I think Rick's suggestion is a good one that should be implemented. BUT, I also think we need to make sure that the Chancellor knows that the faculty is concerned with several physical plant issues. Asking him a few questions will alert him to that fact. Even if he does not know the answers, he will know who to direct the questions to and the faculty issues will be heard.

I suspect the Chancellor will not know the answers to the questions we would pose to Harrell - the person who really knows the answer is probably a level down from Harrell, who is two levels down from the Chancellor.

Might I suggest a combo of points 3 and 4 from Mark? Let's write an email to Harrell asking the questions, ask him to respond in writing, AND have him come to the December meeting to flesh out his answers (and probably get other questions).

That way we get it in writing and we have him stand in front of the Senate too.

I think we ask the questions of the appropriate VC. If the appropriate one is not there, then let the Chancellor address the issues. I would think that part of his responsibility to the university as a whole is to get answers to questions by going to the person in charge of that area. Or am I wrong about that?

It looks like Dr. Harrell does not want to send anyone else to the Faculty Senate meeting to address our concerns. We could do one of four things:

1. Ask the questions to him and have them forwarded to him for a response.
2. Ask the questions to someone else (the Chancellor, Vice Chancellor Hawkins, or Vice Chancellor Smith).
3. Write a letter (or letters) to Dr. Harrell asking the questions and giving him an opportunity for a prepared response.
4. Wait until the December meeting.

Any advise?

-Mark
