Four botany students presented before the Science club at its meeting Tuesday evening, March 7, reports from papers prepared by individuals or groups of individuals of their botany class last quarter.

The purpose of the problems presented was to acquaint the club members with methods of scientific research. After choosing a problem, students were expected to read scientific papers in the library in order to learn of original research which had been done in related fields. Various scientific journals and reprints of recent articles published in scientific journals were used. Many of yesterday. Breaking most past records, Gilbert Woolard, junior at East Carolina, entered the race Tuesday afternoon as the "new candidate for president." Up until this time Alexander Livesay had been considered the "dark horse" of the contest. Others in the race for president include Carl Conner and Milton Sawyer. With four candidates running for the top SGA position, it is not likely that any one candidate will be able to pool enough votes to take the election on the first ballot. A runoff date for the offices has not been announced as yet but such votes are usually withheld for at least two or three days following the general

First Vice-President Seekers

Also packed, the office of first vice-president is sought by four men students. Following the precedent set since the war, no women have entered the contest for any of the top SGA positions. Candidates for first vice-president include Mickey Berman, Hogan Gaskins, Neil Singletary and Miles Buck.

Jeff Warner, sophomore class president, is the only one of the candidates in the race for a president's office who is running unopposed. He will therefore become on receiving one vote, the second vice-president of the Givernment. A student-faculty committee has been set-up which will study the proposals and make a report sometime in the near future. When the committee makes its report, both the faculty and students should accept the report for what it is. The attitude of, "I don't care what a student thinks about my teaching," or "Now is the time to get back at the teacher" will not help the problem or aid in carrying out the project. The idea is to improve the student-faculty relationships through the system and at the same time for the faculty members to improve their teaching.

TECO ECHO RATING TOPS ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS

The TECO ECHO was awarded a medalist rating at the twenty-sixth annual convention of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association last week. According to all records available, this is the first time the paper has been awarded a medalist rating at Columbia. On several occasions the paper received first place ratings but never before has it hit the all high.

In spite of the fact that the rating shows that the TECO ECHO is now better in news coverage, makeup, feature, sports and general appearance than ever before in the history of the College, a number of students fail to give due credit to the staff. The first statement that faced those who attended the meeting Round the Campus has received its when they were interrupted by a J. D. This staff has not conformed to policies of Columbia Press which it did not agree with, nor has it conformed to the "yellow sheet" type of writing which some students here would like to read. We have not done so because we believe that the majority of our student readers would not like to see their paper abused in any such way.

The entire situation narrows down to the fact that a few people are never pleased, that a newspaper staff is seldom popular, that you cannot please everyone at the same time, that you cannot publish a paper every week that will interest every student, that some people like to gripe continuously, and that some newspaper staffs will not conform to the ideas of the narrow minded, regardless of the consequences.

Coach Boone hopes that the enlarged schedule, which has twice as many games as the 1949 slate and twice as many home games as last year, will stir up greater interest in the sport at East Carolina.

Outstanding Freshman

There are several outstanding freshmen and sophomores making strong bids for berths on the team, Bone said. Only one, however, has a position fairly well sewed up, h added. That man is freshman Sonny Russell, whom Boone considers as his brightest newcomer. Russell will hold down first base, sending Hugh Hardy into left field.
