If the speck can be seen on look ing into the mirror it may often be oved by the tip of a cone made by folding the handkerchief several times. Sometimes a friend can see the speck by looking into the eye with a magnifying glass and can remove it by gently touching it the handkerchief cone.

This is all any one should tempt, and if these gentle efforts fail to dislodge the cinder no time should be lost in seeking the help of a physician, who may take it away before inflammation or ulceration comes to complicate the accident. Youth's Companion.

Couldn't Smell Anything Wrong James Whitcomb Riley, in co pany with the gentleman who used to manage his lecture tours, was once examining a hall in a town in Ohio where it was proposed Mr. Riley should give a reading. The two men had as their guide a colored janitor who was quite talkative. Mr. Riley observed that he janitor made use of long words of whose meaning he was ignorant. So the poet determined to have a little fun with him. All at once Mr. Riley began to sniff the atmosphere critically "It seems to me, Jim," he said sternly, "that the acousties in this place are pretty bad."

"Why, boss," said the janitor reproachfully, "yo' shore must be mistaken. I don't smell anything."

Original Alarm Clocks. Mr. Rockhill in his "Diary of a Tibet" mentions a curiously ingenious device employed by Mongolian lletter carriers.

These carriers make very long journeys on foot and within a time which allows them only the briefest intervals for an occasional nap. To insure themselves against oversleeping, therefore, they tie a piece of joss stick to one of their thumbs, light it and lie down to rest. When the stick burns down to the flesh the pain arakens them, and they resume their journey.
