Alumni Homecoming Set For Tomorrow

'Many Good Things Happen Over A Cup Of Hot Coffee'

by Dick Powers
"Many good things happen over coffee."
This is not an idle statement, for many good things do happen over coffee, especially at the Wesley Foundation Student center. This interesting name should not discourage interest because it is really a place where Methodist students (and others who are interested) may enjoy, very informally, good conversation, good music (everything from Gounod to Goodman), and good coffee.
An atmosphere of friendly controversy reigns in the conversation, of avid appreciation among those who enjoy music, and of perfect satisfaction in the consumption of the coffee. This is not a place where poker-faced individuals gather to discuss learned theological treatises, but is rather like the home of a close friend into which one may drop at almost any time in order to have a chat, enjoy refreshments, peruse a magazine or newspaper, play records, and be on one's way whenever one is so inclined. All of this goes to the building of the wholesome relationships that are so desirable and necessary to the college student.
Every Sunday morning at Jarvis Memorial church, a student Bible class is led by Miss Mamie Chandler, who is director of the Wesley foundation.
Immediately after dinner on Sunday afternoons the students begin to drop in at the center, which is located on Fifth street opposite Wilson hall. Around five o'clock they gather in the kitchen, where until 6:45 they may eat their bag suppers, supplementing them from the ice-box. From seven until eight there is a group discussion, after which the usual informal activities are resumed.
There are approximately 500 Methodist students on the campus, and they may certainly find their "Home away from home" at the Wesley Foundation center. The center is open not only at the hours already

Krausnick Joins Math Department

Dr. Walter Krausnick of Brighton, Nova Scotia, has joined the faculty of East Carolina and has begun work as a member of the science and the mathematics departments. He will conduct classes in physics and mathematics.
A specialist in electrical engineering, Dr. Krausnick has had a wide experience in both education and industry. He holds master's degrees from both Texas A and M college and the University of Texas and the doctor's degree from the University of Michigan.
As an educator he has been a faculty member at colleges and universities including Texas A and M; Washington university, St. Louis; Shurtleff college, Alton, Illinois; and the University of Arizona.
During the war he was with the Army Air Forces, Material Center, Dayton Ohio, as an electrical engineer. Later he worked with the General Motors Corporation as senior engineer on the mathematical analysis of airplane propeller vibrations.
Dr. Krausnick is the last to arrive on the campus of five new faculty members added to the college staff because of the large enrollment of students at the beginning of the fall quarter.

Biology Students Visit Morehead City

Twenty-three students of biology spent Wednesday, October 19, in Morehead City, collecting materials for zoological study.
Dr. Harold C. Jones, faculty member of the department of science at the college, was in charge of arrangements for the trip and accompanied the group.
With Captain George Purifoy as skipper, the students made a trip by boat along the sound, where they collected marine animals for study in their college classes.

Switcheroo Replaces Truelovin' At Easy Teasy

by Bernard West
other at understood times and under stood places.
This practice has (or had been, up until recently) long been a dominating feature in the extra-curriculum at dear ol' "Easy Teasy." In fact, it reached its ultimate peak last winter, almost completely enveloping the entire student body. (Many knots were tied due to that rampage). However, it is definite and evident that "true lovin'" is giving way to "switcharoo."
Now, "switcharoo," like "true lovin'," speaks for itself. There are always those poor dopes, though, who can't even fathom the meaning of such simple words as vraisemblance or xylobalsam. So, another definition is forthcoming.
"Switcharoo" is just what the name implies. It is the act of switching from one thing to another. How this term applies to the datingistic phase of East Carolina life should be discernable to even the lowest intellects, after a two-day campusological observation.
Alas, 'tis true. Be it ever so painful, 'tis true, 'tis true! Dear ol' ECTC

Honeycutt, Stokes Lead Senior Superlative List

Twenty-five "senior superlatives" of the class of 1948 have been chosen by their classmates in an election which has just been held at the college under the direction of Francis Coiner, president of the senior class.
Chosen as the best-all-round among senior men is Clark Stokes, who also was named the most popular man in his class. Margaret Honeycutt was selected as the best-all-round woman student and also carried off the honors for women as the most popular and the best dancer.
Fred Martin, president of the student body, was elected as the best leader among seniors and as the friendliest man in the class. Ruth M. Lassiter of Four Oaks was chosen as the student most likely to succeed.
Other students included among the superlatives are Mrs. Frances Sutton Bailey and Amos Sexton, most athletic; Hennie Ruth Wichard, friendliest woman and most talented student; John Thigpen, best personality; Mattie Harris Mayo, most sincere; Belvin Beck and Tillie Eakés, best dressed; Elizabeth Carter, most intellectual; Dorothy Powell, most capable; Barbara Selby, wittiest; Hubert Bergeron, most original; Dorothy Bennett, most dependable; Joe Lassiter, best dancer and handsomest student among senior men; Annette Pridger, most studious.
Photographs of the senior superlatives will be included in a special section of the 1948 edition of the Teccon, East Carolina student yearbook.

Freshmen Elect Class Officers

Gilbert Carroll of Weldon was chosen president of the college freshman class at an election held last week. He will hold office during the 1947-1948 term and will direct student activities for freshmen during their first year of college life. Carroll, who entered East Carolina this fall, is specializing in English and social studies.
Other officers elected by the freshmen are Tempe McIntyre of Red Oak, vice president; Florence Boerckel of Baltimore, Md., secretary; Billy Sutton of Greenville, treasurer; Helen McLawhorn of Winterville and Bessie Ray Bass of Halifax, reporters on the staffs of student publications; and Peggy McGlohn of Winterville, representative on the student legislative body.
Ellen R. Caldwell of the department of mathematics and Dr. A. D. Frank, director of the department of social studies, were chosen by the freshmen as their faculty advisors. They will serve as counselors for the class through 1951.
June Bass, president of the junior class, was in charge of all arrangements for the election of freshman officers.

Dr. U. M. Jorgensen Directs Physical Ed Department

by Charles R. Williams
Among the faculty newcomers on the East Carolina Teachers college campus this fall is Dr. Nephi M. Jorgensen of Rigby, Idaho, who has replaced Dr. Frederick P. Brooks as director of the department of physical education.
Dr. Jorgensen holds the B. S. degree from Utah State, the M. S. degree from the University of Oregon, and the Ph. D. degree from the State University of Iowa. As a faculty member and student, Dr. Jorgensen has been in colleges and universities from coast to coast. He has taught at Defiance college, Ohio; at Plattsburg State Teachers college, New York; and prior to coming to East Carolina Teachers college, he was a faculty member at Vallejo college, California.
Dr. Jorgensen says of East Carolina Teachers college:
"I've been on the West coast, the East coast, and places in between, but I've never been in such a friendly atmosphere. The location of East

Notice Veterans!

All veterans attending ECTC who have not received their subsistence allowance checks by noon on November 10 are advised that a prompt report should be made to Mr. Bryant, Veterans Administration Training Officer in the Armory building, not later than 3:00 p.m. that day.
Mr. Bryant will submit via telephone to the Winston-Salem, N. C. office all names and C numbers of those who report non receipt of subsistence payments on that date. This plan will be carried out November 10 through November 14. Veterans are urged to report each day in person to Mr. Bryant between the hours of 1:00 p.m. and 3:00 p.m. through the above dates unless subsistence payment is received. Telephone calls will be made daily to the Winston-Salem office for the submission of all names and C numbers of veterans who report non receipt of subsistence allowance.
It will be assumed by Mr. Bryant that a veteran reporting on Nov. 10 the non receipt of subsistence allowance has subsequently received payment unless he continues to report each day through November 14, with the exception of Nov. 11, a federal holiday. Only the names and C numbers of veterans who report daily to Mr. Bryant will be submitted.

Program Includes Tea Dance, Football Game

W. E. Marshall Homecoming Committee Head

The first Alumni Homecoming Day since the end of the war will be held on the East Carolina campus tomorrow.
The November Alumni Bulletin, which was in the form of an invitation to Homecoming, has been mailed to approximately 7,000 former students of the college by the college Alumni office.
Alumni returning to their Alma Mater for Homecoming will register in the Alumni office tomorrow morning.
The program will officially open at one o'clock with a luncheon for alumni in the north dining room. Mr. W. E. Marshall, chairman of the Homecoming committee, will serve as master of ceremonies at the luncheon.
The Collegians, directed by Herbert Carter, will furnish music for a tea dance in Wright auditorium from three until five o'clock. Students, as well as alumni and faculty members, are invited to the tea dance and are requested to dress semi-formally for the occasion.
The football game between the East Carolina Pirates and the Little Creek Amphibious team, at eight o'clock in the Guy Smith stadium, will conclude the Homecoming activities.
Members of the Homecoming committee, in addition to Mr. Marshall, are Coach James Johnson and Misses Ruth White, Eunice McGee and Elizabeth Hyman.

Editors Make Staff Changes

Thomas Larkins, Charles Williams and Carl Conner, all of whom joined the TECO ECHO staff this fall as reporters, have been appointed associate editors by Amos Clark and Ella Cashwell, co-editors-in-chief of the TECO ECHO.
Assisted by Jack Hedgepeth, publicity director of the athletic teams, and Jimmy Futrell, formerly sports editor and managing editor of the Greenville high school paper, Bernard West is sports editor of the college newspaper for the second straight year.

Jimmy Jarvis, who worked in the same capacity last year, is art editor. Business manager Betsy Parkerson is being assisted in solicitation by five associate business managers, who are Ellen Clark, Enid Pettway, Ruth Stevens.
Dr. Lucile Charles gave a reading of the current Broadway play, "John Loves Mary" at a meeting of the Poe Society on Monday, October 20.

Oh, Happy Sadie Hawkins Day!

Pi Omega Pi Elects Five New Members

The Beta Kappa chapter of Pi Omega Pi, national honorary business education fraternity, has elected five students of East Carolina to become members of the organization. Those chosen to join the fraternity were selected because of outstanding scholastic records in the business education department.
New members include Mariam Averette, graduate student; Ophelia Bokin, junior; Paul Craver, senior; Wade L. Woodley, junior; and John M. Young, junior.
A pledge service will be held for these initiates on November 13, and a formal initiation of new members will take place in December. In charge of arrangements for these events are Dorothy Bennett of Edward, who is president of the fraternity, and Audrey V. Dempsey, faculty member of the business education department and sponsor of the local unit of Pi Omega Pi.
Frostie Thompson, junior, has been elected as secretary of the Beta Kappa chapter at the college and will hold office for the 1947-48 term.

Hardaway Speaks

The Rev. Mr. Richard A. Hardaway, of the Memorial Baptist church in Greenville, was the guest speaker at Chapel on October 28. His theme was "To Every Man His Work."

Welcome Alumni

Your coming to our campus again causes us to be very happy. We trust that every moment you are here will be filled with pleasurable experiences and happy memories. If you have any troubles, forget them all, become completely Epicurean as well as Platonic. It's have a good time together. Your Alma Mater needs you and your support. In return, if we can help you in any way, just make your demands and if humanly possible, they will be fulfilled. Be sure to let me meet you, tell me where you're from and what you are doing. I'll be about!

J. D. Messick, President

Today it is the privilege of East Carolina Teachers College to welcome the former sons and daughters of this great institution back home. This is the day—YOUR DAY—here, and we hope that you enjoy every minute of your visit. The doors of East Carolina Teachers College are open wide to you.

When you compare the college of today with the college you attended as students, we hope you bubble over with enthusiasm and with love for your Alma Mater, and that you continue to give it that great support in the future which you have in the past in order that East Carolina Teachers College may go on to even greater achievements than it has accomplished in days gone by.

With an administration, a faculty, and a student body cooperating in perfect fashion, together with a closely-knit and co-operatively-functioning alumni, the heights to which East Carolina may go will be amazing.

It is our hope that you enjoy the day, and that when you return to your homes you can say with real devotion: "THAT'S MY ALMA MATER."

Sincerely yours,
W. E. Marshall
Dean of Men and Director of Student Affairs

Women Day Students Show Initiative

For many years the college day students have elected men's and women's day student committees every spring or fall. For many years these committees have been defunct organizations which were unworthy of the space their names occupied in the student handbook.

In recent times two rooms in the basement of the Austin building were designated as the men's day student and women's day student rooms. These two rooms, in which students could pass time between classes, have long been barren, decoration-forsaken places.

This year, however, the women's day student committee, under the leadership of its president, Mattie Harris Mayo, has exhibited unusual initiative in undertaking a campaign for the redecoration of the women's day student room.

Below are excerpts from a recent notice to the women day students:

"For many years we have had to spend our free time between classes in a room which is regrettably referred to as the 'Hole.' At long last we are in a position to redecorate this room, to make it one of which we can be

It gives me great pleasure to welcome you back to your campus. The entire faculty, student body, and staff have been looking forward to this occasion with great joy. Our welcome is wholehearted because we know that you are very much a part of the two most significant of the world's endeavors. Long before you came here as students, as well as today, it has been the consensus of people everywhere that a country's well being and happiness depends upon the role played by teachers and parents. Although your work during the past several years in both of these capacities has not been easy, it has been well done. The many struggles and too numerous for adequate discussion here. We all fully recognize the reputation of E. C. T. C. rests with you. We also know that we have cause to be exceedingly pleased with the manner in which you have accepted this responsibility. Again I should like to welcome you and express my sincere hope that your visit here will be both pleasant and inspiring.

Leo W. Jenkins,
Dean of Instruction

Easy There, Bub, We're Too Young To Die

In this post-war era of reconstruction, rehabilitation, communism, unions, the UN, Russianism, Russianocracy, and just plain Russia, there is another mighty important reality that we must face—the reality of careless drivers.

Education is the most powerful force we have for preparing ourselves for the giant problems of tomorrow's world, the world in which we, the students of today, will be the educators, the lawmakers, and the leading citizens in every field. There is no other country in the world that can boast so proudly of its vast opportunities and resources, educational or otherwise. But while we avail ourselves to these opportunities here at East Carolina Teachers College, eliminating natural causes, we have not more than a fifty-fifty chance of seeing one day disappear, and a brilliant new day take its place.

On the East Carolina campus, not a single day passes that we don't see numerous automobiles speeding across the grounds, speeding at rates that dwarf the fifteen mile per hour speed limit. Persons guilty of this malefaction—faculty, students, staff, proud, but only through your cooperation and help.

"In order to accomplish our objective we need funds; the Budget Committee is considering an appropriation for this purpose (Ed. note: the student legislature recently approved a $300 appropriation for the women's day student committee), but we need to supplement this amount by about $100. We are confident that you will be willing to contribute something to this fund. An estimate based on the number of women day students enrolled places the individual's share at $1. If you cannot afford to give this much, please give what you can; it will be an investment which will pay dividends."

or townspeople—are too immature and incompetent to possess a driver's license.

Crazy-drivers are not only prevalent on our campus; they are rampant everywhere. Statistics show that more than one million persons are injured yearly in automobile accidents. In a place as congested as the college campus, where there are more than fourteen hundred students, plus faculty and staff, drivers should be doubly careful. At any time, speeding motorists on the campus are potential killers, not only of themselves, but of innocent pedestrians and bystanders as well.

This is an appeal for everyone guilty of speeding on the East Carolina Teachers College campus to please be more careful. Not only will you be protecting your fellow students, acquaintances, and friends, but you'll be protecting yourself. Think it over!

Scumming

Sam Snell, you seem to know all the answers. Do you know the questions too, Mr. Anthony?

Rusty Parker, you are one darned cute girl. You are—in spite of those green finger nails.

Those ringing sounds in your ears are just the wedding bells giving out for Reg and Betty Griffin, who spliced their lives together recently. Best wishes, congratulations, felicitations and all that kind of stuff, kids.

Did you ever see Virgil Clark when he didn't have that mischievous, don't-give-a-damn-about-anything look in his eyes or when he wasn't table-hopping in the soda shop?

Catfish Baines saw what he liked and he liked what he saw—so he went after it. Well, we saw him with Hilda once anyway. Catfish says he wishes he'd been born rich instead of so good looking.

Student Spotlight

by Thomas G. Larkins

Marilynn Maxwell, a senior, is probably one of the hardest working students we have ever seen. Yet she has not allowed assiduous labor to suppress her ready wit and pleasant demeanor.

We expected to find her in a state of general dementia paralytica as a result of her work on the '47 Tecoan, but when we finally found her in the Tecoan staff room, her only discouraging comment was, "Get lost, whydntcha!" From there the interview continued smoothly.

Marilynn is a Yankee by birth, since her first innoxious innuendos were uttered in Columbus, Ohio, but what year she wouldn't say. Seeing the light, however, she accompanied her parents first to Tennessee, then to the western part of North Carolina. She graduated from high school in Statesville in 1945. That same year she matriculated at East Carolina to get a B.S. in English and music. She wishes that all her music teachers would understand that music is her minor and consequently there is no reason for her to learn to play the flute with her toes.

Marilynn's experience in life are unparalleled in history, since by her own admission she dated a student from Chapel Hill when only twelve years old (he got married a week later). We wish we could tell you more but she slammed up after this startling revelation.

A chronological report on her activities and pursuits here at East Carolina reads like a complete list of extracurricular activities offered, for Marilyn seems to have had her finger in every pie. She has been associate editor of the Teco Echo and the Tecoan (editor this year), poetry editor of Pieces o' Eight, business manager of the Teco Echo last summer, and she has been a member of the English club, Music Education club, Women's chorus, College singers, and the Emer-charms (?). (We hear that it makes Frank mighty happy to get his name in this column. We're always willing to oblige.)

There's a rumor going around that a certain professor here got plastered last week. Seems he was sitting in his office when a piece of the ceiling fell and smacked him on the head. Fooled yuh, didn't we?

It seems that some things just go on and on and on, like the sun and the moon and the stars (romantic cusses, ain't we?). Like, for example, the romances of Baxter and Dean, C. B. and Betsy, L. M. and Margery; things like this sometimes end tragically, you know—in marriage.

Do You Agree?

by Estelle Jones

Girls' progress has been a gradual one, becoming more marked as both men and women realize that one could not advance far without the other.

The ECTC boys seem to be well informed on the question of what they think of the girls here at the college, but when asked their opinion, they seemed to fumble for words, not knowing what to say.

William Hill—"I like them a lot; that's all."

Jack Gurganus—"I think the women here are lovely; the more I see them, the more I feel like eating them up."

"Beefy" Blades—"I don't think nothing."

Stewart Daniels—"I'm of the impression that the freshman girls are not studying."

Ike Davis—"Well—Must I commit myself?"

J. B. Edwards—"The girls here are son society. How she ever found time to subdue Hubert we'll never know.

Everyone who knows Marilyn is sure to believe that her favorite hobby is talking. We hereby dub her "Yakity Yak" Maxwell. Her favorite expression by her own admission is "Drop dead, Hubert!" When she isn't kabitizing, she likes to listen to Perry Como singing "Temptation" and eat lemon pie (not of the dining hall variety, however). Aside from these preferences, Marilyn would rather travel to conventions than any other place. Next to this she delights in sleeping the clock around. And last but not least she loves short stories, the shorter the better.

Her great ambitions are to get out the 1946 Tecoan and to study journalism at Ohio State.

Marilynn's graduation next year will bring a great loss to our college. Her unselfish participation in activities, her ever-present humor and her unbounded capability are characteristics well worth emulating by any student.

pretty nice. They are not at all conceited like they are in some schools."

Baxter Gray—"I like Dean."

Carl Kinlaw—"There are good and bad in every crowd and ECTC is no exception."

Bennett—"Some of the girls are snobs and they know who they are; otherwise, the other 98% are O.K."

Eric Whichard—"They are a swell bunch of girls."

Ellie Fearing—"I think they are really swell."

Ray Long—"I have no right to think." (Ray is married.)

All in all, it seems that the "Easy Teasy" males are either favorably impressed with the opposite sex or are afraid to speak their minds.

Freshmen, Let's Start Off Right

(Letter to Freshmen)

John Dickinson once said, "By uniting we stand, by dividing we fall." As beginning freshmen of East Carolina it is our duty to unite early. One of the best ways to do this is to attend all class meetings and support them wholeheartedly.

Friday night, October 24, the freshmen class held its first class meeting for the purpose of nominating officers. Our presence as freshmen was requested and our interest expected. For some unknown reason, however, attendance was much below that expected. In fact, out of approximately 425 freshmen only about 51 (or around 12%) were present.

This was a sure indication of a lack of interest, sportsmanship, and school spirit (That thing which is more talked about than demonstrated). Participation in our class election and in its other activities without a doubt reveals our interest, not only in our class, college, and classmates, but in ourselves as well. This being so, if we are not interested in our class, college, and classmates, how can we be true to our own cause?

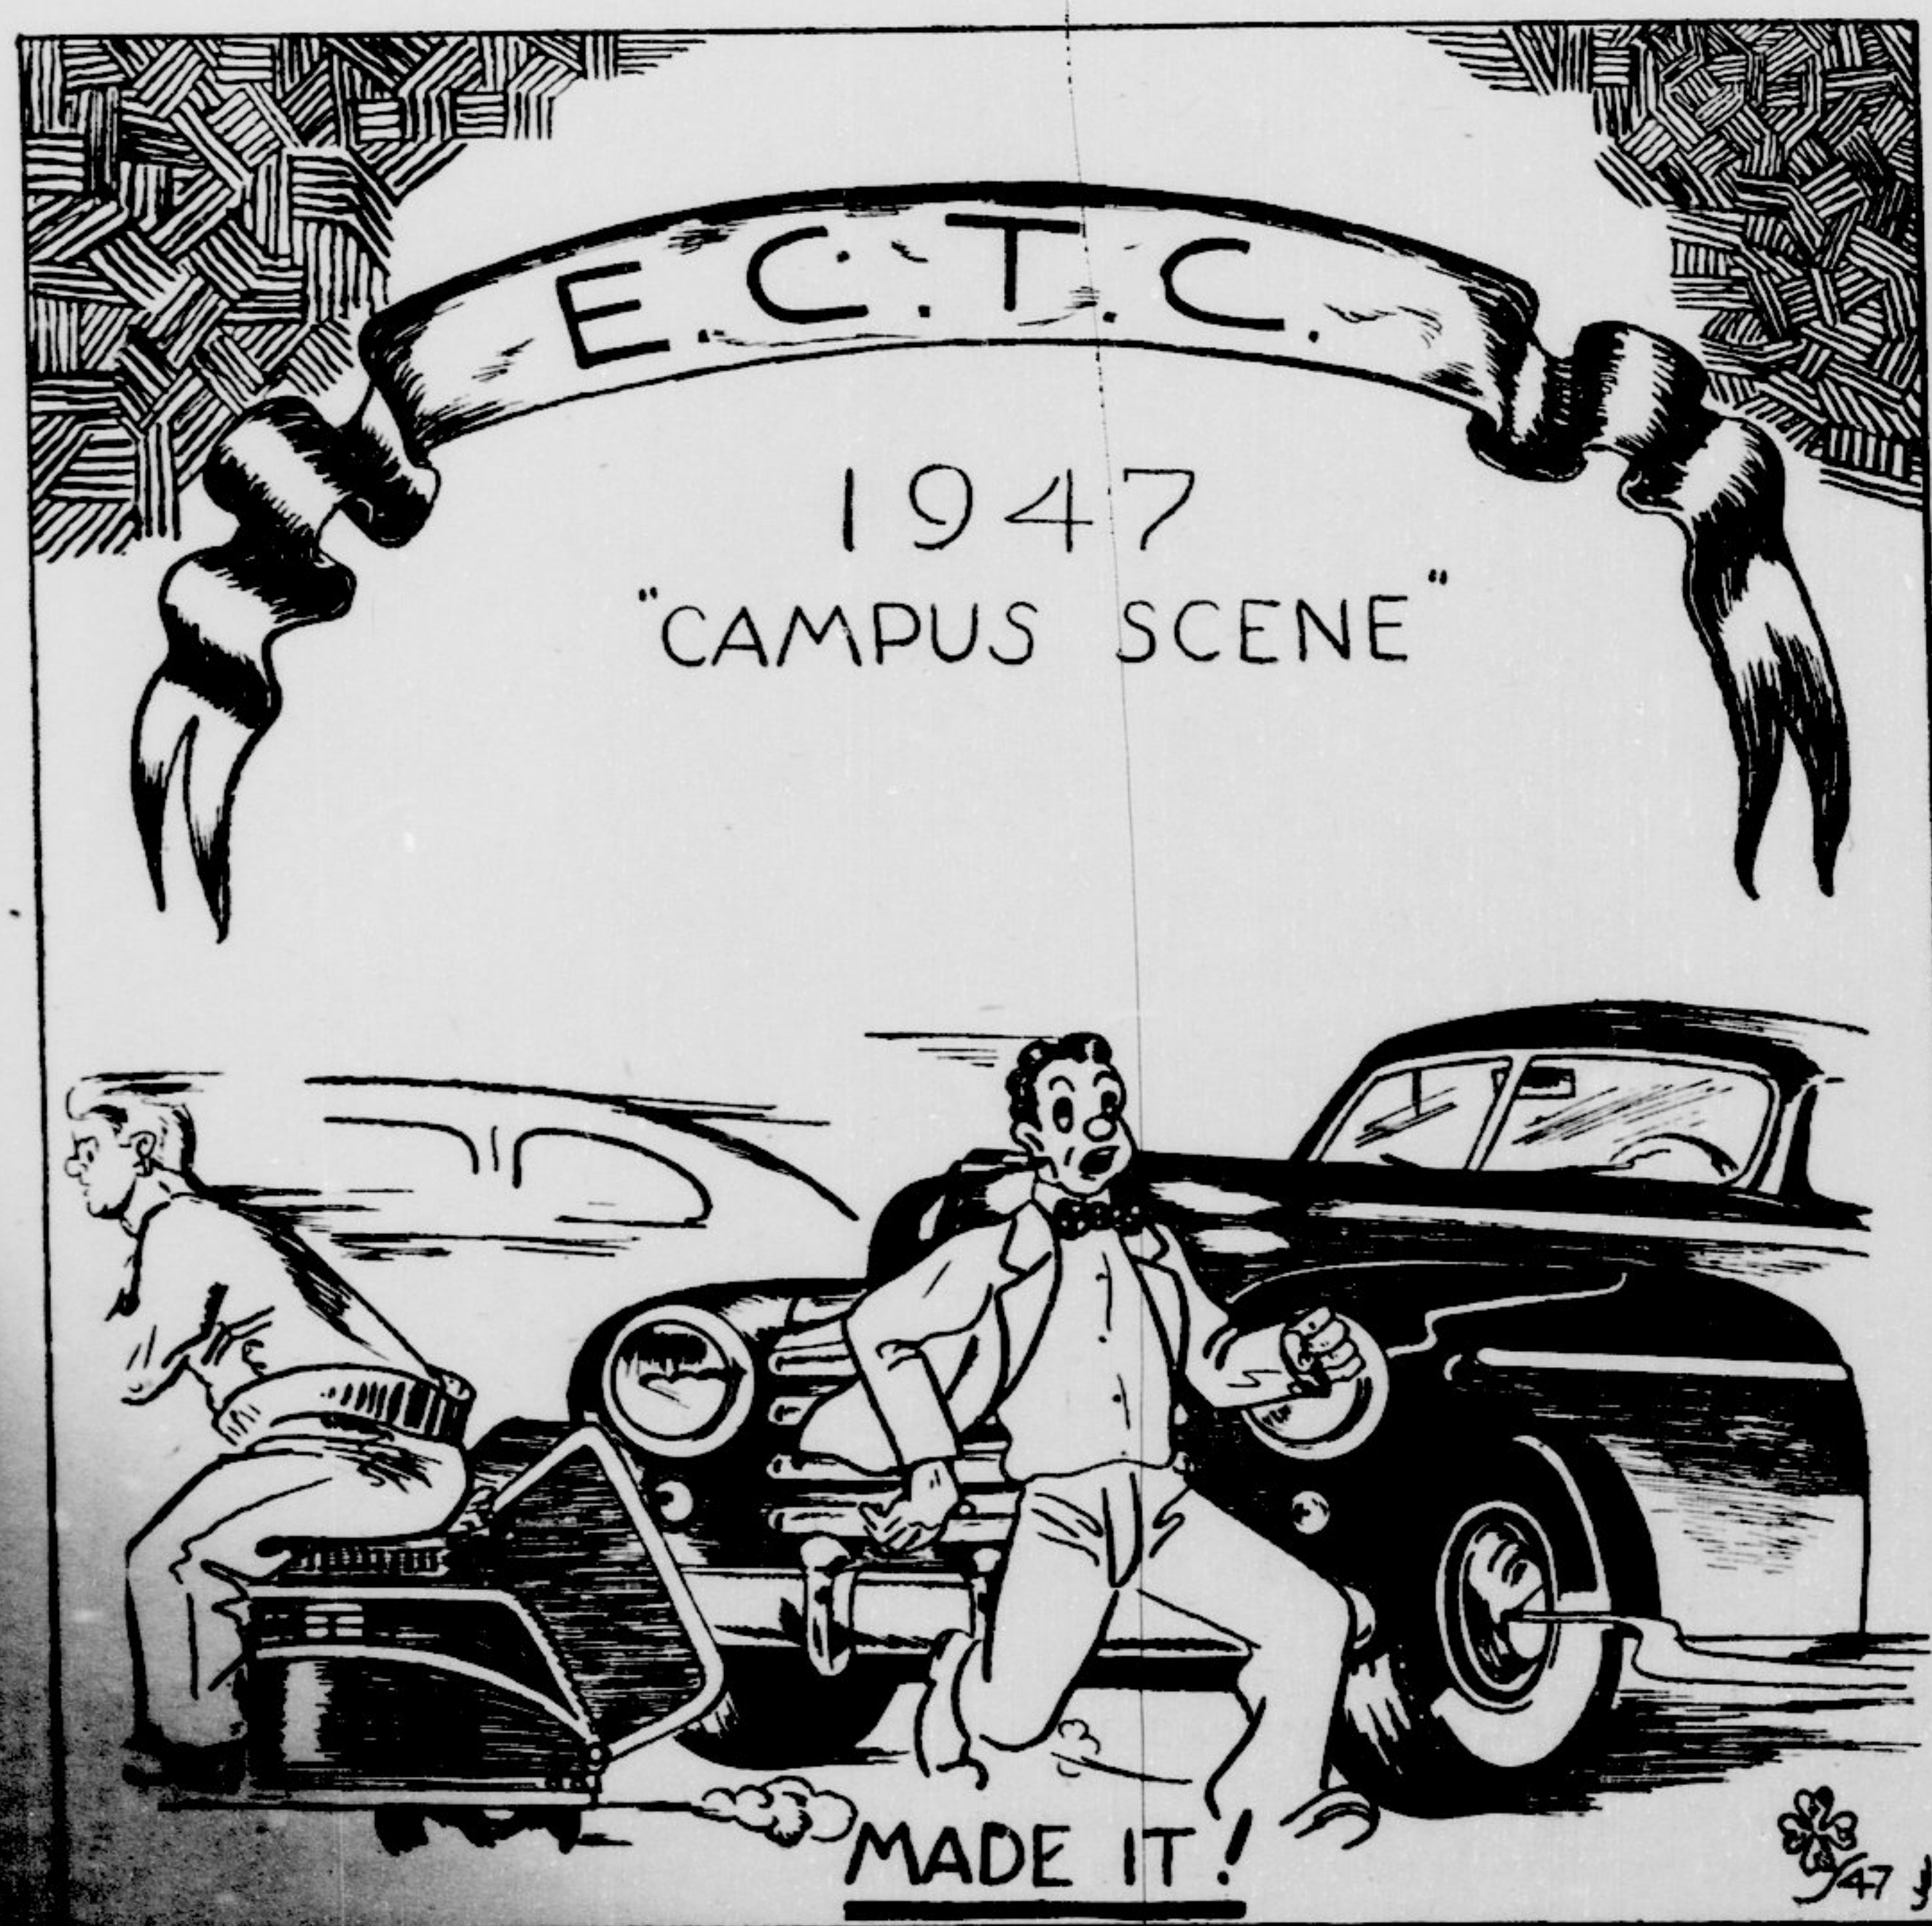

Reasons are accepted for absence but pointless excuses such as some of us have given, are not. With some special effort on our part and a daily check-up on the bulletin board, our election could have been carried on much more efficiently.

Freshmen, let us take inventory and see that we are not starting off on the wrong foot as other classes before us have. Let us profit by their mistakes.

Do You Get News Late?

Are you a student who just seems to get all the news too late. If so, ask yourself if you are the one to be blamed.

The bulletin board has daily bulletins which may concern you. Form the habit of reading it at least once a day. To be educated you must be informed.

The course in boxing which is being introduced into the athletic program of East Carolina should be one of the most worthwhile strides toward greater achievements the department has made in years.

Boxing, which was a major sport in ECTC during the late '30's, was the only sport to fade into non-existence in the war years. The era of boxing in East Carolina produced several top-notch boxing squads. The matches that were held here always drew many fans from around this territory.

The revival of this popular sport promises to fill several needs. For one thing, it will furnish a great number of East Carolina men with much-needed recreation. Secondly, it will bolster the athletic program considerably in that it will widen the variety of available sports at ECTC, thereby giving a fuller athletic program to present the public. It will provide a source of diversion for the students and the public that will be entirely new to many and highly entertaining to all.

Let us cast an inquiring light into the past future and try to perceive the destiny of our 1948 Pirate cagemen.

Being optimistically prophetic, this writer sees a bright and successful future.

True optimism is backed by the fact that nearly all of last year's regulars and reserves will be back this coming season. The 1947 Buc quint was a strong aggregation, a crack-jack team that in many opinions, was capable of handling any of the 1947 North State conference quints with comparative ease.

In addition to the return of last year's power, additional high-class case performers are reportedly among the new crop of freshman males that invaded our campus this fall.

Watch, with cheerful prognostication, for the commencement of the 1948 Pirate cage battles and a strong bid to cop the N. S. conference basketball championship by the Bucs in this, their first conference debut!

A little of the winning punch that has been sought after has been found by the Pirate gridironmen in the last two encounters.

The Busters looked good on several occasions in the Newport News battle and a few sparks of improvement were shown here and there in the scrap with the 82nd Airborne lads from Fort Bragg.

Here's hoping those sparks continue to flare up and that the locals can stretch their conquer-string to three straight tomorrow night.

Intramural basketball has again settled its vestige upon the active athletic program of East Carolina. This intramural sport seems to always prosper very favorably in our dear Alma Mater.

With an earlier start than usual, and a seemingly better organized set-up than usual, this season's chapter of the ever-popular intramural activity should successfully flourish beyond all preceding episodes.

Bucs, Gobs Clash In Homecoming Game

Basketball Drills Begin For 1947-48 Pirate Cagemen

The East Carolina Teachers college Pirate basketball team, playing for the first time this year as a member of the North State conference, have begun earnest preparation for the coming hardwood season.

Since last Wednesday Coach Howard Porter has been drilling some 30-odd candidates daily on play formation, and in general, attempting to get the boys rounded into condition.

The nucleus of the 1947-48 team is expected to be formed, for the most part, around the eight returning lettermen. They are Larry James, Charlie Bill Moyer, Snag Clark, Jack Everton, Ben Harrison, Blaney Moyer, Jim Taylor and Russel Gaylord. Jack Wilson and "Red" Sepler are also counted on by Coach Porter to play prominent roles in the season plans.

Lost to the Pirates will be such mainstays as Tom Cox and Doug Jones.

According to Coach Porter the Pirates will play an eighteen game schedule—10 conference and eight non-conference games.

physical fitness program for the Navy.

While coach and athletic officer at the naval air station, Alameda, California, his record was outstanding, producing championship teams in football, baseball, basketball, softball, and tennis.

Before entering the Navy in early 1942, Mr. Harris taught and coached at Glendale High School, Kenil, North Carolina, and while in the Navy played on many service teams. He graduated from East Carolina in 1939, and attended graduate school at the University of North Carolina in 1940.

At the present, the new director resides in San Francisco, where he is widely known in the sporting world. Recently, he collaborated with Mr. Chester McPhee, present candidate for mayor of San Francisco, in promoting an Army-Navy baseball game in Seal Stadium, with the proceeds going for the benefit of under-privileged children and for preventing juvenile delinquency.

The Baby Pirates will meet the Campbell "B" squad in Guy Smith stadium Tuesday afternoon, November 11, at 2 p. m.

Last year's encounter between these two squads was one of the best games of the year, with the locals trimming Campbell, 13-6.

Sports Managers For WAA Selected

Managers of sports sponsored by the Women's Athletic association of East Carolina were elected for the 1947-1948 school term at a meeting held in the Wright building on the campus on Thursday evening, October 23.

Those in charge of activities for the year include Florence Boerckel, softball; Nancy Zachary, hiking; Elizabeth Glasgow, soccer; Hilda Priest, bicycling; Louise Gurley, volley ball; Peggy McGlohn, bowling; Patsy McGlohn, basketball; Lola Beacham, hockey; Virginia Floyd, archery; and Mary Robinson, individual sports.

Elsie Carver was elected treasurer of the WAA and Helen Duncan of Murfreesboro as reporter for the "Teco Echo." Twenty-three new members were initiated into the organization.

Locals Triumph Over Apprentice In Newport News

by Jack Hedgepeth

The East Carolina Pirates, rolling up and down the field for three quarters and a net gain of 272 yards on the ground and 32 yards through the air lanes for a total of 18 first downs, finally pushed over two TD's in the last quarter. Led by the brilliant playing of Ellie Fearing, the locals spanked the Newport News Apprentice school lads by a 14-6 count. Fearing accounted for 109 yards rushing and 23 through the air.

Touchdown number one for the Bucs came midway the final quarter. With the ball resting on the opponents' 23 yard line, and fourth down coming up, Fearing dropped back to pass. He went to his left, reversed his field when rushed, and on a spectacular sprint went to the seven before being pulled down. This was easily the outstanding play of the evening and the turning point for the Pirates. Three plays later, Ellie bucked over from the two. Pete Everette's kick was good and the 40-yard stripe.

On the first play from scrimmage after receiving the ensuing kick-off, an Apprentice back fumbled and alert Roger Thrift recovered for the locals on the Apprentice 24 yard marker.

Intramural Sports Begin For 1947-48

by Jimmy Futrell

The intramural program for the 1947-48 school year began officially on Tuesday, October 21, with the launching of intramural basketball play.

According to Dr. Jorgensen, head of the intramural program, approximately 12 squads or 100 men are expected to compete in the round-robin tournament. The Manteo Redskins, winners of last year's intramural basketball tourney, are defending champions and are again labeled as "the team to beat for the school championship."

Anyone is eligible to play who did not win a letter in basketball at the college last year. Dr. Jorgensen has ruled that no one is eligible to play both intramural and junior varsity or varsity basketball.

After the first round of the tournament, it will be too late to file entry in the tournament. All who plan to enter a team, and have not done so, are urged to do so immediately.

The entire intramural basketball program will be based on a point system; awards will be made to the highest scoring team and to the highest scoring individual.

Amphibs Boast Powerful Squad To Face Pirates

by Jack Hedgepeth

The Little Creek Amphibs, rated as one of the best service teams in the east, steam in tomorrow to face the Pirates of East Carolina Teachers in the Homecoming game, scheduled to begin promptly at 8 o'clock in Guy Smith stadium.

The navy squad is the best team that has presented itself here and has a record of five wins, two ties and one loss. That loss was to the Portsmouth Pirates, a professional team, by a 14-6 verdict. The Amphibs have racked up 149 points and have held their opponents to 33 markers in the eight games played, and boast a starting line-up averaging 199 pounds. The first team is strengthened by four men who have seen action at Georgia, Rice, Notre Dame and Texas universities.

In readying themselves for this foray, the Bucs have raced through one of their best weeks of practice. Pushed on by the thought of upsetting the favored sailors, the locals have shown excellent spirit, knowing well that a win over this club will merit state-wide recognition.

Riddled by injuries, the Buccaneers have finally rounded back into top strength. The return of Bill Darby and Henry Borneman, along with the continued fine play of reserves Sam Stell, Johnny Smith, Micky Wetherington and a host of others, has bolstered the Pirates' chances considerably.

Realizing that the Amphib line is going to be exceptionally strong, Coach Johnson has had his boys taking to the air for the past week. Sparking the overhead attack will probably be Roger Thrift, who has been tossing the pigskin with deadly accuracy in this week's practice.

This will probably be the best home-game of the season for the Pirates who now have a record of three wins against a like number of defeats.

on a safety in the second quarter. The army punted to the winner's 18-yard marker, moved the ball to the 3-yard line on a penalty, and trapped the ball-carrier behind the goal-line on the first play from scrimmage.

The winning Pirates outplayed the losers throughout but they did their scoring from "opportunities" set up by the opposition. Early in the second quarter the Buccaneers received a weak punt on the soldiers' 27 and marched through the line for the tally, with Pete Everette scoring over right tackle from the five yard stripe.

The Pirates' second score came in the third quarter after Mickey Wetherington of Kingston recovered a soldier fumble on the army's 20 yard line. Davis hipper-dipped the ball down to the one-yard line, and slashed through center for the score on the next play.

Davis was the backfield star of the game; getting away for long runs on several occasions to help the Pirates amass a total of 121 yards rushing and 10 first downs to the losers' 27 yards rushing and eight first downs.

Outstanding in the line for the Bucs was big John Wyatt, 200 pound tackle from Portsmouth, Virginia. Playing his best game of the season, Wyatt was continuously playing in the Airborne backfield, dropping the ball carriers for losses.

Jack Davis

diers completed 11 out of 19 aerials for a gain of 111 yards but were unable to score. One seemingly unstoppable touchdown drive was blocked in the third quarter when Jack Davis, of Kingston, Pirate half-back, intercepted a pass deep in home territory and raced the ball back to the 40-yard stripe.

The soldiers' lone two points came

Everette and Fearing netted a first down to the 14. Jack Davis, on a beautifully executed end run, toted the pigskin to the one before being pushed out of bounds. Again it was Davis, but as the pea-sized back went over the last chalk line he was hit hard and fumbled. C. O. McMullen, center, pounced on the ball for the Bucs and the touchdown. Everette's kick was an oddity—hitting the cross bar and bouncing over—good, and the Pirates were ahead 14-6.

Apprentice's lone tally came in the first stanza when, on fourth down, R. E. Bryant pitched a 25 yard aerial to end C. V. Barbee for the score.

Queen For An Issue

by Amos Clark

Ruth Muriel Lassiter

Spectacles, intelligence and a strong, brisk personality are things which well characterize our eighth "Queen For An Issue"—Ruth Muriel Lassiter.

Home to Ruth is a farm located about 10 miles from Smithfield, North Carolina.

She attended the city schools of Smithfield and in 1944 graduated from the Smithfield High school as valedictorian of her class, which, in selecting superlatives, chose her "Most Likely to Succeed," "Most Dependable," "Most Capable," and "Most Intellectual."

During the school years Ruth was very active in 4-H Club work, winning the county 4-H championship five times and state honorable mention twice.

In the fall of 1944 she enrolled in East Carolina as a science-home economics major. She says she spends most of her time now writing lesson plans, because this quarter she is doing student teaching at the Greenville High school in chemistry and home economics. With her work this quarter she completes the requirements for the Bachelor of Arts degree.

After Christmas she plans to enter the University of North Carolina, where she will work for a Master's degree in chemistry.

She is a member of the Home Economics and Science clubs and has been president of and student council representative for the Art club. Last year she was a member of the Handbook committee.

ALUMNI NEWS.

WILSON COUNTY ALUMNI MEET

The Wilson County Chapter met Monday night, October 27, in Wilson at the home of Mrs. R. P. Dew (Grace Bishop), 611 W. Vance Street. Mrs. Raymond Sasser (Hilda Gray Batten) and Miss Mary Grant Biley were assistant hostesses.

A lighted jack-o'-lantern guarded the front door as 30 of the 38 members entered to attend the meeting.

After a short business session, Mrs. Clement Meadows (Catherine Woodall), gave a very enlightening talk on "How to Make Life More Interesting." She pointed out that we should be interested in our surroundings, know the biography of people we meet, create a hobby, and read books and magazines on personality development to make our lives more interesting.

After a social period the chapter was served delicious refreshments by the joint hostesses.

The next meeting will be held November 24, at the home of Mrs. W. M. Rogers (Elsie Morgan) with Mrs. E. E. Morris (Blanche Boyce) assisting.

1947 GRADUATES

Of the 132 graduates for 1946-47, one hundred and seven, or 81%, are members of the teaching profession—one as principal as well as teacher, another as county supervisor of elementary schools, and the remaining one hundred and five as classroom teachers.

The other forty-one of these A.B. graduates may be accounted for as follows: six are engaged in graduate study; five hold business or office positions; three are employed as assistant home demonstration agents by the State Agricultural Extension Service; another is home economist with an industrial concern, and one holds the position of Girl Scout Executive. Nine who have married are not employed outside the home.

With the exception of one teacher in a junior college, the 1947 A.B. graduates who are teachers are employed in the public schools—most of them in North Carolina. Ten, the

The Alumni Bulletin of East Carolina Teachers college, mailed last week to approximately 7000 alumni of the college, is a special Homecoming Day issue and carries an invitation to those who have been students here to return to the campus on November 8 for the annually observed alumni day.

Just about every gal, goil, or girl can be seen lingering in the halls and on campus with a different guy every time she appears on campus or in the halls.

Now is it clear what is meant by "switcharoo?" Of course, there are vague signs of the continued existence of "true-lovin' " "Switcharoo," just as the atom bomb, can't destroy all things that existed before it dropped. But it is clearly observed that the oncedominating factor of human relationship in East Carolina is being slowly and exultantly ground into the remotest oblivion (as Dr. Toll would put it).
