ECTC Celebrates Trio Of Events In Coming Month

Governor Hoey to Deliver Principal
Address

Three events of outstanding interest—homecoming, dedication of the new building and the Teacher Training Centennial, will be celebrated on the campus on March 9. The program will begin with alumni registration in the lobby of the Robert H. Wright at 10:30 o'clock. This will precede the academic procession from the new classroom building to the auditorium where the address will be given by Governor Clyde R. Hoey. He will be introduced by Clyde Erwin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

President Meadows will welcome the alumni and will present the guests of honor at the close of the morning program. Barbecue lunch will be served at 1:00 o'clock and will be followed by a meeting of the alumni.

The home economics department is in charge of a tea in the new classroom during the afternoon and the program will close with a basketball game and the alumni dance that night.

Five hundred formal invitations have been sent to all teachers in the United States, all North Carolina colleges and universities that are members of the State Convention of colleges and the members of the board. Informal invitations will be sent to the alumni and friends of the college.

All students have voted to be dressed in white and will wear a college insignia of purple and gold on their arm.

ECTC Backs Plan To Prevent Slash Of Student Fund

The budget now pending before Congress calls for a twenty-nine per cent decrease in the appropriation of the funds for the NYA. If the budget is passed as it now stands it will mean that over one hundred thousand high school students, over forty thousand college students, and an untold number of boys and girls not in school will be without an NYA appropriation during the ensuing year of 1940-41.

In view of the fact that passing the budget would result in some students dropping out of school and handicap the progress of education sponsored by the NYA the student union of Chapel Hill in cooperation with other colleges provided with NYA appropriations has circulated petitions to be presented by representatives of the Student Union in immediate sitting of Congress.

The Student Government Associations of this college have distributed copies of this petition throughout the student body to be signed by the students and faculty members of the college.

Several hundred signatures endorsed the petition to be turned back to the Student Union.

Hampton Noe Guest Of Author

Hampton Noe, ECTC senior and president of the East Carolina Diocese of the Episcopal Church, represented the Young People's Service League of the church in a conference held last week-end in Atlanta, Ga.

During his stay he was a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Lewis and attended a dinner in the home of Margaret Mitchell, author of "Gone With the Wind." Noe, along with Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, were three of six persons attending Miss Mitchell's dinner party.

Noe expressed himself as being impressed with the hospitality and personality of Miss Mitchell, who occupies the same home in which she wrote her famed book. In addition to Miss Mitchell's dinner, Noe also attended a dinner sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis in the Biltmore Hotel.

To Appear Here In Concert

RICHARD CROOKS

Mrs. Picklesimer Alumni Speaker

"Women in the News," was the subject of a most interesting talk given by Mrs. P. W. Picklesimer at the February meeting of the Greenville chapter of the ECTC Alumnae. This meeting was held in the "Y" hut Friday night, February 2. Mrs. Picklesimer confined her discussion to the three great women columnists, Dorothy Dix, Dorothy Thompson, and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. She showed in her discussion how each of these women in her own individual manner is reaching the eyes and ears of the public today. The influence of these three women is being felt more and more every day.

Miss Elizabeth Smith presided at the business meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. Harry Forbes and the vice president, Mrs. Henry Harrell. After reading the minutes, Miss Smith welcomed the new members, Mesdames Patsy Glass, A. P. Mathews, R. W. Davenport, George Clapp, and De Rock Vincent. Guests for the evening were Dr. and Mrs. Hildrup.

The meeting was adjourned after the hostesses, Mesdames Ed Hester, Dupree Griggs, and Tyson Bilbro had served tempting refreshments.

Mr. E. C. Hollar occupied the pulpit in the Ayden and Winterville Memorial Baptist churches last Sunday at the morning and evening services, in the absence of Rev. Frank Morris who was out of the county for the day.

NOTICE

Persons outside the college interested in securing tickets for the Richard Crooks entertainment, February 23, may do so by getting in touch with Miss Ola Ross, ECTC, Greenville, N. C. The prices are $2.20, $1.65, and 75c.

Costume Designer Has Her Headaches But Agrees 'Stage Door' Worth It All

By BARBARA KEUZENKAMP

"Barbara, will it be all right if I wear this black taffeta dress in the second scene of the first act?"

"Well let's see. Who appears on the stage at the same time you do? Ann? She's going to wear a full-skirted teal blue silk dress with gold trimmings. The two will go well together—that will be fine. I'll put you down for a black dress for that scene."

"Look Barbara. What am I going to do for a dressing gown? I only have a very plain—"

"What? Surely. Wait a moment while I write this down." "You say your evening dress is white? You have it with you? Good. But gosh 'Little Mary,' it's way too short! It will look as though it comes to your knees when you're on the stage. Don't you have another dress you can wear that's longer? A black velvet skirt and gold brocade blouse! Yes, that will be swell!"

"Clifton, is the backdrop pink for act II, scene I? Well Bernice said her negligee was peach. Yes, I'll have her bring it to the next rehearsal so we can judge if it is going to clash with the stage setting."

Richard Crooks Scheduled To Sing Here Feb. 23

Opera Star Began
Career at Age
Of Nine

Richard Crooks, leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company is scheduled to sing here Friday evening, February 23, at 8:30 in the Wright Auditorium. Mr. Crooks' career began when he sang as boy soprano soloist at the Ocean Grove, New Jersey Auditorium at nine years of age. He is now in his thirties and has to stand a lot of gaff from people who "remember his voice twenty-five years ago." When he was twelve, he sang in the Trenton Music Festival as co-star with Schumann Heink who predicted great things for him. He had no money for music lessons and worked to earn it. At seventeen, he loaded ice into wagons for twenty cents an hour. He says this helped to expand his chest!

After studying in New York he got his first job at the age of twenty, as the first tenor in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church. He was offered a loan of ten thousand dollars to study abroad and turned it down, preferring his independence. At twenty-one he married his childhood sweetheart, and now has an ideal home life.

Mr. Crooks was offered a "Met" contract five years before he accepted it, but when he did make his debut in 1933 he stopped the show with thirty-seven curtain calls. He has won acclaim with the dozen leading roles he has sung at the "Met" since then, and ranks among the Company's most popular members on both sides of the footlights. He is also the only member of the Metropolitan Opera to continue on a radio program of his own for eight consecutive years.

Richard Crooks says that he has heard people say that male opera stars are sissies. "I'd like to explode that notion," he said. "People get it, perhaps, because of the fancy clothes and the stage kisses. Well, the costume is no more than a working uniform. And the stage kisses are contracted at a distance of some six inches. The trick is in bending over at the right angle."

Mr. Crooks also expressed his opinion on the way people approached classical music saying, "As long as we keep on thinking of music as a form of education and culture instead of as an emotional pleasure, we miss the point of the thing. Music is part of the natural scheme of life. Everybody sings, hums or whistles something. It's the 'sports approach' to music that we need to cultivate, that is an approach that is more spirited, gayer and more adapted to the every-day lives of people."

Seniors Present Stage Door

Two New Stars To Appear Here On Local Stage

Clifton Britton Directs
Play for Class
Of 1940

"Stage Door," senior class play to be presented on the nights of February 17 and 19 brings to our stage two new actresses. Jane Copeland, who in "Stage Door" appears as Terry Randall, young stage aspirant, displays much dramatic talent in this forthcoming production. Jane has had dramatic experience and training and in college. As a high school student she presented in recital "Madam Butterfly."

Nell Breedlove, vice president of the senior class, appears in the play as her first dramatic attempt while on this campus. In the role of Kaye Hamilton, Nell very capably portrays the quiet melancholy actress who apparently gets all the bad breaks.

Ethel Gaston, president of the Dramatics Club here becomes the terse, wise cracking Judith Garland. (Please turn to page six)

Dr. Hornell Hart Will Talk Here To Student Body

On Friday night, February 9, Dr. Hornell Hart, Professor of Social Ethics at Duke University, will speak to the college under the auspices of the Association For Childhood Education and the Young Women's Christian Association. "Religious and Social Ideals—Their Effect on Child Development" will be Dr. Hart's subject this evening.

Dr. Hart is a popular speaker, not only in North Carolina, but throughout the South. He was an outstanding speaker at the Methodist Student Conference held in Raleigh during this week-end. He is a Quaker, a pacifist and a minister, but most of all, he is a noted lecturer, very much in demand on college campuses throughout America.

Formerly connected with the Seminary in Hartford, Connecticut, Dr. Hart comes to the campus from the Sociology department of Duke University.

Dr. Hart's speech will be of great interest, not only to the members of the Young Women's Christian Association and the Association For Childhood Education, but to a large number of students and faculty. A large attendance is expected.

Freshman Class Announces Plans

According to the latest schedule, the Freshman class will hold its formal banquet in the main dining hall February 21.

At the last class meeting, the Freshmen voted unanimously to decorate with Washington's birthday as its theme. As a soothing accompaniment Spence Hatley's orchestra will play dinner music. An extensive entertainment program is also being arranged for the banquet, and a prominent local man is being sought for the principle speaker's post.

Guests may be invited by the freshmen at a small cost, providing they sign their own and their guest's name in the book which will be opened Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, February 12, 13, and 14 in the "Y" reading room.

MSA Students Attend Meeting At State Capital

Hazel Starnes Elected
State Vice President

Nineteen ECTC students accompanied by Miss Zoe Anna Davis, Methodist student secretary, attended the Methodist Student Conference in Raleigh.

A series of addresses by Dr. Hornell Hart of Duke University was the outstanding event of the Conference held at the Edenton Street Church in Raleigh, February 2-4.

Approximately 150 students from colleges over the state were present. They were entertained by Methodist students at State College under the direction of Jack Price, president of the conference.

In the business session Saturday afternoon, Hazel Starnes was elected as state vice president to succeed Anna Laurie Beale, president of the Methodist Student organization on the campus.

Delegates from the college other than Miss Starnes and Miss Beale were Helen Grey Gilliam, Elizabeth Stacy, Iris Davis, Mary Thad Chappell, Dorothy Turner, Reon Maness, Sally Mary Mathias, Helen King, Kathleen Asbell, Sarah Thompson, Lallah B. Watts, Frances Cutchin, Helen Butler, Evelyn Clark, Julia Spencer, Alice Bragg and Sarah Ann Maxwell. Dr. Hart will speak in Austin auditorium Friday night, February 9, under the auspices of the ACE and the YWCA.

Univ. Glee Club To Appear Here

The University Glee Club, composed of fifty boys, will present a program of semi-classical music on the night of February 16. The members of the Glee Club consist of the men students of the University of North Carolina.

After the performance the senior class will entertain the club at an informal dance. Play practice which is scheduled that night will be held Friday afternoon so that the cast will be able to attend the entertainment that night.

A committee has been chosen to arrange for the club members staying in private homes in Greenville while they are on the campus.

Souvenir Program

A souvenir program for the Senior Play, "Stage Door," issued as a bulletin by the college, has been completed and is ready to go to press. The program which is being edited by Lindsay Whichard and Helen Flanagan, will consist of twenty pages and will include information on the activities of students on the campus.

Scenes from the play will be shown and also pictures of members of the cast and the technical staff, along with a synopsis of the play, "Stage Door" written by George Kaufman and Edna Ferber.

These programs will be presented at the door to each person attending a performance of the play.

Copies will be sent throughout the state to high schools and members of the Alumni Association of this college as a regular bulletin of the college, since the bulletin is being printed under the auspices of the Administration.

On Thursday afternoon Jan. 25, the Association for Childhood Education held a "White Elephant" sale at the "Y" hut. Members of the club participated. The gifts were donated by the local merchants. The money made will be used to bring a well known speaker to the campus.

Would-Be Hooky Player Soon Learns Jenkins Means Business About Cuts

By LaRUE MOORING

Good ole "hooky"! It's the same ole fascinating game. But it's only Miss Jenkins who plays Aunt Polly and goes to get her Tom Sawyer. Oral English was made royal comedy the day a little boy decided to "cut." A diller, a dollar, this ten o'clock scholar was determined not to be one that day.

It so happened that Miss Jenkins had presented a paper to each one in her class, and intended for the class to keep them. Apparently the wanderer was under the impression that they were to be returned. Therefore, on this particular morning, Mercury, a little girl, bore a message of vital import. With all the precision of a Western Union Telegraph boy, she handed Miss

Jenkins the dispatch, the fateful paper, with word that the sender could not come to class that day.

"Wait a minute," boomed Miss Jenkins determinedly. "I know where he is." And this purposeful woman took off. Off she flew to the old swimming hole where all ECTC truants go—namely the "Y" store. In she sailed and made a three point landing on the culprit.

Having clutched him by the sleeve, she, just like a crane, hauled him out the door to her room above. And before the awe stricken as well as highly amused class she made a grand entrance with the "wary male."

Moral (to all would-be hooky players): Where there's a will, there's not always a way.

Need for a New Constitution is Apparent

Need for a new student government constitution for East Carolina Teachers College has grown quite apparent recently. The constitution under which we are now governed in reality is not a constitution. It is merely a fragment. Furthermore it does not provide for a student government of the whole school. As it now stands the Women's Student Government Association has authority over the entire student body—men and women included. This is not right. The two should have equal powers and privileges.

Sensing the inadequacy of the present constitution a special committee has formulated a plan whereby there will be one central organization under which both men and women will be included and will be given equal rights. All business concerning the group as a whole will be included under this constitution. Also under this plan there will be two separate branches of government—one for the women to govern business concerning their individual group and one for the men to govern business concerning only their group.

Our need for a constitution such as this committee has formulated is urgent and has been needed ever since this college became co-educational.

Meadows Endorses Educational Series

President Meadows recently publicly endorsed the Educational Series plan which is being sponsored by the Greenville Home Building and Loan Association.

The plan of the association is to assure a number of Greenville children of a college education by providing a system whereby their parents may lay away a certain amount of money weekly. When the child comes of college age there will be sufficient money saved to send that child through college.

For any boy or girl entering the first or second grade of the Greenville Schools this year, under this plan, $.64 per week will assure him of one year in college; $1.25 per week assures him of two years in college; $2.50 per week will assure him of four years in college.

In a letter to the Home Building and Loan Association, Dr. Meadows wrote: "It seems to me that you are doing a very fine thing in opening up an educational series in your Building and Loan Association, for the purpose of helping young men and women through college. You are not only encouraging thrift in those who are saving the amount necessary for college expenses but you are also opening up an opportunity for the boys and girls to prepare themselves for greater usefulness in life."

"I take pleasure," stated Dr. Meadows, "in commending such a step to those who have children who are to be educated in the future."

Dr. Meadows has made a fine move in endorsing the above policy of the association for it will probably influence a number of parents to take advantage of this opportunity of assuring their children a college education.

Come Home, Alumni

East Carolina Teachers College extends a cordial invitation to each alumna and alumnus to come back to visit the college on Homecoming Day this year.

Homecoming will be most outstanding this year. A special program has been arranged for your enjoyment. In addition to the regular homecoming program as it has been in the past, two special events will top all previous celebrations. Complete plans have been made for the dedication of the new classroom building which will probably be ready for occupancy by the Spring quarter. At the same time there will be a celebration of the observation of Founders Day twenty-eight years ago. Also there will be a dinner, a dance and other things for your amusement.

Come back and renew acquaintances with former classmates and faculty members. Just make a little circle around March 9 in your date book and come home on Homecoming Day!

An Apology in Order

Action recently taken by the Y.W.C.A. and the Y.M.C.A. executive cabinets in closing the "Y" Reading room to the student body is justified. If the students do not know how to appreciate the privilege extended to them by the two associations as all evidence points out, then they do not deserve such a place for their convenience.

The Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A. did not have to open their cabinet room to the use of the students, but they were kind enough to want to let others enjoy their rooms, their magazines, their books, and their comfortable chairs. So they opened their doors to the whole college. They spent money and time in fixing up this room so that it would be just as convenient and comfortable as possible. They bought many of the leading magazines to place around the room and they bought good modernistic lamps which provide the best light possible for reading. They bought ash trays so that the students might smoke in there, and they built book cases to accommodate stray books and magazines. In addition to this, the "Y" members spent many hours working down there getting the place ready for use.

And to what avail did they spend all this money and time? Only to have their reading room and their property abused and kicked around. What a disillusion to have trusted the students in taking advantage of an extended privilege and then lose it by virtue of not being able to respect the rights of others and failing to adhere to established principles of good manners.

One thing that hurt so badly about the use of the room was the fact students abused their privileges in there when the room was provided by two religious organizations. Then too people who wanted to use the place as it should have been were made to feel out of place, because others who were abusing the privileges were so boisterous. The Y.W.C.A. and the Y.M.C.A. have no intention of sponsoring such things.

The student body owes an apology to the two "Y's" for their misconduct and carelessness in the use of the "Y" Reading Room. Perhaps if the students can convince the "Y" cabinets that they can act decently and can respect others' property, they might consider reopening their room to the college.

Conduct at Mass Meetings

Dear Editor:

Why have mass meetings at all? That would be swell, wouldn't it? Let's just leave everything up to the Women's and Men's Student Government associations. We don't have the time to go to mass meetings—The Student Governments meet anyway and they could handle the affairs of the campus. But what about those democratic students who wish to express their opinions before the groups? Mass meeting is the only place that they have a chance to do so. Yet, some students on our campus have the idea that mass meetings is only a place for Miss Morton to make a few announcements and for a couple of students to have a feud. Well, yes, Juanita might have a few more privileges for the seniors, or it might be a few taken away for the freshmen or sophomores. Well, who gives a rip about that anyway. They should inform them some other place and let us go dance or maybe get all painted up for a date. "That last mass meeting was punk." I heard a student exclaim. "I could have shot Alton Payne for getting up and starting something when the meeting was almost ready to adjourn." Do you know the purpose of having mass meetings? If you don't it is time you were finding out. Just the other day I heard a senior say: "You know, I never knew the importance of mass meetings until recently." Why wait that long to find out? I did the same thing and you probably are doing the same thing now. Mass meetings are the only time students can express their opinion before the student body. It is through these meetings that the worthwhile things concerning us take place, yet some of us have a dirty attitude toward these meetings.

Every time we assemble in mass meeting the student body is in such a rush to get out that they vote for anything before them in order to get out. For what—I have no idea. At the last mass meeting the students were in such a rush to get out that they voted to do away with something and then voted to have another that included the same thing that they had just voted to do away with. If this is clear cut thinking then I'm a bow-legged bumble bee. Future Teachers of America—Why have a head if you aren't going to use it?

Another thing is the courtesy that is employed in our mass meetings—Why everyone is so quiet that you could hear a mouse run across the floor. Or can you? Yes, and at times our chairman has to beat on the table for two or three minutes before she can secure the attention of the audience. Should she have to do this? It seems to me that just as soon as she walks on the platform everyone should stop their chattering and keep quiet until they are called upon. The courtesy of the court demands this and it should be enforced. According to Roberts' Rules of Order (the adopted rules that we are to go by according to our handbook), page 299, paragraph 57, the court has the right to eject from its doors or fine any person whose conduct is not what it should be. No one has the right to even walk across the floor unless they have been recognized by the chairman. I believe if we were to start enforcing this, of course, no one ever made any noise in our meetings, that was someone from Washington or Alaska or maybe one of Hitler's Clan. Nevertheless it has been rather noisy at times, no matter who did it. If everyone would cooperate and keep his brother or sister or relative next to him quiet instead of trying to steal the show for their own glory, I am quite sure there would be no necessity for anyone not understanding what is going on and vote on anything just because someone else did. That's a poor excuse. Let's cooperate with one another and be a lady and a gentleman. After all, you are one, aren't you?

Alton Payne.

Flying the Flag

To the Editor:

Sometime ago there appeared a letter in this column asking that the flag be flown on the front campus. The administration shortly afterward complied, and we do have a flag flying in front of the Austin building.

Contrary to the belief of many students, this flag is not flown in rain or snow, nor is it flown after dark. Every morning around seven o'clock workmen can be seen raising the flag and every evening at five-thirty it is lowered. This procedure takes place every day but Sunday unless inclement weather interferes. I think the student body would all agree that the flag flying on front campus adds a great deal to the looks of the school, and I hereby give my vote of thanks to the administration in appreciation for their cooperation.

Aside from the good that flying the flag does on the campus, it can aid in swelling the pride of persons passing the college in automobile or while walking. The street on which East Carolina Teachers College is situated is one of the six main highways radiating from Greenville. When visitors come here from neighboring towns and see the flag flying, they are certain to return to their respective towns and comment that a spirit of material democracy apparently prevails on the campus of East Carolina Teachers College.

FRENCH FASHION ADS

By Barbara Keuzenkamp

Gay, snappy little hats will perch precariously on Mademoiselle's head this spring. Veiling galore, colorful flowers, bright feathers, broad brims and tiny brims all characterize the spring hats. Some of the hats are completely covered with large Canterbury Bells, while others have large clusters of violets, dyed to order, to match any costume. Clover, lilacs, and foliage give an especially spring-like touch to diminutive and forward-posed hats. The small sailor hat is very popular in bright turquoise. One adds a bird with outspread wings in white and beige. Lilly Dache gives us a new mauve shade for hats which is a dull wistaria hue (more gray than red in it) and which goes exceedingly well with brown or gray.

Paris sends us the new silhouettes. Lelong shows extra long jackets, worn with full short skirts. Many of the houses are showing skirts which barely reach the calf-top, measuring about 17 inches from the floor. Molyneux shows the very new narrow skirt and bloused top. Blouses are very feminine and full, although some of the houses are showing models with fitted mid-ribs, and sometimes with contrasting corselet treatments. Keep your eyes open for handmade lingerie blouses—they're delightful!

In contrast to these blouses many of the collections are showing an increase in the use of handwork on crepe afternoon dresses. Fagoting or drawwork is much in prominence on day dresses. Evening embroideries vary from tailored jet and sequined belts and buttons on Molyneux's finer ensembles, to richly spangled shoulder yokes at Schiaparelli.

Sweaters hold their own in early spring styles. Shorter 22- and 23-inch cardigans are definitely taking the place of the longer length Sloppy Joes. Many sweaters come with knitted turbans to match, while others have removable pique trimmings. Colors are extremely important. True blue, ash rose, spray green, and gray are noteworthy.

Petition Granted

Miss Velma Lowe, sponsor of the Alpha Zeta Chi honorary Sorority at East Carolina Teachers College, has received information that the petition for a local charter of the International Alpha Iota Sorority has been granted.

The Regional Councilor, Miss Dorothy Matthews, from Washington, D. C., is coming here at the end of February to install the local members. Miss Matthews will bring with her the Charter which she will present to the President of the College at the banquet preceding the initiation ceremony.

Watching The World

by

GEORGE LAUTARES

George Lautares

Last week Hitler launched his greatest air attack of the war against the British. A huge fleet of Nazi bombers appeared over the northeast coast of England and poured bombs and machine gun bullets into several British vessels. The Nazis claim that six of the ships were sent to the bottom and several battleships damaged. Their own ships, they claim, returned unscathed. Since this effort against the allies Hitler has constantly harassing the English coast with his bombers, always claiming that the raids have been highly successful.

It seems that the Russians are as stubborn with their offensives as the Finns are with their resistance. Apparently, defeat means very little to the Russian generals. Every offensive, thus far, has proved disastrous and abortive; yet, they continue to pound the Finnish line with consistent failure. True, the Russians have a plethora of man-power to throw at the Finnish lines, but constant reverses will ultimately weaken the morale of any soldier. Already, the world has witnessed how inefficient and ill-equipped the Russians are. Not only that, but they have an alarming paucity of good leaders. If Russia is victorious in this war, victory will be due only to her never-ending source of man-power.

Reports from abroad state that the Germans are being unnecessarily callous in their efforts to assimilate Poland into their empire. It is stated that the Nazis are forbidding the Poles to use their own language; requiring them to speak only German. Numerous executions have been reported, but they are denied by the Germans who paradoxically claim that the Poles appear extremely "happy" under the yoke of Adolf Hitler.

The Japanese invasion of China goes on, but little news of any definite action is now published. The Japanese claim that they have lost only 10,000 men during their conquest, and have killed countless Chinese soldiers . . . and civilians. The greatest damage done to China, however, has been the bombing and destruction of towns and villages inhabited by civilian Chinese who understand very little about the war. It is well known that the mass of the Chinese people are ignorant of the presence of a war. They live their lives perplexed and in doubt as to just what is really happening to their country.

The presidential elections are not far off and the most perturbing question continues to be, "Will Roosevelt seek a third term?" Thus far, the President has remained reticent about his 1940 intentions, and other prospective candidates are awaiting his decision before they announce their candidacy for president. The Democrats have stated that they will hold their convention after the Republicans have announced their man. It seems that the choice for democratic candidate will be contingent entirely upon who is named by the Republicans. At the present, Thomas Dewey and Robert Taft are favored by the G.O.P., and Vic Donahey and Garner are favored by the New Dealers.

Student-On-The-Stand

Question: Do you think there should be three distinct governmental units for this student body such as the constitutional committee has worked out—one government for the student body as a whole to carry on their business, another for the women to govern their group, and a third for the men students to govern their group? Why?

Alice Powell: Yes, for it would take some of the responsibilities off the present president of the student government.

Doris Blalock: Yes, because it would give more students a chance to hold offices and would distribute the duties of the officers better than they now are.

Ida Farrior Davis: Yes, I am in favor of any good plan that will help to better distribute the duties of the president of the Women's Student Government Association.

Alton Payne: Yes, as it is now there is nothing democratic about our constitution. The one now underway would be democratic with opportunities for all.

Gilbert Britt: Yes. With over 1,100 students on our campus, I feel that the three division plan would be much more democratic. More students should be encouraged to take an active part in our local government.

ECTC Bulletin Features Work Of Training School

Favorable Comments Received On Edition From Many Colleges

Featuring the Training School, the regular quarterly bulletin of East Carolina Teachers College was published in December.

The staff of the bulletin consisted of members of the faculty of the Training School and teachers working in the elementary department in the college.

The bulletin consists of a definition of the training school, the curriculum, the stands which the training school takes in relation to the growth of a child, the relation of the training school to other parts of the college and to other schools and professions.

The bulletin has been sent to all the teachers colleges throughout the country. Many favorable comments have been made from the different colleges concerning the bulletin.

"The Training School Bulletin is most attractively and functionally worked out and should help people to realize that the laboratory school is or should be the heart of a professional school for the training of teachers," was one of the statements sent to the bulletin staff.

"It helps a great deal to have teachers compile records and interpretation of their work and pass them on to others," was also a favorable comment sent by many of the schools after reading the bulletin.

There will be copies of the bulletin put in the bookroom and library for the students to read.

Training School Hears Speaker

Dr. Keuzenkamp who spoke at Chapel recently on South Africa spoke again last Wednesday morning for the Training School Chapel. His subject was Equatorial Africa.

Dr. Keuzenkamp described the geographical construction of the central part of Africa with its jungles and rivers. He told about the characteristics and customs of some of the different tribes in the Belgian Congo and also told of some of the animals that are found and hunted in that region.

He told about the curious masks, charms, and weapons used by the natives and described the costumes and jewelry.

OPEN FORUM

Dear Editor:

Before mounting the soap-box perhaps I should apologize for sounding "punch-drunk," but I'm afraid I'm slightly knocked out due to my being allergic to three basketball games in one night. Normally such a feat, and it was a feat, wouldn't bother my equilibrium, but this particular feat occurred on Saturday night, and Saturday nights around here, as popular belief has it, are set aside for dancing.

Now you don't hear much "griping" over an occasional game on Saturday night. In fact, it makes it rather enjoyable to be able to watch a ball game and then dance a while. BUT last Saturday night we had THREE! Incidentally, a check up will show that we have games scheduled for practically every Saturday for the remainder of the season.

The students of this school have been supporting the team splendidly. The boys have had fine turn-outs for every contest. ECTC is truly "basketball conscious," but if the kind of thing I've been talking about happens again we'll probably be "basketball unconscious."

Last year the students of this institution voluntarily voted to give an extra dollar per quarter for the advancement of athletics, and I think, and I'm not alone, that using up our social hours is a very poor way of showing appreciation.

My concluding hope is that someone will enlighten the person who makes out our schedule to the high impracticability of attempting to run off a tournament in one night.

Signed,
John D. Bridgers.

Ground Hog Sees Huge Shadow As Sun Peeps From Behind Clouds

By MARY HELEN GULLEDGE

Well, folks, last Friday was the big day for that old underground animal known as the ground hog.

The day dawned dark and gloomy, and I thought we had at last beat him to it—his own game. But that old sun had to come out and he saw his shadow! Darn it all!

When he stuck his head out of his hole and beheld that huge dark thing called a shadow he was so frightened he immediately turned and clambered down into his dark hole again. Poor thing—six more weeks in that dark home of his. Poor us, too, because perhaps he didn't realize that he was bringing down on the human beings who walk on top of the earth six more weeks of cold weather—rain, sleet, snow, and hail. Now don't you think he was a selfish one to think of no one but himself and to forget the millions who walk this earth?

Of course, we just forget about the fact that if he hadn't seen his shadow, we would have fair weather from now on. Why, if that ground hog should not see his shadow it would be the most stupendous, colossal, gigantic catastrophe that has ever happened in Pitt County for many a year.

Now if you should wonder why we always have such bad weather in Greenville, don't blame it on the weather man but on the ground hog. That old hog hasn't failed to see his shadow and run back in his hole for as many years back as your most honorable editor can remember.

If you ask me—that old ground hog—he's just a fraidy cat.

Home Economics Director Is Entertained

State Supervisor Is Also College Guest

Miss Marie White, regional director of the Federal Bureau of Home Economics from Washington, D. C., and Miss Catherine Dennis, state supervisor of home economics visited the campus on January 30-31.

On Tuesday they were entertained at a tea in Ragsdale Hall where they met members of the faculty and later they were dinner guests at the home management house. Other guests were Dr. and Mrs. L. R. Meadows, Dr. and Mrs. F. D. Duncan, Miss Catherine Holtsclaw and Miss Mary Green.

The tea was served by the foods class of the home economics department under the supervision of Miss Ruby Scholz, and music was furnished throughout the afternoon by the string quartet under the direction of Mr. A. Dittmer. The quartet is composed of Archie Yow, first violinist; Vincent Romano, second violinist; Miss Marguerite Austin, violist; and Betty Keuzenkamp, cellist.

Miss White and Miss Dennis who are specialists in home economics visited the prospective quarters of the department in the new classroom building.

Frat Initiates

Phi Sigma Pi, national honorary professional fraternity on the campus, initiated three new pledges last Thursday, February 1.

The three new members are Orval Morton of Castle Heights, Chicago; Spencer Hatley of Albemarle, Va.; and William Merner of Hopewell, Va.

Fraternity members are now making preparations for the annual banquet and dance, both of which are set for the evening of May 11. This will be the first time the fraternity will have sponsored a dance.

W. Perry Crouch Conducts Series Of Services Here

Quarterly Speaker Talks On National Situation

Mr. W. Perry Crouch, head of the Department of Christian Education and Training of the Baptist State Convention, spoke on several occasions to the students during his stay on the campus last Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr. Crouch, who spoke on the national situation and on choosing a vocation, is the "Y" quarterly for this quarter. He spoke at the regular meeting in chapel on Tuesday night; again at vespers on Tuesday night; and at twelve o'clock in the Austin Auditorium on Wednesday.

In his address at the regular chapel Mr. Crouch said that he was more interested in college students than in the war situation, but that since they would be directly tied up in it some time in the future, it was of vital importance. Saying that both sides lost no matter which won technically, Mr. Crouch maintained that we would have war until the people realized that man and not property is of supreme worth.

Mr. Crouch said that when and only when a man was in contact with God could he be capable of his greatest development, do wonders in the world of property, and do a greater piece of work lifting up his fellow man.

In the "Y" room on Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning, Mr. Crouch held individual conferences. Having worked extensively among the college students on many college campuses in North Carolina, he is better able to help students with their problems.

At the YMCA vespers Mr. Crouch discussed abundant living. Going to the Latin derivative he said that it meant flowing over. To have a more abundant life, Mr. Crouch said you first must come in closer communion with God, and (Please turn to page six)

Technical Staff Of 'Stage Door' Working Hard

Over 30 Members Of Senior Class Included On Staff

Working behind the scenes of "Stage Door," Senior Class play to be presented here February 17 and 19, are some thirty members of the technical staff.

Harvey Deal heads the technical staff as stage manager, having as his assistants Ruth Frazzelle, LaRue Mooring, and Margaret Jarvis.

The stage set which has been designed by John David Bridgers, will be constructed under the guidance of Hampton Noe, foreman of stage construction. Wayland Tucker, Greenville student, has charge of the lighting effects to be used in the play.

The headresses and costumes to appear in the play are being designed and executed by Barbara Keuzenkamp, writer of the French Fashion Fads Column. Annie Hart Boone and Doris Dobson are acting as wardrobe mistresses having as their assistant Rowena Hicks.

The production manager for "Stage Door" is Lindsay Whichard who has a part in the play also. Rebecca Grant, Marie Wells, and Virginia Rogers are assistant production managers.

John David Bridgers, who has assisted in the production of several plays during his stay on campus is acting as technical director of the senior class play.

Helen Flanagan, business manager of the school newspaper, and Lindsay Whichard are editing the souvenir programs to be given those attending the production.

Velligh Austin, Ruth Hawks, and Evelyn Jernigan have charge of the stage and personal properties used in "Stage Door," and Miss Lena C. Ellis, of commerce department will be responsible for the make-up. The furniture to be used on the stage will be secured by LaRue Weathers, Marie Tripp and Alton Payne.

The Lobby Committee chairman is Margaret Allen and she has as her assistant workers Helen Geddy, and Lucille Edge.

The ticket agents at the door are Ida Farrior Davis and Grace Newell.

The following marshals, headed by Christine Harris, as chief marshal for the college have been selected from the class at large: Alice Bragg, Sarah Anne Maxwell, Ernestine Creech, Dot Reed Miller, Ruth Wood Pritchard, Miriam Sawyer, Frances Wilson, Mildred Taylor, Geraldine Harris, and Kathleen Strickland.

Dorothy Hollar, editor of the Teco Echo, and Mary Frances Byrd, class representative to that publication, are handling the publicity for "Stage Door."

Held Open House Last Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Gullede held open house at their home on East Fourth Street, Sunday, February 4, from four until 5:30 p.m.

The guests were President and Mrs. Meadows, Miss Sue Hudson, Miss Margaret Sammon, Assistant librarian, and the student assistants in the library. These were Misses Mary Ellen Matthews, Mildred Taylor, Eloise Bone, Kathleen Lewis, Joyce Durham, Clollie Mae Croom, Dorothy Gupton, Mae Gilliam, La Rue Mooring, Mayme Davis, Gwen Goodson, and Elizabeth Bishop.

Soph-Senior Scene Of Colorful Valentine Dance

East Carolina Teachers College was the scene of a colorful Valentine Dance Saturday night, January 27 when the Sophomore class sponsored its annual Sophomore-Senior dance.

Spencer Hatley and his celebrated "Deans of Rhythm" furnished the music for the gala occasion Saturday night. Just before intermission the Grand March took place composed of class officers and led by the President of the Senior Class.

The campus building was decorated in red and white with a large red heart on the stage curtains. The decoration committee was headed by Mary D. Horne and Walter Tucker, both of Greenville.

Chaperones for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. A. Dittmar, Mr. and Mrs. Dean C. Tabor, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Deal, Dr. and Mrs. Beecher Flanagan, Dr. and Mrs. B. B. Brandt, Dr. and Mrs. Denver E. Baughman, Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Pickelsimer and Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Posey.

Dancing got under way around 9:00 o'clock and was concluded at 11:45.

College Orchestra Plays

Friday, January 26 at Chapel Period the College Orchestra under the direction of Mr. A. Dittmar rendered some musical numbers including Intermezzo by Bizet, Who is Sylvia by Schubert, Country Dance by Beethoven, Turkish March by Beethoven, March Classique by Weber, Pilgrims Chorus by Wagner. ## Students Hear Hoover Taft At YMCA

Local Attorney Addresses Group

Hoover Taft, Greenville attorney, speaking at the Vespers at East Carolina Teachers College last night, told his audience of the "material advantages we may derive from following the Christian religion."

In comparing concrete facts of religion with abstract facts, Mr. Taft recalled how people in the era of the cave man worshiped the sun because of the material advantages it gave them; how people of the Nile worshiped the great river because of its material advantages; how the people of India worshiped the elephant because of the material advantages he produced, and then drew the thoughts of his listeners to present-day life to show how material advantages can be had from following the Christian religion.

He told his audience that some of them might call him a humanist—but "I'm not, since humanism completely overlooks immortality, one of the greatest factors of Christian religion." While speaking of the part law plays in the life of an individual, Mr. Taft explained that "law is not a positive force, but a passive one, and we need more than law to motivate the mind of an individual."

Home, marriage, respect for parents, and protection against aggression and adversity the speaker listed among the material advantages that most people of today in this country enjoy because they live under the influence of Christianity.

"Is immortality worthy of taking as the truth because of the consolations we experience from such a belief in this life?" Mr. Taft asked his audience. "Present-day controversies in religion do not mean that I shall not be able to enjoy it; nor do these controversies mean that any other person shall not be able to enjoy Christian living," he said in closing.

James Whitfield, chairman of Christian Education of the Young Men's Christian Association, conducted the program.

Ramsey Potts Speaks To YW

Ramsey Potts of Greenville, a graduate of the University of North Carolina, and now connected with Blount-Harvey Department Store spoke at the college YWCA 28, in the Austin Auditorium.

Mr. Potts said that the girls who are to become teachers will not only live their own lives, but will also reflect life for those they teach. He then brought out his idea that art, literature and music should be stressed especially for girls, because they can and will usually appreciate such things more than most of the boys.

COME AS YOU ARE

The Immanuel Training Union is getting rather socialistic, for tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 the college union is having at the Student Center a "Come-as-you-are" party. You might get your invitation any time—be careful of your wearing apparel today.

Dr. LeRoy Hilddrup of the history faculty has recently been appointed on the membership committee of the Southern Historical Association for the year 1939-40.

The Southern Historical Association is an organization for the promotion of interest and research in Southern history, the collection and preservation of the South's historical records and the fostering of teaching and study in all branches of history in the South.

Membership in the association is limited only to those interested in the South's history. Although the organization is designed primarily for college and university teachers and researchers, it should appeal also to ambitious high school history teachers who are interested in Southern history.

When interviewed concerning his appointment, Dr. Hilddrup stated that anyone interested in joining the Association might get in touch with him and he would furnish membership blanks.

Vincent Romano, second violinist; Miss Austin, violinist; Betty Keuzenkamp, cellist closed the program with "Emperor" of Variation by Hayden.

Dietz, Editor Of Southern Literary Messenger Scheduled To Speak Here Twice, February 20

Meredith Dietz, editor of the Southern Literary Messenger, is shown here in an informal pose taken recently. Miss Dietz is being brought to the campus under the auspices of the Poe Literary Society and the English Club.

Popular Journalist Invited To Campus By Poes, English Club

Eminent Author Has Published Many Works

Miss F. Meredith Dietz, editor of the Southern Literary Messenger and veteran newspaper woman who has been reared under the colorful customs and traditions of the Old South, is the Chapel speaker for February 20, and another program on the same evening at 9:30 o'clock.

The popular Southern magazine editor comes to East Carolina Teachers College under the auspices of the Poe Literary Society and the English Club. Everyone is invited to attend the program on the evening of February 20 and students on the campus are privileged to confer with Miss Dietz, who will make Cotten Hall her headquarters during her stay on the campus.

When Dietz was experiencing happy childhood days in Richmond, Va., she and her brother, August, Jr., played in the building in which the old Southern Literary Messenger was published. Having been told that Edgar Allen Poe, former editor of the publication, had walked up the stairs with manuscripts, they often played a game of listening for his footsteps.

This incident had much influence in their reviving the famous old magazine.

Bringing the dormant magazine to life was one of their principal objectives in their early life, but it was not until 1938 that their dreams began to take the shape of a reality. August is business manager of the Dietz Press in Richmond, which is credited with turning out many valuable first editions on such historical places as Williamsburg and Yorktown. Miss Dietz has served on the staffs of Virginia and New York newspapers, which makes her capable for editorship of the Southern Literary Messenger.

Besides her work nearer home, Miss Dietz has traveled through the Middle West in the interest of school art; has published several hundred short stories; and is the author of innumerable children's stories and plays, in addition to spending five years in Europe.

Despite her early start in the field of literature and her strong desire to turn to page six.)

Black Masquers Present Play At Chapel Hour

The Black Masquers of Greenville High School presented a play "Annie's Man" written by Herber White Lee, in Chapel Period Friday, February 2. The play was directed by Geraldine Harris.

The cast included Annie, Doris Brown; Sadie Cobb, Hazel Williford; Mrs. Cobb, Lila Lee Everington; Tommy, Mitchell White; Annie's Man, Herbert White Lee; Clem, Spencer Carroll; and Verbin, John Anderson.

The play typified a country home of Pitt County. Annie was trying to get a man and at last when she was sure she had succeeded she found out that he was the father of her girl friend. The play was full of good wit and drew whole-some laughs from the enthusiastic assembly.

Too much emphasis is placed on intercollegiate sports, Mr. Potts declared. The money spent on the boys' teams could easily be used to a greater advantage many times if it were used in some way that would help the majority of the girls.

Miss Keuzenkamp Writes For Paper

Barbara Keuzenkamp, feature writer and associate editor for the Teco Echo, now writes a fashion column for the Beaufort News.

This feature column which was first written last year for the Teco Echo appeared for some time in the Greenville News Leader.

She is now assisting the east of the senior play as fashion adviser in selecting and designing its wardrobe.

Miss Keuzenkamp receives her material from authentic reports direct from New York and Paris.

A HIGH SCORE--IN ANY LEAGUE

To have produced one "ALL-AMERICAN" Yearbook would make any annual producer justly proud. To produce three in one year is, we feel, just about a perfect score. And just to prove that it's not luck, we've produced "ALL-AMERICAN" year after year.

Below is an incomplete list, showing some of the annuals we are doing, and their records:

- WAKE FOREST COLLEGE "HOWLER"
Rated All-American for 1938-1939
- DUKE UNIVERSITY "CHANTICLEER"
Rated All-American four out of the last five years. 1938 rated "Pacemaker"
- COKER COLLEGE "MILESTONE"
- FLORA MACDONALD "WHITE HEATHER"
- ELON'S "PHI-PSI-CLI"
- CATAWBA COLLEGE "SWASTIKA"
- PEACE AND ST. MARY'S COLLEGES

Other college and many high school annuals, of which the 1938-39 "THE LATIPAC" of Needham Broughton High School was awarded All-American rating.

Because of the fine annuals we have been turning out, we have been awarded the contract for the 1941 United States Naval Academy "LUCKY BAG," one of the largest and grandest yearbooks of any kind in the world.

We are just as proud of the periodicals we print, which includes the "TECO ECHO" and periodicals from State College, Meredith, Wake Forest, Flora Macdonald, Louisburg College, and others.

Our Annual and Periodical Counsellors will be glad to help the staffs of your publication produce prize winners, too.

A Scoop We Don't Know Much About!

A school gossip—or several conversationalists—have it that an athlete of East Carolina Teachers College is seriously contemplating taking the matrimonial plunge as soon as the Board of Trustees decide to award him a sheepskin. Your columnist could not encourage his informant to divulge the name of the supposedly happy marriage aspirant, but the person handing out the information appeared to know what (he or she!) was talking about. The sports staff nor anyone else has any objections to an athlete taking the holy vows, but we would like to know more about the affair.

Dates for High School Tourney Changed

Coach O. A. Hankner announced this week that the annual East Carolina High School Basketball Tournament would be held on February 19, 20 and 21 instead of February 27, 28, 29 and March 1. Then, too, under the present set-up there will be no girls' tourney along with that of the boys this year since the State Department of Physical Education has for some time "looked upon a tournament for girls with considerable disfavor, indicating that the physical and emotional strains of a tournament are too great for the average high school girl." Coach Hankner explained the college, in attempting to co-operate with the State Department, will not sponsor a tournament for girls this year. If the principals decided to sponsor a tourney for girls, however, a committee of principals and coaches will be asked to assume the sponsorship, with the College cooperating.

We're Very Proud of You, Peg!

Norman (Peg) Fleming of Greenville, a lean and underweight scrapper who fights with the stamina and punch of a leather-pusher twice his size, emerged with top-flight honors in the annual Golden Gloves Boxing Tournament held recently in North Carolina's capital city.

Peg, as he's known to students on the campus and off the campus, entered the semifinals by virtue of drawing a bye and winning by a default. In the semifinals he decided to a favored-to-win opponent and edged into finals competition. That's when the fireworks started. J. P. Sheppard, a red-haired pugilist, who has drawn a big hand whenever he put on a show for the home folks, could not stand up under the devastating blows that came off Fleming's gloves, so the judges offered a decision in behalf of the Greenville entry.

Raleigh's press representatives branded the decision of the judges as unpopular. In our opinion there was nothing wrong with the decision, but the unfavorable echoes resulted more or less from Sheppard's popularity. Had the fighting been done in Greenville, the favorite probably would have been unpopular. That's the way it is with home folks. We're glad you were the bantamweight champion of the tournament, Peg, and are proud you received that "purple and gold" robe.

Boxing is on the Rocks at ECTC This Year

Here's some news that boxing candidates as well as sports fans have been waiting for. There will not be any boxing here this season. The aspirants stopped going out for the team and Coach Hankner has called off the bouts that were scheduled tentatively for this season. However, the tryouts nor the coaches are to blame. Then, too, the blame cannot be laid to any particular person. One star of last season could not recapture the game this season and another is not in school this quarter. Some of the hopefuls informed this corner they didn't "see any need of working out for only a pair of fights and then have these with nothing but inexperienced material." When there is lack of interest among athletes for a sport, it is beyond the power of a coach to mould a team—at least that's our opinion.

How Much Do You Know About Horses?

Natives of the Bluegrass region of Kentucky and other sections of that state where horses are raised for pleasure and a profit, this question could be answered rather easily. However, down here in Eastern North Carolina, where the plough horse is about the only type of horse we know anything about, there is not much we can say about a horse.

If you are desirous of knowing something about horses, however, here's a suggestion. Dr. Beecher Flanagan of the college faculty is an authority on horses. He knows the life history of the outstanding race horses of recent years; the selling price and gainful returns of such animals; personal traits of well known horses; the difference in varied types of foot action of horses, and many other things. We haven't asked if it would be all right if he explained something about horses to interested students, but since he has never refused to share his valuable time in an informative manner with members of the student body, we feel there would be no objections.

Oh Boy! It's Great to be an Athlete

It really is, but I'm not. When your columnist signed up for a course in basketball this quarter, he became Coach Farley's "problem child" and is now contemplating becoming the Al Schacht of the basketball world. In the early paces I attempted a crisp shot and the next thing I knew I was sailing through the air like a swan and the front door of the campus building kept me from landing on the outside of the building. The other fellows laughed. On another occasion I "jammed" the little finger of my left hand, skinned both elbows and bruised my right knee. The fellows laughed again. In another instance I collided with two colleagues. They escaped unhurt. The fellows are still laughing! Despite the setbacks, I still think it's great to be an athlete!

Varsity Club is Really Forging Ahead!

Never before in college history has the Varsity shown more progress than during the current school year. Heretofore the Varsity Club has sponsored successful dances and really went to the fore last quarter when it presented "The Milky Way." Now they have something else planned—an idea destined to promote interest in athletics at East Carolina Teachers College. Their proposal calls for awarding trophies to be purchased by the club—and bearing the name of contest winners. Instead of allowing the player to retain the trophy, however, it would be placed in a trophy case of the Varsity Club.

Too Much Emphasis on Athletics?

Ramsay Potts of Greenville declared in a Vesper service recently that colleges and universities of the nation are placing too much emphasis on intercollegiate athletics. Most any person can reach such a conclusion since developments in the field of sports is more widely publicized than since developments in the field of education. We have no concrete facts about the extent of the emphasis that is sandwiched around intercollegiate sports, but we do know that such emphasis continues to realize decided growth. In our opinion, schools that emphasize athletics to a considerable degree are not thinking about the physical development of men students enrolled in the school, but solely for the publicity the school gets. When Duke University is mentioned, we do not think of the valuable training it gives its students, but of the East-West classic its "Iron Dukes" played in the Rose Bowl in California two years ago. More and more the public is thinking in terms of athletic teams a school turns out. Perhaps the schools are falling down in their duty to put more emphasis on education and the public is given the wrong conception as a result.

Sixty WAA Girls To See Big Tilt At Chapel Hill

"Play Day" Program
Set for February 17

A trip of 60 persons to the Duke-Carolina game being played in Chapel Hill tomorrow night, a "Play Day" in which students of several leading women's colleges of North Carolina will be represented, and an intramural basketball program are sandwiched around the current activities of the Women's Athletic Association.

Sixty members of the Women's Athletic Association, along with Miss Helen McElwain, head of women's athletics at the college, will journey to Chapel Hill tomorrow and see two outstanding "Big Five" basketball teams in action. The girls will spend tomorrow night in Durham, attend the Sunday worship in the Duke University Chapel and return to Greenville Sunday afternoon.

Although complete plans for the "Play Day" have not been mapped, it has been decided to hold the affair on February 17. It is known definitely that representatives of Woman's College, U.N.C., and Atlantic Christian College will be here. Other schools that have been sent invitations include Meredith and Blackstone. The program, including basketball and indoor sports, will get started at 10 o'clock in the morning and be concluded around 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

First round play in the "Round Robin" tourney of the intramural program got under way last week with nine teams entered in the competition. All the teams will see much action during the quarter and after play is concluded an All-Star team will be selected.

Team captains follow: Kem Tomlinson, "X" team, and Mabelle Pollock, "Y" team, of Fleming Hall; Doris Roberts, "X," and Eunice Herry, "Y" of Cotten Hall; Eva McMillan, "Y" and Dorothy Dalrymple, "X" of Wilson Hall; Margaret Wood, "X" and Ester Parker, "Y" of Jarvis Hall, and Mary Mullen, acting captain of the town team.

In opening play of the program the town team defeated the Jarvis "Y"; Fleming's "X" overpowered the Cotton "X" and Jarvis "X" turned back the Wilson "X."

Varsity Club Plans Tourney

In an effort to promote continued interest in athletics among its members the Varsity Club is planning a well-rounded program in athletics for all members of the club, with the program set to get under way during the spring.

Douglas Glover and Walter Moritz, designated to work out a program for the Varsity Club, explained the activities would include all kinds of indoor sports such as badminton, table tennis, shuffleboard, darts and others.

And here's a surprise. It is possible that girls may be given an opportunity to pair with the boys in tennis, ping pong and badminton doubles. Even though this idea is merely a proposal, the boys are said to be giving it serious consideration.

Since the program has been designed solely for members of the Varsity Club, it has been decided to award trophies to champions in the various fields of sport featured in the competition. It was pointed out by Bill Shelton, president of the Varsity Club, that small trophies would go to certain winners, but would not be retained by them. The names of the winners will be placed on a trophy case of the Varsity Club.

Committeemen are slated to confer Saturday relative to improvise present plans and consider other proposals for the program. Aside from the intra-club athletic activities, the Varsity Club will sponsor its annual dance on March 23. Plans for the athletic events as well as the dance will be announced at a future date.

When the photographer took a picture of the entire squad recently, it didn't develop. When this misfortune occurred, he decided to get another. After going to a practice for a picture, he found eight players who have seen action this season. Had the staff not planned a basketball picture this issue, we would have waited until the entire squad was in it. Pictured here are: front row, left to right, Tom Parrish, Jimmy Dempsey and Harry Riddick. Back row, left to right, Tom Cox, Dave Watson, Don Brock, Kelly Martin and Floyd Hinton.

'Best Game of Year' For Pirates Played Against Former "Big Five" Standouts

ECTC Scores 252
Points, Foes 133

Brock Chalks Up 74
Points in Four Tilts

East Carolina Teachers College scored 252 points against their opponents' 133 in four basketball games last week, all of which were played on the local court.

Portsmouth's Y.M.C.A. cagers, which has one of the best records of a team in Tidewater competition in Virginia, were turned back 42-29 in a game played here on January 26. The Pirates led 20-17 at the half.

One of the best games came on January 31 with the Raleigh White Flash. The capital city boys breezed to point-making procedures in the first and second half, winning 50-48. The score was tied 24-24 at intermission.

Rocky Mount's Y.M.C.A. cagers lacked strong offensive and defensive material in a game played on January 29 and resulted in a 79-27 victory for the determined Pirates, who were on the big end of a 31-15 half-time score.

Louisburg College, which had only one left-over from last season, could not thwart the tactics of the favored-to-win Pirates last Saturday night and lost 83-27 for one of the largest scores ever put on the Pirate scoreboard in a basketball game. At intermission, the Pirates were ahead 36-13.

Donald Brock turned out to be the Pirates' scoring ace in all games combined, scoring 26 points in the White Flash game for the largest individual score of the four-day series. Brock scored 74 points in all the games. George Lautares, who scored 24 points in the Rocky Mount "Y" game had a combined record of 56 points for the four games. Bill Shelton was credited with 44 points in the four games.

Harry Riddick, called for duty during all the games, turned in a fine offensive performance. Floyd Hinton was out of one of the games because of flu, but he did well in the others. Dave Watson was up to his usual good standard in the games. Jimmy Dempsey, who has seen quite a bit of action recently, fought hard in the games. Tom Cox has proved that he can display fine teamwork in a game, as has Kelly Martin.

INJURED

Walter Rodgers, popular E.C.T.C. athlete, is nursing an injury received recently in an intramural basketball game.

Rodgers' physician ordered that he refrain from active participation in sports and that's what he's been doing for the time being.

Although he cannot play basketball any time soon with the Tigers, whom he captains in the intramural program, Rodgers is managing his team from the bench.

Northcutt's Boys Win
Five of Six Contests

By JOHN WILLIAMS

Mickey Northcutt's Lions have received only one setback in a half dozen starts in intramural competition in the boys' athletic division on the ECTC campus.

Since the early compilations, the largest score made by an individual team in the program was Walter Rodgers' Tigers, who scored 24 points against Bill Dudash's Wildcats, the latter team scoring 23 points in the same game.

Recent standings showed the Lions with five wins and one loss. Walter Rodgers' Tigers are second in the standings with four wins and two defeats; R. H. Chadwick's Zebras are in third place with two wins and twice as many losses, while Bill Dudash's Wildcats are in the cellar with only one win.

Although Coach Gordon Gilbert is supervising the program, the boys have charge of all the activities in the actual games. Officials for the contests have been Bill Merner, Bill Dudash, Mickey Northcutt, Walter (Please turn to page six)

Pittsburgh Team To Play Here In Coming Week

Student Body Awaits
Clash With Bulldogs

Coach Farley's Pirates whittled a game from the schedule with Atlantic Christian College in Wilson Tuesday night, another with Louisville College here last night and will conclude their activities for the week here Saturday night at 8 o'clock in a game with Campbell College.

Since the Pirates did not play Campbell last season, little is known about the playing ability of left-overs. One thing is certain, however, and that is the Camels will have to put up plenty of fight if they expect to conquer the mighty Pirates or run up a big score. The Pirates will journey to Campbell on Saturday, February 17, for a return engagement with the Camels.

One of the strongest teams the Pirates will meet in the immediate future is the Westinghouse Apprentices of Pittsburgh, who have burned up the courts against Independent and college teams of the north. This will be the most distant team the Pirates will have confronted this season.

Atlantic Christian College will tangle with the Pirates here Thursday, February 22, in a game that nearly all the student body is hoping to witness. The Bulldogs and Pirates have a keen sense of rivalry and whenever a game is played locally, there is a large student representation from the visiting school. E.C.T.C. should take the game, though, since its basketball team has made a far superior showing than the team of its foe during the current season.

The final game of the season will be played here Saturday, February 24, with William and Mary (Norfolk division), and another large turnout is expected. The Pirates breezed to a victory over the Braves (Please turn to page six)

Pres. Meadows Welcomes Group Of N. C. Farmers

Seed Exposition Held Last Week in Greenville

President L. R. Meadows was featured prominently in the eleventh annual meeting and sixth annual seed exposition of the North Carolina Crop Improvement Association held last week in Greenville.

In delivering his welcome address on the opening day of the meeting President Meadows challenged the state to give more attention to the "seed of the future—our boys and girls." He urged that they be taught character, economic sufficiency (or how to make a living), and service.

An annual banquet held in the college dining hall for 4-H Club members, Future Farmers of America and vocational students who participated in the crop judging contest held last Friday morning in the campus building, was addressed by President Meadows.

Using a Biblical quotation as his text, Dr. Meadows told the boys attending the banquet, "remove not the ancient landmarks" or fundamental traditions, of their forefathers as: preparation for service or education; work, which he said has been sadly neglected in recent years; honesty, responsibility, faith and helpfulness.

The crop judging contest drew 460 rural youths to the campus. They represented 71 teams from 23 North Carolina counties.

Best Game of Year Against Old Grads

Brook bagged a basket for the locals and put the Pirates in front 24-22. Red McCall sank a beautiful basket in the last five seconds to create the half-time deadlock.

Bill Shelton, who opened the Pirates' scoring in the first verse, came back in the opening minute of the second half with a field goal. A minute later the score was deadlocked again, this time 26-26.

Raleigh was in front 48-47 two minutes, 42 seconds, before the final horn. A gift shot by Raymond Payne gave his mates a 50-47 advantage and their last point-making of the game. A foul shot which Brook made good gave the Pirates a trailing score of 50-48—and that's the way it ended.

Harry Riddick, who has shown more improvement than any other man on the squad this season, made a serious thrust for the basket in the last 40 seconds. Had it been good the game would have gone beyond the regulation distance. Missing the shot, however, was no fault of his own.

Brook featured the scoring with 26 points. Lantares was next with 12. Jim Rennie and Junie Page fouled out of the game late in the second half. P. G. Hill, who has paved the way for State College in many games of yesteryear, scored 16 points for the winners.

Dear Alumni:

Though I have actually been on the campus only four days as your secretary, I feel that the few years since having been graduated have melted into a moment and that I am back home again. It is indeed a pleasure and a privilege to serve both you and the college.

March 9 marks a very important day in the life of our college. It is celebrating Founders Day. The college was founded March 8, 1907, and we are using as Homecoming Day the ninth so that you—the majority of which are teachers—may conveniently attend. As a part of the program a new classroom building will be dedicated and a century of Public Teacher Education in the United States commemorated. I know that you as alumni of the college will make every possible effort to attend the celebration.

I have a very selfish motive in wanting you back home again for to me it will mean renewing acquaintances and meeting all of you that I do not know. As a willing novice in the work, I request you to start now making plans to register in the Robert H. Wright Building at 10:00 a.m., Saturday morning, March 9. We will have luncheon together and meet for tea in the afternoon.

Sincerely yours,
Estelle McClees,
Alumni Secretary.

Rodgers and Bill Shelton. Managers of the teams take assignments when their respective teams do not have a game scheduled.

Adrian Brown was high scorer for the winners and Bill Dudash top scorer for the losers in a 12-11 victory turned in by the Lions over the Wildcats. Manager R. H. Chadwick scored 6 points as his Zebras overpowered the Wildcats 19-12. Bill Basden scored 6 points for the losers.

The Lions bested the Tigers 21-18 in a hard fought game. Northcutt and Sammy Crandall scored 6 and 5 points respectively for the Lions, while Frink scored 6 and Williams 5 for the Tigers. Mitchell Avery scored 9 of the Tigers' 19 points in a win over the Zebras, who scored 16 points. Bernard Roper scored a half dozen points for the losers.

Norman Mayo bagged 8 points of his mates' 24 and Long as many of his mates' 23 in a victory by the Tigers over the Wildcats. Bland racked up 6 points for the Lions, who turned back the Zebras 17-15. Parker and Chadwick scored four points apiece for the losers.

The Lions defeated the Tigers 22-11 in another game, with Brown scoring 6 points and Williams 8. The Zebras defeated the Wildcats 23-12, with Futrell and Chadwick featuring the scoring.
