85-24 From Faculty Affairs Report:
All persons appointed to full-time wholly state-supported teaching positions at East Carolina University should either be tenured at the time of initial appointment or recipients of tenure upon the successful completion of an appropriate probationary period--save only those who are visitors, temporary replacements, or for whose disciplines the institution expects in good faith to have only a short-term need. "Short-term" should mean usually two or three years, but under no circumstances should exceed six years.

It is also recommended that the administration review all present fixed-term appointments and, where appropriate in keeping with the terms of the preceding statement, convert these appointments to tenurable, probationary appointments.

85-25 Curriculum Committee Minutes of March 14, 28 and April 11 with the understanding that, "No admission requirements to degree programs have been discussed by the Curriculum Committee."
