Whisk of the Future.

At times when I see how engrossed our American people are in the pursuit of wealth; how, apathetic, ap-proachably, to the dangers that threaten us; how indifferent often our best citizens are to the responsibilities of citizenship; how eagerly the base and incompetent clamor for office; how persistently and cunningly the bosses plan and plot and labor to seize upon power, and how tenaciously they cling to it; how venal voters often are; how pernicious and far-reaching is the corrupt and corrupting ~~the~~ Spoils System, and with which consummate and resourceful resourceful skill this great enemy of our free institutions lays her plans to ~~and~~ subjugate and rule or ruin, I long to here the voice of our Revolutionary patrocks lifted in defense of those liberties our fathers tried to gain, But when I remember our more modern

Comes, our young men - patriots True of many races - will respond to the call of country, and with peaceful measures, not woolike, with ballots, not bullets, arguments, not armies, will preserve and hand down to posterity, unimpaired, the priceless heritage they have received from the fathers - a republic under whose starry flag there shall be civil liberty, religious freedom, suffrage for all, universal education, sweet peace, absorbing plenty, and continuous progress toward the highest national greatness, power and influence.
