

Working Around Flat Ironer In Laundry

Picture are a number of the workers in the college laundry as they put clothing through the flat work ironer. This is the largest piece of equipment in the laundry.

"Times Have Changed," Says W. E. Boswell While Discussing East Carolina Laundry Plant

by Wilbur Jones
Do you realize when you send your dirty clothes to the college laundry that they will go through a modern and efficient organization before they are returned to you? "Times have changed," are the words used by W. E. Boswell, superintendent of the college laundry for the past twenty-one years, to explain the present laundry system over the old.

In the early days of the laundry, the student's tuition included the laundry bill. This was later changed to a fixed price with the student paying for all laundry that ran over that price. This system changed to the present system of a laundry deposit with a fixed price for each item sent to the laundry. According to Mr. Boswell, the latter system shows the progress of the college in that it is seeking modern methods of doing things.

Laundry Improves

The laundry has improved quite a bit since it moved to the present building in 1928. Before this time, the old laundry was where the soda shop today. The laundry employed twice as many workers then, as all ironing had to be done by hand. The present laundry is a modern, well equipped building that employs thirty-two people including six part time college boys. It has over sixty thousand dollars worth of equipment that handles the laundry of approximately two thousand accounts.

The records of the laundry go back for forty-one years, and many old students who return for summer school still find their laundry mark at the laundry. Many of the present students wonder why they were asked (See LAUNDRY on Page 4)

Pictures

John Pournaras, editor of the annual, has announced that group pictures will be taken for the annual next week. He has urged that each student check the bulletin board for the time their organization picture will be made.

He has also requested that all seniors get in their list of activities and their major and minor immediately.

Dr. Charles Talks At Music Meeting

Dr. Lucile H. Charles, director of speech and drama in the department of English at East Carolina, spoke Tuesday evening at a meeting of the Greenville Music club held at the Woman's club of the city. Her talk pointed out relationships between music and the drama and was illustrated with readings from the modern drama. Dr. Charles was introduced to the group by George E. Perry, program director of the music club.

Music and the drama, Dr. Charles said, appeal to the senses of sight and sound. "Incidental music," she stated, "is an integral part of the whole drama; whereas drama in music meets man's desire for rhythmic experiences through changes in pitch, rhythm, and tone color."

Autry To Direct Recreation In Beaufort County Again

by Mark Moore
Raz Autry, president of the Student Government Association, served as recreational director in the city of Beaufort during the past summer. Autry, who hails from Dunn, North Carolina, had about 150 boys and girls under his supervision. These boys and girls, between the ages of eight and fifteen, proved to give Autry quite an interesting experience.

Last summer was Autry's initial experience as director of the recreational center in Beaufort. He is planning to go back next summer to work in that capacity again. Raz worked by himself last summer in the supervision of the various recreations. However, next summer he is supposed to have an assistant. The center at which he works is sponsored by the Rotary Club of Beaufort.

Among the recreational sports that he taught these young boys and girls were: baseball, softball, tennis, basketball, croquet, swimming, volleyball, horseshoes, and social dancing. Autry relates, "Teaching social dancing was one of the greatest pleasures I ever had. I really enjoyed it."

Organized Ball Teams

Two boys' baseball teams were organized under the supervision of Autry. One team was composed of boys between the ages of eight and twelve; the other, composed of boys between the ages of twelve and fifteen. These two Beaufort teams played teams of surrounding towns, namely, Morehead, Marshallburg, Davis-Shore, Newport, and Harkers Island. He states that next year he is planning to organize a baseball league in Beaufort and the surrounding towns. This should broaden the scope of Autry's work, but it is quite evident he is one who can manage and supervise such an undertaking. Organizing a league among the youngsters should prove to make the work more interesting for the director, as well as the boys.

The girls, he says, are more interested in social dancing and tennis. Raz voluntarily said that he got quite a thrill out of teaching the girls in social dancing and that they were very cooperative.

Autry, who will graduate from East Carolina in February, plans to go into the coaching profession, but he plans to do recreational work during summer vacations.

In reference to his job as recreational director, Raz says, "It is one of the most enjoyable jobs one can go into. The recreation field is wide open. A recreation center is one of the greatest assets of a community when conducted in the right manner."

Kinlaw, Pleasant Crowned Friday As King, Queen

Carl L. Kinlaw of Groveland, Florida, and Doris Pleasant of Angier, students at East Carolina Teachers college and winners in a "Mystery Man" contest, were crowned king and queen of the Commerce club carnival held in the Wright auditorium on the campus last Friday evening. The carnival, an annual event at the college, was staged by the student Commerce club and the local chapter of Pi Omega Pi, business education fraternity. Approximately 200 students were present to enjoy the occasion.

Kinlaw and Miss Pleasant were chosen king and queen for being winners in a "Mystery Man" contest conducted over the past two weeks. Following a series of clues presented daily over the loud-speaker in the college dining halls, these students were the first man and woman to identify Dr. Charles J. Reynolds, director of the department of science, as the "Mystery Man."

Entertainment for the evening, including dancing, contests, and games, was arranged under the direction of Otis G. Bain of Wilmington, president of the Commerce club, and carnival chairmen Claudius M. Altcan of Dunn and Allan Berman of Portsmouth, Va.

Caprell Appointed Superintendent

James Caprell of Raleigh has been appointed superintendent of buildings and grounds at East Carolina Teachers college, according to an announcement by college business manager F. D. Duncan.

Mr. Caprell arrived in Greenville this week to take up his duties on the campus. He takes the position held by the late J. L. Russell of Greensboro.

Before coming to East Carolina, Mr. Caprell was located at State College. He has been engaged in construction work in North Carolina for about thirty years and has supervised a number of large building projects in the state, including several dormitories at State college and the Revenue Building annex in Raleigh.

Four Members Of Dept. Attending Meeting

Four members of the department of social studies at East Carolina Teachers college are attending the annual convention of the Southern Historical Association at Williamsburg, Virginia, this weekend. Those visiting the Colonial capital of Virginia and participating in meetings of the association are Mrs. Betty Unterberger, Dr. Lawrence F. Brewster, Dr. Hubert A. Coleman, and Dr. Paul Murray.

Ruth Bostian Visits College For First Time Since Accident

Ruth Dixon Bostian, former student of East Carolina who was critically injured in a swimming accident last spring, was guest on the campus over the weekend.

Since the accident, which left Ruth unable to use her fingers or her legs, she has been receiving treatment at Duke hospital. As yet, it is not known when she will be released. In spite of this, Ruth says that she still has a determination to return to East Carolina and complete her work as a senior.

Making the trip by automobile, Ruth rode about the campus and down town in a wheel chair. She was accompanied by her nurse. While here she attended the football game and the Commerce club carnival.

While a student here Ruth participated in various activities including the Veterans' club, served as secretary; was elected as secretary of the senior class for this year, and also worked on the Tecooan staff and was a marshal.

As she met various students during her visit she kept repeating "I'm so happy to be here!"

Home Economics Teachers Attend Meets In State

Faculty members of the home economics department at East Carolina Teachers college are scheduled to attend a series of conferences and conventions held in various North Carolina cities this month.

Attending the state convention of the North Carolina Home Economics association in Winston-Salem Friday and Saturday of last week were Mrs. Adelaide E. Bloxton, director of the department; Alice Strawn; Virlyne Usry; Mabel Lacy; and Lilah Gaut. Miss Lacy, field teacher-trainer in home economics at East Carolina, is vice president of the state association and chairman of the program committee which planned the Winston-Salem convention.

Miss Lacy and Miss Strawn participated in a conference on teacher-training in home economics which was held in Raleigh, Monday and Tuesday of this week, November 7 and 8.

East Carolina will also be represented by members of the home economics faculty at the second annual state-wide conference on the family scheduled for November 15 and 16 in Raleigh. The conference will be sponsored by forty or more state agencies in North Carolina. Mrs. Bloxton, Miss Lacy, and Miss Strawn will be delegates from East Carolina.

Faculty Members Of East Carolina Chosen To Offices

The results of elections held by divisions and departmental groups at the northeastern district meeting of the North Carolina Education Association on the campus last Friday have been announced. The names of a number of faculty members at East Carolina appear among officers chosen for the coming year.

James L. White of the East Carolina department of business education is the new president of the Division of Higher Education. For the past year he has held the office of vice president of the group. Mrs. Dorothy Lewis Wilkerson, also of the college department of business education, was elected secretary of the division. Both were chosen at a dinner meeting held Friday evening in downtown Greenville.

Three faculty members will serve as presidents of departmental groups of the district organization. These are Dr. Charles G. DeShaw, physical education; Wendell W. Smiley, college librarian; and Marguerite Austin, modern languages.

James L. White was elected vice president of the business education teachers, and Frank G. Fuller of the guidance group. Music teachers chose Gussie Kuykendall as their secretary, and teachers of social studies elected Dr. Lawrence F. Brewster as secretary.

Duncan Announces Changes In Meal Books, Salaries

Self-Help Students To Have 10% Increase, Change Begins Winter

An increase in the pay of the self-help students and a change in the meal book method of paying for meals was announced this week by F. D. Duncan, business manager of the college. Duncan stated that both the increase in pay and the requirement of students to buy meal books will be changed at the beginning of the winter quarter.

The wage of the self-help students will increase approximately ten percent, according to Duncan. Besides setting the new wage at $75, the number of working hours was reduced from 180 a quarter to 175. Under the change, if a student works less than 175 hours, the adjustment will be worked out accordingly. As has been the system, except in the case of the student supply store, there is no provision for payment in cash and students will be paid by the issuance of meal books as before.

Meal Books

Under the meal book change, students are not required to purchase meal books but they may purchase books if they wish. On registration day, meal books will be on sale at the Wright building by a special cashier. The cashier to whom students will pay the regular fees will not receive money for meal books. Books may be purchased from the cafeteria cashier at any time during the meal hours. Fall quarter meal books will be void after November 23. Those issued on and after November 28 will be valid indefinitely and may be used at any time. However, the books will not be subject to refund by the college if unused.

Self-help students will receive meal books at the Wright building on recess office anytime thereafter during the quarter.

Home Ec. Members Present Program

The second in a series of programs entitled "Homes of Tomorrow," was presented before members of the Home Economics club of East Carolina Tuesday evening at a meeting held in the Flanagan building on the campus. A panel discussion among six speakers on "Do People Like You?" was led by Iola Carrowan of Pantego.

Those participating in the panel were Marjorie Thompson of Black Creek, Elizabeth Manning of Williamston, Janice Sasser of Selma, Mrs. Ulma Smith of Deep Run, Mrs. Dorothy Whittington of Greenville, and Rachel Floyd of Orrum.

Other events of the Home Economics club program included the making of plans for a Christmas party to be given jointly with students of the department of music and the distribution of printed handbooks containing an outline of club activities for the year and photographs of officers of the organization.

College Publishes Bulletin On Music, Art, And Dramatics

Just off the press is a new bulletin issued by East Carolina Teachers college. The fifty-page booklet is entitled "Music, Art, Manual Arts, and Dramatics in the Public Schools." Dr. Howard J. McGinnis, chairman of the Publications Committee of the college, served as editor of the bulletin.

Each year the college prepares and distributes four bulletins, which appear as quarterly publications. The present issue is the third for 1949.

In a forward written by Dr. McGinnis, he explains the purpose of the bulletin on the arts. "It is hoped," he says, "that this bulletin may be of some value to teachers and administrators in schools of eastern North Carolina in their efforts to provide art instruction . . . and to provide for art expression and appreciation among their pupils."

East Carolina now offers majors in music, art, and industrial arts. The bulletin shows what the college has to offer the prospective teacher who wishes to study these subjects and dramatics, and gives practical suggestions to the teacher already in the field.

Contributors to the bulletin, to whom Dr. McGinnis acknowledges indebtedness, are Dr. R. R. Willmann, Dr. Karl V. Gilbert, and Dan E. Vornholt of the department of music; Dora E. Cirlot and Francis Lee Neel of the department of art; and Dr. Kenneth L. Bing, of the department of industrial arts.

The bulletin is now being distributed among teachers and school officials of eastern North Carolina and elsewhere.

Elizabeth Drake Gives Recital At PTA Meet

Elizabeth Drake of Scotland Neck, faculty member of the department of music at East Carolina, gave a recital of compositions for the piano at a meeting last week of the Parent-Teacher Association of Maury. Miss Drake was presented to members of the organization by Ruby Jones, teacher of music in the Maury school.

The program for the evening was made up of selections by classic, romantic, and modern composers, including Bach, Chopin, Brahms, Debussy, and Rameau. Especially popular with the audience was a modern selection "Hillbilly" by Morton Gould. An informal reception given by Maury PTA members in honor of Miss Drake followed the recital.

AROTC Officers' Club Plans First Annual Cadets' Dance

President Clark Says Dance To Be Saturday November 18, Wright

The Cadet Officers club of the college Air ROTC unit are making plans for their first annual military ball, it was announced by club President Virgil Clark this week.

The dance will be held in the Wright auditorium next Friday evening, November 18, from eight-thirty until twelve o'clock. The military affair will be strictly formal with the admission to the dance being restricted to the students on the campus.

Invitations have been extended to all reserve officers of the faculty, and to other various colleges and universities having Air ROTC units including Duke, Carolina and N. C. State.

Chairmen of the various committees aiding in the preparations for the AROTC ball are Cadet First Lieutenant Norman Wicker, publicity, Cadet First Lieutenant Milton Glover, refreshments, and Cadet Bill Lloyd, decorations.

Bob Lee and his orchestra, featuring vocalist Bernard Ham, will furnish the music for the dance.

Race Begins On Campus Saturday, November 12 On Athletic Field

by Curtis Nichols
Mayor W. S. Stafford of Greenville will read the proclamation which will open the Sadie Hawkins Day on the campus of East Carolina Teachers college Saturday, November 12 at 4:30 p.m.

Features of the day will begin one hour earlier, at 3:30 p.m., with a parade through downtown Greenville. Everyone is invited to meet on the lawn in front of the Flanagan building at 3:30 and join in the parade. There will be music and your favorite Dogpatch characters. Following the parade will be a real Dogpatch race at 4:30. Marryin' Sam will present the rules, and at the sound of the first shot the boys will take off into the restricted area. At the second shot the girls will run for their Lil Abners, and upon dragging their louts back across the finishing line will be awarded Dogpatch marriage licenses.

Beginning at 8 p.m. in the Wright building there will be a square dance, carried out in Dogpatch style. The evening will include a regular Dogpatch carnival. Refreshments will be sold by the feuding Scraggs and the competitive Dogpatchers. Lonesome Polecat and Hairless Joe will have charge of the kickapoo joy juice, and Soft-hearted John will sell corncob pipes and vegetable corsages for the gals. Each person will get a chance to kick the kigmy, see the Yokum's (See Sadie Hawkins Day on Page 4)

ACE Members Hear Perkins Speak At Regular Meeting

Mrs. Dorothy W. Perkins, consultant in speech and faculty member of the department of education at East Carolina, read selection of literature for children before members of the student branch of the Association for Childhood Education at their November meeting held last Tuesday evening. Approximately seventy club members were present to hear Mrs. Perkins. She was introduced to her audience by Otley Hockaday of Roanoke Rapids, junior at the college.

A report from delegates who represented the East Carolina ACE at a conference in Raleigh last week was a planning session for the meeting of the Association for Childhood Educational, which is expected to bring to Asheville next April approximately 3,000 people from the United States and foreign countries. In addition to Miss Bizzell and Miss Murray, East Carolina representatives in Raleigh last week were Patricia Davis of Manteo, ACE president at the college; Barbara Eisele of Statesville; and Dora Coates, faculty advisor

Text Books To Be Bought Next Week

Through the invitation of the college book store, a representative of the Malone college book store of Tuscaloosa, Alabama will be on the campus Monday and Tuesday, November 21 and 22 to buy students' text books.

The Malone college book store is considered the largest of its kind and has a wide range of buying. The book store on the campus will buy books Tuesday afternoon from 1 to 5 p.m. and Wednesday morning from 9 to 1 o'clock, November 22 and 23.

The representative will be located in the hall way outside the college book store.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE ADMINISTRATION . . .

Congratulations go to the administration this week for removing the ruling requiring the students living on the campus to buy meal books; and a second congratulation for the increase in the pay of the self-help students. Both announcements were made this week by the college Business Manager, F. D. Duncan.

For a number of years the students have been much disturbed by the fact that they had to buy meal books. Recently a student committee met with Mr. Duncan and the new plan whereby regular students will be free to either buy the books or not buy them was worked out. We feel sure that the new system will be more than satisfactory to the students and the administration should receive our thanks for the change.

The news of the additional increase in the pay of the self-help will also meet with the happy approval of those students working on the campus. The increase amounts to approximately ten percent more than last quarter. We feel sure that such understandings between the administration, faculty, and staff, and the student body are the best ways to maintain better relations.

NOVEMBER 11, ANOTHER ARMISTICE DAY PASSES . . .

Today (Friday) is Armistice Day. A time when people all over the world stop for a few minutes of silence in memory of those who fought in the first great World War. It is a time to remember the ending of that war.

As we pass this mile stone in peace, during a time when the cold war exists, we are given courage to go ever forward because of those who gave their life in the first World War. If those who died during those battles could come back today, we are sure they would still feel that peace is the most important thing that can exist in the world.

Today and every day we live, we are fighting a battle for our freedoms, for our rights, and for our ideas. The battle of guns of two wars has ended but there is always present with us a battle for a greater America and a greater world. These can not come so long as we compromise our ideas and opinions, but each human on the earth must adopt his own ways of believing and maintain them even if it cost him his life.

There are many creeds in the world but as one person has put it, "The world is large enough for everyone to have a way of his own." This is true so long as your way does not infringe on the rights of others. Today and every day, as we think of the past two World Wars, we should pledge ourselves to a more nearly complete feeling of loyalty and help to make peace everlasting.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT WORKS FOR BETTERMENT OF COLLEGE

During the past two or three years various problems have been taken up by the SGA and various projects undertaken and completed by the members of the Legislature. For this, little recognition has been realized. Many students look on the SGA as another organization which is a necessary evil, but it is far from such.

Recently when a reporter from the TECO ECHO wrote a feature on the Legislature, she remarked about the interest the body took in the ideas of the student body as a whole. The members of the Student Government represent each student as an individual. They consider the interests of each student and are guided by your ideas as they vote.

Take your problems to your class representative, to your club presidents, and to the various other members of the body. If you fail to get your problems solved through these people, write your opinions in the form of a letter to the editor of this paper. We are living on a democratic campus and should feel free to express our opinions without fear of anyone. Put your confidence in the SGA and be assured that it is working for you.

COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES RECORD RECESSION IN FUNDS . . .

According to an article appearing the October 2 issue of the New York Times, colleges and universities of the United States have been in a period of recession in finances for a number of years.

Referring to the problem as "serious" the writer, Benjamin Fine, stated that in spite of the fact that tuition had been increased, colleges and universities, both state, private, and denominational, are facing the greatest financial problem in history. He pointed out figures to show that even though more money is taken in, much more is being spent. To put it in a quotation, "If you make one dollar and spend two, you're in for trouble."

Despite the recession, several colleges and universities stated that they did not need Federal funds for their schools. It seems that these institutions might be just a little too self-dependent. In our opinion, Federal aid to education would be one of the greatest moves ever made by our Congress. The idea has had the backing of great men for years now and if it was worth the fight ten and twenty years ago, it is still worth the fight.

Student Spotlight

by WILBUR JONES

Florence Boerckel is a Yankee who loves the South. She admits that if all the people in New York were like the people in North Carolina, it would be a pretty wonderful place. North Carolina is just one thing she loves. She loves to send off for free material (books, etc.), she loves wearing men's pajamas, loves spending money, ad infinitum. Among all of her likes she registered only one dislike—teachers who give tests and don't find time to grade them.

Florence has lived in Baltimore, Maryland, for five years but was born in New York City and lived there most of her life. When asked how she discovered East Carolina, she said that her high school physical education teacher advised her to try it. She entered school here in 1947 and has been going all year plus summer sessions ever since in order to graduate in three years.

Our student spotlights worked for a year following her graduation from high school. During that year she worked as stenographer for Westinghouse, worked in an insurance company, a bank, and for a lawyer—at this point she smiled wickedly and said, "Ah, those divorce cases!" She said that the reason for so many changes in jobs was because she got tired, not fired.

Florence has led a varied life in connection with her extra-curricular activities at East Carolina. She is one of the chosen few who was elected to this year's "Who's Who," partic-icipates in intramural sports, was member of the 1949 May Court, past secretary of the Student Government (summer session), secretary of the freshman class, secretary of the WAA, member of the Woman's Judiciary, marshal for two years, and is currently junior class representative in the Student Legislature.

In addition to all these accomplishments, she is engaged. This reporter takes it for granted you know to whom. She said about the most exciting moment of her nearly 22 years came when she received her ring last summer.

She says the night life in New York is always mighty fine . . . always something to do . . . uh, you can always take a walk in the park.

Florence has a subtle wit. If you don't keep on your toes, she's likely to say something you don't realize she has said until five minutes after she has said it. She is always ready with a grin but declares that she is quite moody. At this point, her roommate piped up with "She doesn't have but one bad habit and that is sleeping when I'm awake and vice versa." Oh well, you can't do much with these roommates!

Her two main ambitions are to be a good physical education teacher and a good tennis player. As far as this novice scribe is concerned she has already reached the latter. Florence wants to get her masters degree in English if she ever has the opportunity. Immediately following her graduation from East Carolina she wants a long rest.

Hiding a couple of yawns (believe me she does like to sleep) Florence said she had really been studying this quarter and the night she was interviewed for this writeup she hadn't gone to the library. It seems amazing that a girl can be as active in campus organizations and still have time to study. If you happen to see a blue eyed blonde marshaling, playing tennis, or voicing her opinion in the Student Legislature, take another look 'cause it'll probably be Florence.

ROUND THE CAMPUS

by Jean Powell

"It is later than you think." We are all realizing this as exam time gallops towards us mighty fast. From now 'til the whistle blows for Thanksgiving holidays, there will be a steady stream of candidates for the honor roll pushing through those revolving doors at the library. It is rumored that in addition to those reserved books which are never available, there will be reserved seats for those students who have faithfully plodded over to the library night after night all quarter. Think it would be a nice gesture on Mr. Julian's part to transport one of the dining-hall coffee urns over to one of the upstairs library rooms and open up a canteen.

Don't get me wrong, I'm not boycotting the Grill or the Greasy Spoon but I would save time to be able to get a cup of coffee right in the building. Bet those freshman gals who have been keeping up with their assignments would be glad to serve as coffee dispensers!

Stolen Jokes
Having racked the brain for inspiration and with no success your scribe turned in despair to the pages of the notorious Watagan (State college magazine) and stole a few choice (yeah, a choice between those you've heard and those that aren't printable in a reputable paper) jokes. Doctor to patient: Drink a lot of water. It helps to keep you from getting a little stiff in the joints.

Black Out
When the lights dimmed and practically went out in the dormitories the night of the List concert (last week), it brought back memories of the fall of '47 and the accompanying nightly blackouts. Those were the days when a freshman gal could date a boy and go with him all quarter without knowing what he looked like! That is, if she didn't see him during the day. But getting back to the recent blackout, if you noticed anybody with mismatched shoes or gals with lipstick on crooked, the blackout was the cause of it all. And by that crooked lipstick, I mean she couldn't see how to get it on! There's one thing about it though, nothing can beat that candle power when it comes to deceiving yourself into thinking you look good.

And since we're on the subject of the concert, guess nobody enjoyed the music anymore than the bat that kept flying around like he was the main attraction.

With a Sad Farewell
The last game of the football season was waved goodbye last Saturday night . . . 'twas good to see so many people in attendance . . . saw quite a few alumni, and Ruth Boston who is still recuperating from injuries received when she dived into shallow water last spring . . . sponsors for the football team were quite pretty . . . there is one young man who insists on appearing on the football field at halftime . . . Norman "Wick" Wicker and Henry Selby did a good job with their yells.

It's the Truth
Getting out a weekly paper is no picnic. If we print jokes, students say we are silly; if we don't they say we are too serious. If we publish original matter they say we lack variety; if we publish things from other papers, they say we are too lazy to write our own; if we stay in the office, we ought to be out rustling material, if we're out rustling material, we are not attending to business in the office; if we wear old clothes, we are insolvent college students; if we wear new ones, we got the money from our graft. What are we supposed to do anyhow? Like as not some one will say we swiped this from an exchange. We did.

Gals Get Your Man On Sadie Hawkins Day

Gals, if you didn't succeed in getting your man during Twirl season, don't give up 'cause they're having a brand new party Dogpatch style Saturday night in the gym.

All the funny paper characters will be on hand to lend local color. Kigmy's, and Schmoos will be there along with Marryin' Sam who will have wedding licenses for those gals lucky enough to catch one of these handsome Dogpatchers.

Sadie Hawkins Day will open officially Saturday afternoon when the Mayor of Greenville reads the proclamation. Included on the agenda will be a parade and then the big race. Of course, the boys are given a little head start and then the women start pursuing. If the girls catch the boys, they pay the boy's way to the dance, buy 'em a vegetable corsage if they are real chivalrous, and just wait on them in general. There will probably be plenty of boys who will stomp a toe on purpose just to get to go to the dance but there will be others who if they don't want to get caught had better start eatin' pre-served turnips for energy.

Friday night wedding ceremonies will be held at the Pitt theatre in keeping with the Sadie Hawkins Day idea.

This day was proclaimed because Sadie's pappy decided she was getting to be an old maid. Poor Sadie was so ugly her papa knew no man in his right mind would ask her to marry him so he thought up the idea of the race. Read your funny papers for further details!

Square dancing will be the thing. Boys and girls will wear Dogpatch costumes, Kickapoo Joy Juice will be flowing and corncob pipes and rabbit tobacco will be sold.

The gun goes off and Daisy Mae is close behind Lil Abner. She gains on him, nearly grabs his overalls, stumbles and falls and disappears behind the bushes. The wolf gal takes up the race. Whoopee! Are there any more Lil Abners?

Why not take advantage of this big opportunity all you lonesome gals? Success can be yours if you catch a Lil Abner . . . if all the Lil Abners are taken, grab a Scraggy.

Editor's Corner

Work was begun this week on the Austin auditorium. For some three months now, the auditorium will be out of use. Student programs will be held in Wright for the rest of this year. Chapel services will be held in Falnagan auditorium.

During the past week there have been several comments made about the number of persons selected for "Who's Who." To straighten the matter out, the number allotted to this college was seven. The three persons chosen who were selected last year will not be listed in the volume, therefore they will not be taking the place of a person who might have been selected for the first time.

What are the dimensions etc.? That was the question that was being asked all over the campus this week as various students became interested in the sign contest being sponsored by the SGA. Students interested in the contest should contact Bill Flanders, first assistant treasurer of the SGA.

Another quarter approaches and another chance to change ones into humpbacks. The editor has devised the best possible way of scheduling class for the new quarter. It works something like this, schedule all of your extra-curricular activities on the schedule cards first, then if there are any spaces left, add in a few classes. When the work begins, attend a few of the classes if you have time (remember not to neglect your extra-curricular duties). Top the whole off at the end of the quarter with this note to the Dean. Deer Deen, I is quitting. This institution is not liberal enough on us activity butterflies. (Signed) (In blood brought from over working), John Henry James.

With a more serious note, we favor credit on some course for extra-curricular activities. It seems that many of the students enrolled here receive just as much from certain extra-curricular activities as they do from certain classes. After all, experience has been called the best teacher.

We've heard of a bat house but last Thursday night at the List concert was the first time we had ever seen one. Now the discussion has been brought to the point of—was it a bat or a bird. The thing looked as if he were brown or rusty red.

Do You Agree?

by Bill Flanders

After putting this column in mothballs for the past two weeks so that I could stop my master (Paul Morris) from chewing me out each week about some corny column, I have decided to risk his scorn once more and try to find a few opinions about a highly controversial subject.

While sitting in the Budget Office the other day this writer heard two of the college's outstanding citizens discussing the matter of whether or not Doak Walker was better than Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice. These two wheels (Mr. Raz Autry and Paul "Slavedriver" Morris) only seemed to make matters worse. So in order to help clear up this confusing situation, this writer decided to ask for some of your opinions and as yet it still seems to be doubtful just who is the best. Personally, this writer doesn't think it will ever be settled unless these two great men play against each other.

The question for the week is, "Who is the better ball player, Charlie Justice or Doak Walker?" Do you agree?

Paul Morris: Doak Walker is the better, because he plays 60 minute ball and meets stiffer competition.

Raz Autry: Charlie Justice, because without Walker's help SMU has pulled an upset, also the Wake Forest game in SMU the Mustangs could only win by one touchdown with Walker's help. UNC beat them two. Look at the average of the two, Justice is by far the better punter.

Milton Glover: I have never seen Walker play, but he is bound to be a great back. Since I have seen Justice play for the past four years I would be forced to take him because he is one of the greatest backs we have ever had. I believe if you check records that about the only thing he can't do a little better than Walker is kick extra points.

Bill Darby: I believe the best back between Justice and Walker would be Justice. Both are All-Americans because they can do everything well, although I think Justice is the better runner and kicker.

Joe Polilli: That Justice and Walker are both good backs is a point on which most of us agree. Offensively, I would rate them even, but defensively I give Walker the nod. Whether Justice is a good defensive back or not has yet to be proven. Walker is a 60 minute man, whereas Justice has been badly shaken up and bruised when he tried to go the whole distance. My choice is Doak Walker with Choo Choo a close second.

Zack Manning: Doak Walker, because he is consistently an aggressive ball player, both on offense and defense, while Justice appears weak at times on defense and has an occasional "off day" on offense.

Art Holland: Doak Walker is the more valuable of the two. Justice may have the edge in running; but Walker receives passes better, punts about as well, and is an outstanding defensive player. He also has won a few ball games with his points after touchdown. If it can be done in a football game Walker can do it.

"Did my check come today?"

SPORTS VIEW

BY BILL LLOYD

Tomorrow night's High Point-East Carolina football game will most likely take a North State conference spotlight as the two teams take the field in Albion-Millis stadium at High Point because these two teams meet on about the most even terms that either has probably seen the whole year.

There is only a six point offensive difference between the two squads and that is in favor of the local Pirates. Each team has been impressive in their spirited battle against heavier odds in the North State circuit this year, and tomorrow eve the seventh and eighth place clubs meet.

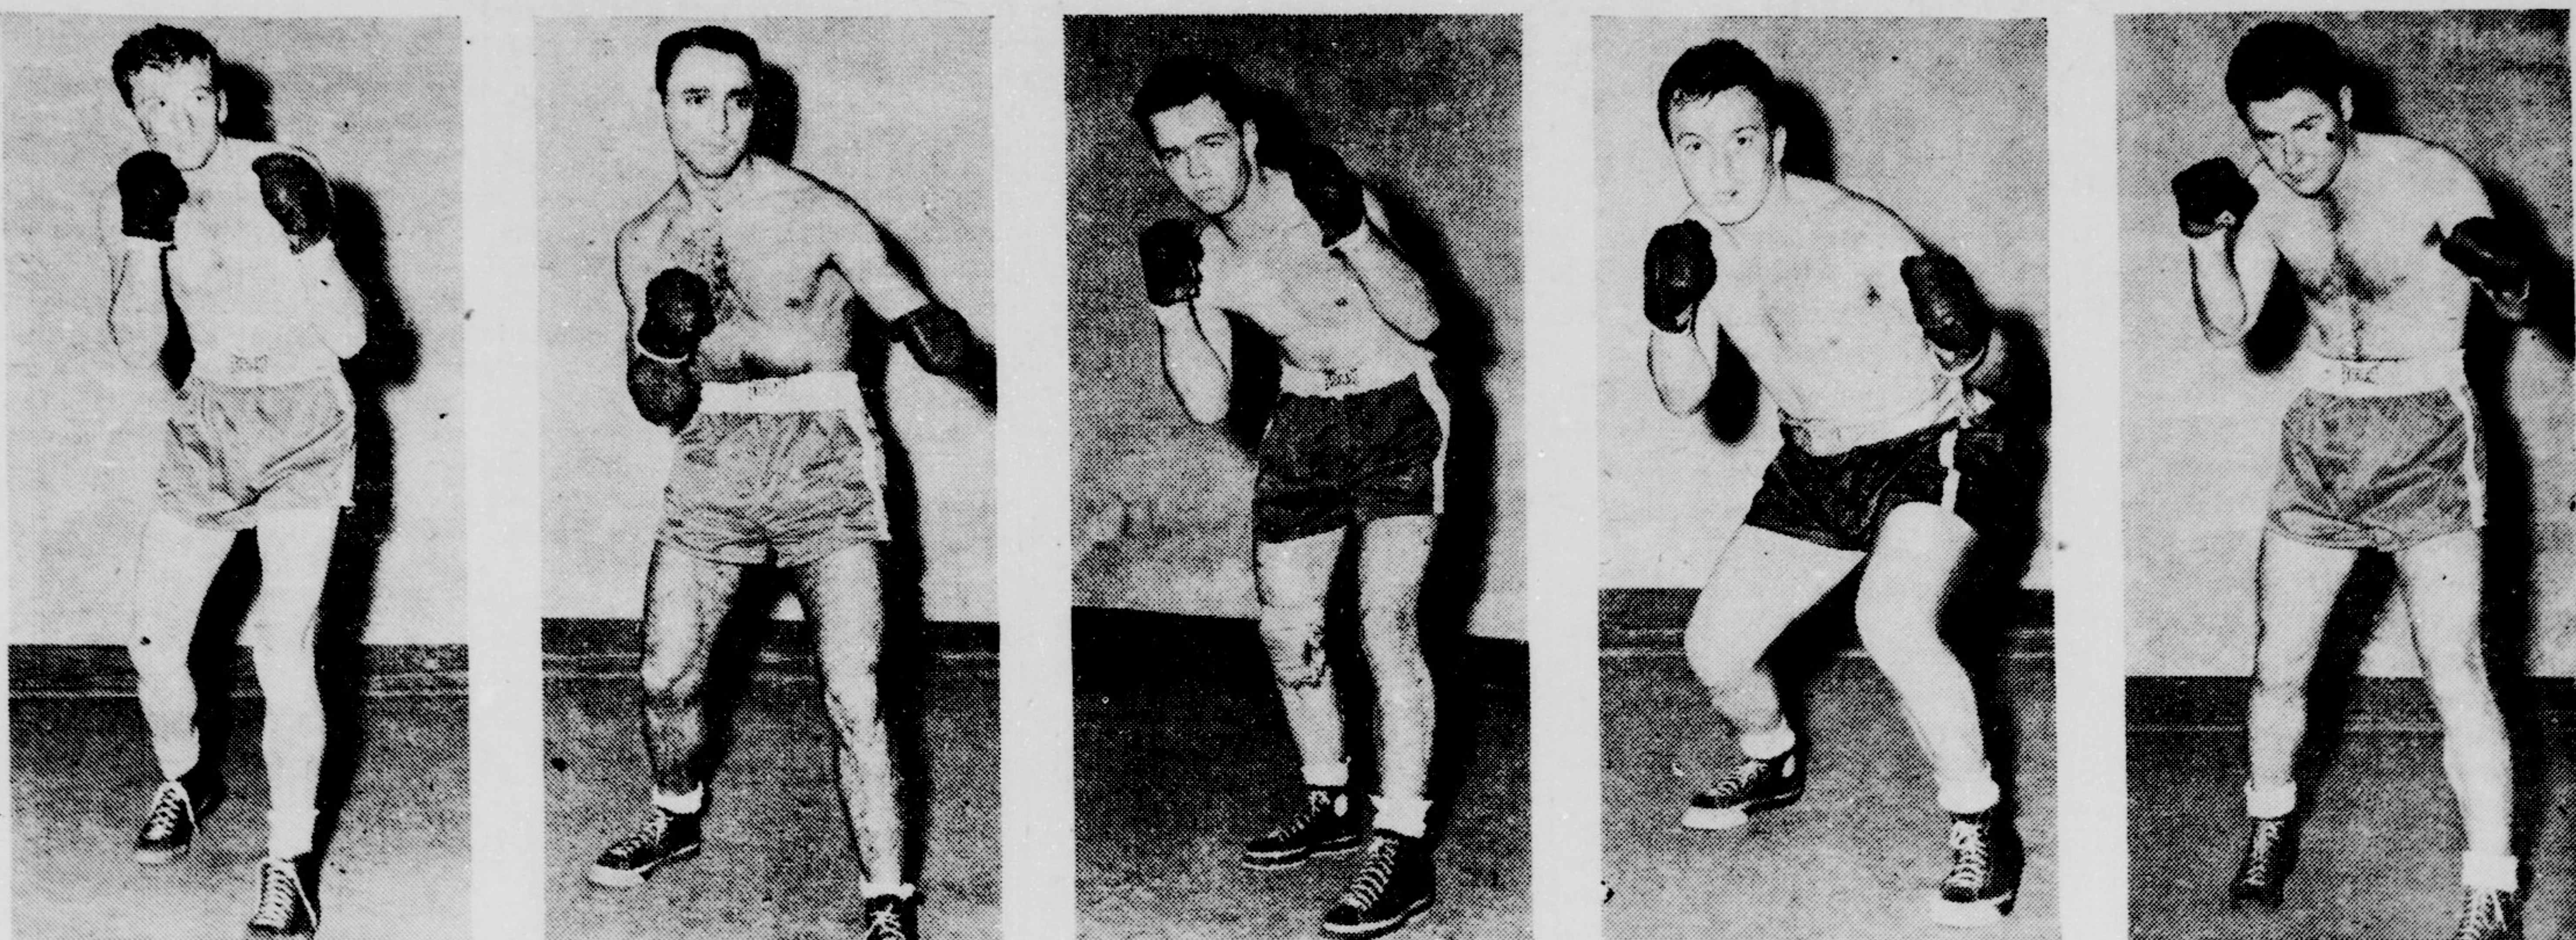

GAME RATED AS A TOSS-UP
With both teams running from the wide-open "T" formation, much action is expected to thrill the fans that will fill the Furniture City stadium, with the two North State league foes striving to win their first conference title. The Panthers, just like the Pirates throw a lot of passes, and have done most of their scoring this year on spectacular runs which is similar to the "Boss" point-getting. Prolific action, plentiful passes, plentiful scoring is expected out of the HPC-EC game tomorrow.

HIGH POINT ADOPTED "T" THIS YEAR
Panther coach, Ralph James, long an ardent teacher of the single wing, adopted the "T" formation for the first time this year, and has had some success in his first season's trial with his quarter-back Curtis McDonald doing a brilliant job in the churning chores and signal calling. James also has two fine line smashers in Fullback Bill Lloyd (no relation), and "Face" Evans, who also does the extra point kicking for the Panthers.

DOLE'S OFFENSIVE RECORD BETTER
Coach Bill Dole's Pirate eleven has a better offensive record against North State opponents as they have scored three touchdowns against two North State foes, Lenoir-Rhyne and Appalachian, while the Panthers were only able to score a single tally. With this on record, the local Pirates may be rated as a slight favorite in tomorrow's North State clash for the first time this year. In any way, the Saturday night aftermath of the Notre Dame-Carolina game should be a thriller and a close one.

THINGS TO LOOK FOR IN THE FUTURE
This could be called a sportview calendar, but some of the things for the Pirate followers to look forward to is the annual "BATTLE OF THE BO-HUNK" next Saturday night in Wilson as Atlantic Christian plays host to the Pirates. A bus ride or a train ride may be in the offering for students wishing to attend the game. . . . The opening of Coach Howard Porter's new team home slate here, December 5th. . . . And the annual picking of the North State all-conference leaders which will probably see Pirate Quarterback Roger Thrift listed.

Pirates To Play High Point Tomorrow

East Carolina's 1949-50 boxing team will tune-up in an intra-squad ring match to be staged in the Wright Building here this coming Wednesday night at eight o'clock. Coach Johnny Long's pugilists have four matches with highly rated teams this coming season with two being with the University of South Carolina, and one with The Citadel of South Carolina, and one with the American University of Washington, D. C. Pictured above are five returning lettermen of last year's squad who are leading contenders for positions on this year's Pirate ring team. They are Harvey Stull, who has shown plenty of up-and-coming spirit during the past five weeks of pug drills; Redwan David, undefeated in four matches last year, who also served as team co-captain of the 1948 squad; Ken Stargardt, a heavyweight, who lost only one match last year, and also served with David as team co-captain; Cleon Smith one of the lightest men on the squad; and Charles Lee, who returns to the team this year, after having to sit out last year's matches because of a severe eye injury. All of the boys will be in action in the intra-squad match Wednesday night.

Sport Sidelights -- by W/hit

Jack Hedgepeth announcing the football game with Appalachian sounded something like this: "And there's Thrift floating back for a pass to Tanner who is treading water on the five. Tanner makes the catch and breast-strokes rapidly into the end zone for the score." "And East Carolina calls for time out to administer artificial respiration to one of their boys. Seems as if he was going down for the third time."

What does all the above mean? Well, it seems as if East Carolina lost last week's ball game to Appalachian 35-18, and students are complaining about the field being wet. The scribe is the snooting type and he saw Virgil Clark about twenty minutes before game time steal the water bucket and pour H2O all over the field. Maybe Virgil had money on the game and figured that the ole' water trick would slow up the Mountaineers.

Nevertheless, they ran up a higher number of points against the Pirates than any other ball club has this year. Just look at this score, Apps 35, Pirates 18. Anyway you say it, the score sounds like the Bucs were easy pickings for the visiting eleven. Believe me brother, that score does not indicate the type of football played. Both clubs played downright good clean football. The winners were good, they were smooth, and they had to scrap all the way to win. It was perhaps the best exhibition of football played on the local gridiron this season.

Appalachian got a few lucky breaks and took advantage of them, while the local squad received hardly none of their usual breaks. The Apps "rocked the joint" in the opening minutes when Jack Gross raced downfield 67 yards for six points. A few minutes later they tallied again when "Little All-American," Herman Bryson, went over from the four. They scored again in the opening minutes of the second period.

Local Offense
After that the Pirates began to show a little offensive power headed by Bill Darby, Frank Maennle, and Jack Benzie, Benzie returned a punt for 40 yards. Then Maennle and Darby got a first down. On fourth down Roger Thrift heaved an 11 yard pass to Jack Benzie who was stand-

Pirates Downed By Mounts In Final Home Game, 35-18

The Appalachian Mountaineers picked up a North State Conference victory over East Carolina Teachers college here last Saturday night in the last home game of the year for East Carolina, before a crowd of about 3,500. Appalachian, led by Pete Mills, scored in every period to win 35-18.

1st Period Ruins Bucs
The Mountaineers opened the scoring early in the game. On the second play of the game Jack Gross ran 64 yards for a touchdown. Appalachian made it a pair as soon as they got their hands on the ball again in the first period. Herman Bryson went over from the three after a drive of 60 yards with Pete Mills passing. Bill Cross made the first two of five conversions from placement.

Pirates Score Two In Second
Early in the second quarter the Mountaineers started a drive on their own 48 which ended on a touchdown pass by Mills to Don Felton. The Pirates ran the kickoff back to the 41, then with Frank Maennle running and Roger Thrift passing they moved to the 11-yard line. The score came on a pass from Thrift to Jack Benzie in the end zone. Jim Danks missed the first of three tries from placement. Just before the half ended East Carolina scored again after intercepting a pass. Billy Smith caught the ball on his own 40 and ran it back to the Appalachian 42. A Thrift pass to Smith was good for 27 yards more due to an interference ruling. Thrift passed again to Dwight Shoe for 15 yards and East Carolina's second score.

Daughtry Intercepts; Benzie Scores
Early in the fourth quarter, the Pirates got as far as the Mountaineers' six-inch line, and were stopped dead. But, the Pirates were not to be kept from scoring again. John Daughtry intercepted a Mountaineer pass on his own 35 and hustled back to the Appalachian 23. And on the next play Jack Benzie ran 23 yards for the score.

Band Performance
The band put on their usual impressive performance last week with lights on their hats. The stadium lights were turned out and the band members clicked on their red and white lights and formed a broken heart. They then played that ever popular tune, "You're Breaking My Heart." The scribe can think of no better song to play. It struck him and many others as a tribute to five excellent football players who were playing their last game before a home crowd. They were Keith Kilpatrick, Stan Peel, Mac Lewis, Gorrell Bass, and Raz Autry. All of these gridders have played some mighty fine football at East Carolina, and will long be remembered by local pigskin followers.

The Way It Looks

by Jack Hedgepeth

(Editor's Note: Last week Jack hit on 15 out of 22 with two games ending in a tie, bringing his total for the year to 51 wins, 13 losses, and 3 ties for a .761 percentage. Again he hit on his pre-selected upsets with selections of Texas over Baylor and Georgia Tech over Tennessee.)

East Carolina over High Point—Even
"The Pirates will start that inevitable time-toil, taking climb to North State prominence."
Notre Dame over Carolina — 14 points.
"Coach Carl Snively and his human "Choo Choo" to uphold the prestige of the South, but the Irish have too much for the Tar Heels. It won't be a run-away for the Irish, though, and "Choo Choo" will probably give another outstanding performance."
Iowa over Wisconsin—Even
"Iowa to come back after humiliating defeat by Minnesota."
Maryland over Boston U.—Even (Upset).

The Old Liners to drop Boston from the ranks of the undefeated."
Georgia Tech over Alabama—Even
"Tech played probably its best game against Tennessee last week, but Alabama is experiencing a pretty dull year."
Ohio State over Illinois—7 points.
"Both impressive; and this Big Ten battle could go either way. Ohio should win by 7; but an upset would be no surprise."
Minnesota over Pittsburgh — 13 points.

"The Gophers to knock down and up and coming power."
Army over Penn—14 points.
Oklahoma over Missouri—13 points.
"Mule Train; Clipidae Clopp."
California over Oregon—20 points.
"No. 4 team to stay right there."
Cornell over Dartmouth—13 points.
"Big Red Rolls On"
Baylor over Wyoming—14 points.
"Baylor, knocked out of the undefeated ranks themselves last week, defeated the same to Wyoming in spite of the Cowboys' massacre of Colorado State 103-0 last week."

Others:
Michigan over Indiana—20 points.
Rice over Texas A&M—14 points.
Southern Methodist over Arkansas — 7 points.
Navy over Columbia—12 points.
Wake Forest over N. C. State—19 points.
Texas over TCU—13 points.
Stanford over Idaho—20 points.
LSU over Mississippi State — 20 points.
Duke over George Washington— 27 points.

Both Teams Seeking First Victory In Conference Play

With the 1949 gridiron schedule almost behind them, East Carolina's Pirates travel to High Point tomorrow to battle the High Point College Panthers in Albion Millis stadium tomorrow night, with the kickoff slated for eight o'clock.

In North State circles, the High Point-East Carolina tilt will be rated a toss-up as both teams have yet to win a North State victory, and are holding the seventh and eighth berths in the league standings at present. High Point does hold a tie with Guilford to improve their record over the Bucs somewhat.

According to the offensive power against North State opponents, Coach Dole's eleven will rate a slight favorite in this department over the Panthers as they have rolled up fifty-one points compared to the Panthers forty-five against league competition. Both teams defensive records stand the same, with their NS foes scoring 108 points against them.

Both teams will run from the "T" formation tomorrow night, High Point adopting this system for the first time this year.

High Point's offense has been sparked all year by their versatile little back in Curtis McDonald who calls the Panther plays, along with line plungers Bill Lloyd and "Face" Evans.

Pirates Edge Panthers in Scoring
Bucs in Top Shape
East Carolina's squad came out of their thrilling game with Appalachian last week unhampered except for minor injuries to halfback Bill Darby, who is expected to see plenty of action tomorrow night, and Tackle Keith Kilpatrick, who has been slowed up somewhat this week due to leg bruises.

Tomorrow night's game should be a thriller from the spectator view point as both teams will be striving to improve their lowly standing in the conference. A win for East Carolina will up them a notch in the standings, and with their oncoming game with Atlantic Christian next week, they could better themselves with a possible 2-4 conference final standing.

Athletic Of Issue

"Doc" Tackles Hard

After the performance Pirate defensive end, "Doc" Smith put on out at the college stadium last week, fans have commented that Smith is destined to be one of the North State Conference's best defensive players. So it seems only fitting that you should see his picture on this page. Smith, who is only a freshman, was given his chance to gain a starting berth on the Buc squad when Stan Peel was injured in the homecoming clash with Elon. Smith played a good ball game that day, and now you see Smith in on almost every tackle. Time after time he broke into the secondary last week and "threw the Appalachian backfield for a loss. Time and time again the Apps would try to sweep Smith's end to no avail.

"Doc" graduated from Washington, N. C. High School in 1948 where he was a very outstanding athlete. He was a member of the Pam-Paks' baseball team for four years, and a member of the grid team for four years. In 1947 Smith was honored by being elected to the Northeastern Conference Class A All-Conference eleven. In that same year he was given a starting position on the All-State football team.

In high school he was perhaps a more outstanding offensive player than defensive. It was his great ability for snagging passes that gave him the All-State honor. In 1947 Washington and Kinston, who have always been bitter rivals, were both undefeated in conference play. The winner of that game would be crowned conference champs and earn the right to compete for the State Championship. With Kinston leading, 12-7, and only a matter of seconds remaining, Smith took a pass on the Kinston 30 yard line and raced all the way into paydirt to give Washington a 14-12 victory over a favored Red Devil eleven. Smith's great pass-catching was the leading factor toward the victory.

After graduation in 1948, he entered the navy and was discharged July 21, 1949. Then he enrolled in the fall quarter at East Carolina, which he likes just fine, to major in Physical Ed.
Only 20 years old and with three years of eligibility left, Smith might make East Carolina's All-Timers team, if he continues to play like he did against Appalachian.

Mac Eure Elected To Head Varsity Club On Campus

Mac Eure was elected president of the Varsity club at a meeting held Monday night November 7, and he will take over his duties immediately. Other new officers elected were: Johnny Long, vice-president; Keith Kilpatrick, treasurer; Leon Jones, secretary; Bill Darby, historian; and Buck Wilson, sergeant-at-arms.

Eure appointed Raz Autry, Len Bauer, Keith Kilpatrick, Tom Benton, Jack Wallace, Jack Everton, and Leon Ellis as a committee to make amendments to the constitution and to discuss a new one at the next club meeting.

Stan Peel, Redwan David, Len Bauer, and Tom Benton were elected to serve on the rules committee whose purpose will be to decide the number of meetings and other similar business.

Outgoing club officers are Len Bauer, Tom Benton, Keith Kilpatrick, Jack Wallace, Jack Everton, and Leon Ellis.

President Messick Speaks At Meeting Of Pitt County HDC

Speaking Friday afternoon, November 4, to the Pitt County Federation of Home Demonstration clubs, President John D. Messick of East Carolina Teachers college discussed with members ways of making the home pleasant and prosperous. Dr. Messick's address was given on the occasion of the annual Achievement Day of the Federation held at the Memorial Baptist church of the city.

His talk on "Living at Home" stressed the practical aspects of gardening, dairy farming, and poultry raising. He emphasized the value of rotating crops and improving the land, and using all possibilities of making a living at home.

Beautifulizing one's surroundings, Dr. Messick told members of the Home Demonstration clubs, adds to the enjoyment of life. North Carolina, he said, is the habitat of many shrubs of great beauty. These are easily available, he continued, and can add greatly to the attractiveness of the grounds of the home.

Dr. Bing To Attend Meeting In Chicago

Dr. Kenneth L. Bing, director of the department of industrial arts at East Carolina, will attend the Industrial Arts Conference of the Mississippi Valley to be held in Chicago from Thursday through Saturday of this week. The organization, originally regional in its membership, is now made up of heads of departments in colleges and universities in many states of the nation. The Chicago conference will be devoted to discussion of problems involved in the teaching of industrial arts.

Dr. Bing joined the East Carolina faculty this fall as head of the newly organized department of industrial arts. The college here, which has had a department for several years, now offers a major in industrial arts. Before coming to Greenville, Dr. Bing was connected with Southeastern Missouri State college at Cape Girardeau as head of the industrial arts department.

Rutan To Give Talk In Hertford Monday

Edward J. Rutan, professor of English at East Carolina, has accepted an invitation to speak before the Albemarle Schoolmasters club at a meeting to be held in Hertford Monday evening, November 14. J. T. Biggers, County Superintendent of Schools for Perquimans county, is in charge of the program for the evening.

Speaking on the topic "Youth Today," Mr. Rutan will develop the theme of training young people as leaders of the future in community, state, and national affairs.

Mr. Rutan is nationally known for his series of workbooks in grammar published by Harper and Brothers in 1948. He was recently appointed as consultant to the Committee on the English Curriculum of the National Council of Teachers of English. During the past two years he has been a frequent contributor to the "North Carolina English Teacher," official publication of the North Carolina English Teachers Association. Mr. Rutan's work at East Carolina includes the supervision of student teaching in the department of English.

kitchen, hit Lena the Hyena, and check your coats, hats, and the like at Available Jones' check booth. There will be fortune telling by old Man Mose, a costume contest, games and fun for all. The wedding of Daisy Mae and Lil Abner will be the highlight of the evening. Marryin' Sam will perform the ceremony which will be witnessed by Dogpatch's most prominent citizens. The "wedding" will also be presented at the Pitt theatre on Friday night between movies. Those who are taking part in the skits are: Daisy Mae, Lucy Robertson; Lil Abner, Mark Pettway; Marryin' Sam, Curtis Wilson; Mammy Yokum, Lola Stephenson; Pappy Yokum, Wade McDougle; Salomey, Betty Derrick; Grammammy Scraggs, Catherine Stephenson; Seragg brothers, Joe Maxwell and Levene Midgett; Pappy Scraggs, Bill Robbins; Hairless Joe, Mickie Berman; Lonesome Polecat, Carmen Shearin; Moonbean McSwine, Helen Watson; Wolf Gal, Mabel Lewis; Available Jones, Joe Gullidge; Soft-hearted John, Ernest Slyviant; and Old Man Mose, Joe Congleton.

The Science club is presenting Sadie Hawkins Day to make money to be spent in taking an annual trip to some place of scientific interest. Officers of the club are: Lola Stephenson, president; Stanley Dail, vice president; Peggy Hart, secretary-treasurer; Doris Edwards, public relations director; and Dr. Mary Caughey and Dr. Harold Jones, faculty advisors.

The club has an active membership of over 100 members.

ALUMNI NEWS

New Chapter Organized

Seventeen alumni and guests were honored at dinner when Mrs. D. W. McPherson (Ann Garris) entertained on Tuesday evening at her home in Littleton.

Dr. John D. Messick told of the progress which is being made at the college and of the plans for future development.

Mrs. McPherson was elected president of the new chapter. Mrs. Ned Long Clark (Kathryn Davenport) was made vice president and Mrs. Clinton Smith (Lillian Glenn Nelson) became secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Susie Williams Webb and Mrs. Ruth Blanchard Garner of the Alumni office were also present for the organization.

Rocky Mount

The Nash-Edgecombe chapter was entertained at a wiener roast at Riverside Park by the chapter of officers. Ella Moore, president, was assisted by Mrs. John Daughtridge (Hilda Barnes), Jessie Flythe, Mrs. Tom Hall (Lucille Bullock), and Mrs. John Hayes (Pattie Farmer).

Plans were made for the annual supper meeting which will be held in December.

Musical Program Given At Meeting

A musical program and a resume of Homecoming Day at East Carolina Teachers college were highlights of the meeting of the Wilson chapter Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Raymond Sasser (Hilda Batten). Miss Sara Ann Blalock of Lucama, accompanied by Miss Barbara Ann Lamm, also of Lucama, sang "Desert Song," "I'll See You Again" and "With a Song in My Heart."

Mrs. DuBois Bullard (Mildred Har-risson), who is president of the state alumni association, and Mrs. George Crawley (Ethel Vick) gave a report of the Homecoming Day celebration which they attended recently.

At the business session, over which Mrs. Bullard presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. L. W. Rogers (Elsie Morgan), Mrs. L. C. Woodall (Mary Bundy) was elected recording secretary to fill the office vacated by the death of Mrs. M. E. Evans (Josie Harrison).

Hostesses for the evening besides Mrs. Sasser were Mrs. E. E. Morris (Blanche Boyce), Mrs. Dewitt Roquemore (Ruth Poindexter), and Mrs. Rosser Lane (Mattie Poindexter). Arrangements of chrysanthemums and marigolds decorated the home.

Austin Building To Have New Roof

The auditorium of the Austin building at East Carolina Teachers college will have a new roof in the near future. F. D. Duncan, college business manager, has announced that removal of the old roof and construction of a new one will begin this week.

The work, says Mr. Duncan, was necessitated when several wooden trusses supporting the roof of the auditorium recently began to sag. Steel trusses have been purchased and have arrived on the campus. The W. G. Durn Construction Company of Greenville is in charge of the work. Completion of the project, Mr. Duncan estimates, will require a period of approximately three months.

Art Exhibition Being Displayed

An exhibition of oil paintings by contemporary artists of Virginia is now on display at East Carolina in Room 203 of the Austin building. Sponsored by the department of art of the college here, the exhibition will be open to the public through November 27, and may be seen daily from 1 o'clock in the afternoon to 9 in the evening, except on Saturday.

LAUNDRY

If they had a brother or sister to attend the school. The purpose of this is to give the student the same laundry mark as his sister, or his brother, to eliminate a possible mix up in the laundry. Without realizing it, the student may have some article of clothing that was used by another member of his family. Because the laundry has extensive records, the clothing would probably be mixed.

Little Lost

It is a rare thing indeed, for the laundry to lose clothing. It is only through the fault of the student that the laundry is sometimes misplaced. This reporter can vouch for that as he has made the same mistake that numerous other students have made. This mistake is the borrowing of a roommate's laundry slip. If you have done this lately, you will find your laundry in "the dog house." Mr. Boswell has placed a bin in the front office with the sign, "Dog house for bundles without proper tickets," placed on the front. So if you have lost your laundry, don't lose your temper, but go down to the laundry and look in the "dog house." More than likely it will be there.

The actual process of laundering the clothing begins as soon as the laundry is placed in the bins at the front of the building. To get a clear view of the process, let's follow a bundle of laundry through the plant.

Through the Wash

Our particular bundle of clothing is started through the plant in a lot of thirty. It is opened at the first checker who opens the bundle, examines the laundry to make sure all numbers correspond, stamps all laundry without a mark, sets aside all clothing with a foreign mark, and then sorts the laundry into approximately eleven classifications according to color or texture of material.

Our now separated bundle is moved to another person who places the clothing in nets to protect the garments while they are in the washers. Then the clothing is placed into one of five washers for fifty-five minutes. The water is changed from five to eleven times inside the washer in the process of washing. After the washing process the laundry is placed in an extractor for fifteen minutes to extract the water. Next, the clothing that needs starch is sent to an employee who starches the garment and then places it in a starch extractor to remove the excess starch.

To The Drier

Then the clothing is placed in a drier. From here our still separated bundle is sent to the employees who iron them with steam irons. The shirt ironing unit consists of four girls who have different steam irons for different parts of the shirt. The largest piece of machinery in the ironing department is the flatwork ironer, which irons such things as sheets and pillow cases.

Lietman Becomes Advisor Of YMCA

Miss Margaret Lietman, an assistant librarian at East Carolina, has accepted an invitation to become the third advisor of the YMCA. Miss Lietman will succeed Miss Gussie Kuykendall who resigned a few years ago. The new advisor will work with Miss Lois Grisby and Miss Louise Williams who are the present advisors.

Miss Lietman is from Wilkingsburg, Pennsylvania. She received a Bachelor of Science degree from the Carnegie Library in Pittsburgh before coming to East Carolina in January, 1949. Miss Lietman was associated with the Medical Library at the Mercy Hospital in Pittsburgh.

During her senior year in college, Miss Lietman was publicity director for the YMCA and she was an active member in the YMCA during the four years that she was in college. She has also been an active and efficient church worker all her life.

Major Ed Wall, Harvard '40 - Flying Executive, U.S. Air Force!

Born in Newark, N. J., he moved to Boston at an early age, graduated from the public Latin high school in 1936, entered Harvard the same year, where he majored in economics and government.

"Active on the campus" - he played football, earned his letter on the boxing team. He worked part-time in a variety of jobs from bouncer to baby sitter, received his AB degree in 1940.

He enrolled in Harvard Law School, left at the beginning of the war to become an Aviation Cadet. In December, 1942, he won his pilot's wings, received a Reserve commission as Second Lieutenant.

Assigned to anti-sub patrol duty, he flew B-25's and B-17's before going overseas in 1944, where he flew 80 missions as a B-24 pilot. Shot down over Germany, he was a prisoner of war for 8 months.

Back in the States with his English wife, he earned his Regular commission. Then he returned to Harvard under the Air Force college training program, receiving his LLB degree in 1949.

Now, he is confident about his future and security. As a pilot and legal officer of Bolling Air Force Base, D. C., Major Ed Wall is a typical U. S. Air Force flying executive... with a challenging career.

If you are single, between the ages of 20 and 28 1/2, with at least two years of college, consider a flying career as an officer in the U. S. Air Force. You may be able to meet the high physical and moral requirements and be selected for training as an Aviation Cadet. If you do not complete Aviation Cadet training, you may return to civilian life or have opportunity to train at Officer Candidate School for an important officer assignment in non-flying fields.

Air Force officer procurement teams are visiting many colleges and universities to explain these career opportunities. Watch for their arrival - or get full details at your nearest Air Force Base, local recruiting station, or by writing to the Chief of Staff, U. S.
