

Democratic Club Schedules May 16 For Charter Night

Many Delegates
From Other Colleges
To Attend Event

The Young Democratic Club of East Carolina Teachers College will have its Charter Night on Thursday, May 16, and has accepted the invitation of N. C. State College and the University of North Carolina to send delegates to a dinner program the latter part of the spring quarter to round out activities of Young Democratic Clubs in North Carolina universities and colleges for 1939-40.

Gordon Gray of Winston-Salem, former YDC president and well-known Southern speaker, has been invited to deliver the address on Charter Night, during which Forrest Pollard of Durham, president of the Young Democratic Clubs of North Carolina, will present a charter to James Whitfield, president of ECTC Young Democrats.

In addition to the formal phase of the program, slated to be attended by delegates from Young Democratic Clubs of State College, Wake Forest, University of North Carolina, Davidson, Duke University, Appalachian State Teachers College and Woman's College of Greensboro, a dancing party is planned. Representatives of a student political union at Meredith will be here for the occasion. All students will be invited to hear the speaker of the evening, but only club members will be allowed to attend the entertainment program.

Professor R. C. Deal, member of the faculty of East Carolina Teachers College and prominent speaker among civic clubs, and educational circles in Eastern North Carolina, will deliver the address of welcome. Hoover Taft of Greenville, State YDC organizer, will introduce the speaker of the evening.

Membership cards are being delivered to club members who have paid their dues. All students interested in joining should confer with the president in the immediate future.

The Charter Night promises to be one of the most celebrated inter-collegiate affairs ever to be held on the ECTC campus.

Negro Students Present Program

Negro students from five colored schools in Pitt County gave a program of music selections at the regular YWCA vesper hour last Friday evening.

The schools represented were Ayden, Grimesland, Winterville, Farmville, and Bethel. Quartet selections were given Farmville and Bethel.

Some of the songs were "Lindy Lou," "Welcome Spring," "Is There Anyone Here?" and "Deep River."

The program was arranged through L. N. Darnelle, who is supervisor of Negro education in Pitt County.

Dorothy Reed Miller, who will be crowned "Queen of the May" tomorrow afternoon on front campus at 4:30.

Dorothy Miller Reigns As Queen Of Elaborate May Day Festival

Christine Harris
Heads Court As
Maid of Honor

Dorothy Reed Miller, senior from Wilmington, will reign as queen at the May Day Festival held tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 on the front campus. Miss Miller, who was elected by the student body during the winter term, was also crowned "Queen of the May" at the annual spring dance in 1938.

Heading the court as maid of honor will be Christine Harris from Clarksville, Tennessee. Other maids of the court will be Eloise Boone, Sarah Ann Maxwell, Mary Helen Gullledge, Mildred Jane Taylor, Millie Gray Dupree and Marguerite Britt.

The program will begin with the entrance of trumpeters, Spense Hatley and Bill Basden, who will be followed by the crown bearer, Sophia Frenzell; the dancers, lords and ladies, maids and maid of honor. The procession will be climaxed by the entrance of the Queen followed by her train bearers, Louise Baughan and Barbara Tabor.

After a song, "Melody in F," by Rubenstein, the dancers will present a group of May dances. These are an English Country Dance, the Cornish May Dance, and The Morris Handkerchief Dance.

These will precede the main event of the day, the crowning of the (Please turn to page three).

Walser Talks To English Club

Mr. R. G. Walser, director of dramatics at Greenville High School, was featured on the program for the English Club meeting, Tuesday, April 23. Mr. Walser spoke to the group on dramatics in the high school. He pointed out that there is more to dramatics than getting up a play. He continued this with the statement that there should also be present self confidence, play books, a knowledge of the play, and help in enunciation. "Dramatics," stated Mr. Walser, "means something you can't get in the English class." The director, in Mr. Walser's opinion, should begin with the student's level of drama.

Added attractions to the program consisted of three selections by the choral speaking group, and a reading, "Mary Had a Little Lamb," by Margaret Reed.

The new officers are Pauline Abeyounis, president; Ida Miria George, vice president; Edna Mitchell, secretary; Norine Moore, treasurer; Madeline Adams, TECO ECHO representative; and Elizabeth Harrell, TECO ECHO representative. These new officers will assume their duties at the next meeting.

'Thirty-Niners' Will Observe First Reunion

First Year Class
To Be Honored
On June 1

The 253 members of the class of '39 will be honored at this year's commencement. During the one year that they have been away, favorable reports have reached the college concerning their progress. Sixty-five returned to celebrate with their Alma Mater on Homecoming Day. Five of the group have married—Hilda Gray Batten and Raymond Sasser, at home, Lucama, N. C.; Louise Sam Freeman and Tom Jindson living in Goldsboro, N. C.; Minnie Gertrude Morton and L. B. Ward, at home, Wilson, N. C.; Opal Claire Harris and George Thompson, at home, Oxford, N. C.; and Ruth Rosalind Mayo and Morris who are living in Washington, D. C. The engagement of Mildred Ercelle Freeman to William Neal DeVane of Norfolk, Va., and Powellsville, N. C., has been announced, by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Iley White Freeman of Colerain.

The president of the class, Lucille Lewis who is teaching in the Commercial Department in the Kinston High School, recently returned with a group of students—all commerce majors—for a visit to the entire campus. The only classes that they observed were the ones in the commercial department. Louise Elam, vice president is teaching in Newland; Madeline Byrum, secretary, in Stedman; and Mabry Hodges, treasurer, in Pactolus.

Mr. Rowland Farley, M.A. '39 has been coaching at East Carolina Teachers College during the year 1939-40.

It is hoped that the members of this class will come back one hundred per cent. Everyone awaits them with a big welcome and especially their advisers, Dr. Herbert Rebarber, and Mr. Hollar. Miss Dorothy Schuyder, also an adviser, is no longer with East Carolina Teachers College. She is teaching in a college in New York state.

Ki Pi Players To Present Plays

Three one act plays are to be presented by the Ki Pi Players, Tuesday evening, May 9, 1940 in the Austin Auditorium.

"Women's Ward," a tragedy, starring Jane Copeland, as Mary a young mother who has been unjustly sentenced to prison, is being directed by David Brece. The supporting cast is Dopey Liz, played by Sarah Moore; Sadie, by Mary Fields; Goldie, by Pauline Abeyounis; May, by Mary Ellen Matthews; and Guard, by Maude Sawyer.

The comedy of the three is "For the Love of Pete" directed by Miss Lena Ellis and featuring Louise Davis as Emma playing opposite Lindsay Whichard as Peter, the young gentleman who causes all the trouble. Other members of the cast are Jean Phipps, Marie Trippie, Iris Davis, Margaret Reid, Albertina Brinson, Waylan Tucker, Nancy Darden, Alton Payne, and Irene Mitcham.

"Sky-Fodder," the third of the group, is a highly emotional type of play that has only three persons in the cast. They are George Lautares who plays the part of a young air pilot, and John David Bridgers and Charles Marks who are cast in the roles of passengers. This unusual and unique play was written by Jack Reynolds and is being directed by Clifton Britton.

Dora Coates to Assist In Summer Workshop

Miss Dora Coates of the Education Department will participate in the Rural Education Workshop to be held at the University of North Carolina this summer. The workshop will be conducted during the first six weeks of summer school. Miss Coates is one of the two representatives from North Carolina who will participate in this workshop.

Miss Estelle McClees (left) will be hostess to the returning alumni on Alumni Day this year. Mrs. Elizabeth Stewart Bennett (right), president of the association, will be in charge of the program.

Mrs. E. S. Bennett To Preside Over Annual Program

Estelle McClees
To Be Hostess
To Alumni

East Carolina Teachers College has set the stage for another annual Alumni Day program, which will feature the graduating classes of 1915, 1930 and 1939.

Miss Estelle McClees, Alumni Secretary, will be the principal hostess for the occasion. Miss McClees will name others in the near future to serve on the committee with her.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stuart Bennett of Forest City, president of the Alumni Association of East Carolina Teachers College, is in charge of the program. Mrs. Bennett has announced that all phases of the program will be of interest to the alumni.

Office furniture and equipment for the Alumni Office in the Austin Auditorium has arrived and will be offered for use by the visiting alumni.

As in recent years the twenty-five year class (1915), the ten-year class (1930), and the one-year class (1939) will be guests of honor. Only four other classes have held their twenty-fifth reunion. Only the classes of 1911, 1912, 1913, and 1914 have celebrated their twenty-fifth anniversary before.

Registration will begin at 9:30 o'clock in the Alumni Office. The first meeting will begin at 10:30 o'clock in the Austin Auditorium, with the program meeting, followed by a business meeting before the annual Alumni Luncheon which will be at 1:30 in the college dining hall. Class reunions and executive board meetings will be held during the afternoon. President and Mrs. Meadows are holding open house for (Please turn to page six)

Math Club Holds Election of Officers

Kathleen Barkley, Elm City Sophomore has been elected president of the math club for the coming year. She follows Ruth Hardee who is president this year.

Margaret D. Moore was chosen vice president; Bessie Fay Hunt, secretary-treasurer; and Beth Mathews, chairman of social committee.

These were nominated at a business meeting following a social at which the High School Math Club was entertained.

Silver Jubilee Honor Class of 1915 To Meet To Celebrate Anniversary

Come One, Come All

Come one; come all to ye old-fashioned community sing to be held on the steps of the new classroom building tonight at 6:30 o'clock under the sponsorship of the Y.W.C.A. Dean Tabor will lead the singing.

All students over 70 years of age will be permitted to stand on the side and listen to the others. Any 69-year-olds are expected to participate.

Members Of Class Of 1915 To Be Guests

"In Union There Is Strength" is the motto under which the forty-six members of the "green and white" class spent two happy years in college. Mr. Austin was adviser for the class in 1915. During the two years, '14 and '15, the class had two presidents, Katherine Tillery (Mrs. William Quinley) and Louise Moore (Mrs. H. H. Llewellyn).

The year, 1940, finds thirty-five members of the class married; a few still teaching. Among these are Christine B. Johnson, second grade critic teacher, Training School, East Carolina Teachers College; Lela Carr Newman, demonstration teacher, Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.; Elizabeth Spencer (Mrs. L. P. Thomas), seventh grade, Farmville, N. C.; Sarah E. Clements, Oxford, N. C.; and Clara Davis (Mrs. Charles L. Wright), Washington, N. C. Two of the class have died.

Twenty-five years ago the forty-six members of this class left their Alma Mater having been taught that no avenue of life was more desirable than that which leads "To Serve." The gathering of the class for the celebration of its silver anniversary will mean much in perpetuating and renewing grand associations, in keeping in touch with the continued growth of their Alma Mater, and in revealing, as they enter another twenty-five years, what each member has contributed to the life of service.

Miss Kate Lewis, who has been asked to serve as special hostess to the class, is anxious to welcome all members, forty-four strong!

Other nominees include TECO ECHO representative, Elizabeth Meadows, Effie Lewis, and Margaret D. Moore; TECO ECHO representative, Anne Goosby, Ruth Pollard, and Dorothy Davis; Student Government representative, Annie Laurie Keene, Ruth Hall, Alice Powell, Dorothy Hollar.

Virginia Williams and Mattie Davis are the only candidates up for the office of Secretary, and the two nominees running for the office of treasurer are Becky Shanks and Rachel Templeton.

Ten Year Honor Classes of 1930 To Hold Reunion On Annual Day

The two classes of 1930, the four year and the two year, will be special guests of the college for the 1940 Commencement. Back to the campus a number of these graduates will come and view with pride the constant expanding of their Alma Mater.

The A.B. Class of 1930 has a membership of ninety-seven. During the passing of ten years, the alumni office has not been able to keep in contact with all of the members; however, included in this article is what is believed to be the correct whereabouts of many.

Forty-three have married. Of this number a few are making their homes in other states. Mrs. Ovid B. Lewis (Julia Lee Cogdell), East Orange, N. J.; Mrs. Theodore Wohlmeier (Martha Trayham), Irvington, N. J.; Mrs. S. L. Williamson (Kay Lee Cloaninger), Atlanta, Ga.; and Mrs. O. E. Haynes (Katherine Smith), Columbia University, N. Y. Kate Lee Cloaninger was president of the class; Helen Guthrie, Rocky Mount, vice president; Katherine Whitehurst, secretary; and Frances Murray, treasurer.

Tracing the careers of the members of the class would reveal some very interesting, successful, and worthwhile activities. Mr. O. I. Haynes (Katherine Smith) received the M.A. degree in Nutrition from Columbia University and was employed upon her graduation, and remains, as Assistant Director of Johnson Hall. Mrs. R. M. Taylor (Ethel Shelton) is president of the Rocky Mount Alumni Chapter.

Eleven Alumni Chapters Report Successful Work; Organizations Show Constant Growth and Unity

During the year 1939-40, the Alumni Chapters have been very active and report quite a successful year. There are, at present, eleven—four of which have been organized in 1940 (Ayden, Columbia, Charlotte, and High Point). The Greenville Chapter is also new having been organized in the fall of '39. It is hoped that during the year, 1940-'41, the chapter program will continue its constant growth and that the State Association will show a great increase in membership.

The Ayden Chapter was organized in February, '40 at a meeting at which Mr. R. C. Deal was guest speaker. It has held two other meetings (monthly). In the April meeting, Miss Mamie E. Jenkins, was principal speaker. The chapter has enrolled over twenty members who are very enthusiastic alumni. Officers are: Mrs. Clyde Tyndall, Jr. (Thelma Ireland), secretary and treasurer; and Hortense Boomer, reporter.

The Goldsboro Alumni Association of East Carolina Teachers College, composed of only a few members has had a very interesting year. Due to our small number we have been unable to contribute large sums to any funds. We made a small contribution to the local empty stocking fund. On one occasion we had our college President, Dr. Leon Meadows, and four faculty members for a barbecue dinner. It was greatly enjoyed by all. Miss Jenkins gave a most interesting account of her trip to Europe last summer. At the last meeting held in April we were fortunate in having our Alumni Secretary, Miss Estelle McClees, and Miss White of the Advisory Board.

The Columbia Chapter was organized in February, '40, and has held monthly meetings since that time. Its officers are: Marguerite Vere, president; Mrs. Russell Everett (Camille Bateman), vice president; Mrs. Maxie Spencer

Purpose of Alumni Issue

The purpose of the Alumni Issue of the TECO ECHO this year is tri-fold. First of all, the issue is published to bring to the alumni information concerning the alumnae and alumni of the college and to feature activities of the eleven chapters of the association. Secondly, it gives them information concerning preparations for Alumni Day, this year's honor classes, and the commencement program. Thirdly, it gives the alumni an insight into the regular highlights of student life and activity on the campus of their alma mater.

Approximately 1,500 copies of this special issue have been distributed to the alumni throughout the state. Special emphasis has been placed on the observance of the twenty-eighth anniversary of the organization of the Alumni Association to be celebrated on Saturday, June 1. Efforts are being made to offer a program which will be enjoyed by all those who return to this campus for the day.

East Carolina Teachers College extends a cordial welcome to all those who graduated from the college in years past. She urges you to come back to renew acquaintances with former classmates and faculty and to be a part of the college once more. Come back. We want to see you.

United We Stand; Divided We Fall

Installation is over. Our campus leaders for next year have taken office. To them the student body should drink a toast and pledge their whole hearted support and cooperation. Their success for the coming year hinges on these two words. Small though these words may seem, they are the keys to success in student government. And this is all that the new officers have called upon the students to give. It is a service that the student body can render without much effort if they will only try.

Foremost in the minds of the students should be kept the thought that even if these leaders aren't their winning candidates, yet they were the choice of the student body. Whether or not they carried your support in the recent elections it is your duty to your school to give these girls your support and a fair chance to prove that they are capable in assuming their responsibilities. Don't push them off on the wrong foot. Give them an even break just as you would desire if you were taking office for the first time.

Only with support and cooperation can these girls fulfill the duties of their offices and do the things that you have been wanting done. They are the ones who pull the strings and it is up to us to back them up, because "united we stand; divided we fall."

A Pat on the Back

The work of the outgoing Women's Student Government Association council is to be complimented this year for the numerous services rendered to the student body. Their's is a job of which they may well be proud.

Of their many accomplishments, perhaps the most outstanding one is the revision of the custom of observing a May Day festival on the campus. It has been through their efforts that this has been made possible once more this year. They have undertaken the responsibility of serving as sponsors of the gala affair and in seeing that it goes off as the May Day celebration of any college should.

Another of their accomplishments has been that of furthering interests in the college by sending delegates to conventions throughout the state. These meetings not only have given the delegates an opportunity to ask questions about their problems and to exchange ideas with others who are in the same key positions in other schools, but they have served as excellent advertisement for the college. By so doing our college is becoming better known among the other leading colleges and universities in the state and in the South.

Also this year the student government association has been successful in getting the whole student body to back them in their policies. The students have cooperated well and as a result they have profited from capable leadership made possible by wholehearted support.

To Juanita and the outgoing council, the TECO ECHO on behalf of the student body takes this opportunity to express the opinion that their's has been a job well done and one of which to be exceedingly proud.

Six Years Ago

Six years ago on April 25, Dr. Robert Herring Wright, first president of East Carolina Teachers College, passed away after serving a quarter of a century as head of this institution. Inspired and guided by his leadership, this college grew from a school of barely 175 students to an institution of over a thousand.

Nor were Dr. Wright's interests confined to the campus and his profession. They were also that of his community. He was keenly interested in civic life and gave freely of his time, talent, and finances to further any movements that he felt were for the good of the community.

The esteem with which Dr. Wright was held by those who knew him is indicated by the following quotation from the Greenville Reflector: "It is needless to endeavor in a short time and space to cover the activities and achievements of this great man. It should suffice to say that truly the state and especially this immediate community is a better place for his having lived."

"North Carolina has lost a worthy son, a capable and distinguished educational leader, and a good citizen," stated an editorial in the Kinston Free Press as it summarized the accomplishments of the deceased president.

"No man ever lived who was more willing, eager and ready to serve the youth of his home, his friends, and associates, and the community in which he lived, in any way, in any capacity, at any time, than Robert H. Wright."

At the time of his death the TECO ECHO stated the attitude of the student body toward their beloved leader in the following comment: "This college and its work of training teachers will go on a living memorial to this great leader."

Our present student body and faculty must not fail in the trust that Robert Herring Wright has placed in them.

OPEN FORUM

(Editor's Note: This Department is open to all students in school here. The TECO ECHO reserves the right to censor or reject all communications. Letters published herein express individual opinion, and do not represent the editorial policies of this newspaper.)

To the Editor:

Students at East Carolina Teachers College for some time have been voicing disapproval of conditions existing at the local bus-terminal; but as yet we have seen no discussion of the matter in this paper.

Traffic jams—caused by buses assembling at the bus-station—on Greenville's main highway occur almost hourly, making the spot a dangerous one for both automobiles and bus-passengers. College students walking to the business section are forced to pick their way through veritable mountains of trunks and other luggage which crowd the sidewalks; at times, they even have to step into the street. Should "the powers that be" defer action until after some student or pedestrian has been injured or even killed?

In addition to the highly dangerous conditions under which the station is operated, the station itself presents an appearance which is hardly in keeping with the standards set by the other public buildings in Greenville. The lack of suitable waiting-rooms, the absence of rest-rooms of any but the crudest type, and inefficient direction of passengers to the proper buses might be appropriate to Pumpkin Center—but surely they are out of place in "The Hub of Eastern Carolina."

Since students of ECTC comprise a large portion of the patronage of the local bus-station, we feel entirely justified in asking for changes. Naturally, those persons maintaining the station will not make expensive improvements of their own volition; but if sufficient public pressure can be focused upon the dangers and abuses prevalent under the existing situation, perhaps Greenville will, some day, have a bus-terminal comparable with those of Washington and Wilson. At any rate we hope so.

Respectfully yours,
Spectator.

E.C.T.C.—AN ATHLETIC CLUB!

To the Editor:

There seems to be some misunderstanding among certain members of the student body concerning the functions of this institution. It is an educational institution, is it not? or is the administration along with a few members of the faculty suffering delusions of grandeur? Judging from the article written by the guest sport columnist of the last TECO ECHO, and supposing his opinion to be that of many, are we to understand that East Carolina Teachers College is no longer an institution of higher learning but a glorified Athletic Club—for men only? If so, certainly the girls on the campus should be informed of the true state of affairs. After all, there are only nine hundred and some odd who would be only too glad to forego the pleasures of attending classes in order to watch the few members of the opposite sex compete in games of skill and incidentally lessons of great value could be gleaned by the girls even while visually enjoying the rippling and swelling of the masculine biceps.

What lessons? Chiefly, that of sportsmanship—It's true the girls will hardly be called upon to exhibit sportsmanship of any kind while on the ECTC campus. They don't get the chance. And speaking of sportsmanship—the brand of sportsmanship exhibited on the tennis courts has not been a matter of chasing boys from the courts at the discretion of classes, as classes in tennis meet only three times a week and the boys maintain one of the best courts for their own use when such an incident has occurred.

Dearest Mother and Dad:
I'm awfully sorry that I haven't written or been home before this but you see, there has been a slight misunderstanding as to who I am that I had to straighten out.

First of all, about two years ago they had a boy up here by my name that they had kicked out on account of getting drunk (you know that I wouldn't think of doing anything such as that) and they thought that I was the same boy. After much confusion, I finally straightened things out, but I don't know for how long.

Really, I believe that I'm going to like this East Carolina Teachers College. There's not many girls, though, so you won't have to come up to check on me. Because of the few girls, I probably won't need so much spending money.

Which brings up the age-old question of money: As I see it now, about a dollar and a half a week will carry me all right at the present for spending money. But later, I'll need about nine dollars for a so-called student fee which must be paid. Then there is the class fee of $2.75, which I'll need, if you expect me to participate in any class events. And, of course, you'll want me to see the athletic contests and a season ticket is only five dollars and a quarter, which is cheap enough.

This laundry up here is pretty sorry, but it is as good as one might expect for $2 a week though. Their service is rather poor, so that you'll have to add fifty or seventy-five cents to that for repairs—buttons, and the like.

My little radio is causing quite a little fuss over at the house. The landlady says that it will cost me $1.60, but I may be able to jew her down to $1.45 a month.

The other day while getting a hair cut my barber told me that I have a very bad case of dandruff. He has a special service there which will guarantee a cure. I'll have to take that treatment twice every two weeks for a month at 50 cents

FRENCH FASHION ADS

By Barbara Keuzenkamp

Hats seem the fashion item in which Parisiennes most willingly indulge themselves in wartime; and one is practically certain to find the salons of the more popular modistes crowded.

A group of new models at Blanche and Simons gives prominence to sport felt hats trimmed by scarfs of jersey tulle of contrasting color, such as maroon on natural grege tone, or moss green on mustard. Very light felts are also used for afternoon hats, trimmed with clusters of flowers the most popular being anemones in their natural tones so that they give a vivid note. These hats are usually very small but high, such as a model of white felt with narrow brim whose crown is replaced by a fan drape of the felt, with flower stems twisted around its base. A light gray felt with its crown heightened by a cluster of anemones on top has a short black veil of coarse mesh covering the eyes.

Though veils are not used as much this spring as they were this winter, they are still very popular, but hang at sides and back as often or even more often than they do at the front. This is particularly true of canoties; and Suzy's way of dividing a plain mesh veil into scarfs which fall at each side framing the face seems to be meeting with much favor from Parisiennes. One also sees canoties with a brief and careless drape of fine mesh veil over the brim at the back, something like a puff of smoke becomingly filling in the space between the head and the hat as the tiny canotie brim tips up in the air so far forward that most of the head is left exposed.

Molynieux presents pencilslim, floor-length skirts with contrasting tops for evening. New are fluttery chiffon frocks which are high-necked but sleeveless, presented in soft tones like dusty pink—especially flattering in the evening.

AND THE LIGHTS WENT ON THE BLINK

It was nine o'clock in the staff room and the editor was in doubt. When someone blew a fuse upstairs and all the lights went out. The news stories weren't newsy. When the lights went on the blink and the stories were so "phewsy" and really they did stink. But the staff carried on you bet. For when they looked about there were two boys in the staff room. When all the lights went out.

Dr. S. Winston Cram believes that students should take his name in vain, for he urges all in his classes not to cram for his final examinations. And to add to the effectiveness of his no-cramming edict at Emporia (Kans.) State Teachers College, Prof. Cram says his students may use "ponies" when they write the answers to his quiz problems.

Says the professor: "This plan serves as an impetus to the student to put in a worthwhile review program. He won't have to clutter up his mind with numerous equations which he can't remember. It makes for more constructive review instead of cramming."

So we hereby initiate a movement to create more Crams and less cramming in all collegeland!

each. If I don't do it he says I'll be bald in six months, and you wouldn't want me to be bald, would you?

I have to close now. I have to meet a person down at the "Y" reading room to study. That is the only place on the campus that they require strict silence so I spend most of my time there studying.

Your loving soon,

Watching The World

by

GEORGE LAUTARES

Hitler's efficient war machine continues to march further into Norway, while in England and France, the civilians are clamoring for their forces to make a better showing against the enemy. It seems that Hitler had planned his latest conquest with care and precision. Thus far it has been Germany all the way. The allies report that more troops are continually being landed on Norwegian soil augmenting their forces, but the results that should accompany these reinforcements have not yet developed. Instead, the Germans have taken every strategic point that they have attempted to take.

Most of the principal seaports are now in the hands of the Nazis. Of course, the reports that one gets from belligerent sources are not reliable, but it is only fair to say that Hitler is winning in Norway.

The remarkable feature of the present war is the lack of naval action in the Mediterranean. France receives a tremendous amount of supplies coming across this route and thus far it has passed without molestation. At Gibraltar, the British are keeping a close watch in order to prevent enemy submarines from entering through the Straits. Their efforts have been successful. However, at the present, there are two German submarines now lying in an Italian Mediterranean port, interned by Italian officials. If Italy should allow these boats to escape from their internment, then the allies would be forced to take precautionary measures on a new "front."

The Senate is now debating the proposal of Senator Bob Reynolds to take certain colonies belonging to Britain, Holland, and France as payment for the long over-due war debt. This action will certainly cause a great deal of apprehension among both political parties in this country. At the present, those countries involved in wars could do very little toward preventing the United States from taking these possessions; yet, it would be a dangerous step for the neutrality that we are trying to maintain. As we stand now, we do not expect to become involved in the conflict, but if we become too careless and certain of our neutrality, and dabble in colonial possessions, then undoubtedly the A.E.F. will again be sailing for Europe.

Russia and Great Britain are now negotiating on a possible trade agreement. It seems that the British are glad to forget their rebukes at Russia when that country was pounding at little Finland. However, the way the war is going for the British, they should endeavor to win the good will of some of the new neutral powers, for if Hitler is not satisfied with Norway after he gets it, he may decide to take the British Isles away from the British.

Alumni D. S. Club Proves Active In Two Years

Daughtridge
Heads Organization
During 1939-40

The Alumni Daughters and Sons Club has organized in the fall of 1938 with the help of Miss Mamie Jenkins who is now the club's adviser. The purpose of the club is to promote a closer feeling of fellowship among the students of this college who are descendants of students who have attended East Carolina Teachers College before them; and to preserve the memory of those students of the past.

The Alumni Daughters and Sons Club has forty-five members on roll for 1939-40. The officers this year were Anita Daughtridge, president; Christine Trippie, vice president; and Celia Blanche Dail, secretary and treasurer. The new officers will be elected at the meeting in May.

Two of the most important events on the club calendar for this year were the Bingo party given in the "Y" hut, and the party given by Miss Jenkins in Ragsdale Hall, April 11, 1940 for the members of the A.D.S.

A welcoming committee made up of eight girls of the club, and headed by Anita Daughtridge, president, helped on Homecoming Day held March 9, 1940.

On June 1, 1940 the club is holding an open-house in the "Y" hut for the alumni who return for commencement which will end a successful year for the Alumni Daughters and Sons.

Ten Year Honor Classes of 1930

General Hospital, Greenville, N. C. Many of the class are still in the teaching profession. A few of those located in North Carolina are: Evelyn Caldwell, Burlington; Virginia Dare White, Holbrook; Lucille Hearne, Washington; Hortense Boomer, Columbia; Helen Clyde Butler, Bailey; Myrtis Standaell Cooper, Mount Airy; Verna Dare Corey, Ashokis; Anna Jane Hinson, Wadesboro; Ruth Hunter, Statesville; Fannie R. Johnston; Charlotte; Madeline McCain, High Point; Mrs. Anne Glenn Roberson, Greenville; Elba McGowan, Warrenton; Elizabeth Allen, Aurora; Miss Lucille Turner was class adviser; however, during the year 1929-30 she was studying at Peabody, and Miss Toland became the adviser for the year.

The senior-normal class consists of 272 members. Cassie Carty (Mrs. Duke Jones) was president and Margaret Vaughn, Mabel Collier (Mrs. Milton Fisher), and Hallie Lee (Mrs. James Morgan), vice president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively. Mrs. Jones is making her home and teaching in Warrenton, N. C.; Margaret Vaughn is located in Rocky Mount, N. C.; Mrs. Fisher in Elizabethtown, N. C.; and Mrs. Morgan in Monroe, N. C. She is teaching in the Benton Heights School.

The office has been notified of eighty-four marriages of this class. Quite a number are still employed in the schools of the state. Essie Willard is now employed as book-keeper-stenographer at Tayloe Hospital, Washington, N. C. Two of the class are enrolled in school this quarter—Voldah Deaton and Patsy Montague (Glass). Many others have received the A.B. degree, the "A" Certificate, and have attended various colleges for summer sessions.

Homecoming brought to the campus Beatrice Cherry, Grimesland, N. C.; Mary Sheppard Keel (Mrs. Carl R. Stacy), Greenville, N. C.; Mabel Faircloth (Mrs. C. W. Walston), Pinetops, N. C.; and Mary Green, Nashville, N. C.

The total number of deaths in the two classes has been three.

To the members of the classes of '30 a hearty welcome awaits you. Class reunions will be held. Come back and hear the roll-call of your class. Only a few have been mentioned above; however, due to very gratifying results obtained recently in response to a questionnaire sent to all members of the '30 classes to verify addresses of those for which the office was uncertain, a majority of the transitions have been recorded.

University of Wyoming students last year spent $64,500 in membership dues in student organizations. Twenty-three thousand three hundred seventy-three dollars and seventy-five cents was for national dues, pins and initiation fees.

Salaries of Barnard College graduates and undergraduates who were given positions through the college occupation bureau last year totaled $173,443.

Newest ECTC Sorority Displays Unique Originality In Organization

East Carolina Teachers College has a student club for every purpose and the latest entry is the D.E.Y.C. Sorority, composed of 10 girls, who hold secret meetings and carry out established objectives of the organization.

When you have 10 girls comprising a club, they're going to have fun. And the D.E.Y.C. Sorority does just that. But there's a serious side to their activities. One of their most notable achievements since organizing has been to collect clothing for little girls of poor families enrolled in the Training School.

Officers of the Sorority are Eva Carter, president; Sula Carr, vice president; Alice Bragg, secretary; Shirley Latham, treasurer; Mary Helen Gullege, chairman of the invitations committee; and Marian Allen, mascot tender. Other members of the group are Evelyn Brummitt, Dale Pitts, Anna Jones and Bess Ustry. The Sorority is limited to 10 members.

"Henry, Jr." is the mascot of the Sorority. There's nothing very out-standing about Henry, except that he's a Bunny Rabbit—the kind you purchase downtown from one of the department stores. But Henry has his advantages. He's the only male at the meetings and knows everything that goes on. Henry was born without a tongue and can't say anything.

Members of the Sorority live on the first floor of Jarvis Hall. If any student ever hears commotion on this floor on Thursday night around 10:30 o'clock—that's the time the Sorority holds its meetings—he'll know why hilarity prevails.

Dues of the D.E.Y.C. are a penny a week and a nickel if a member has an unexcused absence. Money saved up thus far this year went to defray expenses of a party of the Sorority held last Saturday night after the delightful Junior-Senior Dance.

The Sorority has its own constitution; meets in a different room each week, and meets only once a week unless one of the girls gets a box from home. Should a box come to one of the members every day, then the D.E.Y.C. members would meet every night.

Dynamite Buried Under "Y" Hut Back In The Old Pioneer Days

Every night, I shake with fright, for dynamite—now, there is no reason for fear, but nevertheless it's there. Yep, right there.

It seems that when this vast campus of ours was forest primeval, except for the administration building, West Dormitory, and East Dormitory, as they were then called in this man's land, some workmen made use of dynamite to remove tree roots. They were to remove the roots to clear a place for more buildings. When the job was completed, dynamite was left strewn around. Since this was dangerous (well, other people say it is, I'll take their word for it), President Wright requested the engineer to collect it and dispose of it somewhere. Thus the engineer went 'way, 'way back in the woods and buried it beside an old stump—an insignificant little stump.

Time marched on and one day the Y.W.C.A. decided to build a hut. Therefore 'way back in the woods (beside the infirmary) they go.

They knock aside this stump; they knock aside that stump; and up goes the "Y" hut. Yep, right over the dynamite, it did, the exact place.

Hum-m-m. I hope it's not another gunpowder plot, I hope. But folks, it's there, gone but not forgotten. I betcha.

(Editor's note: We don't know whether this is true, but it makes a good story anyway.)

Mock Faculty To Be Held

Sponsored by the Zeta Delta Sorority, a mock faculty will be presented in the Austin building on May 15 at 8:00 o'clock.

Marie Trippie, chairman of the Mock Faculty committee states that short characterizations will be presented by students of some forty "odd" teachers. When consulted on the program Marie declared emphatically, "If you have ever had a wish to see your favorite teacher as other students see them, here is your chance. Also if teachers have ever had the desire to see themselves as others see them, here is their chance."

Three rows on the front will be reserved for teachers so desiring to see the Mock Faculty.

Miss Ellis, adviser of the group is directing the students.

Admission to the entertainment will be 10 cents per person.

Hanover, N. H.—(ACP)—For the first time in the long history of Dartmouth College, undergraduates this year are actively participating in the determination of the institution's academic policies.

In a new plan designed to give students a greater interest in their own education, juniors and seniors will discuss with their instructors the requirements, curricular problems and departmental mechanics of their courses. Economics, sociology and political science are the first three courses to be included in the new plan.

Dartmouth's administrators feel that if members of the student body are eligible for election to committees on which they will work with faculty members, an actual concern for the affairs of the department will be developed in the individual students. They feel that this will raise the educational standards of the college.

Freshman Class Plans To Present One-act Drama

Hilda Ruth Martin,
Norman Wahl
Have Leads

She Was Only A Farmer's Daughter, a one-act melodrama, will be given on the night of May 9, 1940 by the Freshman Class. Hilda Ruth Martin from Conway plays the lead as an innocent country girl who goes to the city and is tricked by the villain or slicker, Norwood Wahl, the poor but honest country boy, plays opposite her and finally wins the hand of his childhood sweetheart by his sincerity.

Other parts are played by Estelle Davis as the banker's daughter, David Cox as the city slicker, Margaret Hennant as the heroine's aunt, Joy Parnell as the hero's mother, Bill Baysden as the banker father of Estelle Davis, and Frances Sears as the banker's wife.

The Symphonic Orchestra will play for the performance which will be given in Austin Auditorium. Following the play real old-fashioned melodrama (applaud the hero, hiss the villain), a variety show is going to be given. Mrs. M. Dittmar is aiding in the show which is going to be composed of farces on school life and featuring individual types of ability in the freshmen classes.

Admission will be fifteen cents. The play is being directed by Kenneth Woolard.

Among the faculty members who attended the concert of Marian Anderson, famed negro singer, in Raleigh last night, were Misses Ola Ross, Frances Wahl, Louise Williams, Kathleen Plumb, and Lois Grigsby.

Teco Echo Rates Good In Report From ACP Critics

Editorials, Sport Page Each Rated "Excellent"

"Good," second-class honor rating, the same rating as was received last year from the Associated Collegiate Press critical service has been given the 1939-40 volume of the Teco Echo.

With 1,000 as a total score, the bi-weekly publication won 610 points, an increase of 10 points over that of last year. Under the heading "news values and sources" 170 of a possible 250 were scored. One hundred and fifty-five out of 250 were awarded for "news writing and editing." The "head lines, topography, and make-up rated 135 of a possible 250 points and "department pages and special features" received 150 of a possible 220 points.

Dorothy Hollar and James Whitfield received "excellent" respectively for the editorials and sports page. Last year's editorials rated only "good," but last year's sports page rated "excellent" as it did this year. Other groups receiving "excellent" were "balance, vitality, and treatment" under the heading of "news values and sources."

One of the complimentary criticisms was that the writing quality of the paper has been high during the year. One of the constructive criticisms suggested a more harmonizing style of type to go with the flush-left headlines and streamlining which was put into practice last year.

Evaluation was made only on the first five issues of the Teco Echo this year under the editorship of Dorothy Hollar and the present staff. No rating was given to the business side of the paper, which has been under the direction of Helen Flanagan.

Sponsored by the University of Minnesota School of Journalism, the Associated Collegiate Press is a part of the National Scholastic Press Association which offers this critical service to high school and college newspapers each year.

Eleven Alumni Chapters Report Successful Work

We hold monthly meetings the second Monday night of each month. (Mildred S. Helms, Secretary 1940-41).

Since the organization of the Greenville Chapter of the East Carolina Teachers College Alumni Association, November 1939, we have had very interesting programs arranged by the program committee consisting of Mrs. Louis Gaylord, Chairman, Mrs. Gus Forbes, and Mrs. Harry Forbes. Our programs have ranged from lectures, book reviews, to travel talks. We have a membership of forty-nine and a very good average attendance. We are making plans for a Bridge Tournament Friday p.m. May 3. This is for the purpose of making a contribution at commencement to the State Association. We are very pleased with the growth of our chapter and expect to eventually have the largest alumni chapter. (Mamie Ruth Tunstall, Secretary).

High Point is the youngest organization, having organized April 16. Officers are: Ruth Modlin, president; Madeleine McCain, vice president; Lillian Parrish, secretary-treasurer; and Sue Speed, reporter. Mrs. C. R. Hinshaw (Kathleen Spain) program chairman; and Mrs. Worth Ivey, social chairman.

Roscoe Rapids Chapter has a membership of thirty-four who meet regularly once every month. Meetings consist of a business session and social hour. Most of the members attend regularly and enjoy the meetings. Two money-making projects have been carried out. The club sponsored the city bowling alley in which a small amount was made. Later a bridge tournament was held. The officers who have been serving the club are: president, Martha Whitehurst; vice president, Ruth Deans; secretary-treasurer, Ethel Parker (Mrs. Wyche Land); and reporter, Julia Farrior. (Reported by Mrs. Wyche Land).

Enthusiastic is the Rocky Mount Chapter in the work being done. Each meeting has been attended well, and a varied and interesting program has been planned and carried out. The dinner meeting with Dr. Meadows is always a highlight of the year—though the meeting at which Miss McClees spoke ran a close second. The Ways and Means Committee lost a few of those "forty winks" and gained an extra wrinkle in the brain trying to get into the higher finance bracket. They did an excellent job of selling barbecue to all their friends, and sold a few more on the idea of holding thirteen cards in a bridge tournament. March 9 found plenty of Rocky Mount Alumni back on the campus enjoying a day long to be remembered. Proud of the progress made at the Les Brown, who will play for the May Frolic, annual spring dance sponsored by the Lanier Literary Society which will be held here tomorrow night.

Louise Williams Represents AAUW At State Meeting

Appointed Head Of Committee

Miss Louise Williams, newly elected president of the local branch of the American Association of University Women, represented the local branch in the receiving line at a tea at the governor's mansion Friday afternoon at the state convention of the A.A.U.W.

Miss Williams participated in a presidents' panel at the Saturday morning meeting and was appointed to head the Time and Place Committee for next year's meetings.

Miss Mamie E. Jenkins, local legislative chairman, attended a special breakfast meeting Saturday morning with other legislative chairmen of the state. Among the highlights of the convention were the addresses at the Friday night banquet and Saturday luncheon. On Friday night Dr. Josiah Morse, of the University of South Carolina, spoke on "The Educated Woman's Place in the New Set-up." The Saturday speaker was Dr. George A. Shipman, of the Duke University Department of Political Science, who talked on "Making the Democratic Process Work."

The state meeting next year will be held in Asheville.

Alton Payne gave a talk on China at a recent meeting of the International Correspondence club of the Greenville High School.

Payne illustrated his talk with numerous souvenirs which he has received through correspondence with a resident of China.

A number of these souvenirs are on display at the present in Miss Haskel's English classroom at the high school.

Senior history majors will be entertained by the faculty members of the History Department on Thursday evening, May 9, at a picnic supper. The picnic will be held on the grounds of the old Cox estate near Winterville.

college, we stand ready and willing to cooperate in every way. With every good wish to the graduating classes who go out to join chapters, or start new ones, we hope to see you at commencement. (Reported by Ethel Shelton Taylor, Pres.)

The Raleigh Chapter of the Alumni Association of East Carolina Teachers College is a very active one and has had quite a successful year with Mrs. O. K. Joyner (Christine Vick) serving as president. Other officers are: Mrs. M. R. Medlin (Sarah Louise Mixon), vice president; Mrs. Henry Chadwick, secretary; Mrs. E. H. Spruill (Lula Jones), treasurer; and Mrs. Anne W. Ray (Ann Whitehurst), corresponding secretary. The chapter has the following standing committees: program, ways and means, social, Hostess, membership, scrapbook, yearbook, publicity (reporter and telephone).

The Chapter has a membership of fifty-three and holds regular monthly meetings. During the N.C.E.A. Convention it served as hostess to the East Carolina Teachers College Alumni for a luncheon meeting. The annual Bridge Tournament was held in April and was highly successful having nearly doubled the receipts after expenses were paid over last year's tournament.

The Winterville Chapter of the Alumni Association of East Carolina Teachers College has met six times this year, and an additional meeting has been planned for May. One of the outstanding meetings of the year was held October 28 when Miss Emma L. Hooper and Dr. Leon R. Meadows were guests at a dinner meeting. On February 28 the chapter sponsored a Bridge Tournament to make money. Miss Estelle McClees and Miss Ruth White were guests at this meeting. The following officers were elected on April 23 for the next year: president, Mrs. Edith Fornes Worthington; vice president, Mary Louise Taylor; secretary, Blanche White; and treasurer, Aldah Parker. (Reported by Mary L. Taylor).

College Faculty Is Kept Busy Making Speeches

Members of the faculty of ECTC have been busy lately making Commencement and Junior-Senior Speeches.

Dr. Herbert Rebarber has made several speeches and has a full schedule. On April 25 he spoke at Maury; on April 26 at Calypso; on May 2 at Oriental. He plans to speak at Glendall on May 10 and at Mars Hill on May 15.

Dr. Meadows spoke on April 26 at Snow Hill, on April 30 at Pantego; on May 2 at Chicod; on May 3 at Pactolus. On May 6 he will speak at Whitakers; on May 7 at Goldsboro; on May 10 at Scotland Neck; on May 13 at Stonewall; on May 16 at Lewiston.

Dr. Hollar spoke on April 19 at Pink Hill; on April 20 at Swanquarter; in Faulkland on April 30 and on May 2 at Stumpy Point.

Mr. R. C. Deal spoke on April 19 at Goldsboro; on April 22 at Chicod; at Belhaven on April 30 and at Swanquarter on May 1. He was at Grifton on May 2; he will speak at Connetta on May 6; and on May 14 at Poplar Branch, N. C. Mr. Deal will also speak to the New Bern Women's Club on May 29.

Sigma Pi Alpha Holds 1940 Meet

The Annual Congress of Sigma Pi Alpha, National Foreign Language honorary fraternity, met here Saturday, April 20. The Phi Sigma Chapter of ECTC, with Miss Annie Hart Boone, president, acted as host.

In the afternoon a business meeting was held in the New Building, and a banquet and dance was given that evening at the Woman's Club with Spence Hatley and His Deans of Rhythm furnishing the music. Professor R. C. Deal, former president of the National Chapter, acted as toastmaster presenting gifts to everyone present.

Heads of foreign language departments in addition to student representatives were present, coming from as far north as Virginia and as far south as Mississippi.

College Juniors Hold Banquet

On Wednesday night, May 1, 1940, the Junior class had their formal banquet.

The theme of the banquet was that of Junior's third birthday, signifying the age of the class. Pastel shades were used as a color scheme with each table having a cake with three candles on it.

The program was fashioned in infant style with the feeding schedule for the menu. The program consisted of the following: Invocation "Father, We Thank Thee" sung by Lib Coppedge, Junior's "First Word," a welcome by Bill Merner; "Meet the Family," the introduction of the faculty; the quadruplets rendered a number or two. They were made up by the State College Quartet. Miss Erlene Sawyer rendered "Showing Off" a childish reading. Dr. Posey told Papa's Bedtime Story as speaker of the evening.

The banquet closed with everyone singing Lullaby and Goodnight, by Brahms. Spence Hatley and his Deans of Rhythm played dinner music.

Installation of the new officers of the Student Government took place in Chapel Tuesday. Juanita Etheridge the outgoing President, read out the names of the old officers as the new officers came upon the platform to take their places.

Doris Blalock the new president for the coming year, was last year vice president and her place is taken by Harriett Marshburn. Sarah Gorham is the new secretary taking the place of Harriett Marshburn. Joyce Dunham is taking the place of Sarah Gorham as treasurer. Millie Grey Dupree's place as chairman of the Campus Committee is replaced by Emily Murphy.

The old House Presidents were Iris Davis, Annie Laurie Beale, Hazel Owens, Ida Ruth Knowles, Ida Ferria Davis, Betty Blanchard, Maferia Lee Boyde, Rebecca Shanks. The new House Presidents are Mary Elliott, Shirley Johnson, Myra Godfrey, Mary Grant Bailey, Wilda Royall, Elizabeth Noe, Virginia Whitley, Celia Blanch Dail, Ruth Britt.

The old class representatives were Freshmen, Inez Stephenson; Sophomore, Emily Murphy; Junior, Erlene Sawyer; Senior, K. P. Lewis. For this coming year Sophomore, Anne Stephenson; Junior, Jessie Keith will take their places on the council.

Rebecca Shanks is taking the place of Wilda Royall as Y.W.C.A. Frances Sutherland will succeed Dorothy Hollar as council representative from the Teco Echo.

Sponsors for the May dance come from the Lanier Literary Society this term, at which Les Brown and his orchestra will play. Sponsors include Elizabeth Meggs, Cleo Burney, Margaret Reed, Audrey White, Nell Beddard, and Ruth Wood Pritchard, president of the society.

A Good Time Was Not Had By All At The State Press Convention

By Semaj Dleifithw

Since the ECTC boys don't like to socialize with girls from St. Mary's, Peace, Meredith, Queens, Woman's College and Flora Macdonald, and the girls dislike the idea of dancing with boys from Duke, State, Wake Forest, Elon, Davidson, Lenoir-Rhyne and Appalachian, the annual convention of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association held last week in Charlotte proved a dull affair for representatives of the three ECTC publications.

All the delegates, as expected, went to bed early at night and got up bright and early for the convention meetings. Sherwood Staton, president, and the other executive officers hadn't made any plans for the convention and had to stay up each night until 9 o'clock to map them. Naturally, this caused them to be an hour late for the meetings the next morning; and the delegates reprimanded them for their tardiness.

Mary Agnes Deal and James Whitfield accompanied four Flora Macdonald girls from Red Springs to Charlotte and neither of them had a thing to say to their companions—didn't even ask their names. Even after they had reached Charlotte neither was able to tell the other members of the delegation with whom they had ridden.

Barbara and Betty Keukenkamp stole the show at the dances doing the "Big Apple." They used such speed in the dances that none of the young blades from the other schools were able to keep up with them. After the orchestra stopped playing for the night they begged the leader to play one more fast number, even though they had danced steadily for several hours.

Mary Horne carried a bundle of Teco Echos to the convention and while the others were having a big time she relaxed in one of the easy chairs of the hotel and tried to spot errors in the old issues—but there were none.

Harvey Deal was the companion of a very unattractive blind. But you can't beat Harvey in such situations. He amused his date by throwing spit balls at the ball head of the desk clerk. This went on for hours, but the desk clerk nor Harvey's date seemed to mind.

Louise Davis, versatile editor of The Pieces O' Eight, thought they were going to have 14 annual conventions instead of a fourteenth annual convention, and sent her clothes to Charlotte on a moving van. The hotel attendants were perplexed as to how to get all of them in the hotel. They finally solved the problem by hoisting them up with a pulley.

Prue Newby, business manager this year of the Teco Echo, was detained temporarily at police headquarters to answer charges of abusing private property. A Charlotte policeman found Prue painting the doors of the Hotel Charlotte. When asked what she was doing Prue replied: "Why, sir, I'm merely painting the town red. That's why I was sent to the convention."

George Lautares, always in a hurry, tangled with five taxi drivers because they stopped for red traffic lights. George smashed the noses of all the cab drivers and then ran five policemen out of town—but he was in the lead.

Lallah B. Watts, who attended the convention with the view of getting some points on salesmanship, as she's business manager next year of the Teco Echo, tried her technique on the proprietor. She sold him 1,000 fly swatters and 500 mouse traps. The merchandise was sold at cost, but she did have fun.

All the delegates returned to Greenville together and each declared that travel and plenty of sleep is just the thing for students.

Maybe you are inclined to believe all this. Don't worry. We Don't.

Baptist Students Install Officers

"Spring would be a dreary season, if there were no flowers in spring." At least that is what the Baptist students seemed to have uppermost in their thoughts, for their annual installation banquet was staged with in a garden of spring flowers centered with a lily pool banked with rocks and moss, carrying out the theme, "The Master's Garden."

Serving as gardener and guiding the guests through the garden, Masie Castlebury, toastmistress, led the group on their tour.

The incoming BSU officers were installed as blooming rose buds formed a bower of roses. Abode all the flowers in the Masters garden, "The Lily of the Valley, Christ," was the subject of Mr. W. Perry Crouch, guest speaker.

Les Brown Plays For Term Dance Saturday Night

Lanier Society Sponsors May Frolic Here

Les Brown and his Orchestra will play for the May Frolic, annual Spring dance sponsored by the Lanier Society tomorrow night in Wright Auditorium at 8.30 o'clock.

Sponsors chosen by the Society are Ruth Wood Pritchard, President; Cleo Burney, Margaret Reed, Audrey White, Elizabeth Meggs, and Nell Beddard. These, with the Society officers, chairmen of the Social Committee, May Queen, and President of the Poe and Emerson Societies and their escorts will compose the Grand March, which will be led by Mary Helen Gallegher, chairman of the Social Committee.

The Orchestra formerly of Duke University has recently played in Cincinnati and Cleveland and now broadcasts over National hook up.

Decorations will be in the pastel shades carrying out the theme of Maytime.

College Orchestra Gives Public Concert

Under the direction of Al Dittmer, the E.C.T.C. orchestra gave a public concert in the Austin auditorium Sunday afternoon.

In addition to the selections played by the whole orchestra there were several special numbers, including a clarinet solo, "Theme and Variations," by Orval Morton and a violin solo, "Meditation" from "Thais" by Arch Yow.

A string quartet composed of Arch Yow, Vincent Romano, A. Dittmer, and Betty Keukenkamp played "A Little Night Music."

The college string ensemble, which includes several beginners, appeared in two numbers—"The Old Refrain" and "Believe Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms."

The orchestra was introduced by Dean C. Tabor, chairman of the Music Education Department.

Miss Edna Mitchell accompanied the orchestra at the piano.

"TECO ECHO" SPORTS PAGE RATED EXCELLENT

The critical service of the National Scholastic Press Association, sponsored by the Department of Journalism, University of Minnesota, awarded this year by James Whitfield, with George Lautares as associate editor, the excellent rating given the page by critics of one of the nation's finest schools of journalism echoes the efforts the sports staff have exerted this year in trying to present to the student body a round-up of athletic activities in each issue of the paper. It is impossible to please everyone. An attempt to please everyone would be futile. In handling sports this year the sports staff of the Tecu Echo has had the interest of the student body at heart and was little concerned with what critics thought of the job. But the critics apparently approved of the staff's endeavors, as they tossed bouquets in the form of an excellent rating. We were not perfect, however. No one is perfect. There are ways we can improve. And that's just what the sports staff intends to do.

TIP TO CONSTRUCTION COMPANIES

Stanley Scarborough, diminutive ECTC senior, can make a bid with a construction company as a steeplejack when he graduates if he's unable to obtain a job teaching. Workmen recently erected scaffolds in the campus building to paint the ceiling. When Stanley entered the building last week-end he proceeded immediately to scale the scaffold and appeared to do a good job in climbing. Steeplejacks seldom carry much life insurance, as the rate is too high for this type of person. But they do make plenty of money. And Stanley, like all other seniors who are planning to graduate in June, is interested in making money.

"BIG FIVE" BASEBALL IS NOTED FOR UPSETS

If the splendid pitching arm of Tommy Byrnes, Wake Forest left-hander holds out, Duke University's powerful Blue Devils are going to find themselves "way down in the bracket of 'Big Five'" standings before the season is ended. In last Saturday's game Byrnes set the Blue Devils down in fine style as his mates hammered the Duke tosser for a half dozen runs. The Deacons yielded only one run. Byrnes has plenty of stamina and determination. His confidence not only enables him to be stingy with the hits, but also to run up a fine record in strikeouts. He struck out 14 Blue Devils last Saturday and his score now stands at an average of more than one strikeout an inning. In addition to making him the "man to be feared" among other "Big Five" teams, Byrnes is destined to receive some fine offers from the ivory hunters of the major leagues. Aside from being a pitcher, Tommy is handy with the stick. He proved this when the Deacons turned back Duke in an earlier game. Just how far Wake Forest will go remains to be seen. They still have some headaches forthcoming with Carolina, now holding undisputed claim to the second-place berth.

UMPIRES ARE ALWAYS RIGHT

At least, they're right in a ball game, even though spectators and players do not always put so much confidence in their decisions. On the playing field the privileges of the player are confined to one category and those of the umpire to another. As far as decisions go, the umpire has an upper hand. If a player dislikes the decision of an umpire, he should let it go at that. When players are unable to adjust themselves to decisions, they find themselves shoving youngsters from a knothole outside the park in order to watch the rest of the game. Being able to cope with the decision of an umpire is merely a matter of good sportsmanship. Many athletes will disagree with this statement, but it only stands to reason that an athlete has to ignore many personal ideas at times to show good sportsmanship. In many instances the player is correct in disagreeing with what the eye of the umpire supposedly saw. But instead of letting the judge of balls and strikes know how he feels, he should keep his opinions to himself. The matter of acquiring umpires is left with club officials. Unless an umpire does a good job, he's going to find his stay behind the plate short-lived. But whether an umpire is good or isn't should be left with the officials and not the players. A Naval Base player disliked one of Umpire Roebuck's decisions in a game here recently and was chased from the park. Roebuck has umpired for the Pirates' games several seasons. He has done a good job. The action of the Middy was an example of a player being unable to display good sportsmanship.

ATHLETES ARE GOOD-WILL AMBASSADORS

Students are sometimes prone to wonder what good athletics do a school. Most members of the student body are familiar with those elements that help the athlete to play the game squarely, physical development, et cetera. However, one element that many often overlook is the fact that athletes advertise a college among other schools. It is true that some athletes are more concerned with being a good player than a good mixer. Being a good player is a fine thing, but being a good mixer is another essential if an athlete expects to develop a well-rounded personality. During the trips of athletic teams to other schools, there are players in the crowd who make friends wherever they go and players of other schools brand them as "good-will ambassadors." Whenever the student of one school associates with students of other schools, whether they be friend or foe, he is going to find someone asking about certain things in his school. And that's a fine thing. What a player does in one ball game will be forgotten at the next game by everyone except the ball player. But when he acquires staunch friends in other schools, they are permanent. Present educational trends tend to remove individuality from students and put emphasis on personality. And here's a note to sports fans. When the team goes on a tour and fails to chalk up victories, you can rest assured that they have done something for the school that will be more beneficial to others than the short-lived matters of winning a game.

A MATTER OF OPINION

When George Lautares, associate sports editor of the Tecu Echo, acted as guest columnist in the last issue and expressed the opinion that if our college had its quota of tennis courts, there would be no objection to having classes on the courts, but since it doesn't, it seems only natural that classes should be discontinued," he was advancing a belief that with conditions resulting from the lack of tennis courts. There was some disagreement about the declaration and rightfully so. When you have persons on one side of the fence who favor more recreation for students and persons on the other side who believe that greater good can be derived from classes in a certain field of endeavor, there is going to be a variation of opinion. This corner has not strived to mould public opinion, but to reflect it. Irrespective of whether an opinion comes from one person or several, it is still an opinion. If George or any other student has an opinion of something, it's his privilege to adhere to the opinion as long as he likes. Should another student have a different opinion, it is his privilege to express it. There's no law compelling everyone to think the same in the United States; as long as there are newspapers, you're going to find differences of opinion in the columns of those newspapers.

SEASON OF ATHLETICS DRAWS TO A CLOSE

With the elections of the Women's Athletic Association in the background and those of the Varsity Club in the foreground, one is brought to the reality that this year's athletic activities soon will be brought to a close. Each organization has done much this year to develop its objectives, with notable results. To the retiring officers we say you'll have you have done a good job; to the incoming officers we say you'll have you do much to equal the leadership of those under whose guidance you have been during the school year now being brought to a close. In a

The candid cameraman of the Tecu Echo sports staff read in a magazine of photography that unusual angles are always good in picture making. He went out to the softball field and the picture you see is what he brought back. Those legs belong to Wiley Mayo. They're always in the game when Wiley is playing.

Girls' Athletics Well Under Way

Intramurals among the girls are well under way on the campus and a mammoth program will have been realized before the current school year is concluded.

The annual track and field event sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association scheduled for tomorrow was cancelled because of the "May Day" festivities that will prevail on the campus.

Play in softball has begun and tournaments will be staged in tennis, ping pong, shuffleboard, and badminton. Activities in archery also are being embodied in the intramural program.

Miss Helen McElwain is the director of women's intramurals on the campus and is making an effort to make future programs in intramurals larger than those of the past.

Since the program consists of both indoor and outdoor games, the girls can conduct their activities rain or shine.

Grand Forks, N. D.—(ACP)—Floating in a test tube on the desk of Dr. Neal Weber, University of North Dakota associate professor of biology, are eight of the smallest ants in the world.

So small that 12 of them together would be the size of one pinhead, the tiny insects were discovered by Dr. Weber last summer in central Africa, jungle near the Belgian Congo border in the Sudan. The professor's specimens have proved to be 25 per cent smaller than any other ants known to man.

teachers' college, where the tendency is for students to transfer to or from other schools, it is no easy matter to make predictions about the outlook for the types of teams that will be produced in each of the major sports. No one can do this until the season for each rolls around and the material is surveyed. A glance at new material this year has shown that today's greenies are going to be tomorrow's veterans. One of the school's greatest strides this year and last has been in the field of intramurals. We hope this program sees continued advancement.

Eileen Tomlinson Named President of The WAA

Plans Are Formulated For Next School Year

By Nancy Albright

Eileen Tomlinson has been elected president of the Women's Athletic Association of East Carolina Teachers College for 1940-41, succeeding Eva McMillan.

Even though elections have just been held, the Women's Athletic Association already is in the process of formulating plans for the ensuing school year, including a well-rounded intramural program.

Myrtle Hopkins is the new vice-president; Maybelle Pollock, secretary; Estelle Edwards, treasurer; Maude Sawyer, Tecu Echo representative; and Frances Roebuck, Tecu representative.

Heads of sports for 1940-41 are Margaret Wood, soccer; Rachel Blanchard, hockey; Esther Parker, volleyball; Nick Proctor, basketball; Doris Roberts, softball; Dorothy Dalrymple, tennis; Elizabeth Burns, hiking; Louise Lindsay, individual sports; Camille Gaskins, bicycle; and Margaret White, archery.

The program of the Women's Athletic Association enables each of its members to participate in the sport which she likes best. It also offers a major in physical education to gain experience in sports that will be valuable when she goes out in the community to train others.

A new membership drive of the Women's Athletic Association will be held early next fall. Variety that intersperses the public phase of the initiation has attracted much attention on the campus heretofore.

New officers of the W.A.A. expect to assume offices in the immediate future.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—(ACP)—Art, culture, and traditions of European lands now at war are preserved in a unique series of nationality classrooms in the University of Pittsburgh's world-famed 42-story Cathedral of Learning, but the political credos and racial hatreds are in no way suggested. The 19 nationality rooms, a "little league of nations," are projects of national groups in this country.

Here in the nine rooms already completed, students and faculty may enjoy the culture, art, and architecture of many countries now at war. Arts, which recognize no boundary lines, portray in concrete form the finer instincts of the peoples represented.

The classrooms, with decorations and appointments authentic and in keeping with some period in the history of the nation represented, offer the inspiration which the best artists and philosophers of the various peoples have given to the world.

There is no necessary relation between the character of the rooms and the subjects taught in them. The idea is much simpler. It is that youth, preparing for useful lives, shall see concrete evidence of other useful lives in other times and other lands.

Cancelled

Bill Spence, manager of the tennis team of Louisburg College, this week advised Douglas Glover, captain of Coach H. C. Haynes' netters, that the tennis meet scheduled here tomorrow between the tennis teams of Louisburg College and East Carolina Teachers College had been cancelled because of "May Day" at Louisburg. Spence explained that many of the tennis players were participating in the festivities and would be unable to be here for the matches.

NSPA Gives High Rating To Page

Sports Sheet Rated Excellent By Critics

The critical service of the National Scholastic Press Association, sponsored by the University of Minnesota and in cooperation with the Associated Collegiate Press, recently gave a first-place honor rating to the sports page of the Tecu Echo.

James Whitfield has been sports editor this year, with George Lautares as associate sports editor. John Williams and Harold Taylor have been sports reporters. Nancy Albright has represented the sports staff in the Women's Athletic Association and Bill Merner from the Varsity Club.

Each year high school and college newspapers throughout the United States are judged by veteran journalists of the National Scholastic Press Association. In addition to ratings, the critics also make valuable suggestions relative to improving make-up and presentation of news.

During the past school year the sports staff has placed much emphasis on presenting a round-up of various sports on the campus instead of putting most of the emphasis on any particular sport.

In awarding the excellent rating, the critics offered suggestions the editors will attempt to perfect in forthcoming issues of the paper.

Dick Chadwick Drives In Lone Run of Pirates

Hurler Smith Limits Locals To Two Hits

The United States Naval Training Station of Norfolk hammered Coach Farley's Pirates for eight hits in a game that lasted only six and a half innings because of rain and one that produced a 3-1 win for the Middies.

It was the devastating hurling of T. W. Smith, Norfolk tosser, that was the contributing factor in the Pirates' loss. Smith settled down to his job of pitching with the style of a veteran and limited the Farley-men to a pair of safeties.

An error by Weiler enabled Charles Futrell to take second in the second inning and set the stage for the Pirates' lone tally. Futrell advanced to third on an infield out and scored on Richard Chadwick's single. Bill Davidson blasted a double to right field for the Teachers' other safety.

Norfolk staged a two-run party in the third. Kinsman singled and had Williams run for him because of a "charley horse" after he had advanced to second on Davis' infield out. Nickols walked and stole second. Both he and Williams scored on Weeks' single.

In the fourth another run crossed the plate for the Middies when Kinsman singled and let Williams enter the game as a guest runner. Williams advanced to second on a passed ball, to third on Waldrop's error and scored when Nickols reached first on a fielder's choice and Northcutt dropped a nice throw from second to home.

Umpire Roebuck chased Weiler from the game before the rains came because he had something to say about a decision of the game official.

You will be needed on our campus at commencement, and particularly on Saturday, June 1, which is Alumni Day. We need you because of the inspiration you bring to those of us who must remain here from year to year; then, too, we want to learn about you, about your work, about your communities and about your plans for the future. Also, we want you to keep in touch with the college, to see the changes that are taking place, and, we trust, the progress that is being made.

At four o'clock in the afternoon of Alumni Day, Mrs. Meadows and I will welcome all alumni and faculty members at our home; we hope you will come and stay as long as you can.

Very cordially yours,
LEON R. MEADOWS,
President.
