

STUDENTS HOLD STORY HOUR

Miss Doris Mae Jones, a student in the department of primary education planned and directed the story hour at Shepard Memorial Library on Saturday afternoon. Miss Jones opened the program with the story "Castle Under the Sea." She was followed by Miss Eleanor Jones who told "Epanminandus," Miss Mary Clark told "Ten Pennies," Miss Della Mitchell, "Dust Under the Rug," Miss Dorothy Willard, "How the Camel Got His Hump," and Miss Pat Turnage, "The Caterpillar's Journey."

Then there was the boy who drank two bottles of gold paint and now feels guilty.

THE TECO ECHO

EAST CAROLINA TEACHERS COLLEGE

Greenville, N. C., Wednesday, May 17, 1933.

COMMENCEMENT PLANS ANNOUNCED

Number 15

THE 1932 TECOAN WINS LOVING CUP AT PRESS ASSOCIATION

Awarded First Place In The Schools Of Less Than 1,000 Enrollment.

Ranks Next To "Chanticleer"

Alice Tilly Was Editor; Evelyn Wright, Business Manager

The 1932 Tecoan was awarded the silver loving cup for winning first place among the annual of schools of 1,000 enrollment or less in the contest sponsored by the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association which held a two-day session at Salem College, Winston-Salem, May 5 and 6. The first announcement was to the effect that the Tecoan won second place in schools of over 1,000, being surpassed by "The Chanticleer" of Duke. The Agromeck, from State College, won honorable mention. When placed in its proper class, the Tecoan had little difficulty in winning first place, having already won second in the larger group.

The fall meeting for 1934 will be held here in October with the Tecoan and The Teco Echo as hostesses. The spring meeting will likely convene at State College as Dan Torrence, President of the Association for 1933-34 by unanimous vote, extended an invitation in behalf of the State College publications.

E. C. T. C. delegates serving on committee at the spring meeting were Loree Cagle, nominating; Katherine Hines, Time and Place; Lucy LeRoy, membership.

The 1932 Tecoan
The Tecoan, the winning annual in group B, was edited by Miss Alice Tilly, of Durham. Mrs. Archie Sugg, nee Miss Evelyn Wright, was business manager of the publication. Assisting these were Mary Alice Bullock, Sara Johnson, Doris Mae Jones, Nina Walston, and Loree Cagle. The latter is Editor-in-chief. Of the 1933 Tecoan was a delegate to the N. C. C. P. A. Faculty advisors for the publication were Misses Katherine Hiltzclaw, Mary Greene and Messrs. M. K. Fort and M. L. Wright. Mr. Wright is the father of Mrs. Sugg, the business manager.

MESSAGES COME FROM '32 CLASSES

D'S OF '32 SEND GREETINGS

Here's a word of greeting from the Senior-Normal class of 1932.

We're out now—workers in that vast field, and we like it. We're beginning to feel a little homesick though, and are looking forward to the time when we can return to our Alma Mater. I feel sure that in saying these words, I voice the sentiment of every member of the class.

As president of the Senior-Normal Class of 1932, I wish to urge each member of our class to attend Commencement at East Carolina Teachers College this year. If you cannot be there for the entire commencement exercises then you must be there on Alumnae Day.

PRESIDENT OF CLASS OF '23

Mrs. Maggie Dixon Baker, President of the 2-year class of 1923 and her young daughter.

FROM PRESIDENT '23 CLASS

Greetings—Classmates of '23, and a most sincere welcome to our class reunion to be held during commencement of this year. What a privilege it is to go back as honored guests of our Alma Mater, to greet again the members of the faculty who were so dear to us then, and who have proven such an inspiration to us since leaving college. They are always glad to have us back.

What a privilege to return as happy, care-free school girls again. To tread again the pathways of our beloved campus, to recall fond memories of college days, to relate experiences during the past ten long, or short years, since our separation as a class.

"Would you miss it? Of course not. Then make your plans now to be present at least for Alumnae Day. Do your best to get every other member of the class that you know to attend this reunion.

Hazel Kennedy Corey, who resides in Greenville is planning something interesting for us in the way of entertainment. If you have any suggestions about our program, we would appreciate your writing to us. It is still your class. We want each of you to have a part in it. We must have the biggest and best reunion ever held at dear old E. C. T. C. Will YOU be there? Don't fail us.

Anxiously awaiting to see you at commencement, I am
Your classmate,
Maggie Dixon Baker.

Helen Boomer says that she is tired of having people say that Hyde County has mosquitoes. Hyde County may not—but they certainly have something that bites—but don't quote me.

The church is the best institution the world has ever seen, or it wouldn't have stood for centuries. But people want to do something—Rev. Joseph M. Gray.

Statistics From Music Department Arouse Interest

Music has played a vital part in the life of E. C. T. C. from the very first day, but until stock is taken and statistics collected, no one realizes just how important it has been. The piano department has recently been collecting some facts and figures, some of which go back to the beginning and some back to 1917, when Miss Mead began her work here and at the same time keeping notes.

Since 1917, between 600 and 700 students have had individual work in piano, besides the classwork. These students have taken from one to four years. Over 60,000 individual lessons have been given. There have been 52 public recitals and 250 practice recitals, all given by the students.

Besides the college activities the music department has participated in the following community affairs: eight or ten clubs, six churches. It has also played in Farmville, Bell Arthur, Ayden, Rocky Mount, Tarboro, Chapel Hill, and Falkland, and furnished music at weddings, funerals, and receptions; also organ music at the theatre, and at church. The church organists have been Misses Lida Hill, Mary Bertolet, and Genie Thomas.

Since the opening of the college in 1909 there have been eleven piano teachers and three public school music teachers. The first piano teacher was Miss Bishop, who was followed by Annie Lee Davis, now Mrs. Will Hooker, of Greenville. The third year came Lida Hill, who married Mr. L. R. Meadows in 1919, and died in 1925. Next were Hanna Fahnestock, who is at home at River Road, Harrisburg, Pa., and Lula Sherman, who married a Presbyterian minister and is living in the Middle West. Miss Dora E. Meade, who is still here came in the fall of 1919, and Lois V. Gorrell also here, in 1920. There was Yvonne Beser, who is now teaching in Teachers College, West Chester, Pa. Miss McIntyre also substituted one year.

Lula Bartholomew, who has been teaching public school music in Rochester, N. Y., and Louise Burton, of Nashville, N. C., each substituted one year. In the public school Music Department have been May R. B. Muffy, of Baltimore, Md., who came in 1909; Augusta Kuykendall, who came in the fall of 1924; and Eugenia Thomas, who came soon after.

Miss Lula Bartholomew sends the following greetings:
"I am happy indeed, for the opportunity of extending my

DEAN OF WOMEN EXTENDS WELCOME

Dear Alumnae:
Commencement will soon be here, and again it is my privilege to remind you that we are hoping to have you with us. As usual the ten year class, and the last graduating class will be our honor guests, so—classes of 1923 and 1932, this is a very special invitation to you.
Saturday, June 3, Alumnae Day. At one o'clock the luncheon in the dining hall. In the afternoon, the pageantry of Class Day. June 4—Baccalaureate Sermon, and the Vesper Service on West Campus. June 6—Commencement Day and the Graduating Address.
When you come to think about it—how can you bear not to come? Depression or no depression, jobs or no jobs, we are expecting you.
If you wish to have a room reserved in the dormitory, please notify me at your earliest convenience.
Ever cordially yours,
Annie L. Morton.

THE EAST CAROLINA TEACHERS COLLEGE FAMILY

The only all E. C. T. C. family on record, the Bridgers family of Greenville. Samuel Bridgers was a co-ed in 1913. His wife, as Essie Whichard, entered school on the day it was opened, October 5, 1909, and was one of the first girls from Greenville to register. They were married September 8, 1919.

The two children have never been to school anywhere but in the Training School. John David graduated this year from the 7th grade with rank of second in his class; Elizabeth Sutton was recently promoted to the Fourth Grade.
Mr. Bridgers is connected with the Greenville Reflector. The father of Mrs. Bridgers was the founder, chief owner, and editor of this paper for many years and it is still in the hands of the Whichard family.

Alumnae Association Is Organized In Warsaw

An alumnae chapter recently organized in Warsaw with Mrs. B. C. Siske as President; Rachel Frederick, vice pres.; Margaret McGowan, Sec. and Treas.; and Mrs. F. S. Johnson (Helen Watson) reporter. Others present at the initial meeting were: Evelyn Maynard '32, Margaret Huff '32, Sall Ross, Helen McLaughlin, Marguerite Smith and the hostesses, Mrs. B. C. Siske.

Plans were made to extend an invitation to a faculty member of the college to attend the next meeting. A party was also planned in honor of the alumnae who are teaching in Warsaw on Friday night, April 21.

GOLDSBORO CHAPTER ORGANIZED

The E. C. T. C. Alumnae of Goldsboro and Wayne County organized a chapter in February, with about a dozen members. Lillie Mae Dawson, (Mrs. John Thompson) called the first meeting at her home and she was elected president. There have been two very enjoyable meetings, each followed by a social period over the tea cups. There has been one benefit budge party, the proceeds of which are going to the Alumnae Scholarship Fund.

HONOR CLASS TEN YEARS AGO FIRST STUDENTS TO PUBLISH ANNUAL

The class of 1923, which has the privilege of being one of the two honor classes that are special guests of the College this commencement, has peculiar interest to the students now in college because they started the Tecoan.

The annual is one of the most dearly beloved institutions on the campus and that first annual is one of the most interesting historical relics to those who have a part in making the annual now. That volume looks thin by those of the last few years, but as one turns the leaves she sees the life of the class and of the college pass before her.

They will return this year for their reunion, many of them with names changed, and will have a good time recalling the days when they were campus leaders.

NOTICE TO THE HONOR CLASSES!

The honor classes, '23 and '32 will find a hearty welcome when they arrive for commencement this year. These ten-year and one-year classes will be the guests of the college. They may secure guest meal-tickets on their arrival, in Miss Morton's office.

England is essentially ahead or essentially behind America—I never can make up my mind which.—Mrs. Henry T. Fleitman.
Charm is the chloroform which makes every operation in life painless.—Eve Le Verka.

L. W. Gaylord Is Memorial Day Speaker

No Confederate Veterans Present
Held in Austin Building

The Confederate Memorial Day for Pitt County was observed Wednesday morning, May the tenth. The exercises which began at ten twenty o'clock were held in the auditorium of the Austin Building and were sponsored by the George B. Singletary chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy. J. H. Rose, Superintendent of Greenville City schools, was master of ceremonies; he opened the program with prayer. Mrs. Ruth Fenberg sang the verses of "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny," and everyone joined in the refrain. A quartet from the college Glee Club composed of Beth Brantley, Mary Belle Wilson, Margaret Strickland, and Emma Lee Davis, sang "O' Black Joe", and

The address was given by L. W. Gaylord, a prominent lawyer. He paid highest esteem and tribute to the memory of the heroes of the South and their ideals. He concluded his address with a plea to the present and future generation to lose no opportunity to exert every effort and influence for the preservation of our nation; to aid in seeking that day when mortal conflict between the nations of the world will cease to be a reality.

The Memorial Day exercises are usually held in the High School auditorium. However, this was examination week on the city schools, and it was impossible to have the exercises conducted in the High School auditorium. A large number of college students attended the exercises.

Rev. W. S. Harden, pastor of the Presbyterian church offered the closing prayer.

The celebration was a sad one because of the absence of veterans in whose honor it was held. This is the first year in which there has been not one veteran present. It is believed that the last member of the local camp has passed on to join his fellows.

Immediately after the exercises, a pilgrimage was made to Cherry Hill Cemetery where the graves of the Confederate veterans were decorated. Musical numbers were given there by members of the High School Glee Club.

Vice-President Alumnae Asso. Sends Greetings

Dear Alumnae:
It seems that along with other modern inventions, "Old Man Time" has speeded up his mode of travel. We suddenly become conscious of the eve of another commencement dawning upon us.

My first impulse is to urge you to put aside your cares and worries that have accompanied the past year, and come back for commencement. If you cannot stay through for the whole of commencement, come back for Alumnae Day! We want to hear what you have been doing, and in turn tell you what we have accomplished.

President Wright and his loyal cooperative faculty have been making a fight during this year of depression and cuts in college appropriations. They need our support as never before. We as graduates of the college can help share in the responsibilities.

At our annual Alumnae meeting in 1930, there was a movement started to raise $5,000 to be given to the college in the form of a scholarship. This gift was to be presented in four years which would be the twenty-fifth anniversary of our Alma Mater. Those of us present, were urged to go back to our various communities, organize chapters—work—and see what we could

TO OUR COLLEGE FOR SERVICES RENDERED

In every life there are factors, whether of institutions or personalities, that shape and mold, enrich and broaden. The association with an influential character may start us on the pathway where success may be met. A chance word may set ideas in motion which for years have been lying dormant. The mental touch of a cultured personality may give us that thing which we needed to become somebody of worth and importance. Many times we are totally unaware when these touches were felt or where these words were spoken. For these services rendered we thank the unseen powers which made our pathways meet for even so brief a time.

Fortunately, some of us can trace clearly and pleasantly the time and place when life became a thing of importance because of the meeting of new ideas.

To our college many of us can render thanks for services rendered—services that developed in us such valuable possessions as a humanitarian outlook on life, a love for beauty in literature and in reality, a just estimate of the value of pure friendship, and an unselfish desire to be of service in our little world.

It is well for us to pause briefly and at occasional intervals to see what East Carolina Teachers College has meant to us. Our heads bow when we think of the manifold blessings of friendship that have come to us through our college. There have been teachers who gave to us the benefits of well spent lives and who imparted to us the greatest thing that any teacher can give—inspiration. From the doors of our college greetings to my former colleagues and pupils. It is with keenest interest that I have watched the steady growth of E. C. T. C., the maintenance of its high standards, and the further extension of the work under the splendid leadership of President Wright. I add my sincerest wishes for its continued success in these trying times of economic and social transition.

The Violin Ensemble has become through years of service a real visitation at East Carolina Teachers College. Always small in number and with a yearly change of personnel, it continues to function and adds materially to the music life of the college.

By looking through old programs we find the first public work given by any group that could be called a violin ensemble, was in 1923, when Janet Wedmore and Marjorie Snowden with Lucille Hooker at the piano played two numbers on a recital program.

Since then, the Ensemble has played on all sorts of occasions; recitals, Y. W. Services, Christmas Carol, Music Week, and Class Day programs and May Day festivals.

It has helped in several of the town churches and upon one oc-

we have gone with the feeling, not that we had finished a piece of work, but that we had begun a task for which we had been given every practical help. Life has brought no pleasanter memories than those of hours spent with instructors who secretly smiled at, yet openly encouraged our amateurish attempts to "remake the world."

The years can give us no greater satisfaction than the joy derived from student friendships made in college. Even yet the recollection of "after light" sessions brings reminiscent smiles to our faces. The exchange of ideas received from strong personalities has in later years helped us to meet perplexing problems fearlessly and unafraid.

For ideals that have enabled us to attempt to find beauty in every commonplace activity and to render service where no praise will ever be known, we thank our college.

Our information derived from books we count in no sense a minor item, but we consider that as a service which might have been received by self-willed beings in private study. Out of this giving of knowledge, which is the primary material function of any college, there grew the priceless benefits of student-instructor contacts, and lessons in independent thought.

We may not grow to be intellectual giants or powers behind thrones, but we shall always feel keenly and gratefully that any good growing out of us and emanating from our being has been in part the wholesome influence of East Carolina Teachers College upon our lives.

Passing through your portals, each one says the same, "East Carolina Teachers College, there's glory in thy name."

—Bessie Willis.

ALUMNAE ISSUE

Each year an issue of The Teco Echo is sent to all Alumnae of the College so that the College may mean more to her sons and daughters and so that the bonds of acquaintance may be strengthened.

Perhaps from the viewpoint of the student body this issue contains little of interest, yet it contains much to interest beyond the gate of last year or preceding years. It is doubtless good once a year to pause and take an inventory of the year's activity—to make concrete summaries of proceedings, and to seek out what the Association is doing.

This year much of the success of this issue is due Miss Elizabeth Relf Hobbs, Alumnae Reporter, Miss Bessie Willis, class of '23, and Miss Maggie McPherson, class of '32. These have spent much time in collecting and editing the material. Misses Graham and Jenkins have done much toward formulating plans and checking details and Miss Lois Gorrell and Dora Mead have contributed interesting data from the Music Department of the College.

This issue of the college bi-weekly gives to the officers of administration an opportunity to send greetings to the former students and often furnishes the Alumnae an incentive to renew old acquaintances and to reminisce.

occasion gave a Sunday evening music hour at the Christian Church in Farmville, N. C. Clubs in Greenville and Farmville have asked and received its help and at the Wilson Memorial Services when the Wilson Pergola was dedicated, the violin ensemble furnished the music.

Its most recent activity was the "Hour of Music" given on Sunday, May 7, in Austin Hall. This was the second entire recital given by the ensemble, the first having been given in 1931. Anyone playing violin, cello, flute or clarinet is eligible for membership in the ensemble. The leader is always glad to welcome new members.

accomplish. Have we responded to this call? Or have we gone home and gotten so absorbed in various other duties that we have failed in our purpose? At our annual Alumnae meeting last year, the college offered us a combination rate of $2.00 for Teco Echo and Alumnae Dues per year. This was another way of furthering our $5,000 scholarship. Were we loyal to this movement? We have another year left in which we can accomplish our ideal, if we but try hard enough.

Let us come back in big numbers this commencement, and renew our enthusiasm! I am depending on each of you to help make this the biggest Alumnae Day in the history of our organization.

Y. W. CABINET IS INSTALLED

The annual installation service of the new Y. W. C. A. cabinet was held at the regular vesper hour, Sunday night, May 7. The beautiful and impressive candle service was used. Ethel Parker, retiring president and Ethlyn Sanders incoming president were in charge of the program. Lighted candles and a chance to be of greater service to the world were passed on to the new Cabinet by the members of the retiring cabinet.

The following will serve on the cabinet with Ethlyn: Elizabeth Denny, vice-president; Joy Pickard, secretary; Melba O'Brien, treasurer; and Mae McFarland; Rachel Hurst, Ruth Stroupe; Eloise Camp; Rachel Stone; Adelaide Peiffer; Helen Harkey; Louise Sharpe; Edith Marslender; Lucille Rose.

Dear Alumnae: Dear Classmates, A year has passed since we last marched down the aisle together as happy graduates. During this year many of us have struggled hard to meet the depression face to face or to carry the burdens of school morns upon our young and inexperienced shoulders. As a member of the class of '32 I am looking forward to seeing many of you classmates when we meet at our Alma Mater to celebrate the annual commencement exercises.

We all realize that the college welcomes us and the alumnae association, of which we are now a part, is preparing for us. So let's come back in large numbers and have a happy reunion.

Mildred Ives.

Resume of Class of 1923

The Senior-Normal class, with Maggie Dixon as its president reached heights of glory in 1923. Little Barkara Beckwith Tyler, granddaughter of the Lady Principal, was the class mascot. The officers were:

Maggie Dixon, president. Lillian Jordan, vice-president. Mildred Lyon, Secretary. Irna Harrison, Treasurer. Annie Lola Arnold, S. G. Representative.

Gayle Cheek, Critic. High lights of the class of '23 were Vera Miller, who was the president of the Athletic Association; Mabel Thomas, who was Student Government President; Lois Haskins, who was the Teco Echo Editor; and Ruth Barber, Y. W. C. A. president.

There were two literary societies at the time. Pearl Wright was the Poe president and Alice Pope, the Lanier President. The Teco Echo and Emerson Society had not then come into being.

They also had statistics back in 1923. A glance at the Teco Echo of that year the first ever published, shows this list:

Marjorie Waite—Sweetest. Pattie Smith—Neatest. Mary L. Outerbridge—Prettiest.

Clara Dowdy—Most reliable. Hilda Duke—Most musical. Clara Grissom—Chief marshal and biggest talker.

Irna Harrison—Most attractive. Martha Inman—Most athletic. Milah Peck—Wittiest. Grace Dixon—Cutest. Martha Harrell—Most popular.

Arnette Bryan—Most accommodating. Elizabeth Hummel—Best dancer.

Maggie Dixon—Best all round. These girls who are coming back this commencement will find a genuine pleasure in remembering old names and attaching new ones. They will realize the joy of renewing old friendships and perhaps getting acquainted with husbands and children. East Carolina Teachers College welcomes wholeheartedly the class of 1923, as its special guest for 1933.

Rocky Mount Chapter Gives Tea

A tea given to the members of the faculty and alumnae attending the district meeting of the N. C. E. A. was the November meeting. The members of the chapter were hostesses. The parlor of the Universalist church was made lovely with flowers and candies. President Wright made a talk and moved about chatting freely with the girls, making them feel as if they were still his girls. There was a full attendance of home girls and a large representation from the visiting alumnae and faculty.

At the third meeting, devoted to business and plans, Mrs. Bond was hostess.

A bridge party with five tables, at the home of Lucille Bullock Hall in February was quite a success. Mrs. Ben Williams drew the speaker, Miss Beth Smith, assistant deaconess and President of the Women and President of the Alumnae Chapter.

Founders Day was substituted for the regular March meeting, and the objective was to have a large representation as possible in attendance. The only rival for the high score of those present from out of town was Raleigh.

At the May meeting, held at the home of Irma Vaise with Mrs. Greathouse as joint hostess, an enthusiastic group made plans for next year. The next objective is to send a large representation to commencement and let that take the place of a June meeting.

The members of the program seated on the stage.

Mrs. Lillie Mae Thompson, acting president of the General Alumnae Association, presided with dignity in her welcome she of the pride the Alumnae of their alma mater at achievements of its daughters referred to the marked found in the college, emphasized the vast difference between the prosperous days of the college in its traditions teachers was given support without question, the situation today, fight of materialism, she in danger of pushing her back to the days when made his fight if it were many men and women who themselves been trained determined their children even better training.

She then introduced F. Wright, who gave some interesting facts about the college and reminded the Alumnae that the college had never from its original purpose to train teachers, and always been part of the school system of the State. He introduced the speaker, T. Wingate, superintendent of High schools, as a man not of State-wide but of national North Carolina Education and Director of the National Education Association.

Resume of Second Founders Day Is Made For Alumnae

Program Of Founders Day And Speeches Reprinted For Alumnae

The following article is reprinted almost verbatim from the regular issue of The Echo, March 8. In it is given a full account of the second Founders Day celebration that should be of interest to the Alumnae. In addition to this reprint the original paper contained pictures of Mrs. Kate R. Beckwith, Mr. T. Wingate Andrews, the speaker, Miss Elizabeth Smith, assistant dean of women and President of Greenville Alumnae Chapter which sponsored the celebration and of Miss Elizabeth Rolf Hobbs, chairman of Founders' Day.

A goodly crowd in spite of the inclement weather gathered in the Campus Building of East Carolina Teachers College at 10:30 Saturday morning, March 4, to celebrate Founders' Day, the twenty-fourth birthday of the institution. Many of the alumnae showed their loyalty by coming from far and near and enjoyed the annual get-together meeting.

The members of the faculty and those on the program were seated on the stage.

Mrs. Lillie Mae Dawson Thompson, acting president of the General Alumnae Association, presided with distinction. In her welcome she expressed the pride the Alumnae takes in their alma mater and the achievements of its daughters, referred to the marked changes found in the college, and emphasized the vast difference between the prosperous days when the college in its training of teachers was given adequate support without question, and the situation today. Now the fight of materialism, she said, is in danger of pushing education back to the days when Aycock made his fight if it were not for many men and women who have themselves been trained and are determined their children have even better training.

She then introduced President Wright, who gave some interesting facts about the college and reminded the Alumnae that the college had never swerved from its original purpose, that is, to train teachers, and that has always been part of the public school system of the State.

He introduced the speaker of the day, T. Wingate Andrews, superintendent of High Point schools, as a man not only of State-wide but of national reputation, once president of the North Carolina Education Association and Director of the National Education Association.

MR. ANDREWS SPEAKS
"Out in front of every forward motion of civilization have stood men and women whose lives were dominated by some great passion that laid hold upon them and would not let them go." These were forceful words when spoken by as powerful an educator as T. Wingate Andrews, who delivered the Founder's Day Address at East Carolina Teachers College.

He stated further never since the time of George Washington had we needed more men and women of that calibre. According to H. G. Wells civilization is a race between education and catastrophe. Catastrophe overtakes education when the people turn out to be unequal to the problems which they must solve in order to live. Catastrophe is today overtaking education.

"If we are to carry our schools even approximately intact through this crisis, we must lay hold upon something besides the amount of money which they cost. We must weigh the cost of not having schools. Civilization must not be allowed to break at the very heart of its vitality and power to recuperate. Education, not only of schools but of life, is the solution for a civilization that totters. Truly we must educate or perish."

The music featuring the program was excellent. Dan Wright played a trumpet solo. Miss Mavis Evans, who has maintained the reputation as a singer that she made while in college, sang a vocal solo, "Trees."

Rev. R. F. Huske gave the invocation. Preliminary to the second part of the program, the exercises of Mrs. Beckwith, Mrs. Thompson paid very high tributes to her and introduced her to the audience, to most of whom, except the college students, she did not need introduction.

MRS. THOMPSON'S TALK
Mrs. Lillie Mae Dawson Thompson, in introducing Mrs. Beckwith, had this to say: Just as large streams from little brooklets flow, So do huge trees from little acorns grow.

We have here today an example of the beginning of a growth which will, in future years, bring happiness and pleasure to untold numbers of people. The planting of this tree, small and frail, is symbolic of the life of the woman in whose honor it is planted. Her life has been one that has shed its influence over a large territory and has reached into hundreds of homes in North Carolina, where it has served to strengthen the fibre of the occupants and bring nearer the ideal of a perfect home.

The woman whose works we honor today has had a beneficial and wholesome influence upon all of the girls who were fortunate enough to come in contact with her during the many years she served as dean of this institution. This influence cannot be measured. It is like the little brooklet flowing from the spring in the mountainside. It flows on, gathering force and size as it goes, touching and refreshing the lives of those who come in contact with it.

For many years Mrs. Beckwith associated with, worked with, instructed, influenced and directed the lives of the young women who came to this institution. To her many of those who entered these walls and have gone out and developed into influential women, or into the makers of plain simple homes, owe the stamina and fibre with which they have been able to accomplish the tasks that have come to their hands. Her life has been the inspiration and the influence that have clung to them in distress and accompanied them in success. To her honor is now given, only as a mere symbol and slight token of the high esteem and honor due her. Her influence will continue to live, even after this tree has grown, thrived and died away, and in an unending stream will continue to warm and strengthen lives of men as well as women to a depth we cannot fathom and to a time we cannot encompass.

TREE PLANTING EXERCISE
The audience gathered around the tree, in a plot south of Cotten Hall. Here Mr. Meadows was introduced. Dr. Leon R. Meadows at the tree-planting exercises in honor of Mrs. Beckwith, pointed out the qualities that make her life on the campus outstanding. Five characteristics of the first lady principal which Dr. Meadows based his talk on were: Industry, culture, love of the beautiful, sympathy, and loyalty.

He expressed the hope that as the tree grows in strength and beauty, it may be a constant reminder to the ones who are here now and to those who come after us, of the strength and nobility of character of one who in the early years of the college did so much toward helping to shape the destiny of this institution.

A representative from each of the classes here under the regime of Mrs. Beckwith assisted in planting the tree. These were Miss Margaret Blow, Mrs. L. W. Gaylord, Mrs. W. L. Nobles, Miss Mamie Ruti, Tunstall, Mrs. E. E. Rawl, Miss Grace Smith, Mrs. E. W. Hellen, Mrs. K. B. Pace, Mrs. D. J. Whichard, Jr., Mrs. J. Lindsay Savage, Mrs. S. H. Edwards, Mrs. W. B. Herring, Mrs. George Gardner, Mrs. C. M. Warren, Mrs. A. B. Corey and Mr. J. F. Lynch, Erwin, N. C. Splendid tributes were paid to her by the three chosen by their fellow alumnae to represent them. Mrs. Bettie Spencer Thomas of Farmville summed up the qualities which made the students look up to and admire Mrs. Beckwith.

MRS. THOMAS'S TALK
As we stand here today surrounded by evidences of the great changes which have taken place on the campus of our Alma Mater, we are reminded that time moves swiftly on. New buildings have been erected, and the faculty and student body have grown in numbers. But let us not forget that the fine spirit which prevails on this campus has been built largely by the vision and untiring efforts of those who labored here during the formative years of the college. It is our privilege today to honor one who took a most prominent part during this period—Mrs. Kate R. Beckwith.

To know Mrs. Beckwith is to love her. Those of us who were fortunate enough to come under her motherly care know what an abiding interest she had in each of her daughters, as she so affectionately called us. It is not too much to say that our parents could not have been more interested in our welfare and culture than was she. Mrs. Beckwith was a friend to whom we felt free to go for advice at all times.

If those of us who have attended East Carolina Teachers College during these early years have made a success in life as teachers, business women or homemakers, no small part of it is due to her influence and care.

Not only was she interested in the college and students but she was deeply interested in the community. Every movement for the betterment of the town received her active support. She was a citizen of her community in the truest sense of the word. Mrs. Beckwith was also vitally interested in the appearance of the campus. She was untiring in her efforts to improve it wherever possible. Many of us remember the Sunshine Club and the flower garden in the court of the West Dormitory now known as Wilson Hall, and it is most fitting that we should today dedicate a tree to her name.

Mrs. Beckwith, we are happy to have you, with us on Founder's Day—although you have not been connected with the college for the past few years we know that you are still interested in the work that is being done here. We would like for you to know that your ideals are not forgotten and that your influence still pervades this institution, and that no matter how long a period of time passes by, our affection for you will always go down through the years without change. The remembrance of you is always sweet and our respect for your splendid character is only heightened by the passing of time.

MRS. STANCILL'S SPEECH
Mrs. Luella Lancaster Stancill of Falkland, very cleverly reproduced some scenes from college life which brought out the finest qualities of Mrs. Beckwith. Her speech in part follows:

I am honored in that I have been asked to give an appreciation of one so much loved, and so worthy of words of appreciation, as our own Kate R. Beckwith. I know of no better way to express the appreciation I feel than to sketch for you some scenes from her busy life during the sixteen years she served this college as Lady Principal.

1. A group is preparing to give a play,—a Senior play in fact. It is a Greek play and the costumes are difficult. It will be impossible to rent costumes if they are to realize any profit to add to their Loan Fund. In their dilemma, who comes to their aid but their friend in need, Mrs. Kate R. Beckwith, who for days designs and executes wonderful costumes from the gorgeous robes of the mighty Zeus to the dainty flowing draperies of the Graces. All of her deep knowledge of history, all of her wonderful feeling and eye for beauty, all of her power and will to carry out her plans, she pours forth until she sees nothing further that can be done.

And she is as pleased as that Senior Class when everyone expresses admiration for the splendid beauty and fitness of the costuming.

2. A girl is faced with a task which seems too great for her to ever attempt. She goes for help to her advisor, none other than her Lady Principal. She comes away from the conference filled with new zeal and enthusiasm, feeling equal to the task and ready to tackle it.

3. There is an open court between two buildings, bare and unattractive. Under her leadership it blossoms forth into loveliness, "the sunshine garden" it is called. From this garden, sunshine in the form of fragrant flowers is shed abroad to many. It is not unusual for her to spend hours at work in this garden.

4. It is Sunday night. Homesick girls are inclined to mope up so something must be started. Groups gather around the piano for singing, this is followed by solos, after which someone reads or tells a story. The Lady Principal's presence in no way casts a damper over the enjoyment of the group. She becomes just another girl who seems also to receive help from the friendly contact.

5. It became necessary to chastise one of her daughters. And any daughter who ever faced this necessity can but remember the gentle rebukes that hammered the harder because they were so gentle.

When one is asked to give an appreciation of a life, it is understood that the person asked has a deep feeling of appreciation. In this case, surely it is true. I feel that, in knowing Kate R. Beckwith, the lives of all who have come under her guidance have been wonderfully enriched, broadened, and sweetened.

Mrs. Beckwith very graciously acknowledged the honor bestowed upon her, reminding the presiding officer that she was indeed too full for utterance.

She expressed joy over the progress of the college, gladness over the presence of so many of her "daughters," and happiness over being able to be here. She very cleverly referred to a comment on a past speech of hers when it was said the best speech she ever made was the shortest but said that she would "better her best" today.

Miss Margaret Griffin, chief marshal, gave directions to the spot where the second part of the exercises would take place.

MRS. JOHNSON SPEAKS
Mrs. Charles M. Johnson, of Raleigh, whose husband is State Treasurer, recalled many pleasant incidents in her association with Mrs. Beckwith; an extract of her speech follows:

In every institution there are a few men and women, who because of some outstanding attribute have won the respect and love of their associates. It is these men and women who raise the averages of humanity and by their words and deeds brighten the world about them.

Tributes to women have seldom been entrusted to other women. It seems to have been ordained from the beginning of the world that whatever is thought of women must be expressed by men.

If women have been high-rated by men, they have been similarly low-rated by their sisters. I daresay that orators who have not come under the dominion of teachers know them even better than the students who receive the tutelage. It is the misfortune of all public servants to be disproportioned by flattery or to be deformed by calumny. The middle view is impossible to student or to fulsome flatterer.

ROBERT SUGG FLEMING who is believed to be the only Co-ed who is the son of an E. C. T. C. Alumnae.

But the years are seldom unjust, and in our youth we relished not these daily homelies from the schoolroom; if in the hardness of our hearts we failed to appreciate the constant bombardment from the heights of academic perfection, you may be sure that in our age we do.

We have often heard people, when struck by some object or scene of exquisite beauty, exclaim: "If I were an artist, I would paint that picture." When asked to come here for this occasion which, I'm sure, will live long in my memory, I thought how much I should like to paint in words, a vivid picture of our beloved lady principal. Since I am not an artist of this sort, I can only tell you in my own simple way some of the things I feel, and I am sure that I will voice the opinion of all those who were here at the time that Mrs. Beckwith so faithfully and loyally served our Alma Mater.

Being stern, with an unmistakable gentleness, being possessed with a quiet understanding, and having the gift of making others realize instantly right from wrong, endeared her to us all. She won her way into the hearts of all who knew her, and lent an atmosphere to the school which was keenly felt by faculty and members of the faculty alike.

She was a true friend, one always to be counted on in time of need. Her very presence was enough to add stability to any gathering.

It is indeed a pleasure for me to be present to show my appreciation of one who spent so many useful years here for the betterment of this college.

Her influence will long be felt among those of us so fortunate as to have been here during her regime. It is often said that environment plays a vital part in character building, and I think Mrs. Beckwith was a staunch believer in this, for at all times she created just such an environment in the school as one would expect to find under such splendid leadership.

It would be pleasant to review the evidences of her love for, and interest in, us which won for her the warm place which she will ever hold in our hearts. Our lives are richer and fuller because of her influence.

Some people have been wondering why Katherine Braswell has been going over to the campus building lately?

CLASS OF '28 TO HOLD REUNION

About this time in the good year 1928, we decided that it would be impossible for our group, being so devoted to one another, to wait for a ten-year reunion; and so we informally planned for a five-year one. I don't like to admit it, since I have not yet succeeded in finding a husband, but the five-year period is up. Like Russia's, no doubt, it has not accomplished all the things that had been hoped for. In spite of the above supposition and facts, I can't see why we shouldn't have our reunion at this forthcoming commencement—the said plan subject to change by action of the North Carolina General Assembly. Let's make plans toward that end, and as many of us as can, be on hand. By a little inquiry, rides may be easily secured, especially on the Dutch plan. Then, those of us living a greater distance can patronize the railroads and travel at the extremely low rate of one cent per mile, provided we stop at short intervals and buy our tickets.

Now, I hope that every member of our class will decide to come to commencement. Think of the husbands, children, and in-laws we shall be likely to meet; No doubt we may chance upon namesakes, many of them, of ourselves. Who knows?

I appeal to you to make this home coming a joy to the dear old college and a blessing to yourselves. This is the message of your former humble servant, Ethel Spratt.

BASEBALL SEASON REVIEWED

The Baseball season will end this week with a two game series with High Point College. The team while not quite as successful as was at first expected has acquitted itself very well, winning one and losing one to P. J. C. Campbell, A. C. C., and High Point Colleges. It is hoped that most of the team will be back for play next year so as to have nucleus to build the team from.

All of the teams have been coached by Kenneth C. Beatty who has served with no financial remuneration whatsoever, without the assistance of coach Beatty it is doubtful whether the teams would have ever been put out. The college as a whole owes to Coach Beatty, and the Athletic Committee, a debt it can never repay. Both for the school spirit developed by the teams, and the mental and physical development of the squads.

INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETICS AT E. C. T. C.

During the past year, for the first time in the history of the college E. C. T. C. has been represented among other colleges in the State in all three of the major sports. The teams representing us have not been world beaters, but they have played hard and have, we feel, gained a reputation for good sportsmanship with the various schools and teams that have been played, both here and away.

Football was played for the first time this year under the several handicaps of a lack of experienced men and lack of a large squad, although the team worked hard and faithfully it did not manage to win. It is hoped, however, that if the enrollment of men students increases as is expected, we will be able to put out a winning team next year.

The basketball team playing a total of 18 games mostly with Jr. colleges and Frosh teams from the big five won the majority of its contests. Only two men will be lost from the squad by graduation so it is expected that E. C. T. C. will lagain have a victorious team next year.

Friend (visiting a sick pal in the hospital): "Boy, that is certainly a good-looking nurse."

Patient: "I haven't even noticed her."

Friend: "Good Lord, I didn't know you were that sick."

RESUME FROM ROCKY MOUNT CHAPTER

Officers for year: 1932-33, President, Mrs. Nannie Harrell Helms; Vice-president, Mrs. Eula Proctor Greathouse; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Lucille Bullock Hall, 1933-34; President, Mrs. Josie Early Williams; Vice-president, Wita Bond; Sec. Mrs. Lucille Bullock Hall; Treasurer, Mrs. Vick Joyner; Chairman of Membership Committee, Irma Vause; Chairman Program Committee, Viola Bullock.

There have been three "high spots" in the year and plans for these were made at the first meeting in October. Throughout the year emphasis was put on the membership drive. The president, who has been one of the most enthusiastic workers for the Alumnae Association ever since she has been connected with it, was the hostess at that meeting.

The amount of news items they have collected about the old girls as shown below speaks for itself as to the success of the contacts made through the year in the membership drive.

Josie Early (Mrs. Ben Williams) has returned to Rocky Mount to make her home, after living a year in Portsmouth, Va. She has one child.

Nannie B. Harrell (Mrs. W. J. Helms) lives in Rocky Mount and for a number of years has taught in Edgemont Grammar School. She has probably done more than any other member to keep the chapter an active one.

Wita Bond, formerly of Windsor, has made her home in Rocky Mount and for the past four years been a mathematics teacher in the R. M. High School. She is planning to complete her masters degree in Mathematics this summer at Duke.

Lucille Bullock, Mrs. Tom Hall has since her graduation been an active member. She has a very attractive daughter, Bettie Ruth, who will enter school in the fall of 1933.

Eulah Proctor Greathouse has a home in Englewood and teaches at Willoughford School, in Nash county. In addition to the above, she finds time to give her two fine boys much attention.

Christine Vick, Mrs. O. K. Joyner has recently been made Senior English teacher in Rocky Mount High School. Before her marriage in 1929, she taught three years in the Goldsboro High School.

Mildred Everett, class of 1930, has taught in the city school since her graduation. She returns to the college often and gives her loyal support to the work of the local chapter.

Irma Vause and Viola Bullock whose homes are here have taught successfully for a number of years in the Edgemont Grammar School.

Mabel Shore, who now is Mrs. Paul McCrae, was married in summer of 1932.

Mamie Ruth Fleming, Greenville, whose engagement has recently been announced, will not return to resume her work in the Graded School. Elsie Horton Gerard, formerly of Zebulon, N. C., is now making her home here. She has a very fine son, to whom she gives her attention, having given up her position as teacher here.

Frances Hooker, Scotland Neck who is now Mrs. Braxton Daughtridge, has a lovely baby girl.

Irene Dozier and Estelle Ellen are teaching in Willoughford School in Nash county. They are near enough to room and board in town.

Evelyn Ogburn, Tarboro, now teaching in Whitakers, is a frequent caller in town.

Esther Johnson of this city was married to Mr. Milton Tetterton last summer. They have made their home here and she continues to teach in the graded school.

Mary Holloman Johnson, of Woodland, has been a very successful teacher of the seventh grade in Wilkerson Grammar School. She has been here since her graduation in 1930.

Margaret Vaughn, who taught for a few years, is now working in Charlotte following the completion of a business course there.

Lillian Maddry has made her home in Rocky Mount with her aunt on Hill Street.

Dora Creel, Mrs. W. H. Templeton, is now recuperating in her home following a long illness and major operation at the Rocky Mount Sanitarium.

Nancy Gordon, Mrs. Bob Yelverton, has a very fine son born to her about three months ago. It is to be remembered that she was one of the superlatives of the class of 1931.

Mary Worsley is now teaching in the West-Edgemont School, Edgemont County.

Pauline Matthews Boyd was fortunate to be appointed substitute teacher in the West Grammar School in October, a position which she has held since that time.

Lillian Suggs, Greenville, has taught in the City Schools since her graduation in 1926.

Altemise Boyd who teaches in Nash County and lives here finds time to be an active member in the local chapter.

Elizabeth Stewart Bennett, formerly of Rocky Mount but now living in Burlington, is teaching in the Public School there.

Annie Mercer Henry, who lives in Rocky Mount, has taught since her graduation in Battle School. Her sister, Betsy Henry Mayo has an attractive son, Robert, Jr.

ROANOKE RAPIDS

Since 1922 there has been a chapter in Roanoke Rapids. Our chapter has grown from year to year and we now have thirty-two active members. We meet each month, discuss interesting happenings at the college, along with a social hour. Through our friends, the students and faculty members of E. C. T. C. and through the Teco Echo, we try to keep in touch with what is going on there. We are always eager to learn any news from E. C. T. C. It helps us to ever keep alive the spirit of our college.

Eleven members of our chapter have married and are living here, but they do not let household duties keep them from being loyal, wide awake members. They are always ready to enter whole-heartedly into any worth while cause for East Carolina Teachers College.

The following officers of our chapter were elected at the beginning of the school year:

President, Josephine Carty.

Vice-President, Amanda Tillman.

Secretary-Treasurer, Carrie T. Smith.

Reporter, Martha Spivey.

Mrs. William Batton (Julia Blount).

Mrs. W. A. China (Catherine Allen).

Mrs. R. E. Chaton (Lucille Clements).

Mrs. L. W. Clements (Luna Lassiter).

Mrs. R. A. Knight (Ina McGlohon).

Mrs. G. E. Kimball (Alice Dunn).

Mrs. Zollie Powell (Ellen Jones).

Mrs. George Taylor (Sara Waller).

Mrs. R. L. Towe (Sally J. Winslow).

Mrs. Bruce Tucker (Helen Edwards).

Mrs. Thelma Daughtry (Thelma Toler).

Lee Arnold (third grade).

Merle Bell (second grade).

Virginia Blount (Home economics).

Margie Caldwell (fifth grade).

Josephine Carty (first grade).

Cassie Carty (first grade).

Ruth Dean (third grade).

Sarah Gurley (Science and Math).

Catherine Hall (second grade).

Helen House (third grade).

Mae Hampton Keith (second grade).

Lillian Mitchiner (third grade).

Mabel Regan (first grade).

Catherine Reed (second grade).

Carrie Smith (English and tory).

Martha Spivey (second grade).

Amanda Tillman (third grade).

Evelyn Tillman (Home Economics).

Ruth White (third grade).

Hazel Whitehurst (fifth grade).

Mary Louder (third grade).

REGIME OF RALEIGH ALUMNAE ACTIVITIES

President, Ethel Southerland.

First Vice president, Irene Fleming.

Second Vice-president, Mrs. C. J. Thoroughgood (Zelma Wester).

Recording Secretary, Mrs. O. G. Duke, Corresponding Secretary, Ruby Garris, Reporter—Mrs. J. L. Marcom (Augusta Woodward) Chairman Ways and Means Committee.—Stella Howell, Chairman Sick Committee, Mrs. E. H. Spruill.

Objectives:

1. Increase attendance.
2. Arouse keener interest in work of the chapter.
3. Increase membership.
4. Financial Improvement.

(Last year's money was lost in banks.)

Accomplishments:

1. Some increase in attendance. Average attendance about 25.
2. Held monthly meetings regularly, usually at the Woman's Club. Much enthusiasm has been expressed. Girls regard meetings as an evening of pleasant recreation but at the same time many of them are always glad to help in any way possible.
3. Fourteen new members have been added this year.
4. Held bazaar in December. A successful bridge tournament at the Woman's Club in February. Over a hundred people attended, many other than alumnae.

We are often asked how we keep up so much interest. We do not say it boastfully.

but gratefully, that we are the most active alumnae here. Although we haven't done a great deal in a financial way we are glad to report that we do have a interested membership.

Much interest was shown among our members in Founder's Day Exercises at the College. We joined wholeheartedly in the spirit that prompted the planting of the tree in Mrs. Beckwith's honor. The following girls represented our chapter at Founder's Day: Ethel Southerland, Stella Howell, Annie Hardy, Mary Newby White, Augusta E. Woodard.

A woman was granted a master's degree from the University of Chicago after submitting a thesis on "Four Ways to Wash Dishes."

Senior Class Pageant

Is Based On Class Motto: "Strive, To Seek To Find, But Not To Yield."

The motto of the Senior Class, "To strive, to seek, to find, but not to yield," furnished the inspiration for the pageant to be presented by the Seniors, Saturday evening in the Woodland theatre. The pageant, written by Mary Taylor, Martha Stewart, and Beatrice Stalls, attempted to explain this motto by showing how men and women through the ages have lived this motto. The speaking parts in the pageant will be taken by Marjorie Griffin, as a mother, Gladys Mensley, as a boy, and Frankie Davis as a little girl. As the mother tells her children of the men and women, these characters, taken by the remaining members of the Senior Class, pass.

C. Heber Forbes

With everybody and everything packed, Public Landing was left behind.

Those accompanying the Scribblers were Misses Mamie E. Jenkins, and Agnes Wadlington, Mr. M. L. Wright, and Mr. Beecher Flanagan.

The members of the Scribblers' Club motored to Public Landing May 23, for an afternoon of swimming to be followed by a delightful picnic supper.

The school bus left the campus around 3:30 and as soon as it arrived at Public Landing the girls dashed to put on their bathing suits. Then for an hour swimming was enjoyed by most of those present.

When the supper bell rang, everyone rushed to the table where delicious sandwiches, pickles, weiners, rolls, cakes, lemonade, and marshmallows were spread.

After supper, it was discovered to the disappointment of all, that the hour had come when the bus must start back to E. C. T. C.
