

Veterans' News Letter

by R. W. Wechter

Veterans Administration Technical Bulletin TB 7-131 dated July 7, 1950 with reference to the pursuit of courses of education or training under Public Law 346, 78th Congress, as amended (R & P R-10035) subsequent to July 25, 1951 states:

Unique Beneficiary

"It has been determined that the position of the veteran-teacher in respect to the requirement for continuous pursuit of a course of education or training under the act after the statutory delimiting dates may be said to be unique among other classes of veteran beneficiaries.

"Accordingly, and only because of the historical aspects of the matter, that is, the long recognized practice of the members of the teaching profession, it has been determined that an eligible veteran who pursues a course under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act, pointing directly to a graduate degree, in a college or university during the summer session of 1950-1951, pursues graduate study under the act during the summer session of 1951 (or is regularly enrolled in a summer term on or before July 25, 1951) and is regularly employed as a school teacher during the school year 1951-1952, may be permitted to continue graduate study during successive summer sessions following employment as a teacher during successive school years and that this shall be deemed to be continuous pursuit of his course of education or training within the meaning of the governing law and regulations.

Graduate Study Only

"It is to be understood that this determination is limited to the pursuit of graduate study only; that is, in a course leading to a graduate degree, and to situations involving consecutive summer sessions following teaching employment in consecutive, succeeding school years.

"Where a veteran-teacher ceases to be employed in or for any school year he will not have satisfied the requirements of the regulations pertaining to the continuous pursuit of his course until completion, so far as any succeeding summer session is concerned, and he will have no right to further education or training under the law."

It does not apply to the rehabilitation of disabled veterans under P. L. 16, as amended. Eligible veterans must be enrolled and pursuing a course on July 25, 1951. This is particularly important to those veterans who were discharged before July 25, 1947.

The possession of a certificate of eligibility does not constitute an inton of a course.

Make Applications

A veteran to be eligible to take graduate work must apply for his extended training BEFORE he graduates. If he waits until after he graduates it will be too late because his training will have terminated as of the date he graduates, request for an extension of training is not a change in course.

These WW-II veterans who have initiated their courses but interrupt because they are called back into service do not lose their benefits and may re-enter so as to complete courses before July 25, 1956. This is because they are without fault in interrupting.

Teaching Methods Discussed

Among other things, the use of new methods in teaching of home economics was discussed along with demonstrations of ways of presenting material to the high school classes. Included in this group of discussions were explanations of the use of visual aid, film of various types, and the uses of home visits as a method of stimulating interest of the high school student.

Included in the list of persons speaking on the programs and taking part in the discussions were Catherine Dennis, state supervisor of home making education; Mabel Lacy, field teacher trainer from the college; Louise Lowe, field teacher trainer from Woman's College in Greensboro; and Mary Hines Leonard, assistant state supervisor.

Veterans' News Letter

Servicemen To Get Same Protection As During World War II

Present or future members of the Armed Forces will receive the same protection of their civil rights during the current emergency that World War II military personnel enjoyed under the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act of 1940.

Certain sections of the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act expired July 25, 1947; however, they were reinstated by the Draft Act of 1948 and extended until July 9, 1951, by the Draft Act of 1950. The Act now applies to such civil liabilities as rent, installment contracts, mortgages (including GI loans), insurance, taxes and public lands.

The Veterans Administration administers only the insurance section, although certain legal questions arising under the loan guaranty program will come up for VA consideration. All other sections are more or less self-executing or depend upon individual initiative of the servicemen and women.

The VA has no authorization to furnish personal counseling service regarding individual rights under the Act; therefore, interested persons should consult a qualified attorney, or, if available, the counseling service of the American Bar Association or any other Bar Association.

Generally speaking, the provisions of the Act respecting foreclosure of mortgages, payment of taxes, etc., apply to GI loans exactly as though these loans were not guaranteed or insured by the government. The VA regulations permit lenders and debtors to agree, with VA approval, to reduce the amount of monthly payments and extend the maturity of the debt, but neither the VA regulations nor the Act provide for suspension of monthly payments.

As for the Act's insurance section, servicemen and women may apply to the VA for the protection, through guarantee of premiums, of their commercial life insurance policies while they are in service. The VA can approve each application in an amount not to exceed $10,000 of the face value of the policy or policies of each individual. Any premiums and policy loan interest that the VA may pay for the insured under this Act will remain as an indebtedness against the individual until repaid.

Deferring Of College Students To Be Made In Certain Instances

A selective service directive relative to deferment of college students has been received, dated August 9, 1950. Local boards will give consideration to all students who have completed at least one full academic year of instruction at a college, university, or similar institution of learning.

The college must certify that the student being deferred has a scholastic standing which places him among the upper one half of his class.

It is anticipated that the Selective Service will announce an overall plan for the deferment of selected students at least several months prior to the end of the current academic year.

In addition to the first 20,000 expected to be called into service, Selective Service will induct 50,000 men during September and 50,000 during October.

the group, President J. D. Messick and Treasurer F. D. Duncan were present to discuss with the members the problems brought about by a lack of telephones and water fountains at the college.

The eminent college officials gave indications that the problems would be remedied as soon as possible. It is fairly certain that a telephone will be installed in Fleming hall soon, and quite possibly a number of water-cooler fountains will be purchased for various buildings on campus.

Correcting the poor condition of the East Campus tennis courts was prompted by the SGA.

Serving on the Association this second term, in addition to President Armstrong, have been Bill Davis, treasurer; Jeanette Riggs, secretary; and Allan Berman, Curtis Nichols, Amos Clark, Jerney Minshew, Clifford Adams and Bernard West, all members-at-large. Miss Ireni Toumaras served as secretary during the first summer term, and Ray Futrell was a member-at-large, having been succeeded by Clark for the second term.
