Help the Editor Out.
With trains coming so late, it is just impossible for The Reflector to keep up with the names of all the people who come and go now, and we can only print those that come to our knowledge. If you fail to see in print any name that ought to be mentioned, it is because we did not know it. Our readers could make it easier for us to print the personal items if they would phone or tell us any way they know of. Try it and see how many you can tell us.

Do you ever stop to think, dear reader, of the value of your local paper to the community. The home paper has an influence for good that is hard to overestimate. It moulds public opinion; it does well its part in protecting and preserving the government. It takes the place of a standing army in guarding the liberties of the people; it teaches your children morality, truth and power; it brings many rich blessings to the homes it visits with but little financial reward for its labors, and in too many instances not any. The home paper is the mirror in which those at a distance see us. It is the pain of all who are interested in our town to take personal interest in the town's paper and assist in every way possible in making it a true representative of our intelligent and hospitable people as well as our enterprising and rapidly developing little city. Send the paper to your friend, bring us the news and do your duty by your home paper and it will meet you more than half way. When you help your home paper you help your town and indirectly help yourself, for we are equally interested in our town and community.—Mount Olive Tribune.

America Sends Christmas Cheer.
New York, Dec. 15.—For the past three days the liners leaving for Europe carried considerably over $2,000,000 in money orders. Most of this money goes to Great Britain and Ireland, especially the latter, Germany coming next. Such a generous contribution was never known before. The mails are the largest on record, hundreds of extra hands having been engaged to deal with them. The Christmas mail for Australia and the far East has already gone through this city. According to the estimate of the postoffice authorities it is 35 per cent, larger than on any other occasion.

STATEMENT.

Of all claims audited and allowed by the Board of County Commissioners of the County of North Carolina, for the fiscal year ending December 31, 1906.

ROOM IN THE DOLL HOSPITAL

By J. A. Hines

There is a room in the Doll Hospital where the doctors and nurses are always busy. It is a room where the dolls are brought to when they are sick or hurt. The doctors and nurses are always busy with the dolls, and they are always trying to make them feel better. The dolls are always in the room, and they are always being taken care of. The doctors and nurses are always busy with the dolls, and they are always trying to make them feel better. The dolls are always in the room, and they are always being taken care of.

Big Cotton Fire.—Weldon, N. C. Dec. 19.—The cotton storage warehouse of the Weldon Cotton Manufacturing company here has been burned to the ground together with over four hundred bales of cotton. The loss is about $25,000.

Caved Again.—The rain Wednesday night caused another cave in on the street near the culvert crossing south of the school. There must be a sudden hollow somewhere below the culvert to cause this recurrence of the rain.

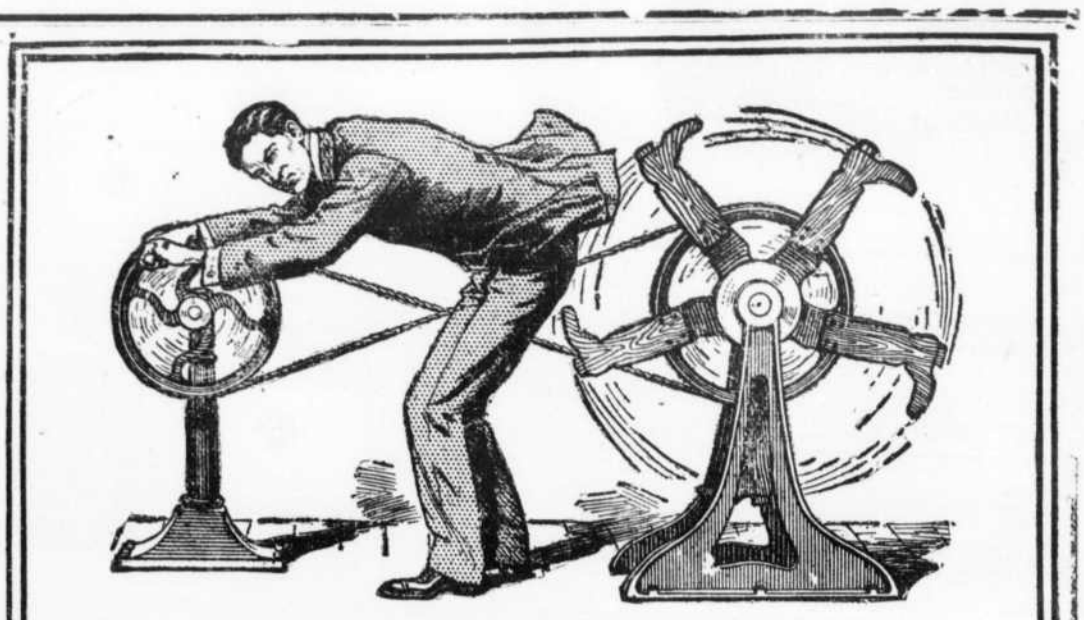

Goes to New Charge.—Rev. J. A. Hornaday and family, with the exception of his son Mr. F. M. Hornaday, who remains here—left this morning for Roxboro where he was appointed by the recent North Carolina conference. Mr. Hornaday served the Methodist church here for three years and both himself and family made a host of warm friends among the people. Many good wishes follow them to their new home.

Died This Morning.—Mr. A. R. Holton, of the firm of Holton & Spier, Ridge Springs, died this morning at 10 o'clock, and will be buried tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock by the Masonic order, near Rountree's.

It is More Blessed to Give.—In planning for your own Christmas remember that the Sunday schools of the town will have a joint entertainment in the opera house on Christmas night. The spirit of this entertainment will be to not to receive but to give, and every one who attends will be expected to take some gift, large or small. These gifts are to be distributed among the church members.

Valuable Real Estate Deal.—Mr. F. W. Baker has sold to Mr. G. W. Baker the lot on Fifth street with the handsome residence he was building there. Mr. Baker started the building early in the year intending to make it his home, but owing to decline in health he went out West. His health has improved since summer, but having begun negotiations he disposed of the property. When completed it will be the handsomest residence in Greenville.

If a man is really in love with a girl the redness of her hair is visible.

This man bought a supply of tobacco without acquainting himself with the distinctive taste of SCHNAPPS Tobacco, which has the cheering qualities that gratify his desire to chew, and at less expense than cheap tobacco.

SCHNAPPS has been advertised in this paper so that every chewer has had an opportunity to get acquainted with the facts and know that drugs are not used to produce the cheering quality found in the famous Piedmont country flue-cured tobacco, and that SCHNAPPS is what he ought to chew. Still there are chewers who accept other and cheaper tobaccos that do not give the same pleasure.

Some day they'll get a taste of the real SCHNAPPS—they'll realize what enjoyment they've missed by not getting SCHNAPPS long ago—then they'll feel like kicking themselves.

SCHNAPPS is sold everywhere in 5 cent cuts, and 10 and 15 cent plugs. Be sure you get the genuine.

BE STRONG.

We are not here to play, to dream, to shun the struggle—face it. 'Tis God's gift.

BE STRONG!

Say not the days are evil—who's to blame? And fold the hands and acquiesce. O, shame!

BE STRONG!

It matters not how deep intrenched the wrong; How hard the battle goes; the day how long; Faint not! Fight on! Tomorrow comes the song!

Dangerous Symptoms.

Do you have no ringing noises in the head caused by the cash register?

Do you have shortness of bank account?

Do you have that dull sensation morning, noon and night?

Do you have any dizzy feeling when bills must be paid?

Are you cramped for room by reason of too much stock on hand?

Do your eyes burn in vain effort to find order?

Does your head throb when you see your labor overworked?

If so, see Doc. Advertising. A poor dealer can't afford to be a miser. Advertising. Chat.

MISTLETOE HOLLY.

Hangin' of the mistletoe—that's where An' an' he's a rosy as the holly leaves are! An' his eyes are yonder like sunlight, an' the sweetest word that's said He whispers 'neath the mistletoe an' holly.

Hangin' of the mistletoe—an' take your rosy place, Laughin' lips an' bright cheeks, where the dimples love to race!

An' listen to that story that holds heaven in its embrace Whispers 'neath the mistletoe an' holly!—Atlanta Constitution.

BE A MAN.

Young men and children, how do you expect to spend Christmas? Have you ordered a half dozen of your friends to spend Christmas with you in drinking, cursing and whooping like a gang of Irishmen or do you aim to set your wife and children some example and Christmas morning take the little fellows on your knee and tell them about the good old Santa Claus, and about Jesus, whose birth we will soon celebrate?

Men, don't spend Christmas birthday in drinking and cursing. Make this the happiest Christmas that your wife and children ever spent. Young men don't keep your mother in trouble during this Christmas. Make it pleasant for her. When you leave home tell her where you are going and when you are coming back, and then you will leave her with a smile, instead of eyes red from weeping and uneasiness.—Rich Square Times.

The merchants are especially thankful for the sunshine.

If you have the price it will be easy to have a big Christmas.

The cotton men will take a rest until the day after Christmas.

These are happy days with the little folks, all looking for Christmas.

DAMAGED TOBACCO GOOD FOR FILLING OLD BOOKS.

A well known fact is that tobacco is a very good material for filling old books. It is a material that is always at hand, and it is a material that is very cheap. It is a material that is very good for filling old books, and it is a material that is very good for filling old books.

Truth in Reference to Fiction

GREENVILLE NORTH CAROLINA TUESDAY DEC. 25, 1906

A NERVOUS TRAVELER.

"I noticed that the fellow in the 'lower' across the aisle from me was very nervous," said a knight of the grip at the Central yesterday. "He crawled in his berth and out again and kept poking his head between the curtains. He seemed to be uneasy about something. I could not sleep for watching him. Finally, about 12 o'clock, my neighbor got out in the aisle and became the porter who with all the pomp and stiffness of a butler, came up and turned about."

"The porter, tell the flagman to come here," passing him a cigarette he spoke. "The flagman came. 'You're a man,' said my friend, 'are you the flagman?' 'Yes, sir,' was the reply. 'Well, here is $2.50; I want to go to sleep, you be sure and watch the tail end of this train.' 'The company pays me to do that,' said the flagman, drawing himself to his full height. 'Yes, but I want to give you this extra to keep awake,'" Charlotte Observer.

The above is a good illustration of the fear people feel when they travel in this day of belated trains and frequent railroad accidents. No man feels absolutely safe when he rides on a late train, and this fear is having considerable effect on travel at the present time. We have heard some railroad people say they never saw it lighter. Of course the railroads largely have themselves to blame for this state of affairs.

There are several tendencies to danger on trains that run off schedule time. When a train is on time the agents and other station men are on the lookout and have a clear way for it; but if the train is late with no certainty as to when it will arrive they go on about other work and there is a possibility of the belated train passing out of mind and everything may not be clear for it. Wrecks sometimes occur in just this way. Again when a train is late the train crew themselves may get impatient, and through desire to make up as much of the lost time as possible and get home, run their trains with less care than they would otherwise exert. And this is another cause of wrecks.

People who operate trains are human beings just like other folks, and when schedules are all out of joint they are likely to get impatient under delay and over work, and are less cautious than at other times, and under such conditions the danger to the passengers is increased, the crew never thinking of danger to themselves.

All these things affect the public mind, and as most people regard their lives above all things else they avoid taking such risks as far as possible. The railroads can restore confidence by making schedules they can live up to, and stop this latter day trouble of late trains running on irregular time.

The present difficulty is the hardest to solve.

CHRISTMAS.

The season of Christmas is with us once more, the happiest and merriest time of all the year—a time for home comings and family reunions, a time for greetings in love and friendship, a time when joy and gladness should fill every heart and good cheer surround every fireside. For months Christmas is looked forward to and planned for. It means so much to the world that every one wants to catch the glad spirit and be a part of it.

Yet there are some who will not experience the joy of this Christmas season unless it is imparted to them by others. Let us look out for these—the poor, the sad and hearted, the sorrowful—and give them a portion of the happiness that is made possible for us all. He spends a poor Christmas indeed who contributes naught to the joy of another; and he spends the happiest Christmas who does most in bringing joy to others. Let the Christ-like spirit be in every one.

PLANTATION LIFE.

The December Christmas number of Plantation Life is just from the press and is being mailed to subscribers. This is the best number of the magazine that has yet appeared, containing a number of articles appropriate to the season written especially for Plantation Life. Among these are "Christmas on de Ole Plantation fo de war," by Polk Miller, of Richmond; "Thoughts of the Season," by Mrs. Josie L. McArthur; "Christmas in Our Home," by Miss Mary Arlene Joyner; "Christmas on the Farm," by Zeno Moore, and several charming poems. The editorial feature is unusually strong, there being a splendid sketch of ex-Governor T. J. Jarvis and discussion of timely topics by Editor O. L. Joyner.

Upon the whole it is a splendid number, and this one issue is well worth the price of a year's subscription. There is but one thing to at all mar the appearance of this number, and that is an error of the printer in making the date November instead of December, which was not detected until too late for correction.

Possibly Santa Claus will put a Webster dictionary in President Roosevelt's stocking. The hens have really redeemed their reputation and made eggs more plentiful in time for Christmas.

The senate got just what it asked the president for, but all the same it did not look for just that kind of answer.

Those senators who keep jumping the president over the discharge of those negro soldiers are whipped.

Nobody can make an appointment these days with any certainty of filling it, if going by train figures in the arrangement.

Buying patent rights may be all right, but the experiences of the past is that they usually leave a lot of people right sick over their deal.

The president is out with another long message to congress this, being a report of his trip to Panama and the progress of work on the canal.

How glad we all should be that a Sunday comes between and gives opportunity for a day's rest in the midst of the crushing holiday rush.

The old blue back speller is hard to down. It ought to find its way back into the public schools as it is far ahead of any latter day effort at spelling.

If the president keeps up the message business he will so occupy the time of congress that the members cannot get time to say anything to fill space in the Congressional Record.

North Carolina colleges may not make much of a record in athletic contests with other states, but in intellectual contests they take front rank. Trinity College has won another debate from Vanderbilt University.

The newspapers are giving report of the toy pistol casualties that usually come along about Christmas time. Notwithstanding the numerous accidents resulting from rifles and toy pistol parents continue to allow their boys to have them.

Speake Cannon took advantage of his position to give North Carolina a slap in the face by refusing to appoint Congressman Small to the vacancy in the rivers and harbors committee, after almost assuring the North Carolina delegation he would do so. Though a native of the State, the speaker has not got much use for folks down this way.

We notice that the merchants in some towns are signing agreements, and publishing the same, that their stores will be closed on Christmas day. They close right along in Greenville without signing any agreement to do so, as Christmas is generally regarded as a holiday. Thanksgiving and Christmas are two days in the year that Greenville regularly observes as holidays.

This is the time of year when thieves and robbers are around, and from different quartets come reports of houses being broken into. This is to remind you that if you have any money hid around the house you better put it in the bank, or pay it to the editor. In either of these ways it will be safe and beyond the reach of robbers.

Possibly the much ado over President Roosevelt's dismissal of those negro soldiers will be silenced by his message to the senate in which he gives ample authority for his action in the matter. The president certainly holds up his side of the case, and does not try to hide his indignation over the conduct of the soldiers in question.

We can envy the brethren of the weekly press in their ability to take a week holiday for Christmas. Most of the weekly papers that have come to hand the last few days contain the announcement that they will not be published next week. We wish every one of the editor's a great big time.

While it costs the State a good bit of money to hold that investigation at Morganton, it was perhaps right to order the investigation to clear up the charges brought against an official of a State institution. At the same time there ought to be a way to reach the man who brings such charges just because he has a sore spot to air, and throw the cost on him when it is shown that his charges are without foundation.

Preacher Founded.

The Baptist congregation here gave their pastor, Rev. J. E. Ayseue, and his excellent wife a generous Christmas pouncing Tuesday night. A large number of the members gathered at the parsonage, each carrying package with them, and quite a supply was sent up in advance. The pouncing took Mr. and Mrs. Ayseue by complete surprise which made it all the more enjoyable. It being the night for the regular weekly Bible study all entered with interest into this for a time and then spent a while longer very pleasantly together.

If there were not confirmatory evidence, the story told by the fireman of the late Engineer Kinney, of the Southern Railway, the latter of whom was killed in the recent wreck at Danville, could not be believed. It is that the glass was broken in the front window on the engineer's side of the cab and that at Spencer, before starting on the run, a carpenter was sent to nail tin over the window, and did so. This of course quite obstructed the engineer's view through the window and his only recourse was to lean out of the window at his side to see the track. It is not surprising, therefore, that he plunged into the rear of a standing freight train at Danville, striking it, according to the fireman's testimony, before he knew that there was a train ahead, and dying, perhaps, without knowing what had happened. The act from which the accident resulted must be high in the list of crimes.—Charlotte Observer.

Another Reminder.

Notwithstanding it is nearly Christmas, there are a large number of subscribers to The Reflector who have paid no attention whatever to the statements that were sent them showing amount of subscription due. Many of them respond, for which we are grateful though we only asked for what was due. We will be equally thankful to the others if they come on an settle. We would not print such reminders as this if everybody paid promptly.

The Daily Reflector has entered its thirtieth year. The paper has been a strong factor in the upbuilding and progress of Greenville and Pitt county. May the paper and its editor live long and prosper—Warrenton Record.

Rev. Mr. Glenn Hart.

Rev. E. C. Glenn was struck by a ray belonging to Christen Bros., and driven by George Marks, a negro, about seven o'clock last evening on South Elm street, in front of Odel Hardware Company's store. He was knocked down and two wheels of the drag ran over his body painfully injuring him.—Greensboro Record.

CHRISTMAS TREE

Of Winterville High School Thursday Night Dec. 20th.

Winterville N. C. Dec. 22nd.

It was a pleasant sight indeed to behold the radiant and expectant countenances of the students of W. H. S. as they assembled in the auditorium Thursday night to receive the many presents there in store for them on the beautiful tree.

After a chorus by several of the girls and an instrumental solo by Miss Venitia Cox, Prof. G. E. Lineberry introduced Rev. J. E. Ayseue, pastor of the Baptist church at Greenville, who gave us a most excellent and appropriate address. He dwelt principally on the meaning of Christmas and the spirit in which it should be celebrated, laying special emphasis on the fact that we should not be content to be receivers only but givers also; that in as much as Christ had given Himself for us and brought joy and gladness to the shepherds, the devout ones and the wise men thus representing all classes of people even so we ought to go out and carry joy and sunshine into some humble home by there bestowing our gifts.

He made a special appeal to the boys and girls to consider the manner in which they celebrated this great event.

His address made lasting impressions on his hearers.

As soon as Mr. Ayseue had closed his address, Santa Claus came upon the scene ready for the distribution of the presents a task which he performed in a most admirable manner. None of the presents cost more than five or ten cents and every child who was a student received a present either from his teacher or friend.

The teachers also received a very valuable and useful presents from the pupils of their respective departments.

Thus here ended the fall term of the most prosperous session of this school so far. The work of the spring term will begin promptly Monday, Dec. 31. The prospects for the spring term are bright. Now students are enjoying rooms almost daily.

A FISHY TALK FOR FISH

Louis XIV. and the fish.

Louis XIV. was a great fisherman. He was a writer in the Paris Temps. The claws are cooked and people nibble at them more for fun than for sustenance, just as the Russians nibble sunflower seeds. But what is this crustacean? What becomes of the rest of him, especially if he is a crawfish, or his kind?

As a matter of fact the crawfish has no part in the business. The crustaceans, as the claws are called, are taken from a salt water crab, the Gelastinus tangeri, which swims along the shores of Morocco, Spain and Portugal. Each little crab, with his one little wife, has a little cave for a home, and, according to the Arab estimate of the other sex, he usually keeps his wife shut up inside the cave, meanwhile staying about the threshold himself and making a brave show with his big claws.

When the tide runs out the crab-fishers prowl along the beach looking for crab holes. Father the crab is stalking up and down seeking what he may devour, and then he shows whether he has the claws, or he is still at home, and the size of his doorway indicates the size of the householder. In the one case the fisherman cuts off his retreat by blocking his front door with mud. In the other case he digs him out, and makes a brave show with his big claws.

The setting was intact, but the brilliant had been replaced by paste. When the mystery was solved it was proved that the maker of the casket which held the crown had pretended an attachment for one of the waiting women of the Marchioness de Montepan, who during his visits, having free access to where the crown of Agrippa was kept, had substituted weak diamonds for the true ones. He was convicted and hanged, upon which occasion Louis remarked to the duchess, "He has at least left us the setting, but Craywell would have seized it whole."—Sunday Magazine.

Lead Workers.

It is said that lead working disfigures the human body more than any other kind of work. In this industry it is inevitable that sooner or later the workers must succumb to lead poisoning, and there would appear to be no part of the body that the poisonous fumes and floating particles which permeate the atmosphere of the workshops do not affect. The complexion takes on a ghastly, corpse-like pallor; the gums turn blue, the teeth decay rapidly and fall out, and the eyelids are hideously inflamed. A scratch or an abrasion of the skin becomes an unhealable sore. Later on, when nerves and muscles become paralyzed by the poison in the blood, the eyeballs are drawn into oblique positions and take on a dim and bleared appearance. The joints, especially the knee and the wrist, become semiparalyzed, and the whole form is gradually bent and deformed.

JAMES F. DAVENPORT

DECECY & DUCY
It used to be an accepted theory that the business world was not to do with the private life of business people. As long as a man attended honestly to his business occupation, was true to his obligations and paid his debts, that was considered sufficient. It is no longer considered sufficient. The business world, before it will accord to any man the highest rate of credit, must be shown that the man is not only faithful and reliable, but is not addicted to habits and occupations which may impair his standing. The Wall Street Journal recently went so far as to declare that the business world has a right to know of any business man "not only where he spends his days, but where he spends his nights. It has a right not only to know his financial standing, but also his status in the scale of social decency. The man who is faithful to the duties of his office and false to the standards of domestic decency must have his financial credit marked down and the business confidence of his fellow men lowered to the class of extra hazardous risks."—Baltimore Sun.

Winter Rhubarb.
Rhubarb is a vegetable easily raised in the cellar in winter. For forcing, or cellar growing, select and safely store away strong, big clumps of roots at least four years old and of early varieties. They may be planted at any time after they have had a short rest. If a succession is wanted a few are brought in at intervals of two weeks. On the bottom of a trench a foot deep place a four inch layer of fresh horse manure, followed by a two inch layer of loam. The roots are to be set in this trench, one foot apart, with the dirt carefully packed about them. When you have watered the plants and excluded all light the bed can be left to itself except for an occasional watering. The crop will be ready in from one to three months, the time varying with the temperature, the vitality of the plants, the season and other factors. —Suburban Life.

Smile!
Have you tried smiling? It is the latest remedy for all the ills of the flesh and the spirit, and it is cheap. All that is necessary to do to try the new "smile cure" which, we are informed, the London doctors are recommending is to lift the corners of the mouth slightly by means of the facial muscles, expanding the lips and showing the teeth. Practice this before the looking glass night and morning until the smile has worn in, and the beneficial results will be forthcoming. It is seriously asserted. There is no state of affairs so discouraging that it can't be bettered by smiling over it, and there is no joy in life so joyous that it will not spread a little wider over the surface of the globe with the coining of a smile.
If you have trouble bear it and grin—Smile and smile till the smile grows in.
—Albany Argus.

A Cougher.
George Hoadly, ex-governor of Ohio, once related that the hardest setting down he ever experienced fell to him while campaigning in his own state. He was out of sorts, he was tired, and one evening he went to the only hotel in the place. The proprietor stood coatless by a little desk smoking a cigarette. After Mr. Hoadly remarked to the host said, "Take your grip to No. 10, down at the far end of the hall." With some exasperation the state's chief executive said, "I am George Hoadly, governor of Ohio." The man at the desk calmly and said, "Well, what do you want me to do with your grip?" The governor went weakly to bed.

Not My Personal Sentiments.
Aren't there but been made to Maria that will be the London Daily Mail, which is a personal expression of the following passage from her novel "Temporal Power": "I have never loved any man, because from my very childhood I have hated and feared all men. I loathe their presence, their looks, their voices, their manners—if one touches my hand in ordinary courtesy my instincts are offended and revolted, and the sense of outrage remains with me for days." Those, it seems, are not her personal sentiments.

Flourishing Texas.
The state of Texas has a bonded debt of nearly $4,000,000, but less than $100,000 of the bonds is held outside the state. Nearly all the bonds that have been issued by the state are now deposited in the vaults of the state treasury to the credit of the various special funds, mainly the school fund, and in a few more years with good financial administration Texas will not owe a dollar to any one but herself.—San Antonio Express.
