HOLBEIN AND TITIAN.

To One the World Was a Pilgrimage to the Other a Pagani.

The genius of Holbein blossomed early. In 1515, when he was eight years old, he moved from Augsburg, where he was born, to Basel, the center of learning, whose head was that every house in it contained at least one learned man. In 1520 he was admitted to citizenship at Basel and to membership in the painters' guild, good proof, as he was only twenty-three, of his unusual ability.

But the times were lean ones for the painter. Holbein found himself in need of money and accordingly set out for London with a letter of introduction to Sir Thomas More, the king's chancellor.

When he arrived in England toward the close of 1526. During this first visit to England he painted portraits of many of the leading men of the day, but two years later, in consequence of an outbreak of the plague, he returned to Basel, only to be driven back to England in 1531 by poverty and the death of his old friend.

In 1537 Holbein had come to the notice of Henry VIII, and was established as court painter, a position which he held until his death. This seems to have occurred during the visitation of the plague in London, and his intimate knowledge of the court and its customs. When he died of where he was buried is not known.

When a contrast between his life and the other sort of fortune, for though the greatness of both was recognized by the men of their time, Titian lived a life of simplicity and in the beautiful surroundings of the Venetian coast, where he was trained for money, never yielding, experienced the rigor of poverty, forced by need and circumstances to become an alien in a strange land, dying unnoticed and unmissed.

Awkwardly Worded.

The English and the Podgrass families are unfriendly. Adherents of the Podgrass say it is Mr. Podgrass' fault, but he warmly protests that he meant no harm.

The trouble began at the concert given in aid of the Volunteer Home company. Mr. Podgrass was singing, Miss Anna Belle Perkins was down for a solo, but when the eventful evening came she found herself confronted with a cold and a sneeze, and she was obliged to withdraw. When her position in the program was reached Mr. Podgrass advanced to the front of the platform.

"A cold and gentleman," he said, "I have to advise you that Miss Perkins will be unable to sing, as she is unwell, and I am sorry to hear of it. I will give you a solo in her place."

General Applause.

The audience was so kind as to give Mr. Podgrass a warm reception, and he was so kind as to give them a solo in her place.

IN THE EVERGLADES.

Animal Life is Abundant and Plant Growth Luxuriant.

The islands of the Everglades of Florida are covered with luxuriant virgin forests. The live oaks and the bay are present in large numbers, interspersed with wild cumbars, wild lemon and wild orange. The papaya, the custard apple and the prickly ash are of very frequent occurrence, and here and there, growing by the side and elevation of the islands, are the cabbage palmetto and the pine. Wild rubber trees are also found in some localities, growing to enormous size. Throughout the region there is a phenomenal growth of vines. The morning glory and the long-necked attain great size and are almost everywhere. The wild fig, which fastens itself about a massive trunk of live oak or bay, being its usual life until the supporting tree trunk has been destroyed. Wherever the land is fertile enough the coonlike plant flourishes. This plant is really the Florida arum root. It is the ministry of the cane floor. From its root he extracts root and starch, both of which are delicate and digestible.

There is a remarkable variety and profusion of wild flowers. Water lilies and water lilies abound. Orchids are found in great numbers and are of great beauty. On many of the islands grow giant ferns, the fronds of which measure ten feet in length.

The shores of the streams by which the glades are entered are covered with rank growths of the coccol plant. The same tree grows all about the edge of the glades, producing blue fruit on the eastern edge and white fruit toward the west. The flora of the whole region is unique and unstudied and contains no doubt scores of plants unknown and unclassified.

The Everglades are not a sportsman's paradise in the usual sense of that term. Nevertheless animal life is fairly abundant in that portion of the area where the larger islands lie. Deer are found on both the eastern and western edges, and now and then a bear is seen. The panther is not entirely disappeared, an occasional one finding his way into the explorer's camp. Otters are plentiful, and the Seminole hunters hunt both the otter and the alligator for their skins, derive a considerable revenue from their trapping. The alligator is often seen, and his gentle roar is by no means unamusing. On the southern coast of the crocodile (Crocodylus americanus) is found in small numbers, though his more favorite haunts are among the mangrove herds protruded with a cold and the hoarse sounds about Cape Sabine—Century.

GRAVE TROUBLE FOSEEN.

It needs but little foresight to tell that when your stomach and liver are badly affected, grave trouble is ahead, unless you take the proper medicine for your disease, as Mrs. John A. Young, of Clay, N. Y., did. She says: "I had neuralgia of the liver and stomach, my heart was weakened, and I could not eat. I was a very bad case for a long time, but in Electric Bitters, I found just what I needed for my trouble. Best medicine for weak women. Sold under guarantee by J. L. Wooten, Druggist, at 50c a bottle."

A Simple Remedy For Acquiring Hard Muscles and a Sound Body.

A number 12 bore gun when loaded with three-grains of powder will send a load of shot further and shoot harder than H. Doublet this amount of powder is used, all of it will not explode until it leaves the muzzle of the gun.

That portion which does not explode at the muzzle of the gun, but enters with the direction, and checks the velocity of free of the shot.

Hard muscles and a strong body do not depend on the quantity of food, but on its perfect digestion and proper assimilation.

If the nutrient properties of all of the food that may be eaten are appropriated by the blood and tissues, the muscles of the body will grow harder and stronger, whether you eat much or little.

You do not have to be sick to need Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. Thousands of men and millions of women have used for just what Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will do for them.

A little Kodol after meals, will enable the proper time, interfere with the organs to digest and assimilate every bit of food of the wholesome food that may be eaten.

It will enable the stomach to extract from the food all its nutrient properties, and reabsorb the same to the blood.

It will enable the blood to circulate freely and to reach all parts of the system, and to give strength to every organ and tissue, and to give you a sound body and a strong mind, which is the best of your health.

LETTER TO JOHN R. BARNHILL.

Greenville, N. C.

Dear Sir: Chad R. Manning, Esq., editor of The Gold Leaf, Henderson, N. C. sends us this tale of Devoe in his town.

Mr. James A. O'Neill's house was painted again.

Twenty years is too long; but the paint looked better than other paint in half this time. This answers for quality.

Takes less quantity too. A gallon Devoe will go as far as five to ten quarts of common paint.

Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & Co.

ALDERMEN IN SPECIAL SESSION.

Invite Teachers to Hold Institute Here—Other Matters Before the Board.

The board of aldermen held a special meeting Tuesday night to consider several matters. One was in regard to having trash moved off the streets. There is so much trash out on Monday and Tuesday that the town wagon cannot remove it promptly, and the matter of putting on another cart was discussed and referred to the street committee.

The most important matter before the meeting was the inviting of the teachers of the county to hold their next summer institute in Greenville. Two committees were appointed to take this matter in hand, one of them to raise funds to reduce board for the teachers, and one to canvass the town to secure boarding places for the teachers. We hope this movement will secure the holding of the institute here.

Apportionment having been made for the purchase of the land for the board and hose with it, the board fixed the price at $100.

The finance committee was instructed to ascertain upon what terms the $10,000 to be used for sewerage can be borrowed and report to the board.

THE TEACHERS' ASSEMBLY.

Large Attendance Expected at Greenville

The next meeting of the N. C. County Teachers' Assembly will be held in Greensboro, June 12-16. The teachers of Guilford county and the citizens of Greensboro have pledged one hundred dollars in membership tickets. Greensboro is one of our most progressive cities and will do everything to make the stay of the teachers both pleasant and profitable.

One of the difficulties in the past has been lack of funds to secure spaces far from abroad, who could be held in place in preparation to our teachers. The citizens of Greensboro have solved this problem by guaranteeing the one thousand dollars referred to above; and hence the teachers will be able to present one of the most attractive programs.

The executive committee has decided to organize the assembly by departments, hence there will be the following departments of instruction represented in the next meeting:

Secondary Schools and Colleges, City School Superintendents and Principals, County Superintendents, Primary and Grammar School Teachers, Nature Study, Department of the North Carolina Women's Association for the Betterment of Public Schools.

There will be at least one-half of each day given to the meetings of these departments, and it is hoped to have with each department one of the recognized leaders in educational thought of our country.

IMPORTANT DEAL.

Norfolk & Southern Railroad Buys Old Dominion Steamers

The Norfolk & Southern railroad now has direct connection with Greenville by rail but by steamer line on Tar river. By a recent deal between the two companies the Norfolk & Southern became owner of the Old Dominion S. S. Co's, steamers on Pamlico and Tar rivers and the wharf and warehouse properties at both Washington and Greenville.

The main line of the Norfolk & Southern extends from Norfolk to Blinton. At the latter place there was transfer of the cars by steamers and barges across the bay to Mackay's Ferry where the company have another road from Mackay's Ferry to Belhaven. Freights coming this way were transferred at Belhaven to the Old Dominion S. S. Co's, steamers for points up the river.

The Norfolk & Southern sometimes acquired the railroad from Washington to Plymouth and have extended that road on to Mackay's Ferry, so that now its traffic can be handled through from Norfolk to Washington by rail, by steamer to Mackay's Ferry, and then by the Norfolk & Southern to Belhaven. This is a decided advantage, as it avoids delay and losses of freight by damage arising from frequent transfers.

The Norfolk & Southern is progressive and is steadily working its way Southward, and we hope as it develops and stretches out into a great inland system it will have road, as well as steamers, running to Greenville as a steady market for development before it.

We are glad that in this taking over of the Old Dominion company's steamers, there is to be no change in the management of the business here. F. J. Cherry, who has for years been the efficient agent of the O. D. Navigation company at Greenville, and his close assistant, R. M. Hester, are both retained in the service of the Norfolk & Southern.
