Dear Sister Maud:

Don't remember, but I believe you owe me a letter. But you are such a great writer I will not wait. Ha!

How are you all getting on? Had a letter from Pa a few days ago said all the family was well at that time. Am mighty glad we all missed the flu. Still miss people had it and was real sick. She seems to be well again. I suppose I'm getting on as well as can be expected. I am still on my same job. My health is very good. I am about fifteen pounds heavier than I was when you saw me and am feeling real good.

Well, the great war has caused a number of glad hearts after all. You! I am so glad it is all over. I have never wanted to go home so bad in all my life. That is every body's whole mind now, going home.

and the question we are all interested in is when. We don't have any idea in here we will be discharged. But am greatly in hopes to get there by Christmas. Oh if the boys could only be home by Christmas wouldn't it be a great time.
There is no way of finding out when we will be set free.
But everyone is so in hopes it will be next month that we actually believe it. Now, Pa has sold the car & don't know what I will ~~do~~. I am afraid I will be thrown out of a job when I get there to. I have no way of getting out to an open position that may occur for another year, so I expect I will be out of luck.
I know if I had the money I would not care for I feel that I could make a success.
Losing this time has surely thrown me back and don't know when I can get back in here I was. But then when I get out this army and get back home I can't even see how the conditions are! How are the children getting on? I can't remember the baby's name. Does she call for her Uncle Carl? Don't expect she knows much about him. How has school started? Guess the children are learning very fast under their cousin Helen? Expect she is very strict.

Is Fadd getting rich selling tobacco? I understand everything is mighty high. I like high prices as long as everything is high. But hate to see it unbalanced.

I guess I have written enough! Today has been a cold rainy day and you just bet it has been a long one. A rainy Sunday always runs long. Then it is so much worse in the army. Tell all the children stay for me. I hope to be there before so much longer and see you all. I am mighty anxious to see all. Write when you can. Your Brother
