PRISONER ESCAPES.

AIDED BY TWO BROTHERS AND SEVERAL FRIENDS.

Carrying Out of Conspiracy Gave New man Slaughter His Liberty--Officer was About to Take him Back to New Jersey.

The most daring and outrageous escape of a prisoner ever occurring here was perpetrated at the depot this morning.

It has been told in a previous issue of THE REFLECTOR of the arrest by police officers of Greenville of Newman Slaughter, a negro guilty of grand larceny in New Jersey, who had made his escape from the reformatory there and came to this section. Patrol Officer Charles S. Moore, of Rahway, N. J., came here and identified the prisoner, but Slaughter refused to return to New Jersey with him without requisition papers. Officer Moore then went to Raleigh to get the necessary papers signed by Governor Glenn and returned to Greenville with these papers Sunday evening, intending to start back to New Jersey with the prisoner this morning.

When Slaughter was first arrested here last week he was placed in the town guard house. It was discovered later that he was attempting to cut his way out of the guard house and the prisoner was turned over to Sheriff Tucker for commitment to the county jail that he might be kept safely.

Before train time this morning Officer Moore, in company with Chief of Police J. T. Smith and Assistant Police G. A. Clark who had made the arrest, went to the sheriff's office in the court house where Officer Moore produced the necessary papers from the governor of New Jersey and North Carolina, and Slaughter was turned over, receipt for his delivery being given the sheriff. At the same time the $25 reward offered for the arrest of Slaughter was paid over to Capt. Smith.

Slaughter was handcuffed and securely tied with a rope and Officer Moore then left the court house for the depot with the prisoner. Policemen Smith and Clark both accompanied him to the depot and on the way there Capt. Smith held the end of the rope with which the prisoner was tied. Reaching the depot Capt. Smith turned the prisoner over to Officer Clark to take him in the colored waiting room while he went in the ticket office with Officer Moore to get tickets.

Officer Clark took hold of the rope and led the prisoner into the waiting room where both of them took seats. It was noticed that several negroes were in the waiting room, but this being usual about train time nothing was thought of it. A moment later, however, several other negroes went into the waiting room, Ham and Sam Slaughter, two brothers of the prisoner, being among them. These crowded around where Officer Clark and the prisoner were sitting near the window. This seemed to be a signal to the prisoner and instantly he made a dash for the window. Officer Clark tightened on the rope to pull Slaughter back when some one in the crowd cut the rope so Slaughter could go. He jumped out the window, the crowd rushing to intercept the officer from following him. Officer Clark drew his gun and reaching over a negro woman's head fired a shot through the window after Slaughter but could take no aim. The pistol caused a break among the negroes in the waiting room which cleared the way for Officer Clark to get to the window. He sprang through the window and as he did so some one in the mob in the room fired a shot at him.

By this time Slaughter was some distance in the lead. Capt. Smith in the meantime rushed out in the ticket office and he and Officer Clark both fired shots at the running prisoner but did not strike him. Slaughter was pursued but made good his escape, his brother Sam going with him to assist him. Officer Clark returned to the depot and arrested the other brother of the prisoner, Ham, and placed him in prison. Other arrests will likely follow and the guilty ones get just punishment.

It was a well planned conspiracy on the part of his brothers and the other negroes to release the prisoner. It has developed today that twice during last night negroes went to the boarding house of Deputy Sheriff S. I. Dudley and called for him, but he spent the night elsewhere. It is believed that they thought he had the jail keys and that it was their intention to enter him from the house so they could overpower him and take the keys to get Slaughter out of jail. Failing in this they followed the method carried out at the depot this morning.

No blame whatever can attach to Officer Moore or either of the police officers for the escape of Slaughter. The negroes in the conspiracy were armed with knives and pistols and there were twenty or thirty of them in the mob. That Officer Moore may be exonerated before the New Jersey officials, Sheriff L. W. Tucker has given him an affidavit setting forth the facts of Slaughter's escape. Daily Reflector Aug. 7.

Fire at Spring Hope.

Tarboro, N. C. Aug. 7.—The town of Spring Hope had a $15,000 fire about 2 o'clock Sunday morning, with insurance reaching out one-third of the loss. One block of the business section of the town was practically wiped out.

The A. C. L. depot and contents narrowly escaped, being saved only by hard work. Everybody was asleep at the time the fire started so that its origin is not known. Eight stores, two barber shops, a broker's office and a restaurant were consumed.

Road Machine.

L. C. Arthur had his road machine used on the business section of Evans street this afternoon, to give a demonstration of the work the machine will do. The officials of the county and town are both interested in better highways and we hope this interest will result in improvement.

Ladies in Burning Launch.

Newbern, Aug. 5.—A party of ladies had a narrow escape from death by drowning here today. They were on a pleasure trip in a gasoline launch and were going to Wilkinson's Point on the Neuse river. They were Mrs. William Laar, Mrs. Frank Duffy, Misses Adelaide, Irene and Thelma Peck, Nettie Fowler and her niece, Carol Daniels. Dr. Ward was the only man on board. The cause of the accident was the striking of a match by Dr. Ward to light his cigar. Throwing the match down in the bottom of the boat. It ignited the gasoline and the whole boat was immediately ablaze. Dr. Ward shouted to them all to jump and four ladies obeyed, Mrs. Laar and the Misses Peck.

The cork cushions were thrown to the ladies to keep them afloat, which they used. Miss Adelaide Peck nearly drowned but the others in the water suffered no particular danger, being rescued shortly. Mrs. Duffy, Miss Fowler and her little girl, Carol Daniels, remained in the boat. The little girl was badly burned on one limb. Other injuries were only superficial. The entire party was saved by a negro who was fishing near by.—Charlotte Observer.

The Detention of Letters

Goldsboro, N. C., August 7th.—There was tried this morning by United States Commissioner, Hugh Humphrey, Samuel W. Scarborough, who was charged with the violation of section 3851, revised statutes of the United States, also section 1605, postal laws and regulations of 1902. He was a rural route carrier from Kingston and charged with detaining letters addressed on August 3, 1905, to Mr. J. Hill, of Lenoir county. The government not being ready for trial on account of absence of witness, the commissioner continued the case until August 15, requiring the defendant to give bond in the sum of $300.00. The warrant was sworn out against defendant by H. Buck, a postoffice inspector. Bond was given and the defendant was discharged from custody.

Young Acquitted

Dunn, N. C., Aug. 7.—The warrant against E. E. Young, charged him with forgery, was dismissed by Justice J. H. Godwin, upon the uncontroverted testimony of the state's witnesses today, the court finding no probable cause to sustain the charge. A large crowd had assembled to witness the trial and hear the argument of counsel, and a spontaneous outbreak of applause greeted the magistrate's decision. Ex-Governor Aycock, W. A. Stewart and J. C. Goff, all represented the defendant, and G. W. Davis and H. L. Godwin for the prosecution.—Raleigh Post.

Cotton Expert Appointed

Washington, Aug. 7.—P. L. Hutchins, formerly chief economist of the state board of agriculture of Louisiana, who is regarded as an expert in cotton statistics, has been appointed by Secretary Wilson to the position of traveling inspector of the agricultural department in the cotton district, with the understanding that he will perform duty on the cotton estimating board when called upon to do so.

No Truth in Report.

Capt. J. M. Turner, president of the Raleigh and Pamlico Sound Railroad, said last night that the report that has been floating around through the eastern part of the state that the Raleigh and Pamlico Railroad had been sold to the Atlantic Coast Line is without foundation. The work, he says is progressing very well, a large force of convicts being engaged grading the road. More than ten miles of the track is laid and a material train is being operated. -Raleigh Post.

SPIVEY-KILPATRICK.

Pretty Marriage at St. John's Church. Griffon, N. C. Aug. 8, 1905.

One of the prettiest weddings ever witnessed in this community was celebrated at St. John's Episcopal church this morning at six o'clock when Miss Florence Kilpatrick, the accomplished daughter of Mr. W. J. Kilpatrick, was married to Mr. Moses Spivey, a prominent merchant of Griffon, Rev. W. E. Cox, of Greenville, officiating.

The church was beautifully decorated in green and white with many candles lighting the chancel. Miss Corine Windle, of Washington, presided at the organ, rendering exquisitely the strains of Tanhauser and Mendelsohn. The bride party entered in the following order: Durwood Johnson and Leon Wooten ushers, Miss Mary Fleming, ring bearer, Miss Mabel Kilpatrick, sister of the bride, maid of honor.

The bride, handsomely attired in grey silk, came up the aisle leaning upon the arm of her father, while the groom, with his best man, Vance Wall, of Griffon, came in from the vestry room. A large gathering of friends witnessed the ceremony. Immediately after the marriage the bride and groom drove to Griffon and left on the north bound train for an extended bridal tour.

Young Acquitted

Dunn, N. C., Aug. 7.—The warrant against E. E. Young, charged him with forgery, was dismissed by Justice J. H. Godwin, upon the uncontroverted testimony of the state's witnesses today, the court finding no probable cause to sustain the charge. A large crowd had assembled to witness the trial and hear the argument of counsel, and a spontaneous outbreak of applause greeted the magistrate's decision. Ex-Governor Aycock, W. A. Stewart and J. C. Goff, all represented the defendant, and G. W. Davis and H. L. Godwin for the prosecution.—Raleigh Post.

Cotton Expert Appointed

Washington, Aug. 7.—P. L. Hutchins, formerly chief economist of the state board of agriculture of Louisiana, who is regarded as an expert in cotton statistics, has been appointed by Secretary Wilson to the position of traveling inspector of the agricultural department in the cotton district, with the understanding that he will perform duty on the cotton estimating board when called upon to do so.

No Truth in Report.

Capt. J. M. Turner, president of the Raleigh and Pamlico Sound Railroad, said last night that the report that has been floating around through the eastern part of the state that the Raleigh and Pamlico Railroad had been sold to the Atlantic Coast Line is without foundation. The work, he says is progressing very well, a large force of convicts being engaged grading the road. More than ten miles of the track is laid and a material train is being operated. -Raleigh Post.

Thou Shalt Not Steal.

In the business world there seems to be need of a sweeping and drastic repeal of all the many and ingenious amendments to the old law—"Thou shalt not steal!"

Observe that in its original form the law is as simple as it is brief. One has no use for a lawyer to assist him in interpreting it. A lawyer could find in it nothing wherever to pay the ingenuity for a fee. It makes no distinction between stealing that which belongs to one other person and that which belongs to the public. It takes no cognizance of the development of the corporate idea. It does not say "One shall not steal," or "A corporation shall not steal," or "Stealing may not be done, except for a good purpose or from one careless or indifferent to or ignorant of the existence of his property." It does not except stealing done by agents or with the approval of human law. It simply says "Thou," and adds "shalt not steal!"—Saturday Evening Post

Following Instructions.

"Children," said the teacher, instructing the class in composition, "you should not attempt any flights of fancy; simply be yourselves and write what is in you. Do not imitate any other person's writings or draw inspiration from outside sources."

As a result of this advice Tommy Wise turned out the following composition: "We should not attempt any flights of fancy, but write what is in us. In me there is my stomach, lungs, heart, liver, two apples, one piece of pie, one stick of lemon candy and my dinner."—Tit Bits.

Chartered Pullman is a Costly Luxury.

To carry four persons to Indianapolis the Southern yesterday afternoon dispatched by the afternoon train for the West a Pullman sleeper.

The car was chartered to carry a sick lady to her home. She is Mrs. Levi, who has been at the Battery Park Hotel, and she was accompanied by her husband, physician and nurse.

The cost of this transportation was $360. When a Pullman car is chartered it is necessary for the person engaging it to pay eighteen fares. Eighteen was the capacity of the original Pullmans, and this rule was made because it was reasoned that one who wished the exclusive use of the car should pay what the company might obtain for seats if they were sold separately. Although the modern Pullmans carry twenty-four or more persons, the charter price has not been increased.—Asheville Citizen, 5th.

Original Observations.

Stealing a kiss is simply a misdemeanor.

It takes a good farm and an industrious farmer to raise a mortgage.

It is gratifying in the extreme to have some people for your enemies. No use to attempt to commit suicide in the old way—just hire an automobile.

When marriage brings a woman to the washbasin she has a right to call it a labor union.

The difference between charity and reform is that charity sometimes begins at home.

For every man who is willing to lift, you will find a dozen willing to stand by and grunt.

One reason why the devil succeeds so well is because he always selects such hustling advance agents.—Orange, Va., Observer.

It is said that Secretary Bonaparte has ruled that no man in his department shall be damned during business hours. If that should become a universal custom it will bid fair to break up the regulation of work hours by labor unions.—Halifax Post.

The leak in the cotton statistics, according to Secretary Wilson, was discovered because "two gamblers in New York got into a quarrel over a woman." There is always a close connection between cotton and calico.—Washington Post.

Mutual. Legal Reserve.

A Home Company conducted on a safe, economical basis in the interest of its policy holders. Why we can save you money.

The oldest companies have been on a 4 per cent. reserve basis for many years. Several of them have recently changed from a 4 per cent. basis to a 3 per cent. or 3 1/2 per cent. basis, on account of a decrease in interest rates. Probably 90 per cent. of all the outstanding business is now on a 4 per cent. reserve, only the new business being on a 3 per cent. or 3 1/2 per cent. reserve. Following are the rates of a few companies on the old and new basis:—

Twenty-Payment Life. Age 35.
COMPANY	OLD RATE	NEW RATE	NEW RATE
New York Life	4 per ct.	3 1/2 per ct.	3 per ct.
Equitable	$35.00		$38.34
Prudential	35.00		38.34
Metropolitan	34.01		37.25
Mutual Benefit	33.97		36.95
Edina	31.97	$36.96	36.22
Mutual Life	35.00	36.87
North Western	34.91		37.50
Security Life & Annuity	32.60

The variation in rates of companies on the same reserve basis is due to difference in the amount added for expenses. Every policy is registered and the full legal reserve deposited with the Insurance Commissioner.

THE STORY OF A HAT.

An Amusing Experience Except Those Interested.

An amusing story—that is to say, amusing to any but the parties directly concerned—is told to account for the marked coolness between two society belles.

One of them gave a garden party recently, and the other, who was invited and whom we may call Miss A., was greatly chagrined to hear from her milliner that a new hat she had ordered for the occasion could not possibly be ready in time. Anxious to appease her customer's wrath, however, the milliner offered to lend her something from her shop.

The offer was graciously accepted, and Miss A. appeared at the garden party wearing a dainty coiffure of chiffon and flowers.

She was somewhat startled at the look of surprise and bewilderment with which the hostess regarded her headgear.

"Oh, don't look at my hat," said Miss A. "The fact is my milliner disappointed me at the last moment, and this is some wretched cheap thing she lent me until my new hat is ready."

"Indeed!" said the hostess in freezing accents. "It seems to me a more stylish and ladylike hat than you have ever worn before. But as for the milliner, I'll never forgive her. She has behaved disgracefully and ought never to be patronized again."

Between the coolness of her reception and the fervor with which the hostess denounced the milliner Miss A. was fairly nonplussed.

Then she sought counsel of a friend. "Whatever is the matter with her?" she asked, having explained the circumstances.

"I should say," was the friend's reply, "it is because you are wearing her hat, for I happen to know that she bought that identical one at your milliner's yesterday and left it behind to have some alterations made, and I don't think your remarks on it were calculated to soothe her feelings!"—London Tit-Bits.

A Captain of Industry.

For several days the policeman on the beat had observed a small boy who spent the most of his time lounging near a downtown street crossing and seemed to have nothing to do. One morning he accosted him.

"Tommy," he said, "or whatever your name is, you do entirely too much loafing around here. Hadn't you better be at home?"

"I ain't loafin'," indignantly replied the boy. "I got a reg'lar job here."

"You've got a job? What is it?" "De guy vot owns dis store pays me a dollar a week fer keepin' dis crossin' swept clean."

"But I never see you doing any work," said the policeman.

"Course not," returned the boy. "I takes de money an' lets out de job fer 50 cents a week to de kid vot's out dere sweepin' de crossin' noor. He gets his pay reg'lar an' don't have to do no head work huntin' in' jobs."—Youth's Companion.

A Story of Tom Reed.

Among the prominent men of New England there was none perhaps who wore a larger collar than Tom Reed. One hot day in the summer of 1901 Reed was in Portsmouth, and having to wait over for a train he decided to make an impromptu toilet, changing his collar, etc. So he hid himself to the nearest haberdasher's and began a general survey of the collars displayed in the store. "Waited on, sir?" queried one of the clerks. "Not yet," responded Reed, and then added, "I would like a collar." "What size?" piped the clerk. "Size 20," answered Reed. "We don't keep collars so large, but I think you may be accommodated at the store just around the corner." Reed found the store around the corner to be a haberdashery.

Franks From Caribbean Sea. They caught one fish far down in the Caribbean that had no eyes at all nor any places for eyes, but long antennae ran out from its nose by which it felt its way and found its food. Another fish, a big fellow, had eyes which grew on stems or stalks that stuck out six inches from its head. Then came one with an eye that grew on a long stem like a lily stem quite eighteen inches from the nose.—St. Nicholas.

A Lucky Dog. An astronomer does not hail the discovery of a new star with any more enthusiasm than the average physician displays over a new or rare disease. It was in this spirit that Sir Frederick Treves received the account of ailments which a distinguished patient gave him.

"Let me congratulate you," he is reported as saying. "You have, you lucky dog, a disease which was thought to be extinct!"

Caught the Tip. A quack doctor whose treatment had evidently led to the death of his patient was examined sternly by the coroner.

"You've got the poor fellow?" asked the coroner.

"Ipecacuanha, sir."

"You might just as well have given him the aurea borealis," said the coroner.

"Well, sir, that's just what I was going to give him when he died."

THE HORSE WARNED HIM.

Audubon's Description of a Kentucky Earthquake in 1812.

This vivid description of an earthquake was written by Audubon, the naturalist. It occurred in the year 1812: "Traveling through the barrens of Kentucky in the month of November, I was jogging on one afternoon when I remarked a sudden and strange darkness rising from the western horizon. I had proceeded about a mile when I heard what I imagined to be the distant rumbling of a violent tornado, on which I spurred my steed, with a wish to gallop as fast as possible to a place of shelter. But it would not do. The animal knew better than I what was forthcoming, and instead of going faster so near, he stopped. I remarked he placed one foot after another on the ground with such precaution as if walking on a smooth sheet of ice. I thought he had suddenly furnished with speaking to him, was on the point of dismounting and leading him, when he all of a sudden fell, groaning piteously, hung his head, spread out his four legs as if to save himself from falling, and stood stock still, continuing to groan."

"I thought my horse was about to die and would have sprung from his back had a minute more elapsed. But at that instant all the dense and tall trees began to move from their very roots, the ground rose and fell in successive furrows, like the ruffled water of a lake, and I became bewildered in my ideas, as I too plainly discovered that all this awful commotion in nature was the result of an earthquake. The fearful convulsion, however, lasted only a few minutes, and the heavens again brightened as quickly as they had become obscured. My horse brought his feet to their natural position, raised his head and galloped off as if loose and frolicking without a rider."

"Shock succeeded shock almost every day or night for several weeks, diminishing, however, so gradually as to dwindle away into mere vibrations of the earth. Strange to say, I for one became so accustomed to the feeling as rather to enjoy the fears manifested by others. The earthquake produced more serious consequences in other places."

She Got the Information. She had just stepped out of the street hotel and boarded a Haight street car. "Will this car take me to Haight and Fillmore streets?" she asked the conductor. "Do you want a transfer to Fillmore?" asked the conductor. "That is not an answer to my question," said the lady passenger. "Does this car go to Haight and Fillmore?" "Goes right out to the park," said the conductor. "Now, see here," said the exasperated passenger. "What is the reason you cannot answer my question? The clerk in the hotel told me that a red car going in this direction would take me to Haight and Fillmore. I don't know anything about your city and haven't bought a guide-book. Now, can't you kindly send to answer my question? Will this car take me to Haight and Fillmore?" "It will," "Thank you very much,"—San Francisco Chronicle.

Genealogy. Alexandre Dumas, the great French author, was a quadron and showed his African parentage in his woolly hair, his dark skin, his thick lips and his prodigious bodily strength. But it is needless to say that many people looked askance at him on account of it.

"Was not your father, sir, a mulatto?" a man asked him once.

"Certainly," said Dumas. "My father was a mulatto, my grandfather was a full blooded negro and my great-grandfather was a monkey!"

"Yes, My genealogy begins where yours leaves off!"

Changing Eyes. Among the extraordinary changes by which during growth the form or position of important organs is affected one of the most curious occurs in flat fish—halibut, turbot, plaice, soles and all fish which swim on the side. When hatched and for some time afterward these fish swim in the normal way and have the eyes in the usual places, one on each side. But as they grow and live on the bottom of the water they swim in the horizontal position which they assume during rest, and the eye on the lower side gradually moves around to the side turned to the light.

Caught the Tip. A quack doctor whose treatment had evidently led to the death of his patient was examined sternly by the coroner.

"You've got the poor fellow?" asked the coroner.

"Ipecacuanha, sir."

"You might just as well have given him the aurea borealis," said the coroner.

"Well, sir, that's just what I was going to give him when he died."
