

Greenville Epworth League Highly Entertained.

Friday night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Brown a literary and social meeting of the Epworth League of Greenville...

The feature of the evening was a guessing contest. Lists of questions were given out, and the answer to each question was a name of a flower.

The following program was rendered during the evening, and the participants were at their best:

Solo, by Miss Nina James, entitled Good-Bye, by Tom L.

Recitation, by Mrs. C. L. Hornaday, who was called twice more, and rendered suitable recitations to the delight of all present.

Reading, by Miss Bernece Hornaday, The Bishops of Our Church, Music.

Presentation of prizes. The number of the evening was well rendered, and much appreciated.

The singing of Miss Nina James was especially enjoyed, and deserves special mention.

F. P. Stallings, of Richmond, was in town Thursday night.

L. P. Robertson, of Petersburg, was in town Wednesday.

C. E. Boyd and T. E. Proctor, of Grimesland, visited our town Wednesday night.

D. C. Lester and family left Thursday for Eufield, Halifax and other points to visit relatives and friends.

Will Return List of August. A letter from Rev. H. H. Moore, pastor of the Christian church, written from North, Va., says that he was laid up a week at Newport News with neural fever contracted while holding the Pentecost meeting, but is now convalescing and enjoying the breeze from the Chesapeake.

Nothing on the Market Equal to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

This fact is well known to drug gists everywhere, and nine out of ten will give their customers this preparation when the best is asked for.

Sick headache results from a disordered condition of the stomach and is quickly cured by Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets.

CUT TO DEATH WHAT!

Why the Prices at Munford's Big Store

TO MAKE ROOM FOR OUR TREMENDOUS FALL STOCK WE WERE COMPELLED TO USE THE KNIFE ON ALL OF OUR PRICES.

Seeing is Believing.

NOW COME TO SEE US AND BE CONVINCED.

GOODS LOWER THAN EVER BEFORE AT

C. T. Munford's

Big Store, Greenville, N. C. Where you will find a big line of Dry Goods, Notions, Shoes, Clothing, Hats, Caps and Trunks, with prices to suit the times.

Put an End to It All. A grievous ailment comes as a result of unbearable pain from over taxed organs. Dizziness, backache, liver complaint and constipation.

The Death Penalty. A little thing sometimes results in death. Thus a mere scratch, insignificant cuts or pony bites have paid the death penalty.

End of Bitter Fight. Two physicians had a long and stubborn fight with an abscess on my right lung.

THE EASTERN REFLECTOR.

D. J. WHICHARD, Editor and Owner. Twice-a-Week--Tuesday and Friday. GREENVILLE, PITT COUNTY, NORTH CAROLINA, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1905. ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR IN ADVANCE. No. 70

ATTACKED WITH HATCHET.

Negro Murderously Assaults Lady Postmaster. The Negro is Lynched. New Bern, N. C., Aug. 25. While Mrs. G. T. Eubanks, the postmaster at Clark's, a place eight miles west of this city, was in the office attending to her duties, a negro man, John Moore, entered the office and demanded money.

THESEQUEL.

New Bern, N. C., Aug. 25. Saturday night at one o'clock a mob of about 100 masked men came in town and demanded the jail keys. They overpowered the jailer and took the negro from the prison, proceeding to New River bridge where they hung him to the draw and riddled his body with bullets.

Homicide at Kinston.

Kinston, N. C., Aug. 28. A homicide occurred here about midnight on Saturday night. Albert Albritton, a young negro man, was the victim and Harry Watson, also colored, is in jail charged with committing the crime.

Popular Man and Popular Shoe.

W. O. Shannon, representative of the Geo. D. Witt Shoe Co., of Lynchburg, Va., is in town waiting on his trade.

Dr. Nobles Doing Well.

Dr. J. E. Nobles, who went to Norfolk last Friday for treatment in the hospital for appendicitis, was operated upon soon after arrival there and is reported to be getting along well.

He Deserves Success.

W. J. Turnage is generous with his bus. He takes the reporter of THE DAILY REFLECTOR from the train any time she wishes to go with him.

Good Opera Season Ahead.

Manager J. M. Reuss tells us he has a number of excellent troops booked for the Masonic temple opera house the coming season.

FOUND A BLIND TIGER.

Conducted by a Woman Near the River. Saturday night there was a difficulty between some of the white women of ill repute inhabiting quarters in the vicinity of the wharf. Annie Smith assaulted and beat Harriet Taylor.

TWO LADIES IN ACCIDENT.

Horse Dodges and Throws Them From Buggy. Miss Lillian Nobles was coming to town this afternoon, from her home six miles in the country, bringing Mrs. Bettie Harrison who had been visiting her mother.

A SPUNKY GIRL.

She Served the Young Man Exactly Right. Here is a rainbow bubble floating on the surface of the social swim in this city. A short time since a girl from another part of the state was the guest of leading Fayetteville family.

Go To The Country.

Fresh country air is wholesome and a sovereign remedy for many of the ills that afflict the weary city dweller.

Almost a Homicide.

At Willow Green, just across the line in Greene county, Saturday night, Charles Turnage, colored, was struck on the head with a club by another darkey and severely wounded.

Ankle Sprained.

On Friday evening when about to go out the door, Miss Ethel Lincoln made a misstep and sprained an ankle.

Rid of a Nuisance.

"We have certainly got rid of a big nuisance," remarked Mark Quizer this morning.

THE TOBACCO CROP.

Condition Poor and Price Too Low. In looking over the government report on tobacco acreage and condition of the crop of 1905, issued July 21st, we find that the bright yellow North Carolina belt is estimated at 93 per cent of last year's crop and that the condition is 85 per cent.

From the best that we can learn from all the markets we do not believe the crop one half as good as it was last year.

We regret very much that the crop is not selling better than it is. It seems, however, that it is a very unsatisfactory crop to both the buyer and seller.

"Pleasant Home Surroundings"

Mr. P. C. Cooke, Asheville, N. C., writing of the Bingham school of Mebane, says, "We all note such a decided improvement in my brother, Eugene, that I take it my duty to express to you and your associates my sincere gratitude that he has been so carefully trained and well cared for."

SEMI-WEEKLY - TUESDAY AND FRIDAY.

D. J. WHICHARD, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR

Entered in the post office at Greenville, N. C., as second class matter.

Truth in Reference to Fiction

GREENVILLE, PITT COUNTY, N. C., FRIDAY, SEPT. 1, 1905.

The aldermen of Wilmington run up against the "blue laws" and then sat down.

Those peace envoys are having too big a time to be in much of a hurry about it.

Those two revenue doodlers who made the assault on Editor Deal will have time to reflect on it in jail.

From the way the papers keep talking there must have been some bad eggs in that Charlotte encampment.

Not a cent, says the czar, while Japan says a billion. Plenty of margin between the two figures for a compromise.

Now it is in order for New Bern to stand and take her share of the lambasting from the Northern end of the pike.

If the sun wants to rise in partial eclipse, Thursday morning, that's his business. We shall not rise to interfere with it.

The number of crimes committed in the last few days exceeds the impression that his Satanic Majesty has turned loose again.

If, as the Richmond judge says, calling a man a liar is equivalent to the first blow, Mr. Fife has hit a big bunch of North Carolinians.

The president's strenuousity is manifest in his persistent efforts to bring about peace, even in the face of gloomy prospects of success.

The Russians seem to put up a stronger fight in the peace conference than they did on the battle field. But the days may succeed in landing them.

The Charlotte Observer raises its voice in favor of "university" pie. The fellows waiting to reach the pie counter would be glad to get any kind.

"Russia's last word," is the heading in one of the Sunday papers to the proceedings of the peace conference. We did not know Russia is dead, even if she is licked.

The dispatches say a schooner struck a bar in Massachusetts and went down. How about when a man strikes a bar and swallows a schooner? He is likely to go down, too.

The secretary sends out a very handsome premium list of the state fair to be held in Raleigh Oct. 16-21. The list of premiums offered exhibits is very liberal. Having President Roosevelt for a drawing card gives promise to a very large attendance at the approaching fair.

A South African has come all the way to this country to search for diamonds in Kentucky and the two Carolinas. He says they are here, and we hope he will find them, yet every land owner should not get crazed with the idea that there are diamond mines hid around his place.

The lynching at New Bern is receiving just condemnation throughout the state. Death was no worse punishment than the negro deserved for the crime, as his intention was to commit murder, but the manner of his execution by a mob was adding another crime as bad as the one he had committed.

Two years ago the safe of the treasurer of Yadkin county was robbed of about $8,000. The treasurer appealed to the legislature for relief and an act was passed submitting to a vote of the people of the county the question of the county losing half of the amount and the treasurer half. The election was recently held and the proposition defeated. This means that public officials are responsible for the safety of funds in their hands and it is their duty to keep such funds where robbers cannot reach them.

Asheville is realizing the benefits that come from a city judiciously advertising its advantages and attractiveness. A recent census of the city shows that the city was entertaining 4,770 guests, who, at a low estimate, were turning loose $10,000 a day in the city. When you have a good thing it pays to let the balance of the world know it. Even a small town can profit by the example of Asheville. Such benefits come only through cooperation and talking up the advantages of a town for all they are worth.

In the $20,000 damage suit tried at Greensboro last week of Osborn against Leach and the Raleigh News and Observer, the jury returned a verdict for $4,000 against the two defendants. The court thought the verdict excessive and offered to reduce it fifty per cent. If the defendants would agree to that basis, the defendants declined, arguing that the evidence showed that the plaintiff had suffered no damage whatever, and the case went to the Supreme court on appeal. On the first ballot half of the jurors voted for a verdict of one penny and costs.

A Paris newspaper arose with the suggestion that Rockefeller come forward and pay the indemnity for Russia. The oil magnate is not hurrying to respond. It would cause too sudden a rise in the price of oil to make so large a sum.

The two revenue officers who some time ago made a vicious assault upon Editor R. A. Deal, of the Wilkesboro Chronicle, have been convicted in the Superior court. One of them got a sentence of six months in jail and the other three months.

It is said that Bishop C. B. Gallows, president of Vanderbilt University at Nashville, Tenn., has cancelled his engagement there and gone to New Orleans as a volunteer in the yellow fever scourge to help relieve the suffering. True Christian character marks the man in such a step as that.

Greenville should not stay behind the other progressive towns of the state. Lets get together and have a Pitt county home coming week. It will give old friends long separated a good opportunity for mingling together, besides be a big time for the town and county. The business men would do well to make a move in this direction.

Almost every day some business man speaks to us about the need of a co-operative spirit in Greenville to work for the advancement of the town. All admit that a chamber of commerce or board of trade could accomplish much in this direction. THE REFLECTOR likes to hear the business men talk about these things but would much rather see them taking action. There are many things right now that could be brought about to help the business interests of the town if there was an organized effort behind them. As long as we go on without action there cannot be much progress.

Yes, the suppression is already in evidence, and our appetite is whetted in anticipation of the early arrival of the luscious James. When these have passed away Jack frost will have the persimmon mellow enough for "possum beer," to be followed by Thanksgiving day and Christmas. Always something to be thankful for if we will only look out for them.

It is to be considered that Japan is today in a position where she can enforce almost every demand she makes of Russia. Russia is not asked to give up anything she has possession of, save the indemnity. An indemnity is not more costly than war, and it is all that Russia has any choice about.—Louisville Post.

In view of the dispensary agitation in South Carolina, The Charleston News and Courier has sent to Georgia for ammunition. It is found that "prohibition prohibits" in 103 counties in that state. Local option and county dispensaries without state control appear to solve the liquor question in Georgia.—Charlotte Chronicle.

THE MATTER.

The Greenville REFLECTOR turns itself toward Raleigh long enough to enquire: "Say! if the jail is too confining for Mr. Rogers and Mr. Sorrell, and that their health has been very much impaired by the confinement, what's the matter of sending them to the roads? This would afford plenty of fresh air and exercise for them."

We beg to inform our friend that "Wake county officials are in the habit of obeying the orders of the court, which in this instance was presided over by Judge W. R. Allen, and who expressly declared from the bench that he would not send these men to the roads."

And that's what the matter "of it"—Raleigh Post.

Then it must have been the idea of the judge that they should stay where they are. So let the noise over it stop.

Solicitors that prosecute and jurors that convict should keep their names off of petitions for executive clemency.—Durham Herald.

A first-class man cannot afford to go to Congress for $5,000 a year. He is not willing to surrender freedom and affluence at home to take poverty and slavery at Washington. He prefers to make Senators than to being a Senator himself.—Louisville Courier Journal.

The man who can sit for two hours at a theatrical performance and stand on his feet for the same length of time at a political speaking some times finds himself unable to spend half that much time discussing ways and means to advance the interests of his town.—Winston Sentinel.

A reward of $50 has been offered by the governor for the arrest of a murderer in Pitt county. This looks like a small reward for the apprehension of a murderer, and yet it might be just as well not to offer any at all. If arrested and tried it is doubtful if the punishment would be any greater in proportion than the reward offered. Human life is highly cheap in North Carolina.—Henderson Gold Leaf.

Those people who think that it is necessary to seek the mountains or healing springs for long life are hereby reminded of their mistake by the fact that Greenville has a colored resident who is 117 years old. The REFLECTOR says that last year he had a touch of rheumatism and in order to get rid of it he cut wood, saying "cutting wood is a good cure for rheumatism." That is a cheaper remedy than journeying to the springs.—Raleigh News and Observer.

The Naval Intelligence Bureau at Washington has issued a revised table showing the naval strength of the seven chief nations of the world. The United States in total tonnage fourth, being outranked by Great Britain, France and Germany. This country stands fifth in the number of battleships, seventh in armored cruisers, fourth in cruisers above 6,000 tons, seventh in torpedo boats, sixth in torpedo boat destroyers and fifth in submarines. If any of us tremble over these standings below the top we may console ourselves, however, with the reflection that we stand first in marksmanship and quality of the men behind the guns and in two or three years we shall have doubled our number of battle ships and have multiplied our big armored cruisers by six.—Elmira (N. Y.) Gazette.

The Word "Cigar." I believed to come from the Spanish cigars, meaning a grasshopper, and at first the significance and propriety of the term seem questionable. But in Spanish a garden was cigarral, or the place where the grasshopper sang. Tobacco was usually grown in a cigarral, and when the leaves were rolled up and brought to a guest the host, specially to recommend the product, was careful to state that it was grown in his own cigarral. Thus the word which means grasshopper came, in a modified form, to be applied to the habit of the grasshopper and finally to the cigar, whose material was grown there.

THE BOTTOM OF THE SEA.

Sailors Say There's No Luck in a Ship That Has Seen It.

New islands at times rise up from and fall back into the ocean. An island suddenly came to light on the coast of Sicily, remained for two months and as quickly disappeared. Sabrina, near the Azores, retired from public life before it was fairly chartered. The Gulf of Mexico has witnessed the ascent and subsidence of small islands. These upheavals of the bed of the ocean suggest all sorts of mysteries connected with the unknown depths. An uncanny experience is related in the Pall Mall Magazine:

Our ship was out twenty-three days from Manila to the Sandwich Islands. It was a silent, dead black night. The lead showed deep water. Suddenly we felt as if we had ground. The mate suggested a sunken wreck, but the skipper stuck to the theory of earthquake. Subsequent events showed that he was right.

Daybreak revealed a low and misty sky. We lay as if becalmed in the midst of an oily sea, strangely disclosed in patches. Suddenly the vessel started across the streaky calmness. Then the vapor settled over all, and we could hear but not see the seething and pouring water all about us. The captain ordered a bucketful to be drawn up. It was hot and smelled like gas works.

"It's!" remarked the skipper as he snuffed it. "They're poking up a new continent. I wish we were out of it."

The air grew more oppressive every moment. The vessel gave a gentle side roll, and word was passed that we were aground. Over went the lead and came up covered with sludge. There were three of the dragging, roaring blasts, and all was again still.

When the light came, red and unnatural, a strange sight met our eyes. It was as if the bottom of the Pacific was laid bare. We were helpless in a sea of thick mud. The sulphur fumes were choking, and we had to take refuge below. Hour after hour we gasped, facing the possibility of death by suffocation. Suddenly we felt that we were afloat. Whatever the bank of mud that held us, it had disappeared, and after a time we made our way out of the greenish ooze.

When we reached Honolulu the crew deserted. "There's no luck in a ship that has seen the bottom of the sea," they said.

A Boy See Eater. A boy see eater is described by the Rev. Gilbert White as having lived in the neighborhood of Salisbury. He was workaholic and is said to have passed the winter doing by the fire in a half torpid state, but when the bees and wasps reappeared he also woke to active life and hunted them constantly for food. He had no fear of their stings, which, however, he extracted before sticking their bodies, as was his custom. He made himself a nuisance to the backkeepers about by robbing the lives of their inmates, even some host occurrences.

Sunday Trains and Sunday Letters.

The Argus is entirely right in lifting its voice against mail delivery on Sunday in Lumberton. It is too demoralizing to be thought of. It is done in that town it will be because the church members did it. What a thought! Either ignorance of the teachings of the scriptures or most deplorable worldliness in the church must explain it. At least springs there is mail delivery, but no good people there are going to make an effort to put an end to it and they are going to succeed. Running trains where the gathering of people at stations where trains arrive is very corrupting. It is a shameful so high handed a practice does not awaken protest and persistence to arrest it. The two pillars on which the state and the church rest absolutely is the sacredness of the marriage and the Sabbath. The state prospers as the Sabbath is properly observed. It declines in proportion to the laxity of its observance. The church it is concluded could not live in the world but for the Christian Sabbath. He who loves the church and the state will contend earnestly for the Christian Sabbath.—P. R. Law in The Robesonian

What Are We Coming To?

We are living in an age that is rapidly getting away from the good old homely ways of our childhood. It is very probable that coming generations will never know the sweets of the "good old times" when life was not such a rush and hurly-burly.

A suburb in New York is now trying to suppress the crowing of roosters and the barking of dogs in the town between the hours of ten at night and six in the morning.

The Charlotte News contends that "the people up there are drifting away from nature as fast as they can. What would a dog or a cock crow for? The next thing we hear they'll be attempting to stop babies from crying."

Well, some of them do, and it is a horrible state of affairs.—Durham Sun.

It is gravely announced that the foot falls of a fly can now be registered by scientific instruments. It would be more like business to put in that time cutting off the bills of mosquitoes.—Raleigh Post.

Quite likely newspapers frequently overstep legal bounds in publishing what is really news. Some do it thoughtlessly, others do it for meanness, for spite, but in this part of the country this class is small. The London libel law is said by some to be discriminating, in that it lets a newspaper out where an individual cannot get out. Maybe it does. All this reminds us that things in this world are not put on an absolutely equitable and fair basis. For instance, were a newspaper to make such charges against a man's character as are frequently made by an attorney in court, it would be mulcted in short order. We know, of course, that sometimes the attorney is justified by the evidence in making such charges, but some times—in fact very often—he is not justified, yet it is done before a jury and a court room full of people. There seems to be no law to reach cases of this kind, though occasionally we hear of a man lambasting a lawyer on the streets for such abuse, in which case, should court still be in session at the time, the lambaster is yanked up for contempt. And so it is that things are not equal by any means.—Greensboro Record.

The Reserved Seat. The train was crowded, with the exception of one seat. This had been reserved to various people, the lady who occupied one-half of it, telling every one who tried to sit down that "this seat is reserved," down that "this seat is reserved," down that "this seat is reserved," followed by an elderly woman—her grandmother. The child called her grandmother to take the seat, but the imaginary owner objected, saying as before, "This seat is reserved." The eyes of the child were black, and they lighted up with indignation. She turned on the selfish woman and said in a voice loud enough to be heard through the car: "I don't care if it is reserved. It isn't fair to preserve a seat when my grandmother has to stand. Besides, every one says my grandmother is a wonderful well preserved lady, so she's just going to sit down here." And she did, to the enjoyment of every one in the car save the woman who sat beside her.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Singular Product of Hawaii.

One of the most singular products of Hawaii is a vitreous lava known as "Pele's hair." It is a silky, filamentous substance, olive green or yellowish brown in color, soft, but brittle. It has been thought to be produced by the wind catching the fiery spray thrown up from the crater of Kilauea (which the Hawaiians long since personified as the fire goddess Pele), but the real cause of the lava forming into such soft, silky fibers is believed to be the gas and steam escaping through the lava. Nearly all the native birds of Hawaii use it as a nest building material.

A Queer Blunder.

Many queer blunders are attributed to Marshal MacMahon of France. It is related of him that once when he visited the military school of St. Cyr he encountered a negro soldier. The color of his skin at once attracted the worthy marshal, who said, with some surprise: "Vous etes negre, n'est-ce pas?" "Oui, M. le Marechal." "Ah, tres bien; continuez de marcher." "This might be rendered: "Ah, I see you are a negro." "Yes, M. le Marechal." Here the marshal paused. "Not knowing what to say, he added: "Ah, that is well. Continue to be so?"

The Limit of Satisfaction. There was an expression of extreme satisfaction on Miss Hennessy's face as she was exhibiting her new gown to a number of friends the other day. "My dear, you seem supremely satisfied with your dress," remarked some one. "Well, why shouldn't I be?" replied Miss H. "It has been approved by the town I like best and condemned by the woman I hate most."

THE SNAKY OCTOPUS.

How It Feels to Be Clutched by This Marine Monster.

My first experience of the octopus, writes Frank T. Bullen in "Creations of the Sea," was in a little bay in Stewart Island, New Zealand. A small river flowed into this bay, notable for its fine flounders, and the crew of the ship discovered that the easiest way of catching them was to wade about on the fine sandy bed with bare feet, the water being only up to mid-thigh, and when they felt the flat body wriggling under their soles to tread firmly and stoop, groping in the sand until they had the flounder safe between finger and thumb. Then they would raise him and put him in the bag strapped across their shoulders.

By and by we discovered that the nearer the sea the finer the flounders, and so one sunny afternoon I was wading in the bay near the mouth of the rivulet and picking up some fine specimens. Suddenly I trod upon something like a blob of jelly, fearing a sting, I made to step off, only to feel both my legs gripped in several places by something that clung as if it would eat into the flesh.

I stooped and felt a long, whip-like tentacle twisted around my right leg. I tore it off and felt a numbing pain which made me quite giddy. But no sooner had I removed one snaky thing than another held me and another and another. The water was shallow, but I began to feel as if I must be dragged down, drowned and devoured by this horrible thing.

Fortunately I retained some presence of mind, and, drawing my sheath knife, I reached down cautiously to where I felt the monster with my right hand, and avoiding my bare feet, I stabbed steadily into the central part of the beast. I was successful, for presently I felt the clutch of the tentacles around my legs relax. I saw the water stained with squid, and I smelled the odor of stale musk, which all cuttlefish emit when disturbed.

I felt quite certain that had I been laid hold of in water out of my depth by one of these creatures only a miracle could have saved me from drowning.

The Reserved Seat. The train was crowded, with the exception of one seat. This had been reserved to various people, the lady who occupied one-half of it, telling every one who tried to sit down that "this seat is reserved," down that "this seat is reserved," down that "this seat is reserved," followed by an elderly woman—her grandmother. The child called her grandmother to take the seat, but the imaginary owner objected, saying as before, "This seat is reserved." The eyes of the child were black, and they lighted up with indignation. She turned on the selfish woman and said in a voice loud enough to be heard through the car: "I don't care if it is reserved. It isn't fair to preserve a seat when my grandmother has to stand. Besides, every one says my grandmother is a wonderful well preserved lady, so she's just going to sit down here." And she did, to the enjoyment of every one in the car save the woman who sat beside her.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Singular Product of Hawaii.

One of the most singular products of Hawaii is a vitreous lava known as "Pele's hair." It is a silky, filamentous substance, olive green or yellowish brown in color, soft, but brittle. It has been thought to be produced by the wind catching the fiery spray thrown up from the crater of Kilauea (which the Hawaiians long since personified as the fire goddess Pele), but the real cause of the lava forming into such soft, silky fibers is believed to be the gas and steam escaping through the lava. Nearly all the native birds of Hawaii use it as a nest building material.

A Queer Blunder.

Many queer blunders are attributed to Marshal MacMahon of France. It is related of him that once when he visited the military school of St. Cyr he encountered a negro soldier. The color of his skin at once attracted the worthy marshal, who said, with some surprise: "Vous etes negre, n'est-ce pas?" "Oui, M. le Marechal." "Ah, tres bien; continuez de marcher." "This might be rendered: "Ah, I see you are a negro." "Yes, M. le Marechal." Here the marshal paused. "Not knowing what to say, he added: "Ah, that is well. Continue to be so?"

The Limit of Satisfaction. There was an expression of extreme satisfaction on Miss Hennessy's face as she was exhibiting her new gown to a number of friends the other day. "My dear, you seem supremely satisfied with your dress," remarked some one. "Well, why shouldn't I be?" replied Miss H. "It has been approved by the town I like best and condemned by the woman I hate most."

THE TOWER OF SILENCE.

Grotesque Burial Place of the Parsees of Bombay.

High above Bombay, on the freest and most airy spot of the city and 300 feet above the level of the sea, rises the most peculiar structure of the Parsees. It is called the Tower of Silence.

These Towers of Silence are found everywhere in Persia, where the corpse, placed under the open sky, is dried by the sun and dissolved by the rain. But in Bombay, where the burial place is limited and where death and misery invite the vultures in greatest numbers, the disinterment is considerably hastened by these carrion eaters.

The tower itself consists of a stone wall thirty feet high, forming a circle about 300 feet in diameter—a roofless tower. The floor, made of cement, is an inclined plane, terminating in a deep and wide well, which is divided into three concentric circles, within which are standing side by side the low, open sarcophagi. These circles are connected by wide drain gutters, leading to the wall in the center of the building. The men are laid in the outer, the women in the middle and children in the inner circle.

The whole inner construction reminds one of the inside of a classical amphitheater, only that in this tower the players—the corpses and the vultures—occupy the place of the spectators, while the center—the arena—is occupied by the wall, fifty feet in diameter.

Having entered the iron door leading into the tower, the khandaris immediately secure the pieces of clothing, for Zoroaster has said: "Naked thou comest into the world, and naked shalt thou depart therefrom." The body is then passed into one of the vacant niches in the wall. In a few minutes the place is covered with vultures, which in the course of an hour devour every vestige of flesh on the fresh corpse, while the blood runs down through the drain canals down into the well. The skeleton only remains, or remains placed as though it had been cleaned in the chambers of an anatomical institution.

It is claimed that the burning rays of the sun and the heavy rains have dissolved the skeleton and piece-meal worked it down the wall, where the remaining pieces of bones are further dissolved in a mixture of lime and sulphur, while the blood and fluids are strained through a heavy layer of coal and sand and enter the undisturbed ground of the Parsees as pure water.

It is claimed that this mode of burial is the most cleanly of all methods and, from the standpoint of hygiene, the most safe. Certainly as it is practiced in the land of its origin, where the forces of nature—sun and rain—perform the entire operation, it does not appear at all horrible.—Los Angeles Times.

Badly Written Letters.

Comelios without number have resulted from badly written letters. Charles Kingsley one night when his wife was desperately ill received a note from Ivan Stanley. He perused it long over it. "I have every reason to believe," he said, "that it is a very kind letter of sympathy from Stanley. I am sure it is. Yet the only two words that I can even guess at are 'heartless devil.'" Lord Curzon once had a lucky escape because of his wretched writing. Sending off two letters, he put them into wrong envelopes and forwarded to a relative one which contained unimportant references to the recipient. He received in reply a note saying, "Can't read a word of your four pages, but guess you want some money, you young rascal." And in the letter was a bank note.

A Gymnastic Marvel.

There are odd illusions of all varieties. Some are due to mirage, and some are not. A little boy who was drilling a squad of classmates at recess found difficulty in getting them to march properly.

"Lift your right leg!" he called. "Lift your right leg!" "Things went very well until Patsy Hennessy forgot and lifted his left leg, which happened to be clad in trousers like those of the boy next him, who was obedient in holding up his right leg. "The drillmaster stopped aghast. "You can't do that, Pat Hennessy!" he called. "You're holding up both legs?"

Remembered Him.

After a recent banquet one of the diners, having tipped the table waiter, the wine waiter and every waiter within sight, was confronted by still another of them. "You'll remember me?" was the murmur. "Let me see," what have you done for me?" "Tootlick, sir," was the reply as the waiter indicated the horrid and mused implements. "Remember you?" exclaimed the diner, having a general hazy notion of his doer. "I shall never, never, forget your lovely face."

PEACE TERMS REACHED.

Japanese and Russian Envoys Reach Agreement That Will End the War... Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 29--Peace between Russia and Japan was practically concluded at this morning's session of the peace conference.

The official account of this afternoon's meeting was given by Mr. Sato on his arrival at the hotel. It is as follows:

In the afternoon session of August 29, the conference has discussed the details of the treaty of peace. It has been decided to entrust the drafting of the treaty to privy councillors DeMartens and Mr. Dennison, legal adviser of the Foreign Office of Japan.

The following statement was issued by Mr. Sato on behalf of the Japanese plenipotentiaries: "The questions of the final disposition of the island of Sakhalin and the reimbursement to Japan of her war expenses have from the first been issues on which absolute divergence of views existed."

Under date of Aug. 22nd an "harmless correspondence" contained a paragraph reading as follows: "Charles and Walter were in Washington Sunday. Unfortunately they were taken for suspicious characters and spent the greater portion of the day in the lockup."

The Weekly Crop Bulletin for the week ending Monday, August 28, 1905, says of conditions in North Carolina:

In general the weather has been too wet for the best growth of crops; the week has been cloudy and in many places rain has fallen every day. Cotton has been injured to a considerable extent by the rains, bottom land corn has been drowned and the land badly washed.

Deputy Sheriff Dudley had a lively tussle with a negro, Joan Abe Scott, whom he went out to arrest Monday afternoon. The negro showed fight and they were both down rolling in the dirt for a time, but the officer came out on top.

Fire caused $35,000 damage to the Blades knitting mills at New Bern, Sunday afternoon.

A man near Wilmington snatched and killed his brother-in-law, supposing him to be a burglar.

An election in Vanceboro on the question of license or no license resulted in a tie vote.

Waynesville society was started Monday morning, says the Courier to learn that a number of young men, some of them members of the best families, were up before the mayor for gambling and gambling Sunday night.

Washington, Aug. 29--The Weather Bureau's weekly summary of crop conditions says: In some northeastern counties of Texas, in Arkansas and in portions of Mississippi, Alabama, and Georgia, improvement in the condition of cotton is indicated.

Under date of Aug. 22nd an "harmless correspondence" contained a paragraph reading as follows: "Charles and Walter were in Washington Sunday. Unfortunately they were taken for suspicious characters and spent the greater portion of the day in the lockup."

The Way Girls Talk.

Rev. P. R. Law, the lumber bridge editor of The Lumbeonian, cannot understand the way some of the present day girls carry on conversation.

What he has in mind is the meeting of four girls who all begin talking at the same time and keep it up continuously. "The auditor," he says, "can hear but a few words. Perhaps the girls hear and it is sense throughout. To us it is a jumble of sounds and no more. Each one appears really ecstatic. The enjoyment is obvious. By unwritten law no discourtesy whatever is perpetrated. Each breaks in upon the narratives of the other at will. To get a hearing the voice is at times raised high. Really, it looks like each is excited for fear some other will say it first. There arises in all an instantaneous impulse to talk and talk they must or explode." Mr. Law wonders if this universal practice was exploded by our schools for girls, these colloquialisms are as well as noisy! Hardly. Nor would we like to be the school teacher who would undertake to break up the habit. But, seriously, Mr. Law is not the only one who has observed this practice. It is something that man may comment on, but not interfere with.—Charlotte Evening Chronicle.

Exactly. Just as soon as we mentioned that the train had improved it jumped back late.
