Annual High School Day Draws Large Delegations To College Campus

Metropolitan Opera Soprano

Patrice Munsel

Young Metropolitan Opera Star To Appear In Concert

Noted Singer Wins Metropolitan Opera Contract When 17

Patrice Munsel, young Metropolitan opera coloratura soprano who has received high praise from music critics since her debut in 1943, will appear in concert at East Carolina Monday, April 24 at 8:30 p. m. in Wright auditorium.

Now in the course of her seventh national concert tour, the noted soprano became a national figure in 1943 after winning the Metropolitan Opera auditions of the Air at the age of 17. At her debut in December of that year, she received an ovation at the Metropolitan which lasted for seven minutes. The youngest singer ever to be honored with a contract by the Metropolitan for appearances in leading coloratura roles, Miss Munsel will be only 25 on her next birthday, May 14.

Makes Debut In 'Mignon'
Miss Munsel made her debut in "Mignon" and has since appeared at the Metropolitan in "Barber of Seville," "Lucia di Lammermoor," "Rigoletto," "Tales of Hoffman," "Lakme," "Golden Cockerel," and "Romeo and Juliet."

After hearing her on tour with the Metropolitan and in concert appearances, critics and audiences throughout the country have concurred to descriptions of Miss Munsel as a "young woman of phenomenal talents."

Pat Morton To Reign As Queen Of Colorful May Day Festivals

May Day Festivals will be held at the college stadium on the campus Saturday, April 29, at 4 p. m., according to retiring SGA President Raz Autry. Pat Morton will reign as May Queen.

In one of the most colorful celebrations held at East Carolina in a number of years, the Queen will be crowned on the football field. Included on the program will be various contests, May dances, sack racing, and other dances by members of the physical education department.

Arrangements and plans for the celebration are being worked out by the P. E. department, assisted by the music department and a student committee.

Attendants
Jane Cole was selected in the recent campus election as Maid of Honor to Queen Morton. Attendants who will participate in the crowning include Cooker Morton, Jessie Braxton, Reba Lee, Florence Boerckel, Janice Perry, Jean Jackson, Christine Strickland, Martha Koonce, Dot Jennings, Mary Lois Jester, Iva

Fleming, Jarvis Halls Pick New 1950-51 Officers

Marie Aycock of Black Creek and Becky Holcomb of Grifton will serve, respectively, as presidents of Fleming and Jarvis halls, during the 1950-51 term. Officers to direct activities in the two residence halls for women were chosen in recent elections; those for Cotten hall, which is reserved for freshmen, will be elected at the beginning of the fall quarter in September.

In addition to Miss Aycock, Fleming hall officers for the next school year are Jane Albritton, Snow Hill, vice president; Lucy Robertson, Williamson, secretary; and the following members-at-large: Margie Smith, Kinston; Jean Jackson, Angier; Doris Brinson, New Bern; Frances Wilson, Dunn; Helen Duncan, Murfreesboro; and Ellen Buffkin, Tabor City.

Serving with Miss Holcomb in Jarvis hall will be Mary Wallace Foy, Pollocksville, vice president; Betty Ann Shaw, Weldon, secretary; and six members-at-large: Elda Richmond Burlington; Carrie Mae Smith, Seven Springs; Eleanor Hamilton and Anne Nicholson, Richlands; Jeanette Hamilton, Magnolia; and Janie Starling, Clinton.

College Choir Completes Plans For Concert Tour

The East Carolina Teachers college choir has completed plans for a series of performances to be given next week in five towns of the eastern section of North Carolina. Directed by Dr. Karl V. Gilbert of the faculty, the College Choir is an organization of 55 men and women students. Nina Abernathy of Rocky Mount is accompanist.

Last year the group presented Christmas programs in Robersonville, Rocky Mount, Farmville and Greenville and gave a number of performances on the campus here. This year, wearing their concert formal costumes of tuxedos or white evening dresses, members will present, under Dr. Gilbert's direction, a program including religious music, folk songs, and selections from both classic and modern composers.

Tours Begin April 25
The tour for this spring will begin Tuesday, April 25, in Tarboro with a program in the high school there at 1:35 in the afternoon. That evening at 8:00 o'clock the choir will sing in the Rocky Mount Methodist church.

Engagements will be filled on Wednesday, April 26, at the Charles L. Coon school in Wilson at 9:30 in the morning; at the Pikeville Methodist church at 3:00 in the afternoon; and at the Snow Hill high school at 8:00 in the evening.

Students Will Get Tecoa In Early May Morris States

The Tecoa, college annual of East Carolina, has been completed and will be ready for distribution to students about the first of May or sooner, George Morris, business manager of the annual, has stated.

Morris reported that the annual this year will be different from any the college has had in the past. It will include an index and directory of students, listing their names and home addresses for the first time in the history of the school.

Seniors Plan Show

The senior class will sponsor an amateur show in Austin auditorium Monday, May 1, at 7:30 p. m. A "Queen for a Day" will be chosen at the event. She will reign as "Queen of the Campus" during the day of May 2.

Anyone interested in competing on the amateur show is asked to contact Raz Autry. Competition is open to college students and townspeople.

Seniors Of East See College Life On Campus Today

by Wilton Joyner

Today is High School Day on the East Carolina college campus, and an estimated crowd of twenty-five hundred high school students and chaperones who have travelled from sections throughout the state as far as Vance and Robeson counties in approximately three hundred fifty automobiles and ten busses are now on campus in keeping with this annual event.

Comprising what is probably the largest delegation of high school students ever to assemble on this campus, the visitors arrived from 8:15 a. m. until 10:30 a. m. in groups of varying size about every fifteen minutes with the largest number of groups arriving at approximately 10 a. m. With Goldsboro, Washington and Greenville setting the pace, high schools sending the largest groups of seniors are Chocowinity, Morehead, Vanceboro, Raeford, Nashville, New Hope, Lucama, Bath, Edenton, Windsor, West Edgecombe, Chinquapin, Bailey and Grantham.

Balanced Program
A well-balanced program has been planned for the visitors by Dr. Howard J. McGinnis, program chairman, and his staff of assistants. This program of educational, informational, recreational and social events was scheduled to begin at 9:00 a. m. and last until 4:30 p. m. Highlights of this program include: visits to educational exhibits, departments and buildings; a program in Wright auditorium with a band concert, a welcome by President John D. Messick and music by the college choir; an R.O.T.C. drill on the campus drive; a one-act play presented by the Teachers Playhouse; a double-header baseball game between Appalachian State Teachers and East Carolina; free movie in the Austin building; and a tea dance in Wright (See HIGH SCHOOL DAY on Page 4)

Panel Discussion Is Program Of Business Education Fraternity

The Beta Kappa Chapter of Pi Omega Pi, national honorary business education fraternity, had as guest speakers at the monthly meeting Thursday, April 20, Dr. E. R. Browning, Dr. J. L. Oppelt of East Carolina and Mrs. Mary McCrary of the North Carolina State Employment Service Division, Greenville, N. C. They led a panel discussion on "Job Opportunities and Placements."

Preceding the program, a pledge service for the new members of the fraternity was conducted by John Getsinger, chapter president, assisted by Annie Frances Riddick, Jane Albritton, Ramona Sawyer, Louise Sugg, Jerry Bennett, William Exum and Levie Peyton.

Annual Awards Day To Be Held For Recognition Of Students

Certificates Will Be Given To Outstanding Students On Campus

Awards Day, begun last year by the Student Legislature as a method of recognizing outstanding students on the campus, will be held in Wright auditorium Tuesday evening, April 25, at 1 p. m., according to an announcement by Chairman Keith Kilpatrick.

During the program, awards of certificates will be given to students who will represent East Carolina in the annually published "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities," to students who have served on the Student Legislature during the year, to the outstanding senior of each department, and to the outstanding man and woman citizen of the year.

Messick to Present Awards
Presiding at the assembly, Kilpatrick will introduce President John D. Messick who will present the certificates to the various recipients. All students who served on the Legislature during the 1949-50 school year are requested to be at the assembly and sit in the front rows in the auditorium.

Those receiving departmental awards must have an average of not less than 2.2 and must have been one of the most outstanding seniors in the department during the year for which the award is received.

Selections Made
Persons who will receive the "Who's Who" awards were selected by a student-faculty committee this year. The man and woman citizens were selected by the Student Legislature at a recent meeting, and departmental representatives were selected by a student-faculty committee from each department.

Members of the Awards Board besides Kilpatrick are Jack Hedgepeth, retiring chairman of the Elections committee, and Carl G. Conner, retiring editor of the TECO ECHO.

Commerce Club Has Social Security Agent As Speaker

Marshall Barney, field office manager of the Social Security administration at Rocky Mount, will be guest speaker at the Commerce club meeting Tuesday, April 25.

Preceding Mr. Barney's speech, new officers will be installed. New officers include: President, Allan Berman; secretary, Mattie Faye Brown; treasurer, Douglas Moore; TECO ECHO reporter, Cleon Avery; Tecoa reporter, Joyce Adeock. There will be a run-off between Ivey Vann and Leon Bizzell for vice-president. The time of the meeting will be posted on the bulletin board at a later date.

Spring Holidays Are Distressing To Campus

by Carl G. Conner

Students buzzed in and out of class with an air of sadness and everywhere everyone seemed to be downcast about something which was just ahead—something that could not be avoided.

It was Friday 14, the day after the thirteenth, and books were being packed away in preparation for a holiday. The administration met in a few minutes of silent prayer and teachers paused in silence at the end of each class. Holidays—perfectly good days wasted—days when you might be giving words of wisdom or speaking the poetry of Shakespeare.

Campus In Distress
Outside the Austin building, the flag hung—but not in the natural position, it was upside down. The entire campus was in distress. Only once before had the flag been hung in such a position and that was when the snow covered the campus years ago and classes were suspended for two class periods.

In the classrooms the instructors gave out their last assignments as if they would never see the students again—in quantity that is. On the library door hung a wreath of wild roses flung there in haste as the staff left for their homes.

Press Silent
The paper press did not roll and Mr. Julian breathed a sigh of relief, knowing his name would not appear in that column slung from the typewriter of Curtis Nichols. The editor also took a rest and for once journeyed to the bounds of his home county.

The back steps of the administration building took a rest and the offices all closed—all but the Dean's, that is. Here the typewriters jumped up and down while those "not so satisfactory letters" were pounded out.

Squirrels and birds crawled out from their hiding places where they had taken cover from the campus "photo fans." Insects, worms and all such creeping things (used for lack of the scientific term) cautiously made an appearance, knowing that they would not end up in the collection of some biology student.

Memorial Service

A memorial service will be held in the Austin auditorium Tuesday evening, April 25 at 7 p. m. for Mrs. Adelaide Bloxton. President John D. Messick will speak on behalf of the administration and a member of the home economics department will speak for the department. Before her death last month, Mrs. Bloxton was head of the home economics department.

Students Will Be In Music Recital For Two Pianos

Pupils of Elizabeth Drake, faculty member of the department of music at East Carolina, will be presented Sunday afternoon, April 23, in a recital of music for two pianos. The program will take place at 4:00 o'clock in the Austin auditorium on the campus and will be open to the public.

Nineteen men and women students of piano will give a varied program during the afternoon, including such selections as Schumann's "Concerto in A Minor"; "The Arkansas Traveler," arranged for two pianos by Olive Dungan; Albeniz's "Tango in D," and Mozart's "Sonata in G."

Those who will appear in the recital are Elsie Kilby, Bath, and Leon Jackson, Pikeville; Peggy Laughlin, Asheboro, and Morton C. Miles, Henderson; Rose Brown and Marilyn Henaghan, Greenville; Nell Dean Owen, Asheville, and Louise Brooks, Falcon; Doris Fulcher, New Bern, and Victor Van Hook, Nashville; Frances Cherry, Tarboro, and Peggy Vaughan, Tarboro; Jean Shavender, Ransomville, and Jeannie Emsis, Dunn; Alison Hearne, Greenville, and Barbara Massey, Pleasant Hill; Pauline Moore, Bath, and Mary Wallace Foy, Pollocksville; and Rupert Browning, Logan, W. Va., who will play with Miss Drake.

Social Studies Prof To Serve On Labor Management Board

Dr. John J. George, professor of social studies at East Carolina, has accepted an appointment to serve as a member of the Committee on Labor-Management Relations of the American Political Science association.

Dr. George is qualified for his new office by varied experiences and activities. He has had administrative experience in handling labor cases for both the Federal and state governments. Before coming to East Carolina during the present school year, he taught political science at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J., for a number of years. Among his published articles are two recent studies on labor law, "Evidences in NLRB Cases" in the Cornell Law Review and "Unfair Labor Practices and Their Remedies" in the Rutgers University Law Review.

President Of Young Democrats Of State Talks To Local Club

In realizing that people have unfulfilled needs and in doing something definite to meet these needs, the Democratic party has a positive approach to government, said Terry Sanford, Fayetteville attorney and president of the Young Democrats club of North Carolina, in a talk at East Carolina last Thursday evening, April 13.

Mr. Sanford was guest speaker at a meeting of the campus YDC held in the Flanagan building. Joseph Congleton of Littleton, president of the college YDC, presided and gave details of the organization of the club.

Other Guests Present
Ada Jones, chairman of the First Congressional district of the YDC and for two years chairman in Pitt county, introduced Mr. Sanford. Special

Herbert Bonner Will Accompany Vice-President

by Gene Piner

Vice President of the United States Alben W. Barkley will be the principal speaker at the State Young Democrats rally to be held at East Carolina, Friday night, April 28. He will arrive here by plane with Congressman Herbert Bonner, in whose district the rally is being held. They will be accompanied by other members of the North Carolina congressional delegation.

Presiding over the rally and dinner which will be held in the Wright auditorium will be J. B. Spillman, Jr., president of the Pitt county YDC with which the campus YDC is closely affiliated.

Rally To Raise Funds
Terry Sanford, State YDC president who spoke to the campus organization recently, has stated that the rally would take the name of the "Annual Young Democrats Roosevelt Dinner." He said this would give the Young Democrats a dinner similar to the senior party's Jefferson Day dinners, and would afford the YDC a means of raising funds for participating in the activities of the Democratic Party.

Expected to attend the statewide YDC meeting, which will be held before the primary election in May, are Governor W. Kerr Scott and a number of State and National Democratic Party officials. Senatorial candidates have been invited to attend the rally, and Sanford said he felt confident that the crowd would be larger than those gathered for the recent YDC rallies at Greensboro and Asheville.

Tickets Allocated
Tickets for the dinner have been allocated on a county basis to the county YDC presidents, and are available for a $5 contribution to the party. Sanford said that due to the size of the auditorium there would be only a limited number of tickets available.

Officers of the campus YDC, which held its organizational meeting last month with 52 charter members present, have expressed elated reactions to news from the Pitt county president and state president that the rally would be held here. They have regarded it as a distinct honor that such a new Young Democrats club should be able to aid in playing host to Vice-President Barkley and other Democratic Party officials at a State rally, according to Joe Congleton, president of the campus group.

Five Members Of ACE Journey To Asheville For Study Conference

High light of the program at the last meeting of the Association for Childhood Education, Tuesday, April 18, was the discussion concerning the ACE International Study conference which was held in Asheville recently.

Five members of the campus group who attended the conference were: Patricia Davis, president; Frances Bizzell, TECO ECHO reporter; Doris Pleasant; Jan Grate; and Anne Whitehurst.

HIGH SCHOOL GREETINGS

We are delighted to welcome the high school seniors to the campus. Faculty, staff and students are proud of East Carolina Teachers college, and will be glad to answer any questions. Make this your college for the day, and visit as many departments and take part in as many activities as possible. We want you to know East Carolina better, and we are happy to have you here.
J. D. Messick, President

No other event on the campus of East Carolina Teachers college is anticipated with greater enthusiasm and joy than High School Day. We are anxious to meet you and have you view the many fine features present at our institution. We trust your visit here will be a most pleasant one.
Leo W. Jenkins, Dean

This is one of the most serious times in our history, and all young men and women have an obligation to prepare themselves to fit into the pattern of our social, economic, and political life. The choice of a college for such training is important, and we feel that East Carolina has much to offer you who are ambitious to prepare yourselves for the assumption of real responsibilities in the present-day world.

We welcome all of you who are about to graduate from high school to our campus. We hope you will enjoy your visit with us, and we trust that it will be so beneficial that you will make East Carolina your future Alma Mater.

WELCOME TO HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

Today is High School Day at East Carolina Teachers college. During the day some two thousand or more high school seniors will be on our campus. We welcome them to our college and hope that they will decide to make it their college too.

East Carolina has much to offer from a social standpoint as well as from an academic point of view. During the year the Entertainment committee, which functions under the Student Government, brings to the campus six outstanding entertainments of various types. Besides the entertainments, there are not less than twenty clubs and other such organizations on the campus which devote most of their time to social functions for the various students' interest.

Well rounded in every way, the college has one of the most effective student governments in southern colleges. Affairs of the students are carried out by a student legislature composed of the heads of the various organizations. These students plan the entertainments, handle conduct cases, plan the student budgets, and publish two publications, the TECO ECHO, student paper; and the Tecocoan, the yearbook.

While East Carolina is not the largest college in the south, we can say it is one of the friendliest. Few people visit on our campus who are not impressed with the outstanding display of friendliness among our students.

During the day, you will find many things in which you will be interested. Take time to see as much of the campus as possible, the various buildings, classrooms, the library, gym, the dormitories and other buildings as well as the many exhibits which have planned for you. Chances are that after you have seen the entire plant you will be even more impressed with East Carolina and will want to return after you complete school.

Again, we welcome you and hope that your visit here will be pleasant as well as informing.

NEW PRESIDENT INVITES VISITORS TO SGA MEETINGS

In an opening address to the Student Legislature last week, Al Livesay, new president of the SGA, made clear to that body that the students of East Carolina were to be welcome at all meetings. Livesay said, "I want it to be known that Legislature meetings are open to all students. We conduct the business of the student body here, and by limiting spectator visits, we place ourselves in a secretive position. We will do nothing in this Legislature of a secret nature. Secret meetings do not work in a democracy."

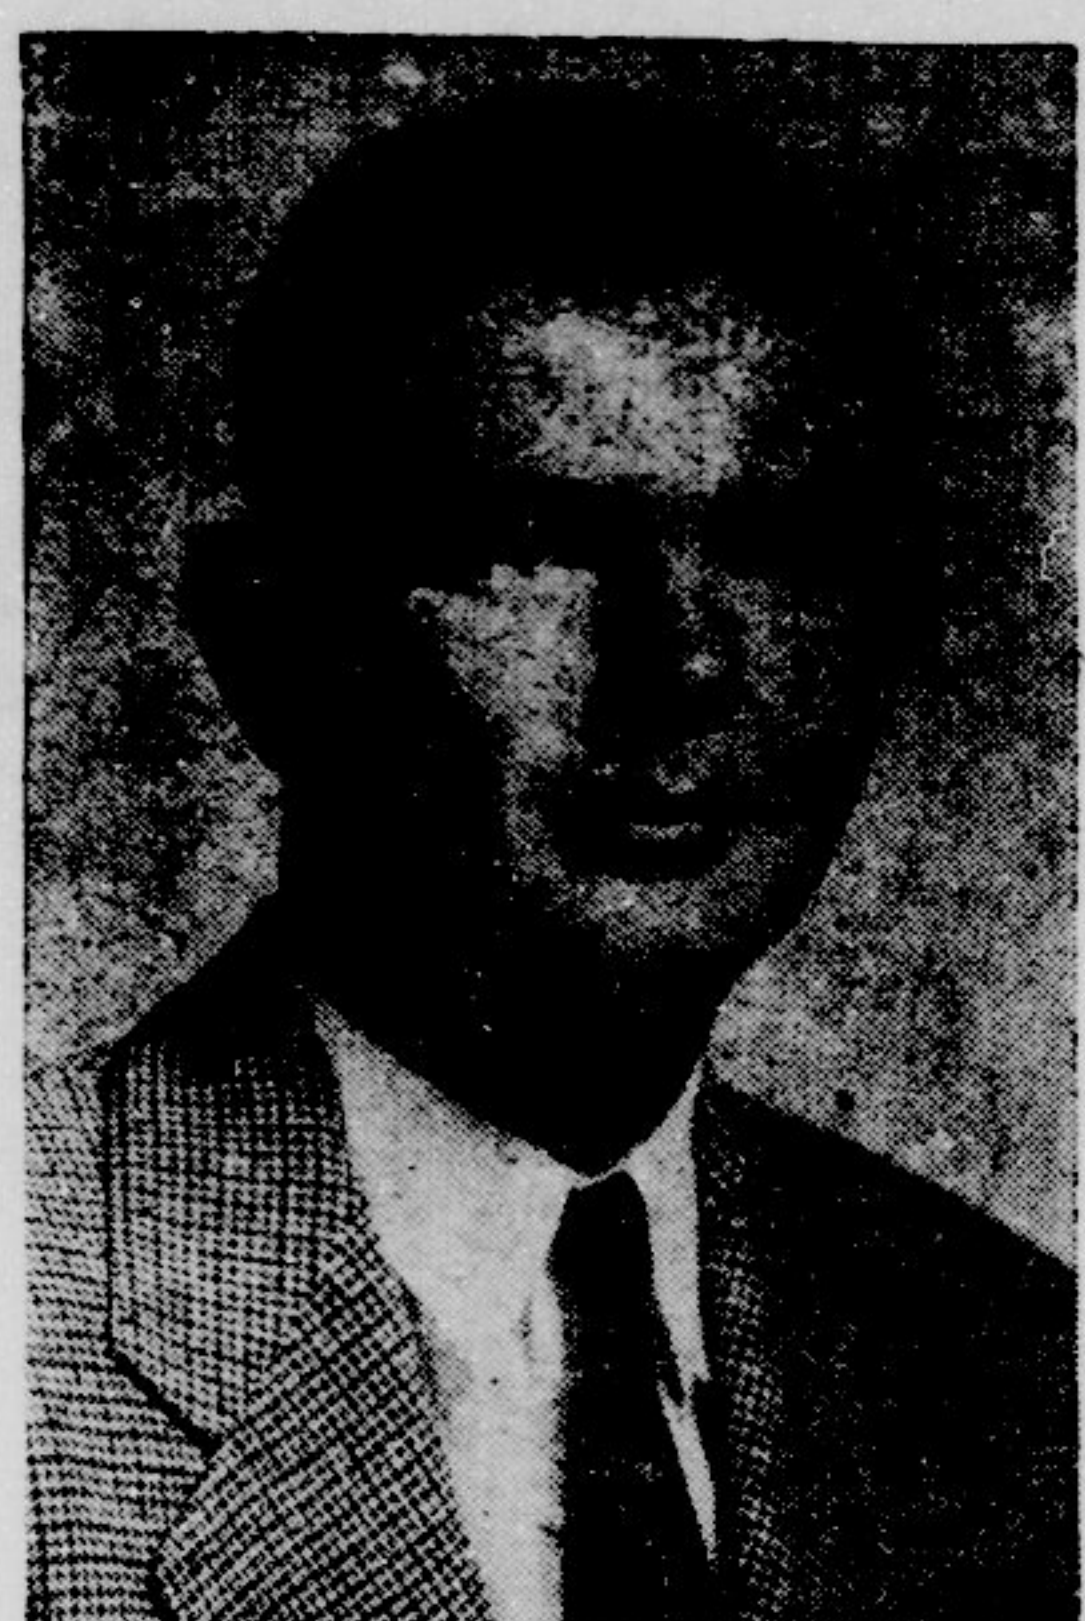

Livesay is to be commended for this announcement, and it is hoped that many students will attend meetings of the Student Government association to watch their representatives in action. There has long existed the idea among uninformed students on the campus that their Legislature has no power. It would be well for students to attend the SGA meetings to actually see what power the Legislature does possess. Each quarter all students pay $11.00 for an activity fee. It is the Student Legislature that spends these thousands of dollars by appropriating large sums of money to different campus groups and for various activities. This is just one example of the power the Student Legislature. The Legislature does work for the students of East Carolina, and the students should be interested enough in their own welfare to attend every once in a while just what kind of job their representatives are doing for them.

Members of the Student Government association meet each evening at 7 o'clock in the basement of the Flanagan building. It is hoped that it will become necessary for them to order to accommodate visitors.

Student Spotlight

by Jean Powell

Claude "Kip" West, East Carolina's gift to the Greenville stage, has quite a few ambitions. One of them is realized in this issue as a result of his being the subject under discussion in Student Spotlight. In an exclusive interview, "Kip" confided that he had always hoped that someday, somehow the TECO ECHO would choose him for Student Spotlight.

Found out that "Kip" is a traveler from way back. He went to high school in Asheville, Charlotte and graduated from Boyden High School in Salisbury. "Kip" has attended 13 schools since he started taking apples to his 1st grade teacher instead of winking at 'em (the female ones anyway) as he does now. At the present time, the West family has settled down at an address on Library Street here in Greenville. In addition to his extensive traveling during his boyhood, "Kip" joined the Navy and served four years in various climates including the Caribbean, Pacific and Australia. After counting all these years, this mathematical reporter discovered that "Kip" was nearing middle-age—twenty-six to be specific. It was surprising because with that rosy complexion, I thought he was a mere youth.

By a circuitous route, "Kip" was approached regarding his love life. When he revealed that June 2 was his wedding date, your scribbler brought her chair down on all fours from the one leg it had been resting on and said profoundly, "You don't mean it!" "Yes," said "Kip", "I do mean it!" This went on for ten minutes and then he volunteered the information that Mildred "Mickey" Oakes was his bride-to-be. "Mickey" is a graduate of East Carolina and is teaching in Pikeville this year. After the wedding, "Kip" and "Mickey" are planning to live in Greenville. "Kip," who is scheduled to graduate this summer, has recently signed a contract with Greenville high school and "Mickey" intends to teach in this vicinity.

We got around to talking about the origin of "Kip's" nickname and the story went back to the days when his pappy was playing baseball for Duke and he slid into base and broke an ankle. As a result, his name was henceforth "Crip." When Mr. West, Jr. came along he became "Little Crip." There happened to be a little boy living next door who needed a class in voice and diction under Dr. Charles. The little boy shortened "Crip" to "Kip" and "Kip" it has been ever since.

If dramatics is his first love and from all evidence it is, fishing seems to be his second. Tried to get some fish stories out of "Kip" but all he'd tell was that he liked to fish anywhere and down near Bath is his favorite haunt.

When "Kip" first set foot on East Carolina's campus way back in '47 he went right to work with the campus dramatics group which was then was the Chi Pi Players. Since then he has appeared in "The Man Who Came To Dinner," "As You Like It," "The Hasty Heart," "The Taming of the Shrew," and "The Coventry Nativity Play." To prove he isn't a one talent man, "Kip" served as vice president of the Teachers Playhouse, is a current member of the Circle K club, member and past chairman of the Neographics club, a member and past secretary of the ROTC and has contributed to the college magazine, "Pieces of Eight." He is a member of the Greenville Little Theater Guild and is at present directing a play, "Mama's Angel Child."

At one time "Kip's" ultimate ambition was to be an after dinner speaker; now his burning desire is to sell his '35 Chevrolet, Matilda, for the outrageously cheap sum of $75. At one time, in the dead, dark past, he was actually offered this amount by an inmate of this institution.

"Kip" who attended State college before getting down to East Carolina said the main reason he chose this school was to reinforce the men. He sorta liked the idea of going to a co-ed school after looking at nothing but men at State. And too, he found better audiences here to listen to his satirical articles that he turns out by the beam.

Winding up the story of his life, "Kip" said, "I always said I wouldn't teach, now I don't know of anything I'd rather do." His colleagues implied that the cute high school gals at GHS where he did his practice teaching had something to do with this revolutionary change.

ROUND THE CAMPUS

by Curtis Nichols

Greetings my friends, greetings, I presume you received a taste of summer vacation over the holidays that we had just a few days back. I still haven't figured out whether they were Spring or Easter holidays, but I don't guess it really matters. Anyway, they served as a reminder of better things to come and on a much larger scale. I always did say that the best part of school was the summer vacation.

It Won't Be Long Now
In case you might be interested, there are just nineteen more school days before salvation. Those nineteen will be filled with study (O. K., laugh if you want to), Exams (what a horrible word) and dances galore (now that's more like it). Yes sir, it looks like these last few weeks will really be chopped full of something.

Next Year's Freshmen
Today being High School Day, I would personally like to welcome all the high school seniors. East Carolina takes great pride in sponsoring these seniors throughout the state, the educational and social facilities found here. I am confident that you students here now will do everything in your power to make this a most enjoyable and memorable day for them. Every prospective college student is greatly interested in the student body of the college. I know that we have one of the best student bodies of any college anywhere, but many of these seniors are not aware of this fact, so watta ya say, let's really sell these high school seniors on East Carolina.

You Have To Step Down Sometime
It seems that just about this time of the year the favorite nickname for some students is "A Has Been." At least that seems to be the case with Raz Autry and Carl Conner. These two men step down from top positions; Raz from Student Government president and Carl from editor of the TECO ECHO. I don't guess there is any harm in being called "A Has Been" though, if you have compiled such a splendid record as these two men. You've heard the old saying, "that it's better to be a has been than a never was."

Things to Look Forward to in the Near Future
Harry Truman's right hand man, Alben (the Veep himself) Barkley will make a personal appearance here on the campus April 28. His appearance will be sponsored by the Young Democrats of North Carolina. Also along with him to lend even more color to the event will be the presence of his very beautiful wife . . .

Awards Day will be held April 25. Besides making the various departmental awards to the students that were selected to receive them, the Who's Who certificates will also be presented to those students that are representing East Carolina this year in the celebrated "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" . . . May Day will be observed April 29 with Pat Morton serving as Queen.

The Professor Speaks
I read in the News and Observer this past week that a Meredith college professor has made the statement that "College Grads Don't Know English." Now ain't that something. And all this time I was under the impression that on receiving that diploma you knew everything.

This and That
Wonder who the great artist is that drew "Cubby's" picture on the booth in the soda shop. . . Dick Hobbs makes a very pretty sight running around begging the butterflies to come down out of the sky to help finish his collection. . . A lot of the men on the campus won't be wasting their afternoons from now on by playing tennis or sleeping; major league baseball games are being broadcast, and this falls under the category of intellectual "bet-tation." (New word that Webster might be interested in.)

Featurist Writes Of Weather As Last Resort

by Wilbur Jones

It is commonly known that when two strangers meet, the conversation is apt to lag, and then that old standby, the weather, becomes the main topic of discussion. A reporter sometimes finds himself in the same sort of situation, and then there is not much that he can do except bring up the same old subject.

The climate on the campus of East Carolina does not make a story very often, and the warm weather we are having this week is no indication of that icy wind that we experienced last week. That icy wind may not be much to talk about, but after nine innings of baseball seen through two frozen eyeballs, it does the old bones good to sit in the basking sun and think of how a group of students nearly froze to death.

Baseball is A Warm Game
It all started when like everyone else they believed spring was here, and that baseball could be seen in comfort, because baseball is a WARM weather game. Having slept through several WARM lectures in even WARMER classrooms and constantly dreaming and hoping to hear the bell ring so that they might get to that WARM ball-game, the spectators had no inkling of what the afternoon had in store for hundreds of them.

At last the bell rang, and they were off to the game. Some caught rides to the park in WARM automobiles and did not know of the coldness of the day. At the game the late arrivals noticed that the crowd was sitting in the bleachers near first base so that they might be in the sun, and it was also noted that all bashfulness on the part of the spectators had vanished, because they were certainly sitting close to one another.

Loses Vim and Vigor
After about three innings of ice hockey, er, I mean baseball, what little vim and vigor that everyone had had, including myself, had vanished. Like everyone else I was trying to seek shelter behind someone to block off the icy wind.

Finally a friend was spotted with a blanket; other friends had also spotted him. In fact, he acquired many new friends in the space of a few seconds. After much scrambling, I found myself on the outside of the group with about three inches of blanket to try to get under. I called for more blanket, screamed for more blanket, begged for more blanket, and finally succeeded in getting no more blanket.

Gets Colder As Game Gets Hotter
Three more innings passed, ice was forming on my wings, snow was getting in my eyes, my feet felt like two trays of ice. Frozen spectators were being carted off and thawed out for twenty-five cents a head. The game was getting hotter, and I was getting colder, but baseball is a warm weather game so I stayed on to see it.

Seven, eight, and finally that blessed ninth inning rolled around. It was the bottom half of the ninth, and there were two outs. A new man came to bat. The pitcher threw a curve ball, then he threw a drop ball, and then the snow ball. The game was over. Warily the frozen spectators tottered home.

Editor's Corner

Make the high school seniors welcome. During the day our campus will be "covered" with high school seniors. While they are here we should make them welcome and help to show them the many advantages in coming to school here. This will be a case of personal salesmanship.

The new Legislature here at East Carolina is making an effort to let the Greenville Board of Aldermen know that traffic on Fifth Street moves at a "too rapid pace." As yet, no student has been injured by crossing the street in front of the college, but if something is not done, injury may result. At times the street looks like a regular race track in spite of the fact that a "so-called" thirty-five mile-per-hour speed limit exists.

Work on the faculty rating system progresses. A committee composed of students and faculty members has been drawing up the system and will have a report in the near future. It is possible, if plans work out, that the system will be spot tested during this quarter. In the committee it was pointed out that the system will be used to help teachers improve their methods and not for students to "get even," as the remark has been made. As was stated before, the system can be a help to both the faculty and students if accepted with the right idea in mind. The new idea should be used not abused.

Vice-President Barkley's speech on the campus will no doubt be the event of the year so far as East Carolina is concerned. While there are other people who would draw a larger crowd, this writer doubts that anyone will give the college quite as much publicity. It appears that more of the state is beginning to wake up to the fact that East Carolina is quite a nice place. The more speakers, conferences, and meetings we can get on our campus, the more we will become known.

East Carolina at last has a new flag. Immediately after flying up side down Friday, April 14, the flag on the campus was replaced by a new one. Congratulations to the someone responsible.

The new Legislature has started out with a bang. While there is nothing in the constitution that says it cannot be done, it doesn't look quite right that so many of the standing committee members should be members of the Legislature. However, this writer's guess is that this will be changed when the new Legislature begins to check on the points and finds that most of the members have 10 points without the 2 given by the committees. The constitution does rule that no person can hold over 10 points. The placement of more "outsiders" on the committees will help to represent more students, and above all things we need more representation.

The Community Chest idea is still on the floor of the Student Legislature. First brought out by the retiring Legislature, the idea was referred to a committee for study. As has been stated by this writer before, the idea would reduce the funds collected on the campus instead of increasing them. It seems as if it would be much wiser to hold to the old idea of having several drives and in so doing, collect from the same people more than once. Under the one drive system people will give one small sum and feel that that should be enough for all. In other words, students will contribute no more for the Community Chest than they would for any one single drive.

'Buc Linksters Notch Fourth Loop Win Against No Losses

The high-flying golfers of East Carolina swept to their fourth straight North State conference win without a loss Tuesday as they brushed aside the Elon Christians, 18½-1½ at Elon.

Bill Stalls, matched with Dave Massey, trimmed the foe that whipped him in last year's North State tournament by a 2½-½ margin to gain sweet revenge. Stalls was medalist for the day with a 74. He has yet to lose in match play while playing for East Carolina.

Another lad who hasn't lost a match this season, Milt Zellin, came through again Tuesday against Coyner, trimming the Elon linkster, 2½-½.

The summary:
Stalls (EC) defeated Mondy, 2½-½; Massey (EC) 1½, Lilly 1½; best ball, East Carolina 2½, Elon ½.

Platt (Elon) defeated Exum 2½-½; Wells (EC) defeated Ross, 2-1; best ball, East Carolina 1½, Elon 1½.

Zellin (EC) defeated Coyner, 2½-½; Moyer (EC) defeated Rogers 2½-½; best ball, East Carolina 3, Elon 0.

PIRATES TOP GUILFORD
The classy East Carolina golf team notched its second win of the season, both in North State conference play, by trouncing Guilford, 20½-6½, at the Greenville Country club course.

Joe Exum paced the winners and was medalist for the day with a 69-38-77 round. Walter Wells and Milt Zellin were close behind him, each having a round of 78.

DEACS WHIP LOCALS
East Carolina's golf team lost to the Wake Forest Demon linksters, 21-6, on the Greenville course April 13. It was the first setback for the locals this season.

The summary:
Stalls (EC) and Palmer, tied, 1½ each; Worsham (WF) defeated Massey, 2-1. Best ball: Wake Forest 3, East Carolina 0.

Tiddy (WF) defeated Exum, 3-0; Agner (WF) defeated Wells, 2½-½. Best ball: Wake Forest 3, East Carolina 0.

Zellin (EC) defeated Randolph, 2½-½; Yancey (WF) defeated Moyer, 3-0. Best ball: Wake Forest 2½, East Carolina ½.

PIRATES TOP GUILFORD
The Wake Forest net club won its first game of the season as it walloped East Carolina's aggregation, 9-0 at Wake Forest last Monday.

The summary:
Singles—Holland (WF) over Bass, 6-0; Watkins (WF) over Holland, 6-1; Bunn (WF) over Bass, 6-0, 6-1; Morphis (WF) over Jones, 6-2, 6-0; Clark (WF) over Tyson, 6-2, 6-4.

Doubles—Holland and Bass, 3-6, 8-6, 6-2; Jones and Morris (S) over Palmer and Jones, 8-6, 6-2; J. Heim and C. Jones (S) over Garrell and Blake, 7-5, 6-1.

DR. SCOTT TO ATTEND MATHEMATICS MEETING
Dr. Percy C. Scott, director of the department of mathematics at East Carolina Teachers college, represented the college at a meeting of the Southeastern Section of the Mathematics Association of America at a meeting held April 7-8 at the University of Florida in Gainesville.

ATHLETE OF THE ISSUE
One can hardly think of East Carolina golf without thinking of Bill Stalls, and that's probably the way it'll be for many years to come.

Stalls has become so entrenched in the minds of golf fans and players hereabouts that his career will more than likely be followed closely by many long after he has left our dear Alma Mater. And he has meant so much to the East Carolina links squad that it is doubtful if he can be replaced.

Back in the early thirties, Bill, just a little lad then, picked up a golf club for the first time. He was cadging at the Old Dominion golf course at Newport News, Va., when at the age of nine he began trying and developing his skill with the sticks.

He kept improving rapidly, and may have been a professional by now, touring the circuit, if World War II hadn't interrupted. Bill went into the navy at the age of 18, was blasted out of a PT boat by the Japs a couple of years later and had to convalesce in a hospital for a spell. In his four years of navy duty, he spent most of his time overseas and in the hospital.

Discharged in 1945, he played for a year on his home course at Norfolk, then came to East Carolina. Bill was on the original Pirate golf club which was originated in 1947, and he hasn't lost in match play since then.

He's run up against some tough opposition since coming here. Last week, when the Bucs dropped a match to the Wake Forest Deacs, Stalls tied Southern Intercollegiate champ Arnold Palmer in match play, and was medalist for the day with a 4-under 68.

Last summer in Norfolk, Bill finished eighth in the Virginia State Open at Ocean View Golf course in Norfolk. He was awarded a set of woods for this feat.

He paired with Pro Fred Lawson in the North Carolina Pro-Amateur tournament at Wilson last summer, and they came in third.

The Azalea Open tournament at Wilmington this spring is where Bill really let the golf world know about him. For the first two rounds he led the entire field of amateurs, and finally wound up No. 2 among the amateurs. What's more, in the first round he was tied for fifth place in the whole field of 125 golfers, including both professionals and amateurs.

Bill holds the course record on the Greenville links. He has a 63 over the 72-par course. He regularly shoots in the 60's on the local links.

He has another year of eligibility to play for the Buc linksters, but he is thinking of turning pro and touring the circuits with the money-boys next year.

To Bill go our heartfelt wishes for the best of luck, and we are certain the entire school joins in with us!

Buccaneers Top Greenville Robins; McCotter Hurls Win

Lefty Bob McCotter twirled his first win of the season last Saturday as the East Carolina Pirates handed the Greenville Robins of the Coastal Plain League a 5-3 setback at Guy Smith stadium.

The Bucs, giving McCotter good support both at the plate and afield, staged an eighth inning rally that netted them three runs. Two singles, a walk, a double steal and a passed ball turned the trick.

McCotter, showing his form of old, set the Robins down with seven hits while his mates were banging out eight off Stevens and Ashe.

The win was the Pirates' second non-conference triumph of the season, and their fourth 1950 victory as against a like number of defeats.

Fred Soles Leads Pirate Batsmen; Has .464 Average
Fred Soles, the East Carolina Pirates' eagle-eyed left fielder, is currently leading Coach Jack Boone's outfit in the stickwork department with a terrific batting average of .464, as of all games through the Elon scrap last Friday.

Fred slapped out 13 hits in 28 times at bat to post his high average. A sophomore on the Buc club, he batted around .300 his first year at East Carolina.

Two Jones boys, Vernon and Leon, have the nearest figures to Soles' pace-setting mark. Leon, in six times at bat, hit safely twice for a .333 average. Vernon connected for seven hits in 23 times at the platter.

These were the only boys over the .300 mark when these averages were figured, right after the Elon game. The team average at that point was .237, with 57 hits in 240 times at bat.

ACC Bulldogs Wallop Pirates By 13-9; Win Bohunk Trophy
Atlantic Christian college's Bulldogs whipped the East Carolina Pirates nine here Tuesday afternoon, 13-9, and went home with the traditional Bohunk trophy. It was the fourth North State conference loss for the locals against two wins.

The Bulldogs pounded out 17 hits off Pirate hurlers Punk Jones, Carlton Fleetwood and Hal Whitehurst. The winners slapped out four doubles and two triples in the big slugfest. Shortstop Carlton led the attack with four for five.

East Carolina collected 11 hits off ACC hurler Boykin, who went the route for the Bulldogs. Sonny Russell, who paced the losers with three for four, poled a double, and Jack Wallace, who had two for five, connected for a triple.

Jones, who was relieved by Fleetwood in the third frame, was charged with the loss, his second of the season. He has won two.

Messick Accepts High Position In Study Group

President John D. Messick served as chairman of a study group on "Current Issues in the Preparation of Teachers for the Elementary and Secondary Schools" at the Fifth National Conference on Higher Education held in Chicago April 17-19.

The conference was attended by faculty and administrative representatives of accredited colleges and universities throughout the nation. In addition to three general sessions, the work of the three-day meeting was largely devoted to a series of study-groups led by expert analysts and pertinent to education at the present time.

Topics considered by the group of which Dr. Messick was chairman dealt with problems of the elementary and the secondary school, with emphasis on the pre-service training of teachers. These include supply and demand in the profession of teaching; recruitment and selection of teachers; the length of training; and the character of a satisfactory program for a master's degree.

Littleton Is Chosen Officer Regional IRC

Evelyn Littleton of Jacksonville, sophomore at East Carolina, was elected secretary-treasurer of the South Atlantic Regional Group of the International Relations club at a meeting held recently at Madison college, Harrisonburg, Virginia. Miss Littleton, who was unable to attend the meeting, was elected in absentia. She is secretary of the East Carolina organization of the IRC and a member of intercollegiate debate teams sponsored by the Jarvis Forensic club of the college.

Episcopal Students Choose New Officers

White of Scotland Neck was elected president of the Episcopal organization on the campus. She replaces David who served as president last year.

Sixteen Teams Present

Sixteen teams were present on the campus Thursday to engage in three rounds of debates on the query, Resolved, That the President of the U. S. should be elected by direct vote of the people. Dr. Meredith N. Posey of the East Carolina department of English directed the district contest, and twenty-one members of the college faculty acted as judges.

High schools participating in the contests conducted at East Carolina were Central of Elizabeth City, Grainger of Kinston, Perquimans of Hertford, Scotland Neck, Swansboro, Vanceboro, Washington, Weeksville, Bath, Elizabeth City, and Greenville.

International Relations Club Picks Carl Smith

Carl Smith, junior, from Washington, N.C., will serve as president of the International Relations club during the 1956-1957 school term. Recently Smith represented the local organization at a regional IRC meeting held at Madison college, Harrisonburg, Va. With other recently elected officers he will direct activities of the club which has approximately 100 members, presents monthly programs, and brings to the campus each year a number of speakers on topics of international interest.

Other officers for the coming year are Daniel C. Keegan, Grand Falls, New Brunswick, Canada, vice-president and chairman of the program committee, and Elizabeth Davis of Henderson, secretary-treasurer.

HIGH SCHOOL DAY

Lunch will be served picnic style on the grounds back of the home economics practice house at a cost of fifty cents per plate to visitors, students and faculty. College students and faculty may use cash or meal tickets and are requested and advised to go early in order to avoid inconveniencing the guests.

Conducted Guides
Selected students will be asked to act as guides and hosts. These students will be excused from class as necessary. All other students will be expected to meet their regular classes until 2:00 p.m.

According to Dr. McGinnis, a souvenir program booklet will be given each guest on arrival and the student assembly is planning to provide souvenir stickers of ECTC which the guests may display on their cars or otherwise as they so desire.

As announced by Dr. McGinnis, committees and committee chairmen have been named and will include: W. E. Marshall, dean of men, and G. Raz Autry, retiring SGA president, student hosts, hostesses and guides; Dr. J. K. Long, registration; Dr. Rudolph Willmann, music; Dr. N. M. Jorgenson, recreation; Paul Julian, lunch; E. C. Hollar, traffic and parking; Paul Powell, county placards; Francis Lee Neel, traffic and building placards; Lloyd Bray, lunch tickets; Miss Mary H. Greene, news and publicity; Dr. McGinnis, general chairman. These committees will select other faculty and student members to assist with committee assignments.

Three Students Go To Chapel Hill For State Y Conference

Evangeline Baker, Callie Kinard and Louise Hedgepeth attended a state coed Y conference at Camp New Hope, Chapel Hill, during the week-end of April 14-16 where they represented East Carolina in discussion groups, workshops and recreation in which twelve other colleges were represented.

Callie Kinard was elected to serve on the State Planning committee and the State Y-council, which will be the two leading groups in making plans for the campus activities of the YM and YWCA.

Next year, there will be an effort to make the conference inter-racial as well as co-educational.

Special Programs, Courses Are Planned For Aid To Educators

Nine workshops, institutes, conferences, and special courses scheduled for the summer session at East Carolina have been announced by Dean Leo W. Jenkins, director of the summer school. All have been planned to aid teachers, school officials, and others interested in educational progress in North Carolina.

Of special interest to school personnel will be a workshop in supervision under the direction of the department of education and taught by the departmental staff. Scheduled for July 3-14, the course will be in session three hours daily and will carry three quarter hours of credit. Subjects which will form bases of study and discussion in the class include directed observation, reading, special education, public relations, testing, and planning of supervision programs.

The Twenty-third Annual Institute of the Parent-Teacher association will be held on the campus here June 18-22. Russell Grumman, president of the state organization, is in charge of the program. Approximately 450 members of the PTA from all sections of the state are expected to be on the campus for the institute.

Four Conferences Scheduled
Also scheduled for the first summer session, extending from June 5 through July 14 are four other conferences which are expected to bring to East Carolina a large number of teachers and other interested persons.

Dr. E. R. Browning of the department of business education, will be in charge of a workshop in business education scheduled for June 23. A Safety Education institute, sponsored by the State Department of Public Instruction and the East Carolina department of social studies, will be directed by John C. Noe of the State Department, and will be a course in driver education. The date is as yet tentative.

Two Workshops
Two workshops designed to aid teachers in specialized types of work will deal with education for exceptional, or handicapped children, and remedial reading, respectively. Mrs. Dorothy W. Perkins of the department of education at East Carolina will direct the first, which will be based on problems presented by blindness and defects in speech and hearing. The conference will extend over the three-day period, June 27-29.

Dr. Hazel Taylor, director of the Testing bureau, and Edward J. Rutan of the department of English, will direct a two-day workshop on improvement of reading ability among students and development of a program to establish better reading habits. It will take place July 5-6.

A resource-use education workshop will be in session three hours daily during the entire second summer session, July 15-August 19, and will carry nine quarter hours of credit. Staff members of the college departments of education and science, with the cooperation of the state Resource-Use Commission, will be in charge.

Other event of the second summer term will be an institute on vocational home economics, July 24-28, and a workshop on science in the elementary grades, directed by Dr. Harold Jones of the science department of East Carolina.

Head State Home Economics Assoc. Is Guest Speaker

Miss York Kiker, president of the North Carolina Home Economics association, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Home Economics club of East Carolina Tuesday evening, April 18. She talked to the group on the history of the NCHEA and some of its work.

Miss Kiker, assisted by Miss Lila R. Gaut, acting head of the home economics department of East Carolina, initiated nine seniors into the American Home Economics association. Those who took the pledge and received membership cards were: Iola Carrowan, Louise Enzor, Carol Gore, Mrs. Frank Hogg, Elizabeth Manning, Lois Meekins, Mrs. Dave Perkins, Janice Sasser and Marjorie Thompson. Mrs. Rachel Swindell and Margaret Smith, who are also new members of the AHEA, were unable to attend the meeting.

At the meeting various committees reported on the work that they have done during the past year.
