Literary Societies Hold
 First Regular Meetings

Poe's, Emersons And Laniers Met In Societies Hall On November 22. And Discuss Plans For Year's Work.

MEETINGS ARE WELL ATTENDED

Each Society Has Interesting Program At First Meeting. Presidents Carolyn Brinkley, Elizabeth Davis And Janice Jenkins Presided.

The three literary societies met last Thursday night for the first regular meeting of the year. The majority of the student body are members of one of the societies and all of the meetings were well attended. The meetings were held in the society halls.

Poe Society

Carolyn Brinkley who is president of the Poe Society, the society that succeeded in getting the largest number of new members announced that the years society meetings started off unusually well. At this meeting it was decided that the Poe Society would give a dance sometime during the early part of the winter term. Committees were appointed for the arrangement of the dance program.

The program was conducted by those freshmen who were not present for special initiation. Several songs were sung by a trio and riddles were given. One freshman had to give her reasons for joining that particular society. The meeting was adjourned after the singing of the society song.

Emerson Society

At the Emerson Society meeting it was decided that December 15th will be the last day on which dues can be paid. The society roll will not be completed until after that date. Each member was asked to sign up for dramatics, music, story telling, debating or reciting in order that programs can be made out more easily.

Elizabeth Wilson was made Chairman of the program committee and Jean Thomsa, Maggie Crumpler, Beatrice Hammond, Ila Gray Eason, and Jean O'Neal will serve with her. Each of these girls will be responsible for the program one month during the year.

Nominces were made for the Teco Echo reporter to take the place of Grey Powell who did not return to school. From the list of nominees Ruth Cagle was appointed to this position by the editor of the Teco Echo.

The meeting was closed by the singing of the society song.

Lanier Society

About 60 members of the Lanier Society were present for the first meeting. A short business session was held previous to the social program. President Janice Jenkins asked that all members fill out blanks indicating what part they could take in society programs. A suggestion was made that the society buy more chairs for the society hall.

The social program was turned over to Louise James, Vice-president of the society. After the singing of the society song an impromptu program was given. This consisted of songs, tap dancing, stunts, and drawing while blindfolded. A group of six girls were asked to sing their favorite songs all at the same time while some one accompanied them who was playing her favorite song.

The meeting was adjourned after refreshments were served.

For the first time in fourteen years, summer or winter, J. B. Spilman, Treasurer, has been off the Campus for as much as a week at one time. The past month he spent at East Aurora, New York, in a Sun-Diet Sanatorium.

Memorial Services for the late Dr. Robert Herring Wright, for twenty-five years our president, will be held on Sunday, December 16, at three o'clock in the afternoon. Dr. Frank Graham, President of the University of North Carolina, will speak. There will be special music by the college girls.

BUTLER'S WORK PUBLISHED

New York, (IP)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler is best known as president of Columbia University and as an oral commentator on national and international events.

But he's been doing a lot of writing as he went along.

This was revealed last week when the Columbia University Press announced plans for preparing a complete biography of his literary works. The announcement indicated that the Columbia president had written 3,209 books, reports, speeches, articles and introductions.

These include things he wrote in high school and college. The earliest of his known writings is entitled: "Questions and Answers for Admission to the Paterson High School." This was written in 1872.

L. R. MEADOWS ATTENDS MEETING IN RALEIGH

Dr. L. R. Meadows went to Raleigh Monday to attend a meeting of a committee that has been appointed by Governor Ehringhaus to investigate the raising of scholarships for negro teachers. Governor Ehringhaus is launching an investigation of the negro education problem in North Carolina.

If we do not learn to labor when we are children we are not likely to learn to labor at all.

Playmakers Are Well Received

"The Loyal Venture," "Fixin's" and "Quare Medicine" Were Presented By Carolina Playmakers On November 19th.

KOCH IS THE DIRECTOR

"Quare Medicine" and "Fixin's" Were Written By The Famous North Carolina Dramatist, Paul Green.

The Carolina Playmakers with their well balanced bill of three one-act plays were well received by a large and appreciative audience Monday night, November 19th. The plays, each with a Carolina setting appealed to the people of this section and they showed their keen appreciation of the excellent performances.

During the first intermission Dr. L. R. Meadows, in the introduction of Professor Frederick H. Koch, the director, referred to him as the man who discovered and brought life to material that had remained dormant here for generations.

Professor Koch gave his theories of drama saying that all great drama is folk drama. He cited Shakespeare, Ibsen, and Moliere, as essentially folk dramatists who wrote their plays to be played in a theatre. He reviewed briefly the 17 years of the work of the Carolina Playmakers and touched on their far reaching influence. He referred to the success of Paul Green as an example of what has grown out of their work, showing how it has reached Broadway and Hollywood.

The first play presented was "The Loyal Venture" written by Wilkerson O'Connell. This was a drama of colonial Carolina. The scene was laid in the taproom of the only inn in Belleport, a small coast town of North Carolina during the 18th century. Carl Thompson as Marpent, Pryor McFadden as Durant, the pirate, and David Lewis, the sea captain did outstanding acting in the play.

Paul Green's play "Fixin's," a tragedy of a tenant farm woman, was a pathetic play that was well received by the audience. The characters of Ed and Lilly who were tenant farmers on an estate, played by Laurence Check and Mildred Howard, showed a contrast that made clear the essential conflict of the play. In this play the pent fury of a work driven woman was portrayed with grim and terrible reality. She craved a little beauty, "purred" (Continued on page four)

Honor and Cooperation Among Students Is Discussed by School Council Recently

Frances Watson Is Made Chairman Of The College Honor Committee.

The fall meeting of the School Council was held November 12. The School Council is composed of the Women's Student Council, the Men's Student Council, and Miss Cleo Rainwater, Miss Annie Newell, Miss Lois Grigsby, Miss Annie L. Morton and Dr. Herbert ReBarker from the administration. Dr. Leon R. Meadows is chairman of the group.

The main business brought up at this meeting was the discussion of a plan that is hoped will build up a sentiment and cooperation towards honor on the campus. After a discussion of honor systems on other college campuses and the probable effect of a similar system here, the following measures were approved by that body:

(1) That a chapel program be given by the Student Government Association for the purpose of presenting the matter to the Student Body. At this time a member of the faculty chosen by the committee and a student

The Student Government Association will entertain the Student Body at a Masquerade party on Saturday night, December 8, at the Campus building. Everyone is cordially invited and urged to wear a costume. The picture show will start at 7:00 that night, and the party will be held after the show is over. The announcement is being made before the Thanksgiving holiday, so that the students can bring back costumes when they come back from the holidays.

2nd CLASS ARTILLERIES QUALIFY WITH PISTOLS

November 17. — Thirty-eight out of the fifty second class artillerymen were qualified in the use of .45 calibre automatic pistol during the past two months and a half. Of this group Mullen alone qualified as an expert shot with a score of over 85 per cent, only nine shot sharpshooters with a score over 75 per cent, while the remaining 28 men qualified above 60 per cent or as a marksman. The twelve men failing to qualify shot somewhere below the 60 per cent mark.

Requisition for medals for the men making them has gone into Third Corps Area Headquarters and according to local R. O. T. C. office authorities will be distributed shortly.

The Federal Emergency Relief Administration has decided to set aside $1,414,940 each month this winter to aid needy students in colleges and universities.

Students Attend Church Confer'ce

Martha Teal, Lou Pitts, And Ruth Kiker Attend North Carolina Methodist Student Conference Last Week-End.

HELD IN RALEIGH, N. C.

Main Speaker Was Dr. W. A. Lambeth of High Point, Who Addressed The Assemblage On "Youth Building World Anew."

Ruth Kiker, of East Carolina Teachers College was elected Secretary of the North Carolina Methodist Student Conference that met in Raleigh, November 23, 24, and 25. Other delegates from E. C. T. C. were Lou Pitts and Martha Teal. About 200 delegates were in attendance, representing nearly all of the North Carolina Colleges.

The theme of the conference was a challenge to Christians in the Economic Stress of This Era. The conference opened Friday night with a banquet. After the banquet delegates were entertained by Eugene Spivey and by the State College Quartet. The delegates to the conference were welcomed by President Horace Cotten, who is President of the Y. M. C. A. at State College. He introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. W. A. Lambeth of High Point.

In Dr. Lambeth's talk on "Youth Builds the World Anew" he pointed out the several ways that anyone can start building anew.

A social hour of games, songs and introductions followed the address. After home assignments, the meeting adjourned until Saturday morning. At this time the worship service was led by the Meredith College delegation.

Professor H. E. Spence of Duke University, the principal speaker of the morning addressed the assembly on "The Teachings of Jesus and Our Present Economic Order"—an encouraging opinion of the youth of today was expressed by Dr. Spence. A helpful summary of Jesus general teaching was given as a guide—animate things are worth more than the inanimate; human being in animate world above others; in the personal realm, the spiritual above the physical.

Following the general teachings of Jesus are the specific injunctions—the value of personality; the secondary place of wealth; and justice and generosity are to be hoped for. The opposing forces of life as outlined in Dr. Spence's address are poverty, graft, suspicion, greed, fear, disease and war. These are against cooperation, cheerfulness, optimism, faith, common sense and courage.

The interest groups met and the following topics were discussed (Continued on page three)

Methodist Bishop Is Brought To Greenville By Dr. G. R. Combs, Pastor of Methodist Church.

LARGE CROWD ATTEND

Uses the Fifth Commandment For His Text.

Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of Washington City, one of the Methodist leaders in the United States, delivered an inspiring sermon before a large gathering of people in the Campus Building Sunday morning.

Speaking on the subject of the Fifth Commandment that says: "Honor thy father and thy mother that thy days may be long on the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee," Bishop Hughes discussed this commandment from five different angles. These angles were position, partiality, promise, problem and partnership.

He declared there should be a partnership in the business of paying proper deference to parents, because parents were put on an equal issue. He asserted that equal honor should be paid to father and mothers, in that God had placed them on an equal plane and should be so recognized by children.

Bishop Hughes brought out in several ways that when a child succeeds the parents are successful, but if the child fails the parents fail.

He declared that every father and mother deserved honor, and that a person should consider himself lucky to have the chance to care for those in their second childhood, who cared for him in his first.

Bishop Hughes was presented by Dr. G. R. Combs, pastor of the Jarvis Memorial Church, who led the devotional service. He spoke of Bishop Hughes as one of the leaders of religion in this country, and he declared that he was playing a tremendous part in carrying the Word of Christ to people in all walks of life in this and other countries.

The sermon heard by the congregation of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, the student body of the college, in addition to scores of representatives of other denominations was described as one of the most eloquent and enjoyable that has ever been delivered here.

A delightful musical program was rendered by the vested choir of the Methodist Church and a special number was sung by the college student body.

COLUMBIA STUDENTS VISIT OUR COLLEGE

Dr. Florence Stratmeyer and a group of students from Teachers College, Columbia University, spent Monday, November 19, observing in the Training School. They are making a tour of inspection of schools in different sections of the country and this college is the first one in the South to be visited.

Dr. Stratmeyer, who is a member of the faculty of Teachers College, has a national reputation in the field of research work in Education. She is well-known to many of the College faculty, several of whom have been in her classes, and others knew her in student days.

Two young men and two young women, students in the New College, and who do much of their studying from first hand study and experience collected data from their observations. They are Misses Janet Brinkerhoff and Evelyn Hoxe and Messrs. Paul Williams and Geo. O'Brien. Miss Mary Devers of the State Department of Education accompanied them.

THEY'VE DONE WELL

The football team is making a name for itself. These recent games have shown the student body that we really have a team to be proud of. It has been most successful this season even though all the games have not been won. The players have been enthusiastic, the cheer leaders have been full of pep and the student body has had its interest keyed to the highest pitch. As a result splendid football games have been played.

This college probably has the smallest men's student body of the four-year colleges in North Carolina to have an athletic squad. That, in itself is a significant fact. That we should have one of such quality, is something to be proud of.

DO STUDENTS LACK CONFIDENCE?

Why are the students afraid of self expression in mass meetings? A mass meeting is seldom held that some question does not arise that is of much concern to the student body at large. An opportunity is given for discussion and the majority of the time not one person will offer any suggestions as to what they think should be done in the matter. When the question is to be voted on, hands are raised in a listless lifeless manner, and the issue is closed. But as soon as the meeting is adjourned students congregate in the halls and start talking among themselves. They make remarks to the effect that if such and such were done the situation would be remedied, or in some manner offer what they think are possible solutions of the matter. Why won't they make those suggestions in the mass meeting where the entire assemblage could hear them and could act upon them accordingly?

Student opinion is necessary if campus problems are to be discussed. We do not have to accept all suggestions that are offered but if a variety of them are presented there can be more to choose from than if we accept the measure as it is. Those opinions that are offered after the meetings would be far more worthwhile if they were offered before the entire student body so that they would not vote so blindly.

WHY CAPITAL PUNISHMENT?

Last week the first triple execution since the death chair has been used as the means of capital punishment in North Carolina, occurred. These three negroes were guilty of the crime of killing a filling station proprietor, and for this crime suffered death in the death chair. These three negroes are not the first to die in this manner. One hundred and forty two others have preceded them since the installation of the death chair in 1909.

Is North Carolina civilization better off because of the use of capital punishment? Has not past civilization proved sufficiently that crime cannot be stopped by such violent methods? We shudder to think of the inhuman practices used in the Dark Ages but if further thought is given to the subject it will be seen that those practices only served as a promoter for other thoughts of those suffering. We cannot, even in this day, stop crime by putting to death the criminals.

One of the worst things about capital punishment is the fact that many times it is not the offenders that are punished. The guilty go free and the innocent are punished. This is a terrible blot on humanity and one that could be avoided if capital punishment was abolished in the state of North Carolina and other states in the union. If civilization cannot curb crime in some other way than by taking the life of those who commit the crime is there not something wrong with civilization?

Is not capital punishment premediated killing?

A CAMPUS NEED

The movement on foot for a dormitory for men students is surely a step forward towards a larger enrollment of men students. A larger enrollment of men students will mean growth of the college. There will be more material available of athletic squads, and athletics are splendid advertisers for a college, hence will tend to draw more students to the institution.

A Men's Student Government Association has already been organized. There will be decidedly more need for such an organization for men, and it will undoubtedly function well. They have started self government now by the organization of this disciplinary body.

The number of men students is continually increasing, so more than ever is there a need of a dormitory. Not only is the number of those students live in towns other than Greenville. Therefore it is not possible for them to live in their own homes, but it is necessary for them to find other places to stay. Most of those boys eat in the dining hall. It would be better if they lived on the campus for a number of reasons, and had some definite work for their Student Government Association.

A dormitory help will naturally create a definite school spirit. It is hoped that the Board of Trustees will act upon this matter at an early date.

DO WE LACK TIME?

The modern college student who is interested in the fact that he is in college for something besides the fun that he gets out of it, perhaps finds that the chief drawback to the modern educational system is the lack of time. This may be the rule or the exception in this particular student body. Do the majority of the students find that it is difficult to spend an hour in the chemistry room studying the electrolysis of water and then within the next ten minutes find himself on an English class trying to appreciate Browning's poetry? Or do the math formulas insist upon congregating with the major battles in American history? This routine is not confined to class rooms entirely. Even in after school hours it is hard to concentrate upon a term paper that is due the next day while at the same time the thought is hanging over his head that maybe that math problem was worked wrong after all.

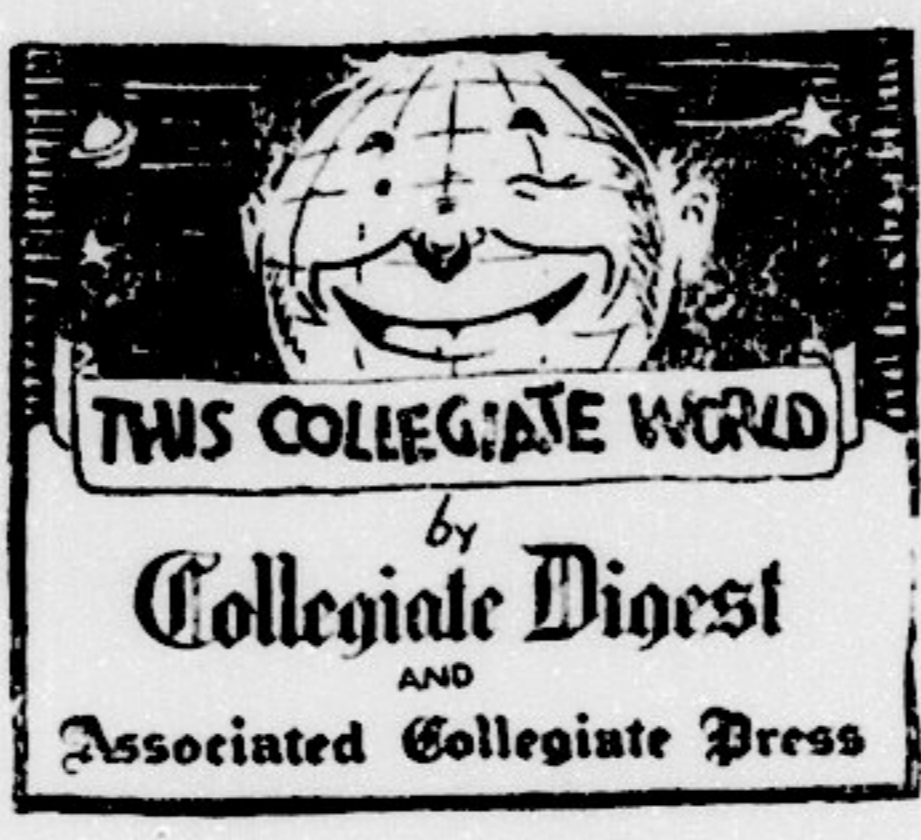

A student can meet classes in this manner and probably gather something from each class. As a result he might have a sort of very general knowledge of subjects and tends to be like the adage "jack of all trades and master of none."

This lack of time tends to make the student become a mere mechanical fact absorbing machine. Class bells or alarm clocks govern his very day, and if he attempts to disregard them his whole routine is thrown into bedlam.

A student who comes to college with the intent to spend his time in some major subject and has the nerve to neglect all the rest of his classes for that major will have the time to learn enough about that field to grasp its true value. Those people are really the most successful college students, though oftentimes their names never appear on the college honor rolls. In reality they have gotten something of benefit and importance from those hours of class and research work. This is a day of specialization, and if that thought is kept in mind the modern college student will probably realize the value of specialization in one field.

Those serious minded college students find that the method that would seem the most acceptable to them in their work would be the opportunity to be able to study his favorite subject in his own manner and at his leisure. There would be no jumping from Shakespeare to Chemistry, like pressing a button so that the room would be filled with light.

There is undoubtedly the need for more time to pursue study. But how is it to be attained?

Sherman Finger is making a name for himself at the University of Minnesota in the field of track. His fame has spread wide and far, and finally they heard all about him at Alabama Polytech, with the result that they invited him to become their football coach!

"I would be dubious about my standing in the South, with my name," was his refusal.

"Mister," came the reply, "just march through Georgia, that's all we ask—just march through Georgia!"

You've read about them, you have listened to them, but you really have never been able to do much about them. The old jokes filed in the library-brain of the college professor, we mean. But, things have been done about them at the University of Wisconsin. Witness: The quip of one famous lecturer were repeated by him so many times that his library was no longer a private one. During one lecture, however, he forgot one of his quips—and the class woke up with a bang!

After the class period closed, a committee of students waited upon the offender and presented to him a memorandum which ran somewhat as follows: "We beg to inform you that you have committed a grave error in omitting one of your prize jokes from your lecture this hour. The class is deeply hurt by your slighting them, and requests an apology."

Let's give them a break, and recount one of the jokes that really deserves a place in history: A philosophy instructor at Ohio University yearly recreates his "regular" pun in this manner: After passing out the papers for his final examination he sits back and slyly waits for some nervous co-ed to touch a puff of her nose (Puff to you). Then, all haughtiness, he arises, bends an accusing finger, and drily remarks: "Young woman, this is not a make-up examination!"

Little Paul Bowen entered from the right carrying the ring in the heart of a cabbage. Master Bowen was appropriately attired in basketball trunks and blouse with a big bow tie.

Little Jennie Carr was the flower girl. She wore a dainty dress of pink with matching bonnet. She entered from the left scattering thorns in the path of the bride.

The bride entered on the arm of her step-father, Hon. Ben Harris, who gave her into marriage. She was attractively attired in a lovely creation of baby blue muslin. Her train was of white cheese cloth. Train bearers were little Misses Billie May and Ray Barrow. They were both dressed in dainty pink dresses.

The groom entered from the back with his best man, Mr. Tex Lindsey. They were followed by Rev. Mathis who then performed the ceremony.

After the fervent embrace of the bride to the groom, Tilda announced that "Soups On" and the recessional takes place to the tune of "The Fight Is On."

Out of town guests were Nathan Epstein as Dolores Del Rio, Jack Dunn as Clark Gable, Francis Sinclair as Mae West, Forrest Hyatt as Tilda, James Joyner as Will Rogers, David Johnson as Flapper Fanny, Charles Cobb as Aunt Het, Lester Ridenhour as

THE ULTIMA RATIO

Well, well, well—here we are again—and Thanksgiving is upon us—the gals seem mighty anxious to get home—you may call it turkey, but I call it—and then again, maybe they are that anxious to see their "Parents."

We are told that a member of the team was going home with his lady friend, and that the possibility of a game with dear old Chowan prevents him—tough luck, pal, but that's football—it looks like Louise and Jimmy have the only truly great love affair—note the sacrifices both of them are making.

We heard the other day a girl say that she was going to wrestle with Temptation—we wonder who this guy Temptation is, anyway—and what little girl is going green with envy when DeWid grabs her boy friend in the womanless wedding Tuesday night—there will be some "evening" dresses in foul shape after that!

After the class period closed, a committee of students waited upon the offender and presented to him a memorandum which ran somewhat as follows: "We beg to inform you that you have committed a grave error in omitting one of your prize jokes from your lecture this hour. The class is deeply hurt by your slighting them, and requests an apology."

Then, all haughtiness, he arises, bends an accusing finger, and drily remarks: "Young woman, this is not a make-up examination!"

About the best joke that I've heard this year is the one about T. G. Basnight's cat. You see it's like this: T. G. lives in Stokes, and for some reason or other has lots of wildkide cats around his house. T. G. saw one of the creatures sunning himself on the back fence the other day, and decided that he would catch it. He crept up behind right quiet like, but in creeping up he stepped on a pecan. I cracked, and T. G. just knew that the cat would wake up, so he decided that the best plan of attack would be to pounce down on the animal quickly and catch him before he knew what it was all about. He did that very thing and caught the cat successfully, only to find that the cat had been dead all the time. And was T. G. disgusted? He didn't even bother to bury the cat, but dropped him in the same spot.

An experimental movement in the arts and crafts at Swathmore College is being fostered this year by the addition to the faculty of Miss Beatrice Beach, a graduate of the Yale School of Drama and D. Owen Stephens, an artist and architect.

COLLEGIATE EDITORS BEST STUDENT BODY

New York—(IP)—War has broken out between a group of senior students at Columbia College and the staff of the Spectator, university undergraduate newspaper, over the newspaper's editorial and news policies.

The seniors started it by circulating a questionnaire, which asked a yes or no answer to the following:

"Do you believe that the Spectator has pursued an editorial policy which has reacted unfavorably upon the reputation of the college; that the Spectator has been guilty of bad taste both in the selection of items for its news columns and in the exercise of its editorial pen; that the Spectator has misrepresented or distorted facts of news in its news columns, so that it has presented or does present to the student body stories reflecting the personal opinions of its managing board; do you believe in short, that the Spectator has been guilty of actions under its present managing board which have been detrimental to the best interest of the university as a whole and to the college in particular."

Majority Say "Yes"

The senior group said that out of 300 replies, 650 said "yes" and only 15 said "no" to the questions.

Following day the seniors were roundly denounced as "unfair" by James Wechsler, editor of the Spectator.

"The Spectator," he said, "will not go back to the days when college editors discussed teas and the decline of collegiate dancing. Likewise, it will not cater to the gentlemen who see a bomb-thrower under every bed and an inspired plot in every comma."

"It should be made clear at the outset that the wording of the questionnaire circulated by the committee of seventeen was crudely unfair and negates the validity of the results obtained. This view is taken by a substantial body. Those seeking to register their defense of the present editors on that survey would have been compelled to express approval of misrepresentation and distortion in the news columns and bad taste in the editorial columns."

Dr. L. M. Davis had more than an ordinary fan's interest in the Donna-Weslaco High School football game down in Texas. He was the attending physician at the birth of thirteen of the Donna players and nine of the Weslaco players.

COLLEGE "WIMPY" SCORES MINNEAPOLIS CURFEW LAW

Minneapolis, Minn. — (IP)—Fourteen-year-old Eugene Kohner of Duluth was having a fit of fun being the youngest student at the University of Minnesota until a big cop saw him eating hamburgers very late one night and reminding him of the curfew law, "made him go home." Kohner is not large for his age.

This indignity was pretty hard to take. Eugene did a lot of thinking and got pretty mad. Then he went to work on the chief of police.

Last week he was out eating hamburgers again, telling the big cop to go chase himself. The cop, to be sure, had to be shown the letter Eugene was carrying. It was signed by C. C. Black, director of Eugene's dormitory, it said:

"To all Minneapolis policemen: At the request of Chief of Police, Mr. Michael J. Johannes, it is understood that Eugene Kohner, although only 14 years of age, is permitted to disregard the Curfew Law in pursuit of his work at the University of Minnesota."

"The cop wanted to know what part of the curriculum called for eating hamburgers in the wee hours of the morning."

"A student must eat," said Eugene.

"O. K.," said the cop, "but you better not lose that letter."

In The Realm Of SPORTS

By Willard

It is rumored that a little extra sleep and too many pancakes caused Bowen to miss the football bus last Thursday. However, I feel a delicacy in articulating, since Bowen's poor physical condition must also be considered. Being of a highly nervous temperament, intensive study here has caused him to melt to a mere hundred and ninety pounds, in spite of the fact that his team mates have carried milk for him on some of the trips.

Ray Hassell showed real speed and deception in the game played against the Norfolk Branch of William and Mary. He gained consistently through holes opened by Jolly, Carpenter and Sinclair, and stepped off several runs from twenty to thirty yards. Good work, Hassell.

The afternoon meeting was opened by the student delegation from Greensboro College. Dr. Harvey C. Brown of the General Board of Christian Education spoke to the assembly.

After dinner, the address and devotion were given by Iron K. King. After the talk, a business meeting was held and officers for the coming year were elected. The conference closed with the benediction of the morning service.

GIRLS' MANNERS BAD SAYS BARNARD DEAN

New York—(IP)—In the opinion of Dean Virginia Gildersleeve of Barnard College, the voices of most girl students are very bad, and just to prove it to them, she is making each one of her charges record her voice on a phonograph record and then listen to it.

The dean then expects to have the girls go about correcting the unpleasant things about their speech.

The dean also thinks the manners of college girls are pretty bad.

"Don't grab plates of cake at a tea. Don't elbow your way into an elevator," she admonished.

Deacons To Play Davidson Team

Thanksgiving Day Contest Continues Series Marked By Many Odd Turns.

Davidson, Nov. 24.—Davidson will be seeking to avoid unaccompanied occupancy of the Big Five cellar when it meets Wake Forest College gridders here on Thanksgiving Day in the 22nd football game between the Presbyterians and the Baptists.

Wake Forest, which sprung an upset to gain a 13-12 win over N. C. State by virtue of a great 85-yard advance in the final three minutes of the game, now ranks in fourth place in Big Five standings. Davidson, beaten in each of its previous Big Five tests, is in the cellar. A win on Thanksgiving Day for Davidson would drop Wake Forest into a tie with the Presbyterians for fourth and fifth places in the league.

Hard On Favorites

Davidson will be favored to take that victory—but therein lies cause for grief in the Davidson camp. Probably fed football series anywhere can match the Davidson-Wake Forest series for producing upsets. The favored team in pre-game speculation very often has come out on the short end of the final score. The rival teams have a way of showing surprising strength when given the "underdog" role.

This series has been unusual in other ways. Davidson won annually for the first nine years. Then Wake Forest took charge and for the next decade the Baptists lost not a single game although four of the contests were ties. Three of the ties came in succession.

Younger's Teams "Jinxed"

The 10-year reign of the Baptists was during the coaching regime of Coaches Monk Younger and Tex Tilson, and those gentlemen went on to other fields without having found a way to avoid the annual jinx which Wake Forest has ready for the Wildcats. Younger and Tilson have been assistant coaches at Virginia Poly since after the 1931 football season.

Davidson's first victory since 1920 came in 1932 when Coach Doc Newton's boys edged a 7-0 triumph over the Deacons. Last fall the game arrived with Davidson as topheavy favorites. Wake Forest had not scored a single point all season—but against the Wildcats the Deacons found the scoring range and crashed through for 13 points and made a fine bid for an upset victory. However, Davidson won by a 20-13 count.

A victory next Thursday not only will keep Davidson from finishing—all alone—in the Big Five cellar, but it will enable the Wildcats to get a 500 average for the season. The 'Cats have won three games, lost four, and tied one.

Davidson Leads

Davidson has won 11 of the 21 games played with Wake Forest. The Deacons have won six. Four have been ties. Aided by a top-heavy 72-7 victory scored in 1917 Davidson has tallied more than twice as many points as the Deacons.

SING SING STAR ENDS CAREER

Edward Collins Pitts, the greatest athlete ever turned out by this exclusive academy, sat on the senior fence tonight and ponder over the future.

Edward—who is known to the world outside as Alabama Pitts—played his last football game for his alma mater today. Next June 4, he will be graduated, summa cum laude, with five bucks in cash and a ten dollar suit.

He will come out the most prominent jailbird athlete in America. In the cool quiet of this institution, surrounded by its tall spiked walls, he reflected rather sadly upon the reputation he had acquired.

"I'd kinda like to shuck off this Alabama name," he admitted. "I'd like to be plain just Edward Collins."

It was no outpouring of modesty. Alabama Pitts is a shy young man, tall and blondish, with steady gray eyes. He is Sing Sing's model job—all-time, all-round, all-American, all-everything. He will leave here with a reputation but he'd much rather leave the reputation.

The rivalry which began in 1908. Scores for the series follows:

- 1908—Wake Forest 4, Davidson 31.
- 1910—Wake Forest 0, Davidson 32.

Football Season Is Concluded

Pirates Play Last Grid Game Against Lenoir Rhyne.

The Pirates ended a successful football season last Friday when they lost to a superior Lenoir-Rhyne eleven. Of the six games played, the Louisville game was perhaps the hardest fought, although the games with Wingate and Presbyterian Junior College, and Norfolk Branch of William and Mary were filled with thrills and spectacular playing. In these four games E. C. T. C. scored a total of twelve points as opposed to thirteen points chalked up by the opponents.

Until Coach Mathis joined the Pirates ranks this year, only one touchdown had been scored in inter-collegiate competition during the past two seasons. This year the Pirates scored three touchdowns in the six games played. Two of the scores came on passes, Hassell to Eason, and Hassell to Johnson, but in the Louisville game Ferebee plunged across the goal line for the six points.

The summary for the season follows:

	E. C. T. C.	Oppo.
Wingate	0	6
A. S. T. C.	6	27
P. J. C.	6	0
Louisburg	6	7
N. B. W. M.	0	0
Lenoir Rhyne	0	47

UPPERCLASSMEN AT HARVARD ALLOTTED UNLIMITED CUTS

Cambridge, Mass. — (IP)—Members of the sophomore, junior classes at Harvard College this year do not have to attend classes unless they want to. Moreover, they are not required to take the old half-term examinations in November and April.

Harvard is entering its 29th year and the second year of the presidency of Dr. Conant, who spent his first year observing the operation of the university and is now beginning to try out some innovations.

One of his plans calls for the recruiting of some of the most brilliant young men of the country for the Harvard College freshman class each year.

Duke and State Offer Feature In This Sector

Fans, Fooled Thrice by Duke-State Surprises, To Look In On This.

GAME TO BE PLAYED ON TWENTY-NINTH

Duke and State First Met In Football A Decade Ago.

Durham, Nov. 24.—Duke and N. C. State, whose rivalry on the gridiron over a ten-year period is one of the most closely contested in Dixie football, will bring the 1934 football campaign to a close in this section by meeting in Duke Stadium on Thanksgiving Day.

The Wolves and the Blue Devils have given North Carolina three of its best games in the past three years and most of North Carolina fans who missed those contests are expected to be in the Duke horse-shoe Thursday to be on the spot for what promises to be another great battle.

Fans Fooled Thrice

The games between Duke and State, in short, have been great contests little appreciated by the football public of this State. And, after having been fooled by not attending the past three battles, fans have come to realize that some of the best football in this State has been played by the two teams in their annual engagements.

Since the rivalry first started the games have been close, but the past three games have been the strangest in the series. Each year Duke has come up to the game rated to win by "you-pick-your-own" margins, and in two of those years the Blue Devils were soundly trounced and last year the best Duke team in modern football history had to shove across a touchdown in the final play to triumph by 7-0.

Duke officials expect the Thanksgiving Day game to attract the largest State-Duke attendance since the 1927 contest, when more than 20,000 jammed old Hanes field at Duke to see State win the Big Five title by gaining a 20-13 margin in one of (Continued on page four)

Ruth Henderson, Reporter

Mr. Worth Wicker, Rector of the Episcopal church, used the theme "Blessed is the man who diggeth a well in a desert," in an inspiring talk before the Y. W. C. A. Sunday evening, November 18th. He pointed out that the chief duty of man is to dig little wells, because all great things in life are made up of the little things. It is the desirable to attain unto lofty heights, he pointed out, but it is impossible for everyone to be at the top. From little efforts, finally there emerges a thing of beauty.

He stated that the students who will be the future teachers have a great opportunity to dig wells day by day, in guiding the minds of children who some day may be the leaders in discoveries, science, politics, art, and religion and by so doing they will bring in closer reality, the drama of the world.

Hazel Waddell accompanied by Patsy Laughlin, sang an appropriate solo.

"I have seen everything in my futile life" was the text from which Rev. W. A. Ryan talked to the Y. W. C. A. of East Carolina Teachers College Sunday night. He spoke in a practical way making his listeners feel they were getting good sound, personal advice.

When one thinks that he has learned all there is to know then he has reached a most dangerous and tragic point. He pointed out that "a little learning is a dangerous thing" and that the world will not tolerate things half-done. It is his opinion that the world is unconquerably rich in material and that there is something new and worthwhile to be learned every day. There are more things in Heaven and earth than one has ever dreamed of.

"Purposes in Life" was the subject of the last talk, the climax in the series given by Dr. Robert E. Miles on the theme: Youth in the Making of a New World. His talk this morning closed the series of Y. W. C. A. services held this week for the college students. He has held three regular meetings each day, Morning Watch, the evening service, and a forum immediately following the evening service.

The stature of Jesus comprises four things that are necessary to fruitful living: personality, a purpose in life, a fellowship with God, and the age of youth, and one should measure his stature by that of Jesus if he would have life to the full, was the heart of the message Dr. Miles gave in his last talk at evening services. He centered his theme around Jesus, who is the only foundation upon which one may build in order to find eternal life. Other things he gave were one should possess the quality of youth, which is a matter of outlook, he should develop and should continue the practice of prayer, and he should have a definite purpose in life. If he will attain unto the stature of Jesus, personality will take care of itself; if one drives away these possessions, he will drive away all that makes for complete living.

The annual "D" Senior Normal party for the "C" Junior Normal, was held Saturday night in the Campus building from 8:30 to 10:30 o'clock. The building was beautifully decorated in the Senior Normal class colors, pink and white. The entertainment was a formal reception with practically all in evening dress. ## SCIENCE CLUB HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

The Science Club which has grown from 15 members in 1932 to 60 members today and is now affiliated with the Student Science Clubs of America held its regular meeting Tuesday, November 20, at 6:30 o'clock, in the Science building. "Why Precious Metals are Precious" was the theme of the program. Rarity, complicated metallurgy, beauty, and the wide range of uses were the reasons given which separate the precious metals.

Silver and why it is precious was discussed by Isa Costen Grant. She pointed out the familiar uses of silver and the new uses such as in the purifying of water. George Willard explained that gold was precious mainly because it was so rare, appearing combined with 70 different elements. He also illustrated the amount of labor required to extract even a small amount. Why Platinum is precious, besides the reasons given for all precious metals was that it is a thermofast metal and is very important to the chemist in the laboratory, was pointed out by Elbert Tyson. Jean Tate centered her talk around the fact that the diamond is the most precious stone because it cannot successfully be made artificially and its occurrence is rare. She mentioned some of the largest diamonds and their worth.

The years program was outlined. The next meeting for the quarter will be a Christmas Social. During the winter term physical subjects will be discussed. They are planning for an outside speaker but he has not yet been decided upon.

Biological subjects with Dr. Wells of State College speaking on Natural Gardens of North Carolina is planned for the Spring quarter. The Club is also planning a scientific excursion which will probably be to the Bromine plant at Wilmington.

ty-fixin's", but was denied them because her husband could not see beyond the sod that he plowed. The scene was laid in a bare cabin home that is typical of so many tenant farmers.

"Quare Medicine," Paul Greens first comedy was the last performance of the evening. The opening scene between old man Jernigan and Henry, his son, played by Kenneth Barlett and Carl Thompson was excellent, and quite ludicrous. Their comments and the singing off stage by Henry's wife, Mattie, completely characterized that shrewish person. Her part was played by Ora Mae Davis who gave an excellent interpretation of such a character. At the climax of the play Henry's change was so complete as it was thoroughly convincing. Doctor Immanuel, the quack doctor, who resembled somewhat a tribal medicine man, completely cured the submissive Henry, and the dominating Mattie, much to the approval of old man Jernigan. Henry was now the master of the house and Mattie obeyed his every call. The rhythm of the speech of the quack doctor added to the atmosphere of the play.

The three plays were well staged and well acted. The characters were well chosen and showed sympathetic understanding of the parts that they took. Carl Thompson showed his versatility and the effect of training by taking three parts on the bill bringing a unique quality to each characterization.

This was the first fall engagement of the Playmakers which will end at Thanksgiving. They have appeared here a number of times previous to this engagement. This is their 32nd tour and includes Eastern North Carolina and parts of Virginia and Maryland.

Professor Koch Speaks Professor Frederick Koch, the founder and director of the Carolina Playmakers, talked to Miss Mary Dirnberger's class in drama Monday afternoon, November 19. He stressed the need for the teachers who are capable of awakening something within their pupils. He believes that a new day is coming in Education when the capacities of the whole student will be recognized and trained. He deplored the fact that when budgets had to be cut it was just such real essentials as music, domestic science, manual training and drama, which were cut out while mathematics and Latin were retained. In his travels about the country he has sensed a reaction to this, not only upon the part of the students, but on the part of the parents.

And teachers as well. He believes that there is, and will be more actual need for the teacher who is trained to give her students an understanding of life as it is expressed through the arts. In the new day of a more substantial economic security for the common man the instinct for age old expression in music and in drama will find itself reasserted and fostered by those who will be the teachers of tomorrow.

His audience was composed of the members of the drama class, a group of High School students, and visitors from the town and faculty.

A. A. U. W.

On Monday evening, November 19th, the A. A. U. W. met at the Parish House for their regular meeting. Although the occasion was largely social, a few important matters were presented and decided upon.

The topic for the program was the "Youth Movement." Rev. W. A. Ryan was selected as speaker.

It was decided that because of the many requests from members of other organizations to attend A. A. U. W. meetings that the next one, that will be held December 7th, would be open to the public.

The A. A. U. W. is joining the Woman's Club and the Junior

Woman's Club is organizing a study group in "Contemporary Problems in Relation with Other Countries." The group will meet six times with Miss Laura Rose as leader.

Dr. Lucille Turner announced that the Drama Group will meet December 3rd, in Ragsdale Hall. Mr. Vester Mulholland will read "Hell-Bent for Heaven," by Hatcher Hughes.

Miss Evelyn Hart was welcomed as a new member and was placed on the education committee.

At the conclusion of the business meeting Miss Mammie E. Jenkins, President of the A. A. U. W. gave a brief interesting account of the executive meeting which she attended at Salem College some time ago.
