Newly Equipped Cafeteria Installed Enabling Better And Quicker Service

Fred Martin Heads Council For Summer

Officers of the student government association have been elected for the summer session. They are Fred Martin of Asheville, president; Anne Beddard of Snow Hill, secretary; and Margaret Carr of Wallace, treasurer.

Martin, who was president during the regular 1946-1947 school term, was reelected in the spring to serve during the 1947-1948 term.

Six newly elected members-at-large of the Student Council who will hold office for the summer are Harold Bridge of Hopewell, Va., George Conner of Concord, Jack Kimbrell of Waxhaw, Ruth Krank of Poplarville, Robert Martin of Rich Square, and Sue Cotten of Kipling.

A newly equipped cafeteria was installed in the dining hall between spring and summer quarters and is now in full operation.

With the new cafeteria set-up, the students are offered a larger variety of foods to select from, and because smaller quantities are cooked, better food is prepared.

The new system also creates a fairer method of distribution. The student who eats little does not have to pay as much as the one who eats a lot. The cafeteria equipment keeps the food hot, enabling the students to come to their meals at will, instead of at a certain time.

Another advantage of the new system, stated Miss Camille Clarke, dietitian, is that it teaches the student the value of the "food dollar", and gives them training in learning to be more economical.

The dining hall staff remains the same, with Mrs. L. L. Rives, stewardess, Miss Camille B. Clarke, dietitian, assisted by Mrs. J. F. Thigpen, and Mrs. A. A. Harrell.

An addition to the staff is Paul R. Julian of Norfolk, Va., as steward, who will be in charge of the operation of the newly equipped cafeteria. Julian has had wide experience in cafeteria work. He has been manager of the Associated Terminal Restaurants, which has units located in various cities of North Carolina and Virginia. For the past eighteen months he owned and managed the well-known Fairwater Seafood Restaurant in Norfolk.

4 Administrative Personnel Members Resign Positions

Effective this summer, four members of the administrative staff have resigned and accepted positions elsewhere.

Dorothy Lewis, who receives her M. A. in business education at the close of the first term, will assume her duties next fall as registrar and business manager at Wilmington college. Miss Lewis has been working in the treasurer's office since her graduation in 1945.

Ruby Braxton, who has been secretary to the registrar since October, 1946, will do graduate work during the second term. Next fall, she will teach the fifth grade in the Burlington City school.

Mrs. Jerry A. Scruggs will leave her position in the registrar's office in August to go with her husband to Chicago where he will enter the dental college of Loyola university.

Mrs. Janie Eakes Council will join her husband in New Orleans, and after August, they will be located in Elon college where Mrs. Council has accepted a position with the Carolina Biological Supply company. She received her M. A. in business education in March, 1947. Mrs. Council has worked as secretary to the treasurer since her graduation in 1943.

Science Association Elects Dr. Reynolds

Dr. Charles W. Reynolds, director of the department of science, has received notification of his election to membership in the National Association for Research in Science Teaching. The association, which is an exclusive group with a small number of members throughout the nation has the purpose of improving instruction in the natural sciences through careful and well planned research. Dr. Reynolds and Dean R. J. Slay are the only members in North Carolina.

707 Students Enrolled For First Summer Term

Methodists Invite Students To Center

The Methodist Student Center, just across the street from Wilson hall, on the corner, invites the students of ECTC to drop in at any time for a bit of relaxation from the arduous task of keeping up with a heavy summer schedule. The front porch is a cool spot these warm days, and there is a place to make lemonade, iced-tea, and "frozen coffee." There are cookies, too, and ingredients for canapes, and sandwiches. One may even cook waffles and candy. So find your way to a place of real fellowship or you'll miss one of the joys of summer session.

Student Stores Open For Summer Session

During the summer session the stationery store will be open from 9:00-12:00 in the morning and from 2:00-4:30 in the afternoon, according to an announcement from Z. W. Frazelle, manager. The stationery store will not be open on Saturdays.

The soda shop will open Monday through Friday from 9:00 a. m. until 12 noon, from 2:00 until 4:30 p. m., and from 8:00 until 10:00 p. m. On Saturday the soda shop will be open

For the first term of summer session, 707 students have enrolled, a figure which tops last year's enrollment for the same period by exactly 200 students, according to an announcement from the office of Registrar Howard J. McGinnis.

Of the total number for this summer 288 are men and 419 women, as compared with 107 men and 400 women attending the college during the summer of 1946.

North Carolinians now at the college number 659 and represent 67 counties of the state from Dare to Haywood. Other students come from eleven states from Florida to New York and from the east coast to California. Two students from Cuba are registered for the summer session.

Pitt county, which has the largest registration, is represented by 149 students. The twelve other counties sending the largest numbers to the college are Beaufort, 37 students; Lenoir and Martin, 25 each; Wayne, 22; Sampson, Edgecombe, and Duplin, 19 each; Wilson, 16; Craven, Nash, and Greene, 15 each; Pasquotank, 14; and Wake, 13.

from 9:00 a. m. until 12 noon and until 10:00 p. m. after the movie. On Sunday it will be open from 4:00-7:00 p. m. and 8:00-10:00 p. m. The student stores employ 17 students.

Parlor Hostess Orders Cat-Fish, Receives Cat-Fish

Gene Gurganus, popular junior, and Bill Waters, local state highway executive, are two boys who believe in satisfying a lady. For months they have been visiting Jarvis hall parlor to call for their dates. The parlor hostess, Marion Martin, would always entertain them while they were waiting.

In the course of conversation the boys would "mention" that they were expert fishermen. They would talk of the huge and wonderful fish they had caught, and Miss Martin would marvel at their tales.

Marion, a country lass from near Waxhaw with a taste for good fish, had a chance to get what she wanted. She loved cat-fish, so she asked the boys if they would catch her one.

Gene and Bill, old fishermen as they were, knew a sweet delicate girl like Marion didn't want to catch anything as ugly and nasty as a cat-fish. She insisted, so the boys, true gentlemen from way back, agreed to satisfy the lady.

Several days later they returned to make a call at Jarvis parlor and for Marion. Imagine her surprise when they handed her a huge cat-fish weighing one hundred pounds (and no mistake) that looked like a monster from the dark

Presbyterians Hold Pioneer Camp At ECTC, June 16-21

The annual meeting of the pioneer camp of the Albemarle Presbytery of the Presbyterian church was held last week from June 16 to 21 at East Carolina with 73 youngsters attending from 25 counties in Eastern Carolina.

The pioneer camp was under the direction of Rev. Harold J. Dudley of Wilson. He was assisted by Rev. E. S. Coates of Farmville, Kate McChesney of Wilson, Rev. Hubert Morris of New Bern, Rev. C. W. Soloman of Wilson, Rev. Thomas H. Hamilton of Kinston, Ruth Hillhouse of Greenville, and Martha Bland of Greenville.

"The Bible—A Handbook for Pioneers" was the theme of the camp. Besides classes, the program included recreational activities.

The young boys and girls were billeted in Jarvis hall, and received their meals in the North Dining room.

Scholarship Students Study Library Science

Six students of library science are studying at East Carolina this summer on scholarships granted by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary schools to teachers pledged to work as librarians in the public schools.

Funds for the scholarships were provided by the General Education board with the purpose of training school personnel for library work and of supplying enough skilled workers to meet the present demand in public schools. A number of such scholarships have been granted in colleges and universities throughout the Southern states.

Those studying at East Carolina are Florence D. Gromer, Mrs. Margaret W. Holmes, Kathryn Albritton, Lela Mae Taylor, Mazie Currie, and Myrtle G. Massengill.

Johnny Corey and Marilyn Maxwell were unanimously elected editor and business manager respectively of the Teco Echo for the summer term at the Student Council meeting held last week.

Corey, Greenville sophomore, served as an associate editor of the Teco Echo for the winter and spring quarters. Prior to entering service he was city editor of the Greenville News-Leader and correspondent for the Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch. He was in the Army two years, serving in the Infantry and CID (Criminal Investigation Division).

Maxwell, Greenville junior, was an associate editor on the Teco Echo and Pieces o' Eight. In the spring elections she was elected editor of the Tecoan, college annual, for next year. Maxwell, who originally hails from Ohio, is an English major.

The Teco Echo will be published biweekly, and as in the past printed in a smaller edition, because of the decrease of students attending summer school.

SELF-HELP STUDENTS

If one observes very carefully, it will be noticed there are a large number of self-helping students working at ECTC this summer. In fact there are over one hundred of them, doing such jobs as keeping the tennis courts in condition, doing secretarial work for various teachers, and working in the Students Supply stores, dining hall, and administration building.

Their duties vary from back-bending tasks to more lighter pencil pushing jobs. These include rolling and dragging the tennis courts, making and serving sodas, selling books, washing dishes, serving food, cleaning the dining room, selling stationery, and preparing press releases for the News Bureau. In return for their work many of the students get a large portion of their tuition paid, while others get straight outright cash.

The college is rendering a valuable service in making these jobs available to the students. And the students are doing themselves a service in taking advantage of them. Many are coming to college, who otherwise could not have done so.

Some few week-minded persons may think it lowering or degrading for one to do a self-help job. But in the eyes of those in the know, nothing but admiration and honor can be seen.

The student, who is sent to college with all bills paid and a bank account to draw spending money from, is not going to be the best citizen when he graduates. But the person who has to dig and pay his way through is going to be a real and solid citizen who will know the real meaning of life.

Do You Agree?

By Johnny Corey

Why does one go to summer school during the blazing hot days of summer when there are mountain, lake, and beach resorts galore all over the country that offer nothing but entertainment and cool relaxation. Instead of playing tennis, golf, and softball, or going swimming, hiking, or fishing, why does one sit in class, listen to lectures, take tests, and bear all the other hardship that are included in the profession of "going to school."

If you are asking yourself this question, perhaps the following students' answers may be of some help to you.

Do you agree with them?
Milton Howard—"Going to summer school is the best way I know to keep from working."

Mimi Tripp—"Edgar won't marry me until I get my degree. So you can easily see why I'm going to summer school."

J. B. Newton—"It's better to go to school a half of day than work a whole day."

Mary Speight—"Because the ECTC atmosphere is extremely desirable." Sophie Fischel—"To try to finish college in three years."

Is It Worth It?

Everett Hudson—"I need two subjects to graduate and I'm starting on my master's degree. Besides ECTC is swell in the summer time and there will be good company here."

Mary Ann Walkins—"I'm going to summer school in order that I may graduate this August—I hope."

Peggy Honeycutt—"To pass what I flunked last quarter."

THIS and THAT

by Johnny Corey

Speculations are circulating the campus, as well as the entire state, as to who will succeed Dr. Cooke as president of ECTC when he leaves in September to assume his new duties as head of the department of education at Woman's college.

According to Under the Dome in a recent issue of the News and Observer, there are a number of persons eligible to fill the presidential vacancy, including the several persons Dr. Cooke recommended when he resigned.

Top on the list of possibilities is L. E. Spikes, superintendent of schools in Burlington. Spikes, who is a very close friend of Dr. Clyde A. Erwin, tentatively accepted the position last summer, but turned it down in a last minute decision. However, it is rumored he will accept the job if offered again, even though it will mean a slight reduction in salary for him. He stated last year that he was making more than the $6,000 a year plus home and facilities that is provided the ECTC president.

Whether Spikes or someone else gets the job remains to be seen, but one thing is for sure, the Board of Trustees is remaining mum and are not letting any tips leak out as to its possible choice.

Shirley Savage, Greenville senior, takes the spotlight for the first issue of the summer Teco Echo. A graduate of Greenville High School, Shirley is the cute brunette who is always so friendly and nice to everyone.

Majoring in grammar grades, Shirley will graduate from ECTC in August with an A. B. degree. Because she attended three sessions of summer school, she is graduating in three years instead of four.

She has already accepted a position with the Raleigh city schools to teach in the elementary grades this fall "I think it will be nice to teach in Raleigh, but I will hate to leave Greenville," Shirley stated.

Well-liked and very popular with other students, Shirley is a member of the FTA (Future Teachers of America), Poe Society, Alumni Sons and Daughters, Secretary of the Day Student organization, and was vice president of her sophomore class.

Shirley says she can think of no

East Carolina Enters North State Conference

Coach James Johnson, who coached the football and basketball teams last year, will again be the head coach for the 1947 Pirate eleven.

Star Footballers Made Ineligible By Conference Rule

East Carolina's entry into the North State conference is going to deal a smashing blow to the 1947 Pirate football eleven. Even though over 65 men are expected to report for practice which gets underway September 1, the squad will practically be paralyzed due to the ineligibility of six star first stringers to play, because of a North State conference rule which forbids players who have transferred twice from other schools to play.

Those ineligible are Pete Everett, Slade Phillips, Ellie Fearing, Charles Brown, Louis Tartarski, and Jim Taylor. Taylor did not play here last fall, but played first string fullback for the University of Nevada. He was counted on heavily this season. Everett played for Wake Forest in his freshman year, while Brown played for Duke, Phillips for William & Mary, and Fearing for Carolina.

Bill Britt, Charlie Justice's understudy at Carolina, was planning to come to ECTC this fall. But will not come now due to his ineligibility. Britt will be remembered for his outstanding playing while at Greenville High School a few years back.

Among those eligible to copy are four starters from last year. They are Frank Winesette, 200-pound end from Plymouth; center Willard Pendleton, Portsmouth, Va.; tackle R. B. Lee, Kingston; and tackle John Wyatt, Portsmouth, Va.

Last year reserves who will probably receive first string positions this season are Hubert Musselwhite, flashy halfback from Greenville; Amos Sexton, hard hitting guard from Alabama; Bill Kittrell, 200 pound plunging fullback from Winterville; Bob Eason, hard hitting guard from Tarboro, who was on the injured list last season; 210 pound tackle Red Walters, Oxford; and Jack Davis, shifty back from Kingston.

165 Students Make Spring Honor Roll

One hundred sixty-five students during the spring quarter had grades that merited the inclusion of their names on the honor list. Of these, 94 are men and 71 are women. The total registration for the spring quarter was 542 men and 570 women.

By classes, those having outstanding records for the spring are as follows: seniors, 40; juniors, 20; sophomores, 34; and freshmen, 61. The names of ten graduate students also appear.

Antoinette Bensley of Monroe, field representative for the South-eastern area of the Junior Red Cross with headquarters in Atlanta, spent the week consulting with teachers attending East Carolina and instructing them in the work of the Junior Red Cross, especially in its opportunities for child training and in such services as community health, international aid, and help for veterans.

Wider Participation In Sports Offered With Membership

Dorm Students Elect Summer Officers

Dormitory officers to direct student government activities for the summer session have been chosen.

Harry J. Jarvis, will serve as president of Wilson hall; and Joe F. Gregory, as secretary-treasurer. Members-at-large on the Student council are William F. Cherry, Thomas E. Casey, Joseph C. Brown, C. E. Mangum, Sidney W. Riddick, and Alan Stoddard.

Officers for Cotton hall are Anne Dill, president; Evelyn Peete, vice-president; Georgia King, secretary. Members-at-large are Nell Rose Ellis, Frances Gardner, Alta Lawson, Margaret W. Honeycutt, Laura Lynn Epper, and Barbara Selby.

Mrs. Susie H. Jackson, president; Helen J. Taylor, vice president; and Leta Howard, secretary, will direct activities in Fleming hall. Members-at-large are Mrs. Ann W. Meyer, Mrs. Geraldine B. Hagan, Mrs. Margaret W. Holmes, Mrs. Penelope Cuthbert, Mrs. Edna Matthews, and Katharine Thew.

Louise Caviness Attends Meeting In St. Louis

Louise Caviness, senior home economics and science major and president of the College Home Economics club of North Carolina, is attending the thirty-eighth annual meeting of the American Home Economics association in St. Louis on June 23 to 26.

The meeting will bring together representatives of colleges throughout the nation. A program planned to suggest improvements in college home economics clubs has been arranged. As chairman of the committee on plans for and follow-up programs for graduating seniors, Miss Caviness will take part in discussions of club projects.

The activities accompanying the meeting include a program at the St. Louis open-air opera, a trip on the Mississippi, and visits to several leading industrial organizations in St. Louis.

Redwine Awarded Scholarship

Anne Redwine, faculty member of the Training school, will represent North Carolina at a Parent-Teacher Leadership course to be conducted as a workshop at Northwestern university, Evanston, Illinois, on August 3-24.

She was recently awarded by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers a scholarship which designates her as one of a group of teachers selected over a wide area in the country to attend the workshop at Northwestern.

Through action of the Athletic Council, under the chairmanship of Dr. Carl L. Adams, East Carolina Teachers college has formally accepted an offer of membership in the North State Intercollegiate conference. Application for membership was made by the college several weeks ago and was accepted. The council's action completes the arrangements.

Membership in the North State conference offers East Carolina a wider participation in intercollegiate sports, according to Dr. Carl L. Adams. Other colleges in the conference are Lenoir-Rhyne, Guilford, Elon, Atlantic Christian, High Point, Catawba, Western Carolina, and Appalachian. ECTC has scheduled football games with four of these colleges.

Other conference contests will be in baseball, tennis, boxing, and track. Only extra-mural sport, such as softball, will remain under the present set-up.

Although a few of the star football players will be made ineligible to play, the action of the Athletic Council, a faculty-student alumni group, in joining the conference was met with general favor on the campus, according to an influential college official. The Board of Trustees at a recent meeting in Greenville and students at the college have expressed approval of an expanded athletic program.

Delta Kappa Gammias Elect Five Members

The election of five members of the Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, national honorary fraternity for women teachers has been announced by Elizabeth S. Walker, president of the organization.

Chosen as outstanding teachers from the seven counties included in the chapter, the new members are Laura Foley and Frances Lamb of Greenville, Nell Stallings of East Carolina, Emily Burt Person of Tarboro, and Mrs. Phebe Emmons of Washington. They will be formally initiated into the society at a meeting to be held in the fall.

Approximately 65 aspirants are expected to report to coaches James Johnson and Howard Porter on September 1 when the 1947 football practice gets underway.

With the rough schedule ahead, the boys will have to undergo a rough practice session if they come out on top, stated coach Johnson. Eight games have been scheduled for the Pirates, four of which will be played with teams of the North State conference.

The schedule is as follows: Sept. 27—Lenoir-Rhyne, here; October 4—Atlantic Christian college, Wilson; October 11—Elon, here; October 18—Erskine, Due West, S. C.; October 25—Apprentice School, Newport News, Va.; Nov. 8—University of Georgia, Savannah Division, here; Nov. 15—Western Carolina, Cullowhee; Nov. 22—Milligan college, here. A game with a team to be announced later will be scheduled for November 1st.

Cooke Studies Schools

Dr. Dennis H. Cooke has just completed a study of the Houston, Texas, city schools and, acting in an advisory capacity, has prepared a salary schedule for them which will be put into effect next September. Dr. Cooke spent several days in Houston last week working with the Houston Teachers association and the administration of the Houston city schools.

Queen For An Issue

by Amos Clark

Tilly Eakes

(Editors note—This begins a new feature in the Teco Echo, which will appear in each issue. The queen is selected by the staff. Figure, choice of clothes, and personality, as well as beauty, is considered in choosing the queen.)

Not to be outdone by Alka-Seltzer, the Teco Echo herewith inaugurates a new feature—"Queen for an Issue"—and herewith presents its first "Queen," a slim, brunette, brown-eyed bit of femininity going by the name of Tilly Eakes.

Tilly was born in and spent the first seventeen years of her life in Fuquay Springs, N. C., where she was once honored with the title of "Miss Fuquay Springs."

She has attended Louisburg and Meredith colleges and entered ECTC in the summer of 1946. Majoring in English and social studies, Tilly is planning on departing in June, 1948, with an A. B. certificate under her arm.

Tilly is a marshal and appeared last year in the Veterans and Kiwanis minstrels—each time in a bathing suit!

She likes all music (she doesn't consider "that hill billy stuff" music) and her favorites are Duke Ellington's "Sophisticated Lady," Paul Whiteman's "Rhapsody in Blue," and shades melancholy, Artie Shaw's "Gloomy Sunday" (the very song, incidentally, which several years ago precipitated a wave of suicides in central Europe).

She doesn't like sports, except as a spectator; and, following the near-drowning of a friend several years ago, she's afraid of water.

Tilly Eakes dotes on chow mein, candy, bread and "stuff" (stuff is her favorite word, she says—and we believe her!)

As for pages and words, her appreciation runs from Cyrano de Bergerac to Walter Benton's "This Is My Beloved."

Tilly, who make the final installment on her twenty-second year of life in October, likes people; and like most girls she has her "ideal," but says she'll wittingly "settle" for Slade.

Vital statistics: weight, 117 pounds; height, five feet seven inches; bust, 34 inches; waist, 23 inches; hips, 35 inches.

Wesley Foundation Entertains Students

Methodist students in the Summer Session at East Carolina Teachers college, and Methodist students of Greenville who are students at other colleges, were entertained on Thursday evening by the Wesley Foundation and the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Jarvis Memorial Church.

The Party was held in the Y-Hut on the campus from 6:30-8:00 p. m. and was a time of real fellowship and fun. Joan Oppelt was in charge of recreation, which included folk dances, "special features," and time for getting acquainted and conversation. Refreshments of ice cream, cookies and nuts were served by Ladies of the WSCS.

Wilson Dorm Being Remodeled For Fall Term

Work has begun on the remodeling of the north, first-floor wing of Wilson hall, men's dormitory at East Carolina, into a series of seven apartments, Dr. Dennis H. Cooke, college president, has announced.

The apartments, some of which will have two rooms and some, three, will be used by new faculty and staff members who will come to East Carolina in the fall. The housing shortage in Greenville has made it necessary for the college to provide temporary living quarters for newcomers to the campus. The apartments will be used until housing conditions in the city improve.

The work now being done includes the shutting off of the north wing from the rest of Wilson hall, the cutting of doors to join the present rooms into groups of two and three, the installing of additional plumbing and wiring, and the repainting of the wing. The apartments will be only partially furnished by the college.

Those who will occupy the new apartments will be the following new faculty and staff members and their families: Dr. J. K. Long, registrar; Dr. Allan S. Hurlburt, administration; Dr. John O. Reynolds, mathematics; Dr. Clarence J. Best, music; Dr. Hubert A. Coleman, history; Dr. John B. Shackford, English; and Dr. Niphi M. Jorgensen, health and physical education.

319 Evans Street Greenville, N. C.

The resignation, effective September 1, of Dr. Frederick P. Brooks, physician at East Carolina since 1925 and director of the health and physical education department, has been announced by Dr. Dennis H. Cooke, college president. Dr. C. F. Irons of Greenville has been appointed physician at the college to succeed Dr. Brooks and will begin his work in September.

After leaving the college Dr. Brooks will devote full time to his private practice. Commenting on the resignation, Dr. Cooke commended Dr. Brooks for his long and efficient service to the college.

A native of Monroe county, West Virginia, Dr. Irons has been a practicing physician in Greenville for the past eighteen months. He received his medical training at the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond and was also there for his internship. During World War II he was in the army and saw service in Europe. At the time of his discharge he was a major in the Medical Corps. On the campus he will direct health work and be in charge of the college infirmary. He will continue his practice in the city.

Dr. Irons' wife, Dr. Malons Grant Irons of Greenville, pediatrics specialist, is an alumna of East Carolina.

Boyd Raeburn Plays For Summer Dance

The annual East Carolina summer school dance was held Wednesday night in the Wright building, with music being furnished by the up-and-coming orchestra of Boyd Raeburn.

The highlight of the evening's activities was the announcement that Lynn Raper, a junior from Lucama, N. C., had been elected "Miss Summer School."

Johnny Corey, editor of the Teco Echo, which sponsored the "Miss Summer School" election, introduced a bouquet of red roses to Miss Raper. She was escorted by Paul T. Upehurch, an East Carolina sophomore.

After the recognition of "Miss Summer School" Corey announced to the dance crowd that Raeburn was celebrating his first wedding anniversary. He is married to Ginny Powell, his vocalist, who formerly sang with Harry James and his orchestra.

On the two days preceding their appearance here, Raeburn and his orchestra completed a musical "short subject" movie in New York city.

Miss Summer School

Lynn Raper Chosen 'Miss Summer School' In Student Election Held Last Week

by Marilyn Maxwell

Lynn Raper, charming young lady from Lucama, N. C., was elected "Miss Summer School" last week.

With commerce as her major, Lynn will enter the junior class in the fall. She is a transfer from WCUNC.

Lynn, who is five feet, four inches tall and 20 years old, will be in a beauty contest in Wilson, Friday, representing one of the stores. After that she is going to represent Lucama as beauty queen in the Tobacco Festival.

When asked about her favorites, Lynn told that she could listen to "That's My Desire" all day. In the reading line she prefers poetry with the emphasis on Browning, Jane Allynson and Guy Madison rank high in her list of movie favorites.

As for sports, our "Miss Summer School" places basketball on top and added that she was quite interested in many others. Lynn said that she could live happily on a diet of fried chicken and ice cream but that she had no grudge against any kind of food.

After she graduates, she does not have any definite plans. Lynn is just going to wait and let the future take care of itself.

Runner-ups for "Miss Summer School" were Hennie Ruth Whichard and Tilly Eakes.

Wiggins, ECTC Grad And Flight Instructor Leaves For Kent's Hill

Dorothy Wiggins, graduate of East Carolina and flight instructor at the Greenville Airport for the past three and half months, has completed her work here and has left the city for Kent's Hill Preparatory school.

During the time spent in Greenville Miss Wiggins conducted classes for 15 veterans, five of whom were registered for flight training and all for work in ground school. Classes were sponsored by the Barnes Aircraft company of Lumberton and Greenville.

Caviness Returns With New Ideas For Home Ec. Clubs

Louise Caviness, senior home economics and science major from Fuquay Springs who recently returned from an American Home Economics association convention in St. Louis, brought with her many ideas to improve the status of Home Economics clubs in North Carolina. Louise is president of the North Carolina Association of Home Economics clubs.

Throughout the convention there were exhibits of modern kitchen conveniences, television, and products for consumer use. Besides the exhibits, there were educational movies designed to help future home economists.

According to Miss Caviness, one of the most interesting speakers was Celeste Carlyle, stylist, artist, author, and lecturer from Chicago, Illinois, who spoke on "Making Beauty an Asset."

Each year the home economics clubs raise money for five international scholarships to be given to foreign students for study in this country. Of the students presented the scholarships, two are from Greece, one from China, one from India, and one from Sweden.

Dean Reassumes Duties In Miss White's Absence

Dean of Women Annie L. Morton has returned to the college after a vacation at her home in Beaufort, N. C., and will take over her duties for several weeks. Assistant Dean Ruth White, who during the summer has been in charge of student affairs in the women's dormitories, is spending a short time in New York City before returning to the college for the second summer session.

N. C. English Teachers Sponsor Conference

A work conference sponsored by the North Carolina English Teachers Institute was held in the Austin building July 9 from 10:00 in the morning to 4:00 in the afternoon. The theme of the conference was "Grammar and the Teaching of Grammar."

The conference, under the direction of Dr. Meredith N. Posey, was one of several being sponsored in colleges of the state by the North Carolina English Teachers Association.

Dining Hall Staff

Pictured above is the dining hall staff whose job is to see to it that you get the right and best kind of foods. Reading left to right are Miss Camille B. Clarke, Mrs. L. L. Rives, Paul R. Julian, and Mrs. A. A. Harrell.

Miss Clarke has served as dietitian at the college since July, 1946. A native of Lake Landing, Hyde county, N. C., she received her education at ECTC, and graduated in 1940 in Home Economics. Prior to coming back to ECTC, she taught Home Economics at Englehard, Severn, and Rich Square high schools.

Virginia born Mrs. L. L. Rives has served eleven years as stewardess at ECTC. She holds an AB degree from Sullins college in Bristol, Tenn., and was manager of the Greenville high school cafeteria before coming to East Carolina. Mother of two children, Mrs. Rives has made her home in Greenville for the past 25 years.

Paul R. Julian, who came to ECTC this summer, has been in the cafeteria business most of his life. Hailing from Norfolk, Va., Mr. Julian serves as steward in charge of the new cafeteria. He has been manager of the Associated Terminal Restaurants and owner of the well-known Fairwater Seafood Restaurant in Norfolk.

During the war he was in charge of fifteen ship-service cafeterias and canteens operated by the Navy in the Norfolk area. Before that time he had worked for thirteen years with Child's restaurants in Norfolk, New York, Washington, and Newark, N. J.

Mrs. A. A. Harrell, who hails from Georgia in the deep-deep south, has served as dietitian for 12 years. She received her education at Peabody college, University of Tennessee, and University of Georgia. She taught grammar grades at Waycross, Douglas, and Eastman, Ga., prior to coming to ECTC.
