BY RAIL FROM GREENVILLE TO FARMVILLE.

Best Argicultural Section of Eastern Carolina.

[By J. M. Hines, Correspondent St. Louis Daily World and Industrial Press Syndicate]

Level Lawn Farm, Near Farmville, N. C. April—Leaving the enterprising young business city of Greenville, that is located on the banks of the Tar, commonly known as Tar river, and the capital of the banner agricultural county of the state, "Old Pitt," as it is known from ocean to ocean and from Canada to Cuba for its bright golden tobacco, taking prizes when ever exhibited.

We boarded one of the trains of the great Atlantic Coast Line for Farmville. This system gridrons Eastern Carolina with its many branches leading to any habitable point that the tourists, commercial messengers, home-seekers and investors may desire to visit within the limits of the old North state and her sister, South Carolina.

After crossing the Tar river at Greenville, the tourist, and especially the agriculturist, becomes interested in the physical features of the country. Before him lies broad fields of many acres of fertile, level land, where can be seen the plowman at the handles and other laborers engaged in farm work preparing the soil for the seed, on the other hand can be seen thousands of woodland acres, not yet touched by the woodman's axe and saw. But there are evidences of the enterprising lumber men left to show that he has been there. As we pass along this line of road—the stumps that row stand, where once the tall forest pines reached their lofty tops towards the skies and gathered the sighing breezes through their green needles—tell the story enterprise, the trees have been cut and converted into commercial lumber.

When Parmete is reached a change of cars is made for Tarboro and Farmville. A short stop is made at this place to meet trains for other points. When the conductor gives the signal for leaving, a smile of pleasure passes over each passenger's face as much as to say "Farewell Parmete, thou art absent but still remembered."

From here we start for Tarboro, passing over a fine country, with many inducements for settlers and investors. From this old town, Tarboro, the head of navigation on the Tar river, we start for the new town of Farmville on a branch road, which has its beginning here and ending at Farmville, passing through what has long been known as the finest farming section of Edgecombe and Pitt counties. Although the road has not been in operation but a short time there are many evidences developing to show what great advantages are to be gained for the people by its construction. It has opened up a fine country for agricultural and industrial pursuits.

A gentleman in Iowa wrote me the other day asking what was the best section of North Carolina to locate where he could raise truck and garden stuff for market. He said he wanted land enough for eight families and not more than 160 acres to the tract. They want to locate near rail and water transportation. He says the severe past winter has caused a great many people in the Northwest to think seriously of moving South to avoid the rigors of the winters in that section. He said he had been over the Southwest but wanted to get into a section where he would not have to remain indoors eight months in the year.

Another gentleman from Nebraska asked if land can be bought on time by making a good cash payment at time of purchase. He says his attention was attracted to the South, by the splendid agricultural, agricultural, and mineral exhibits he saw at the world's fair at St. Louis.

DEATH OF MR BAKER.

Highly Respected Citizen Passed Away.

Mr. Aiden Baker died at his home about three miles from Greenville this morning shortly after three o'clock. Mr. Baker retired as usual last night, and was heard straggling to bed about three o'clock, and died in a few minutes.

The deceased was a good farmer and a highly respected citizen. He was an active member of the Free Will Baptist church, and was a man of high Christian character. He was about sixty five years old and leaves a wife, and three grown sons, all of whom live near Greenville.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon but at the present time we are unable to find out where the interment will be.

Story of a Check.

About three years ago Mr. J. W. H. Bonitz, proprietor of the Bonitz Hotel cashed a check for a stranger who was visiting in Wilmington.

The check was deposited in a local bank by Mr. Bonitz, who was surprised several days later to learn that the bank in the north had returned the paper with the information stamped on the bank "No deposits" or words to that effect.

Mr. Bonitz took the matter in a philosophical manner and quietly posted the check in a conspicuous place at his hotel, and waited.

Yesterday Mr. Bonitz learned that the maker of the check, who had not been seen by him since the paper was cashed, was in the city.

Mr. Bonitz went behind the counter in the hotel—tore off the check—picked up his hat—and went to see Magistrate Bornemann.

The circumstances were explained to the magistrate, who also picked up his hat and walked quietly out, looking for the man who gave the check.

Mr. Bonitz returned to the hotel and apparently forgot all about the matter. Thirty minutes later Magistrate Bornemann entered "Here's your money," said the magistrate.

"Thank you," said Mr. Bonitz. "Please take out the fees," and the incident was closed.—Wilmington Dispatch.

Colored Man Drowned.

Thursday night Ben Banks and Rufus Reeves, both colored, went down to Red Banks, two miles below town, skimming for shad. They had caught several and were striking for another when their skill filled with water. Reeves jumped out of the boat and swam ashore, but Banks could not swim and was drowned. The body had not been recovered at last report.

Bank Officers.

At the recent meeting of the stock holders of the Greenville Banking & Trust Co., L. I. Moore and R. J. Cobb were re-elected president and cashier respectively. J. R. Spier was elected vice-president, C. S. Carr was promoted to assistant cashier and T. J. Moore was added to the clerical force as assistant book keeper.

Had Storm.

The hail season opened early this year, a storm passing over this section Wednesday afternoon. The hail stones were considerable in size and thick enough to make the ground look white. We have heard no damage reported.

It's as cowardly to speak ill of a man behind his back as it is dangerous to say it to his face.

All Have Them.

Nearly every town contains persons who it seems, would rather pull down than build up. And they do not stop at always arraying themselves "against" measures that are helpful to the town, but they go farther and endeavor to do what they can against something or somebody.

They are never found trying to help their fellow man along, but their only thought is to "beat" somebody. Such folks are worth very little to themselves or the community in which they live. They are never happy themselves and it seems to be their great desire to make other folks miserable.—Louisburg Times.

Cleanliness is said to be next to godliness, yet one seldom sees a laundry next door to a church.

TO THE GOOD PEOPLE OF GREENVILLE AND PITT COUNTY.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Confederate Veterans association of Bryan Grimes camp held in the office of W. L. Brown, on April 11th, the following committee was appointed for the purpose of soliciting funds and eatables for the dinner on May 10th to wit: L. A. Sugg, A. J. Griffin and R. W. King. Col. Sugg reported that he had invited Senator B. R. Tillman, of South Carolina, to address the veterans on that occasion. A big crowd and a big time is expected on that day. We do hope the people of the town and county will come up liberally and help to make this an occasion long to be remembered in the lives of those who staked their lives for Southern rights and Southern women.

With Senator Tillman to be with us on that day, a man whom all know to be Southern to the core, the people may expect something worthy of coming out to hear, and to their tastes. Senator Tillman has been before the public gaze for many years and has fought many hard battles for the cause of the South since the war, and in all the bitter conflicts has never come out second best in any contest. His course in the Senate of the United States has been open and well understood, and his pitch fork has been a most wieldy weapon against those who tread upon the sacredness of Southern rights. We hope the people will not wait for the committee to see them, but will bring and send their means, turkeys, chickens, hams and any other edibles that can make the old soldiers happy. The time is short, and we hope that the spirit of affection that has always manifested itself in our people, will be more than manifest in their effort, in the year of grace, May 10, 1905.

ANOTHER VAGRANT.

Joins the Company of Road Builders.

Friday evening Sheriff Tucker shipped another able-bodied hand to Ayden to take a job under Guard Joe McLawhorn who keeps a vigilant eye over the county road gang. This new recruit was Will Joyner, a gentleman of color who had been hanging too long around Greenville without visible means of support. Joyner was taken before Squire C. D. Rountree's court for an interview. The Squire sized him up and concluded that it would be good for Will's health and healthy for the morals of the community if he muscled out a shovel on the roads awhile.

A Correction.

Ayden, N. C., April 15.—We naturally presume it was a mistake, not intended, on the part of the Winterville correspondent to the News and Observer that the remains of Mrs. Ida Edwards would be carried to Winterville for interment. Mrs. Edwards' home was Ayden and her husband, Mr. J. J. Edwards, is one of our prosperous and most influential merchants. He has a magnificent home here and has been a resident for quite a while. We were both pained and surprised when we read the article.

NOTICE.

A reward of ten dollars will be paid to any party, reporting any one with evidence to convict, who willfully pulls down or removes any portion or part of the Pitt county stock law fence or willfully breaks open any of the stock law gates or said fence.

PEEPER CAUGHT.

Will Have to Answer Charges in Superior Court

Squire C. D. Rountree had a complaint before him this morning that stumped him for the time being and put him back to studying law.

W. P. Edwards was the complainant, and he wanted a warrant against Jordan Davis, colored, an inhabitant of New Town.

Somebody had lately been annoying the family of L. H. Smith, in South Greenville, by prowling around the windows and peeping through the blinds. Once Mrs. Smith had thrown open the blinds and frightened the intruder off. Mr. Edwards, who is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Smith, was told what was going on and at once made up his mind to catch somebody. Thursday night he went to the Smith home but did not tell anyone his plans, and after sitting awhile with the family left the house. He did not leave the vicinity, however, but secreted himself in a convenient place to do some watching.

The wait was not long. A man soon came along, slipped up to the window and peeped in a few minutes. The man passed, then turned and came back to the window and peeped in again. He repeated this again when Mr. Edwards stepped out of his hiding place and grabbed him. Davis was turned over to an officer and gave bond for his appearance this morning.

After Squire Rountree got through looking up the law he drew a warrant containing three charges—trespass, eavesdropping and disorderly conduct.

At the preliminary hearing the evidence against Davis was such that he was bound over to Superior court. He gave bond in the sum of $100 and was released.

THE SANS SOUCI CLUB.

Reported for Reflection.

The Sans Souci club was most pleasantly entertained by Miss Glenn Forbes, Tuesday, April 11th. The guests were received in the hall by Miss Helen Forbes who served delicious frappe. In the absence of the president, the vice-president, Mrs. Woodward, filled the chair. The literary program of the afternoon was an instructive paper on Lew Wallace, the author of Ben Hur, read by Miss Lizzie Jones. An interesting feature of the club proceedings was the reading of items of interest by each member.

Miss Jessie Tyson added greatly to the pleasure of the afternoon by favoring us with a vocal solo.

The visitors present were Mrs. Burt Moye and Mrs. Pritchard, Misses Neal Suttle, Connor, Couling, Taylor, Tyson and Blow.

Refreshments were served after which the club adjourned to meet April 25th.

The British House of Commons Saturday for the seventh time passed a bill permitting a man to marry the sister of his dead wife. This bill has always been defeated in the House of Lords and it is believed that it will be defeated again. It will probably be news to many people to know that English law forbids a man to marry the sister of his deceased wife, but such is the fact, and the rules of the Southern Presbyterian church also forbade such a marriage until a few years ago. The change which was made in the law which finally resulted in the bill being changed, occurred in the fall of 1894.

HIS COLLECTION OF ORCHIDS.

One of the stories John Burroughs, the aged naturalist, loves to tell has to do with a friend of his named Orr. On one of his trips Mr. Burroughs happened to be in the town where Mr. Orr lives. Meeting him in the street, Mr. Burroughs insisted that his friend should accompany him to the hotel for lunch. As they were eating Mr. Burroughs inquired if his friend was not interested in any specialty. "I think," said the naturalist, "every man ought to have a collection of some kind. It adds zest to life."

"Oh, yes," said his friend. "I have quite a collection. I am interested in flowers. Come home with me, and I'll show them to you."

As they approached the Orr home six fine, healthy children, playing on the lawn, ran to meet their father. "These," said Mr. Orr, with a twinkle in his eye, "form my collection of orchids. Ain't they grand specimens?"

Jumbo's Teddy.
Tody Hamilton tells this story of the late P. T. Barnum, with whom he was associated for many years. The great showman in his declining years was advised by his physicians to abstain from all spirituous liquors. He became zealous upon the subject of total abstinence, lecturing to many audiences upon this subject. A woman who had heard him lecture afterward met him one day at his home in Bridgeport.

"Why do you preach total abstinence to humanity," she asked, "when it is well known that you allow your trainers to feed Jumbo four gallons of whiskey a day and ten pounds of tobacco?"

"Never thought of that," said Mr. Barnum, and he almost ran to the telephone, calling up the winter quarters of the show, and in his agonized voice gave the order, "Give Jumbo no more tobacco or whiskey."

Next day he got the following message from the trainer: "Please build a padded cell for Jumbo and send down at once 5,000 grains of arsenic. He's got D. T.'s on account of P. T., and has got the delusion that he is performing in Kentucky."

Jumbo got his regular four gallons after that.

Equal to the Occasion.
It was a small theater in a small town. The piece opened with a village scene, at the conclusion of which the scene-shifter was puzzled how to let down a front cloth, as a cottage on the stage obstructed the descent.

But the "leading gentlemen" came to the rescue, and, walking boldly on, exclaimed:

"It's a stormy night, and my poor, humble cottage is sadly dilapidated. I must even take it in and repair it."

Suiting the action to the word, he walked off with the offending cottage.

It Happened to Be a Boomerang.
It was at Cambridge, and a Boston girl was trying not to over-rehearse a breezy young woman from the west.

"Such a historic pile," she was saying, as she toyed lightly with her eeglasses, "and so very dear to me. Ninety-five years ago my great-grandfather was graduated from here. I suppose, Miss Fond du Lac, you don't take much interest in an institution like this?"

"Not much, to tell the truth, Miss Backlay. You see, I've been brought up on a Harvard diploma—one of my ancestors was an honor man in seventeen-fifty something—and I'm rather tired of it all."

Lord Roschery's "Good Story."
In a recent English biography appears an anecdote told in the characteristic English manner. The writer remarks:

"Lord Roschery told a very good story, for he is always amusing, about a gentleman who was traveling in the southern United States. The visitor was being shaved by a negro barber and noticed the extreme bluntness of the razor.

"Yes, sir," said the barber, "it is very blunt, sar. I was out last night with the boys."

A Wooden Library.
There is at Cassel a library probably unique in the world. It is bound in timber, printed on timber pages, possibly from wood blocks, and deals exclusively with timber. The library in question is the Holzbibliothek, which was compiled more than a century ago by Karl Schiele.

back, and is composed of about 500 volumes made from trees in the park at Wilhelmshohe.

Could Be of Assistance.
Jim—Say, Fred, old boy, I'm looking for some friend who will lend me $10. Come, now, can't you be of assistance?

Fred—Certainly!
"Thank you ever so much."
"Yes, it's going to rain, and if you'll step over to my office I'll lend you one of your umbrellas so you won't get wet while you're looking."

Cure For the Blues.
An Atchison girl said goodbye to her dearest beloved, who was going away to be gone two months. It was a painful ordeal, for with floods, fevers, railroad accidents and other women there was no telling if she would ever see him again.

She sobbed till the sound of his footsteps had died away, when, feeling that she needed something to sustain her, she went out to the ice-box and ate a plate of cold chicken, half three pieces of fried chicken, half a cake and a piece of blackberry pie and drank three bottles of ginger ale. Then she went upstairs, slept soundly, and next morning felt so well and happy that she found time to write him a letter telling him she was wretched without him.—Atchison Globe.

Discarded.
By this time the controversy had reached the stage of personalities.

"I don't wonder the baby is fretful and irritable sometimes," exclaimed Mrs. Ferguson shrilly. "She inherits your disposition!"

"Perhaps she does, madam," recklessly retorted Mr. Ferguson. "Perhaps she does. But she inherits your looks."

"Bless her heart, so she does!" said his wife, cradling the baby in her arms and crowning over the cherub, "George, dear, I take it all back!"

Then, manlike, he went out and gouted over this, as if he had won a victory by superior shrewdness.—Chicago Tribune.

An Apology.
An excited military looking gentleman entered the editorial sanctum one afternoon, exclaiming:

"That notice of my death is false, sir. I will horsewhip you within an inch of your life, sir, if you don't apologize in your next issue."

"The editor inserted the following next day: 'We extremely regret to announce that Major Blazer was dead without foundation.'—London Telegraph.

By Way of a Hint.
The man who reads other people's literature and forgets to return it happens to find his friend busy with paste and scissors.

"Ha, ha!" said the caller. "Going to keep a scrapbook, are you?"

"Yes," was the unsmiling reply. "I think I'll manage to keep it. Nobody ever wants to borrow scrap-books, you know."

He Was All Right.
An Argyllshire elder, when asked how the Kirk got along, replied: "A well, we had 300 members. Then we had a division, and there were only 200 left, then a disruption and only 10 of us left. Then we had a heresy trial, and now there is only me and my brother Duncan left, and I have great doubts of Duncan's orthodoxy."

PAPOOSE POPCORN
A New Food Discovery for FORAGE, POULTRY, FOPPING

A subscriber to the Southern Agriculturist secured the original seed from an old Indian in North Carolina. After experimenting with it several years he wrote that he had "with good results" and that it was "worth from 50 to 100 bushels to the acre, and planted thick and cut early and it will make more food and better feed than anything I ever saw." This is the most reliable feeding stuff in the world, and a great discovery. It is a new food for all kinds of stock, and is the best for all kinds of stock. It is a new food for all kinds of stock, and is the best for all kinds of stock. It is a new food for all kinds of stock, and is the best for all kinds of stock.

The steamer Myers is slightly disabled and could not make her trip up the river today. When the Myers was on her return trip to Washington, Thursday, she met J. C. LETTER TO G. E. HARRIS.

Dear Sir: You give full weight of good coal. So I saw—231 inches to a gallon of coal that takes fewer gallons than mixed coal and wears twice as long as lead and oil; and allow our agent to sell it on this guarantee.

POINTS PARAGRAPHS.

It isn't the rent a man pays that keeps him moving. Praise comes to the man who waits for it—under six feet of earth.

The more you rickles a woman has the less she is annoyed by mothers. A man may imagine he meets a lot of his inferiors daily—but he doesn't.

Wisdom may be better than great riches—and it's just as easy to get. Be a day made more fun than a year of it. Don't have a reputation for being smart.

A GOOD FRIDAY THOUGHT.

Why Esteem One Day Above Another? somebody asks. Why make one day of more importance than another?

The observance of certain days for the commemoration of significant events is native to the human heart and common to all people in all the walks of life.

STATE NEWS.

A bank with $15,000 capital has been chartered at Williamson. The Raleigh dispensary closed $12,500 during the first quarter of this year.

Original Observations.

A good joke doesn't need a letter of introduction. Some people who use the biggest words judge in nothing but small talk.

Did You Ever Notice That a Man with a Black Eye Always Carries an Explanation.

For some weeks yet the man with the hoe will have the laugh on the man with snow shovel. Some people couldn't find work if they sent after it armed with a seahs warrent and a writ of habeas corpus.

Car Load of Common Seed.

As incredulous as it may appear, a solid car load of what is commonly known as Jerusalem oak seed was shipped from this city last year.

Another Road Hand.

Greenville has given up another of her citizens to join Guard Joe McLawhorn's force who are making time on the public roads.

Increased Salary.

Cold Does Damage.

This cold snap is playing havoc with early vegetables and fruit prospects. All day Sunday there were indications that frost would come.

Watch Out.

The fellows who have been standing around on the streets to be picked up for odd jobs, should be careful that they do not get picked up for vagrants. It is a good time to be having a job.
