FITTED FEET. A man can make himself a big lot of misery by wearing wrong shoes—and it often proves the "wrong shoe" when one Man insists on having a style just like some friend wears.

There are several radical families of feet. Let us fit yours—for the fitted foot looks better than one cramped or twisted into a wrong shaped shoe.

HAVE YOU SEEN This Season's styles? They are splendid specimens of structurality for less Footwear.

Such Men's Shoes are not sold anywhere else for less than a half to a dollar more in price. All leathers in a galaxy of stylish toes.

Why Etern One Day Above Another? somebody asks. Why make one day of more importance than another?

LETTER TO G. E. HARRIS.

Dear Sir: You give full weight of good coal.

So I saw—231 inches to a gallon of coal that takes fewer gallons than mixed coal and wears twice as long as lead and oil; and allow our agent to sell it on this guarantee.

"If you have any fault to find with this point either now in putting it on, or here after in the wear tell your dealer about it."

"We authorize him to do what is right at our expense."

We know a dealer in coal, who delivered his coal with a public weigher's ticket (full weight) invited complaints, and actually exchanged the coal when complaint was made. He had half the business; a dozen firms had the other half.

We are 150 years old, but not too old to sell paint that dealer sold coal. We like to pay damages—when there are any.

Yours truly, F. W. DEVOE & CO. P. S. H. L. Carr sells our Paint.

THREE JURORS SECURED

Of Cholera Morbus with One Small Bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Mr. G. W. Fowler of Hightower, Ala., relates on experience he had while serving on a petit jury in a murder case at Edwardsville, county seat of Cleburne county, Alabama. He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some soured meat and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead, saying that he had what I sent for, but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the six I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one small bottle cured the three of us." For sale at Wooten's Drug Store.

WEBSTER'S POWER.

How He Quieted a Fanatic Audience

On June 17, 1858, the streets of Boston were thronged with citizens and country folk. As one of the old stage drivers remarked, "Everything that has wheels and everything that has legs used their legs to get to town today." A brilliant civic and military procession marched through Cambridge. In the place of honor rode the fine party beside his almost three-year-old son, for at once on horseback he did not display the slight lameness contracted in this country's cause at the battle of Brandywine.

After paying the coronation of Bunker Hill monument, Lafayette refused to take the seat prepared for him under the pavilion devoted to the official and distinguished guests. "No," he said, "my place is here with the survivors of the Revolution," and he took a seat among the veterans who were resting on rude benches unsheltered from the hot rays of the sun.

The great anxiety of the people to hear Daniel Webster's speech came very near being disastrous. The crowd surged nearer and nearer the stand, clothes were torn, people were hurt, and women shrieked and fainted. The marshal, fearful of a riot, ordered by every means to gain control over the headless crowd. They entreated, they called out commands for order, all in vain; their very efforts only increased the excitement.

Suddenly Webster, moved by impulse, sprang forward and in a voice of thunder cried to the marshals: "Get about yourselves and the people will obey!"

They did obey. Those clear, magnetic tones carried control to every one of that struggling throng. The mob became as manageable as a child.

His Peroration.

The Scotch clergyman was expounding the story of the destruction of Pharaoh and his host.

"And Moses and his people crossed over safely to the other side, but Pharaoh and his host were submerged in the water. And Pharaoh lifted up his eyes and saw Moses standing safely on the other side, and he cried and said, 'Oh, Moses, save me!' But Moses never let on that he was hearing him. And he cried again and said, 'Oh, Moses, save me!' And Moses turned and looked at him and said, 'Pharaoh, I think I had seen you before.'"

Scottish Ancestor.

"What will we have for dinner, dear?" said Mrs. Newlywed to her husband as he started for the office.

"Oh, make your own selection, sweetheart," he replied, giving her a fond caress, as young husbands will.

"But, George, dear, we had roast pork Monday, roast lamb Tuesday and roast beef last night."

"Why can't they invent some more animals? It's so hard to choose from just those three."

His Ancestor.

Mrs. Parvenu (patronizingly)—Were any of your ancestors men of note?

Mr. Flippant—Yes, madam, I should say so. One of them was the most famous admiral of his day and commanded the allied forces of the world.

Mrs. Parvenu (with altered tone of deep respect)—Is it possible, Mr. Flippant? And what was his name?

Mr. Flippant—Noah, madam.

The "Laughing Plant" of Arabia.

The laughing plant produces black, beanlike seeds, small doses of which, when dried and powdered, intoxicate like laughing gas. The person indulging in the drug dances, shouts and laughs like a madman for about an hour, when he becomes exhausted and falls into a deathlike sleep, which often lasts several hours and leaves the victim in an awful state of nervous collapse.

His Warden's Tell.

Wigmaker—I assure you once more, madam, that nobody shall ever get it out of me that you are wearing false hair. My business is managed on the principle of absolute secrecy. For instance, there's the lady of Privy Councillor Muller, who has worn false hair for the last twelve months, and I have never breathed it to a living soul.—Hirschberger's Dispatch.

The Succulent Bamboo.

To know bamboo only as a tough, porous cane of varying thickness and extraordinary adaptability, as we chiefly know it, is not by any means to compass its limitations. As an article of food, for instance, it is an entire success on its native heath and at an early stage in its growth. It is boiled briefly, like tender asparagus, and eaten served with a cream sauce, also after the manner of that succulent vegetable.

A Terrible Predicament.

He was in doubt. He didn't know whether he should be angry or pleased, and a great deal depended upon it.

They were sitting on the sofa together, and once, when the conversation seemed to drag a little, he had suggested:

"Don't you think it rather close tonight?"

"It might be closer," she replied. It was a terrible predicament in which to place a man who was anxious to make the best of his opportunities. Should he take advantage of what seemed to be an invitation to get a little nearer to her, or should he be angry at being termed an "it"?

The Other Boy Was.

"You have been in another fight, Tommy," said a west side mother to her seven-year-old boy.

"None, I wasn't, either," was the dogged reply.

"Why, Tommy, I can tell by your appearance that you have been fighting. Your face is all scratched up. You mustn't story about it."

"I ain't tellin' no story. I said I wasn't in it, an' I wasn't."—Pittsburg Press.

PAPOOSE POPCORN

FORAGE, POULTRY, FEEDING

A subscriber to the Southern Agricultural Journal secured the editorial need from an old farmer in New York. The old farmer, meeting with it every year, wrote that paper, which had been from 50 to 100 years old, and planted it in his garden and stalks after all its usefulness was over, and better feed than anything I ever saw. The old farmer never gave the contents. I have not lost a few more chickens since I have been reading it. It also says beautifully. The article brought hundreds of requests for seed, and a few hundred are now being sent for a 3 months trial, and a time to Southern Agricultural, 29 C. P. Bldg., New York, and you will get the paper by return mail, also details of the prize seed-growing contest.

LETTER TO O. L. JOYNER.

Dear Sir: We are in partnership with it. Bart, N. Y., has had its point experience.

Mr. D. Hawkins, contractor, bought 18 gallons Devoe for 3 houses; returned 6 gallons.

That shows what it's worth, so far as covering goes; a half more than common paint. About half the houses in Bart are painted Devoe; the other half will be, as soon as they need paint.

We want your town same way, and will save it some way. Are you ready yourself?

Yours truly,

Value of a Dollar

Some one says there are three ways to learn the value of a dollar. The first is to earn it, and see what you gave for it. The second is to spend it, and see what you get for it. And third is to keep it, and yearn for all you might buy if you were weak enough to buy it.—Bainbridge Democrat.

Sour Stomach

When the quantity of food taken is too large or the quality too rich, sour stomach is likely to follow, and especially so if the digestion has been weakened by constipation. Eat slowly and not too freely of easily digested food. Masticate the food thoroughly. Let five hours elapse between meals, and when you feel a fullness and weight in the region of the stomach after eating, take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and the sour stomach may be avoided. For sale by Wooten's Drug Store, Greenville.

FIRE NEAR ALWOOD.

Thought to Have Been Caused By Passing Locomotive. B. M. Whitehurst, a member of the county board of education and who lives near Alwood, suffered a serious loss by fire Friday afternoon. The fire occurred about 2 o'clock and destroyed a pack house, barn, stables, shelter, smoke house, a lot of corn, fodder, peanuts, peas, fertilizers, a buggy and quantity of building material. Mr. Whitehurst says the fire started in a stack of fodder near the stables, and a high wind blowing at the time caused it to spread rapidly among the buildings. His dwelling house had a narrow escape and was saved only by hard work. The loss is estimated at $800 to $1,000 and he had only $185 insurance. Mr. Whitehurst says he is confident the fire originated from sparks from an engine on the railroad. The railroad is about 200 yards from where the fire occurred and the south bound freight train had just passed when the stack of fodder was discovered burning on top. This was direct to windward from the railroad and a fence was set on fire at the same time at a point nearer the railroad. This morning about sunrise a colored neighbor, T. W. C. Moore, drove up to Mr. Whitehurst's gate with a load of corn to help him that much on his loss, an act which Mr. Whitehurst says he appreciates very highly.

A BOLD INTRUDER

The House of James Brown Entered. About 11 o'clock, Wednesday night, after the family had retired, a man was discovered in the home of James Brown, on Dickens avenue. Mr. Brown's oldest daughter, Miss Ellie, aged about 12 years, and her little brother Bert, aged about 6, occupied a room together on the second floor. Miss Ellie noticed the door of her room open slightly and got up and closed it, thinking nothing unusual of it at the time. A little later the door opened again, wider than before, and as she was again going towards it she saw a man standing in the door. This greatly frightened her and she began screaming. In her fright she only noticed that the man had on a sweater. Mr. Brown hearing the screams of his daughter rushed up to her room and took her in his arms to quiet her. Dr. Mc G. Earnl, who occupies a room on the first floor, heard a sound like some one running across the roof of the back porch near his room. He hurried out to the porch and was just in time to see a man catch on the roof of the dining room and disappear over it. The man evidently feared detection if he came to the ground from the porch, therefore he sprang across an alley, about 5 feet, between the porch and the dining room, went from the roof of the dining room to the roof of the kitchen, then on to the roof of the milk house from which he jumped to the ground and made his escape. The intruder was evidently some one who was familiar with the premises. An examination showed that he had gone from the door of the children's room through the company room on opposite side of the hall and from this room went out a window on the porch. The bed in the company room also showed that some one had been sitting on it, which indicated that the man had entered the house sometime earlier before the doors were fastened, and had waited in this room for the family to retire.

FARMERS CONSOLIDATED TOBACCO COMPANY

Annual Meeting of Stockholders--The Company is Progressive. Condition. The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company was held in the Farmers warehouse on Friday, 18th. The company paid a dividend of 15 1/2 percent, which in view of the very short crop is a most remarkably creditable showing. As we have before stated, it seems to us that this company bids fair to become one of the strongest business organizations in the county. And why? What is to prevent it from being a giant in the tobacco world? The farmers who make the tobacco are the owners of the company, and if they will pull together and support and personize their own business, with business men who understand thoroughly the management of the business in charge, there is no other business in our knowledge that will equal it as a money maker. The company was organized in October, 1903, and it has already paid 49 1/2 percent dividends on the original stock. This, too, in the face of the most energetic opposition. Owing to the increased business the combined office of secretary and treasurer which has heretofore been filled by W. H. Dail, Jr., was abolished and the separate offices of auditor and treasurer were created. W. H. Dail, Jr., was elected auditor and R. J. Cobb was elected treasurer. O. L. Joyner continues president and general manager. The company is well officered by men who understand the duties of their respective positions. Was Kenneth Drowned? E. F. Lamb and H. Clay Tany, of Elizabeth City, were in Raleigh yesterday, and were asked if any clue had been found as to the whereabouts of little Kenneth Bosley, or if he was kidnapped. Both gentlemen were of the opinion that the young boy was not stolen away, but was drowned in one of the many swamps surrounding the neighborhood in which he was last seen. Many places in these swamps are treacherous, and it is very probable, they said, that Kenneth had lost his way possibly, and had fallen into some stream or hole, and was drowned--Raleigh News and Observer.

A THREAT TO KILL SAM JONES

Noted Evangelist Rescued From an Unpleasant Situation by a Call to the Telephone. Montgomery, Ala., April 20.--Rev. Sam P. Jones, Cartersville, Ga., the well known evangelist and lecturer, had an unusual experience here today with another minister who threatened his life. Mr. Jones was in Montgomery, enroute to Tuskegee, Ala., where he tonight delivered a lecture at Booker Washington's school. Sam H. Wredham, a Methodist preacher whose home is at Dothan, Ala., accosted him on the streets and persuaded him to accompany him to the latter's room in a hotel. No sooner were the two in Wredham's room than the preacher turned to Mr. Jones, after first locking the door and placing the key there in his pocket, and said: "God has directed me to go to Dothan, Ala., and get married and to take you with me to perform the ceremony. Then we are to conduct a meeting in Dothan, after which we will return to Montgomery and conduct a meeting here. If you don't assent to this, either you or I must die!" A this moment a bell boy knocked at the door and informed Mr. Jones that he was wanted at the telephone. Extending himself, he managed to leave the room. He was followed to the depot, however, by Mr. Wredham, who was arrested there by Detective Pavn. Windham, who has been an inmate of an insane asylum, and who has been three times divorced from the woman he wishes to wed again, is held at police barracks as a suspicious character.

SOME FAMOUS DOUBLES. Moneyless Man's Scheme. He Beat the Conductor, but Cheerfully Reimbursed Him. "Talk about predicaments on a street car," said a man who can remember when there were only horse cars in the city. "I was to take my best girl to the theater, and I decided to throw on some lugs. I was deathly afraid of leaving the tickets behind, so I hurried into my dress suit, I think, without ever letting my eyes go of them. I was mentally shaking hands with myself that I had not overlooked anything. "After the show we found that rain had set in and boarded a car. It was crowded, so I sent her inside and stood on the back platform with a few dozen others. Along came the conductor, and when I heard him say 'fare's', I dug. Horror overtook me! I had been so intent upon the tickets that I had forgotten to put a cent in my pockets when I changed my clothes. I was stone broke. There she was inside, out of explaining distance, with a crowd between us, or I might have borrowed from her or jumped off the car. I edged away from the conductor as long as possible, when suddenly there came an inspiration. Tapping the conductor on the shoulder, I said 'brother, 'low you about my change?' 'Did you give me something to change?' he inquired. "Certainly, I gave you a quarter to pay the fare of myself and lady inside." He hesitated just a moment and handed me 15 cents. "I was saved, and you can let I remembered that conductor and hunted him up the next day. I told him the whole story and reimbursed him fully. He enjoyed it more than I did when he learned the whole truth."--Detroit News.

His Family Bible. He Had a Use For It, Although He Could Not Read. Stories of surprises in cross-examination were exchanged in a small group of men who met today and the following was sprung by an Illinois man. "Years ago one of the prominent lawyers of central Illinois was D. G. Tunnichill, afterward justice of the state supreme court. Tunnichill was a great wit and a very smooth article in cross-examination. He did not object get the worst of it from any body. He seldom attempted bulldozing in cross-examination, but could back an unwary man in to almost any admission. One day Tunnichill had an old farmer named Dave Brown on the opposite side, and the value of the old man's testi- mony depended upon his claim that he could not read. It was believed that he could read a little, and Tunnichill tried to trap him. After several efforts which old Dave neatly sidestepped the lawyer changed the subject and wandered away from the leading question. Suddenly he asked: "Have you a Bible in your home, Mr. Brown?" "Yes, sir, a family Bible. Had it for years." "I'm glad to hear that. Every good man should have a Bible in his home. You use your Bible, I hope?" "Yes, sir, I use it regularly." "That's right. A good man should use his Bible often. About how often do you use your Bible?" "Every Sunday morning, sir," said the old man, with apparent innocence. "Every Sunday morning. That is commendable. There is no more appropriate time for using the Bible than on Sabbath morning. And how do you use your Bible for on a Sabbath morning?" "I use it in the usual way, sir. I read it and I will do anything that I can to get it out of my hands. I don't know how to use it any other way." "I'm glad to hear that. Every good man should have a Bible in his home.
