College Celebrates Birth of Late Dr. R. H. Wright

IMPROVEMENTS ARE MADE HERE UNDER COLLEGE OFFICERS

Many Important Changes Are Brought About During Past Two Years

TWO-YEAR COURSE IS ELIMINATED

Other Changes are Being Considered at Present

The present college administration, with Dr. Leon R. Meadows as President, is continually striving to improve the setup here in order to meet the demands for well-trained teachers.

Perhaps the most important changes during the period mentioned is the elimination of the two-year course after 1935—more students will leave this institution with only two years training.

Another important improvement consists in the introduction of the commercial course here. It was with the idea in mind for a more up-to-date high school course that bookkeeping, typing, and shorthand were made a part of the curriculum.

There has also been a course added to the department of Home Economics which gives special training in Social usage. This course is open to all students and is a valuable supplement to any department.

The educational tours which were introduced last year have proved entertaining methods of study and at the same time splendid cultural advantages. Approximately 250 students have up to this date taken one or more of these field trips.

In addition to the movements made to provide a more adequate curriculum, a great deal has been done toward more efficient utilization of the buildings. There has been provided office space for every member of the faculty. This is of decided help to the teachers in scheduling their work.

Study halls in Austin Building have also been equipped both for boys and girls so that much time can be used which had formerly been spent in going to and from the building when only a short time intervened between classes or appointments. Possibly the most needed adjustment has been made in the provision of dormitory space for boys.

Those who have been instrumental in bringing about these changes have not completed their plans. Many other improvements are being planned.

FIRST TOUR WILL BEGIN ON JUNE 9

During the summer two study tours are being offered which will give college credit in the courses of American History, American Literature and American Geography.

The first tour begins June 9 and will cover interesting points through Washington, New York, the New England States and Canada. In Washington a tour of the city will be made. In passing on to Philadelphia, the tourists will visit the United States Naval Academy, and the tomb of John Paul Jones at Annapolis. Enroute to New York stops will be made at Valley Forge and other historic places.

In the city of New York the itinerary includes: Radio City, American Museum of Natural History, Columbia University, historic churches, East Side, Macey's, the largest department store in the world, Bryant Park, and the Battery and Aquarium.

The trip into New England will give the tourists a chance to visit the historic sites of the region.

LIBRARIANS ATTEND LIBRARY MEETING

American Library Association Holds Annual Meeting At Richmond

Miss Margaret Sammon and Mr. James R. Gullidge, the two librarians of the College attended the American Library Association, which held its annual meeting in Richmond the week of May 12-16. This was the first time in a number of years that it has been held in the southeastern section of the country.

The president this year is Dr. Louis R. Wilson, a native of this state, who for many years was librarian at the University of North Carolina, and one of the great leaders of progressive movements there that made it rank with the great universities of the country.

The new library at the University was built under his regime and the library school was established by him. He was called to the University of Chicago a few years ago to head their library school and library. It is interesting to note that the National meeting is held in the south the year that this noted southerner is president.

Miss Alice V. Wilson, of the Science Department of the College, is his sister. Dr. R. H. Wright was the brother of his wife.

JUNIOR CLASS ELECTS OFFICERS FOR NEXT YEAR

The Junior Class at a meeting last week elected their officers for the coming year. Ruth Cagle was elected to succeed Margaret Norman as president of the class of '37. Marion Wood was elected vice president; Ruby Lee Peacock, secretary; Ruth Wood, treasurer; Frances Edgerton, council representative; Jennie Green Taylor, Tecco Echo reporter; and Aldah Parker, Tecco Echo reporter.

Varsity Club Initiates Two Men Into Organization

By GEORGE WILLARD I experienced a lot of embarrassment, a midnight bath, a headache, and a long hike in order to bring to Tecco Echo readers a true account of just what happens when the Varsity Club takes in new members.

Initiation The initiation began in the Campus Building at 6:30 on Monday, May 18, when six new members, clothed in shorts, rendered a very beautiful "mixed" chorus and interpreted the latest thing in spring dances. Afterwards, they were locked in the dressing room, and were unmercifully tortured by Floyd Hinton's loud snoring for several hours.

TENTATIVE ENTERTAINMENT PROGRAM

The following tentative entertainment program for next year was received from Miss Katherine Holtzelaw, chairman of Entertainment Committee, just before this issue went to press:

- October—Vincent Lopez and his orchestra. November—Carolina Play-makers. December—Trina Skaritina. January—Zimbalist. February—Lowell Thomas. March—Miriam Winslow and her dancers. April—Eva La Gallienne in scenes from her plays. May—Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, the Tune detective.

"POST ROAD" SEEN BY SMALL NUMBER

Is High Class Professional Performance

A small but appreciative audience saw the play "Post Road" here last Saturday night. It was a high class professional production of the Broadway type not only in acting, but in the staging, lighting, stage management, and every detail.

The play was wisely chosen so that only one setting was used for all scenes, and there were no waits between scenes. It is a racy thriller with kidnappers, police, and innocent people brought together in a tourist home where the spinster landlady outwits the whole crowd. Miss Julia Fassett was splendid as Miss Madison. The hypocritical old gangster posing as a minister was played by Halbert W. Brown. The two who furnished the comedy roles that continually brought the house down were Thomas Carnahan, as "George" with his radio and his wife "May," played by Miss Mildred Brown.

Very few times in the history of the college have the students had a chance to see a high class production such as "Post Road" by professionals, actors and actresses.

SOPHOMORES SPEND DAY AT MOREHEAD CITY

A jolly group of College sophomores left May 14 in busses and cars to spend the day on the beach at Morehead City, taking with them as their guests several members of the Tecco Echo staff.

Dr. R. J. Slay, faculty adviser of the class, Mrs. Slay, and Mrs. ReBarker, chaperoned the party.

The out-going officers of the class are: Misses Margaret Banek, president; Mildred Edwards, vice president; Mary Lyon Shotwell, secretary; Bertha Lang, treasurer; and Elizabeth Copeland, council representative.

PRESIDENT TAKES LEAD IN STARTING CUSTOM ON MAY 21

"Now We Honor Great Men" Is Keynote of Address

PRESIDENT MEADOWS GIVES TEN SIGNIFICANT FACTS

Expresses Desire to Get Facts Straight in the Beginning

By FRANCIS BARNES

At the Friday morning assembly was inaugurated the custom of celebrating on May 21, the birthday of Dr. Robert H. Wright, President of East Carolina Teachers College for its first twenty-five years.

President Meadows took the lead in establishing this custom by making a talk to the student body, and telling something of the life of Dr. Wright, with whom he was closely associated for a quarter of a century.

President Meadows read from Apocryphal book in the Bible, using the words "now we honor great men" as the keynote for the day.

He presented ten significant facts concerning Dr. Wright which he felt contributed strongly toward the great character of the man.

Dr. Wright was well born. His family were outstanding community leaders, constructing citizens, and active in any progressive enterprise. Combined with this advantage was an early environment of hardship, which was the environment of all Southerners during the difficult period of reconstruction following the Civil War, and an excellent formal education, received at the University of North Carolina, Johns Hopkins University and Teachers College of Columbia University.

This splendid training in the best institutions of the land combined with his strong personal characteristics, fitted this great leader for his life's work as a pioneer in the field of Teacher-training, which, Dr. Meadows points out, was his distinctive contribution to education.

Dr. Wright was not only a great educator, he was also a great personality. Those who knew him were impressed by his belief in the strict observations of regulations and by

The twenty-seventh annual commencement exercises will be held this week-end, Friday, May 29 through Monday, June 1. The series of events began last night with the musical recital in which the music department and the Glee Club participated.

Today is Alumnae Day. The business meeting of the alumnae association will be held at 10:30 a.m., followed by a luncheon at 1 o'clock. This is the twenty-fifth meeting of the alumnae association which was organized in 1912 by the first class, that of 1911. Dr. B. W. Spilman of Kinston, Field Secretary of the Southern Baptist Convention, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. Dr. Spilman will also speak at the YWCA Vespers in the Robert H. Wright Building at 6:30 p.m.

The commencement address this year will be given by Honorable Josephus Daniels, Ambassador to Mexico, on June 1 at 10:30 a.m. Ambassador and Mrs. Daniels left Mexico City for Washington on May 22. The Ambassador said that he was taking his vacation at this time to attend the meeting of the Board of Trustees of the University of North Carolina, on which he has served for several years, and the graduation exercises of that institution. Following the address of Josephus Daniels, the graduation exercises will take place.

MATHEMATICS CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

The Mathematics Club closed a very successful year on Tuesday evening, May 12, at 6:30. Belle Kearney, vice president and chairman for 1935-1936, presided at this time, and officers for next year were elected. Xylida Cooper will replace Annie Morris Whitley as president of the organization and Roy Barrow will serve as vice president. Marguerite Averett will take up the duties of Mary Lyon Shotwell as secretary and treasurer; Hattie Holland will be Tecco Echo reporter; and Beatrice Reeves will represent the club on the Tecco.

After the business was completed, the members of the club graduating this year, Maude Peele Hedgpeth, Hyatt Forest, and James Joyner, made entertaining talks about their experiences while practicing teaching. It was interesting to note that they mentioned but few disagreeable incidents, and encouraged the members with "practical teaching is not so bad."

At the close of the meeting, iced tea, pimiento cheese and pineapple sandwiches were served.

THREE SOCIETIES ELECT OFFICERS FOR NEXT YEAR

Margaret Norman, Effie Lee Watson and Margaret E. Davis Will Lead Organizations

During the past two weeks the three literary societies elected their officers for the coming year.

Mens Student Government Council Elects Officers

At the first meeting of the new Men's Student Government Council, called last week by President Thornwell Gibson, officers for next year were elected. Wesley Bankston takes Robert Dowd's place as vice president. Ray Pruett, as secretary, replaces George Willard.

Historic Eastern North Carolina Is Annual Theme

By GEORGE WILLARD The Tecco, issued a full two weeks before the termination of the school year, has been proclaimed by many to be the best yearbook in the College history.

The 1936 annual carries out its theme in a dignified manner, and is devoid of the comedy so often characteristic of high school yearbooks. Historic Eastern North Carolina is the theme of the book, and has been made interesting by the attractive presentation of historic scenes in shades and tints of brown.

Dedicated to the Honorable Josephus Daniels, Ambassador to Mexico, the new book represents

FACULTY MEMBERS MAKE ADDRESSES

Professors Still Busy With High School Speaking Engagements

Dr. Herbert Re Barker, Dean of Men and head of the mathematics department at East Carolina Teachers College, has already delivered five commencement addresses to North Carolina high school graduating classes, and has three others scheduled in June. April 15, he addressed the Arthur seniors on "Rights of Youth" and on April 24, talked to the seniors at Magnolia on the topic "Service." On May 22, Dr. Re Barker took a double assignment, speaking to groups at Maura and Chicod, and on last Thursday he spoke at South Edgecombe high school on "Characteristics of Youth." Yesterday he journeyed to Rich Square to speak on "Dangers of Youth."

Addresses at Oak City on June 2, and Mingo on June 9 will complete the year's speaking engagements. (Please turn to page four)

STUDENT GOVERNMENT PRESIDENTS INTRODUCED

At the last student assembly of the College, Miss Elizabeth D. Johnson, the new president of the Woman's Student Government Association, and Thornwell Gibson, the new president of the Men's Student Government Association, were introduced by the out-going presidents of the two organizations, Miss Ellen Jenkins and Durwood Stowe. Both responded with brief talks.

The entertainment feature of the hour was a brief program on the life and works of Nathaniel Dett, the famous negro composer. Miss Viola Smith told the story of his life and Miss Mary Evelyn Thompson played one of his most widely known compositions, "The Jubal Dance."

gie Crumpler. Seven pages of well-arranged action shots give the book distinctive personality.

The introduction of an athletic section was also well received by the students and faculty.

Society Section

The society section is unusually attractive, three pages being given to each society. Along with the officers and group picture, there appears a short history of each organization, and the respective society songs.

Tau Sigma Sigma has the distinction of being the first fraternity ever to be pictured in the Tecocoan.

Photography on the whole seems to be better than ever before, and for this, a local establishment, Baker's Studio, is to be congratulated.

Tecocoan Staff

Quoting the editorial staff: "In order that one person may not be forced to take all the blame while another is loaded down with praise, we offer you a direct line of attack for your brickbats and poses. Maggie Crumpler submitted the diary, Margaret Davis, the athletic section, and Ruth Cagle, the organization and publications. Mary Gorman had the task of all the rest and of half of that we were supposed to do."

"House of Comradeship" YWCA Vesper Service

Presented By Students Selected From Student Body By Secret Ballot

The presentation of the YWCA pageant, "The House of Comradeship," which has for years been an annual College event, was especially lovely and interesting yesterday evening. The twilight scene by the lakeside with the characters in white robes with the bands of blue, the YWCA colors, building the house and other students on the opposite bank, all reflected in the lake, made an impressive sight.

The students whom their fellow-students think are most nearly representative of certain qualities that make character or those that render special service to humanity, are elected by secret ballot and are not announced until they take these parts in the pageant.

Miss Joyce Harrell, as Friendship, Miss Elizabeth Dixon Johnson, the new president of the Student Government Association, as Cooperation, and Miss Ellen Jenkins, the outgoing president of the Student Government Association, as Service, formed the guide-posts to the house. Miss Catherine Wallace, the new president of the YWCA, represented Love, the foundation of the House.

Sincerity, represented by Miss Frances Edgerton, Loyalty, by Miss Mildred McDonald, Trust, by Miss Belle Kearney, and Courage by Miss Naomi Newell, formed the building stones of the house. The dwellers in the house and those taking the parts were: Joy, Miss Ruby Lucas; Sympathy, Miss Juanita Davis; Understanding, Miss Janie Outland; and Helpfulness, Miss Margaret Banek.

The plan of the House was outlined by these as they took their places and held the chain that made the outline. Miss Frances Currin entered first and spoke the prologue. Miss Hattie Pearl Mallard, the outgoing president of the YWCA, the Spirit of the YWCA, was the first of the spirits in the procession and was the interpreter of all the others. As they entered, one by one, each told of her part in building the House before taking her place.

At intervals there was singing by the choir, which was hidden in the summer house on the island that was the scene of the pageant, and responsive reading, in which the audience joined.

Taps sounded in the distance by the bugler, Charles Futrelle, and the singing of the recessional "Follow the Glean" ended the pageant and the regular YWCA year.

At the twilight hour on next Sunday, as a part of commencement the YWCA will hold vesper service. At this Dr. B. W. Spilman will deliver the message.

The pageant presented last night was used for a number of years as the commencement vesper service, and was given in the wood on the western slope of the campus. For the past three years, the candle-lighting service has been used then, and the pageant used for the last regular YWCA service.

Each year adaptations and changes are made in the working of the pageant, but the chief part of it remains the same from year to year.

MRS. EVANS POINTS OUT REAL BENEFIT

Mrs. May Thompson Evans, director of the North Carolina State Employment Service, which is affiliated with the United States Employment Service, presented to the students of the College, on Tuesday morning, May 12, a clear explanation of the purpose of this department and what it has to offer in the way of cooperative help in securing congenial jobs for the unemployed. She emphasized especially the facilities for the group between the ages of 16 and 25. She pointed out ways by which they could be of real benefit to young graduates by informing them of job specifications and job opportunities. In recent months, she said, the renewal of business activity and a growing appreciation by employers of the facilities of the Employment Service has resulted in a greatly increased demand for skilled and college trained applicants. During the past year 46 per cent of those registered with the Service were within these ages, she said, and 70 per cent of these were placed, although most of them had had no previous work experience. She told of the experimental project in the Durham office where four full-time people are making a survey of those who have had no work experience, and of the success in placing those registered.

Mrs. Evans gave the history of the Service and showed how it functioned as an exchange, not only between counties and districts, but between states.

Informational literature was placed where it would be available for reference. Those in the graduating classes who are on the lookout for jobs next year found the information especially profitable, but all were interested in the work of the State and U. S. Employment Services.

ing planned; among these is the hope, expressed by President Meadows, in a recent address to the student body of making possible closer contact between pupils and teachers. It is hoped that in the near future the college will give placement tests and final comprehensive examinations in the major field to graduating students and also that Liberal Arts to students who desire college training but who do not intend to follow teaching as a profession. This would make it possible for students to complete the course of instruction according to their capabilities or individual differences. It is also the desire of the administrators to develop the graduate school so that a larger number of students can prepare themselves for more efficient work and for better salaries.

In the future it is hoped that dormitory space for several hundred more boys can be supplied. Although provision has been made for the boys who are attending school at present, the need for a dormitory that will accommodate the larger number who desire to enter school here is still urgent.

On Wednesday evening, May 20, the English majors met in the Hut for the purpose of reorganizing the English Club. Miss Turner presided at the meeting and led a discussion on the things the club members would enjoy doing next year. There were many suggestions such as taking trips to places of literary interest, seeing outstanding plays of the year, entering literary contests and publishing a guide book for spots of literary interest within a radius of 500 miles.

Following the discussion of activities, Jewel Cagle read the names of those English majors who were eligible to be president of the English Club. Frances Barnes was elected president, Martha Smith, vice-president, Frances Gorman, secretary and Sam Doss, treasurer.
