Local Rotarians Honor The Late College President

Many High Tributes Paid To Dr. Wright By His Colleagues In Memorial Service Held For Him.

The Rotary Club, of which President Wright was an outstanding member, held a memorial service, May 7, in his honor, "Bob" Wright, the Rotarian, the colleague, the churchman, the citizen, the administrator was extolled in this program.

Augustus Fleischmann in speaking of "Bob" as the Rotarian said "Words can add very little to that life." He continued telling how the "quiet cordiality" of his fellow Rotarian quickly dispelled the hesitancy that kept him from calling him Bob; soon it was Bob not only at the club but everywhere. Bob exemplified in the finest way that fellowship which is the true interpretation of Rotary ideals. Here was one man who could truly be called great without compromising the term. "Everyone is grateful for the work we knew him for what he was."

Jasper Winslow who knew Bob as a churchman, business man, Sunday School teacher, voting at the polls and at the club remarked about Dr. Wright as a citizen. "He enjoyed rights and privileges in the community and enjoyed the right of serving the community. He would go from his work to lecture to large groups of farmers. Bob was a good citizen. Bob Wright was worth more as a citizen than Andy Mellon. He believed government was for the man. It was for the government—church, school and all organizations that worked for the best of the community—that Bob spent his life. No citizen could do more than Bob has done."

As churchman Herbert Waldrop spoke. Herbert Waldrop knew him first as student in the college where "Bob" conducted chapel. He always opened with a prayer. Many talks he gave the students filled with hope and faith which was a great influence.

"Dr. Wright was a member of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Board of Stewards from the time he first came to Greenville and for a long time member of the Board of Trustees. From 1919 to 1929 he was teacher of the Methodist Baraca Class. Then he stopped for a Speaker Compares Life Of Dr. Wright To The Life Of Moses.

Dr. Wright's Strong Character And Resulting Influence Will Continue Forever States Dr. Meadows.

A beautiful memorial service, simple and informal, was held by the College Y. W. C. A. recently in memory of Dr. Wright. The Austin Auditorium dimly lighted by candles on the stage, decorated with white flowers, the girls dressed in white, the original members of the faculty seated on the stage, with the hymns sung softly, with a talk appropriate to the occasion by one closest to him, all seemed to fit perfectly the character and personality of the great and beloved leader, whom they were honoring. President Wright's very spirit seemed to be present.

The six people seated on the stage were Mrs. Beckwith, who was lady principal for the first seventeen years, and the five members of the faculty who have been in the school since the first year, Misses Davis, Graham, Lewis and Jenkins, and Dr. L. R. Meadows. Melba O'Brien, president of the Y. W. C. A. had charge of the service.

Dr. Meadows made a talk that will doubtless stay in the minds of those who heard it, as long as they live. Instead of giving a direct eulogy, he presented the (Continued on page four)

Wednesday, May 16, 1934.

The staff of the Teco Echo dedicate this issue of the college paper to the memory of Dr. Wright.

There are no words which can express the love and the gratitude that the Students feel for President of the College—Dr. Robert Herring Wright. Dr. Wright's love for youth and his faith in them inspired the students to do their best.

He was one who placed love of others above himself. He has given himself wholeheartedly to the task of guiding the school, and no one will ever be able to take his place.

Since the College was first established he has been the only President. It has grown from a small school to one of the leading teachers colleges and it has been through the untiring efforts of our beloved leader that this has been done.

Unlike those of many schools, the students came in daily contact with Dr. Wright through his chapel talks. These will always be remembered and cherished as a dear possession. He was a living example of what a real Christian could be, and everyone is the better for having known him.

Dr. Wright said in one of his recent chapel talks, "If we all shaped our lives in accordance with God's great plan we would have a world filled with peace and love and friendship, a world where human beings could attain the highest peace, the most genuine happiness, and each individual would fit into the scheme as perfectly as cogs in a wheel, as the parts fit into any machine that works smoothly."

He tried to shape his life in the way God would have it done, and his ideals have been instilled in the hearts of many of the teachers of the state; and his influence has been felt in the lives of the younger generations of the state.

This College and its work of training teachers will go on a living memorial to this great teacher.

Three of the outstanding students of the college were recently elected to an officership of an association of the different colleges. They are elected because of their outstanding work in their particular fields, their capability, and their personality. This is perhaps the first time that more than one student of the college has held an important state office at one time, and their election shows that the college is being recognized for the work done in the publication, Y. W. C. A., and Student Government Association.

Katherine Hines, Ethel Vick, and Frances Watson have been elected as an officer in the N. C. C. P. A., State Student Government Association, and State "Y" Cabinet respectively.

Katherine Hines who has been on the annual staff for three years was business manager this year, and was elected editor for the year 1934-35. Because of her outstanding work while on the staff and her interest in publications, she was elected secretary of the N. C. C. P. A., at the last meeting held in Raleigh.

Ethel Vick has represented the college for two years, at the State Student Government Conference. She has been on the Council for two years, and will be secretary of the Student Government Association of the college next year. She was elected treasurer of the State Student Government Association.

Frances Watson who was chairman of the morning watch committee this year, and who will be vice-president of the Y. W. C. A., next year was recently elected secretary of the State "Y" cabinet. This place was held the past year by Edith Marslender.

DR. ROBERT H. WRIGHT

Editorial in the Greenville Reflector April 25, 1934

In the death of Dr. Robert H. Wright here today not only this city and county lost one of its foremost citizens but the state as a whole has suffered a great loss. Who Dr. Wright was and what he did needs no word from us for he was known in educational circles throughout the state and nation and when there was work to be done that meant betterment of conditions for the future generations, Dr. Wright was always listed as among those in the thick of the task.

During his quarter of a century as head of the college here he has instilled higher and nobler ideals in the minds of thousands of young women and young men who have gone out into the profession of training others and even in the generations yet unborn there will no doubt be reflected ideals inspired by him here as he went about his daily task of seeing to the operation of his school.

Not only was Dr. Wright interested in education for as a churchman he taught by word and example the Christian life and leaves behind him a high example for others to follow. And aside from this there was no movement for the betterment of conditions in order to make his community a better and happier place in which to live that he did not take a vital interest. During his last days he gave considerable time and effort to a project of civic development here that if carried to completion will mean hundreds of thousands of dollars annually to the people of this immediate community.

It is needless to endeavor in a short time and space to cover the activities and achievements of this great man. It should suffice to say that truly the state and especially this immediate community is a better place for his having lived.

DR. ROBERT HERRING WRIGHT

Editorial in the Kinston Free Press

The death of Dr. Robert H. Wright, president of East Carolina Teachers College at Greenville, following a two-day's illness came as a shock to a host of personal and professional friends.

While Dr. Wright has not been in the best of health, no particular uneasiness was entertained regarding his condition prior to Monday when he was stricken while at work in his office. He was critically ill from the outset, but his doctors entertained some hope of his recovery.

He had been honored by his associates in the educational world, having been president of both State and National Associations. Dr. Wright was a practical educator. He impressed those who came in contact with him as possessing that old fashioned requisite of a well rounded character known as "gumption." He was a Christian gentleman of the highest type.

Dr. Wright was civic-minded. He was intensely interested in the work of the Rivers and Harbors Congress and was a member thereof. He was planning to attend the meeting to be held in Washington City Monday and Tuesday of next week.

North Carolina has lost a worthy son, a capable and distinguished educational leader and a good citizen.

Dr. Robert Herring Wright

Whereas, it has been God's will to call to his reward our beloved president and His faithful servant, Dr. Robert Herring Wright on April 25, 1934, and

Whereas, he devoted such a great part of his life to our institution and to the people of our state.

Therefore, be it resolved by the student body of East Carolina Teachers College:

1. That no formal words of resolution can express the high estimate we place upon the services he rendered, nor measure the heavy loss which we as a student body have sustained.

2. That we do humbly bow to the will of Almighty God.

3. That we desire to record our high praise and hearty thanks to Almighty God for the gift of this great and understanding man who was a leader in the educational world.

4. That his strength of meekness, his greatness of simplicity, his wisdom in counsel, his skillfulness in administration, and his soundness in judgment will serve as a challenge to all those who have felt his influence.

either as individuals, students, or fellow-workers, so that he being departed will yet live.

5. That definite in his own convictions, he was ever tolerant of the convictions of others.

6. That to his wife and family, we convey our tender and affectionate sympathy, assuring them of our prayers on their behalf that the God of all consolation may sustain and comfort them.

7. That copies of these resolutions be sent to the family, to the school and daily papers, and that they be placed upon the records of the Student Government Association.

BACTERIOLOGY CLASS VISITS LOCAL DAIRY

The Bacteriology class, Science Department of Carolina Teachers College, visited Blount's Dairy in Greenville recently. The visit grew out of the class work in connection with the study of Bacteria in relation to milk.

The class was very favorably impressed with the conditions that existed at the dairy. The entire process of preparing the cow for milking, through bottling the milk, carried out with greatest care. The plant was found to be modern and well equipped for every respect.

After the group had through the Dairy, Dr. Blount's cold chocolate milk served. Miss Lorraine is the teacher of the class.

Sports Comments

Because E. C. T. C. is at the present primarily a college for women, should be no legitimate reason why school spirit is decidedly lacking in many of the student functions. It is a known fact that a majority of college girls find some element in their college life which they dislike, and proceed to tell the world about either food, professors, or extra activities. However, even this is not a sufficient excuse for the comparatively poor support the baseball team has had thus far. We should be proud of the fine showing the team has made, and the least we can do to show our appreciation is to give undivided support at the remaining home games.

Some few think that Kapelec's spectacular catch in the first Oak Ridge game was a miracle. They just don't know our John, eh what?

When Miss Thomas asked Troy Burnette to play first base in the orchestra, he replied, "Well, you see, I'm more competent as a pitcher."

Bostic certainly held down a "hot" position in the Oak Ridge games. The cadets slammed plenty, but "Runt" was there every time. Some shortstop!

I could tell a good joke here, but no one will read this far; so what's the use?

In the game with Grimesland last Friday, "Lefty" Dunn got he break he justly deserved, and pitched a 6-1 win for the Pirates.
Although he has pitched winning ball several times this season, the support was not good enough to win in a victory until the game Thursday. The Grimesland team out hit E. C. T. C. 7 to 4, but a finely honed by Johnson, and a double by Ridenhour framed the score. Bostic and Gaston each accounted for a single. The good pitching of Dunn, and nice fielding support, kept the Grimesland hits well scattered. The only unaccounted for by Grimesland was a homer.
The Grimesland pitcher, Andriola pitched a good game for his team.

MEMORIAL SERVICE HELD AT VESPERS

life of Moses and the life of Dr. Wright as parallel in their main features. "The Two Leaders" was his theme. He chose as the scripture lesson, the first two verses of the first chapter of Joshua which includes these words: "Moses my servant is dead; now, therefore arise, go over this Jordan."

The main points he brought out in the life of Moses, one of the greatest leaders of all were these: Born in bondage; saved from the evils of his environment by his mother who developed in him the highest type of character; educated in the University of Egypt, the best of his time; leaving his people and going into another land for a time; recalled to become the leader of his people leading them out of the land of bondage, their leader still throughout the years in the wilderness; finally, passing on and leaving the order for them to "go forward."

Our leader, he said, was born in the days of Reconstruction when the state was going through the worst bondage in its history; his great mother saved him from the bondage of ignorance and superstition which was a great danger of his environment; she planted in him high ideals and standards and developed in him the finest type of character; he was educated at the State University, the school that perhaps offered the finest opportunity within his reach. After staying with his people a short time, he left the state and labored elsewhere for a few years; he was called back to lead his people out of the bondage of ignorance; for almost a quarter of a century he gave his life to his people, becoming a great leader; now he has passed on, leaving his people to go forward.

Dr. Meadows spoke of the great influence that President Wright had on his state and on the Educational thought of the day, becoming recognized not only nationally but internationally. He showed how the influence of that first great leader, Moses had gone on and on, growing greater as time passes by, and how the influence of our great leader, through the lives of those he has influenced, can never die. The choir sang as the opening hymn, "Now the Day is Over." After the second hymn, "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind," all bowed in silent prayer, which was closed by Miss Polly Melvin. The final song was the Y. W. C. A. hymn, "Follow The Gleam." The service was closed by a prayer by Dr. Meadows.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT FROM THE PITT COUNTY ALUMNAE CHAPTER

We, the members of the Pitt County Chapter of the Alumnae Association of East Carolina Teachers College wish to pay tribute to the beloved Father of our college, Dr. Robert H. Wright, whom God has called from our midst.

He wrote his name with kindness, love, and gentle deeds upon the hearts of those who knew him. His services and his influence, threads of gold woven together, gleam out brightly in the pattern of life.

He built his life and faith and hope and love, and passed on to others that great and noble creed.

He realized that the future welfare of mankind depends upon the training of the present. To him each hour was charged with duty—with service to the youth. His words were fruitful seeds. His influence, his shadow self, now spreads where he has never been.

Our sincere sympathy we would express to his loved ones. We, too, have suffered a great loss. A beautiful life ends not in death, however. The sweetness of it lingers on.

"Like the vase in which roses have once been distilled, You may break, you may scatter the vase if you will. But the scent of the roses will hang round it still."

coming here at the opening of the first summer school, June 1910, which was the beginning of the quarter of the first year. He is head of the English Department. He has acted as dean for the past five years, ever since Prof. H. E. Austin retired from active service. He has been secretary of the Board of Trustees and director of the Summer School since 1922, succeeding Prof. C. W. Wilson, in both of these positions.

He has been very closely associated with the late President Wright and with the administrative affairs of the college throughout the years, serving on various important committees. He has represented the college at various educational meetings and on committees of educational organizations. He has been in demand as a speaker and has a strong hold on the alumnae.

He has been absent from the campus on leave of absence three times, twice for graduation study at universities and for war service.

He was born and reared on a farm near Haynesville, Louisiana, which is near Shreveport, and attended the public school near his home. He attended Peabody College, receiving a two-year diploma from that institution. He then went to Baylor University at Waco, Texas, from which he received the A. B. degree in 1908. From there he went to Yale University, from which he received both the A. B. degree, in 1909, and the M. A. degree, in 1912. He studied at Columbia University two years, 1913-14 and 1927-28. He received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from that University in 1923. He taught in Crockett, Texas, just one year, the only year that he had ever taught before coming here.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Resolutions of respect for Dr. Robert H. Wright were adopted by the faculty and staff of East Carolina Teachers College at a meeting of the entire staff on May 9th.

We, the members of the faculty and staff of East Carolina Teachers College, in deep sorrow, and realizing the loss of our leader, Dr. Robert H. Wright, wish to express our appreciation of his worth and leadership, and our profound personal affection for him.

Since nobody knows when, civilization has been enriched and mankind has been made better through the influence of the lengthened shadows of men such as he. His course, his ideals, and his high sense of honor have been an inspiration to the thousands of youths who have come under his influence. He camped among the crags and peaks of wisdom and his idealism was contagious and uplifting.

In his going the state has lost one of its first citizens; the nation has lost an outstanding leader in education; and the institution which he guided through its first quarter of a century has suffered an irreparable loss. As an executive, he possessed constructive wisdom and the courage to lead in the fact of adversity.

He was abundant in the sympathetic touch that led his co-workers to their best effort, and wise in the freedom he provided for their activities. His sympathy was without bounds and his inspiration was a joy to those who strive to achieve in cooperative effort. He was a messenger of good-will to those in distress; he went the second mile and exacted no ransom. He performed his functions in meekness and expected no cheering multitudes to inspire his purposes. He made up his mind in the calm of his own soul and with courage achieved mightily for God and man.

Our sympathy is sincere with all those who mourn his loss, and we pour out our hearts with his loved ones and remember him with an affection that shall grow more sacred with the passing of seasons.

John E. Allen, editor of Linotype News, addressed 100 editors, reporters, and mechanical workers from daily and weekly papers on Journalism Day, April 21, at Westminster College, New Wilmington, Penn.

Y. W. C. A. SENDS DELEGATES TO THE STATE CONVENTION

The Annual North Carolina Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. officers conference met at State College, Raleigh, on April 27, 28, and 29, 1934, with East Carolina Teachers College well represented.

Shortly after the formal registration on Friday afternoon, all delegates were entertained by members of the State College Cabinet at a delightful informal tea. In the evening William Braswell, the out-going president of the State College Y. M. C. A., spoke briefly, welcoming the conference delegates. Then followed the devotional that was conducted by Mr. David Porter. The main address of the evening was delivered by Mr. Claude Nelson, of Atlanta, Georgia, who is the Southern Y. M. C. A. Secretary. His topic, "What is Our Life or Spirit?", gave rise to his conclusion that our aim in life is discovery and release, or the development of the highest capacity for enjoyment and creation.

Opening the Saturday morning session was a devotional, led by the Misses A. V. Poe and Mary Woodard. After this part of the session, the delegates heard reports from the various committees, among them the nominating committee, which presented the following slate for the year 1934-1935: President, Carter Williams; Vice-President, Mary Woodard, W. C. U. N. C.; Secretary, Frances Watson, E. C. T. C.; Treasurer, Walter Sprunt, Davidson.

This slate was accepted and the new officers were installed on Sunday morning. At the conclusion of this business session, the Rev. J. F. Fletcher, of St. Mary's College, spoke beautifully on "Our Relationship to God." A round table discussion of his talk followed.

At 12:15 the conference members assembled on the front steps of the Y. M. C. A. building to have the Annual Conference picture made.

Saturday afternoon delegates from both Associations held a joint meeting, discussing how the Student Christian Movement is faring to-day, and how it prospered in previous days. After this discussion the two groups met separately to discuss their responsibilities and various activities on their respective campuses.

At six o'clock a delightful supper was served in the Y Building. After the meal various college songs being sung. Later in the evening, Mr. Fletcher continued his talk on "Our Relationship to God."

Our college was well represented at the conference, thirteen students from E. C. T. C., being present. Most of these were members of the newly installed Cabinet on our campus.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB PRESENTS PANTOMIME

A pantomime, "A Bachelor's Dream," was presented by the Home Economics Club of East Carolina Teachers College May 4th, at the Assembly hour.

A bachelor, whose part was taken by Miss Will Higdon, disguised after an attempt to do housekeeping, puts out a sign "Housekeeper Wanted." First there came an ignorant, old-fashioned girl, then a lazy fat girl, then a ten-cent store clerk, then a negro, and last a flapper, all of whom prove unsatisfactory. Finally, an attractive girl, a Home Economics graduate girl comes along and proves so satisfactory that he changed the sign to "Wanted: a Wife." The parts were taken, in order, by Misses Elizabeth Odum, Lola Brooks, Ruth Cagle, Mary Elizabeth Crawford, Pennie Keel Lang and Clara Van Freeman.

Foremen and section leaders for Emergency Conservation Work camps are being trained in special courses being given by Purdue University faculty members.

while to rest. In two years he was reelected teacher which post he filled until the last.

"He gave freely of his time to the church. Always he had a text and a sermon. No case in his work ever came up but he reconsidered or reviewed showing his Christian spirit further. He was not afraid when death came because he was a Christian. He spoke of it as 'going west.' When his church got in debt, he said it should be paid through with prayer. His last check was written to satisfy his part in removing the church debt."

Howard McGinnis represented the side of Bob Wright seen by a colleague. Herbert ReBarker, who was chairman of the program committee said in introducing this speaker that Bob Wright never made a colleague feel below him, but instead inspired the feeling of co-worker.

"Bob was the same always—a real man. Work at East Carolina Teachers College was a great joy because of Bob. Bob was responsible for the quality of the college. His influence was felt as administrator and personality. He was a very human man. I could tell incidents that were heart breaking which occurred. He demanded facts for basis of action. His were based on real tangible things. Always he was willing to get the other fellows viewpoint. When he got a situation, he had a keen sense of analysis and seeing behind facts. His other characteristics of a good administrator were that he rendered his decisions promptly and stood behind them. My life is richer for having known him," Mr. McGinnis said.

Fordece Harding who was associated with Bob Wright as trustee of the college spoke from that angle. He had known Bob forty years. First knew him when Bob was a slim, tall freshman at the University of North Carolina. When Dr. Wright first came to Greenville, he and Mr. Harding worked on joint problems with the college and local schools which afforded the speaker opportunity to see the quality of the man. "I knew him best in his private home where we sat working on problems and plans.

"Any man who becomes a real man, who is a Christian, who knows how to pray—no one knows how, but does—needs only two additional qualities; unassuming quietness, genius to quietly go in search of facts. Bob had all three."

In closing Fordece Harding took Longfellow's memorial to Professor Agassiz, professor of geology at Harvard University and paraphrased it thus with Bob's name:

And nature, the old nurse, took Bob upon her knee, saying: "Here is a storybook Thy Father has written for thee

Come wander with me Bob, she said Into regions yet untrod; And read what is still unread, In the manuscripts of God.

And Bob wandered away and away, With nature, the dear nurse, Who sang to him night and day, The rhymes of the Universe.

Kitchen Cobb, the club president presided and said in closing, "The club has lost a great Rotarian. It is a great loss to the country. The only thing we can do is pray to God for another such leader."

Upon motion of Karl Pace, the remarks of those who participated in the memorial program were voted to be placed on the permanent record of the Greenville Rotary Club.

Mr. R. C. Deal delivered the Commencement Address at Belhaven on last Friday night, May 4th. He spoke on the subject, "Dreams Coming True" showing how the dreams of scientists and economists thirty years ago are actual facts today.

Professor Deal will be the speaker at the close of the Arthur School on next Friday night and of the school at Atlantic the next week. He has been in demand as a commencement speaker and has filled a number of engagements recently.

Alumnae Day To Be Observed On Saturday. Governor Ehringhaus To Make Commencement Address That Night.

GRADUATION EXERCISES WILL BE HELD MONDAY

Dr. Finis Idleman Will Deliver Baccalaureate Sermon Sunday Morning.

Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus will deliver the commencement address at East Carolina Teachers College Saturday night, June 2nd. The graduation exercises will follow on Monday morning, June 4th. This is the first time that the address has not been a part of the graduation exercises. The change was made this year because the governor could not be present on Monday morning. The entire commencement will center around the late Dr. R. H. Wright and his twenty-five years of service to East Carolina Teachers College. Many alumnae are expected to attend the commencement exercises.

The commencement sermon this year will be delivered by Dr. Finis Idleman, pastor of the Central Church of Christ of New York. He will hold two services, the regular Sunday morning sermon and the evening vespers service for the Y. W. C. A. The usual Y. W. C. A. representation will not be observed in the Y. W. C. A. service this year.

Saturday the alumnae will meet for the celebration of the regular alumnae day and the day will be one of appreciation of President Wright. After the morning business meeting, an alumnae dinner will be served in the dining hall to the visitors and the graduating classes. Miss Annie Howard Felton, as representative of the 10 year class, is chairman of the program committee.

Summer School To Begin June 12th

Dr. Meadows Will Continue His Work As Summer School Adviser.

The Summer School of the College will be conducted this year according to the plan followed last summer and previous summers, in two terms of six weeks each. The first term will begin on June 12, and the second on July 18. It will be again under the able directorship of Dr. J. R. Meadows, who has been director for the past twelve years. The indications now are that there will be a much larger summer school than for several years.

Athletics and summer sports will be attractive features for the students this summer. The tennis courts will be sufficient to give all the students a chance to play. Provisions will also be made for swimming. Plans are being made for summer baseball as there will be a larger number of boys than usual.

Students may register for either term or both. Most of the courses will be organized so that each unit of work will be completed in one term. In each course the classes will meet daily instead of three times a week, as in the usual term. The class periods will be lengthened so that the week will be reduced from the usual six days to five days so that the students may have week-ends. The two-term plan is far more convenient for the summer, especially for teachers and students who do not wish to spend their entire summer in college and yet feel they cannot afford the long vacation.

A great many former students who hold normal-school diplomas will return to continue work for the A. B. Degree. Several who hold A. B. Degrees will either begin or continue work (Continued on page six)
