

Letters from Women

Cured by the use of Kodol are received daily. Their troubles nearly all begin with indigestion or other stomach disorder.

If the food you eat fails to give strength to your body, it is because the juices secreted by the stomach and digestive organs are inadequate to transform the nutrient properties of the food into blood. That is indigestion. The system is deprived of the amount of nourishment required to keep up the strength, and the result is that one or more of the delicate organs gradually grows weak, and then weaker, until finally it is diseased. Here a great mistake is made. That of treating the diseased organ. The best doctors in the land make this very mistake. Why should they? It is so easy to see that the trouble is not there.

Kodol Cures

This famous remedy puts the stomach and digestive organs in a healthy condition so that rich, red blood is sent coursing through the veins and arteries of every muscle, tissue and fiber throughout every organ of the entire body, and by Nature's law of health, full strength and vigor is soon restored to each.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders.

I have taken Kodol for nearly two months after each meal and it is the only remedy that gave relief from the terrible pains I endured. After a time I would take it but once a day, and now, while I keep a bottle handy, I seldom need it, as it has cured me. Mrs. J. W. COOLBAUGH, Milo Center, N. Y.

Not a Romance After All

Eighth avenue was surprised and pleased the other day by a handsome young woman who galloped along on a spirited horse and tossed roses to the people on the sidewalks. She was clad in regular habit, and behind her galloped a groom with a big bouquet of roses in his hands, from which he supplied her as her own stock became exhausted. The people followed in joyful commotion, scrambling for the roses.

After the flowers gave out the woman turned and, galloping as before, began throwing out something else which the groom supplied her with from a bag that hung over his shoulder. Again the crowd flocked out, all expectancy. But the favors this time were samples of a new cigarette, three in a pack. The young woman did not appear half so beautiful and romantic after that.—New York Press.

Boer Artillery Firing.

In his testimony regarding artillery firing during the South African war General Buller told the British war commission an interesting story. He said: "I think the foreign system of intercepting the recoil, which has been adopted by the Boers, was far superior to ours—that is to say, a big Boer gun would fire at an extreme range (I saw it happen myself) a shell, and that shell fell and made a great hole in the ground. A native got into the hole to see how deep it was, and the next shell that came went into the same hole and killed him. I do not think we had a gun that would put two shells running into the same hole."

Microbes on Bank Bills.

Private John Allen says that recently, while awaiting his turn to do business with a teller in a Washington bank, he overheard an amusing conversation between two darkies ahead of him in the line.

The teller had just finished counting some very dilapidated and dirty looking bills.

"Did yo' know dat sometimes dere's a lot of dem pizen microbes in money?" asked one of the darkies.

"Yas," replied the other negro, "but yo' can't make me believe it. De idear of a puzson gittin' disease dat way! Look at Mistah Russell Sage—he's eighty years old!"

The Motorers' Paradise.

Friends of the self motors declare that Holland is an earthly paradise for automobiles because of the level nature of the country and the long, straight stretches of the thoroughfares. Moreover, it is not to be forgotten that when these vehicles run amuck in the realm of Queen Wilhelmina there are no crags for them to dash against and no cliffs for them to fall from. If they go on a rampage the gentle, oozy bed of a placid canal is ready to receive them caressingly and without harm. Holland for the autos and the autos for Holland, by all means!

While the state is doing its best by the old soldiers, it is doing nothing like what it should do. They did their fighting for nothing and have received precious little since—Durham Herald.

"Willing to do anything!" That's a nice sounding statement, isn't it?" the business man remarked. "But I notice that the man who goes out in search of employment and is willing to do anything usually gets nothing to do. Everyone with any experience knows that the ability to do one thing well is the basis of success and a quality that can always demand a good price; while the willingness to do anything may suggest an indecisiveness of character and a lack of special training in an employe that may make him valueless. I speak of this because I notice that there are more of the willing-to-do-anything kind of want ads in the papers than any other kind, and I wonder if they ever get an answer from anybody. The business world hasn't imagination enough to conceive that a man has more than one good talent; and the handy man doesn't usually rise to a higher elevation than the keeper of the back premises."—Idle Comment in Charlotte Observer.
