Why You Should

Vote For

HERBERT C. BONNER

FOR CONGRESS

First Congressional District

Democratic Primary

May 25th, 1946

Congressman Herbert C. Bonner has come up the hard way. He knows the everyday problems of the average man and woman; therefore he is attentive to their wants and their needs.

He has served in Congress long enough to have the "know-how" of serving the people of our First District. He has a love for his work, for doing things for people, that is a big asset to his office. His abilities as a good Congressman and a good citizen are unquestioned, even by his opponents who, looking at his record, must admit that he has done an excellent job during the time he has been a member of the House of Representatives.

Herbert C. Bonner has worked tirelessly in behalf of every phase of economics in his District. He has supported all government agriculture programs. He has supported progressive legislation for the tobacco grower, for the peanut grower, for the potato grower, for the truck farmer, for the cotton producer, and for all other agricultural projects. He has and is supporting legislation of benefit to the commercial fishing interests. He knows the individual problems of his constituents and is ever on the alert to serve them in any and all ways.

Congressman Bonner is a member of the important Merchants Marine and Fisheries Committee of the House, and a member of the sub-committee on Commercial Fisheries. He protested ceiling prices on seasonal fish, and thereby saved thousands of dollars for the commercial fishermen of his district.

Herbert Bonner supported the bill that will include cost of labor in estimating parity prices on agricultural products, which will mean a higher price for farmers' products.

His activities, his aid to, and interest in, all service men of both World Wars are well known, and recognized by service men as beneficial to them and in their interests.

Herbert C. Bonner's general activities and attention to legislative duties, is a credit to him and to the office he holds.

He is a congressman to whom the smallest and the largest in his district can go with the assurance that their problem will be given the most careful and sympathetic consideration. One to whom you can talk man to man, and know that your requests and ideas will be given every consideration as a part of the District he represents.

The people of the First Congressional District know, love and respect their Congressman, and their Congressman holds this feeling of mutual understanding in high regard and esteem, a trust to be guarded zealously with the best service a congressman can give to the people of his district.
