Dr. R. H. Wright Named Head of Organizations

Appointed As Member Of National Committee On National Outlook Of Education.

LEADER DRY FORCES IN PITT COUNTY

Eastern Carolina Shipping Board Elects Him As President.

Since the last issue of the paper Dr. R. H. Wright has been named as head of several county and nationwide organizations. At a meeting of the Dry forces in Pitt County Dr. Wright was elected to head the battle in Pitt County. In explaining the nature of the work Dr. Wright said that he thought that prohibition was not a political question but a social one. A question that affected millions of homes of the nation. He urged that all try to wage a relentless campaign against the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Paul C. Stetson, Superintendent of the school in Indianapolis, Indiana, and President of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association has announced the appointment of Dr. Wright as a member of the National Committee of the National Outlook of Education. At a meeting to be held in Cleveland February 24-March 1, 1934, the committee will make its report.

The appointment of this committee by President Stetson is an important item in a fundamental reinforcement of the convention plan followed by educational leaders.

Seven committees have been appointed to deal with the current problems. They will study and report on problems of teacher training, a comprehensive program of public education, financing the schools, education for the new America, public education and public welfare, a national outlook on Education and the interpretation of the schools to the public.

Dr. Wright was also elected to serve as the head of the Eastern Carolina Association which is an organization to promote and aid transportation matters. The same officers of the Eastern Carolina Association are also officers in the Carolina Shippers Association.

DR. FRANK MAKES ADDRESS AT UNION CHURCH SERVICE

Peace Is The Subject Of His Lecture.

At a union church service at the Presbyterian Church Sunday night, Dr. A. D. Frank talked on World Peace. Rev. W. S. Harden, pastor of the Presbyterian Church introduced him.

Dr. Frank declared that the greatest threat to Christian civilization was war. He said that in his opinion an educational program throughout the churches and schools of the world offered the most direct plan to do away with future wars. He recalled the awful toll of life and property taken by the World War, describing it as the world's greatest tragedy.

The causes of the war, he said, were varied; but declared that nationalism and selfish patriotism to be contributory factors. He said that national egotism has caused the world to be "puffed up" with only the thoughts of their own interest in mind.

At this time, the speaker said, the leaders of the world are unable to find any force to bring peace. Military leaders are unwilling to substitute justice for force. Efforts to reduce armaments hold out little hope for a solution of the problem. "We must create a universal desire for peace" Dr. Frank asserted. "It is an educational task for churches and teachers of the world, but the movement must begin at home." He urged the creation of international goodwill between each nation.

He believes that a universal draft to take the profit out of war for the minority, and a profound educational program beginning throughout every phase of human endeavor would be direct factors in providing peace for future generations. Since the beginning of the Christian religion, peace has been one of the main factors that it has advocated. Christ said, "Blessed are the peacemakers." To carry out Christ's directions, we must have peace.

FIRST OPENING OF COLLEGE TOLD BY DR. R. H. WRIGHT

Says Purpose Of The College Has Not Changed.

Dr. Wright in his chapel talk, October 6, gave some interesting facts about the college. He said: In 1930 the college had the largest enrollment during the fall quarter it has ever had. The enrollment that fall was 922. This quarter it is next to the largest, now 914.

Yesterday, October 5, marked the twenty-fourth anniversary of the opening of this college. In 1909, October 4, this College opened its doors to receive students. I believe the enrollment that year, up to the summer school, amounted to 174. Twenty four years ago yesterday just a small bunch of boys and girls were seated here in this center aisle. They were the most homesick looking bunch of folks I ever saw in my life. They looked like they didn't want to be here, and didn't have enough energy to go somewhere else. I was as homesick as they were. I had left a large school in Baltimore, and worked here all summer, and found this small bunch of boys and girls here at the opening. In a few days they looked and felt different, and East Carolina Teachers College had started. It started with the definite purpose, let come what will, of giving to those who came here as students the best training we can so that they may go back yonder to the children of our state (Continued on Page Four)

INTERCOLLEGIATE BASKETBALL FOR GIRLS THIS YEAR

Dr. Wright Gives Permission To Play Four Games This Year.

Intercollegiate Basketball for girls will be held this year for the first time in the history of the college. This has been granted by Dr. Wright to the Athletic Association for only one year with the condition that it will either be abandoned or continued depending on the success of the plan this year. He also made the provision that only four games be played this year.

Last year the Woman's Athletic Association voted to ask Dr. Wright that the Boys Athletic Committee composed of Dr. Adams, Dr. Slay and Mr. Deal Dr. Frank and Mr. Haynes also serve as advisory board for the girls. This request was granted. Supervision of the intercollegiate games will be under their control.

Practice for basketball will be started the first of November. As yet, the coach has not been selected, but it will probably be a member of the faculty.

The schedule has not been made, but it is hoped that games with Louisville, Chowan, Carolina and Duke can be played. (Continued on page three)

Alva Van Nortwick Elected President Of The Co-ed Club

Co-eds Plan Very Profitable Year.

On Wednesday morning, Sept. 27, the Co-ed Club elected officers for this school year. Alva Van Nortwick was re-elected for President; Belmont Kittrell was elected for Vice-President; and Robert Sugg Fleming for Secretary and Treasurer.

The Club plans to be very active on working for the interest of men students on the campus this year. One of the first steps the Club took in interest of the men was the beginning of athletics. In the fall of 31-32 the members of the Club canvassed the College and City for funds to begin a basketball team, and organized the team, and ran the basketball and baseball teams under the name of the Co-ed Club for that year with the aid of the faculty who contributed largely to the support of the team. This year the Club hopes to be able to do something toward the improvement of the interior of the Co-ed Building.

The Club is also seeking a new name. The present name is not very distinguished sounding or rather it is not good enough for the young men of East Carolina Teachers College. If any one has a name to offer please give it to any of the officers of the Club or Dr. ReBarker.

Miss Susan Calder of Salem College is Vice-President. The Treasurer of the Association is Hoke Norris of Wake Forest, and Miss Frances Mallard of Flora McDonaid College is secretary.

ROTOGRAVURE SUPPLEMENT TO TECO ECHO

Collegiate Digest Distributed At No Further Cost To The Student.

Beginning with this issue, The Teco Echo will present with each issue to its readers a complete pictorial review of events that occur in the college world.

Collegiate Digest is a section exactly like the rotogravure sections in the Sunday editions of the large metropolitan dailies, although it will confine its editorial content to pictures that deal with the life and activities of college and university students throughout the United States.

It will give to every student the opportunity of watching what his fellow students in other institutions are doing, and will keep him in touch with educational and scientific developments throughout the world.

There is an old newspaper slogan which states that "one picture is worth ten-thousand words," and Collegiate Digest will tell many volumes of stories to its readers every week. Across its eight pages every week will parade the people who have made news in the college and university world during the past seven days. And along with them will also come many of the things that do not get into the news. The Teco Echo will present a feature to you that will not only give you "complete campus coverage," but will also give you complete nation-wide coverage.

This feature is being presented to you each week at no added cost to the subscriber. Our subscription rates have not been raised, despite the fact that this service presents to the reader a very complete "picture" of the collegiate world.

DR. MEADOWS SPEAKS TO SCRIBBLERS CLUB

Dr. Meadows spoke to the Scribblers last Thursday night on points that should be practiced by everyone affiliated with newspaper work. He brought the club to see the importance of newspapers in the world today. It has only one rival in the shaping of public opinion over the civilized world, the radio.

The suggestions made by Dr. Meadows apply to the college newspaper staff and reporters; the first being an attitude mentally awake, a nose for news and an international viewpoint are the saving features of a good journalist.

Be systematic in your work; make plans, and carry them out. A careful choice of topics, correct expression, interesting write-ups and last of all, work make up the life, body and soul of a successful newspaper.

Appropriations For The Year Are Announced

Year Book Receives Largest Portion Of Fund.

The following appropriations have been made from the Student Fund for the year 1933-34. Teco Echo $ 750.00 Tecoan 3,300.00 Boys Athletics 1,000.00 Girls Athletics 250.00 Student Gov. Assn. 300.00 Student Treasurer 135.00 Advertising 100.00 Incidentals 150.00 Bleachers 170.00 Entertainments 950.00

The total amount appropriated equals sixty per cent of the income from fees last year. This is in line with the cut from $5.00 to $3.00 per quarter in the student fee.

The responsibility for the payment of these sums rests not only on the Budget office but on the individual students, since only the fees paid are available for the organizations on the campus. If only fifty percent of the fees should be paid, only fifty per cent of the appropriations could be paid. Every fee paid makes possible a better publication, a better entertainment, or a better ball game.

Methodist Is A Close Second

Nine different denominations are the choice of the 914 students this fall. The Baptist church leads with 313 students, the Methodist following closely behind with 312. The Quaker and Catholic churches have the same number, 4. The lowest number of students were those belonging to the Lutheran church. This was 3.

Sixty-four of those registered did not show their preference. Nationalism is an anachronism, and unless the world's nations make the proper adjustment of their thought.—Waite Patton.

TOTAL ENROLLMENT 914

Five Other States Other Than North Carolina Send Students Here.

The Fall enrollment this year is 914. This is the second largest fall enrollment since the opening of the school, the largest being in the Fall of 1930 with an enrollment of 922. The enrollment last fall was 900.

Of the 914 students, 651 are dormitory students and 263 are day students. The number of boys enrolled this fall is 94, an increase of 22 over the number last year. More than one third of the number enrolled are members of the Freshman and C classes. Their total number is 335.

There were 62 transfers this year.

Seventy-three of the counties in N. C. are represented. Pitt leads with 210 students, and Wayne comes next with 39. Johnston, Sampson, and Nash have 36 students each. Six of the counties have only 1 student registered here.

There are five states other than North Carolina represented here. South Carolina leads with 11 students. Virginia has 8; Pennsylvania, 3; Connecticut, 2; and Georgia, 1.

Alumna Association Donates A Gateway

Will Be Completed Before End Of Fall Term.

The General Alumni Association of the state has donated a gateway to East Carolina Teachers College. It is to be built of rough granite at a cost of $62,700.

This gateway will be at the entrance between the Administration Building and the Library. It will be completed some time during the fall term. The plans are drawn by Mr. M. L. Wright and the work will be under his supervision, as chairman of the Campus Improvement Committee.

Decided improvements on the campus have already been made in the last three years. Wright's circle, the fountain and pool, and the lake are all comparatively recent acquisitions and are spots of beauty not only for the students but for the people of Greenville as well.

THE POE SOCIETY ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

On September 27, there was a meeting of the Poe Society for the purpose of electing several new officers. Nell Griffin, who was elected secretary, and Evelyn Smith and Laura Eure who were chosen as marshals failed to return to school this year, making an election necessary. Clara Vann Freeman, who was a marshal last year, and who has represented the society in the inter-society debates was elected secretary. Elizabeth Helms and Hattie Mae Johnson were chosen as marshals. Melba O'Brien is President of the Poets.

In this issue of the paper a ballot is printed in connection with the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. The staff would like to have everyone, faculty included, fill one out and drop it in the Ballot Box which will be in the hall of Austin Building. The polls will be closed by October 19, at 12:30 A. M. The results will be published as soon as possible.

Coaches Beatty and Shepard are to be congratulated on their work with the football team this year. The team has also worked so that they can represent us in a creditable manner. It is for us to show how much we appreciate their work. Attend the games; that will help them win!

The columns of the paper are open to every student and faculty member on the campus to express their opinion on daily events. Instead of just talking among a few, write an article and let the whole student body hear your side of the case. Names will not be printed unless the writer wishes his name to be published.

RAISING STUDENT FUND

At a mass meeting, the students voted to ask the Board of Trustees to raise the $3.00 Student Fund this year to the $5.00 Student Fund.

This seems to be the only way out of a disastrous situation. Classes and organizations are not receiving any appropriation this year. Consequently, the dues in these organizations will have to be increased in order that the work can be carried on. It will be cheaper and will be done more efficiently if the student fund is increased, and appropriations given to the classes and organizations.

OUR COLLEGE

This year is the twenty-fifth year that East Carolina Teachers College has been functioning. During the quarter of a century it has continued to be, what its name implies—a teacher's training school. Never changing from the teacher-training idea, it has continued to serve the state in that one purpose.

Few of the students know anything about the history of the college; the organizations, classes and other activities. In order to familiarize the students with the history, the Teco Echo is using the history of the college as the theme for this year. Throughout the year, histories of different organizations, comparisons of records of the college, and other articles of like nature will be used.

A file of the Teco Echo for this year will serve as a short history of the college.

CUTTING EXPENSES

This year the expenses of the student at this college has been cut from $85 a quarter to $80.50. This may mean only $13.50 less each year to many of you, but to the college it means a great deal.

In order to help the school, we must all cooperate in every possible way to cut expenses.

One way we can cut expenses and beautify our campus at the same time, is by keeping trash off of the ground. Men have to be paid to pick up paper after us if we throw it around promiscuously. Put your trash in the baskets and help in that way.

Another way we can help is by economizing with our laundry slips. Use them only for the purpose for which they are intended. Do not use them for scratch paper. As little as it may seem, the saving would still be great.

These are only a few examples of what we can do to cooperate with the officials of our school. Think it over and resolve that you too will cooperate.

INTERCOLLEGIATE SPORTS

We are glad, and more than glad that this year we will have intercollegiate basketball for girls. Last year when the discussion concerning the establishment of girl's intercollegiate sports arose, there was some opposition among the students and faculty members. After weighing the points on either side, Dr. Wright has said that for this year the Woman's Athletic Association could schedule four games. It is only an experiment. If it works, well and good. If it doesn't everyone will have to take the consequences.

In order for the members of the association to succeed, everyone must discard his prejudices against intercollegiate games for girls, and support them in their endeavor. Although, we do have basketball, we must also admit that there are dangers in intercollegiate games for girls. Not as much a moral danger as physical. A girl who is interested in the success of her team will often play when she is unable to do so. But common sense is often a remedy for that, and we think our girls do have common sense.

Sometimes a person is so anxious to win, that consciously or unconsciously she will do something that will hinder the other team. When any of our girls do that, we will admit that basketball has a demoralizing influence on spectators and players alike. On the other hand, basketball helps us in many different ways.

In the first place, it helps to develop a closer contact among the girls of different schools. In the profession for which we are training ourselves, one of the prerequisites is that we should be able to mix with people. Intercollegiate sports will help to develop this trait.

Certainly, no harm has come with the establishment of boy's sports. On the other hand, it has done much for the college. The people in Greenville are more interested because of the sports; other colleges are interested, and the students are more interested in college activities.

What the boys can do, the girls can do. It will be hard the first year, but with the backing of the student body and faculty, East Carolina Teachers College can show that intercollegiate basketball for girls is a desirable, and wholesome sport.

FAIR PLAY

What does that over-used expression mean? How can we apply it to our daily work and play?

Although it is a trite expression it gives very vividly the attitudes we should have towards our college and our friends.

Dr. Wright has asked that we play fair with the college authorities in such things as loafing, taking a long time to walk with co-eds from the library to the dormitory and a few other undesirable things that have been happening.

The students can control it, and they should. Dr. Wright says that only by doing it for ourselves can we build character, which is one of the attributes we should all have.

Let's play fair with the President of the college and the other authorities, so that they will not have to say to us "Turn About is Fair Play".

Remember that we are, after all, responsible for anything that happens in regard to these matters.

QUIET HOUR

Why do we have quiet hour? Why should we be made to stay in our rooms for two hours on Sunday afternoon?

New students frequently ask these questions, and old students will invariably answer, "Because we should; it will do us good." Through experience, the upper classmen have found out that two hours a week of quietness and solitude is desirable. It gives us time to review the past week, and to plan for the coming one; it gives us time to take stock of ourselves and to find ourselves.

Quiet hour is not set aside for punishment, but for our benefit. Let us develop the quiet hour habit, so that we can really live.

Student Opinion

Dear Students:

To applaud or not to applaud is a question which has become of great importance concerning our chapel exercises. In the short time we have been here this year, every established rule pertaining to this question has been disregarded. The principle used in deciding whether or not to applaud is a simple one of which everybody is aware: If a program, or part of a program, deals with religious topics, there should be no applause. In other cases, there should be applause—not from a few scattered persons, but from every person in the audience. No one can deny that our chapel programs are worthy of applause, when applause is in order. Therefore, I urge that we respond more appropriately.

Dear Editor:

So far we have not had a ball game on our campus this year but we meet Wake Forest Frosh on our gridiron October 20th. We have a good football team this year and let's show them our appreciation by attending the game and cheering them. A team needs cooperation from the students and we must do our part to help them win the game. Mildred Dixon, the President of the Cheerio Club, also our college cheer leader will be on hand to lead the yelling so let all join in and make a lot of noise for the team—but be courteous. Don't cheer when the opposing team makes a poor play—that's not good sportsmanship. Games are easier won when the players know that they have the support of their college in the fight.

Dear Editor:

On several occasions President Wright has reminded us that we should not burn our lights while we are not in our rooms. There are still some people that persist in leaving them on. This should stop! The bills run up whether anybody is using the lights or not, and electricity is expensive. We are more careful in our homes about using the lights and since our college is our home while we are here we should be equally as conservative. So instead of increasing the bills of our college let's reduce them by being more economical.

Dear Editor:

When morning glids the sky and glorifies the beauty of the earth, some students on East Carolina Teachers College campus feel the need of coming together and worshipping the Maker of this beauty. But it so happens that this worship program, called between 7:10 and 7:25; and this is the time that most students finish their sleep or clean up their rooms.

To these students a new day is just another day. Can it be that an extra fifteen minutes of sleep are more important than a fifteen minute worship program? Since our new dining room rules have come into effect, there is more time left for cleaning up rooms, so this cannot be why students do not attend Morning Watch. Is it that pupils are not interested in this form of Y. W. C. A. work? or is it that the chairman does not have programs that meet the needs and desires of East Carolina Teachers College students?

PICTURES FOR TECOAN ARE NOW BEING TAKEN

The pictures for the 1933-34 Tecoan are being taken. Dunbar and Daniels, photographers from Raleigh are taking the pictures, and Edwards and Broughton, also of Raleigh have contract for printing the year book. For the last two years the pictures have been taken by White Studio from New York.

Don't Quote Me

Great people have great words—the last words of people are often famous. One of the most popular sentiments around the campus was expressed the day after the spelling test when a freshman said, "That's one time words failed me." It has also been rumored that seniors aren't so good when it comes to the fine art of spelling. One of the members of the class of '34 said that she didn't see what she could do to spell one more word. She's made 89 on every test. If that isn't a case for the old blue back speller I'm an expert speller myself, and no one can accuse me of that. But don't quote me.

Our editor sometimes becomes so desperate that she says she has visions of the staff sitting up all day Tuesday night writing the entire paper. Now, that's a case for the Science Department or what have you. How can a day be a night? Sometimes—well, just don't quote me!

And then there was the freshman who was so fresh, or dumb that upon Miss Charlton asking the question—"But first let me explain."

It was an education class, and Miss Charlton was giving illustrations of heredity, environment and training. She asked, "If a farmer was going to plant corn what would he look for?" Innocently the freshman replied "A pretty day."

Just suppose that our chemistry experts on the campus would try what the students of the University of California did. It has been reported that home-made tear bombs were thrown at a student with radical leanings who was selling literature on a street on the campus at the university. Several hundred students and bystanders went away weeping. From the looks of the eyes of the freshman the first week, it doesn't need to have a tear bomb thrown to start the tear glands to functioning.

Tear glands remind me of psychology, and the questions Dr. Adams can ask. The other day he wanted to know if we had any idea what an idea was. Anyone who can define it in a psychological and yet an understanding way, please do so at once. It seems impossible, but don't quote me.

Dr. Henry Scheinacher said that if home work was eliminated both the teacher and the children would be better prepared for life, because it would save them from being overworked. From the way the Library is being used, it would seem that the teachers here are most emphatically not taking this advice.

By the way, it seems that Dr. Frank is getting absent-minded. I have always heard the professors were absent-minded, but feature one here being so absent-minded that he forgot to go to class. I've heard that is what Dr. Frank did, but don't quote me.

Girls often have queer desires; and often times they are unexplainable. It seems that one of the young ladies on our campus does have queer desires. The other day in one of his economic classes, Mr. Flanagan shot the question "Do you want a pig" at Nellie Grissom. Nellie in her calm manner said, "I could use one if I had one." What was Nellie thinking about? Maybe it wouldn't take a devotee of Sherlock Holmes to figure that out.

Mr. M. L. has been talking in Sociology about wife trading and other sociological questions and that reminded us of this situation: We heard one of the members of the faculty and his wife talking the other day—The conversation was something like this. She: I was reading the other day where a man in Chicago traded his wife for a horse. You wouldn't do that for me, would you?

He: Of course not, but I would hate to have anyone tempt me with one of these new Chevrolet.

Names will of course be withheld, but after a comprehensive study of the faculty maybe you can guess who it was. If you do, don't quote me.

No doubt you have heard the sound of "Kitty, kitty, kitty, pretty kitty." It isn't because they want to pet the cats, but because they want to catch them. They, meaning the members of the zoology class. Yes, and cats they must have. If one of your friends happens to be a cat you had better watch out, you might have a stuffed friend soon. I've heard several students say, "Isn't she a caty." I'm just wondering if some of these undesirable creatures will be demolished after the rush for cats are over, but don't quote me.

The freshman class still goes a-bugging. I heard one of them say the other day "Somebody stole my bug." Was she paraphrasing or is it a case for the student council?

We're wondering why Moena Horton has to look out for baskets falling on her head. Ask her to tell the tale. It's one of trumps, baskets and words, I've heard, but don't quote me.

It seems that the password in the dining room now is "We want another time" instead of "We want another serving."

And then there was the freshman, Jew Horne, who thought that initiation started when you entered school. She went to bed right after dinner to escape the horrors of initiation. What her reaction (sounds like Dr. Adams) was when she found out that she was wrong is very unquoteable.

On Friday, October 6, Coach Bob Warren's powerful freshman team opened their 1933 season with a hard fought victory over the local Teachers. Although the Teachers lost to the Frosh by a 18 to 0 margin, they played what was probably the best game of their rather short career.

Early in the first period a pass was intercepted by a fast back and returned to the one yard line where he was tackled by Rogerson. After two unsuccessful attempts to put the ball over the Teachers scored on an off tackle play by Roy, younger brother of the famous Roscoe, who hails from Louisville, Ky. The remainder of the first quarter and most of the second, the teams battled on even terms; however, the end of half a long pass coupled with several off tackle plays resulted in the second Teachers rally.

The letter that follows is from Dr. Wright commenting on the plan.
October 2, 1933.

Mr. R. C. Deal, Chairman, Athletic Association, East Carolina Teachers College Dear Sir:

On June 3, 1933, I received a communication from the Women's Athletic Association, requesting that we set aside a certain day in May, 1934, for the purpose of holding a field day. I am writing to notify you that I am willing to hold this for one year, provided it is on the first Saturday in May—May 5. Whether we will continue this longer than one year will depend upon how it works out next year.

I have had a number of requests from students that I grant the permission to the women students of the college to engage in intercollegiate basketball. I am going to approve this for the approaching basketball season, with the understanding that they will have not more than four games. This also is to be for one year only, and whether it is to be continued will depend upon many factors involved in this first year's experience.

Yours sincerely,
Robert H. Wright, President.

W. A. A. ENTERTAINS AT KID PARTY FOR FRESHMAN CLASS

On October 7, the Girls Athletic Association gave a kid party in honor of the new students of E. C. T. C.

All of the little children were met at the door of the campus building by Little Miss Will Higdon, President of the Association, who presented each child with a welcome tag.

Inside there was dancing until everyone arrived. Then a group of the older girls showed the younger ones how to play such games as: "Here We Go Round the Mulberry Bush," "Looby Lou," "London Bridge," and "Drop the Handkerchief." After several hours of happy nonsense everyone went out on the front steps to have their pictures made. Then the three hundred children were divided into five groups. Each group were given chewing-gum, candy, suckers, peanuts, and finally ice cream was served in the Y Hut. Every child courted, as their mothers had taught them and said that they'd had a very nice time.

A conservative is one whose interests and likes and dislikes are permanent. He is unwilling to experiment with new institutions and is more than willing to let well enough alone.—Dr. Floyd Ruch, University of Illinois.

President of W. A. A. Comments On Intercollegiate Basketball

Urges Cooperation Of Student Body

For several years the girls of E. C. T. C. have asked for intercollegiate ball. For various reasons the Executive Department did not see fit to grant this request. This year President Wright has given us, not only intercollegiate ball, but has also set aside an entire day for College Field Day. We should feel greatly honored to be among the student body that has first received these privileges. But along with these, as it is with every true privilege, comes responsibility. We have been granted intercollegiate ball and Field Day for only one year, and with certain conditions. These conditions are cautions and guides that will help make our efforts a success. President Wright, and also the Athletic Association, wants it to be made clear that these two privileges are not only for the Athletic Association, but for the entire student body.

This year the student body has been granted a very great privilege, and it is up to you to make the most of this opportunity. If the plans are a success, there is no reason to believe that they will not continue next year, and the next, with even greater privileges, as we show ourselves, worthy of greater trust. It's up to you to make or break this chance. You have always wanted Field Day, and intercollegiate ball. Now you have both. What are you going to do about it? Are you going to do everything possible to make these plans a success? Come on, everyone, let's fight it out shoulder to shoulder. Let's prove ourselves worthy of the trust that President Wright has put in us.

We have working with us and for us, the college athletic committee. It was largely through them that we have been granted these privileges. They deserve our thanks. Mr. Deal, and also the rest of the Athletic Committee, you have our most heartfelt thanks for the many things you have done for us.

This year, we want to go into sports with a real sportsmanlike attitude. That is, we are proud that we are "E. C. T. C. ers", we are proud of our various teams. We are proud of them when they are winning, and proud of them when they are losing, and we are always courteous to the visiting teams.

We want to start some new customs this year that will soon become traditions. We want our college to be known, not only for their strength in athletics, but for their ability to be good winners as well as good losers. We want our teams to live by and know the Sportsman Creed:

"For when the One Great Scorer comes
To write against your name
It's not what you won or lost
But how you played the game."

It's up to us this year. They've given us our big chance. Let's show everyone that we've got that "Ole College Fighting Spirit" in our souls.

Sincerely,
Will Higdon,
Pres. W. A. A.

PRESIDENT HOME EC. CLUB CALLS MEETING

The President of the Home Economics Club, Mildred Harrison, called a meeting on September 27, for the purpose of electing officers to fill vacancies. Emma Felton was elected treasurer to fill the vacancy made by Evelyn Smith. Mary Elizabeth Crawford was elected to act as Tecoan Representative in the place of Marjorie Davenport.

After the election of these officers, the question as to when new members should be allowed to join arose. This question was settled by deciding to have a party to welcome new girls and to let all of these girls who wished to join do so at this party. With the appointment of Verona Lee Joyner to head all of the committees to plan for the party, the meeting came to a close.

REV. FRANK CALE SPEAKS TO Y. W. C. A.

Rev. Frank Cale of Tynes, spoke to the Y. W. C. A. at the Sunday night vesper service on "The Consecrated Life," taking his text from Romans 6:13—"Yield yourselves unto God."

Rev. Cale told of an experience he had in college when one of his friends decided that books should come first in school and religion should be placed in the background. He showed how this error had wrecked the life of the young man. How much more wonderful is a life that is surrendered ultimately to the authority of God—one that is administered by Christ.

Giving as an example a gifted violinist who was able to bring forth sublime music from the cheapest kind of instrument, he pointed out that, just as the violin was at its best in the hands of the master, so would a person's life when consecrated into the hands of our Master yield forth many times its ordinary blessings.

As students of the college we were especially interested in hearing Rev. Cale because his twin sister, Virginia, is a senior here.

The music was furnished by the Y. W. C. A. choir and a special selection was given by Mrs. Charles White.

MR. T. C. JOHNSON VESPER SERVICE SPEAKER

Mr. T. C. Johnson, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Kinston, was the speaker at the Y. W. C. A. Sunday Vesper services. He used as his subject the single word—"Potentiality," the power to achieve and grow.

Taking as an example the tiny acorn from which grows the mighty oak, he showed that the acorn itself has no potentiality and grows only when it is attached to the whole universe. Within itself the acorn will never become more than it is.

Potentiality abides only in the human will. Men have manifold latent abilities which when uncovered often bring forth unlimited achievements. Our forefathers pressed onward until they had reached the Pacific. Men have conquered the air; Helen Keller conquered her blindness and deafness; Booker T. Washington overcame the disadvantage of being a so-called "inferior race"—All through potentiality within the human will.

"If there's a gulf to meet—a limit set— You and I have never reached it yet."

At a recent meeting the Sophomore Class chose Carolyn Brinkley for their President for this year. Janie Outland, who was the student council representative last year was re-elected. Elizabeth will serve as Vice-President, Jewel Cole as Secretary and Jean Thomas as Treasurer. Ethel Vick will be the Tecoa representative and Dorothy Hooks and Elizabeth Keith are other leaders. Ellen Jenkins was chosen Teco Echo reporter.

LANIER SOCIETY GIVES DARKEY PARTY

The members of the Lanier Society surprised the freshmen with a Darkey Party, Thursday September 22, in the Society Hall.

A negro quartette composed of Myrtle Gray Hodges, President of the Society, Esther Pridden, Rachel Barbee and Catherine Crow sang negro spirituals. Marjorie Fodrie who impersonated Cab Calloway sang several selections. Green lemonade in yellow paper cups, carrying out the Society colors were served to the guests.

and give them the best training they can. And never for one minute has this institution deviated from its purpose. The course of study has been changed from a two-year course to a four-year course. It first consisted of two years high school work and two years college work; it now gives four years college work. But we haven't changed the purpose of the college.

The purpose of this institution hasn't changed, but the institution has time and time again to meet changing needs. The objective is the same, but the means of obtaining that objective have changed. When we first started in to train teachers in North Carolina there were practically no trained teachers. The college at Greensboro was training teachers, and doing a good job of it, but just a small number were being trained in comparison to the needs of the state at that time. Many children in North Carolina were being taught by people who held what was called a "post card" certificate. They couldn't pass an examination any high school boy or girl should have been able to pass, and were given a certificate simply to "keep school." The faculty of this institution said, we will eliminate that kind of thing from the child life of North Carolina, we will take away from the child life of North Carolina people who are just keeping school, and give to the state of N. C. people who are trained to teach. This institution heard the call of the children of North Carolina, with hands uplifted, saying, Give us someone who can lead us from darkness into light. Today we have, with a few exceptions, a real good corps of public school teachers. They are not as well trained as they should be, and we are not going to stop until we get into the school houses of North Carolina the best trained teachers it is possible for us to get there.

This year at Commencement, we are going to observe the twenty-fifth anniversary of the opening of the college. I hope all the publications of the college and all organizations will keep this in mind. It is time to make an anniversary issue of whatever you are publishing. Your college has been training teachers for a quarter of a century. A committee has already been appointed to work out a program for our Commencement, so as to make the twenty-fifth anniversary a real anniversary of our college, and I want every one connected with the institution to join in making this a great year for East Carolina Teachers College.

Mr. L. L. Gobbel, Executive Secretary of the North Carolina Conference, Rev. John F. Kirk, Executive Secretary of the Western North Carolina Conference, Warren Scoville, of Duke University, who was president of the first North Carolina Methodist Students' Conference, and Miss Idalene Gulledge, Director of the Wesley Student Association of the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, met with the above mentioned group. Arrangements were made for eminent speakers to be present for the Conference. There will be round table discussions. LELIA ELLEN BELK, 32 DIED IN WAXHAW OCT. 3

Lelia Ellen Belk, a graduate of the class of 1932 died at her home in Waxhaw on October 3. Lelia Ellen who was one of the most brilliant and prominent students to graduate here was loved by all who knew her. While here she was active in many organizations, particularly the student Volunteer Band and Y. W. C. A. She was President of the Student Volunteers in 1930, and a member of the Y. Cabinet in 1929. She was interested in journalistic work, and was a charter member of the Scribblers Club, also serving as Tecoa representative.

All who saw the class day exercises of the Class of 1932 can never forget the author. Writing the pageant for the class day exercises was only one of the few outstanding things Lelia Ellen did while in school here.

Lelia Ellen has endeared herself to all who knew her by her faithfulness in performing her work, her friendly manner and her lovable personality.

was published. The excerpt about Dr. Wright is as follows: "Alcohol and gasoline will not mix. North Carolina has one of the best road systems to be found in the country. The sale of spirituous liquors, in my judgment, will make the highways unsafe," said Dr. Robert Herring Wright, the oldest of these three brothers, and President of East Carolina Teachers College. "I am a prohibitionist for the same reason I am in favor of the 'anti-pistol-toting'—for the protection of human life. A large per cent of the crimes committed in our state at the present time can be traced to liquor. Not many suicides come from the list of the people known as Drys. There is some medical value in alcohol. Outside that there is not practical value in its use as a beverage."

LANIER SOCIETY CONDUCTS CHAPEL

The chapel program of October 13, in charge of the Lanier Society, was devoted entirely to music. Miss Mary Louise Gregory and Alva Van Nortwick sang several of the popular songs of the day, giving an encore as well. This program is a continuation of the regular Friday student-conducted chapel programs, which were first introduced last year with so much success.

STUDENTS CONDUCT CHAPEL PROGRAM

The first student-conducted chapel program of the year was given on Friday, September 29, when Eloise Camp, as Religious Education Chairman of the Y. W. C. A. presided. Mary Louise Gregory pleased the assemblage with a solo, and special talks were given by three girls.

The first, on "Success", was given by Anne LaDue Hartman. In her talk she brought out the fact that it is not always the great writer or the millionaire who is successful; for to be able to smile in the face of hardships, and while doing the monotonous daily round is truly being a success.

Ellen Jenkins spoke on the topic, "Don't Be Discouraged," telling of a woman whose cherished plants were nibbled by a neighbor's rabbits, but who was able to overcome her discouragement and start anew.

In speaking on "Don't Be Critical," Mary Gorham brought forcibly to the attention of the student body the fact that many of them were unknowingly going through life with a destructively critical point of view. Criticism, she said, if rightly and constructively used, is one of the greatest weapons for man's betterment of his lot.

DR. I. C. GRIER SPEAKS AT CHAPEL PROGRAM

Dr. I. C. Grier, Business Manager of the Thomasville Orphanage and former teacher at Appalachian State Teachers College, spoke at the chapel program on Thursday, October 11. He was in Greensboro attending the Roanoke Baptist Association.

Dr. Grier brought out three points that he thought college students should gain from four years of study. First, an interest in children, second, ability to make wise choice; and third, appreciation of the finer things in life. He drew richly from his experiences at the orphanage and elsewhere.

HOME EC. CLUB GIVES BUFFET-BRIDGE SUPPER

The Home Economics Club's way of bidding welcome to the new Home Economics Majors was by a buffet-bridge supper given in the "Y" Hut on October 3, at five o'clock.

After the guests had been welcomed by the president, attractive tallies were given each player and a few rubbers of bridge were played. The high score of the old girls was won by Jean Tate; the high score for new girls, by Imogene Betha. A salad and ice course was served.

EXECUTIVE BOARD MET OCTOBER 14

The executive board of the North Carolina Division of the American Association of University Women met here October 14. Dr. Lucille Turner is President of the Greenville Chapter of this organization.

Members present were the President of the Organization, Mrs. Clyde Miller of Guilford College; Miss E. Anderson, of Duke, Vice-President; and State chairmen and members of the standing committees.

FIRST PRACTICE RECITAL IS HELD

The first practice recital was held in a rather informal manner, Miss Mead and Miss Gorrill, both of the piano faculty, talking to the girls about different phases of music study and practicing. Athaleah Muse, Edith Marslander, and S. Elizabeth Smith each played several numbers. These recitals are held every first and third Wednesday evenings at 6:30 in the Campus Building, for the benefit of the piano students.
