The human hair industry is a very active one in France, the depart-ments most frequently visited by the hair merchants being those of Correze, Creuse, Allier, Cher, Dordogne and Haute Vienne. The average price given for a full, long head of hair is from 8 shillings to 25 shillings for the very best quality and color. The girls of the districts mentioned above, which are exceedingly poor, stipulate that their hair shall not be cut short in front and conceal the shorn appearance at the back by a draped colored handkerchief. The best shades of light an blond hair are obtained from Germany and Switterland, and for these high prices are said .- Londor Mail.

Britishera Do Not Flatter

A Boston haly who had been received with much favor by the Folklore society in London rather questioned the sincerity of her warm reception and said she supposed, li the French people, the English flatter. "Not at all," was the protes of a London friend. "You need not consider it possible for an English person to flatter." And then she gave an instance. Some one looking at a painting said to the artist whose picture it was, "It isn't so bad, you know." "Now don't be fulsome," was the renty.- Poston Herald.
