

LETTER TO R. WILLIAMS.

Greenville N. C.

Dear Sir: If it took 10 gallons to paint your house last time with somebody else's paint, and takes 8 with Devoe, we save you $8 or $10; for painting costs two or three times as much as paint.

Mr. Ezra Ratmell, Williamsport, Pa., always used 11 gallons of mixed paint for his house; Devoe took 6.

But that isn't all; that's only first cost; how long will it wear? The paint, that goes furthest in covering, wears best too.

All paint, true paint, and full measure, are on one side; part paint, false paint, and short-measure are on the other. What can you expect?

Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & CO.
P. S.—H. L. Carr sells our paint.

The State Fair.

It will be observed that the promoters of the state fair have consistently advertised the high diver, the balloon ascension, the rope-walker, the midway features in general and particular, the horse-races, etc., etc. So far we have heard not a word about the exhibition of the state's resources.

The truth is the midway is the fair and the state's resources are the sideshow. We do not object to this. The fair is a stock-company; and a stock-company can run a circus if it wishes to; and a sorry circus at that. But we do object seriously to calling this "The State Fair" and pulling $1,500 a year out of the state treasury for it.—Biblical Recorder.

Smothered in Bed.

Greensboro, N. C., Oct. 9.—Sam Lumley, a young white man, who came here from Raleigh two days ago, was found dead in bed at a boarding house this morning. He went into his room last night and threw himself across the bed, face down. The coroner thinks death was due partly to smothering. An inquest was deemed unnecessary.

"Lend Me Your Ears."

It is not often—about once in a century—that this paper advocates the creation of new offices, county, town, state or national, but as we haven't done it this century, and we recently witnessed an incident which came mighty near causing the spirit to move us. Maybe it did, but we had a cold and may not get the full benefit of the spirit's movings until next week. In the meantime we chronicle.

Two ladies drove into town in a mule cart on the first rainy day we have had since little Charlie Ross was lost. It is none of our business why they didn't go to a livery stable; they drove into a back lot and one of them proceeded to alight and unhitch the critter. At the first step on the ground the lady's feet went into the mudwell, we didn't measure the distance. The other lady alighted and did likewise. But they had evidently unhitched that "critter" before, and they succeeded this time, but we are almost willing to take a solemn oath that enough mud clung to their shoes to fill up the holes in Dickinson avenue. If they swore at Greenville, sweet village of mud, we didn't hear it and if the Clerk of Court in the Court House in the sky heard, we are sure he forgot to make any note of it.

The foregoing suggests that Greenville needs an official hitcher of horses to wait upon ladies without masculine encumbrances.

Just think what an impetus would be given to our dry goods and millinery industries should the message go over the rural routes that Greenville had appointed a force of handsome men to play the gallant at so much per diem! Why, we couldn't begin to handle the crowds with present facilities. It is true we would have to import such officers from Winterville or Halifax if we insisted upon beauty, but 'twould pay us to do it.

The other towns in the county would have to go out of business, or go and do likewise. But we would have the start of them, and we would make them look like the steam calliope in the circus parade. It's up to Emperor Whedbee and his senate of noble Rowans.

Menaced by a Repetition of the Johnstown Disaster.

Paterson, N. J., Oct. 10.—The flood situation tonight is very grave. The water at Garfield avenue is higher by 50 inches than the point reached in 1902. The damage to the city is estimated to amount to over $2,000,000. Crowds of men are guarding the gate house at the mill race and at the first intimation that the gate will break away at Spruce street the dam will be blown with dynamite so as to turn the water into the chasm of the Passaic Falls. People are expecting the dam to go at any minute and a gun was fired at 10 o'clock to give the signal of extreme danger to the stricken population.

Should the dam give way, it is feared that there will be a repetition of the Johnstown disaster. The bridges in the city are giving way, causing a panic. Already tonight five bridges have gone down under the strain of the frightful torrent.

W. R. Henry Asked to Resign.

Washington, Oct. 10.—The resignation of Walter R. Henry, national bank examiner for the states of North and South Carolina and Alabama, has been requested by Comptroller of the Currency Ridgely. Negligence and carelessness in his work is the cause of the demand for Mr. Henry's resignation. This information was obtained at the Treasury Department to-day, and when it became known, created genuine surprise among Tar Heels here.

The demand for Mr. Henry's resignation was made several days ago, and, as yet, it has not been received. The presumption is that the Carolinian will not surrender his very profitable position without putting up a fight, and his arrival here, with that of chairman Rollins, is not unexpected. The principal charge against Mr. Henry is that he has neglected his work, and is far behind in his examinations and reports to the Comptroller.

He has been ordered by the Department to cease visitations to banks in his territory, and, at the same time, his resignation was requested, together with all government papers in his possession.—Charlotte Observer.

Schmitz Sandbagging.

Raleigh, Oct. 10.—Ealeigh is laughing tonight at Bernard Schmitz, of Baltimore, one of the witnesses in the Haywood case who gave out a cock and bull story Thursday night to the police that he had been attacked by sandbaggers on the street. It was discovered tonight that a little white boy whistled and Schmitz, who is excessively timid, ran and dashed into a telephone pole. It was this which gave him a blow on the head. The boy who saw the whole affair has told the whole story.

Mailing Letters at Trains.

Those who are frequently around the depot on a morning have noticed that a large number of letters are mailed there. It may be more convenient for some to mail letters there instead of at the postoffice, and in doing so they may think they are saving time, but in the majority of cases such letters do not reach their destination as soon as if they were mailed at the post office. The reason for this is very plain. Letters mailed at the postoffice are cancelled and made up according to routes before they are delivered to the railway mail clerk on the train. His first duty is to look after and assort the packages between stations, and it gives him as much as he can look after.

Letters mailed at the depot are dropped in the car loose, and as these have to be cancelled and made up in routes it often happens that the clerk has to wait until he reaches Weldon to get time to do this extra work. When this is the case such letters are delayed, and if any are for intermediate points they are carried by and reach their destination on the return trip. Of course no blame for this can attach to any one except the parties who mail the letters.

One forgets all about bad weather when we have such pretty days as this.

DR. PETERS ON THE PRESS.

Say it is Taking the Pulpit's Place.

The Philadelphia North American Friday contains the following:

"That the press is taking the place of the pulpit as a support of virtue's cause; that the church is no longer leading the way in the new civilization, and similar emphatic declarations were uttered at the meeting of the Philadelphia Baptist Association last evening in the Fourth Baptist church, Buttonwood and Fifth streets, by Rev. Dr. Madison C. Peters.

"His address was on "The Preaching of the Times." Here are a few of the things he said:

"It is high time that we take about the living Scribes and Pharisees who fill our pews and pay our salaries instead of holding gay tournaments with the Scribes and Pharisees of Judea, who have been dust and ashes for nearly 1,900 years. People will come to hear us when we do not stick, stammer and stammer in telling the truth.

"The woman broke the looking glass because it showed the wrinkles in her face, and those who get vexed because sin is aimed at do so because they are shot."

"The pulpit should not be made a coward's castle; preachers should be prophets, not parrots—heralds proclaiming the going day."

"In many prominent pulpits in America today the preachers simply dare not be uncompromising in their denunciation of sin and wickedness. Such preaching would drive out the men whose ill gotten wealth makes them essential to the church because they can make large contributions, and many a preacher is compelled to credit his hearers with virtues he knows they do not possess, and for the sake of his bread and butter is compelled to pander to prejudices in public which in private he despises.

"The mightiest force in the world is the aroused conscience of a great people, and the chief quickener and educator of the conscience in the past has been the pulpit. The press is taking the place of the pulpit and is becoming the most important and effective support of virtue's cause.

"The man who is enthusiastic about the church in its present condition only gives proof that he has ceased to be a living factor in the world's progress.

"I am not now speaking of Christianity, which is the life and inspiration of our civilization, but I do say that the church is not leading the way in the new civilization. What influence the church has she uses to conserve the heritage of the past.

"But who dares say the church is molding the future? With a narrow conception of her mission the church has sat on a high platform of empty dignity with folded hands, while the Young Men's Christian Association, the Women's Christian Temperance Union and hundreds of similar organizations are doing the work which the church should have done.

"Reforms of the most important character not only receive little support from the church, but have frequently to encounter its bitterest opposition."

"NOT GUILTY"

RALEIGH, OCT. 14.--THE CASE OF ERNEST HAYWOOD WAS GIVEN TO THE JURY AT 12:45 O'CLOCK. AT 1 O'CLOCK A VERDICT OF "NOT GUILTY" WAS RENDERED.

CRUSED UNDER FREIGHT TRAIN. Colored Boy Pays Death Penalty For His Folly.

(Daily Reflector, 14th.)

This happened here today what might have been expected almost any day during the past several years—a boy getting run over by a train. There seems to be a mania among them for jumping on and off trains around the depot, and oft repeated warnings, and even the passage of laws prohibiting it, had but little effect in keeping them from the dangerous practice. Now the mangled dead form of a boy adds yet another warning, but whether it will be heeded by others remains to be seen.

About noon today while the freight train from Kinston was here, a colored boy named Maury Moore, about 10 years old, was jumping on the cars and jumping off while they were in motion. He fell between two cars and several wheels ran over him, fearfully mangleing his body from the waist down to the feet. He lived about half an hour in this horrible condition, when death ended his suffering.

Another boy who was also near the train with the one killed, told him he had better stop jumping on it or he might get hurt.

The coroner, Dr. Laughinghouse, held an inquest over the body, the verdict being that the boy came to his death by being run over by a moving train after being warned to keep off of it.

Masked Robbers at Spring Hope

Spring Hope, N. C., Oct. 14.—Four masked men attempted to rob the bank here about 3 o'clock this morning. Several blasts were made in the effort to blow open the safe. This aroused a number of citizens of the town who started to the bank but were held at bay at the point of pistols. The first man to run up on them was caught and bound. Seeing from the arrival of others that their plot was discovered, the robbers fled. An examination showed that the outer door of the safe was wrecked by the blasts but the robbers did not succeed in blowing open the inner door, which doubtless they would have done but for the citizens being aroused by the explosions.

Washington Goes Wet. An election was held in Washington Monday on the question of saloons or no saloons. The saloons won by 88 majority.

Wreck on Norfolk & Southern.

Elizabeth City, N. C., Oct. 13.—The engine of the south bound express train on the N. & S. R. R. was wrecked as it pulled into the station here today at noon. The engineer was almost instantly killed, his head being mashed as the engine turned over. The wreck was caused by an open switch which was opened automatically by a bridge being opened to let a boat pass. The engineer failed to see this until too late to stop the train from rushing into the switch which is intended to turn the engine preventing the train from running into the near by creek. The fireman jumped from the engine in time to save himself at the request of the engineer, who remained at the throttle until he was killed.

Tillman Trial Closes Today.

Lexington, S. C. Oct. 13.—The Tillman case will go to the jury tomorrow. Mr. Craft began the final argument for the prisoner this afternoon and will conclude in the morning. Mr. Billings will then close for the state in a two hours speech. The jury will be charged immediately after the midday recess.

Mrs. Irene Ormond Dead.

Ormondville, N. C. Oct. 13, 1903.
Sunday was a sad day for this community. Late Saturday afternoon came a telegram announcing the sad death of Mrs. Irene Ormond, who we reported, through these columns a few weeks ago, had gone to Asheville for her health. Mrs. Ormond died of consumption. It was a very rapid case, it having developed only a few months ago. It was hoped after her arrival in the mountains she would improve, but she gradually grew worse until Friday evening at nine o'clock, she was called to her home in heaven. Her remains reached Kinston Sunday morning at nine o'clock. She was brought home and carried to the church, where hosts of friends and relatives had gathered to pay their last tribute to one whom they all loved. Mrs. Ormond was a beautiful character—a character which was loved and admired by all who knew her. She was a fine church worker, always, and at all times it was her pleasure to do something for others. She leaves a host of relatives to mourn her loss. The entire community extends its sympathy.

Firemen's Practice.

The Greenville Volunteer Fire Company took the steamer out to the cistern Tuesday night for a practice. The engine worked splendidly and threw a fine stream. At the roll call after returning to the engine house only two members were noted absent. That was a good record for a practice and shows the interest taken by the members. Since the election of S. T. Hooker as chief of the fire department Oia Forbes has been elected foreman of the company.

For Sunday Meditation.

The following was seen in the Wilmington Messenger and quoted with the comment below by the Raleigh Post:

"The managers of the Rescue Home Charlotte have practically abandoned hope of securing a location which will not call forth the protest of property holders in the neighborhood. It is the same way in every city, and yet we glory over our desire to help those who would lead a better and a purer life,"—Wilmington Messenger.

Our glorious desire begins and ends in helping them out of our own and into some other community. It is not the example set by the Master, it is true, but we may be justified in our departure therefrom because we can go into the stone throwing business while those wicked folk who preferred the complaint spoken of in the Bible could only turn away sorrowful, being hypocrites.—Raleigh Post.

It is needless to protest that these accusations against Charlotte are not deserved. A large and representative committee was appointed to locate and construct the Charlotte Florence Crittendon Home, such a home as exists in Knoxville, Columbia, Washington and many other places in this country, for the rescue from their life of shame of those who turn from it. Months have passed and the home is not yet located. As the Messenger says it cannot be located if the consent of all property holders is to be obtained beforehand. And we may add that every pastor on that excellent committee cannot hope to satisfy every member of his church as to the location. It is now time to act. We believe that Charlotte is not represented by those who do not wish their own interests injured whether the injury be real or imaginary.

But something ought to be done. Certainly enough ground can be found in Charlotte for the erection of the home. The law allows it to be erected. And the very character of our city as a Christian city is at stake. Would it not be well for the church-going population to reflect tomorrow, when the churches are really for, and how much good they are doing if they are not training men to show the spirit of Christ to the erring and the sinful? We suggest that brief theme for Sunday meditation.—Charlotte News.

The Tramp and The Socks.
The following is not a fairy tale, but is a story taken right out of life: "In Rome, N. Y., on Christmas eve, 1878, Mrs. Jennie Yarmouth gave George W. Todd, a homeless, friendless tramp, a pair of heavy knit socks. He was so grateful that he left with her his personal note for $5,000 in payment. To please him, Mrs. Yarmouth kept the note. Last spring Todd died, leaving $52,000 in cash and not a relative. The court appointed an administrator. Mrs. Yarmouth hunted up the old note and entered suit, recovering $5,000 and interest on the face of the note."

Both winter and tramps are coming on apace and Charlotte house-keepers who want to try their luck with a pair of socks, will doubtless have abundant opportunity. The kind that Mrs. Yarmouth bestowed upon the tramp was heavy knit and presumably all wool, but probably any old kind will do. The time for bestowing the socks, however ought to be on Christmas eve, for that is probably where the luck comes in. The probabilities are that if Mrs. Yarmouth had given the socks on any other day, she would not have drawn the prize. Save your socks and watch out for the Christmas eve tramp. No telling but that you

In Autumn.

Lead me toward autumn, toward her wondrous gold. Her tapestries that hang upon the hill; And in the silence that the valleys hold Let me but wonder, and my heart be still.

Oh, in the matchless marvel of her place— Her palace that is builded through the world— Let me stand silent, awed, and humbly face Her glorious crimson banners here unfurled.

And let me count the bounty that is stored In her great coffers, bursting with their weight; And let me linger at her generous board Till winter makes it empty, desolate.

The world is her vast castle; I shall go All quietly from room to beautiful room, With flaming suns, radiant, aglow, To light me through the twilight and the gloom. —Charles Hanson Towne.

Waiting.

Serene, I fold my hands and wait, Nor care for wind, or tide, or sea; I rave no more against Time or Fate, For lo! my own shall come to me.

I stay my haste, I make delays. I wait until this eager pace? I stand amid the eternal ways, And what is mine shall know my face.

Asleep, awake, by night or day, The friends I seek are seeking me; No wind can drive by bark astray, Nor change the tide of destiny.

What matter if I stand alone? I wait with joy the coming years; My heart shall reap where it hath sown, And garner up its fruit of tears.

The waters know their own, and draw The brook that springs in yonder heights; So flows the flood with equal law Into the soul of pure delight.

The stars come nightly to the sky; The tidal wave unto the sea; Nor time, nor space, nor deep, nor high, Can keep my own away from me. —John Burroughs.

Truth in Preference to Fiction

GREENVILLE, PITT COUNTY, N. C., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1903.

IMPOSSIBLE MILES.

Within 6 hours after the appearance of last Tuesday's DAILY REFLECTOR, which contained the editorial assertion that the democracy of the South would not support General Miles for the presidency, a half dozen well-informed citizens make it their business to seek the editors and heartily endorse the assertion. We understand that the editorial referred to has met with the unqualified approval of the democracy of Pitt county.

Of course Pitt doesn't quite run the universe, but we have excellent reasons for considering the above incident significant, our friend of the Durham Herald to the contrary notwithstanding. The Herald of Friday says:

"Some of the papers are claiming that there are men whom the south would not support if they should get the nomination, but we do not believe there is that much independence in the party."

It is not a question of independence. It is a question of repugnance for a man who so utterly fails to reach even one Southern ideal. Should a Southerner attempt to vote for the man who handcuffed Jeff Davis, his gizzard would rise in his throat and choke him.

THE REFLECTOR has been an institution looked to and recognized by the democracy of Pitt county for more than 22 years. We have never, by one line or one word, violated party obligations; and we simply could not support Miles under any circumstances, and in spite of the gloomy observation of our Durham contemporary, we believe we are exactly in line with the democracy of the South.

We have a new philosopher of work in Richard Watson Gilder, editor of the Century Magazine, who recently wrote:

"No one who comes in contact with affairs can fail to notice, as a sort of corollary to the enervation which comes to men of wealth through luxury, an increasing laxity of view among workmen concerning labor, a tendency to regard the daily task as something greatly to be regretted and hastily to be escaped from. The general trend of the workingman seems to be away from hard work and good work. As a matter of fact, and not of theory, no man can do a worse service to another, whether rich or poor, than to deprive him of the absolutely healthful joy which there is in hard work. We to him who does not like his daily work, for if one cannot have the work he likes, he would better learn to like the work he has. In general, work is not a curse, but a blessing—a positive means of grace."

Trade unionism, boycotts, etc. are being carried too far in Durham, and the town is bound to suffer for it in the end. It has come to pass that unless a merchant can show an union card he is boycotted by certain organizations of workmen. If conditions are the same in Durham as elsewhere, it is very likely that these same merchants have unpaid accounts on their books for supplies furnished to the very men who are now attempting to ruin their business. We believe that workmen have every right to organize, but we have seen unionism applied in a way that has brought sorrow to the hearts of thousands. In the hands of merciless, unreasoning men it is a force that can be used brutally and cowardly, and it is often done. "Do unto others" is still the best rule of life, and the leaders of labor unions are in need of being taught it.

The condition of the street crossings is a vile reproach upon Greenville. It was bad enough in warm, dry weather, but the whole population will be forced to develop webbed feet if they hope to cross our streets without taking a mud bath. The doctors and shoe dealers profit by the wretchedness of our streets, but the people are sore sufferers. N. B.—This is not a kick, but a statement of a most disagreeable fact.

Ex-Sunday School Teacher Dewey has money, and that money brings him friends, or he would not be able to evade the law so easily. We do not believe Dewey is in North Carolina, or has been in it since his flight. It takes a right smart man to steal $130,000 and escape detection. Such a man is Dewey and he isn't going to linger in the shadow of the penitentiary.

The Biblical Recorder declines to consider the annual "unfair" at Raleigh a state institution. We have for a long time believed that the only thing the state gets out of it is the privilege of making it a present of $1,500 every year.

The Boston Herald is booming one Olney for the presidency. Once upon a time a daffy old geezer tried to bring a dead man to life by run-nig an electric wire up his back bone.

No doubt the order to Sir Walter Henry to send in his resignation is quite a jolt to that gentleman's corporosity. He has the sympathy of North Carolina friends.

The little Georgia girl who wrote Governor Terrell to "please let my papa come home, I miss him so much," struck a sympathetic chord. Her father was serving a life sentence and an application for his pardon was granted.

As a high diver Langley's flying machine seems to be a success.

North Carolina's wandering sons are feeling much at home in the Greensboro reunion. The old mother state welcomes them.

If cranks keep trying to play on the white house lawn Teddy may get a chance to wing one of them with his pistol before winter is over.

If it were possible to sue a state for false arrest, good claims could doubtless be made out against North Carolina by the attorneys for the defence in the murder cases now on trial at Raleigh and Lexington.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Exactly, but as this cannot be done both might be given a chrono on their discharge, with the apologies of the court for having detained the gentlemen for the time being.

Washington declares in favor of whiskey and continues under the reign of the open saloon. From what we have noticed of the campaign in that town this result is about what was expected, as the fight made by the business men there was purely from the standpoint of dollars. But they have a right to their opinion, be the consequences what they may.

Reading accounts of the great reunion in Greensboro makes us feel like exclaiming, How glad we are to be a North Carolinian!

The Atlantic Messenger has been moved from New Bern to Morehead City and Rev. A. W. Setzer is now editor of that excellent church paper.

A contemporary asks, "Is it wrong to be rich?" If it is, we are in no danger.

All may not become governors, but the poorest boy in the land may still become president.

Mr. Dewey doesn't seem able to make satisfactory transportation arrangements.

A FACT ABOUT THE "BLUES"

What is known as the "Blues" is a condition occasioned by actual existing external conditions, but in the great majority of cases by a disorder of LIVER.

THIS IS A FACT which may be demonstrated by trying a course of

Tutt's Pills

They control and regulate the LIVER. They bring hope and buoyancy to the mind. They bring health and elastic to the body.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.

The press dispatches from Washington say a call will soon be issued for an extraordinary session of congress to meet Nov. 9. If it does anything for the benefit of the country it will be an extraordinary session.

A Pilot Mountain man carried a rattle snake about 50 yards in a bundle of fodder without knowing it. That is not near so bad a delusion as the man who thinks he has snakes along with him when he hasn't.

It is predicted that the trial of Haywood at Raleigh will be concluded tomorrow. But it cannot be predicted when public opinion on it will come to an end.

Now the question is, what new party will start up for Mr. Walter Henry to go to? Surely by now he is burdened with disgust for the republican party.

Is a Change in Educational Sentiment About to Set In.

We copy from two of our leading exchanges the following significant paragraph bearing out what we have expressed a fear of, namely, that the educational movement in North Carolina was being overdone. If we were going to offer a word of friendly admonition to the powers that be we would say better go slower, gentlemen, and it will last longer.—Henderson Gold Leaf.

A contemporary suggests that there is a revulsion in educational sentiment about to set in in North Carolina. We can imagine nothing more deplorable that might take place than this. The magnificent labor that has been expended in this cause is just now beginning to show fruitage. The enthusiasm is but penetrating the byways of the state. A suspension at the fountain head would now be calamitous. It must be remembered that the work so far has been but to arouse the people to its importance. The ways and means are far from having been provided. Let there be no suggestion of stopping.—Monroe Journal.

The Raleigh Christian Advocate had an excellent editorial in its issue of last week week on the educational situation in North Carolina, in which it was said that the uppermost thought in the public mind is that education is being overdone. It would regret to see the work that is in progress receive any check, yet "would deem it more unfortunate that our charitable institutions should suffer in order that any other interest might thrive." For anyone to expect an appropriation for a state reformatory "is considered extremely Utopian," and it regards as being unfortunate the sentiment favorable to a division of the school taxes between the races on the basis of what each pays.—Charlotte Observer.

A Georgia doctor asked permission of Governor Terrell the other day to work in the penitentiary in place of his aged father, who is now serving a life sentence for murder. The governor declined this unusual offer, stating that there was no law authorizing convicts to put substitutes in their place.—Wilmington Star.

We are not saying that the negro does not get justice in our courts, but there is a difference in the way he gets it and the way some other people get it.—Durham Herald.

A jury can keep a man out of the penitentiary but it cannot clear him in the eyes of the people.—Durham Herald.

The Housekeepers Problem.

The Constitution says that "every household in Atlanta feeds some worthless negro who will not work so long as he can secure entrance to some one's kitchen." The Messenger, speaking of this end of the domestic situation in Wilmington, says: "There is no doubt that the household expenses of nearly every family employing negroes in our city are greatly increased by this custom of the employes. Why should the people submit to it? Let them put a stop to it, and let the city authorities enforce such vagrancy laws as we have." And The Asheville Citizen says: "Housekeepers must understand that it is a sin—an aiding and abetting of the commission of crime—to permit their servants to feed other negroes in the kitchen or to take off mysterious packages with them, when returning to their rooms or homes."

But what are you going to do about it? We have a pretty fair vagrancy law in North Carolina and in Charlotte, at least, it is pretty well enforced; but why should a colored gentleman spend hard-earned money for plebeian vittles when his lady will bring them to him without price? And as to this, there are Charlotte housekeepers who are perfectly conscious that they are being systematically robbed, but who frankly say that if they lock up things or have their servants under surveillance they cannot keep their cooks. And there you are. The three contemporaries quoted above discuss the subject of negroes living out of white folk's kitchens as if it were chargeable to the idleness of the bucks. That has something to do with it, but by no means all.—Charlotte Observer.

The Housekeeper's Trouble.

There is no telling the amount of inconvenience the housekeepers of this town are being put to by reason of the sudden departure of their cooks. They either go to the cotton fields or north. They never give any notice of their intention of leaving, and the first thing the woman of the house knows of her departure is on arising some morning expecting to find breakfast nearly done, she is surprised at no cook being in the kitchen and the stove as cold as a lump of ice. Such an experience is enough to make a woman forget the golden rule. One lady remarked that such conduct recalled to her mind very vividly the days of slavery, for that was the manner they always ran away.

If there is one thing the average darkey has tried hard to obliterate it is every vestige or suggestion of slavery days, but the slavery times of leave-taking still clings to the cooks of the race. They can imitate the whites in many ways, but their secretive method of quitting their employers is one of the instincts of the race that still clings to the negro, and no amount of education has been able to efface it.—Washington Gazette-Messenger.

IMPOSSIBLE MILES.

Within 6 hours after the appearance of last Tuesday's DAILY REFLECTOR, which contained the editorial assertion that the democracy of the South would not support General Miles for the presidency, a half dozen well-informed citizens make it their business to seek the editors and heartily endorse the assertion.

of view among workingmen concerning labor, a tendency to regard the daily task as something greatly to be regretted and hastily to be escaped from. The general trend of the workingman seems to be away from hard work and good work. As a master of fact, and not of theory, no man can do a worse service to another, whether rich or poor, than to deprive him of the absolutely healthful joy which there is in hard work.

Our course Pitt doesn't quite run the universe, but we have excellent reasons for considering the above incident significant, our friend of the Durham Herald to the contrary notwithstanding. The Herald of Friday says:

Trade unionism, boycotts, etc. are being carried too far in Durham, and the town is bound to suffer for it in the end. It has come to pass that unless a merchant can show an union card he is boycotted by certain organizations of workingmen. If conditions are the same in Durham as elsewhere, it is very likely that these same merchants have unpaid accounts on their books for supplies furnished to the very men who are now attempting to ruin their business.

"Some of the papers are claiming that there are men whom the south would not support if they should get the nomination, but we do not believe there is that much independence in the party."

It is not a question of independence. It is a question of repugnance for a man who so utterly fails to reach even one Southern ideal. Should a Southerner attempt to vote for the man who handcuffed Jeff Davis, his gizzard would rise in his throat and choke him.

THE REFLECTOR has been an institution looked to and recognized by the democracy of Pitt county for more than 22 years. We have never, by one line or one word, violated party obligations; but we simply could not support Miles under any circumstances, and in spite of the gloomy observation of our Durham contemporary, we believe we are exactly in line with the democracy of the South.

The condition of the street crossings is a vile reproach upon Greenville. It was bad enough in warm, dry weather, but the whole population will be forced to develop webbed feet if they hope to cross our streets without taking a mud bath. The doctors and shoe dealers profit by the wretchedness of our streets, but the people are sore sufferers. N. B.—This is not a kick, but a statement of a most disagreeable fact.

The Biblical Recorder declines to consider the annual "unfair" at Raleigh a state institution. We have for a long time believed that the only thing the state gets out of it is the privilege of making it a present of $1,500 every year.

The Boston Herald is booming one Olney for the presidency. Once upon a time a daffy old geezer tried to bring a dead man to life by run-nig an electric wire up his back bone. No doubt the order to Sir Walter Henry to send in his resignation is quite a jolt to that gentleman's corporeity. He has the sympathy of North Carolina friends.

The little Georgia girl who wrote Governor Terrell to "please let my papa come home, I misses him so much," struck a sympathetic chord. Her father was serving a life sentence and an application for his pardon was granted.

As a high diver Langley's flying machine seems to be a success.

North Carolina's wandering sons are feeling much at home in the Greensboro reunion. The old mother state welcomes them.

If cranks keep trying to play on the white house lawn Teddy may get a chance to wing one of them with his pistol before winter is over.

If it were possible to sue a state for false arrest, good claims could doubtless be made out against North Carolina by the attorneys for the defence in the murder cases now on trial at Raleigh and Lexington.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Exactly, but as this cannot be done both might be given a chromo on their discharge, with the apologies of the court for having detained the gentlemen for the time being.

Washington declares in favor of whiskey and continues under the reign of the open saloon. From what we have noticed of the campaign in that town this result is about what was expected, as the fight made by the business men there was purely from the standpoint of dollars. But they have a right to their opinion, be the consequences what they may.

Reading accounts of the great reunion in Greensboro makes us feel like exclaiming, How glad we are to be a North Carolinian!

The Atlantic Messenger has been moved from New Bern to Morehead City and Rev. A. W. Setzer is now editor of that excellent church paper.

A contemporary asks, "Is it wrong to be rich?" If it is, we are in no danger.

All may not become governors, but the poorest boy in the land may still become president.

Mr. Dewey doesn't seem able to make satisfactory transportation arrangements.

A FACT ABOUT THE "BLUES" What is known as the "Blues" is seldom occasioned by actual existing external conditions, but in the great majority of cases by a disorder of the LIVER.

Tutt's Pills. They control and regulate the LIVER. They bring hope and buoyancy to the mind. They bring health and elasticity to the body. TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE.

The press dispatches from Washington say a call will soon be issued for an extraordinary session of congress to meet Nov. 9. If it does anything for the benefit of the country it will be an extraordinary session.

A Pilot Mountain man carried a rattle snake about 50 yards in a bundle of fodder without knowing it. That is not near so bad a delusion as the man who thinks he has snakes along with him when he hasn't.

It is predicted that the trial of Haywood at Raleigh will be concluded tomorrow. But it cannot be predicted when public opinion on it will come to an end.

Now the question is, what new party will start up for Mr. Walter Henry to go to? Surely by now he is burdened with disgust for the republican party.

Is a Change in Educational Sentiment About to Set In.

We copy from two of our leading exchanges the following significant paragraph bearing out what we have expressed a fear of, namely, that the educational movement in North Carolina was being overdone. If we were going to offer a word of friendly admonition to the powers that be we would say better go slower, gentlemen, and it will last longer.—Henderson Gold Leaf.

The Raleigh Christian Advocate had an excellent editorial in its issue of last week on the educational situation in North Carolina, in which it was said that the uppermost thought in the public mind is that education is being overdone. It would regret to see the work that is in progress receive any check, yet "would deem it more unfortunate that our charitable institutions should suffer in order that any other interest might thrive." For anyone to expect an appropriation for a state reformatory "is considered extremely Utopian," and it regards as being unfortunate the sentiment favorable to a division of the school taxes between the races on the basis of what each pays.—Charlotte Observer.

A Georgia doctor asked permission of Governor Terrell the other day to work in the penitentiary in place of his aged father, who is now serving a life sentence for murder. The governor declined this unusual offer, stating that there was no law authorizing convicts to put substitutes in their place.—Wilmington Star.

We are not saying that the negro does not get justice in our courts, but there is a difference in the way he gets it and the way some other people get it.—Durham Herald.

A jury can keep a man out of the penitentiary but it cannot clear him in the eyes of the people.—Durham Herald.

The Housekeepers Problem.

The Constitution says that "every household in Atlanta feeds some worthless negro who will not work so long as he can secure entrance to some one's kitchen." The Messenger, speaking of this end of the domestic situation in Wilmington, says: "There is no doubt that the household expenses of nearly every family employing negroes in our city are greatly increased by this custom of the employes. Why should the people submit to it? Let them put a stop to it, and let the city authorities enforce such vagrancy laws as we have." And The Asheville Citizen says: "Housekeepers must understand that it is a sin—aiding and abetting of the commission of crime—to permit their servants to feed other negroes in the kitchen or to take off mysterious packages with them, when returning to their rooms or homes."

But what are you going to do about it? We have a pretty fair vagrancy law in North Carolina and in Charlotte, at least, it is pretty well enforced; but why should a colored gentleman spend hard-earned money for plebeian vittles when his lady will bring them to him without price? And so this, there are Charlotte housekeepers who are perfectly conscious that they are being systematically robbed, but who frankly say that if they lock up things or have their servants under surveillance they cannot keep their cooks. And there you are. The three contemporaries quoted above discuss the subject of negroes living out of white folk's kitchens as if it were chargeable to the idleness of the bucks. That has something to do with it, but by no means all.—Charlotte Observer.

The Housekeeper's Trouble.

There is no telling the amount of inconvenience the housekeepers of this town are being put to by reason of the sudden departure of their cooks. They either go to the cotton fields or north. They never give any notice of their intention of leaving, and the first thing the woman of the house knows of her departure is on arising some morning expecting to find breakfast nearly done, she is surprised at no cook being in the kitchen and the stove as cold as a lump of ice. Such an experience is enough to make a woman forget the golden rule. One lady remarked that such conduct recalled to her mind very vividly the days of slavery, for that was the manner they always run away.

If there is one thing the average darkey has tried hard to obliterate it is every vestige, or suggestion of slavery days, but the slavery times of leave-taking still clings to the cooks of the race. They can imitate the whites in many ways, but their secretive method of quitting their employers is one of the instincts of the race that still clings to the negro, and no amount of education has been able to efface it.—Washington Gazette-Messenger.

FATHER AND SON

[Copyright, 1903, by C. B. Lewis.]

When Jabez Lee had been a widower a year and a half he straightened up in the cornfield one day and said to his son Jonah, who was hoeing the next row on his right:

"Joner, folks is sayin' that I ought to git married ag'in."

"Yes, I've heard 'em say so," replied the son.

"And bein' as folks think I ought to git married ag'in, and bein' I don't want my children to say they was neglected, I think I'll drop over and see the Widder Spooner this evenin'."

Jonah had been courting Widow Spooner himself for the last three months.

That evening Jabez Lee set out on a courting expedition, while Jonah, who did not dress up at all, was also absent from the house a couple of hours and reached home only five minutes before his father. On the next night his father stayed home and Jonah went abroad.

It got to be a regular thing for Jabez Lee to call on the Widow Spooner every Wednesday evening. Some one hidden behind the fence threw stones at him on three or four occasions, and once he caught sight of a man skulking about in the darkness. All of a sudden one day he got an idea. It was an idea that made him catch his breath and lift his right fist in the air and shake it and mutter to himself:

"By gum, but that seems to explain it! If it's so, I'll make Joner tired clear up to his chin."

The idea was developed that very evening. When Jonah changed his clothes and took a walk the father followed him and kept a hot trail to the Widow Spooner's. The murder was out and the mystery solved. The parlor curtains had not been lowered, and the father crept up and saw that his rival made himself very much at home on the very chair he himself had occupied the night before. Two hours later, as the son wended his way home, a rock whizzed by his ear, and a ghostly yell from the darkness jumped him six feet. Next day, while his hair was still curling and he was trying to connect that yell with his father's deep bass voice, the old man suddenly turned on him with:

"Joner, if you was courtin' a woman and a sneak of a feller tried to sneak himself in, what would you do?"

"I'd lay for him," promptly replied the son.

"That's jest my way 'o' thinkin'. Yes, sir; I'd lay for him and lick him till he couldn't holler."

"Drat such sneaks!"

Father and son looked into each other's eyes for a moment, and each dissembled and tried to look innocent. They understood each other, however, and both set their jaws as they went on with their work. That night was Jonah's night to go courting, and before he left the house he took notice that his father was missing. He realized at once what that meant, and he began to plan. The route to the Widow Spooner's carried him over a bridge spanning a deep creek near her house. There were trees near the north end, making a deep shadow for many yards, and Jonah felt that his father would wait for him there and play some trick. He therefore removed his boots when he was yet twenty yards away and approached the spot with catlike tread.

It may be stated in advance that the father was there in the shadow. He had a sheet ready to wrap around himself and a pillow case ready to pull over his head. He was not only going to play ghost, but the ghost would do some trumping before Jonah could get away. In that same deep, dark shadow was a second party. It was an old lame mule which had been turned out to get his living beside the highway, and he had halted at that spot that night to ruminate and doze. He stood within twenty feet of the man in ambush, but made no noise to give himself away. In fact, he took no interest whatever in the proceedings for a time, realizing that he had passed the age when he should be mixed up in love adventures, and it was not until his long ears detected the approach of Jonah that his eyes shook off sleep and he wondered what was up. Jonah crept forward foot by foot, and at last his presence was also detected by the father. With softness of touch he got ready his ghostly garments and was on the point of donning them and making a rush when the old mule raised his head, snuffed his ears and uttered a cry. It was a cry that split the air with thunderous sound and made things shake for rods around. The awful and unexpected sound stirred the "ghost" and Jonah to action at the same instant. They went over the railing of the bridge and into the waters of the creek almost together, and both yelling the same yell.

Five minutes later father and son reached the bank together and pulled themselves out. As they stood gasping and dripping they recognized each other, and the father shouted:

"Had been there."

Edith—Oh, Ethel, what shall I do? Jack says he supposes it's all over between us and that he'll send my presents back.

"Had been there."

"Dad, you old hypocrite, FU-IT" choked the son.

At that moment the widow opened her door and came down the path. She had heard the cry and the yells and thought some traveler had met with an accident. She saw the two men before her, with the mule looking down at them over the railing of the bridge, and her woman's wit told her what had occurred. She laughed loud and long as they covered before her and ended the laugh by remarking:

"I guess both of you better trot home—ward and go to bed. You may git the ager!"

M. QUAD.

The Vultures.

The question is mooted whether the vulture knows of its quarry by sight or smell. How does it communicate the news of a feast to its fellows? A tiger had been killed.

Colonel Ramsay ordered the carcass of the skinned tiger to be dragged out from under the thick mango trees into the open. Taking out his watch, he asked us to make a guess as to how long the vultures were waiting to clean the flesh off the bones. Some one said half an hour. As there was not a vulture in sight, this seemed even betting, but Colonel Ramsay gave them ten minutes, which proved to be correct. There was one vulture at first seen soaring round and round very high in the cloudless sky. He closed his wings and dropped on to the carcass with a swoop. In two minutes the sky was full of vultures, all concentrating from every side on the spot, and arriving with all the impetus their drop from a great height gave them as fast as it takes to tell the story. Then there commenced a frightful scene of literal carnage, every one tearing with sharp, hooked bill at the entrails first, then at the flesh, all fighting for room to get a piece and tumbling over one another with frantic haste.—"The Forests of Upper India and Their Inhabitants," by T. W. Webster.

What Holds the Novel.

Frank Norris, author of "The Octopus" and "The Pit," was a most virile writer and a man of decided opinions. He was wont to say of the great factors in molding public opinion that "the pulpit speaks but once a week, the press is read with lightning haste and the morning news is waste paper by noon; but the novel goes in the home to stay."

This opinion was aired by Mr. Norris in the lobby of a hotel in a small town in Illinois. Among those present was a country editor, who was prompted to remark that the novelist's views reminded him of his dog Wolf. Wolf persisted in running away from home, killing chickens and annoying children in the community. At last a method was adopted by which the dog was confined to his own homestead.

"Chained him, eh?" was the thought voiced by several of the company.

"Yes, sir," declared the editor. "And if your modern novel goes into the home to stay let Wolf remind you that it's on account of the binding."

Political Economists.

While great fortunes and great industries have almost invariably been created by uneducated men, parvenus embarrassed with learning, who taught themselves what they found necessary to know, we find, on the other hand, that those men who have made commercial science, political economy, their study have not shown any success in business and have remained theorists. Most political economists have had to live on their pen. Mr. Cobden went bankrupt in business. It is true that Ricardo was well off, but he was a stockbroker by trade, and with him political economy was only a hobby, not a serious result. It is strange how few business men of the first rank have a good word to say of political economy.—Nineteenth Century.

Pocketing a Fee.

For a whole year the famous English physician, Dr. Radcliffe, attended a friend without a single fee passing between them. As he was leaving after his last visit the patient said: "Here, doctor, is a purse in which I have put every day's fee. You must not let your kindness get the better of my gratitude; so please take it." The generous physician put out his hand to reject the purse, but the clink of the gold was too much for his amiable resolution, so he put it in his pocket, saying, "Singly, sir, I could have refused them forever, but all together I am afraid they are irresistible."

The Roman Aqueducts.

The Roman aqueducts were marvels of architecture. The Aho was forty-three miles long; the Martio forty-one, of which thirty-eight were on 7,000 arches seventy feet high; the Claudia was forty-seven miles long; the arches 100 feet high. The Roman aqueducts brought 40,000,000 cubic feet of water daily into the city, and the various sections of the metropolis were supplied with water by 13,504 pipes.

WINTERVILLE ITEMS.

WINTERVILLE, N. C. Oct. 14, 1903.

Yours to serve,
Harrington, Barber & Co.

There should be rolled out the purest gold for the bloody handed assassin who recently shot, his victim from ambush in our sister county, Lenoir. To say the least he had refinement sufficient to save the public from the shock of the terrible shot as well as witnessing the terrible deed. Certainly no so-called court of justice will subject him to the mockery of a trial. The law forbid.

Notice the cut of a "Honusker" Buggy on this page. This is only one of many, and if you will keep your eyes open from time to time we will be glad to show you a variety of styles. Of course as it would be better if you have not done so to visit the factory and let Hunsucker show you through.

Teach Children to be Ashamed of Idleness.

That there is much discontent with work among the so-called middle classes in America is due in large part to the pampering of children, to the supply of their natural and artificial wants, and to the sentimental idea that "the day of toil will come soon enough." In general, work is not a curse, but a blessing—a positive means of grace. One can hardly begin too early to impress upon children lessons of selfhelp by tasks appropriate to their age and forces, and to beget in them scorn of idleness and of dependence on others. To do this is to make them happy through the self-respect that comes with the realization of power, and thus to approximate Tennyson's goal of man: "Self-reverence, self knowledge, self-control."—The Century.

The Chronicle, of Augusta, Ga., is urging the city council to raise the license tax on saloons from $200 to $500 a year, as a means of raising more revenue and to the end of closing some of the joints, but the council has thus far declined to take action. A thousand dollars is much nearer the proper figure than that our contemporary suggests.—Charlotte Observer.

LETTER TO J. F. EVANS

Greenville N. C.

Dear Sir: Three gallons saved is $12 to $15 earned.

Mr. Hamlord Platt of Bridgeport, Conn; ordered 15 gallons Devco to paint his house, and returned 3 gallons. His painter said it would take 15; a lead-and-oil painter.

Hubbell & Wade Co. sold it. They say everybody has the same experience there.

The reason is, of course; they are used to poor paint.

What is poor paint? Anything not Devco: some worse than others. Besides, paints wear about as they cover. Double the $12 to $15.

Yours truly,
F. W. DEVCO & Co.
P. S.—H. L. Carr sells our paint.

merits their patronage, otherwise they will not. So its success depends upon its management. That is all there is in it.

But if the merchants go after business in the surrounding country, advertising in every possible way, and making good every word of their advertising, trade will come from an increasing radius, the town will gain a reputation for being awake and will forge to the front. It is the men living within a certain number of miles from it that makes the town.

Farmer's Consolidated Tobacco Company.

The Raleigh papers of the 9th Inst., published the chartering of the Farmer's Consolidated Tobacco Company, of Greenville, North Carolina. THE REFLECTOR having heard rumors of this organization, a reporter called on Mr. O. L. Joyner and made inquiries about it. Mr. Joyner said in response to our question that there was no secrecy or mystery about the movement, that it was a plain, straightforward business proposition.

He said that a number of farmers in Pitt county, who had been selling their tobacco in Greenville, desired to have an interest in a tobacco warehouse and to share in its profits. They thought that a businesslike way to go about it would be to obtain a charter. This has been done, and the company composed of farmers has been organized under this charter.

This has been done with no hostility to any one. The promoters of this enterprise have done only what they had a right to do. If it fails, only those who have or may put their money in it are hurt. If it succeeds, as it doubtless will, the whole county and community will be helped by it.

There is room in Greenville for this enterprise and there need be no fears that its purpose is to destroy anyone. The country people will patronize it if it is demonstrated that it is conducted on honest business principles and

TILLMAN GOES SCOT FREE

SLAYER OF GONZALES GETS OUT OF COURT HERE ON EARTH

BUT IT MAY NOT BE SO EASY When He Goes to the Court that Tries Men's Souls and Consciences.

Lexington, S. C., Oct. 15.—James H. Tillman is a free man. After being out nearly 21 hours the jury announced an agreement at 10:30 this morning. There were few persons in the court house when the prisoner was brought in from jail, and some of these cheered when the verdict was announced. Tillman's friends crowded around to shake his hand, at which he seemed pleased. He shook hands also with the judge and jury. When asked about his future movements Tillman said he would go to his home in Edgefield. He was accompanied by several people as he walked back to the jail where he is to remain no more. His two pistols were offered him but he declined to take them, leaving them in the hands of the court officials. He walked across the street to the jail with his arm around the old negro, George Johnston, who was a family servant and who had been a close attendant upon the trial.

Convicts Escape.

Hallsboro, N. C., Oct. 14.—Three convicts belonging to the gang at work on a causeway known as White marsh, near Whiteville, made their escape today, although they were fired upon by the guards, and are still at large. A reward will be offered for their capture. The causeway is the oldest of the kind in the state, having been built by Cornwallis during his famous campaign in the Carolinas.

Arm Broken.

Willie Wilson, a son of Mr. W. B. Wilson, while playing on a trapeze in the yard of Mr. J. G. Bowling, fell off and broke one bone of his right arm, just above the wrist. The accident occurred Thursday afternoon. The broken limb was soon set and the little fellow is getting along as well as could be expected.

When Bed Time Comes.

On a Santa Fe train coming out of Kansas City one night was a mother and her brood of five, four girls and one boy. They had left Illinois the day before, and were on their way to "the new country" where the husband and father has a claim which is the new home. The oldest girl appeared about fifteen, and from that age down to the only boy, a chubby little fellow about four.

Their dress and manner showed that they had not been reared in the midst of luxury and opulence, but with a they were model children and scrupulously clean. The mother was thin and bony, her face sleek and haggard from the long trip and the care of her precious brood, for there were twenty-four hours yet before the journey's end.

It was after bed-time when the train left Kansas City and the younger ones were soon yawning and scarcely able to keep awake. In fact the pet of the family had closed his eyes and was fast approaching "shut eye town," while the next eldest tugged at him while she looked appealingly to her mother with an expression that was pitiful. He mustn't go to sleep yet! The others began whispering among themselves and then to the mother, as if something exciting had happened or would happen soon, all of which attracted the attention of the other passengers, who sat in wonderment as they tried to divine the cause of so much whispering to keep the last one awake. They occupied seats in the front end of the car, including three long seats which ran along the smoking car partition.

Presently the cause of all this excitement was made plain, it was bed-time and they had not said their prayers. Quietly, modestly, without ostentation, yes even timidly, the mother and her children knelt together at the long seat, the baby bowing his head with the rest and rubbing with chubby hands his eyes that would hardly stay open, while the evening prayers were said.

Just for a moment, and then they arose, the children were made as comfortable as possible for the night and soon all but the mother were asleep, while the moisture of eyes and quivering lips of the other passengers, the traveling men with the grips, the politician with his schemes, the business man with his worries, yes, even the old reprobate of the News paid silent but mighty tribute to the greatest civilizing agent of all ages, the Christian religion.

Here, oh, ye teachers of theology, is a sermon greater than you ever preached!

Here, oh, ye choirs, is an anthem sweeter than ye ever sang!

Here, oh, ye host of Israel, quarreling over creeds and doctrines and torn with strife and envy, is a lesson more powerful than ever you taught!

God save the mother and her brood, bring them to their home in safety, and to their last home in peace.—Wellington (Kansas) News.

Beautiful Morning Marriage—Reception Last Night.

Though the hour was early, the Memorial Baptist Church was filled with people, at 8 o'clock this morning, eager to witness the marriage of Dr. R. L. Carr and Miss Janie Flournoy, as popular a couple as ever stood before Hymen's altar in our midst. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion, the color scheme being green and white.

The ushers were Drs. D. L. James, Zeno Brown, E. A. Moyer and Mr. F. M. Wooten.

The dame of honor was Mrs. J. G. Moyer and the maid of honor was Miss Mamie Parker, of Graham. Both were dressed in green and carried pink carnations. The bride's maids were Misses Winnie Skinner, Sallie Cotten, Pattie Skinner and Ina Allen, each of them dressed in white organdy with black hats and long black gloves and carrying carnations.

The groom's men were Mr. A. T. Harper, of Goldsboro; Dr. C. A. Whitehead, of Tarboro; Dr. H. B. Thompson, of Riedsville and Mr. W. B. Wilson.

The bride, in a handsome away suit of blue cloth with a suggestion of white, entered with her father, Mr. M. A. Allen. The bridegroom with his brother, Mr. C. S. Carr, as best man, came through the rear door and met the bride at the altar where the ceremony was impressively performed by Rev. A. T. King.

Preceding the entrance of the bridal party "Dear Heart" was sung by Mrs. T. E. Hooker, and as they entered the wedding march was played by Miss Lina Shepard.

Following the bride and groom the attendants retired from the church in the following order: Mr. Allen with Mrs. Moyer, Mr. Carr with Miss Parker, Dr. Thompson with Miss Cotten, Dr. Whitehead with Miss Allen, Mr. Wilson with Miss Winnie Skinner, Mr. Harper with Miss Pattie Skinner, the ushers. As they withdrew the church bell rang merrily announcing that the marriage was over.

The couple drove immediately from the church to the depot where they took the morning train for a tour to northern cities. They will return to Greenville about the first of November.

PRE-NUPTIAL RECEPTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Allegrave a brilliant reception at their home on Third street, Wednesday night, in honor of the approaching marriage. The residence was artistically decorated, the color scheme of the hall being red, of the parlor white and greens, and of the dining room white and pink.

The guests were received in the hall by Mr. and Mrs. Allen, and in the parlor by Dr. Carr with Miss Flournoy and Mr. C. S. Carr with Miss Parker. The bride-elect was gowned in a beautiful evening dress of pour de crepe over blue taffeta and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

In the room opposite the parlor were displayed the wedding presents, numerous and exceeding in handsomeness, in charge of Mr. Wilson with Miss Skinner. In this room also fruit lemonade was served by Dr. Thompson with Miss Cotten.

In the dining room refreshments were served the guests by Messdames E. B. Ficklen, J. L. Fleming, J. L. Little, Charles Skinner, Joseph G. Moyer and T. J. Burton, the latter of Riedsville, Mr. W. E. Hooker and Misses Lillian Cherry and Pattie Skinner assisting them.

There were many callers between the hours of 8 and 12 and the occasion was one long to be remembered for its elegance and ease.

THE PRICE OF A MARRIAGE

The cautious young man who had the reputation of having a remarkably good business head went to see the minister.

"What's the cost of getting married?" he asked.

"For our services," the minister answered, "we make no charge, but it is our customary for the groom to give us a fee commensurate with his financial and social standing. We rather expect it, you know."

"But how does the groom know what he's getting for his money?" asked the cautious man.

"That's his business," replied the minister.

"I suppose it is a cash transaction?"

"Why, yes, I suppose it would come under that classification."

"Couldn't I make some other arrangement?"

"Such as what?"

"Well, suppose we wait a year, and then I will give you whatever I find your services have been worth to me—$5, $50, $100—may be more."

The minister snook his head,

"I don't believe I'd care to risk it," he said. "A little matter of $5 on the wedding day would be more satisfactory, for in a year you might figure it out that I owed you money. Just because you are willing to take chances with some particular girl is no reason why I should risk anything on her."

"I suppose you're right."

"I say, old man," he asked, "what have you in that box?"

"A mongoose," was the reply.

A series of diplomatic remarks followed, aimed at getting the reason for carrying a mongoose; but, as no explanation was offered, the commercial traveler had to say plump out:

"What are you going to do with that mongoose?"

The answer he got was: "I'm going to see a friend who has been drinking very heavily of late—so heavily, in fact, that he has developed delirium tremens. You may be aware that people suffering are inclined to see snakes; and you may also be aware that there is nothing on earth so deadly to snakes as a mongoose." He sat back, evidently satisfied that he had given a full and complete explanation.

"But—but, I say," said the commercial traveler, "those snakes are imaginary."

"So is my mongoose," returned the person interrogated.—Sporting Times.

"DUTCHY" AT THE FUNERAL

"Yes," said the bandmaster, "we do have troubles with our musicians sometimes."

"Once we were engaged to play at a funeral. Our notice was very short, so we had no rehearsal. We reached the cemetery without any mishap, but there something happened. We were to play a solemn measure while the body was being lowered into the grave. Only a few instruments were needed. I was slowly and solemnly swinging my baton, the spectators were silently weeping, when suddenly the trombone gave a loud, long blast, enough to wake the dead. Some of the mourners fainted, the players stopped in consternation, and I jumped over chairs and racks to where the trombonist, a dull, heavy German, sat, stolidly gazing at his music.

"What the devil did you mean by bursting out that way?" I shouted.

"He raised his eyes slowly to mine."

"Vell, I was vatching de music, and just den a horse-fly got on the paper. I thought he was a note, and I played him. Dat was all, ain't it?"—October Lip-pinet's.
