A Splendid Act.

A splendid example of young North Carolina manhood has been shown at the A. and M. College by a young cadet from Anson county. This is Mr. H. Gaddy, who had won a free scholarship in the college. Recently some property was left to him, and on receiving it Mr. Gaddy gave up the scholarship and donated to the loan fund a sum of money equal to that which he had received in use of the scholarship. It was a graceful and splendid act.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Our after Christmas clearing and stock adjusting sale will commence with the New Year. The holiday rushing has left us with broken lots, odd sizes and season goods such as the economical shopper is always on the lookout for. QUINERLY SCHOOL BURNED.

Building And Contents Entirely Destroyed

About 11 o'clock Friday night the Quinerly school building, located about 4 miles from Grifton, was destroyed by fire, including all the school furniture and library. How the fire originated is a mystery, as the roof of the building was falling in when first discovered by people of the neighborhood. Nothing whatever could be saved from the building. The school had dismissed at the usual hour Friday afternoon, and the fire in the heaters had not been replenished since noon, so it was not thought any fire was left in the building.

The Quinerly school had about the best rural school building in the county, costing above $1,000, was well equipped and had a splendid library. Its destruction is a serious loss. Messrs. L. J. Chapman and J. P. Quinerly, two of the trustees, came to Greenville on the morning train to consult with County Superintendent W. H. Ragsdale about the matter, and the latter tells us that immediate arrangements will be made for the school to continue until the building can be replaced. The school has 64 pupils and is the pride of all that section.

A HARD JOB?

Yes, And We'll All See It When Its Done.

A man who loves a joke and always has an answer ready for the over inquisitive, got a chance to put in some of his work yesterday and came in to let us help him laugh over it. The joker happened to be standing on the corner while civil engineers were taking levels on the street near the court house. One of the want-to-know-it-all came along and asked "What are those fellows over there going to do to the court house?" "Oh, they are going to move it back fifteen feet further from the street to make more room for the new railroad to come through," was the reply he got. And the inquisitive fellow went on believing it, but added as he took a further look at the temple of justice "I'll bet its a right hard job to move it."

FREIGHT TRAIN WRECK.

Greenville Man Among the Passengers.

On Monday afternoon there was a wreck of the freight train on the Plymouth branch of the Atlantic Coast Line. The wreck occurred about two miles below Everetts and was caused by the box car just in front of the coach jumping the track. This car was considerably damaged and the track was torn up for some distance. Several passengers were in the coach and they had a narrow escape. Mr. E. H. Shelburn, of Greenville, was among the passengers and sustained a slight injury to one foot.

THE GOLDEN AGE.

A Magazine That All Should Have

The Golden Age is a new magazine designed to interest children and at the same time instruct them. It is really of North Carolina origin. Its North Carolina character is shown in the personnel of the publishing company, and in some of the contributors to the magazine.

OFFICERS OF THE COMPANY.

The officers of the Junior Publishing, the proprietor and publisher of The Golden Age, are, with one exception, originally North Carolinians:

President, Supt. Jno. H. Haaren, of the New York City schools.

Vice President, David F. St. Clair, originally of Moore county, at one time editor of the Charlotte Chronicle, and later of Success magazine, New York.

Treasurer, Logan D. Howell, once superintendent of schools at Turboro, later at Goldsboro, and afterwards at Raleigh.

Secretary, Frank C. Mebane, formerly of Rockingham county. These, with Hayne Davis, formerly of Statesville, are the directors of the company.

CONTRIBUTORS.

The Golden Age is edited by Logan D. Howell. Among the contributors during 1906 will be: Ex-Governor Aycock. Lieutenant-Governor Winston. President Potat, Wake Forest College.

Professor Cobb, of the University.

Professor Mims, of Trinity College.

Professor Burkett, of the Agricultural and Mechanical College.

Superintendent Blair, of Wilmington.

THE FIRST NUMBER.

The first number has just been published. It presents the most attractive appearance of all the holiday magazines, containing many articles of special interest to North Carolinians.

The front is ornamented with a picture in three colors, of the birth of Jesus. This picture is the work of Miss Caroline Fulghum, of the Goldsboro graded school.

The whole appearance of The Golden Age is handsome and artistic to a degree. It is liberally illustrated, and with pictures that appeal to children.

THE WORK OF BOYS AND GIRLS.

An attractive feature of The Golden Age is the amateur department, stories written and illustrated by school boys and girls. The editor invites the young writers and artists to contribute to this department.

The stories may be true narratives of something the writer has seen or done, or a description of some interesting thing, place, or person, or they may be fiction. But everything must be original; no reproductions are wanted.

The pictures may be either drawings or photographs of anything interesting.

A VALUABLE PRESENT.

The Golden Age is the best present that can be given to a boy or girl.

USEFUL TO TEACHERS.

It is of value to teachers in that it supplies material for supplementary work in literature, English composition, history, geography, nature, music and civics.

THE PRICE.

Price $1.00 a year; 10 cents a copy. Miss Ophelia Howell, of Goldsboro, is now in Greenville canvassing for The Golden Age and will be glad to take your order.

FIRE IN AYDEN SUNDAY MORNING

FIVE STORES AND LARGE QUANTITY OF GOODS DESTROYED.

LOSS REACHES $25,000 ONLY ABOUT ONE-THIRD INSURED

A Handsome Brick Block Will Take Place Of The Burned Buildings.

Ayden, N. C. Jan. 15th, 1906.

Saturday night, or rather early Sunday morning, between the hours of 4 and 5 o'clock fire was discovered issuing from the store of S. W. Tyson on Main street. The alarm was promptly given and our citizens were as equally prompt to respond to the call. Heroic efforts were made to subdue the flames, but not until the stores of W. C. Jackson & Co., S. W. Tyson, P. S. Cannon, J. H. Tripp & Bro. and Horton & McLawhorn with the restaurant of A. Horton, W. H. Dew barber shop and a pressing establishment were entirely consumed.

The large stores on South side of street occupied by Quinerly Bros. and J. J. Edwards & Son barely escaped. The handsome residence of J. J. Edwards on Lee street was at all times in imminent danger, and it was by only the most strenuous efforts that these and other buildings were saved. Everybody worked, and worked faithfully. We do not think too much credit can be given C. A. Fair and Bob Morton, colored. They were in the thickest of the fight, and where the fire was hottest there they could be found and were the last to leave the scene triumphant in a duty nobly performed and a victory magnificently achieved.

Without any means at command with which to fight our people took to the duties of the grand jurors, their absolute independence in authority and how their every act should be guarded with secrecy.

There were many good things said by Judge Long to which space does not permit reference today, but more will be said of them later.

The court begins with about 140 cases on the docket, and with the new cases that will be passed on by the grand jury the outlook is for a very busy term.

Dog Saves Freezing Master.

Danbury, Conn., Jan. 11.—Covering the unconscious form of his master, John Dunn, a New Milford farmer, with its own body and chaggy fur, Don, a huge St. Bernard dog, saved the man from death by freezing. Dunn started yesterday to walk from New Milford village to his home in the country.

Lying in the snow on a hill two miles outside the village, a rural mail carrier found him unconscious and nearly dead from the cold. Across his body lay his dog, vainly licking at its master's face in an effort to arouse him. Dunn will recover.

District Agency.

In consequence of the large amount of business he secured in this territory, the Greensboro Life Insurance Company has appointed H. A. White district agent. The district assigned him embraces the counties of Pitt, Martin, Greene, Lenoir and Craven. Mr. White is one of the best agents in Eastern North Carolina and the man has to hustle who can keep anywhere near him in writing insurance.

SILVER WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Cowell Celebrate Twenty-Fifth Anniversary.

Twenty-five years seems but a short time when many have passed, yet it is not many couples whom time permits to live so long together in happy union. To Mr. and Mrs. William John Cowell came this good fortune, and on Saturday night, 13th, at their home on Pitt street, they celebrated the 25th anniversary of their marriage.

With them in this pleasant celebration were four generations of the family—Mrs. M. A. Reuse, mother of Mrs. Cowell, their son, Mr. R. B. Cowell and his wife, of Washington, and the latter's 15-months-old daughter, Zula.

The celebration was attended by many friends who called to extend congratulations and express wishes for many more happy years.

The guests were received in the hall by Mrs. W. B. James, who was one of the bride's maids of the marriage twenty-five years ago. The hall was beautifully decorated with potted plants.

In the parlor, which was decorated in white and green, Mr. and Mrs. Cowell stood beneath an arch in keeping with the color scheme bearing the dates, 1881-1906, in silver letters. On their left to assist in receiving were Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Cowell, of Washington, and on the right two other children, Mr. Frank Cowell, of Plymouth, and Miss Martha Lee Cowell. Mrs. Cowell wore a most becoming dress of gray with yellow trimmed in silver and white, and held a bouquet of hyacinths, sacred lilies and ferns.

The sitting room was banked with holly and potted plants. In this room were the presents, numerous and pretty, nearly all of them being in silver.

At the dining room the guests were received by Mrs. M. D. Higgs, and were served with refreshments by Mesdames M. M. Nelson, Nana Brown, Lulu Cleve and Chas. Cobb. The decorations of this room were red and green, and on the table were twenty-five burning tapers emblematic of the occasion.

The celebration closed at 11 o'clock and proved not only a pleasant occasion in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Cowell, but also in Greenville's social events.

Besides those already mentioned from a distance, Mrs. Claude Jordan, of Washington, sister of Mr. Cowell, was among the guests.

It Took Him Back.

It was the sweet scene of the lilies in the conservatory, the beauty of the young girl's gilt hair or the excellent champagne he had taken with his supper—at any rate, after the twoset, as they rested in the shadow beneath a palm he proposed to the debutante in white.

"It cannot be," she said. "I am unworthy of you."

"Oh, rubbish," said he.

"It is true: it is true." And she sighed.

"You are an angel," he said ardently.

"No, no you are wrong," said the young girl. "I am vain, idle, silly, utterly unfit to be your helpmate through life."

He laughed lightly. He said in a soothing voice.

"Why this is sheer madness. What sort of a wife do you think I ought to have?"

"A very wise, deliberate, practical woman," she replied—"one able to live on your small salary."

If you have any of these symptoms your heart is weak or diseased, and cannot get better without assistance.

"About January 1st, 1905, I took down with weakness and dizziness and gradually grew worse. I was told by my family physician that my case was hopeless. My neighbors and family had given me up. My limbs and body were swollen to one-third larger than normal size, and water had collected around my heart. For at least three months I had to sit propped up in bed to keep from smothering. I sent for Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and by the time I had taken them all I was able to do twenty kind of work on my farm. My attending physician told me that I hadn't been for Dr. Miles' Heart Cure I would now be in my grave."

LIFE IN WASHINGTON.

A Congressman's Efforts to Save Part of His Salary.

To the average Kansan $5,000 a year looks like easy affluence. The fortunate person with an income of that dimension is popularly supposed to live at the intersection of Velvet avenue and Easy street. A congressman is esteemed a fortunate individual indeed, since he has a certain income of $5,000 a year and a position to which are attached various perquisites not allotted to those in the humbler walks of life. In this connection, therefore, the experience of a certain Kansas congressman who thought to save money from his salary is interesting.

"When I was elected," said the congressman in question, "I expected to save half my salary. It was my plan to put away $2,500 a year. I had a small family, we had modest tastes, and I had never had a great deal of money to spend. We had always lived economically—we had to. We went to Washington, my wife and I. We stopped the first day at an ordinary hotel. The fare was no better than we had at home, the furniture and carpets not particularly better than those in our own house. The conveniences could have been duplicated in the hotels of my home town. When I came to settle my bill I found I was paying for the accommodation at the rate of $8 a day.

"I have since tried all of the methods of living in Washington which had an economical turn of mind suggesting—boarding, furnished and unfurnished apartments and detached houses. I find the result the same. Washington gets all my money. We do not attempt to splurge. We live as quietly and modestly as the average family in a small town. In going my errands to the departments I ride on the street cars. Our method of living is predicated on the street car basis. But I can't beat the Washington game. I spend all my salary on living expenses, and we are no better off financially than we were before I was elected to congress."

So far as financial returns are concerned, being in congress is no better than being head bookkeeper at the store or foreman at the shop. A salary of $1,000 in a small town buys ordinarily as much comfort and recreation as a salary of $5,000 in a city. It isn't what you get that matters. It is where you have to spend it.—Topeka Capital.

The Origin of Mrs. Grundy.

How many who daily use the name of Mrs. Grundy have any idea of her origin? It is generally believed that Dickens was somehow responsible for her, but a writer in the Dundee Advertiser points out that this is an utter mistake. The real creator of Mrs. Grundy was Thomas Morton, the dramatist (born 1761, died 1838), the father of the author of "Box and Cox," and she is referred to in his comedy, "Speed the Plow," which was first performed in 1798. Mrs. Grundy is not a character in that play. She is merely a mysterious personage whom Dame Ashfield, the farmer's wife, constantly quotes, much in the same way as Sorey Gump alludes to Mrs. Harris.

Places For Valuables.

They were on their honeymoon. The bridegroom was so proud of his little wife that he could not resist the temptation to take the hotel clerk into his confidence.

"Say," he whispered, leaning over the desk, "my wife is a jewel."

"In that case, sir," chuckled the hotel clerk, "I really cannot allow her to go up to the bridal suite."

The bridegroom gasped in astonishment.

"What! Can't let her go up into the bridal suite? Why not?"

"Because I will have to put her in the safe. That is the place for jewels."—Chicago News.

What He Said.

"You saw those walnuts?"

"I never saw a walnut."

"You must be blind. There were thousands of them."

"Very likely, but I never saw one."

"Why, look; I can see them from here."

"So can I."

"Just now you said you couldn't see one."

"Excuse me, I said nothing of the kind. What I said was that I never saw one. And I never do; I always use nutcrackers."

Many other publications are desirable, and you may prefer this or prefer that fiction and art publication, but the Review of Reviews is necessary. Substantial American men and women are going to keep up with the times and they are going to take the shortest cut which is the Review of Reviews.

The Cosmopolitan

A leading magazine for 18 years With the recent change of ownership it has been improved. It is far better in every respect, and aims to be the best in the field. Every year or so there's one notable advance in the forward movement among the many magazines. This year it is the Cosmopolitan.

Woman's Home Companion

The Woman's Home Companion is for every member of the family. For our bright, earnest, cultured, home loving American woman it is an ideal entertainer and helper in a thousand congenial ways; but the fathers and brothers and sons join in it, perusal by the fireside; children eagerly turn to the pages that are written for them.

The American Farmer is the leading Agricultural paper of the country, and pertains to farming, live stock and poultry raising. Every farmer should have it

Truth in Reference to Fiction

GREENVILLE NORTH CAROLINA TUESDAY JAN. 16 1906

Wonder is Greensboro jealous of Charlotte having so many fires.

If Durham does not have a hanging tree will be another miscarriage of justice.

The bad roads now make need for all recruits the courts can send to work on them.

No bloodshed is reported to have occurred in New York over the presentation of the Clansman.

The Currituck county young man who weighs 750 pounds shows what North Carolina can produce.

Mrs. Chadwick appears again, this time on her way to the penitentiary to begin her ten years sentence.

The two Georgia editors aspiring to be governor have begun their joint canvass. Now they will talk as well as write against each other.

Wonder if the Standard Oil Company is buying up all the timber lands it can get hold of with the idea of making the people take oil for fuel.

The Wilmington Star invites advertisements for the North Pole. This is one of the bright ways the Star has, but we notice it does not offer a guarantee.

It is a waste of breath to abuse bad roads unless you are willing to do something to make them better. But the bad roads impose a heavy indirect tax on the people.

Mr. Howell and Mr. Smith in their speeches can only give a "reprint" of what they have already said in their papers. Does not look like there is room for them to say anything new.

A Kansas woman sued a railroad for $1.40 for breaking eighteen of a shipment of eggs she made. That is all right if the eggs were worth that much and the railroad failed to pay her claim.

We think the claim of one State paper that it "goes into the home of every North Carolinian" is stretching the blanket somewhat. There are plenty of homes in North Carolina in which no newspaper at all ever goes.

Representative John Sharp Williams, Democratic leader in Congress, has declared himself in favor of the election of United States Senators by popular vote. The Congressman is level headed on this proposition.

Berkley, Va., has been annexed to Norfolk and has become a part of the latter city. The next step in that direction should be the annexation of Portsmouth. Norfolk is going to be the greatest seaport city on the Southern coast, and the consolidation of the several municipalities there that are only separated by a river would be a great step in that direction. They are practically one in point of location and ought to be one in name.

The Strikes of a Prosperous Year.

It is a sort of truism that strikes are concomitants or symptoms of prosperity rather than of industrial adversity. The theory is that men do not take serious risks on a "falling market," and that, as a rule, demands for wage advances, shorter workdays, and other improvements are made upon employers when their profits are substantial and their trade prospects bright.

The year 1905 has been a prosperous one, and employment was abundant. Certain sections, especially in the South, have actually complained of a scarcity of labor in manufacturing industries. But the period of readjustment that a revival of activity users in must have been well advanced when the year opened, for the time when under review has been characterized by comparative freedom from warfare really disturbing a national production and enterprise.

Strike statistics, like other statistics, may be used in a loose, misleading way. There are strikes and strikes, and a few labor capital contests of one kind may be infinitely more significant—or ominous—than scores of strikes of another kind. To determine the place of the year 1905 in a philosophical history of the industrial and social movement, it is necessary to estimate properly the character of the conflicts it witnessed, in addition to knowing their number and distribution.

According to the report of the secretary of the American Federation of Labor, there were 1,157 strikes during the year ended Oct. 31st. The record for the calendar year 1905 cannot be materially different.

The figures are distinctly surprising at first sight, but one must bear in mind that the great majority of the strikes of any year wholly escape not only general, but even local, attention. It is somewhat reassuring to learn that not more than 107,000 working men and women were involved in the total number of strikes named. The inference from this idea of information coincides with the general impression that, in a comparative sense, to repeat, the year has been tolerably peaceful. It has been an extraordinary one, nevertheless, in the fundamental truths it has brought home to organized labor. It has taught the public many lessons, though the important strikes—those that were more than local issues—may be counted on the fingers of one hand.—From "The Strikes and Lockout of 1905," by Victor S. Yarros, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews.

Stop the dead heading on rail roads and the fraying through the mails and the people who pay ought to get theirs cheaper, and still leave a better profit for the railroads and the government.

Capt. Richmond Pearson Hobson has again announced himself a candidate for Congress. He seems to want it worse than the people of his district want him, judging from the times he has been defeated.

We notice that an ice factory in Washington is preparing to increase its output to fifty tons a day. If Washington affords such a demand as that for ice, we do not see why an ice factory in Greenville would not be a profitable enterprise.

There is this much in favor of the farmers who hold their cotton: If it does not go as high as they hope it certainly does not look like it can go low enough to hurt them. You are not going to see any of the present crop sell below ten cents.

They are talking about investigating congressmen for traveling on passes and at the same time drawing mileage from the government. That kind of thing has been so open that the people thought it was one of the privileges of graft that went along with the position. It does look like the demand for honesty in high places is about to be recognized.

The commissioners of Durham county are on to a good plan. They have secured the names of 554 persons in the county who did not list taxes for last year, and have given notice that if these delinquents will come up voluntarily by a certain day and list and pay such tax nothing will be said. If the delinquents fail to heed the notice the courts are going to get busy.

Keep The Little Ones Out Of The Fire.

With the repeated warning in the way of accounts in the newspapers of horrible accidents resulting from people leaving their children alone in their houses it would seem that there would be an end of this species of criminal negligence on the part of parents, but at this season of the year there is frequent account of such accidents to the little ones. There is another class of accidents of his kind which occurs during this period of the year which, though not caused by the same gross carelessness as the other, still could be avoided in most cases if more care was observed by the grown people in care of the little ones. This is where children, in dressing or sitting around the fire, are allowed to become too careless of the danger of their clothes catching fire from the flames. Last week one small town in this state experienced two sad instances of this kind. In both cases two small children were burned to death as the result of their parents or those in charge of them not exercising proper precaution to keep the little ones from exposing their clothing to the flames in the fireplaces before which they were sitting. It may seem a trivial matter to caution parents against such danger, but danger it is and none can be too careful where there are little children around an open fireplace or a red hot stove.—Wilmington Messenger.

WHY A DOG HOWLS.
The Scotland Neck Commonwealth is asking some more questions, but in the main answers its own inquiry. That paper says:

From time to time some of our wise and studiously inclined contemporaries, notably the Greenville Reflector, the Gastonia Gazette, the Charlotte Observer, the Norfolk Landmark, and some others, propose to solve some very hard questions—such as why a rabbit wabbles his nose? Now The Commonwealth has a question of some importance to propound to those who can answer it, for not infrequently it involves that which grates on sensitive nerves. The question is this: Why does a dog howl? Dogs howl under varied and different circumstances and seemingly from different circumstances and seemingly from different impulses. For instance, when a dog gets left or lost he frequently howls, and we conclude that he does so because of sorrow or loneliness; but what impulse is it which causes a dog to howl when you play a whistle, sound a flute or horn? Does he howl from sorrow or joy? Or is it because it grates upon his nerves?

If it is the whistle of a steam engine, then it is because it grates on his nerves that the dog howls. In that respect the dog is like folks, for there is nothing more grating on the nerves of man or dog or anything else than that has nerves, than a steam whistle. If it is a dinner horn that sounds then the dog howls for joy, as he is hungry and realizes that feed time has come around once more. But the flute business, that stumps us and we pass it on to some of the other brethren.

TO THE PUBLIC.
Having bought the stock, fixtures, etc., of Z. Moore & Bro., we will continue the business on a strictly cash plan, thereby enabling us to sell goods cheaper than others, because we will have no accounts to lose. We will carry a line of china, glass, etc., beside the goods that are carried by the Rackett stores. We expect by the first of February to have a line of 5 and 10c goods worthy of your inspection, and we will appreciate any trade that you may be kind enough to give us. Any goods bought of us not satisfactory can be returned and money refunded. We will try by fair and honest dealing to merit your trade.

Yours for cash business,
A. B. ELLINGTON & Co.

SMALL FIRE.

Blaze Starts But Quickly Put Out.

*Persons nearly in the jail this morning, looking out the window saw one of the buildings of the Pitt County Buggy Company, just north of the jail, on fire. It was burning on the outside beneath one of the windows on the first floor. The prisoners gave the alarm and the fire was put out before any damage of consequence was done.

Near the window where the fire was discovered in located one of the forges and is thought that cinders thrown from this through the waste hole held some live coals among them and after smouldering for some time had set fire to the weatherboarding. It was fortunate that the fire was discovered and put out so promptly.

LARGE LAND DEAL.

The Avon Farm Changes Hands.

W. H. & S. T. White have sold their Avon farm, about 8 miles from Greenville, to J. J. Laughinghouse. The deal has been in contemplation some time and was consummated a few days ago.

This farm, which is one of the best in the county, contains 2,565 acres and sold for $25,000.

The reason the Messrs. White parted with the Avon farm was because W. H. White, who had the management of it along with other farms, had more to look after than his health would permit.

It is generally conceded that the price paid was very reasonable for a farm as large and valuable as the Avon.

TEACHER'S MEETING.

Interesting Session Saturday of Last Week.

Although the weather was bad last Friday and Saturday, the teachers' meeting of Pitt county held in the Greenville graded school building Saturday morning, Jan. 13th, 1906, was a happy success. A good crowd was present, and all seemed to enjoy the time spent pleasantly and profitably together. Those teachers who came over rough and muddy roads deserve much credit, but be it said in justice to honesty, they would not have come so cheerfully if they had not known that there was something good in store for them at the end of their journey, for the teachers' meetings of Pitt county have never been other than interesting and inspiring.

Owing to the fact that a number of the teachers were absent, the regular programme was not rendered, and the meeting was made informal. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. H. H. Moore. Prof. Smith, superintendent of the Greenville graded school, was introduced to the association. He made an excellent impromptu speech, in which he spoke highly of the work the association is doing, and expressed a desire to be of service in the work.

Miss Howell, formerly a teacher of this county, told something of her work in the Goldsboro graded school, and represented the magazine edited by her brother, of New York.

Last, but not least, came the address by Prof. W. B. Dove, ex-superintendent of the Greenville graded school. Mr. Dove tried in a very forcible manner to impress upon the teachers the importance of being professional, doing their best, and at the same time valuing themselves and their work.

Several short talks were made at intervals by Prof. W. H. Ragdale, who is always willing to speak an encouraging and helpful word to the teachers, over whom he has supervision. Pamphlets by able authors on geography and nature study were distributed.

This meeting, though its attendance was necessarily smaller than usual, did much good, and will long be remembered by those present as a most pleasant occasion. May the influence of the association continue to grow and spread, lending cheer and inspiration to its members. Dora Hornaday, Reporter.

HORSE RUNS AWAY.

Lady Thrown Out of Buggy.

Tuesday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Harvey drove to the depot. Mr. Harvey got out to go in the depot, leaving Mrs. Harvey alone in the buggy. The train coming in frightened the horse and the animal jumped out in a run. Mrs. Harvey was thrown out of the buggy and painfully bruised, though fortunately not seriously hurt. The horse ran on down town and damaged the buggy slightly.

Only One Editor There.

There is said to be one editor in Heaven. How he got there is not known, but it is conjectured that he passed himself off for a minister and slipped in unexpectedly. When the dodge was discovered they searched the realms of felicity in their length and breadth for a lawyer to draw up the necessary papers for his ejection, but they couldn't find one, and, of course he held the fort.—Ex.

POU'S FINE FIGHT

To Cheapen Goods to American Consumers.

Washington, D. C. Jan. 16.—Representative Pou made a splendid fight today to amend the Philippine tariff bill so as to give the President authority to reduce the import duty on the class of goods manufactured in this country which are sold at a lower price in foreign countries than at home.

In a ringing three-minute speech Mr. Pou emphasized the importance of his subject and put the stand-pat Republicans in a very embarrassing light. Singular as it may seem, a large element of Republicans led by Mann, of Illinois, joined with the Democrats in applauding Mr. Pou when he concluded. The speech was one of the best the Congressman ever made.

The amendment offered by Mr. Pou was of course objected to on a point of order by the floor leader, Payne, and ruled out by the presiding officer.

In his speech Mr. Pou said in conclusion:

"Somehow it always happens, that whenever any bill is introduced here which helps the consumer there is always some little rule in the way of it and it seems impossible to get it before the House. I believe if you would give me time, and listen to me, I can show this amendment is not out of order, but from the former ruling of the Chair I confess I have but little hope, and therefore I conclude by saying I have introduced this as a last resort, in the hope that the House, having at heart the interest of the millions of people who are under the domination of the trusts and combines, will allow this amendment to come before this House. If I occupied your position, so help me God, I would put this amendment before this House if every other committee of the whole, and every Speaker of every Congress, had from time immemorial ruled to the contrary. Your rules are a curse when they come between us and our duty to the people."—Raleigh News and Observer.

ONLY ONE SAVED.

Schooner Grounds on Diamond Shoals.

Savannah, Ga., Jan. 17.—Adrift on a gang plank from nine o'clock last Saturday morning until five o'clock Monday afternoon, without food or water, Karl Sumner, the only known surviving member of the crew of the four masted schooner Robert H. Stephenson, was picked up by the German steamer Europa, bound from Philadelphia for Savannah, Monday afternoon at five o'clock, and was brought to Savannah today. Besides the ship's crew, there were four women aboard, the wife of the captain and two relatives and a colored servant, all going to Havana on a pleasure trip, making a total of thirteen people aboard.

Sumner says the schooner grounded on Diamond Shoals. All save four seamen, himself included, took to the boats, one boat being smashed, and the first mate and two men being drowned. This he saw. He thinks the other boat capsized.

CRAZY DRUNK.

Makes Trouble for the Officers.

There was a young white man at the depot, Wednesday night, waiting for the belated train, who judging from his condition and actions had tried to drink a whole distillery dry. He was just what they call crazy drunk, and raised enough disturbance for half a dozen men. A policeman took charge of him, but found him too much for one man to handle without violence. Another policeman went up and the two officers together found the wild man a tough proposition unless they clubbed him and that they did not want to do. They finally loaded the fellow into a wagon and carried him to the guard house where he had time to "come to himself" again.

NORTH CAROLINA MEASURES

Inland Waterway and Hatteras Light Interesting Congressmen.

C., Jan. 15.—The rivers and harbors congress in session here is attended by all the members of the North Carolina delegation, who were appointed delegates by Governor Glenn, and they are manifesting a decided interest in the proceedings of the body, which are participated in by representatives from twenty-six States. The congress will be asked to give approval to the proposed inland water way, which is favored by Representative Small, and which was endorsed by the congress at its last session in Baltimore in 1901.

Since the government has signed a contract with Capt. A. F. Ellis and his associates for the construction of a light house and fog signal on the outer Diamond Shoal, off Cape Hatteras, which is regarded as the graveyard of the Atlantic, the engineering world particularly and the maritime world generally, are watching the undertaking with no little interest. Previous attempts to place a light house at Hatteras have resulted disastrously, but Capt. Ellis and his associates are absolutely confident of success.
