VII. List of committee accomplishments including recommendations made to agencies other than the Faculty Senate.

Committee received overview of goals, objectives, and organization of the Division of Continuing Education through presentations by staff members.

Committee monitored progress of the University College (evening degree program) and supported further development of programs of interest to adult students seeking degrees.

The major concern of the Committee was the investigation of a new financial structure for Continuing Education. In December, Herman Phelps and Jim Smith, at the request of the Committee, met with representatives of General Administration to discuss financial problems relating to Continuing Education. It was determined that the problem should be considered by the UNC Faculty Assembly. A summary of the problems was prepared and presented to the Budget Committee of the Faculty Assembly. Further discussions with General Administration representatives by Jim Smith resulted in this item being placed on the agenda of the Planning and Program Committee of the Faculty Assembly in the fall of 1985. This committee feels the most pressing financial problems at this time include: (a) an inadequate faculty stipend and (b) tuition that is nearly double the on-campus rate.

VIII. Citation of the Senate resolution numbers that originated with the committee.

None.

IX. Proposals and/or business to be carried over to next year.

Committee should continue to work for a state-supported financial structure for Continuing Education.
