Dear Mr. Lynn:

Once again you have given us concrete expression of your solidarity with us in the effort (no less!) to reeducate America. Your sustenance is of course vital. But so is your good will. After the creditors are paid off, it survives; and reminds us of our sovereign obligation to do the very best we can. I think (I pay tribute here to the editors and writers) that their best is very good indeed. But I am certain it is so in part because of that sustenance, reminding us of a common bond. Again my thanks.

Yours faithfully,

Wm F Buckley
