Methodist Council Members Elected

The present time is usually thought of as the end of a Wesley Foundation year. The old council goes out and a new one comes in to serve for the year. The election of the new council took place on Sunday morning, April 8, at the regular meeting of the student class at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. They are as follows: president, Rosa Alice Lancaster; vice-president, Eleanor Booth; ;secretary, Virginia Small; treasurer, June Brandenburg; chairmen of the commissions; Worship, Lorraine Davis; Personnel, Evelyn Grant; World Friendship, Frances Banks; Community Service, Emily Roberson; Literature and Training, Frances Lewis; Recreation, Caroline Andrews; Church Relations, Gordan Davis; Publicity, Janet Rose; Drama, Miriam Harper; Music, Eleanor Harrison; and Town Students, Doris

The loss of Ernie Pyle has been felt by Jarvis Hall Parlor Gets all newspaper people. They feel he has left with his memory a better knowledge of New Coat of Paint how to appeal to the average person.

Pyle's Great Influence On College Papers

In this issue of the paper the staff would like to pay tribute to the memory of Ernie Pyle and all others like him. It was men like him that have become a friend of the college fighting forces. He made friends with them and wrote of these young boy's home. activities on the war front. He is one that has sent back to us the down to earth facts. He has written in language we can understand. By his influence college staffs have felt they could continue to print a paper with news for our fighting men.

He is gone but there will be others to carry on the wonderful work started by this New Mexico man.

To Believe With Certainty We Must Begin By Doubting

I am sitting on the ECTC lawn thinking of a statement I read in a paper a few days ago. It was this, "To believe with certainty we must begin by doubting."

From my place on the lawn I can see the campus stretched before me in a well divided plan, calm and sure under the sun. Its students and faculty are busy rushing about trying to get their work done, each separately. They seem to be unaware that there is a universe which is one unit skillfully set together. They have grown up and will grow old and eventually die with the same narrow understanding of the world and its beauty.

There are only a few who ever lift their heads, who ever gaze at the sky, who ever question that it is blue. But it is those few who have seen the sky and have caught the vision of the future.

Jarvis Hall Parlor changed almost overnight from a dark dreary parlor to a beautiful white one. Yes, the painters did a wonderful job on it. Now when you walk in the front door you aren't greeted by that dreary, let down feeling. Just by a few coats of paint the whole atmosphere has been changed. Now when you walk in everything is so pretty and cherry looking that you can't help but feel contented and at

In order to keep this parlor nice and pretty as it is now, the students are going to have to cooperate. Some are wondering how they are going to do this, but that is an easy question to answer. If you see anyone putting their feet on the white woodwork, ask them in a nice way, not to do that. Also in order to keep the walls as they are now, don't let your friends strike matches on them. Remember girls, this is your home now and as much your parlor as anybody else's You wouldn't want them to scar the floor, strike matches or put their feet on the woodwork in your living room at home, would you? So now that this is your home for the time that you are here, take the same interest in it that you would if you were in your living room in your own home town. Jarvis Hall Parlor is as pretty as any other parlor on campus now and we want to keep it that way, therefore, through your help and cooperation we can.

Warning that post-war American edu-"strong student personnel programs" to help QUESTION: WHAT IS YOUR MOST student-veterans and high school graduates

Announcing a new brochure on "Student Personnel Work in the Post War College," prepared by a committee of the American Council on Education, Dr. Bergstresser said that colleges will "hold heavy responsibility and opportunity" for the formulation of guidance programs which will be integrated into classroom instruction.

"An adequate student personnel program cannot be set up until with imaginative thinking the faculty and administration of the war-campus see the post-war campus of tomorrow," the brochure declares." On that campus, because of its diversity and conflicts and internal strains, there will arise new and strange problems as well as old problems in new guise. Furthermore, the problems of the post-war campus will not be isolated problems; they will be the noisy echoes of the social problems which post-war America must struggle with—racial minorities, employment, population mobility, clarification of democratic methods, standards of community living, and a thousand others."

The brochure discusses in detail probpersonnel services.

To implement this philosophy, the bropsychiatrists, dormitory counselors, recreational directors and supervisors of student activities.

In the past, however, many of these workers were "specialists in name only," the brochure points out, with "little real professional training, status or ability." evitably, it continues, "many instructional staffs regarded the specialists with suspicwork mixed with a sense of relief that the instructor could now get on with the real business of the college."
