

To: Faculty Senators

Because involvement in the Faculty Senate was so important to Linda Allred, I've asked to have this flyer distributed to the Senate to explain an effort to memorialize her. If you would like further information, or have questions, please contact Susan McCammon, Psychology Dept.

Let's memorialize Linda Allred by giving her a cameo appearance in Margaret Maron's upcoming novel!

Linda was an avid mystery reader; wouldn't she smile at being memorialized in this way?

For a $2500 contribution to the Johnston County Heritage Center, author Margaret Maron will include a cameo in her next novel in the best-selling Deborah Knott series. (Maron's mother was a longtime volunteer at the center). Maron promises the person in the cameo appearance "won't be the killer, the victim, or a pedophile. But after that, all bets are off!"

How to contribute: Make out a check to the Johnston County Heritage Center, and send the check to Susan McCammon (Department of Psychology at ECU). Be sure to include your name and address so that the Heritage Center can send a letter of acknowledgement of your gift (it's tax deductible). If 100 of her friends/colleagues contributes $25 each, we can raise this amount! (Of course any donation is appreciated.)

When $2500 is gathered and given to the Heritage Center, Margaret Maron will contact McCammon to get particulars about Linda to be included in the book. Maron does have a publishing deadline, so we are trying to collect the money by the February 20.
