

Building Program On At College

At a recent interview with President Robert M. Wright he gave out the following information concerning the building program which is now in progress.

"The last session of the General Assembly," he said, "appropriated $400,000 for permanent improvements at the college." Out of this appropriation $10,000 is to be spent for library books. Between $3,000.00 and $5,000.00 of this amount has been spent already for books. A new model school to be erected on the extreme east of the campus has been planned. Only a section consisting of eight rooms will be built now, though the school will contain thirty rooms when completed.

"At a spot on the southeast of the campus, where the temporary power plant now stands will be placed the new and up-to-date power house. The new laundry building, convenient and modern in every phase will be built in connection with the new power plant. The present laundry site will be converted into a cloak and lounging room for the girls. This will serve as an excellent place for the girls to go just before meal time on Monday."

"A covered walkway will lead from the building to the dining hall. Since the present dining hall will accommodate only 500 students a new unit will be built near the old one, which will take care of the 300 new students expected next year."

The contracts, President Wright explained had already been let and the work will be commenced immediately.

Athletic Ass'n Meets Point System Revised

Plans for the revision of the Point System and a timely message from the president were the chief features of the first regular meeting of the Athletic Association held on October 12.

The business portion was necessarily lengthy. After much discussion about the revision of the Point System it was agreed that the number of points required in hiking should be reduced. "Jink" Jenkins was appointed chairman of the committee to study and revise the Point System and submit a revision of it.

There were two important elections. May Henderson was elected chairman of the program committee and "Bug" Frisbie was made Teco-Echo reporter.

After the elections, the president, Sarah Gurley, welcomed cordially the new girls into the Association and presented some very important reasons for joining the Athletic Association.

The meeting made the members feel that this year promises to be the most successful on that Teachers College has ever known and athletics will play a large part in making it so.

Pres. Wright On Christian Education

Pres. Wright filled the pulpit of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist church of Greenville on Sunday morning, October 23d, making a talk on "Christian Education." It is a fine tribute to the head of a State institution to be chosen as spokesman for the cause of "Christian Education."

Pres. Wright clearly, definitely, and distinctly presented his idea of Christian Education as the development of the spirit, of the ideals as set forth in the life of Christ; this means the implanting of Christian ideals in the heart of the individual so that development will follow and there will be practical application of these principles in the outward life.

The responsibility he placed upon the home, and emphasized the point that the responsibility cannot be shoved elsewhere. All other institutions, organizations, and agencies can only carry on the work that should be begun in the home. Even the church and the Sunday school are merely the interpreters of the principles of the Christian religion, the agencies through which the ideals and standards reach groups, but the home

The "Funsters" Visit The Campus

The first public entertainment in the fall series was a unique combination of novelty features including magic, juggling and ventriloquism, all strung together by the clever magician in such a way that the audience followed all the tricks and foolery of of the evening with keen delight.

Mr. Herbert C. Taylpor and his fellow entertainer, Mr. Keylor, whose real name is Leo Sullivan lived up to their title, the "Funsters."

Mr. Taylor is one of the cleverest magicians that has ever appeared in the college and the clever chatter and nonsense accompanying his tricks caught the very fancy of his audience. He is a member of the society of American Magicians of the International Brotherhood of Magicians and of the London, England, club of magicians.

The juggling was especially skilful. The best things were, perhaps, the linking ring trick, a Chinese trick hundreds of years old and juggling with cigar boxes. The most original and striking trick was the making of a rag picture, a landscape with snow and moonlight and the old homestead. The boys did an old song "The Old Homestead" while he was doing this.

The ventriloquist feature with "Jimmy," the puppet, was one of the favorites. The jokes and dialogue were excellent.

The singing of Mr. Keylor in double voice, the second like a woman singing a duo with himself, was a difficult feat and well done.

There were a great many stock tricks of magic, the usual run of card tricks, scarf, hand-rapping, but even these had a touch of novelty.

Little Herbert Scoville starred. When called to the stage he caught the spirit and delighted the audience with his responses to the tricks. When Mr. Taylor dismissed him he graciously presented him with some of the coins that were used in the tricks.

"The Funsters" made good their promise to please the children from six to sixty-six.

There was a good representation of town people in the audience. We are always glad to have them share our fun with us.

N. C. C. P. A. To Meet In Raleigh

The North Carolina Collegiate Press Association will this year meet in Raleigh where State and Meredith will be a joint host and hostess to the delegation. The meeting as planned will begin on Thursday evening, the 27th and close Saturday at noon.

The boys will be entertained at State and the girls at Meredith. All of the business sessions, however will be held at State.

It is rumored that many attractive events have been planned for the Press delegates. With State and Meredith entertaining jointly a great time is expected by all. We do know that we are going to be rousing entertained on Saturday by the Carolina-State football game.

Teachers College is to be represented at the association by Bessie Willis, editor and Margie Caldwell, business manager of the Teco-Echo, Mary Hocutt, editor and Delma Smith, business manager of the Tecoan.

The officers of the N. C. C. P. A. are as follows: H. L. Hester, Duke University, President; David Carroll, U. N. C., vice-president; Anne Fassoux Johnston, Queens, second vice-president; Frances G. Gibson, N. C. C. W., secretary; and A. L. Aydeite, State College treasurer.

Y.W.C.A. Meeting Held In Atlanta, Ga.

(Elizabeth Smith, N. C. Chrm.)

The Southern Council of the Y. W. C. A. met in Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 14-16 and were very royally entertained by Agnes Scott College.

The main purpose of the Council was to formulate plans for the State Y. W. C. A.'s which are included in the Southern Division. This Council also carries out the plans set forth by the National Council in New York City.

Miss Katherine Butler, of New York, was chairman of the group which met in Atlanta. She holds this position ex-officio since she is also Secretary of the Southern Division of the Y. W. C. A. All who have ever attended the Blue Ridge meetings know her to be a leader of recognized worth and merit.

The Council is composed of student representatives from each Southern State and a certain number from the states at large. These students were elected at the Conference at Blue Ridge last June.

The Council this year is hoping to aid local associations on our State campuses in their general and individual problems. The main projects to be studied are race, finance, student world service, relations with the family, relations between men and women and students in the community.

Elizabeth Smith, the much-loved president of our own Y. W. C. A. here at Teachers College was elected chairman of the Y. W. C. A.'s in North Carolina. Miss Smith is certainly not lacking in that insight into the hearts of other Y. W. C. A.'s of our state. She has attended numerous meetings held in this state and last year our college sent her as a delegate to the National Conference of Y. W. C. A.'s and Y. W. C. A.'s at Milwaukee. It is in no boastful attitude that we predict a year of well organized activity and progress in our state Y. W. C. A. work.

SENIOR PLAY IS BEGUN

"The Blue Bird," the renowned and colorful play, by Maeterlinck is to be presented by the Senior class this term. This play is recognized and praised by authorities as being one of the very best.

Miss Gertrude Knott, State Representative of the Bureau of Community Drama, successor to Miss Rockwell, has arrived on the campus and is very enthusiastic about helping the Seniors present a play that is a credit to the college and one the class will be proud to present.

The Seniors are equally enthusiastic because of the nature of the play and of the high recommendation of their coach.

It is an annual occurrence for the Senior class to give a play in the fall term and this is looked forward to with much interest by the student body and the people of the surrounding sections.

The public has already seen what this class can do along dramatic lines, by the presentation of "The Intimate Stranger" last year.

The complete cast and the synopsis of the play will appear in the next issue.

LITERARY PLANS

The one main theme that is a basis for the plan of all three of the societies, is "Literature." This subject stands out clearly from the other materials that compose the general plans.

The societies this year have their programs so arranged that debating, literature and dramatics have each been given a prominent place.

The general plan of the Pee Society is divided into the three terms. These divisions are made according to the talents, dramatics, debating and music. The chairmen of these committees are responsible for the program rendered at each society meeting. This idea brings variety into the series of society programs. The fall term is largely taken up with the initiation. The winter term is occupied mostly by the Inter-Society debate. The spring term finds the "Poes" in the midst of furnishing an entertainment for one evening, probably a play. The aim of the Poes, this year, is, "To make our society literary in reality and not just in name, to be a social factor on the campus, and to afford opportunity for experience in poise and self-reliance."

The Lanier Society centers its plan, also, around Literature. Dramatics, probably in play form, will be taken up the fall term. In the winter term, poetry will be the main subject for the society's work—the history of the society and Sidney Lanier's life will be discussed.

The Emerson plan is North Carolina Literature, including legends, folk lore, plays, ballads and the biographies of North Carolina men. In this, will also come one free semi-public performance, two one-act North Carolina folk plays, a study of debates, the original and modern debates will be discussed the winter term. In the spring term, a study of letters will be made such as Thomas Jefferson's letter on friendship.

A program committee for each term will be in charge of the above mentioned work at the different society meetings.

The social activities of the Emerson Society will be: "To repair and furnish the old home economics hut, just back of the basketball court, and raise the money to complete the project for remodeling Emerson Inn."

CHURCHES ENTERTAIN COLLEGE GIRLS

On Monday night, October 10, 1927, the churches gave their annual receptions to the college girls. These receptions had been eagerly anticipated by both the old and new girls; the old ones because they had been before, and the new because it was a new experience for them.

At 7:15, the Presbyterian girls met in front of West Dormitory to go in a body to the Presbyterian church. Then they went to the country club where a weenie roast had been prepared. Much fun was enjoyed while the college girls and town people "got acquainted." Every girl pronounced the "weenie roast" and ride, afterward, a decided success.

The Christian girls met in the parlor at 6:45. Cars were in front of the dormitory to take them to the theatre. The picture, "Don Juan" was greatly enjoyed by everyone. From the theatre, the party went to the Hill-Horne drug store. A real treat was in store for the girls, there. Sitting in groups of four and five, in the upstairs room decorated for the occasion, they were served ice-cream and home made cake.

The Episcopal girls were also given a theatre party, and a reception afterward.

The Memorial Baptist girls were given an informal reception—consisting of games and other informal entertainments. Afterwards they were served refreshments which everyone greatly enjoyed.

The Immanuel Baptist girls got some idea of what they might have, in the form of an invitation that each one received last week. The social, being a "nut social," the girls were first introduced to the nut family. Each girl was then given the privilege of choosing what nut she would like to be. After witnessing a play, the "nut family" groups dressed to compete for the prize which was offered to the best dressed group. The "Peanut family" won the prize.

In the Methodist church, an entirely different entertainment greeted that group of girls. Their reception was carried out with the scheme of Hallowe'en. After participating in the various games and devices of Hallowe'en, refreshments were served. Here, also, the college girls enjoyed a rare treat.

At 7:15 the Free Will Baptist girls met in the parlor of Dormitory B. From there they went in a body to the church. First, devotional exercises were held, and then everyone went to the home of the pastor. In the pastor's home, another group of college girls enjoyed games and other forms of amusements. After being served refreshments, the college girls were brought back in cars provided for the occasion.

Certainly, October 10, 1927, will never be forgotten by any girl at E. C. T. C. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed the reception she attended—and feels a true appreciation for what the people of Greenville did for the college girls. All of the receptions were a decided success and each one will linger in the hearts of everyone who attended. Although each girl went to only one reception, everyone would have been just as thoroughly enjoyed as the one she did attend!

GIRLS REJOICE OVER PARLOR FURNISHINGS

In getting ourselves accustomed to the new job of catching news as it flies to and fro over the campus we utterly forgot to proclaim in bold headlines, as it should be, that the parlors are furnished. Boys no longer complain of the Puritan aspect of our sitting room. The richly upholstered furniture and over-stuffed suites made quite a luxurious background for our best date fillers. One thinks he has a peek into Chinatown when he sees the Chinese lacquered settees or wall seats with their gay cushions.

Wouldn't it be a grand idea for the societies to give parlor lamps to the library and perhaps the classes could give mirrors or wall tables? But we're almost satisfied. The parlors look so much cozier and so much more inviting.

COMMITTEES ON CAMPUS

Committees have a very important place on our campus and justly so. The whole machinery of our institution is run by the force of our committees. The faculty members and students who serve on these important bodies do so out of an intense interest and loyalty to our college. They should be known so that they can be personally appreciated.

The Entertainment Committee is composed of Misses Bertolet and Meade, Mr. Frank, Catherine Clark, Mary Morton and Elizabeth Smith.

The Budget Committee consists of Miss Wilkes, Mr. Flanagan, Annie Batts, chairman, Blanche Wood, secretary, Lillian Colson, "Sis" Van Dyke and Lucille Britt.

The Marshalls under the direction of Miss Graham are in charge of the seating arrangement in the auditorium and in greeting and ushering the guests at our public performances.

Lanier Society Marshalls, Hilda Sutton, Ruth Jones, Hannah Picot, and Helen White.

Emerson Society Marshalls, Jeanette Sessoms, chief, Mattie Vines and Elizabeth Mayo, Hester Gist and Sarah Long Johnson.

Poe Society Marshalls, Evelyn Hutcheson, Sammie McManus, and two others to be elected.

The Advertising Committee under the supervision of Miss Mamie E. Jenkins has the responsible task of seeing that news of our public entertainments gets spread abroad in the land. Others on the com-

When the president of a State institution gives out his opinion of a Christian Education from a church pulpit, the rest of us should sit up and take notice. We add another laurel spray in the wreath already given to our president.

That was a splendid campaign put on recently by the Y. W. C. A. It showed that girls here are interested in other ways of growing besides that of growing mentally.

Mr. Austin scored again when he brought the picture "Tillie, the Toiler" to our auditorium. The appreciation of the girls is attested by the crowds who attend, by the hearty applause and the "next day" comments.

If you are quite good at the game of "Find and Place" you already know that Mr. Howard J. McGinnis wrote last week's article on "Outstanding State Teachers Colleges." The editorial comment was four sheets away from the article.

We only claim to be novices in the newspaper business, but we didn't mean that Mr. Meadows and Miss Goggin were E. C. T. C. alumnae. They have become so thoroughly a part of our college, however, that we consider them two of us and look forward with much pleasant expectancy to their return.

The General Assembly certainly gave Teachers College an adult dose of building medicine. With such an improvement program ready to begin the state can look forward to the rapid progress of our college. Our institution has had growing pains for many years and with a $400,000 prescription now ready to be administered you can watch us grow painlessly.

Now aren't the societies showing the "big" spirit when they plan their initiations (all except the floggings) together? This year the initiation schedule will begin promptly at 1:50 on Saturday, November 5. Until four o'clock the societies will have their fun together. Then the secret and sacred rites of each organization will be had behind closed doors. A dinner at 6:30 and a dance at 8:00 will be the last numbers in the program for the day.

We must understand each other better for we love each other more.

Bouquets while you're living is a philosophy to which all of us should adhere. President Wright gave us a bouquet in chapel last week, and the fragrance of it is still sweet. We appreciate the fact that the town people think well of us and like us. That thought taken along with us will make our stay here so much more pleasant.

Della Duplicate raises a question today which all of us ponder over sooner or later. To those who early adjust themselves to our routine and slip into the extra-curricula sphere the question becomes more poignant. Unless you join our campus organizations and become an influential part of them you will have missed one of the greatest benefits of your college education.

And aren't the girls showing a fine attitude towards practice teaching this year? Time was when the idea was handed down to us that we would live through the disease but would never be as strong again. This year there seems to be a different attitude, one that hints that we might even enjoy practice teaching. We wish to thank last year's graduates for a part of our present practice teaching heritage.

Our entertainments cannot have the wide success that we hope for them to have unless the town people attend. It is always a pleasure for us to share our programs with the people of Greenville and the surrounding sections, and we extend to them a royal welcome to attend our performances.

DELLA DOES HER SHOPPING

I declare, I just hate to go down town when I haven't but one postage stamp between me and being broke. But land! don't I have a good time window shopping. It just naturally makes my mouth water to see all the pretty fall rig outs these merchants have for college girls. As soon as Dad receives that heart and purse breaking letter I despatched yesterday I'm going to decorate my boats to a new pair of shoes. The other evening when I didn't have much to do (Ethel Spratt had borrowed my N. C. History book) I put on my town and Sunday frock and "dropped in" on several of the merchants. Mary and I went into raptures over a black georgette and velvet dress at Williams-Chapman's. The skirt was one velvet ruffle after the other. 'Twas just the thing for tall girls like me. It was trimmed in the prettiest buttons I ever saw and had a tie on the shoulder. I always did love to have something on my shoulder. I don't blame some folks for carrying chips on theirs. Well sir, I thought I was going to have to call the police to keep Mary from walking off with one of those puppy-dog pocket books at Bowen's. I was nearly as bad when I found I could mash his tail and he would bark. I didn't buy one now because it's nearly my birthday and since I'm an Emerson I'll go down then and purchase me one.

I saw something at Heber Forbes that isn't just the snake's hips, it's the whole snake made in the form of a flexible bracelet. There was a long necklace that could be

FORMER EDITOR TECO ECHO MARRIES

From the newspaper world into the realm of matrimony isn't such an impossible thing to do, according to Zilpah Frisbie, our former editor of the Teco Echo. "Zip," surprised even her closest friends by making such a sudden wedding scene. Perhaps that's why we like her so, she ever has a surprise for us.

Officers, faculty and students, join in wishing "Zip" and Carl (that's his name) a happy married life.

LASSITER-FRISBIE (Reported)

A wedding of unique interest was performed Wednesday evening, August 24, at 9 p. m., at the Friends Church, in Washington, D. C., when Miss Zilpah R. Frisbie of Marion became the bride of Carl C. Lassiter, of Washington, with Rev. M. S. Kenworthy officiating.

The wedding, though of Quaker simplicity, was unusually impressive, and was attended only by a few friends of the bride and groom.

To the strains of Lohengrins wedding march, played by Mrs. Josie T. Fraley, the bride, wearing a white sport ensemble suit and carrying a bouquet of bride's roses and valley lillies, entered with her only attendant, Mrs. S. W. Lamb. The groom was accompanied by Mr. Frank T. Hurley as best man.

Mrs. Lassiter was educated at East Carolina Teachers College while Mr. Lassiter attended Guilford and State Colleges. The former is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Frisbie, of Marion, N. C., while the latter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Lassiter, of the same place. Both have many friends who wish them unlimited happiness and success.

Mr. and Mrs. Lassiter spent several days visiting points of interest in and near Washington, but have not definitely announced their future residence.

The invited guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Casey, of Ayden, N. C.; Mrs. M. L. Townsend, of Raleigh, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Lamb, of Greenville, N. C.; Mrs. Frank T. Hurley, Mr. and Mrs. Clouderbuck, Miss Mary Jane Lowe, Miss Luella Lowe, and Mrs. Speight, of Washington, D. C.

NASH-EDGECOMBE CHAPTER MEETS

An enthusiastic meeting of the Nash-Edgcombe Chapter was held at the home of Mrs. Ruth Loy Windbourne with Mrs. Elsie Horton Gerrard, and Augusta Woodward additional hostesses.

They are planning to take subscriptions to magazines again this year. Other chapters might adopt this plan, as it has proved so successful in Rocky Mount.

A delightful social hour was enjoyed. There were seventeen members present.

MERCHANTS GIVE 10 PER CENT. REDUCTION

The overworked word "Co-operation" which seems to fit in this instance as no other word will is one of the factors which promotes loyalty between any two classes or sets of people. In fact, it is the one thing which causes the world's greatest ideas to be put across. Without it, the world would be a place of endless rivalry and strife.

It is a sign of goodwill to see cooperation between a college town and a college. It makes the girls who have come to that particular college feel as if the people of the town were really interested in them. And that is the reason that we, as college girls, appreciate the fact that the merchants of Greenville have given us a ten per cent discount on merchandise. We know that they are interested in us; that they appreciate our trade. Knowing this, we are more inclined to buy things which we might otherwise do without. We feel that the merchant who is interested in saving money for us, is the merchant for us to trade with.

It would be rather easy for the merchants of Greenville to literally "stick the prices" to college girls. They know that we have to have clothes and that we have to get them from Greenville. But they have not done this. Instead, they have cut prices for us.

Do we appreciate a good thing when we see it? We do. Are we going to patronize stores which give us ten per cent discount? We are. Just wait and see.

UNUSUAL CONTEST FEATURED Y. W. C. A. CAMPAIGN

Aeroplane rivalry is all one hears about in the papers now. Long ago, we had bicycle races, and as life took on a hastier aspect we raced in automobiles, but now since the epidemic "speeditis" has spread abroad in the land, our attention is absorbed by aeroplane racing. What was more fitting and proper than that the Y. W. C. A. should feature its campaign with an air race. Maybelle Lee made the attractive aeroplanes and sketched the ocean over which they were to fly. The race which took place on the campus was pasted on the bulletin board. Nellie Lewis, as Lindbergh and Emily Smithwick as Chamberlain were the Y. W. C. A. aviators. Each did a splendid piece of work in getting students to back their flight. As each leader received a certain number of girls to join the Y. W. C. A. her plane was pushed a little farther toward its goal. Much spirited but good natured rivalry took place. Before the day was over several hundred girls had pledged their support and faith to the aviators. The Y. W. C. A. aeroplanes made a splendid hop-off for the year 1927-1928.

"FAITH AND PRAYER" TOPICS AT Y. W. C. A.

The student program presented on Friday evening, October 14th, under the leadership of Doralita Larkins, vice-president of the Y. W. C. A. set an excellent standard for the student programs of the year. Miss Larkins had charge of the devotional services and made a very impressive talk. The theme which was brought out in the devotional part of the service was "Faith and Prayer."

An interesting incident taken from a recent letter of a missionary in Shanghai was read by Mary Campbell.

There should be many more student programs given during the year as they are always enjoyed.

Nellie Lewis and Emily Smithwick, leaders of the recent Y. W. C. A. campaign, were presented a book of poems and a daily prayer motto in appreciation of the excellent and spirited work done by them.

First Ph.D. Degree Received

Prof. Carl C. Adams, of the Psychology Department was the first faculty member to get his Ph.D. degree. There are several other professors here who have completed all the required work toward their Doctor's degree but their dissertation has not been printed. There will be many more to get this honor in a few years, but there can never be another first. We congratulate Dr. Adams.

BUILDING COMMITTEE MEETS AT COLLEGE

The Building Committee which is a sub-committee of the Board of trustees of East Carolina Teachers College met at the college, on October 21 for the purpose of signing the contracts, which were let at the last meeting of the board, for the new building program which is now in process.

In addition to the signing of these contracts they opened bids for laundry equipment, kitchen equipment and the refrigeration plant.

The contract for the laundry equipment was let to the American Laundry Machinery Co., at $12,441.67; the contract for the refrigeration plant was let to the Frick Company at $16,789.00; the contract for kitchen equipment was let to the John Van Range Company at $13,186.36.

The bidding on all these contracts was very close, and the prices were satisfactory to the Building Committee.

All of the contracts let thus far in the new building program have been very satisfactory and President Robert H. Wright in a recent interview stated that the committee was well within its appropriation, and that it would be able to finish and equip the buildings that it had hoped to erect out of the $400,000 appropriation made by the last General Assembly.

REV. L. R. O'BRIAN SPEAKS TO Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. service on Sunday evening, October the sixteenth, was conducted by Rev. L. R. O'Brian, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church. Carrie Smith was in charge of the services.

Mr. O'Brian's subject was "Angels." He opened his message by giving the derivation and definition of the word "Angel." Following this he made several interesting comments on angels as mighty, glorious, and created beings. This was followed with passages of scripture to bring out the truth of the statements. He then gave the purpose or office of angels, which was to reveal God's word, to guide, to protect, to administer justice and to comfort.

In concluding this impressive talk he stated that we should not wish to be angels for we are to be more than that. We shall see Him and shall be called His sons and daughters.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONFERENCE

Georgie Keen, supervisor in N. Carolina of the Primary Sunday School work in the Methodist Conference was again, this year, a member of the faculty when the course was given at the Jarvis Memorial Church.

Georgia is doing a splendid work in the state. When not doing actual teaching she is attending conferences or studying. The excellent quality of her work has won for her the distinction of being connected with two of the outstanding Sunday School Training Courses, the Standard and the Cokesbury.

She gave a course in Primary Worship while here this time. Unusual interest was manifest in this particular course, and 100 per cent of the people who started, completed the course.

gets right at the heart of the individual.

He contrasted the old ideas of Christian Education. There was a time when Bible study was convenient for the sake of justifying each one's special brand of denomination. Later, the idea prevailed of Bible study for the sake of being informed on the Bible, merely knowledge about the Bible being the aim. Now, with changing ideals of education, there is another ideal, Christian Education.

Pres. Wright first gave an analysis of the word "Education," going back to the root of the word and its meaning of "leading out," and contrasted the old idea of the educational process when it was thought of as a "pouring-in" process. He clearly showed that knowledge, while essential, is merely a tool and the possession of knowledge alone is not sufficient. He cited as example the lawyer, with knowledge of law as his tool, the doctor, with medicine as his tool, the dentist with a knowledge of dentistry as his tool. He stressed the fact that ability to use knowledge, the love of the cause, the power to use is the test of the matter. Knowing and doing go together.

He then took up the word "Christian" and showed that it comes from the word "Christ," and is the setting forth ideals of Christianity and is a matter of spirit.

"Christian Education," therefore, he gave as the development of the spirit of Christianity within the heart and life of the individual and working out into his life.

VARIED ENTERTAINMENTS COMING

The Entertainment Committee has this term secured for the college an unusual variety of famous entertainments.

The Vernon String Quartet, which appeared here on Wednesday evening, October 26, was a program of the highest order. Chamber music, which is the highest type of music and that which most nearly approximates the human voice was produced by the first and second violins, the viola and the cello.

Five entertainments are scheduled for this term with the possible addition of a sixth to be added toward the last of the series.

The world famous Cherniansky Trio, the Russian musicians who delighted the college audience last year will return for a concert on Nov. 12.

On Nov. 21, Raold Amundsen, the great Arctic explorer will visit our college. This date should be set down in our memorandum books and our friends notified of it.

The Seniors have chosen masterlick's Blue Bird as their play presentation this year. This is expected to be one of the best student entertainments of the year and will be given toward the close of the term.

The Entertainment Committee has put forth every effort to get one big star performer for the year and just now such a rare opportunity is assured. An announcement will be made later concerning future plans.

All college girls should remember these entertainments and the dates on which they are to be here. Let your friends and relatives know about our programs and share the enjoyment with you.
