HOWARD-GARDNER.

Marriage of Popular Couple at Wilson.
At times during this life, clouds of adversity hang darkly over us and seem to have no silver lining; but to him who has been crowned monarch over the realm of a pure and lovely woman's heart, and has heard from her own lips, "Till death do us part," we must say, thy cup of happiness is filled and overflowing.
May the bitter drugs of life never be tasted but we hope these two young people may float down the stream of life on the bark of contentment with no racks of sorrow nor shoals of misfortune to threaten them.
With the above as a preface, it is my delightful pleasure to announce the marriage of Mr. H. E. Howard and Miss Florence Gardner which charming event occurred in the Christian church here last evening at nine o'clock, the pastor, Rev. J. Boyd Jones, performing the ceremony in the simplest and most impressive manner. The church was packed by a host of admiring friends of the contracting parties. The decorations were exceedingly handsome; indeed the interior of the church looked as if all their many friends had placed flowers there. The music was entrancingly sweet, being rendered by Prof. Levine's orchestra from Raleigh, as follows:
"Rivals"
"Face to Face"
"Intermezzo Cavalleria Rusticana"
At the conclusion of this selection, the bridal party marched down the aisle to "Mendelssohn's Wedding March," in the following order:
Messrs. Willis Hackney and J. I. Morgan, ushers, full dress, pearl.
Miss Rosa Hooker, Greenville, N. C. bridesmaid, white organdy over white taffeta; pearls, pink La France roses, pink ribbon, pearls and Diamonds.
Messrs. John Gorham and Edward Ferguson, ushers, full dress, pearl.
Miss Carrie Gay, of Greenville, and Miss Bruce Evans, of Wilson, bridesmaids, white organdy over white taffeta; pink La France roses, pink ribbon, pearls.
The lovely young sister of the bride, white net over pink taffeta, pink La France roses, pink ribbon, pearls.
Next came the bride slowly down the aisle, the sycamore of all eyes, the bright particular star of the occasion, entrancing in beautiful queenly gown in white net over white taffeta, diamonds and pearls, bridal veil, carrying in her hand a very handsome bouquet of lilies of the valley, white ribbon. She was met at the altar by the groom who came in with Rev. J. Boyd Jones, when they were joined together in the holy bonds of matrimony, while the orchestra played very softly "Hearts and Flowers."
After the vows had been spoken the "Bridal Chorus" was rendered as a recessional, and God had joined together these two young people for all time.
Mr. and Mrs. Howard left on the train for New York and other Northern points and carry with them the good wishes of our people for a long, happy and prosperous life.
The bride is the lovely and attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gardner, and a niece of the late T. J. Gardner, and one of Wilson's most beautiful young ladies.
The groom is a son of the late

MR. JOYNER REMAINS AS STATE SUPERINTENDENT.

Greensboro, N. C. Nov. 21.--At a meeting of the board of directors of the State Normal and Industrial College held yesterday afternoon to select a successor to Dr. McIver, as president of the college, State Superintendent J. Y. Joyner, who had been generally conceded as the next president, came before the board and stated that he could not accept the position, whereupon the board continued the administration of the college in the hands of the present superintendent, Dean J. I. Foust, until the close of the school year, June first, 1907, and will provide as soon as possible an assistant to President Foust.
It had been known for some days that Mr. Joyner was in doubt as to what his duty was with reference to accepting the presidency. He went from a professorship in the college to the State Superintendency and all his associates in the faculty would have gladly welcomed him back as president. The pressure upon him from many sources to remain as State Superintendent of Schools has been very great, quite a number of county superintendents and others having urged upon him that it was his duty to remain as State Superintendent. Mr. Joyner finally decided that he ought to remain in Raleigh.

BOYS AND DOGS.

Written for the Reflector.
What fifth grade school boy never owned or kept a dog--pointer, setter, gray hound, New Foundland, collie or Fice? He is an impossibility. And you might as well undertake to find one who never had a sweetheart three times his age, or who does not like watermelon. It does not matter how homely (we are thinking about the dog of course) "There is nothing like ownership." And a boy will defend his favorite and property, at any extremity, even in the presence of his mother. But notwithstanding the kicks and hard usage he is compelled to submit to, Fido is patient and believes that it is all for love and intended for his good, and coiled at his master's feet on a quiet summer evening, the youngster with his improvised quartet who does not sing, and sing with his friends Old Tray with his whole heart, is not the kind of boy Deacon Whichard is looking for as a promising Sunday school scholar.
But has a Greenville in knee pants ever heard of Joe Davis and his famous rat terriers, Pink and Ready, that exterminated Mr. Hoyt's rodents at the rate of forty every sixty seconds? Ask Cousin Blount Pearce.
Joe, as we remember him in his earliest years, was a small, white headed, near sighted boy, with a talent for training animals and birds. And because of this talent, like Saint Francis, he was able to communicate and commune with his silent friends and learn mysteries known only to the dumb. The birds and other feathered fowls were always his special pets. And in his way contended some of the most vicious brutes of the canine species. He would frequently go into an enclosure with a furious dog and reduce him to submission by soothing and kindness, and with a peculiar whistle he could summon all the dogs in the town within the sound of his voice, when they would gather about him, all varieties, big and little, moving as they did together, through the streets in the most perfect harmony and good fellowship to a royal rabbit yard, from which they quietly dispersed in the same way each to his own quarters. What do you say, Lewis Lawrence?
As a digression, who of us can recall the year of the great royal convention among the beaus and belles of Greenville that began about the time Dr. Silberman proposed to a certain charming widow? Who? As a silent witness of the past in the days of yore, there still stands the long county bridge, the scene of many a moon lit promenade. When the wee hours were waning that suddenly awoke a familiar warning, and good night, with the rattle and creak of a passing horse and cart on the old bridge.
Here we introduce Mr. Irvin Briley the proprietor of this horse and cart. And in his cart he had placed at least two dozen logger head turtles of all sizes with great glaring eyes, snapping each other in their efforts to escape. They are all harmless now. But think of Mr. B. with his wise looking old dog following on three legs who had been bitten in the mud of Grindool creek, and held fast it is said, until it thundered, or he was relieved with the loss of his foot. How did you catch them said a stranger "Breedem," said Mr. B. in a surly mood, remembering the accident in which his

SHELMERDINE ITEMS.

Shelmerdine, N. C. Nov. 24th, Rev. J. A. Hornaday, of Greenville, was here Thursday night to attend the Masonic meeting and was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Cole. His little son, Leslie, accompanied him.
Mr. Robertson, of Petersburg, spent Thursday night here and was the guest of O. C. Calhoun. Mrs. F. G. Whaley returned Friday from Shelmerdine where she has been for several days visiting her many friends.
Mr. Powers, of Wake county, was in town Friday selling maps of North and South Carolina.
Misses Bessie Hellen and Olive Woodard spent Saturday in Greenville shopping.
Mrs. J. D. Cox and Miss Elizabeth Boushall, of Winterville, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Bobbitt Saturday and Sunday.
B. P. Fanny has returned from Rocky Mount and resigned his position with the B. C. L. Co.
Miss Lottie Dickens spent Friday in Greenville shopping.
Shelmerdine hotel is undergoing considerable repairs. It is being newly painted and furnished. Mrs. D. A. Leggett, the former proprietress, has moved in a residence on Pine street and as yet the hotel is without a proprietor.
Shelmerdine public school opened Monday with a full attendance. Forty two pupils were present and the enrollment is now fifty three.
Prof. W. H. Ragdale, of Greenville, was here Monday night and received the handsome new school building. He also delivered a very beneficial address to a large and attentive audience. After the address a Woman's Betterment association was organized, and $10 was immediately raised for a school library. Mr. Ripply, agent for the Southern Pub. Co., was present and donated quite a nice book to the library.
A horse ran on the bridge turning over cart and rider, as well as turtles, left to save themselves in the scramble regardless of the danger of cracking their shells in the fearful fall to the low ground.
But of course our friend was neither killed nor maimed on the occasion, although he made a narrow escape, and seldom referred to the incident. But it is possible he would sometimes turn a conversation at this point to the subject of his neighbor, Tom Gwathmey's escapade and where he had been exhibiting his skill as an acrobat, especially in the corner where the boys can imagine his dripping clothes and thoroughly wilted appearance as he emerged from the bridge and said "good evening, gentlemen."
In connection with there was Uncle Mansel Place, said to have been a revolutionary soldier, (peace to his ashes), that with his son, John, had been present as a bigger gal as the country produced, Pete, who was a regular sport, and Sam, who weren't fit for nothin' but to suck cheroots--down through all sizes to the veritable peaninies. And they were "plum honoys," every one of them. They played the harmonica and drum, sang, danced and cut all manner of funny capers that kept the visitors

TRIP AROUND THE WORLD.

Most Successful Hit of the Season.
For genuine interest and pleasure the trip around the world, Thursday night, inaugurated and conducted by the ladies of the Methodist church, was the success of the season. It was simply great, and the large crowd who made the trip got more than their money's worth.
The union depot, the starting point of the journey, was at Pender's store, from which carriages took passengers on the tour. The first country visit was Japan, at the home of Gov. and Mrs. T. J. Jarvis. Here everything was typical of the country represented, the parlor decorations being of Japanese flags and the dining room with Japanese draperies, table covers and napkins. Mrs. Jarvis, dressed as a Japanese lady and in a brogue equal to a native, delivered an interesting lecture on the flag and customs of the Japs. The refreshments consisted of the national drink "sake," which the visitors were admonished to take with "a straight face" lest offense be given, potatoes and rice a la Japanese and fruits. A large cluster of Japanese persimmons hung above the table.
Next the passengers were conveyed to Greece at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Hooker who cordially greeted the arrivals. Mrs. Hooker being attired in ideal Grecian costume. The scene here was one of beauty, the decorations being in national colors and flags of the country. Around the hall and rooms were cozy ottomans on which Grecian beauties and their supposed lovers gracefully reclined. A graphophone made merry music while the feast was going on. The refreshments here consisted of fruit punch, stuffed dates and salted wafers. The voyagers departed with pleasant recollections of the beautiful scenes of Greece.
The journey was then to Egypt at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Brown. The visitors were welcomed at the door by an Egyptian lady who turned them over to a black veiled sister to be presented to the noted personages of the court, the Khedive and his consort, the Princess and princess. After these introductions the visitors were escorted to a cozy corner in the hall where the fortune teller read their palms and unfolded the future. The male representatives of the country used long stem pipes and the ladies had their faces below the eyes hid behind black veils. Refreshments consisting of coffee, wafers and pickles were served. The decorations were in keeping with the country.
From here the course of the traveler was to Africa, represented at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wilson. The decorations were very striking, besides the red and purple colors that bring numerous palms, coccant trees and tropical plants. Here was the real fun of the voyage, Uncle Reuben and Aunt Judy were right there with their full retinue, including their grown up children--Dinah, as likely a bigger gal as the country produced, Pete, who was a regular sport, and Sam, who weren't fit for nothin' but to suck cheroots--down through all sizes to the veritable peaninies. And they were "plum honoys," every one of them. They played the harmonica and drum, sang, danced and cut all manner of funny capers that kept the visitors

WHOLE WORLD 'O SUFFER.

Twenty-nine Of Most Important Cities of Earth Included in Great Upheaval.
A dispatch from Washington to the Richmond Times-Dispatch says:
"Twenty-nine of the largest cities are doomed. Earthquake, flood and fire will wreak the vengeance of God on the cities and their inhabitants within the next twenty-four months. This wholesale destruction is to be God's judgment on four nations. The doomed cities in this country are New York, Albany, Buffalo, Detroit, Lansing, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Richmond, Lebanon, Pa., Pittsburgh, Columbus, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Louisville, Nashville, Muskegon, Milwaukee, Chicago, St. Louis, Hannibal, Mo.; St. Joseph, Mo.; Omaha, St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Denver."
The above prophecy is made by Edmund Scribner Stevens, 72 years old, the well known prognosticator of events and an astrologer of no mean ability. For more than twelve years Mr. Stevens has been ardent student of the history of the world. Since last May he claims to have been the recipient of prophetic messages and to have made several true prophecies.
Mr. Stevens said today:
"The world is in the throes of upheaval, which will eventually right the earth and make the North Pole North and the South Pole South, instead of having the earth's axis in a slant. That upheaval will cause flood, fire and earthquake, and most of the large cities of the world are going to suffer; some of them will be destroyed."
"Within the next two years twenty-six cities in the United States and London, Paris and Rome will be destroyed."
New York City, the aged oracle says, will be swallowed in the gaping maw of an earthquake crack, and Chicago and Milwaukee will be wiped off the map.
Miss Mabel Barwell, of Bethel, recently obtained a message as a prognosticator from the State board of examiners.
You can unlock the coal bin and get kindling wood in readiness again for colder weather roaring with laughter. Ambrosia and ginger cakes were served with nigger toes as souvenirs.
The travelers were loath to leave Africa but America, the gate to the spot of the earth, was yet to be visited. This was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Munroe where "Old Glory" waved in profusion amid the decorations of national colors and made everybody feel that they were in "the land of the free and home of the brave."
Various types of the American citizen were in evidence, George and Martin White, of Belmont and Virginia, here to represent the early pioneers in the nation's history. The Georgian of many of today, the Virginian of the Middle Ages, the Bostonian, Happy Holliday and of those to the twentieth century. In one room the man of the past, with open cotton pants and over in the corner were the boys of an earlier day, one industriously carding cotton and the other whirling the almost forgotten spinning wheel. Sherba and lead cakes were served. The sheets and beds being adorned with tiny American flag souvenirs.
From America the travelers "tapped the grit" one by one by the route desired and at will. The trip was unique and a memorable one. Much credit is due the ladies who planned and conducted it, and we are glad to know it was also a success financially.

INVALID HEROES.
Great Men Who Did Great Things in Spite of Inferity.

A record of the magnificent courage of the world's invalid heroes is Sophia P. Shaler's work, "The Masters of Fate." One of these heroes was Thomas, the English historian, who could sign himself, "Faithfully (feebly, weakly, dizzily, mopey, faintly, dreamily, dully), J. K. Green." Another was Robert Louis Stevenson, who wrote, "I am about knocked out of true now; a miserable shuffling, shivering, feeble, stricken, nightmare-ridden, knee tottering, hoast-hoast-hoasting shadow and remains of a man." "But," continues Stevenson, "the medicine bottles on my chimney and the blood on my handkerchief are accidents. They do not color my view of life." It was an octogenarian United States senator who, when asked for rules for longevity, replied, "Acquire a chronic ailment in youth, and nurse yourself through life—and work." Kant furnishes a lesson of this kind. Although the great metaphysician was never entirely well, he performed a prodigious amount of intellectual work and lived to be eighty years of age. "He obtained such control over his discomfiture," writes Mrs. Shaler, "that when suffering from a pain in his head he could concentrate his mind so perfectly on a chosen subject that the pain was treated as if it did not exist. By sheer force of will he would also overcome sleeplessness, caused by rheumatic attacks. "That these," he says, "were not imaginary pains was proved by the glowing redness which was seen the next morning on the tips of my left foot."

That perfect control which Johnson gives of Pope's physical condition rests upon the authority of an old servant of Lord Oxford, who knew him after middle age. "He was then so weak as to stand in perpetual need of attendance. He was extremely sensitive to cold, so that he wore a kind of fur doublet under a shirt of course, warm linen, with fine sleeves. When he arose he was invested in bodices made of stiff canvas, being scarcely able to hold himself erect till they were laced, and then he put on a flannel waistcoat. One side of his body was contracted. His legs were so slender that he enlarged their bulk with two pairs of stockings."

Great soldiers have borne afflictions they could neither overcome nor avoid. "Some of the world's foremost commanders—Julius Caesar, Napoleon, the Duke of Wellington and Archduke Charles of Austria—appear to have been epileptic. At the battle of Wagram the archduke, it is said, had a seizure which lasted about an hour. It was then that Napoleon gained the ascendancy. At the critical moment the fate of two great armies was in the hands of two epileptics. Cambrayes, the conqueror of Egypt; Alfred the Great and two of the greatest poets of Europe—Pope and Byron—were subject to this disease, as was also the prophet Mohammed.

Many Languages of Buenos Ayres.

There are few cities in the world having more newspapers of varied tongues than Buenos Ayres. Altogether the number of dailies, weeklies, monthlies and irregulars published in the republic fluctuates about 180. Besides, of course, the national language, with its wide divergencies from Spanish, there are papers published in Castilian, in Catalan, in Italian, French, German and English, in Basque, in Norwegian and in Danish, in Arabic, Syrian, Hebrew, Serbian and in several dialects, while in the Chub territory the Welsh organ is a considerable sale and influence—Buenos Ayres Herald.

"Long Ed" Oaf.

When it was noted about Seymouth that "Long Ed" Ames was going to marry Cora Black one of the summer residents thought to have some fun with him.

"Are you going to get married, Ed?"

"That's what Cora says."

"Well, I suppose you've made all the preparations—got your trousseau ready?"

"Long Ed" did not balk at the unusual word, as was expected.

"Yep," he returned; "Aunt Lize she bound my Sunday coat and put a new collar on it, and I've had my shoes tacked."—"Youth's Companion."

Quite a Difference.

"Mary," said a lady to her servant, "I strongly object to your copying Miss Lacy in your dress."

"In what way do I copy her?" asked the cook indignantly.

"Why, she had you were yesterday in, I notice, exactly like my daughter's new hat."

"Because me, miss, it isn't. The shoulder to my 'n' is up higher, but Miss Lacy's is only a simulation."—"London Telegraph."

LAND SALE. Mr. Moore Coming Next Saturday. Mr. Chas. C. Moore, the president of the North Carolina Division of the Southern Cotton Association, sends the Reflector a card in which he says enthusiastic meetings were held this week at Monroe, Wadesboro and Lumberton and the farmers were greatly interested in the $100,000,000 company that will be organized to buy week cotton. Mr. Moore says he hopes to meet at least 500 Pitt county farmers in Greenville on next Saturday, Dec. 1st. He will be here that day and all farmers interested in getting better prices for their cotton should be present.

THE GARDEN OF EDEN. And History of The Bible. Rev. Ada C. Bowles, of Boston, delivered two interesting discourses here Sunday in Delphia Moyer Chapel. The morning's subject was "The Garden of Eden," and as a foundation she used this text: "Now is the man become as one of us to know good and evil." - Gen. 3:22. The story of Eden is full of beautiful meaning, but has been robbed of all its strength and beauty by blind leaders of the blind for ages. Rightly understood, it is the oldest objective lesson in physical and spiritual evolution. Science today tells us that the history of one of a certain species is the history of the species as a whole. If we will then apply this fact to the story of the Garden of Eden, we will see its force. Every child born, is born into a Paradise of innocence. The first demand is for food. Adam, representing the race, is supplied first with food as a primal need. Next intelligence in the child is developed, it distinguishes objects, is able so to speak, to give names to things as Jesus, and John says "as Moses lifted up the serpent so must the son of man be lifted up." But was not the serpent cured? Yes temptation is to be put under foot, made to crawl in the dust and if you have any special temptation then fight it. The promise is to be put under foot, made to crawl in the dust and if you have any special temptation then fight it. The promise is to be put under foot, made to crawl in the dust and if you have any special temptation then fight it.

THE HISTORY OF THE BIBLE. By means of a diagram, enlarged from the Bagster's Teachers' Bible. The history of the Bible from the beginning of the fourth century to the revised version of the nineteenth century was clearly shown. All original manuscripts being lost in the first century and oral teaching depended upon, it was not until the close of the century that the gospels were collected as sacred writings. The sources of Bible manuscripts were the manuscripts in the original tongues, reaching into the third century, versions in other languages and writings of the Christian fathers from the second to the fifth century. Not until the versions of the nineteenth century was the most perfect Bible made, by a careful study and comparison of the three sources were never before so compared. Knowing the cost of its making, the blood and tears and martyrdoms, it should be doubly precious to students today. Term Nearing End. This week will conclude the fiscal year of the county. The new board of county commissioners will take charge next Monday and the various county officers will be inaugurated for a new term.
