One of the most unpleasant reflections concerning the latest battles in Manchuria is that, in spite of the great number of casualties, the engagements have not been at all

Some way a battle which, while it left its thousands dead on the field, would at the same time hasten the dawn of peace, would not be such a shocking matter to think upon. But each man of all the thousands killed on either side in this eleven days' fight near Mukden has literally died for nothing. Not a perceptible bit of military advantage has come to either side through the spilling of all that blood. With thirty or forty thousand men lost, neither the Russian nor the Japanese cause has been advanced a foot. All of which nakes the carnage doubly shocking and disgusting .- Atlanta Constitu-

Two of the most prominent farmers who live near Rocky Mount, General W. R. Cox and Mr. T. M. Davenport, had their gin houses and a great amount of cotton burned Saturday night, the former losing about $10,000 and the latter $3,000. The fire is supposed to have originated from a spark.
