Dear Frank,

I just got through writing writing to Emie - so before I go to bed I'll answer your letter that I received today.

Oh Frank, I sure was sorry to hear about you being in the hospital. I do hope it's nothing serious.

If there is anything you want why just write and let me know - I'll get it for you. I'd be only too glad. So don't be bashful - just come out & ask me. It would also make me feel better knowing I'm doing something for you while you're in ^{the} hospital. So Frank, don't ~~forget~~ forget - let me know okay?

I'm sorry that I haven't written to you more often - but I'll honestly try to do so from now on.

It was swell hearing from you again. I do hope I get more letters from you too.

You asked how I am, well Frank - outside of missing & missing & loving him so much I'm okay. That is physically. All I think about is the the day that Emie will come ^{home} and we'll be so happy. Honest Frank - it's awfully lonely without him. I don't mind waiting for him though - 'cause after this mess is all over with - I'll be rewarded by having him come home to see the way I saw him last. Well I guess you've heard enough about my troubles.

The weather here at home is beautiful. Sunny and everything. Just nice weather for swimming.

I have a week's vacation starting Monday.
Boy - but it's going to feel good not going to work for 'whole week!!' I'll just loft around and get myself a beautiful tan! You fellows must have a beautiful one - being out in that hot climate all the time!

Well Frank, I guess this is about all for now. I'll write again very soon & you do the same. So I'll close now wishing you all the luck in the world & a speedy recovery from what's now ailing you.

So long Frank —

God Bless you & Take Good Care of yourself.

I'll always remain

As Always,

"Angie"

Hurry & get well - so you can go back on the brand ship with Ernie. He is probably lost without you.

God luck —
