

Spring Brings Math Students Out Of Classroom

Publications Board Selects Editors At Annual Meeting

Piner And Jones Head Newspaper And Annual Respectively In '51

Editors of the student publications were selected by the Publications Board at its annual meeting Tuesday of this week. The Board ruled that the respective editors could appoint their business managers.

Gene Piner, associate editor of the TECO ECHO, will succeed Carl G. Conner as editor of the TECO ECHO. Conner has served as editor for the past two years. Annie Lou Butts has been named as business manager for the student newspaper. Piner will continue to work during the spring quarter under the present staff of the TECO ECHO and will officially go into office next fall. Bernard West, sports editor of the TECO ECHO, was chosen to edit the summer school paper.

Annual Staff

Wilbur Jones, who has served during this year as assistant feature editor of the TECO ECHO, will succeed John Pournaras as editor of the Tecocan, college annual. Jones has named Jerney Minshew, present business manager of the TECO ECHO, as business manager of the Tecocan.

During the Board meeting, policies were discussed for the two publications, and a number of recommendations were suggested for the Tecocan to improve the method of training the staff. Under the policies discussed, members of the junior, sophomore and freshmen classes would train each year on the annual and would thereby be qualified for positions as editors and business managers.

Editors have not announced staff appointments as yet since there will be a number of adjustments during the fall quarter.

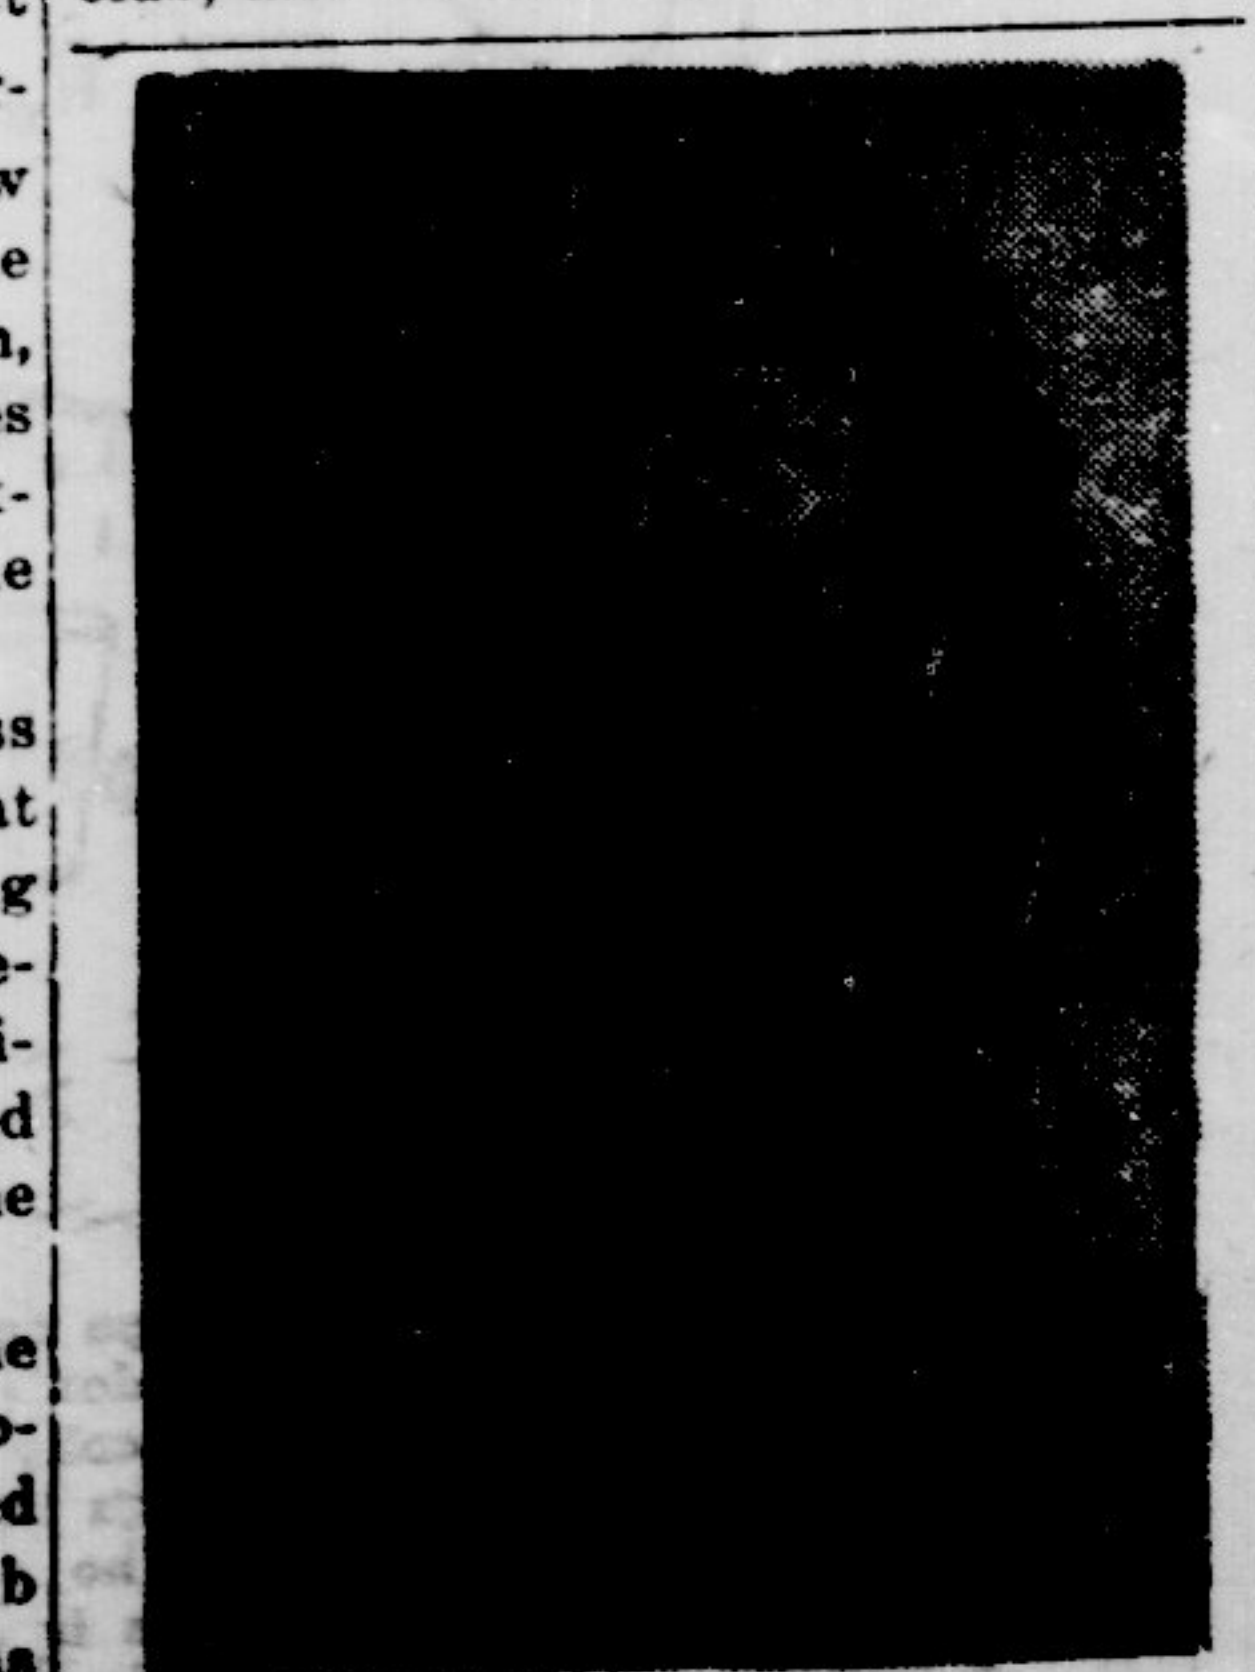

Doris Edwards Will Head Work Local Baptist Students Union

Doris Edwards of Route 1, Selma, will serve as president of the Baptist Student Union at East Carolina, during the 1950-1951 term. In her new position Miss Edwards will head the work of the Baptist Student Union, an organization which coordinates and directs the activities of approximately 575 Baptist students at the college.

According to present plans, Miss Edwards will represent the BSU at East Carolina and the Thanksgiving Baptist Church of Selma in Cleveland, Ohio, at the Baptist World Alliance, which will meet in the United States this summer for the third time in forty-five years.

Miss Edwards is a junior at the college and is majoring in home economics. She was recently elected secretary of the Home Economics club at the college. She has also served as acting president of the junior class, public relations director of the Science club, and member of the BSU council.

Just Human Nature

As related by a student of this college, here's a little incident that will bear out the fact that a teacher can be and still is human after all. This incident took place in the Austin building last week.

Several male students had entered their classroom approximately five or six minutes prior to the last bell and having nothing to do, they were spending their time by gazing out the window in the direction of Jarvis hall and whistling long, familiar wolf calls as the girls down below approached the Austin building.

They were so engrossed in their flirtations that they did not see their teacher as he lingered in the hallway. Nor did they see another teacher approach him and remark, "You sure have some bad boys in your class."

Apparently unaware of what was being referred to, the prof gave a puzzled look and asked, "Why, what do you mean?"

With a pointing finger the teacher who had made the first comment explained what she was talking about.

After casting a quick glance into the room, the prof turned quickly and replied, "Oh, that's only human nature," and turned away to go into his classroom. Turning toward the second teacher once more, he added, "And besides, it's spring!"

Utah Centennial Chorus Appears In Two Concerts

The Utah Centennial chorus made two appearances here on Tuesday, March 28. The first appearance was part of the weekly college chapel program. The second appearance was an hour long concert in Wright auditorium. Part of the second appearance was broadcast over WGTC through the college communications center.

The chorus is making its second annual good-will tour of southeastern United States.

The Utah Centennial chorus directed again this year by Serge Huff, is made up of eleven young Elders of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

Part of A Force of 5,000

These young men represent a cross-section of Mormon youth and are part of a force of 5,000 who are serving their church in all parts of the world. Called for two years, they leave their vocations or schooling to donate their time and talents to the work.

Notice Reporters

There will be an important meeting of the TECO ECHO editorial staff, Monday evening, April 3, at 6:30 in the TECO ECHO staff room in Austin basement. At this meeting we would like to meet all new reporters and get their duties defined and work out plans for the rest of this quarter and for next year.

Student Legislature Over-rides Decision Of Budget Committee

Transfer Of Veterans Club Fund For Other Purpose Is Test Case

The Student Legislature voted to over-ride the action of the Budget committee which turned down the request of the Veterans club to shift funds appropriated to them early this year at its regular meeting Wednesday evening.

In one of the longest sessions held this year, the Legislature held a discussion of the status of the Legislature vs. the Budget committee. For some time, according to the discussion, there has been some disagreement between the Budget committee and the Legislature as to the right of the Legislature to over-ride the rulings passed by the Budget committee.

The action of the Legislature regarding the committee came after the Budget committee turned down the request of the SGA governing body to shift the funds of the Veterans club for the purpose of paying for the football players' hoods instead of for producing the annual "Follies."

In the discussion, it was brought out that the fund-shift was not granted because the committee did not wish to set a precedent of shifting money for all campus organizations. As a result of the meeting, two letters were received by the student president referring the subject of the power of the Legislature to over-ride the Budget committee and the power of the president to over-ride the parliamentarian to the advisory board of the college.

Fifteen Invited To Join Business Education Frat

Fifteen students at East Carolina have received invitations to become members of the Beta Kappa Chapter of Pi Omega Pi, national honorary business education fraternity. High scholastic standing in the field of business education is the basis of choice for membership in the organization.

Those invited to join the campus chapter of Pi Omega Pi include nine men and six women students. They are: Edwin D. Averette, Winterville; Cleon Avery, Cove City; Allan H. Berman, Portsmouth, Va.; Mary Edna Brisson, Fayetteville; Mattie Faye Brown, Williamston; Emma Dean Calfee, Belhaven; Robert L. Chick, Rocky Mount; Thomas William Davis, Henderson; James Faison, Clayton; Alvin D. McArthur, Greenville; Paul R. Morris, Winston-Salem; Mac L. Mumford, Grifton; Shirley Pilkinton, Smithfield; Patricia Sutton, Kinston; and Ronald C. Underwood, Carolina Beach.

A pledge service will be held for new members Thursday, April 20.

State President Of YDC To Speak To Local Group

The Young Democrats club of East Carolina Teachers college announces that Mr. Terry Sanford, president of the Young Democrats club of North Carolina, will speak Thursday evening, April 13, in Flanagan auditorium.

Mr. Sanford is an alumnus of the University of North Carolina, where he received the A.B. and Law Degrees. During his years there he was a leader in all the activities into which he entered. A native of Laurinburg, N. C., he is now practicing law in Fayetteville, N. C. He is married and has one child. After being in the armed forces for World War II, he returned to resume his active membership in the YDC, an organization in which he had participated for many years.

An outstanding feature of Sanford's election to the presidency of the YDC is that he is the first state president in the history of the North Carolina YDC to be unanimously elected. This verifies his ability to serve this group.

The Young Democrats extend an invitation to the student body and the faculty of the college to attend this open meeting of the campus YDC.

Senior Class Top Post Goes To Ellis In Run-Off Ballot

In a recent run-off election of senior class officers, Leon Ellis of Siler City was chosen president for the 1950-51 term. He defeated Edward Salter of New Bern after the two had received the highest number of votes in the primary, in which five candidates were entered. Paul Trotman of Norfolk, Va., was elected vice president of the class in the primary, in which he was unopposed.

Other officers elected to serve the senior class with Ellis and Trotman are: Patricia Sutton, secretary, Kinston; Margaret Mason, treasurer, Swansboro; Frances Wilson, council representative, Dunn; Laura Swain, entertainment committee, Aurora; Doris Stroud, Swansboro and Gene Hart, Kinston, social committee; Jimmy Fly, elections committee, Kinston; Rachel Kirby, Lucama, TECO ECHO reporter; and Emmadine Calfee, TECOAN reporter, Belhaven.

Science Club Raises Moore To Presidency

In a regular meeting of the Science club, March 17, Harvey Moore, senior from Rocky Mount, was elected president. Others that will hold offices with the group for the incoming school year are: Milam Johnson, vice-president, Jennie Cannon, secretary-treasurer, Dr. Mary Caughey was re-elected as faculty advisor, and Mr. Helms was voted to serve with her.

Congleton Elected President Of New Young Democrats Club

Joseph Congleton, junior from Linton, has been elected president of the Young Democrats club at East Carolina.

Approximately fifty men and women students were present Thursday evening, March 23, at an organizational meeting held in the Austin building. The chief business transacted during the session was the adoption of a constitution for the club and the election of officers to head the group during the 1950-1951 term. Mrs. Betty M. Unterberger of the department of social studies was appointed faculty advisor of the new organization. Those present became charter members of the YDC on the campus.

Annual Program May Draw Record Number To College Campus

High School Day will be observed on the campus of East Carolina on Friday, April 21, according to an announcement by Dr. Howard J. McGinnis, Program Chairman. An annual event at this campus for the past eight years, High School Day this year is expected to draw the largest crowd of high school students ever to assemble at this college.

Invitations have already been extended by Dr. McGinnis to students of three hundred sixteen schools in fifty-two counties. Last year invitations were extended to one hundred sixteen schools in thirty-eight counties and over two thousand high school seniors visited this campus on High School Day.

Dr. McGinnis in outlining the aims of High School Day, has stated that the chief purpose of this event is to give high school seniors a chance to see a college in action and help them decide whether to go to college, where to go to college, what major to select in college, and what life vocation to choose.

Well-Balanced Program

Scheduled to start at 9:00 a.m. and to last until 4:30 p.m., plans have been made for a well-balanced program of educational, informational, recreational, and social events. Special features of this program will include: visits to educational exhibits, departments and buildings; an R.O.T.C. drill on the campus driveways; a program in the Wright auditorium high lighted by a band concert, a welcome by president John D. Messick, and music by the college choir; a one-act play presented by the Teachers Playhouse; a baseball game between East Carolina and Appalachian State Teachers college; a free movie in the Austin building; and a tea dance in Wright auditorium.

Lunch will be served picnic style on the grounds back of the home economics practice house at a cost of fifty cents per person to visitors, students, and faculty. College students, faculty members, or staff may use cash or meal tickets and are requested and advised to go early in (See HIGH SCHOOL DAY on Page 4)

Students Attend Meet From ACE

The Student Branch of the Association for Childhood Education will be represented by five delegates from East Carolina at the Association for Childhood Education International Convention in Asheville, April 9-14. This study conference is expected to bring together delegates from all parts of the United States and foreign countries. Study classes will be conducted by some of America's greatest educators, according to conference announcements. The student branches of N. C. will play host to the other student branches attending the convention.

Student representatives of the local ACE who will attend the convention are Patricia Davis of Mantion, president; Frances Bizzell, Kinston, TECO ECHO reporter; Doris Pleasant, Angier, publicity chairman; Jan Grote, New York; Anne Whitehurst, Bethel.

Spring Brings Out Many Campus 'Shutter Bugs'

by Wilton Joyner

With the last icy gusts of wintry wind and the first shy winks of the long awaited spring season that has been a little late this year, East Carolinians will note an addition to those things which are the usual indications that spring is in the air.

Besides green bushes, leaves, grass, full-housed tennis courts and baseball fields, sweaters, chickens, flowers, and romance, there'll be a fanatical group of amateur photographers all over the campus looking for shots. These "bugs" won't be hard to recognize as they walk nonchalantly up to you or jump out of a bush in front of you with loaded camera, yell "hold it!", and shoot you before you even think of flashing a nice toothpaste smile or even before you can assume that dignified college air. Of course it won't hurt when they "shoot" you and chances are that you may not have a thing to worry about at that stage of the game, as your candid attacker may have only a blur as a reward for his efforts and you can just forget he ever clicked ole Brownie Kodak.

Pictures May Prove Fatal
If on the other hand, Mr. H. R. (hit and run) dashes madly, to the science department with an ecstatic cry of triumph, your chances of really being 'shot' are good. Once in the dark room, this "would-be-assailant" will proceed with surprising rapidity in setting up developing agents, flicking off all lights and running his film through his developing agents in order to get a good negative.

After turning on the lights, peering upward at the light through his film and seeing that he has what may prove to be a good negative, the poor victim's ship is sinking. After throwing the negative under the enlarger and seeing the negative really is good, the ship of the poor victim is no longer sinking, it has sunk!

With care and little time, one of these fiendish amateurs can take a small negative and enlarge it to any size up to eight by ten inches and possibly larger.

Oh, Mr. or Miss Victim, since you'll probably find it hard to get the negative, maybe if you're a good sport and don't loosen any teeth or blacken any eyes, maybe you can get the dizzy "fotog" to at least give you a picture. After all, it might make a good keepsake.

Photography Class on Loose
Incidentally this was written to inform you, John Q. or Susie Q. Public, that there is a photography class running loose on the campus and they're just craving for good subject matter. If it'll help you any more, this class is taught by Prof. J. O. Derrick and is composed of Geraldine Amundson, O. T. Batchelor, Nell Singletary, Gene Midgette, Jerry Minshew, Fred Juran, Ed Strand, Bert Smith, Jimmy Kliner, Nell Stallings, and yours truly.

But why take chances, don't be half safe by taking to the woods, just follow the pattern of Romeo and Juliet and use the balcony.

LEGISLATURE vs. BUDGET COMMITTEE FEUD OPENED

The old quarrel between the student Budget committee and the Student Legislature reached a climax at the regular meeting of the Legislature Wednesday of this week when the matter of supreme power caused a case to be sent to the advisory board.

For a number of years there has been a question of who had the last say in the matter of budgets and funds, the Legislature or the Budget committee. It has been the opinion of some students that the Budget committee could over-ride the Legislature and turn down proposed budgets, appropriations, and budget shifts. While these students held this opinion, there have been a number on the other side of the question who say that the Legislature is final and that the Budget committee only acts under the direction of the Legislature.

As we see the matter, the question would be like saying who has more power, the Federal Congress or the State department. The Budget committee is a part of the Student Government and listed under the standing committees of the Legislature. It has been too long a policy of the Legislature to listen entirely to the Budget committee and take its say as final. The action of the Legislature Wednesday evening in voting to over-ride the action of the Budget committee is one of the first moves made to correct the present situation.

Following the meeting, two letters were received referring the matter of the over-riding of the Budget committee and the question of the right of the president to over-ride a decision of the parliamentarian, to the advisory board.

WISDOM IN VOTING SHOULD BE THEME OF NEW LEGISLATURE

In the next two or three weeks the new members of the Student Legislature will be taking office. As is true of any group that goes into office to represent the student organizations, there will be a few students who will not know the various functions that are expected of them.

As representatives of the students, members of the Legislature should have the ideas of the student body as a whole always in mind when they vote. While one vote might not always carry an issue, it is certain that it could be an influence of voters. Many students in the past have voted on issues on the campus only because a certain friend voted a certain way. No campus needs sympathetic voters who "snap" only because someone says "snap." By the time we reach the college age, we should be beyond such a stage.

While serving on the Legislature, a student should take into consideration the future effect their decisions will have on the student body, the college and their own degree. Voters should never set precedents which will embarrass future members of the Legislature to carry out. As a member of the Legislature, one should be striving to carry out his duties to the best of his ability and to represent the views of those who put him in office.

Blind voting all to often leads to trouble both for the voter and for those whom the voter represents. Issues which are brought before you should be carefully weighed and the future usefulness considered above personal gain.

NEW TECO ECHO STAFF FORMING - - - JOIN NOW

Now that the editor-in-chief of the TECO ECHO for next year has been appointed by the Publications board, it will be necessary for him to begin to select a new staff.

Practically every high position on the newspaper staff will be open next fall for "new blood," and the editor is searching now for interested, hard-working people who will qualify for these positions. It is not necessary that a person have had experience in newspaper work. It is necessary, however, that persons wishing to join the staff will have the initiative and determination to learn.

According to the Constitution of the Student Government Association, the editor-in-chief of the TECO ECHO has the authority to name persons to his staff. Anyone desiring to join the staff should apply to him immediately so as to be able to compete with other persons who also desire positions. The editor will appoint those persons to the staff who have declared themselves for the jobs and who he feels is the best fitted to assume the responsibilities involved.

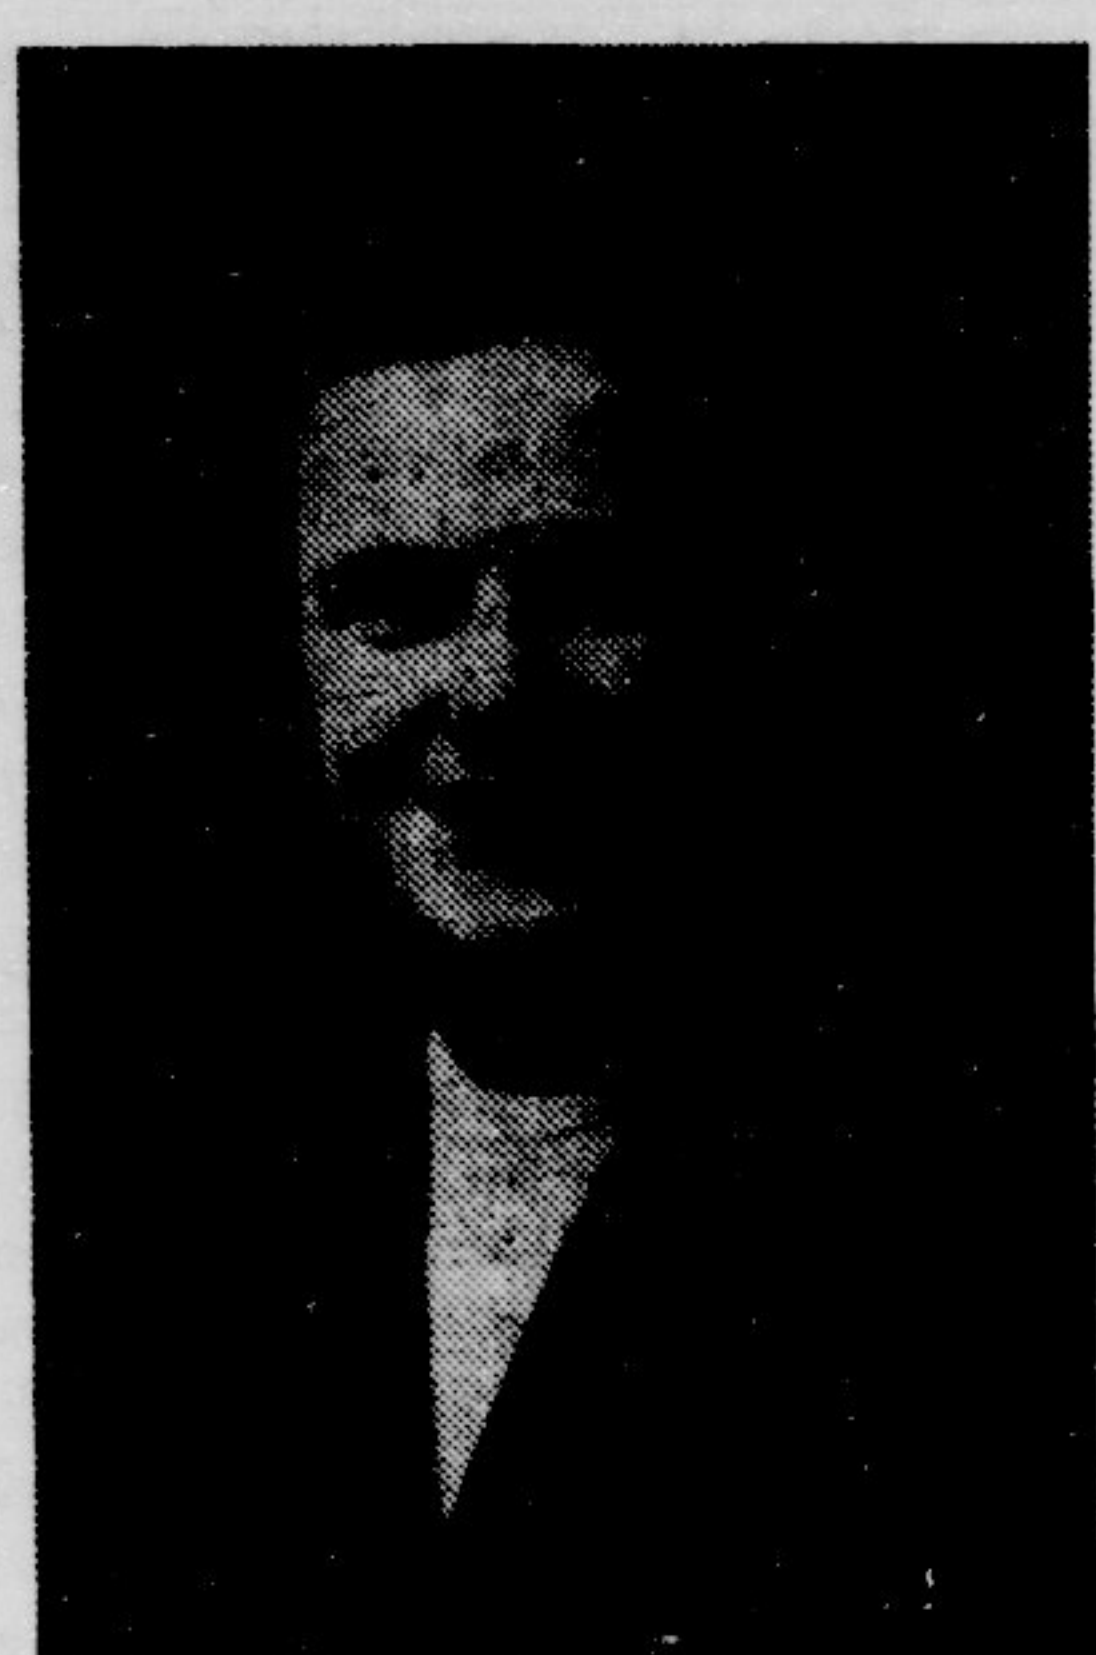

Now is the time to join the staff of your college paper while the jobs are "wide open," not next fall when someone has already secured the positions and the staff is full.

The new editor wishes to be fair and impartial to the student body and will not appoint persons to the staff for personal reasons. Everyone who is interested will be treated fairly in this respect.

Persons who are interested may contact the editor at the college post office, by attending the meeting on Friday evening, 6:30 o'clock, in the basement of the building, or by speaking to him personally.

Student Spotlight

By Gene Piner

Our Spotlight really had to shine this week to get anything out of Helen Ayscue, for she began before we could say a word by saying, "I don't know what you're going to write about, 'cause I haven't done anything!" This statement sounded like "famous last words" to us, coming from a person who has done as much as Helen has all through high school and college. Here she is, a graduating senior with a record anyone would be proud of, and she "hasn't done anything." Imagine that! Most people consider it some mark of achievement just to get that diploma!

Diminutive Helen may not be the largest person on the campus of East Carolina, but she is certainly one of the largest in pleasing, friendly and sincere personality. No wonder that her record presents itself to us as outstanding while to her it seems insignificant. We are willing to wager, too, that not another person on this campus has the unique hobby of collecting monkeys!

Before coming to East Carolina, Helen studied at Louisburg college. While there she found time to take part in many extra-curricular activities of the junior college for which she has the highest praise. During her first year there, she was an attendant in the May court, and in her second year was maid of honor. Helen was also president of the YWCA, secretary of the Delta Psi Omega dramatics fraternity, exchange editor of the "Columns," student newspaper at Louisburg, and a member of the Women's judiciary.

After she had spent two years at Louisburg, Helen came to East Carolina to be a teacher. As far as we were able to discern, the little senior has always wanted to be a teacher. She has completed her practice teaching in the Training school and seems to have thoroughly enjoyed it. For the past year she has served as president of the Future Teachers of America on the campus and has served on the Student Legislature during the same period of time.

Helen will be graduated in May and hopes to be able to teach in Raleigh, which is only 30 miles from her home near Henderson. In high school she was a member of the Beta club, an honor society requiring high scholarship, and was salutatorian of her graduating class. Graduating from Epsom high school in 1945, Helen was awarded a beat-all-around medal. It was here that she probably developed her like for basketball (which she terms her favorite sport), where she played on the girls' team. In fact she played basketball some at Louisburg too, we hear.

A fountain coke with a scoop of ice cream in it is a favorite treat of hers. This taken together with an evening of "rummy" with her room-mates she considers lots of fun. She seems to be a whiz at the game, but does admit that she has one tough opponent—Jane Evans. Oh yes, while playing "rummy" and sipping coke and ice cream, Helen would like to hear the romantic strains of Hoagy Carmichael's "Stardust." We have it from reliable sources that her dreams are somehow always centered around Raleigh, and while we understand that she wants to teach in Raleigh because it's near home, we still wonder if she hasn't other reasons.

While a modest young lady, Helen is very easy to talk to and seems perfectly at ease before strangers. She says, indeed, that she has no fear when speaking before a group of people. Perhaps this is the reason why she has always wanted to be a teacher and why she enjoyed her practice teaching so much. Now that this column comes to a close, Helen can see for herself what we could write about. Those who know her better than we will realize that this a sad attempt to set forth the facts concerning a person as accomplished as she is. They will see that we evidently do not know her very well, for we are sure that behind her friendly smile are yet more than she would tell.

ROUND THE CAMPUS

by Jean Powell

By now guess Janice Perry, East Carolina's representative at the Azalea festival in Wilmington, is wowing the natives. She was to leave Greenville yesterday for the big weekend of paying homage to the Azaleas. It's the first time East Carolina has sent an attendant to the event, and we know that Janice will represent our school well.

Speaking of queens, attendants, etc., brings to mind the contest for "Miss Fashion Plate of 1950" which is being sponsored in the nation's colleges by Revlon Cosmetics. In case you didn't see the candidates' names in last week's TECO ECHO here they are: Margie Perry, Mary Lois Jester, Bobbie Hackney, Jane Krugler, Patsy Leonard, Otley Hockaday, Ellis Williams, Annie Edwards, Nancy Jackson and Betty Brown. You have until April 15 to vote for the girl of your choice who is chosen for beauty and charm, fashion knowledge and dress, personal grooming and personality and poise. A ballot box for your vote is in the TECO ECHO office. The girl chosen from this campus competes with girls from colleges all over the nation. The grand prize is a trip to Bermuda. Some of the girls in Jarvis pulled a "Nancy Goes to Rio," substituting Bermuda for Rio and their candidate's name for Nancy. They went around the dormitory room singing the song and giving their version of a conga line.

Mark McLawhorn has purchased a car of uncertain vintage. Rumor has it that he paid the remarkable sum of $40 for it. Anyway Ro Selby, who is planning to start out for Goldsboro with him tomorrow, says that he will be prepared to bum if they have any car trouble. Hope Ro has better luck bumming than he had a few months ago. It is amazing how sensitive Mark is about his car, but whenever anybody says anything derogatory about it, he looks real hurt.

Ye editor chose this week for ye scribe to talk about what the well-dressed woman is wearing this spring. Not knowing I consulted "Barnyard" West who informed me that the girls were wearing plastic dresses for that "nude look." I do know that the afternoon past-time for the girls around here seems to be shopping for spring outfits, but I think they are sticking to the conventional materials. Happy April Fool's Day!

Letters To The Editor

Dear Carl,
 I want to say that I have enjoyed every issue of my college paper very much. You are surely to be commended on a job well-done for this year. Receiving these copies brings back "precious memories."
 Personally, I am glad that the cheap section of the paper has been discarded—"scummings" that is.
 An old friend,
 Henry Speight

Dear students, faculty and staff:
 To those of you who worked with the Religious Emphasis committee in the planning and work in sponsoring Religious Emphasis week on our campus, I would like to express my sincere appreciation. The work done was certainly a mark of cooperation and effort on the part of the committee chairmen and all of those who worked with them. The success of the week can be accredited to not one, but everyone working with the committee.
 As chairman, may I say again thank you for such fine cooperation.
 Sincerely,
 Evangeline Baker,
 General Chairman
 Religious Emphasis Committee

Fellow students:
 I feel it a great honor to have been a candidate in the recent elections, and an even greater honor to know that more students participated in this election than at any other time. My sincere thanks are extended to each student for his part in the campaign.

I shall endeavor at all times to keep the faith which has been placed in me and I hope that I may never feel that I have failed the trust.

Thank you all for the excellent support given to the other candidates and me.

Sincerely,
Al Livesay

Poem Of The Week

The Lighthouse
 I stood at the lighthouse window
 To watch a ship sail by—
 To watch the glowing sunbeams
 Splashed on the water and sky.
 I watched until the golden rays
 Faded away into gray.
 I watched until the moonlight
 Flooded the silvery bay.
 But still my ship is sailing by—
 It will not come to rest.
 And I must wonder fitfully
 Until my dreams are blessed.
 Until the meaning of my soul
 Is finally brought to light.
 Until my ship sails past the sea
 To come to rest in Jesus' sight.

Trick Of The Trade

Leave it to the musicians to become mathematicians or scientists and act on the spur of the moment. At least give them credit for being able to solve a problem or cope with a situation, for the Centennial Chorus did just that at the conclusion of their program which was presented in Wright auditorium last Tuesday evening.

At the conclusion of their one hour program and after leaving the stage, the Chorus was cheered loudly and encore after encore was called for. And then the director used what could be the foxiest and most diplomatic move ever known in show business in coping with this situation.

He merely led his chorus out onto the stage as usual, announced that they had nowhere to go and that they might as well sing, and then led them through a very snappy little number and then out of a clear blue sky, he led them through "The Lord's Prayer."

It wasn't until the Chorus was half-way off the stage before all but a dozen or so of the amazed audience realized that sacred music is never applauded. Before the now thoroughly confused audience could collect their wits, the Chorus, under the direction of a very shrewd director, had left the stage and quite possibly the entire building.

"Why? Well, I simply don't go out with just ANYBODY—and I don't even know you! Besides, I don't go out on less than two weeks' notice! Furthermore, I have a date at 8 o'clock for a play practice at 8 o'clock on Wed. and I don't have to show up... What? What? playing the part of a lady who... Oh, I see, you were just calling JANE KINGS... I thought you were... Well, this is Jane. You'll be ready to tell on her!"

SPORTS VIEW

BY BERNARD WEST

Things look much brighter for the future of East Carolina intramural basketball.

Dr. N. M. Jorgenson, head of the Athletic department, has announced that the East Carolina administration recently advised him that intramural basketball won't be taking the back seat to all the other activities on campus next season as it did this past year.

Intramural cage activities will have a lot more importance next year, he said. When schedules are drawn up and dates taken on the gymnasium calendar for intramurals, those dates won't be broken, Jorgenson added.

This looks very promising from this corner. It appears that the administration now sees the importance of intramurals, or that the administration now sees how intramurals have been suffering.

The administration is the party who can do something about the situation and it looks as if they are now going to take action. Our thanks to the administration.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT!

Believe it or not, but East Carolina Men's Intramural Basketball loop finally has a 1950 champion!

It took lots of pushing, worry and trouble on the part of the intramural officials (the men who arranged the league playoffs), lots of patience on the part of the players, and lots of patience and stamina on the part of the referees who called the games, but it was finally accomplished.

For those who arranged the tourney, the problems were getting the schedules drawn up, getting the use of the gymnasium, posting the schedules and handling the scoring and timekeeping, plus numerous other little headaches causing problems that folks on the outside never think about.

Those poor fellows who refereed the games really had it rough. They took a lot of valuable time from studying or courting or other amusements and used that time to call games that were really hard to call. They took the complaints and name-calling from the players. All this they did, and they were doing it on their own free will, getting nothing in return. They didn't get a red cent for what they did (except those boys who called the championship game).

The players, although they didn't have to bother about drawing up schedules or officiating the games, or any of the fundamentals of operating the tourney, had a lot to put up with.

They had to play their games whenever the games could be arranged. Seventeen games had to be played in three days, and there was one game, the title tilt, which had to have one of those days all to itself. In other words many of the teams had to play two games in one night.

There was very little time for the teams to practice, and the way the tourney had to be scheduled made it so inconvenient for some of the team members that they had to miss games. Preliminary games began at 5:00 o'clock each day, and some of the boys had classes while their teams were playing.

Thank goodness we can look forward to this situation not recurring next year.

SPRING SPORTS BEGIN

Yesterday opened spring sports at East Carolina with a bang. With all three Buccaneer squads, the baseballers, the golfers, and the tennisers, swinging into action on home courts against the Guilford Quakers, sports fans hereabouts really had plenty of action to satisfy their appetites!

According to the schedules of the Pirate teams for this spring, there are going to be lots more contests on the home grounds. There are 24 events slated at Greenville. The diamond lads will play 14 home games. The links boys have five matches at home, and the netmen have a like number of home matches.

This should be some sort of a record of home sports events at East Carolina for one season. The athletic department is really getting on the ball in that department. Here's looking forward to more such seasons!

WOULDN'T IT BE WONDERFUL!

This week this corner is going to publish its own "Could It Be Possible?" with a slight variation. Wouldn't it be wonderful if it could be possible: that the new gymnasium could be completed for the fall, 1950 term? that everybody could have seen all of yesterday's three athletic events with Guilford at the same time? that East Carolina teams could be good enough to join the Southern conference next season? that East Carolina could get Jane Russell to come here and play ball next season (or the rest of this season)? that this section of this column won't be here anymore? that this column won't be here anymore?

Twelve Champions Crowned In Pitt Boxing Tournament

The second annual Pitt County Amateur Boxing tournament sponsored by the East Carolina Athletic department, wound up Saturday night at Wright gym with 12 champions being crowned, from the "smokeweight" division to the heavyweight class.

This year's affair was even more successful than the first meet, which was staged last year, according to Athletic director N. M. Jorgenson. There were 64 fighters competing in the latest tourney, whereas only 44 fought in the initial matches in 1949.

Belvoir Wins Team Crown

Belvoir's scrappy sluggers took home the team championship trophy this year as they piled up more points than any other outfit during the tournament. The Belvoir team was coached by East Carolina's Ken Stargardt and Henry Bruton.

Three of the Belvoir pugs captured the crowns in their divisions. They were Floyd Langley, in the flyweight class; Lynwood Hathaway, in the bantamweight division; and Wesley Manning in the welterweight class.

Conway Only Repeater

Wallace Conway, hard-punching Greenville 170-pounder, was the only repeating champion from last year's tournament. He copped the heavyweight crown again this year, and was voted the outstanding fighter of the tourney.

Little Leland Evans, Winterville 93-pound mosquitoweight king of the PCABT for 1950, was voted the most popular boxer of the meet.

Trophies Presented

The winning team, Belvoir, was presented a trophy, as were the coaches, Stargardt and Bruton. The individual champs received miniature golden gloves, and the runners-up, miniature silver gloves.

The results in the finals Saturday night were:

Smokeweight (55-57 lbs.)

Delbert Smith (Greenville) decisioned Max Smith (Greenville)

Leafweight (78-80 lbs.)

Marvin Blount (Greenville) and Steve Wilkerson (Greenville), draw

Gnatweight (83-88 lbs.)

J. B. Nichols (Bell Arthur) and Aaron Rhodes (Greenville) draw

Paperweight (76-78 lbs.)

Robert Manning (Ayden) decisioned Jimmy Sutton (Bell Arthur)

Mosquitoweight (95-97 lbs.)

Leland Evans (Winterville) decisioned Jimmy Manning (Ayden)

Fleaweight (104-110 lbs.)

Charles Sutton (Bell Arthur) decisioned James Hunt (Grimesland)

Flyweight (112-115 lbs.)

Floyd Landry (Belvoir) decisioned Melvin Hathaway (Belvoir)

Bantamweight (118-123 lbs.)

Lynwood Hathaway (Belvoir) KO over Dean Wingate (Winterville)

Featherweight (125-128 lbs.)

Leighton Jones (Winterville) decisioned Curtis Dennis (Ayden)

Lightweight (130-135 lbs.)

Joseph Baker (Winterville) over Howard Hathaway (Belvoir) forfeit

Welterweight (140-145 lbs.)

Wesley Manning (Belvoir) over Leslie Coggins (Belvoir), forfeit.

Heavyweight (170-172 lbs.)

Wallace Conway (Greenville), TKO over Bryan Elks (Grimesland), 50 seconds in third round.

Guilford Baseball Nine Tops Locals With 11-4 Victory

The East Carolina Pirate baseball team dropped its season opener yesterday to Guilford by a 11-4 margin. It was a North State conference contest.

Buc hurlers allowed the Quakers only four hits while their mates were slamming out 11 off Guilford's Wolf. However, the winners collected theirs when they were needed, and capitalized on 12 walks and three Buc errors to gain their runs.

Wolf went the entire stretch for Guilford. Lefty Bob McCotter opened on the mound for the losers. He was replaced by Byrd in the top of the seventh. Hobbs came in to relieve Byrd in the ninth.

Dungeons Cop Tournament Cage Crown; Top Yankees

The talented lads from Dungeon of Wright gymnasium copped the 1950 East Carolina Men's Intramural Basketball championship Monday night by defeating the hard-fighting Yankees, 25-19.

Led by Ott Alford and James Parker, the Dungeons fought back against the heavier Yank squad after spotting them a five-point lead in the early minutes of the first half to pull up to a 12-12 tie at the intermission.

The winners jumped ahead at the beginning of the second half and then kept pace with their opponents' scoring the rest of the route to come out on top.

Alford and Parker led the winning attack. Each pumped in eight points. The entire Dungeon squad played heads-up all after the first half. The Yanks, dominating the play in the first period, couldn't get into gear in the last half. Their ace point-maker, Dick Palmer, was almost completely shacked all night. He managed to get only one field goal through the hoops for two points.

The Yanks were led by Ken Booth and Max Fuchek, who got six and five points, respectively. Both teams gained their final positions by coming out on top in their respective brackets in last week's playoffs. The Yanks whipped the Junior G-Men, 22-7; they turned

Ken Stargardt

Athlete Of The Issue

This week's "Athlete of the Issue" laurels go to a promising young boxer, Ken Stargardt, from Richmond, Virginia, for his outstanding performances in the ring at East Carolina for the past two years.

Stargardt, a sophomore, graduated from Manchester high in Richmond in 1946. During his four year period in scholastic competition, Stargardt participated in football, basketball and baseball. After attending prep school for one year, and spending nine months in the Navy, he entered East Carolina in the fall of 1948.

Began In College

Ken had never been in a boxing ring until he enrolled in college. Coach Johnny Long thought he was a good prospect and coaxed him into boxing. Now the 155-pounder is one of the hardest-hitting punchers in North Carolina. He is a clever sharpshooter and is a real drawing card for the local pugilists. Many schools on the Pirate schedule have learned not to bring a 155-pounder with them to Greenville because they know he will have to box Ken Stargardt. To put it plainly he is regarded as a plague to the opposition.

A young fighter with plenty of amateur bouts under his belt, the Virginian sports a wicked punch, and his ring savvy is improving with every showing. He can take a beating, but he can dish out punches that you wouldn't think a heavyweight could stand up under. Ken is not only a powerful slugger, but a great defensive fighter. He is fast and shifty on his feet.

Clean Cut

Stargardt is a clean cut college boxer who fights fair, and believes in a rigid training schedule. He never questions the advice of the coach, and looks like the 155-pound collegiate boxer to watch in 1951.

His greatest triumph came last Saturday night when he coached a

Buc Links Squad Gains Big Triumph Over Quaker Club

The East Carolina golfers continued their supremacy against North State loop clubs on the links yesterday by walloping the Guilford Quakers, 19 1/2 to 7 1/2, on the Greenville Country club course.

Playing without their No. 1 man, Bill Stalls, the Buc linksters pushed forth another top golfer, Moulton Massey, to lead them to victory. Massey was medalist for the day with a 76, with rounds of 40 and 36.

Stalls, the pace-setter of the club for two years and one of the golfers in the N. S. conference, received an invitation to play in the Azalea Open Golf tournament at Wilmington this weekend, and so was absent from the meet here.

Massey teamed with Bill Exum, and that pair gained a 7-2 victory in their foursome. Charlie Bill Moye and Ben Harrison notched a 6 1/2-2 1/2 win in their foursome, and Milton Zellin and Walter Wells won, 6-3.

Stalls Doing OK

Bill Stalls, East Carolina golfer competing in the $10,000 Azalea Open at Wilmington, yesterday posted a one-over, 73 in the first round to take 20th place in a field of 125 golfers.

Stalls' score put him in the lead in the field of amateurs competing in the second annual tourney.

high school team, along with Henry Bruton, that fought its way through the finals of the Pitt County Boxing tourney. He had three boxers in the finals, and also won the coaches trophy for coaching the winning team.

So goes the story of a boxer that can throw a whale of a wallop in 1950, but had never been in a boxing ring until 1948.

New Pirate Captain

Lefty Bob McCotter, who has been chosen by his Pirate baseball mates to captain the 1950 Buc diamond squad. Bob, a four-year veteran of the Pirate mound staff, is a talented southpaw tosser and one of the three regular moundmen returning from last season. He should reach his peak this year in a very successful career as a Buc hurler. Lefty opened against the Guilford Quakers yesterday in the first game of the season for the Buc. Named as alternate field captains for this year's nine were Jack Wallace, third baseman, and George Wood, catcher.

Visiting Netters Edge Buccaneers With Singles Wins

Guilford's Quaker tennis team won four of five singles matches on the local courts yesterday in their battle with the East Carolina Pirate netmen to walk off with a 4-3 win as the Buc doubles teams garnered wins in both doubles matches.

Dick Palmer got the Buc off to a good start by whipping Guilford's Earl Reeves in the singles scrap. Then East Carolina's Art Holland, Gorrell Bass, Dave Jones and Max Garrell lost to Guilford's June Ayuscur, Ollie Bisette, Jerry Watson and Larry Fine, respectively, and the match was Guilford's.

The Pirates doubles teams of Holland and Bass, and Palmer and Jones, made the score more nearly even, however, as they whipped the Guilford doubles teams of Reeves and Ayuscur, and Bisette and Watson, respectively.

The scores were: Singles; Palmer (EC) over Reeves, 6-1, 6-4; Ayuscur (Guilford) over Holland, 6-2, 6-2; Bisette (Guilford) over Bass, 6-2, 5-7, 6-1; Watson (Guilford) over Jones, 9-7, 6-4; and Fine over Garrell, 6-2, 5-7, 6-1. Doubles: Holland and Bass (EC) over Reeves and Ayuscur, 9-7, 3-6, 6-3; and Palmer and Jones (EC) over Bisette and Watson, 6-4, 6-3.

The Pirate netmen tangle with Guilford again today on the home courts. They journey to Raleigh tomorrow to engage the N. C. State tennis squad.

Intramural managers elected were Janet Davis for the Purple squad, and Jean Beddingfield for the Gold team.

Nell Stallings, of the Athletic department, said this week that nothing new has developed in the possibility that East Carolina lassies may compete in the Play Day scheduled at Meredith college April 22.

She added that if the girls don't go to Meredith, she plans to hold a play day at East Carolina sometime next month.

New WAA Officers Elected At Meet

Officers for the East Carolina Women's Athletic Association for next year were elected by the group at a meeting held Thursday night, March 23.

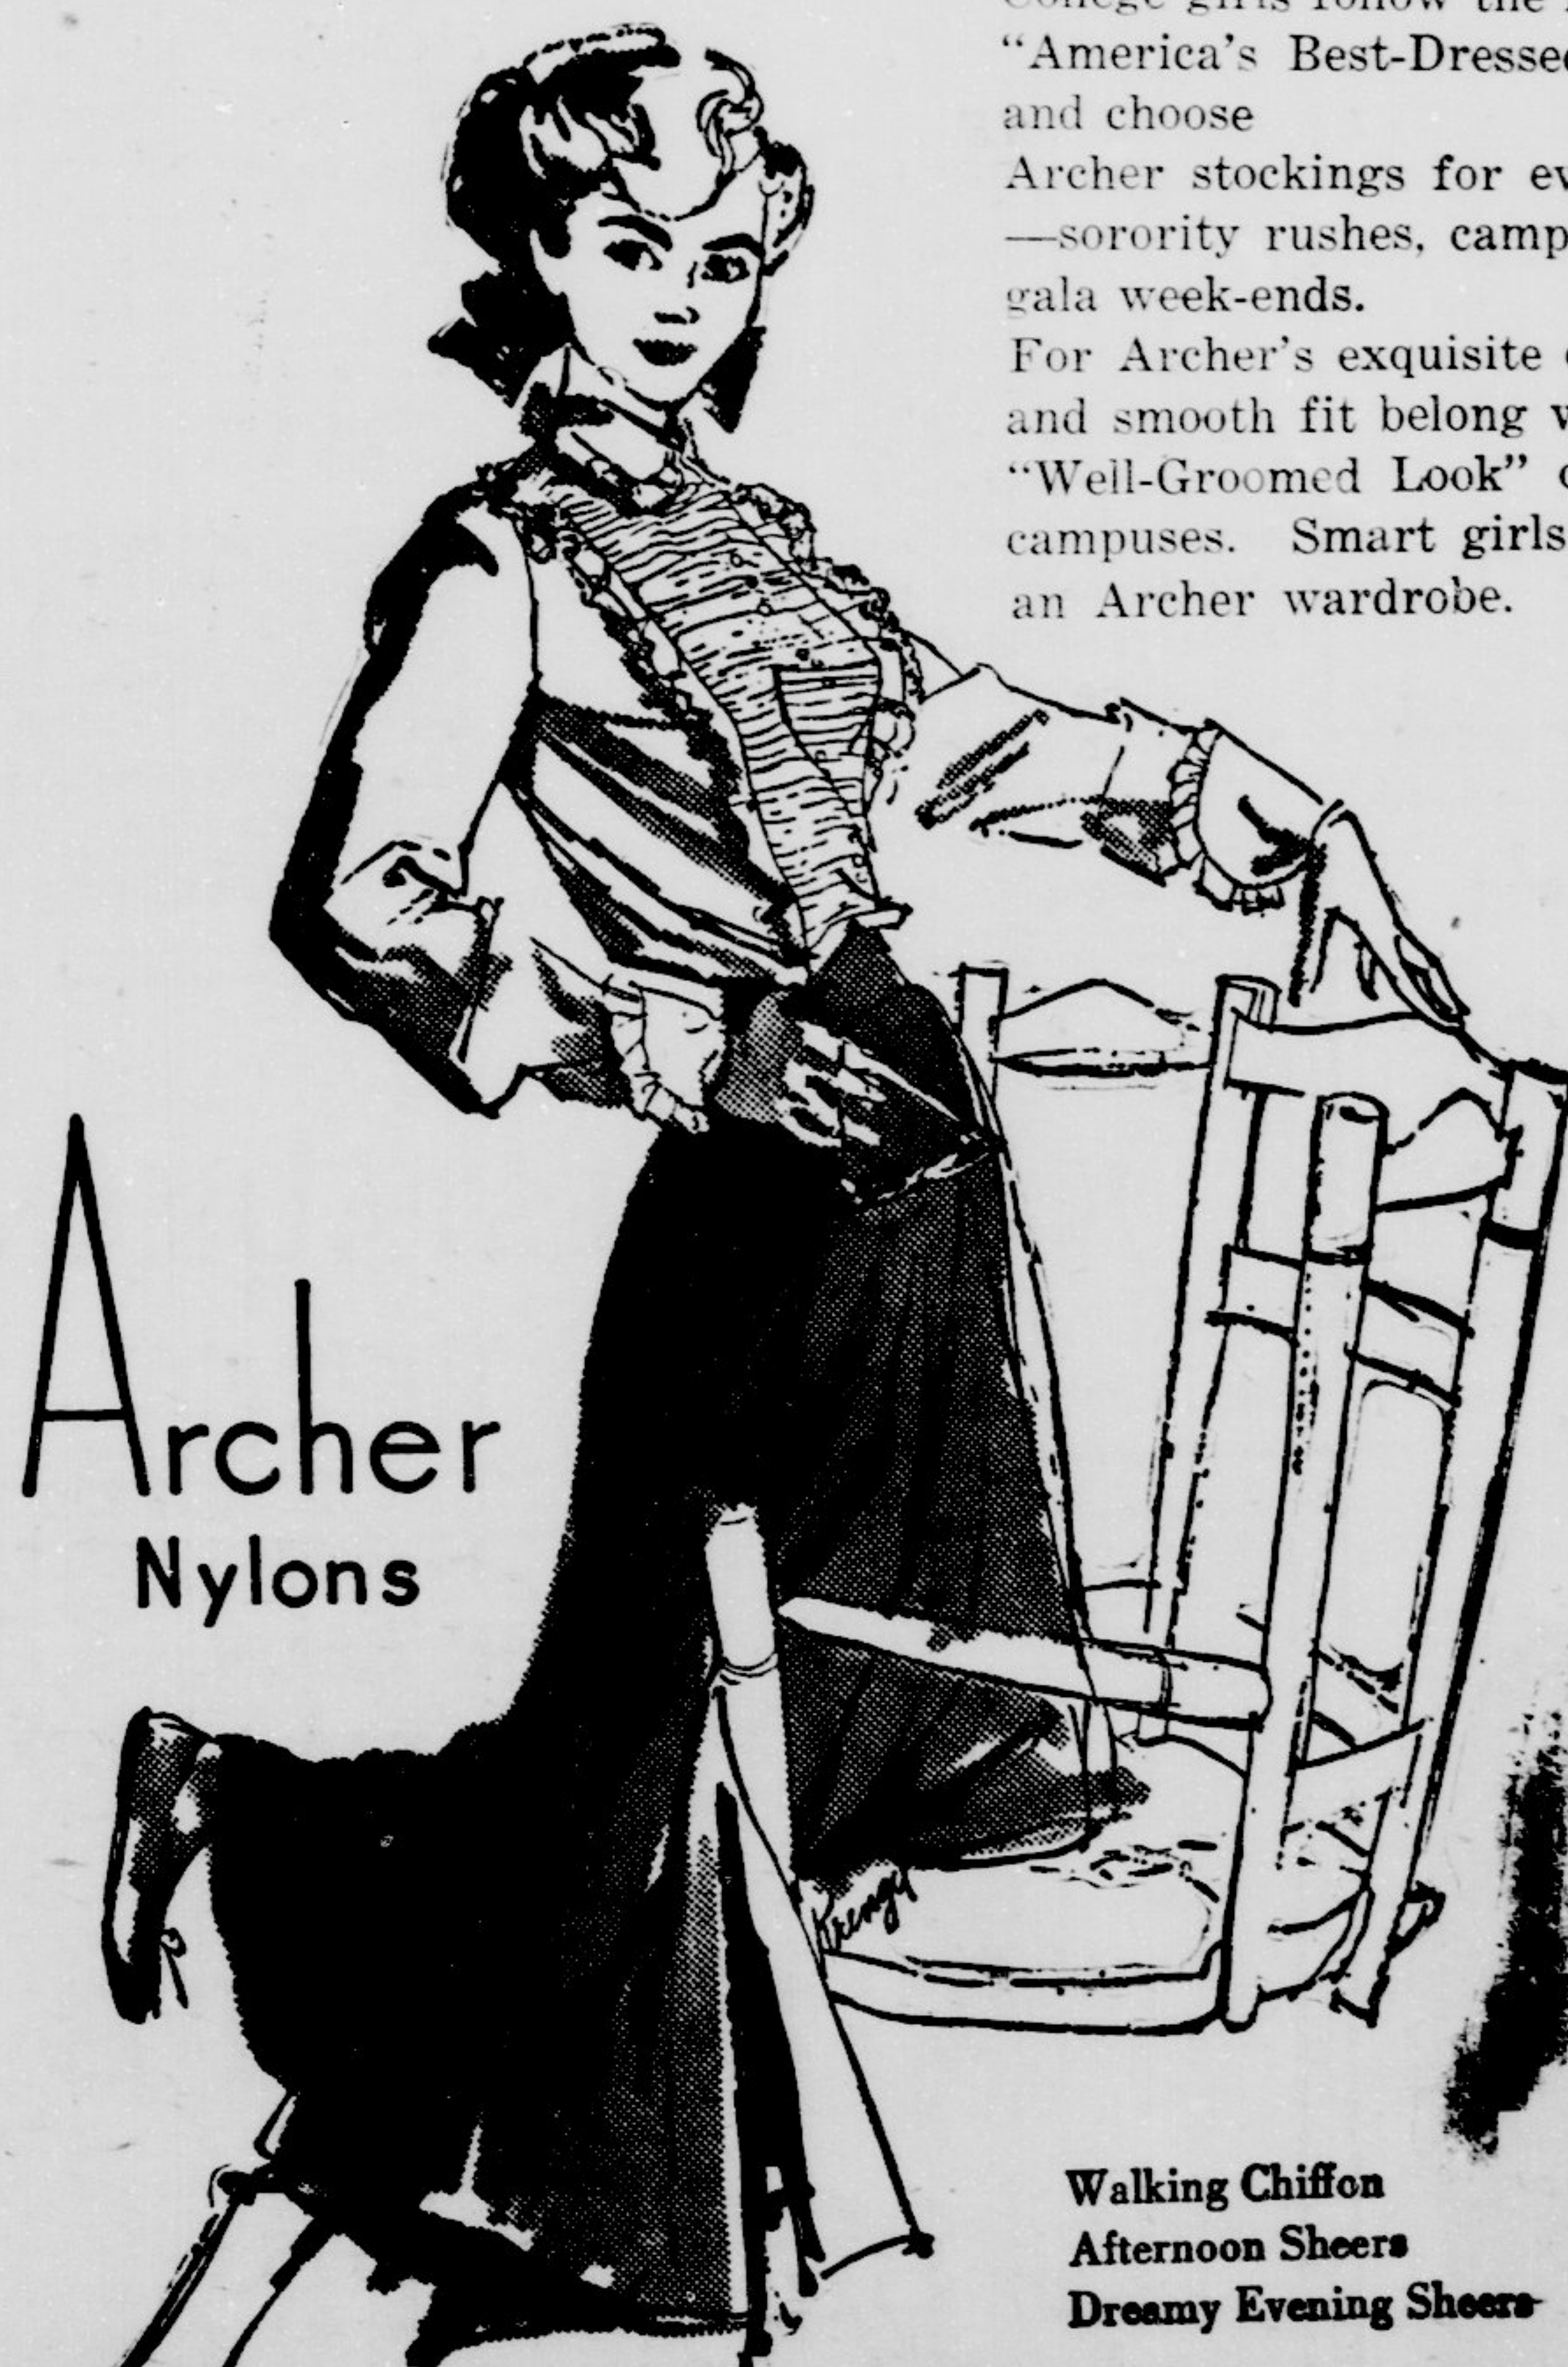

Helen Duncan was named to the president's office, succeeding Florence Boerckel. Janie Blalock was elected vice-president of the group. She succeeds Doris Pleasant in this office.

Mattie Lou Bland is the new secretary of the WAA. Anne Winstead is the outgoing secretary. Jean Beddingfield was elected treasurer.

The Tecoco and TECO ECHO officers elected at the meeting are Alicia Blue and Sara Jane Hester,

Broadcasts From East Carolina Number 102 In Winter Quarter

Activities Of Radio Studio On Campus Cited By Director

Originating from the campus studios at East Carolina were 100 programs broadcast during the winter quarter of 1949-1950. Two additional broadcasts from the Wright auditorium bring the number of college-sponsored and produced programs to 102 for the period from November 28, 1949 to February 26, 1950.

A report on campus radio activities has just been issued by Marquerite Austin, faculty member and production manager of the college studios. In it she gives a descriptive outline of broadcasts and a numerical summary of types of special and regular programs given during the winter quarter.

Story Hour Most Frequent

The story hour for children "Once Upon A Time," sponsored by the Teachers Playhouse of the college and given five times each week, leads the list in respect of frequency. A total of fifty-one fifteen-minute broadcasts in the series were presented over the air during the quarter.

Other regularly scheduled broadcasts for the period mentioned in Miss Austin's report were thirteen newscasts by the college News Bureau; nine programs by the college department of music; nine in a series of commentaries on world affairs by faculty members of the social studies department; and a series of sports-casts, interviews, and special broadcasts.

Many Groups Take Part

Six departments of instruction were represented in the radio activities of the quarter. Other groups participating in or sponsoring programs include the TECO ECHO, student newspaper; the staff of the Alumni Office on the campus; representatives of the Student Government Association; the Jarvis Forensic club; officers of the March of Dimes drive for Pitt County; and the Robert H. Wright Chapter of the Future Teachers of America. Individual student and faculty participations in various broadcasts, according to Miss Austin, numbered 325.

The college radio studios located in the Communications Center in the Graham building were opened on October 10, 1949, with Miss Austin as production manager and program director. Through February 26 a total of 164 programs had originated from the studios and been broadcast over the facilities of Station WGTC of Greenville.

Donald Hatch Wins Prize For Letter-

A carton of Chesterfield cigarettes will go to Donald Hatch for the letter printed recently in the TECO ECHO regarding the community chest drive now receiving consideration by the Student Legislature.

The plan of giving a carton of Chesterfield cigarettes to the person who would write the best letter to the editor was recently begun by the Chesterfield company, according to campus representative, Ed Casey.

Selection of the winner each week will be made by the editor with the assistance of various staff members. Letters should be addressed to the editor and should be on some campus activity or problem.

Pleasant To Serve As ACE President

At a meeting of the Association for Childhood Education which was held Tuesday evening, March 21, Doris Pleasant was elected president of the club for next year. Other officers that will serve with her are: Clara Jenkins, first vice-president; Janice Hardy, second vice-president; Jane Perry, third vice-president; Jane Gainey, secretary-treasurer; Jane Grate, corresponding secretary; Jean Jackson, historian; Anne Whitehurst, publications; Ethel Parks, publicity.

order to avoid inconveniencing the guests. Students and faculty are also requested to park their cars off the campus during the guest hours in order to avoid congestion.

College Students Act As Guides

In carrying out the program, selected students will be asked to act as guides and hosts. These students will be excused from class as necessary. All other students will be expected to meet their regular classes until 2:00 p.m.

According to Dr. McGinnis, a souvenir program booklet will be given each guest on arrival and the student assembly is planning to provide souvenir stickers of ECTC which the guests may display on their cars or otherwise as they so desire.

As announced by Dr. McGinnis, committees and committee chairmen have been named and will include: Mr. Marshall and G. Raz Autry, student hosts, hostesses and guides; Dr. Long, registration; Dr. Willmann, music; Dr. Jorgenson, recreation; Mr. Julian, lunch; Mr. Hollar, traffic and parking; Mr. Powell, county placards; Mr. Noel, traffic and building placards; Mr. Bray, lunch tickets; Miss Greene, news and publicity; Dr. McGinnis, general chairman. These committees will select other faculty and student members to assist with committee assignments.

In cooperation with this program, students are asked to mail their copy of this issue of the TECO ECHO to the senior class president of their home school.

Playhouse Gives Two Short Plays To Arts Festival

As a contribution to the Greenville Community Arts Festival, the Teachers Playhouse of East Carolina presented Thursday, March 30, an evening of short plays from Spain and South Africa. Performances were held in the Flanagan building on the campus and were open to the public.

"Die Happy," a mystery play by Peter Godfrey, and "A Sunny Morning," by the Quinteros were presented with casts of students from the college. Dr. Lucile H. Charles, director of speech and the drama in the department of English, was general director and had as her assistants Ralph Rives of Enfield, Claude B. West, Jr. of Greenville, and Garland Jackson of Bailey, student directors.

Godfrey's mystery story was presented through special arrangements with the author. A reading of a short story of the same name in Ellery Queen's Mystery Magazine caused Geraldine Weathers to write the author for permission to dramatize it. Answering from near Cape Town, South Africa, he suggested that she make use of his own dramatization and offered to send copies. The script arrived about two weeks ago. Since that time, members of the Teachers Playhouse have been busy with rehearsals.

The cast of "Die Happy" includes Miss Weathers of Selby, Joseph Congleton of Littleton, A. E. Manning of Jamesville, Milton Sawyer of Camden, William Torrens of Warsaw, Jeanette Hamilton of Magnolia, and Doris Brinson of New Bern.

Taking part in "A Sunny Morning" will be Robert Craft of Beulaville, Barbara Eisele of Statesville, Mildred Stapleford of New Bern, and Milam Johnson of Eure.

Fifty Finish Requirements For Degrees Winter Quarter

Fifty students at East Carolina Teachers college completed their work at the end of the winter quarter, February 25, and are now eligible for degrees, according to an announcement just issued from the office of Dr. J. K. Long, registrar. The students will be graduated at commencement exercises held at the close of the regular school term on May 15. Forty-five of the winter-quarter candidates for degrees are North Carolinians and represent twenty-one counties of the state. Of the remaining five students, two are from Virginia, and the others from Pennsylvania, New York and West Virginia. Men students who are members of the group number thirty-seven, and women students, thirteen.

Twenty-nine of the total number are candidates for the degree of bachelor of science, which at East Carolina is a professional degree for teachers. Nineteen of the students will receive the liberal arts degree.

Otis Powell of Danville, Va., and Madaline Davenport of Oak City completed their work for the master of arts degree, which at East Carolina is also conferred upon those preparing themselves for careers in teaching. Mr. Powell specialized in school administration and the social studies; and Miss Davenport, in elementary administration.

North Carolinians who are candidates for degrees are listed by counties below:

ALAMANCE: B. S.—Walter M. Jackson, Burlington; BEAUFORT: A. B.—George T. High, Washington; Howard Ray Lupton, Pantego; B. S.—R. Truman Cherry, Washington; George H. Hinds, Washington; BLADEN: A. B.—Eugene O. Hall, Elizabethtown;

CRAVEN: B. S.—Robert B. Gaskins, New Bern; Edith M. Ipock, Vanceboro; DARE: B. S.—Steward M. Daniels, Wanchese; DUPLIN: A. B.—Patricia A. Wilson, Rose Hill; DURHAM: B. S.—Donald B. Nash-Edgecombe

The Nash-Edgecombe chapter met at the home of Mrs. W. N. Webster (Thelma Everett) on Western Avenue.

A business session was conducted by Miss Ella Moore, president of the chapter. Members voted to make a contribution to the "Beautification Project" at the college. Mrs. Ray D. Jones (Marguerite Wallace), Mrs. Webster and Miss Mavis Proctor were appointed as a nominating committee to prepare the slate of officers for the coming year.

The chapter held an auction sale conducted by Gordon Waters and George Burton, former students of Miss Moore.

The May meeting will be with Mrs. Lucile Bullock Hall and Mrs. William H. Brake (Minnie Ross).

New Hanover

Dr. Howard J. McGinnis, director of Field Services, was guest of the New Hanover chapter when it met at Wilmington college on March 21. Dr. McGinnis gave an interesting review of the many changes and the progress made by East Carolina during the current year. The speaker showed the college film and gave a brief narration of how and when the shots were taken of the campus, students and faculty.

Mrs. Heyward C. Bellamy (Mary Cameron Dixon), president, presided. The chapter referred the sponsoring of the Children's Plays to the Executive council for action.

The group decided to honor Janice Perry who will represent East Carolina at the Azalea Festival on April 1.

The date for the next meeting was set for May 3, when the election of officers will take place.

Onslow County

The Onslow County chapter held its March meeting at the home of Mrs. Lott Thomas (Virginia Cavanaugh). The president, Tex Lindsey, presided during the business meeting. After several progressions of bridge the hostess served sandwiches, cake and coffee.

Kinston-Lenoir County

Margaret Carol Banks was elected president of the Kinston-Lenoir County chapter at a meeting held recently at the home of Mrs. L. T. Wheatley (Mary Ward Hardy). Ester Hardee was named vice president; Mrs. Kirby Loftin (Edna Moore), secretary; and Mrs. J. L. Mills (Ruby Stocks), treasurer.

Mr. Donatis Sukelis, a native of Lithuania, now a resident of Kinston, was guest speaker. He talked informally of his native land and told of coming to this country with 1200 other displaced persons. He is pleased with the life he has found here, he stated, and he faces the future optimistically.

Plans were made for the annual banquet to be held on April 18 with President Messick as guest speaker.

The program was followed by a social hour. Mrs. Wheatley assisted by Mrs. Francis Edwards (Annie Laurie Kennedy), Blanch Harper Mosley, and Mary Louise Wooten, served a sweet course and coffee.

Former Student Has Poem Published

Mrs. Lucile Noell Dula, Hillsboro writer and teacher of English in the Burlington high school, has had a poem, "Ambition," accepted for publication in the National Poetry Anthology for Teachers. Mrs. Dula's poem was one of about 500 chosen from the more than 10,000 manuscripts submitted.

Mrs. Dula began her writing while a student at East Carolina. During her freshman year she won a national letter writing contest sponsored by Household magazine.
