him a sixth time. She did so. LETTER ON THE HANDS.

For several years I was a sufferer from retter on my hands. It would come in little watery pimples and the itching was almost more than I could stand. The skin was tender and the itching would swell so I could hardly bend my fingers. Sometimes my hands would become perfectly raw from scratching or breaking of the pimples. When I was in this condition I tried one half dozen bottles of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy and some Wash in 1884, and by the time I took my hands were cured, and I am now well of the trouble. It has since broken out a little at times, but not enough to inconvenience me or make me try more medicine. I am now well. MRS. M. E. KING, Burlington, N. C., May 27, 1896.
