NORTH CAROLINA MOVES FORWARD

This year should be a red-letter one in the lives of North Carolina school teachers. It marks an important step forward in the educational program of this state in that the practice of awarding teachers' certificates to the two-year Normal graduates has been discontinued.

Many may complain and lament the fact that from now on higher certificates will be required, but this is really a start in raising the teaching profession to a higher level, and in improving the school systems of our state. Even though a longer period of preparation will be required, the time and extra expense thus invested will pay large dividends when measured in terms of the amount the well-prepared teacher will be able to accomplish.

Some counties have previously ruled out the Normal graduates, and it probably will be only a short time before many others will do likewise. Here's to North Carolina for its effort to make this progress statewide!

Intramural Basketball

Entry blanks for participation in basketball have been posted on bulletin boards in each dormitory. All girls are invited to play. Those interested must sign by October 21, as sheets will be removed Thursday morning. No one will be allowed to enter later.

Be sure your name is there. Friday, October 23, there will be a meeting of all entrants at 3:45 in the Wright Building. Circle that date on your calendar. At that time teams will be organized and practice schedules arranged. Practices will begin Monday, October 26. Girls must have six practices before they are eligible to play on a team. Following practices a round robin tournament will be drawn. "Tee" Louise Martin, head of basketball and a member of the varsity, will have charge of this sport. She will be aided by members of the coaching class.

THE PITT THEATRE

IS GLAD OF THE OPPORTUNITY TO CO-SPONSOR A CONTEST WITH "THE TECO ECHO"

We hope that each student and faculty member of East Carolina Teachers College will be interested in the contest and will hand in an entry by October 29.

It has been a pleasure to serve the College by bringing to Greenville the best in screen entertainment. The program of pictures to be shown during the current school year will be exceptional. During the next few weeks, we will bring you "The General Died at Dawn," with Gary Cooper; Shirley Temple in "Dimples"; "Anthony Adverse"; "Cain and Mable"; and a host of other outstanding screen productions.
