New Record Set Here As 1736 Students Enroll

Faculty, Staff Get 16 New Additions At East Carolina

10 New Instructors Have Completed Work On Doctor's Degree

The faculty and staff of East Carolina Teachers college has sixteen new members this quarter according to President John D. Messick. Included in this number are two English instructors, a new head of the school of field service and extension, two counselors for women, a new head of the home economics department, three social studies teachers, two science instructors, a second grade teacher for the training school, director of religious activities, a new librarian, and a new head of the Air Force ROTC unit.

Of the sixteen additions, ten have completed work on their doctor's degrees. Both of the new women counselors have master's degrees. Dr. Orval L. Phillips succeeds Dr. Howard J. McGinnis as head of the school of extension and field service. McGinnis retired at the end of the quarter to become Governor of the 27th Rotary district.

New English instructors are Dr. H. C. Simoni and Dr. Sterling Tracy. Miss Celia Segerman and Miss Betty May have joined the staff as counselors; Dr. Ed. J. Carter is replacing Dr. Allan S. Hurlburt who is taking a leave of absence to work with the State Department of Education. Dr. Bessie McNeil is the new head of the home economics department, replacing Mrs. Adelaide Bloxton who died this year; Dr. Richard C. Todd, and Miss Betty Congleton have joined the social studies department; Dr. Theodore H. Eaton and Dr. Austin D. Bond have joined the science department; Mrs. Sally H. Klingenschnitt has joined the staff as second grade teacher at the training school; Dr. Robert L. Holt joins the staff as the first director of religious activities; Mr. A. Stanley Brown has joined the library staff as order librarian; and Major Alfred Bauman is new professor of air science and tactics.

Methodist Students Honored With Party At Methodist Church

The Methodist students of East Carolina were honored at a party Thursday evening in the recreation room of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist church. The party was given by the church.

The evening entertainment was under the direction of Charles Cherry, chairman of the Commission on Recreation of the Wesley Foundation. Jimmy Radledge was master of ceremonies.

Special music, readings, stunts and folk games were highlights of the program. Refreshments were served to the group by ladies of the church.

Wounded Last Month

According to the telegram of notification received by his father, Lt. Corey was wounded in action on August 24. In a letter recently received by his father the Lieutenant stated:

AROTC Reports Sudden Increase In Enrollments

Being more than doubled since last year, the Air Reserve Officers Training corps on the campus of East Carolina has an enrollment of approximately 245.

The sudden jump from 117 students last year to 245 this year is thought by AROTC officers to be due to the Korean situation. When questioned about the increase in number, Captain James N. McDill stated that the AROTC was a source for commission and offered deferment from draft after successful completion of two quarters of study in air science and tactics.

85 in Advanced Course

At the present time there are 85 cadets studying subjects in the advanced course which is offered to veterans or to men who have completed and passed a basic course of four quarters. After completing the basic course and entering the advanced studies, each AROTC student receives approximately $27 per month. All textbooks are furnished free.

The basic course carries college credit of two hours.

Students who complete and pass the advanced course and who are recommended by the president of East Carolina and the professor of air science and tactics are commissioned second lieutenants in the United States Air Force Reserve.

Alumni Group Is Queried For Best Name For College

In response to the 800 cards mailed to members of the Alumni association this summer quizzing them as to the proposal to change the name of East Carolina Teachers college, only 383 were returned, reports Mrs. Ruth Garner, Alumni secretary.

The following were preferences given: East Carolina college, 235; East Carolina State college, 59; Wright college, 31; East Carolina Teachers college, 28; Eastern college, 7; Jarvis-Wright college, 6; Graham college, 3; Pitt college, 3; Wright university, 2; and one for each of the remainder: Robert H. Wright, Carolina college, Eastern Carolina college, Eastern College of North Carolina, North State college, Aycock college, Jarvis-Joyner college, and East Carolina university.

Former Student, Editor Is Listed As Wounded In Korea

Second Lieutenant Johnny F. Corey, son of Ben R. Corey and the late Mrs. Corey of Greenville, has been reported by the department of defense as wounded in action in Korea. It is thought that Corey is the first alumnus of East Carolina to be listed on a casualty list of the Korean conflict.

Lt. Corey was a student at the college during 1946 and 1947. He served as an associate editor of the TECO ECHO during the winter and spring quarters of 1947 and later, during the summer of the same year, was editor-in-chief of the paper. During his term of editorship he originated the "Miss Summer School" contest, which has been continued the last three summers.

Before attending Army officers candidate school in 1948, Lt. Corey was editor of a newspaper in Wallace. In October of 1949 he was sent to Japan, where he was joined last March by his wife Jane and their young daughter Faris Jane. His wife, the former Jane Lewis of Rocky Point, has also been a student at East Carolina.

Wounded Last Month

According to the telegram of notification received by his father, Lt. Corey was wounded in action on August 24. In a letter recently received by his father the Lieutenant stated:

Teco Echo Plans To Circulate 30 Editions 1950-51

Plans were being made this week by staff members of the TECO ECHO for the publication of approximately 30 issues of the East Carolina newspaper which is entering its 26th year of publication.

Heading the staff this year as editor-in-chief will be Rexford E. Piner who last year served as staff assistant and associate editor. Tommie Lupton, editor of the Greenville high school newspaper last year is to assist Piner with the editorial tasks. Anne Jones and Miles Buck will serve as staff assistants.

Taking care of the sports end of the TECO ECHO is Lloyd Whitfield. Sports editor. Assisting Whitfield with sports writing is Byrd Humphreys. Whitfield worked with the staff last year as assistant sports editor.

Business Staff

The business staff includes: Annie Lou Butts, business manager; and Grace Baker, George Beaman, Ann Baysden, Maggie Gatlin, Charlotte Humphrey, Grace Sanderson, Betsy Carroll, Ike Piner, and Gladys Strickland, her assistants.

As this issue of the paper goes to press, there are still a number of openings for students interested in newspaper work. Especially needed are feature writers, editorial assistants and reporters.

The TECO ECHO is a member of the Associated Collegiate Press and the Columbia Scholastic Press association. Last year the paper received the Medalist rating from Columbia, the highest rating presented.

Committee Makes Plans For Next Homecoming Day

Homecoming Day for Alumni at East Carolina Teachers college will be held this fall Saturday, October 14, and plans are already being drawn up for the event.

With Dean of Women Ruth White and Mrs. Ruth Garner, alumni secretary, as co-chairmen, the committee in charge of arrangements for the day met last Friday afternoon in the Alumni office on the campus to discuss plans for the entertainment of former students returning to the campus for the annual event. Others who were present to participate in discussions were W. E. Marshall, dean of men; Louise Williams; Elizabeth Hyman; Coach W. E. Dole; and Eunice McGee; all members of the college faculty. Alexander E. Livesay of Rocky Mount, president of the Student Government Association, was a special guest of the committee.

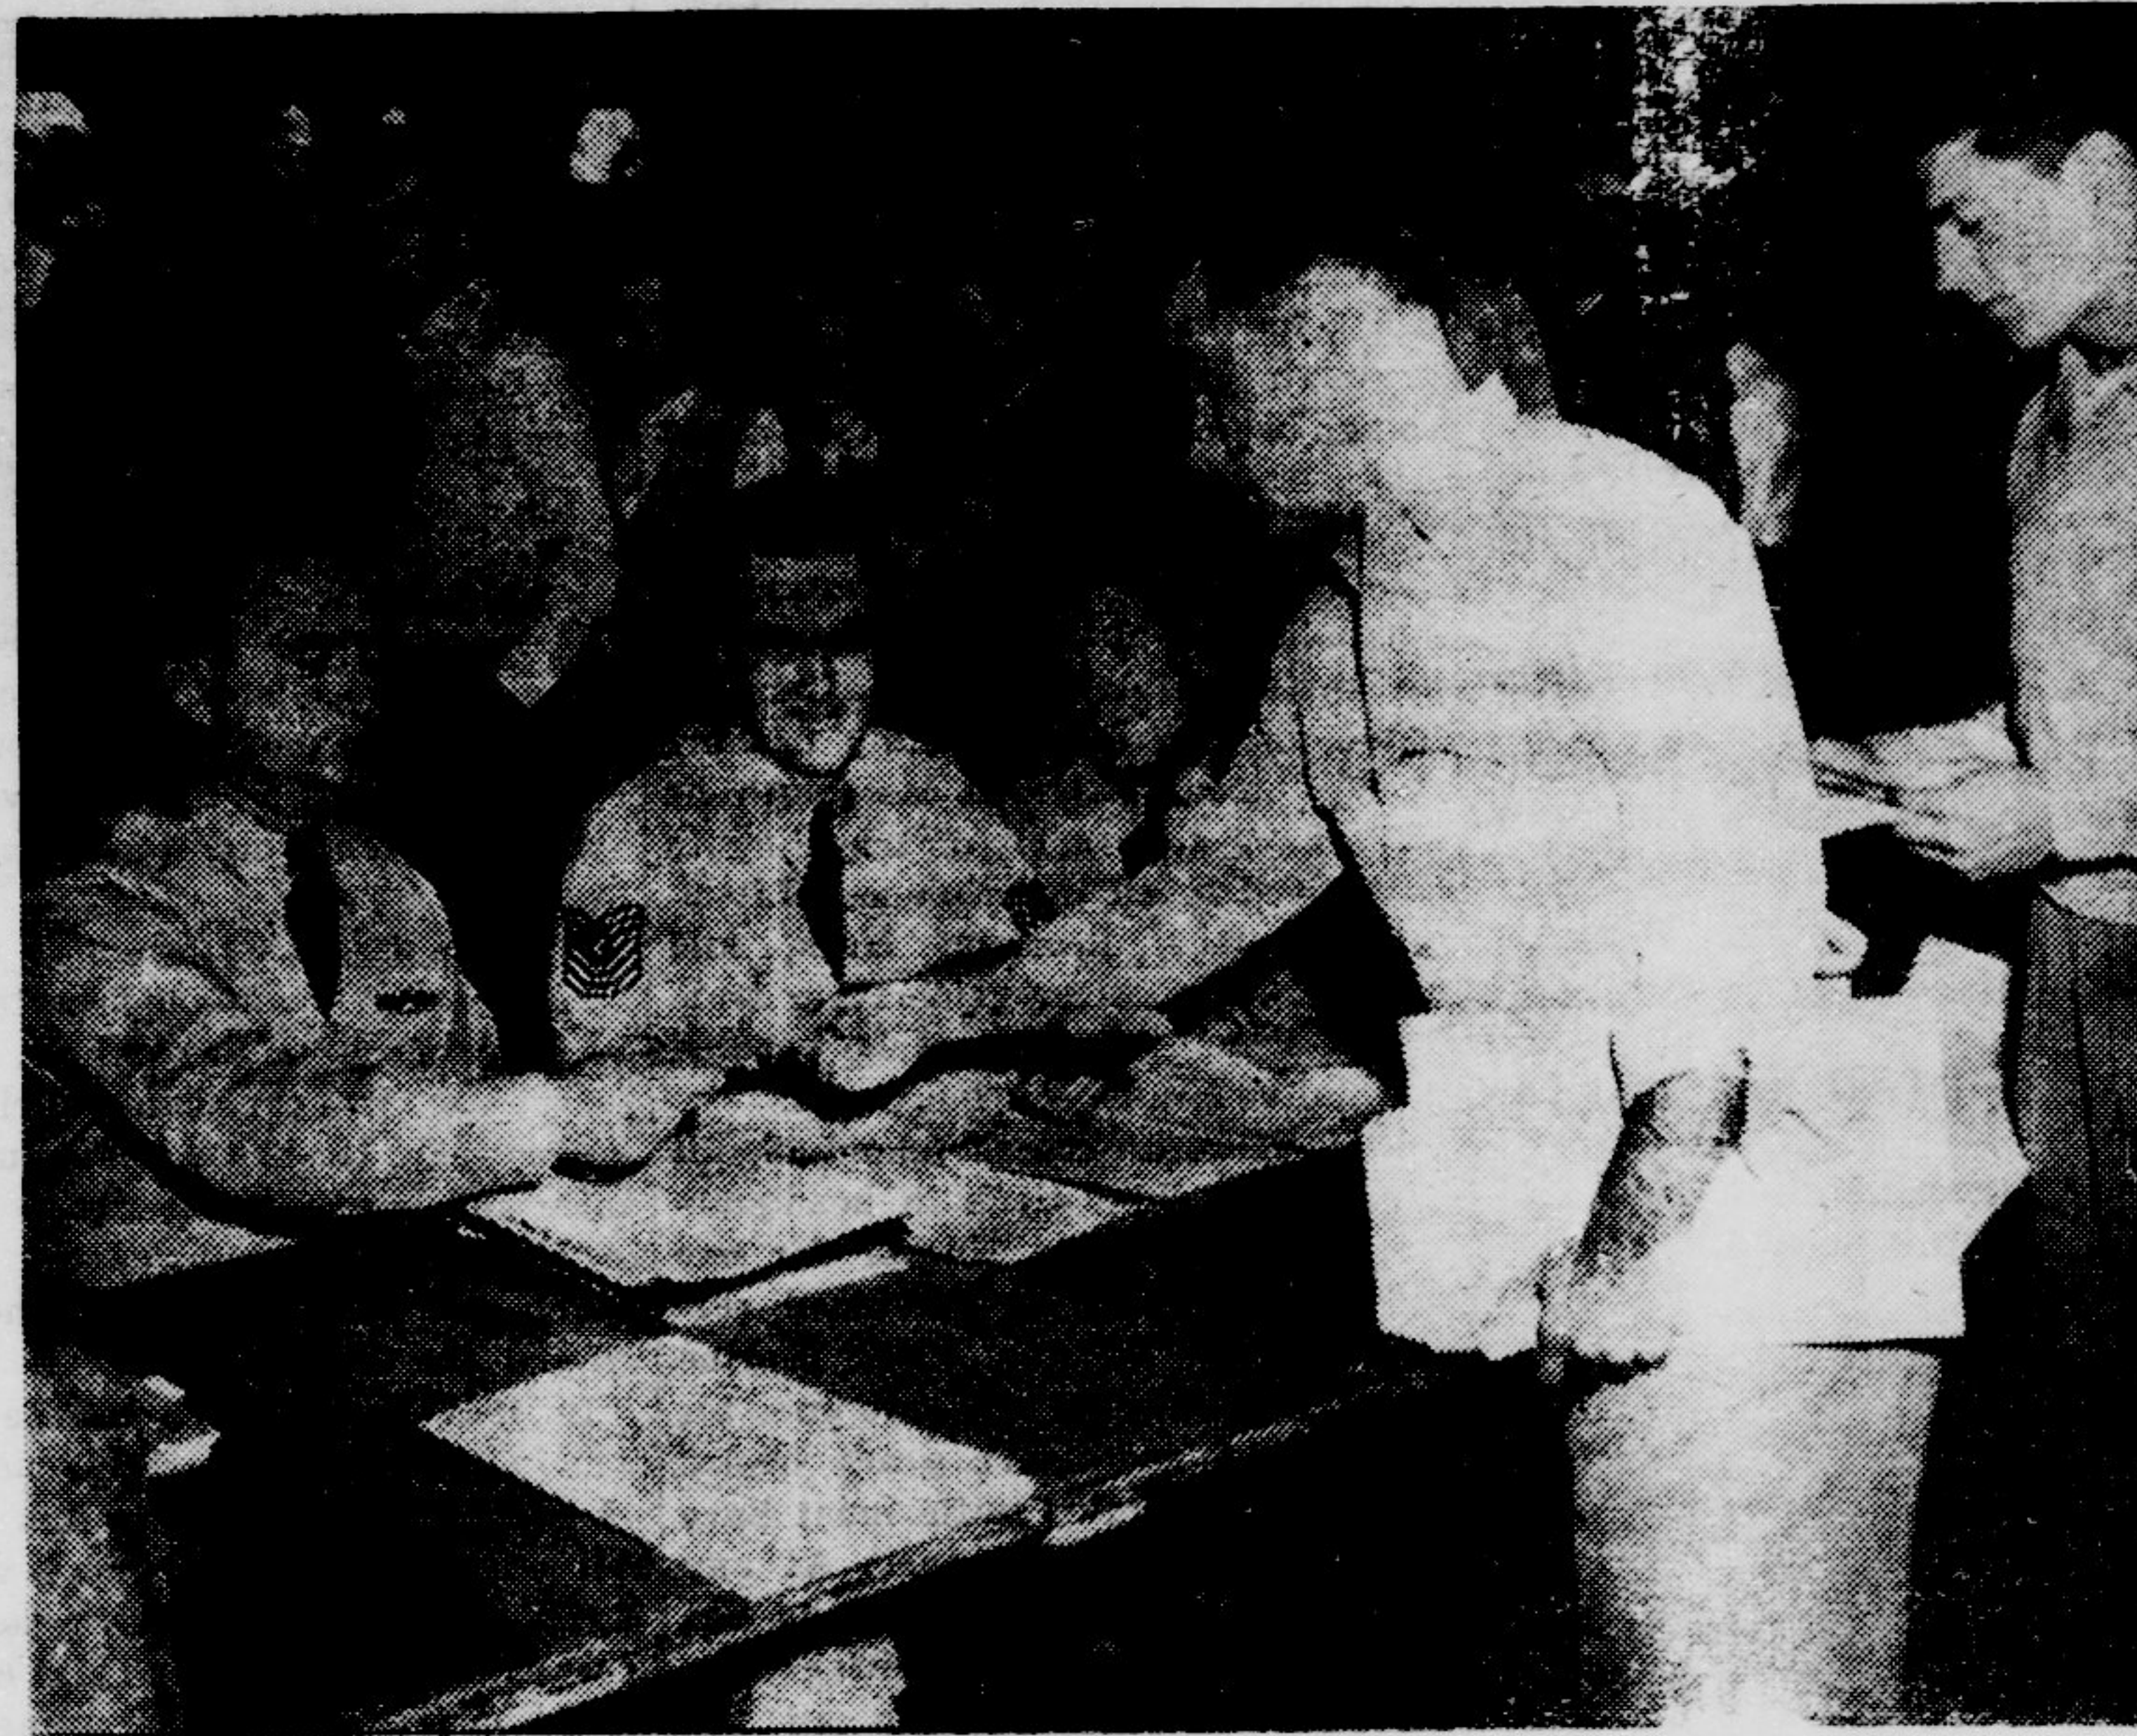

Tentatively agreed upon as a program for the day were a luncheon in the college dining hall at 1:00 o'clock, an organ concert and probably a one-act play by the Teachers Playhouse, college dramatics club; and a parade by the East Carolina band and the college Air Force ROTC unit. A football game between the East Carolina Pirates and Western Carolina Teachers college will be the concluding event of the day and will be played on the campus athletic field here.

Pres. Messick Asks Funds For Greater College Expansion

Members of the State Budget commission visited the campus during the summer, inspected the plant and reviewed the needs of the college for the 1951-53 biennial.

Among the things which President of the college John D. Messick requested of the budget group were: a new dormitory for women students; funds to revert the present library into a classroom building; funds to complete the east wing of Ragsdale hall, teachers' dormitory at present; and money to revert the basement of Wright auditorium into a student union. Several additional teachers were requested to take care of the increase in enrollments for the fall quarter.

Large Number Of Men Enroll In AROTC

Student, Faculty Deferment Policies Listed In Bulletin

The American Council on Education published earlier this month a bulletin on armed forces deferment policies for students and faculty. Included in the bulletin were Army, Navy and Air Force procedures for accepting and considering applications for delay in call to active duty.

According to the report, reservists in all the services must actually have received notice of recall to active duty before making application for delay. Once orders are received, reservists who fall within the deferment categories established by the Defense department should forward requests for delay immediately. Members of civilian components who are engaged in research or scientific activities or who are engaged in critical occupations or essential activities (educational services are listed as essential) may be considered for delay.

Navy Procedure for Requesting Delay

Requests for delay must be submitted by the reservist or the institution within 48 hours after receipt of orders. Address to cognizant Naval district commandant if original orders were issued by or through the district commandant; address to the chief of Naval air reserve training, Glenview, Ill., if original orders were issued by or through that command.

Requests for delay should be accompanied by statements testifying as to the scholastic status of students; for faculty and research workers supporting statements and requests for delay by the institution are important. Delays for students will normally be to the end of the term; for faculty and research the initial delay may not exceed six months, but further delay may be granted after the six months have elapsed.

Members of the organized Marine Corps reserve units must submit requests for delay to the Marine Corps inspector-instructor of the unit involved.

Air Force Procedures

Air Force reserve personnel who are eligible for recall delay should forward requests for delay to the headquarters issuing the orders. Delays of not to exceed 30 days may be granted upon personal request in

Entertainments Are Booked For 1950-51

The following series of entertainments for the school year 1950-51 has been announced by Miss Ellen Rion Caldwell, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Eleanor Steber, soprano, October 26; La Boheme (Wagner Opera Co.), November 29; Dance orchestra, fall or winter quarter; the Vienna Choir Boys, March 21; and Oscar Levant, pianist, April 2.

Notice

Bill Flanders, treasurer of the Student Government Association, announces the following schedule of hours for the Budget office located in the basement of the Austin building:

Mon., Wed., Fri.—8:00-8:50, & 1:00-2:00
Tues.—11:00-12:00 & 1:00-2:00
Thur.—10:00-11:50
Sat.—9:00-11:00

Delegate Is Sent To Attend Annual State Convention

At a meeting of the Young Democratic club of East Carolina Teachers college Tuesday evening, September 12, three recommendations of the executive committee of that group were passed.

First business to confront the organization was the recommendation that a delegate from the club represent them at the State YDC convention this week in Asheville, September 14-16. The suggestion of the executive committee was accepted by the group, and Carl G. Conner was appointed to cast the votes of the club at the convention. The State convention is being held for the election of State YDC officers.

Mr. James L. Fleming was elected unanimously to serve as faculty advisor of the campus YDC for the school year.

As last important business of the meeting, members voted to seek admittance to a seat on the Student Government Association. A committee of three will be appointed by club president Joseph Congleton for the purpose of getting the necessary papers together for presentation to the Student Government Association.

Beckwith Gateway To Have Bronze Marker Honoring Late Dean

The bronze marker has arrived for the Beckwith gateway, and it will be placed there permanently some time soon, Mr. J. N. Caprell, superintendent of buildings and grounds, has stated.

Mrs. Kate Beckwith was dean of women at East Carolina from 1909 to 1925 when she retired and was succeeded by Miss Annie L. Morton who also retired at the end of last quarter. In 1934 the Alumni association appropriated money to the college for the erection of a gateway in her memory. That gateway now stands at the entrance to the campus near the Administration building and will bear the bronze marker.

Former Student Is Food Editor Of Big Magazine

Helen Flynn, who was graduated from East Carolina Teachers college in 1944, spent last week with her mother in Washington, D.C.

Assistant food editor of "Woman's Home Companion," Miss Flynn accepted the position in January, 1950. "You've no idea how much work goes into the making of a food section in the magazine," she said in an interview. "They not only have to be attractive and colorful to the photographer's lens but they must be tested for quality. Even before that, there is much experimentation, and most important of all, a steady flow of ideas must be conceived."

Also, she spoke of the variety in her work. "The tastes of the public vary with the seasons. Besides, each season marketable foods change, and it also takes variety to keep the interest of the reader."

The office is located in the Crowell Collier building in New York, which is a new construction at Fifth Avenue and Fifty-First street. The foods and equipment cover the entire fourth floor, called Home Service Center.

Upon completion of college at East Carolina in '44, Miss Flynn worked as assistant dietitian in Norfolk General hospital for one year. The following year she continued her education at Columbia Teacher's college where she studied Institutional management and received her master's degree. During her stay at Columbia she worked as catering manager and manager of Horace Mann cafeteria.

Conner Attending State Assemblage YDC In Asheville

Carl G. Conner, East Carolina senior from Windsor, is in Asheville attending the annual Young Democrats club convention and election this weekend. Conner was elected president of the Bertie County YDC at a rally held in Windsor this summer and will represent his county at the convention.

Conner received notification last week of his appointment to the Rules committee of the convention by State President Terry Sanford. The committee met last night and this morning to set up the rules and procedures for the convention.

Former editor of the TECO ECHO for the past two years, Conner has been active in the North Carolina YDC for the past three years. He is a member of the campus YDC and is on the executive board of that group. He is also listed in Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges.

Final Figures Not Expected To Reach As High As 1800

Once again a new record has been set at East Carolina Teachers college with the report from Registrar J. K. Long that 1736 students had enrolled for the fall quarter as of September 11. While the complete registration was not available at the time of this writing, it is not expected that the enrollment will reach 1800.

A breakdown of the enrollment by classes and courses is as follows:

Graduate students—1 grammar grade, 44 high school—total 45.

Seniors—27 primary grades, 27 grammar grades, 222 high school, 49 arts and sciences, 3 vocational—total 328.

Juniors—31 primary grades, 34 grammar grades, 192 high school, 27 arts and sciences, 1 vocational—total 285.

Sophomores—72 primary, 59 grammar grades, 250 high school, 45 arts and sciences, 13 vocational—total 439.

Freshmen—77 primary grades, 56 grammar grades, 358 high school, 54 arts and sciences, 51 vocational—total 546.

Special students—total 43.

There are, according to the registrar's figures, 207 students preparing to teach in the primary grades, 177 preparing to teach in the grammar grades and 1066 who are studying in preparation for teaching in the secondary schools. 175 are enrolled in the arts and sciences courses and 68 in the vocational courses.

Mr. E. H. Stallings, veterans' advisor, has announced that there are approximately 300 veterans enrolled this quarter. The figure shows a steady decline in the number of ex-servicemen coming to college. Figures for the past three years are as follows:

1947-48—548 veterans enrolled.

1948-49—497 veterans enrolled.

1949-50—439 veterans enrolled.

At this writing it was not known what portion of the total 1736 enrollments was women or men, but it is expected according to the present trend that the total may be fairly evenly divided between the sexes.

Dean Jenkins Is Ally Of Popular Music In Article

Music instruction in the public and secondary schools is "losing its label of 'fad'" and is coming into its own, says Dean Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina Teachers college in the September, 1950, issue of "The Nation's Schools," nationally circulated magazine of school administration. "It justifies," he says, "the expenditure of taxpayers' money by offering a worthy outlet for leisure activity."

Commenting on the school music program, Dean Jenkins stresses music for enjoyment as the aim of the work offered, advocates the use of much popular music, and advises against too great emphasis on "highbrow" and "long-haired" music. He points out also that well-trained teachers—not amateurs in education, however talented they may be—are needed for carrying out successful programs.

Dean Jenkins goes on record against false claims as to the results of instruction in music, such as that it is a factor in health, and against "fancy words" and confusing educational terms in describing objectives. "If the objective is the enjoyment of the group singing . . . call it that," he says, rather than "esthetic creation" or "ethical expression."

YWCA, YMCA Cabinets Meet For Conference

The YWCA and YMCA cabinets will hold their fall planning conference at Rest Haven, N.C. Saturday and Sunday, September 16-17. Dr. John O. Reynolds has supplied a cottage for the conference.

The Y cabinets and their advisors will spend the weekend planning for the year's work and having fun on the river.

Verse Of The Week

"Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the spirit of God dwelleth in you?
"If any man defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy; for the temple of God is holy, which temple ye are."

Letters To The Editor

Dear Students:

Another year has come and gone, and we are again back at work. I trust that the summer has been pleasantly and profitably spent by all faculty and student members and that we are now ready for the many duties and pleasures with which we are surrounded. I am sure that all of us who were here last year welcome the new members of the staff and student body to our great family. Last fall's enrollment of 1660 regular college students has already been exceeded by the present enrollment, which is the greatest in the history of the college. There is little doubt that the enrollment, including part-time people, will exceed two thousand for the three quarter period this year, as it did last.

We have an excellent faculty who are exceedingly interested in the welfare of the students. At the very beginning, I trust that you will become acquainted with your advisors and will approach them with any problems you may have as frequently as you desire. They will be glad to listen to you and to advise you according to their mature judgment. When physically disabled in any respect, you will find splendid service at the infirmary with Dr. Irons, Mrs. Cherry, and Miss Stokes. Dean White and her staff, Dean Marshall, Dean Jenkins, Dr. Long, registrar, Mr. Duncan, the business manager, Mr. Holt, director of religious activities, and I will be glad to help you in any way possible. Students often lose many benefits because they are too modest to approach sources of helpfulness. Everyone of us wants to help you; please use us.

If you have not already, you will soon find that this is one big, friendly family working together as a civic group. This means that whatever you do as individuals affects the life and reputation of the college. Therefore, you have a tremendous responsibility to keep your conduct exemplary at the theatre, on the street, on the campus, in the dormitories, and even when you are out of town. Your actions will reflect credit or discredit upon both yourself and the institution. Please do only those things that will cause you and others to be proud that you are a part of East Carolina Teachers college. In this respect, I would caution you against campus petting, or any petting in public, including the parade down the street with arms around each other. I have already had a citizen of the town approach me concerning that. Please see that the campus and buildings are kept neat and orderly in so far as possible.

There will be many entertainments, lectures, and other events made possible for you during the year. Attend as many of these as you can because they are necessary to a broad education. An encyclopedic mind does not constitute an educated individual. You are an intellectual, a social, a spiritual, a physical, and an aesthetic being. See that you develop in every way in order to be a well rounded person. Start at the very beginning budget your time, remembering that the thorough preparation of your studies must come first. That is the basic reason for your being here.

May I wish for each of you the greatest possible success during the entire year.

John D. Messick,
President

We have started off this school year with a big bang. I sincerely hope that all the energetic interest shown in the school activities so far will continue throughout the year. Only by our cooperation and continued interest will we make a better showing for East Carolina.

We have a larger group of new students this year than ever before, and we would have them become a part of our campus family as soon as possible. If the upper classmen will offer a helping hand or a friendly word of encouragement, we shall be well on our way toward attaining an integrated student body.

To the new students I say, "we're glad to have you," and to the upper classmen I say, "I'm glad to see you back." East Carolina has a program which is beneficial to all, but we shall profit from our experiences and acquaintances only in degree to the amount of effort expended.

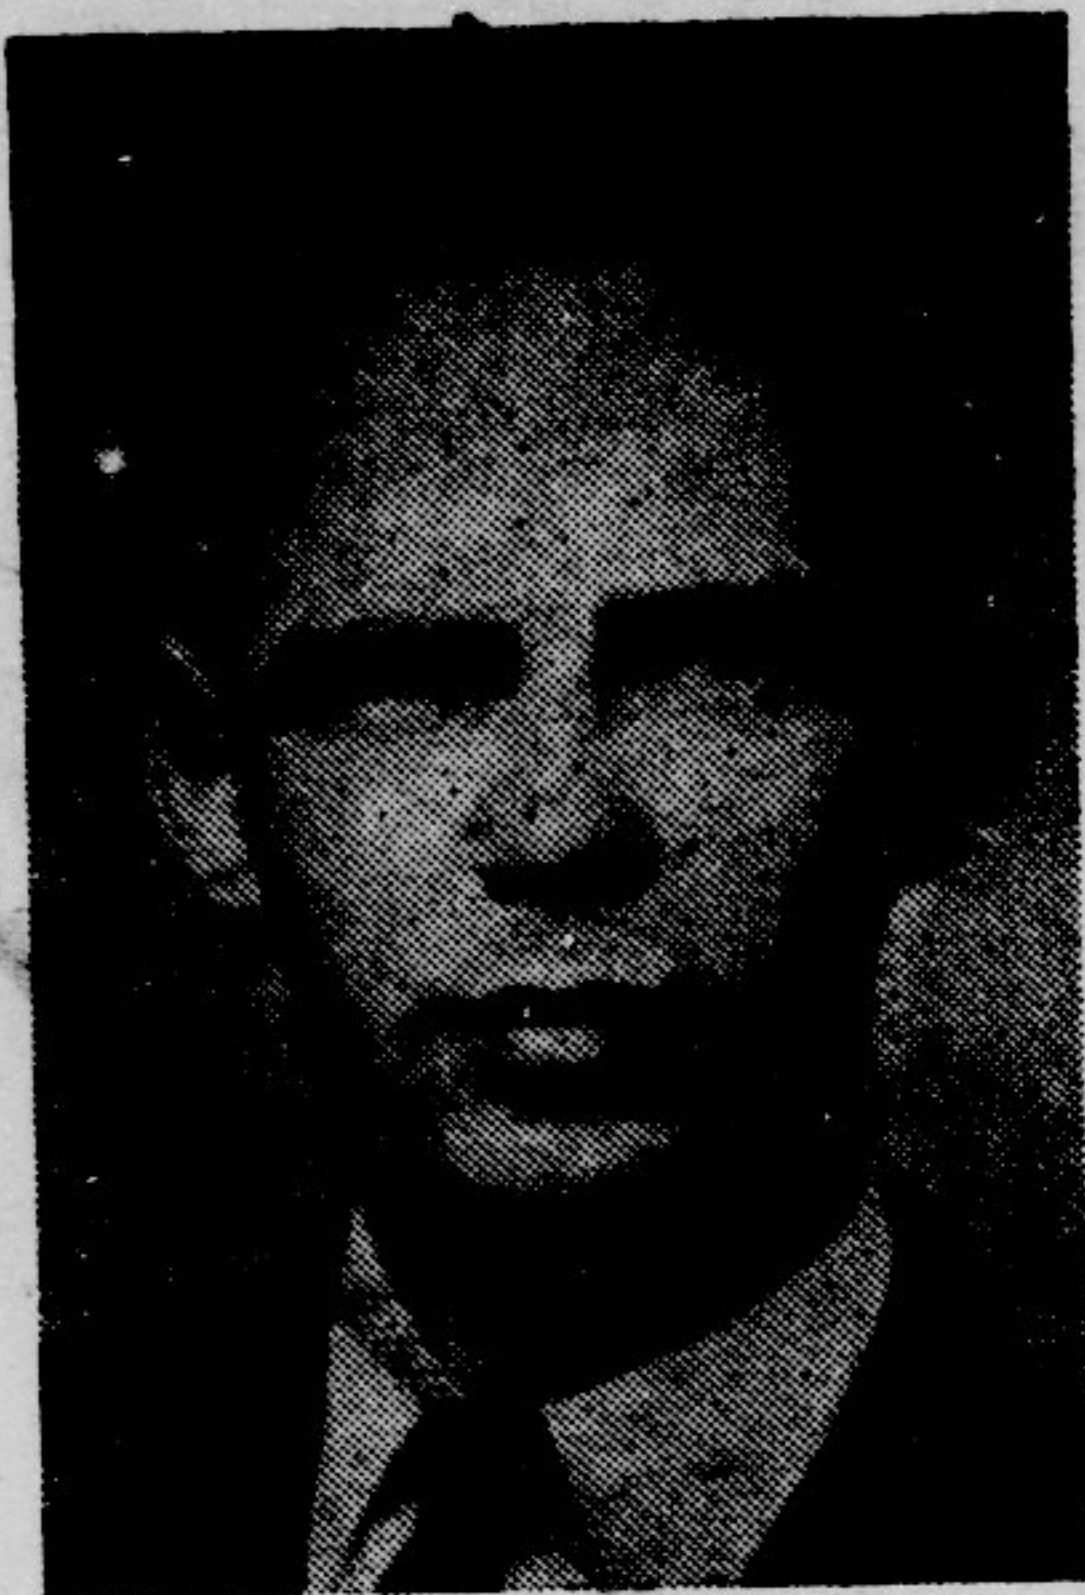

During the Orientation program, there were many upper classmen who gave much time and effort in their attempts to acquaint the new students immediately with our campus and our campus life. I wish to express my deep appreciation to each individual who gave of his time and energy toward that end. Especially do I thank the heads of the YMCA and the YWCA, Pat Williams and Gene Hart, for the splendid programs which they planned and executed with diligence.

Handbooks, which include the Student Government Association Constitution and some rules and regulations of extra-classroom activities, have been made available to all students. It is the intent of the SGA to have each member of the student body become acquainted with the provisions under which their legislative work for them. Hogan Gaskins, first vice-president of the Student Government Association, was chairman of the committee that worked on this year's handbook so that it would be available to all students. Hogan and his committee are to be commended for their excellent job, and they should have the appreciation of the student body for the great amount of time given like to express appreciation to Bill Flanders, business manager for their forethought and work in preparing cards for all the students. These cards are enclosed to Column 5)

Student Spotlight

by Anne Jones

Our student spotlight for this week needs no introduction, for you've all seen him around from 'way back. Just in case you shouldn't know the guy we're referring to, go over and take a peep in the Student Government office. Yeah, you guessed it this time—none other than our Student Government president, Al Livesey.

After a very informal interview with Al, plus the comments of a few of his friends, this reporter finally came to the conclusion that it was a tough job to write down all the things which ought to be told about Al.

Let us tell the story just as he told it. He was born in Drewryville, Virginia (but may we say here that he certainly didn't take after the name, for there is certainly nothing drewry about Al!). In his youth he must have done a lot of traveling to have lived in all these places—Littleton, Wallace, Scotland Neck, and Rocky Mount. After graduating from Rocky Mount high school he entered the United States Marine Corps.

Five years at Parris Island, South Carolina as chief clerk in headquarters and then Pearl Harbor for one and a half years as personnel sergeant major for the Fleet Marine Force in the Pacific area—so goes his record on Uncle Sam's grade books. Those days in the Pacific must have been quite interesting ones. At any rate, his friends tell us that he has a diary left from those exciting days which he keeps locked up all the time. Must be mighty thrilling reading material. Who can tell? Also, Al says, "I'd go back to Honolulu any day if I had a chance."

During those busy days as one of our leathernecks, our Spotlighter was not idling away his leisure time. He ran a pre-kindergarten school in Honolulu, an elisted men's club for two years and took voice lessons from Florence Ahn, a Korean who has studied extensively in the United States.

By the way, that reminds us that Al is a music lover and is a top-notch member of our college choir, having served as its president during his junior year. He has a beautiful tenor voice and is one of the group leaders in the barber shop quartet groups which you see in the "Y" shop and around the campus.

In 1947 he returned to the mainland and settled in Emporia, Virginia, entering East Carolina in the fall of the same year. May we say right here that Uncle Sam's loss was East Carolina's gain. This campus would not seem like the same place without that friendly smile which he wears on his face all the time.

Just let me list a few of his many varied activities: member of the Science club all four years, member of the college choir for three years, president of the sophomore class, president of the Canterbury club, leader.

member of Phi Sigma Pi fraternity, a member of the Circle K club and student director at the Episcopal church for the past two years. Makes our head swim just to think of all that work! How about you?

When asked about his future plans, he said, "The Virginia Theological Seminary in Alexandria, Virginia has approved my entrance there next fall. After I finish there, I hope to be somewhere preaching."

Girls, in case you're interested, we have it from reliable sources that our bachelor friend is still available and quite an interesting date. If some of you would like to know how to make a hit with this busy fellow just get a crowd of girls together one night, practice up on your group singing a little and then go over and stand under the window of room number two of Wilson Hall and serenade him and his roommate Norman Wicker. By the way, Al says that a finer roommate than Norman never lived.

Al likes to eat, in his own words, "anything that's eatable." We also understand that he loves coffee better than anyone else alive (or just about anyone anyway). His favorite book is "War and Peace" by Leo Tolstoy.

We all know that Al is modest, but we all do not know that he never takes a shower without a towel around him. We thought the days of real modesty were gone forever, but now we've changed our minds.

Just in case you wonder where Al keeps himself hidden all the time, he's practicing teaching this quarter. Need we say more? Then there's that never-ending job as Student Government president. We are looking forward to a year of progress under the direction of this campus leader.

ROUND THE CAMPUS

by Carl G. Conner

Welcome to East Carolina; home of friends, fools, and females. Seriously, though, by a poll, this crop of freshmen women has been labeled as the most attractive in many a year. And are they learning fast!

As an introduction to this column, this writer would like to explain what it is all about. It first appeared in the TECO ECHO last year under the by-line of Curtis Nichols while yours truly was editor of this paper. While we want to be light and present things just as we see them around the campus, we would also like to be serious and help make your life more enjoyable while you are at East Carolina, if possible.

This writer would like to introduce the new students to our many campus clubs and organizations. First, each department, or at least major department, has a departmental club. These include the English club, the Mathematics club, the Commerce club, the Home Economics club, and the Science club. Besides the departmental clubs, there are a number of fraternities. Most of these you will become acquainted with in your sophomore year. Don't fail to investigate the various groups which you might join. They add as much to your college career as any single subject.

Also, if you are interested in journalism or yearbook work, the editors of the TECO ECHO and Tecocan would be glad to have you work with them.

One thing in which this writer is much interested in the freshmen organization. It is very important that you organize your class well when you elect officers. Be sure that the officers you elect are capable. See to it that your president calls meetings when they are needed. Collect dues and plan some activities for the year. The student body is watching the newcomers. We believe that they, more than any class in the past, will work to affect a strong organization. At least they give every indication of working more toward that.

And topping off the week was a nice shower. Greenville, the rainiest one place north of Panama. At least the new students will now know what the weather is like here. Yet, this writer will never understand why people can't realize that running doesn't get them less wet. When running the rain is spattered and one gets wet about twice as fast as by simply walking.

For a little variety send in your ideas for this column. If anything funny happens around the campus which you would like for the student body to know, let us know. We say share and share alike. Anyway, that's what everyone seems to have done when waiting in line for books last Friday and Saturday. The line spread out down the hall and on out the end of Austin building. Innocent by-passers, thinking that it was another place they were supposed to go, fell in line only to be disappointed with a stack of books greeting them at the end.

Poor freshmen girls! Did you see the downcast look on their faces as the sun went down Saturday night? Three weeks to spend at a place without seeing home is a long time. But you just wait until that time runs out, and the buses won't be able to hold them.

Not being able to fill the shoes of my predecessor, Mr. Nichols, in closing with a joke, I will end with this note. This writer has heard that love is a feeling that you feel when you feel that you are going to have a feeling that you have never felt before—I'm just wondering if the bug has bitten any of the freshmen yet.

MILES BEHIND THE MIKE

by Miles Buck

Where is the campus studio? What do you do in the way of programming here? Does the college have its own transmitter?

These are only a few of the questions that have confronted this reporter in the past ten days. It is the purpose of this writer to answer questions concerning the operations of the radio studio on the campus and to keep the student body informed about the programs that will originate from the Graham building and elsewhere on the campus.

The studio is located on the third floor of the Graham building but we hope to have lines installed in Austin building, Wright building and the dining hall to insure complete coverage of all the events of interest that may take place on the campus. The college broadcasting is handled through the remote facilities of radio station WGTC in Greenville. Part of our equipment is furnished by the station. Our relations with the station have been most cordial in the past. Mr. Hartwell Campbell has been most generous in making time available to us.

The communications center is charged with the primary responsibility for radio; however, Miss Marguerite Austin is the staff member directly in charge of radio operations.

Actual programs are conducted by the various organizations and departments of the college. Last season the Music department had a weekly half hour, the News bureau handled a regular college news broadcast, the Health and Physical Education department kept the sports fans in the area informed with the weekly college sports parade. In the field of national and international affairs Dr. Frank and his social studies staff conducted a weekly commentary on world affairs. Last, but by no means least, was our service in the field of children's stories. The Teachers Playhouse under the direction of Dr. Lucille Charles presented a daily program of children's stories called "Once Upon a Time."

A cordial invitation is extended to all students interested in any phase of radio broadcasting to join our staff.

Watch this column for further announcements about programs.

Editor's Corner

While everyone else is extending hearty welcomes to the freshmen of East Carolina, we would also like to extend a personal welcome to them and to the students who have already been introduced to college life. Freshmen will soon learn that they are attending one of the most progressive, and one of the friendliest institutions in this country. Freshmen here are afforded every opportunity for educational enrichment and social acceptance. All clubs and student organizations here are eager to enlist in their ranks and enthusiastic young men and women fresh out of high school, many new students will become officers of clubs and hold responsible positions in student organizations. For these reasons, students entering East Carolina for the first time will learn to love and enjoy the campus life offered them by the faculty and their fellow students. Students who have attended East Carolina before, returning now, realize more and more how endearment with and pride in their school has crept upon them. We feel sure our new students will feel the same way.

We sincerely hope all new students at East Carolina will enjoy their stay here. We stand ready to assist you in any way, hope or form possible. Have a good time, be good students seeking higher paths, and good luck to you in your college careers.

There comes a time in the reign of every college editor when he must cry out for help. We've had experience, sure, but this is a weekly sheet and a big headache for us. In fact, we're almost as green as most college freshmen. We need a staff! Everyone and anybody is urged, indeed we plead, to turn out for our staff meetings every Monday evening at 6:30 in the basement of the Austin building. We have plenty of work here for you to do, and there are many top positions on our staff which need filling. Everyone has a chance, and we have lots of fun too. Frankly, we hold the opinion that there is not a single thing on the campus like it. We're really a great bunch of people; you should get to know us better for fear of missing half (1/2) of your college life! Come on down to our "inner sanctum" and see what it's like. We're looking for you.

There has been some talk as to the possibility of reviving the now extinct Pieces O' Eight, one time literary and humor magazine of East Carolina. The magazine which made its debut in 1939 was published four times per year but has now passed into oblivion. Reviving this magazine might not be such a bad idea if the right persons would get behind it and give it a boost. It seems to us that an institution as large as East Carolina, an ever expanding institution, should have such a publication. We'd probably be able to make a better go of it now than was possible during the '40's.

will lessen the burden of ticket-takers at sports events and scheduled entertainments.

I have a feeling that this year is to be the greatest in the history of East Carolina and in the life of the students here. Let us work together for a bigger and better year for East Carolina which will mean a bigger and better year for all of us.

Sincerely always,
Al Livesey,
President, Student Government Association

Dear Students:

To all new men and women of the freshman class and all new upperclassmen we give a sincere welcome. You have been admitted to East Carolina Teachers college because we believe you are capable of doing good work here. We also feel that you are desirous of becoming a better citizen of our great state. You realize, I am sure, that you will need to work faithfully and assiduously in order to attain your objective. A tremendous responsibility has been thrust upon you as college students during these critical times. Courage, patience and clear thinking will be necessary now as well as when you leave here. The college will give you the opportunity to develop trained minds and sound bodies that you will need in our complex society. The faculty and administrative staff are anxious to help you at all times. Please feel free to visit with us frequently.

Leo W. Jenkins,
Dean of the College

Dear Students:

It is always a pleasure to welcome new students to East Carolina Teachers college. But particularly is it a pleasure to welcome all Freshmen. This is your new home for, we hope, several years to come, and it is our sincere desire that you consider East Carolina as your adopted home.

We believe you will like being a citizen of the student college community and will participate in as many of the student activities as you can, but at the same time remember that first and foremost your reason for being here is to secure the best possible training for future living. In other words, we believe in the essential philosophy that learning to live intelligently is freedom to participate in a responsible way in purposeful activity. And we define intelligent activity as that which, when wisely guided, will result in an integrated personality. This is the type of activity which we would have you learn while you are at East Carolina.

The purpose of the office of Dean of Men is to assist you in every way possible in order that you can enjoy living and learning. We are glad you are here and hope that this year will be the happiest and most profitable of your entire life.

Cordially yours,
W. E. Marshall,
Dean of Men and Director of Student Affairs

Dear Students:

We welcome all students to this college campus today with a feeling of deep responsibility. We know that we must give you opportunity for an education which will enable you to mature mentally, physically, morally, socially and emotionally. We know that we must do our best to assist you in maintaining a college way of living which will make it possible for you to continue your development in the art of democratic living.

We face this responsibility with a firm determination to do all in our power to work with you in attaining these goals. You want to acquire all the benefits which a college education affords; therefore avail yourselves of the many opportunities. Choose the activities which interest you most and give the best that you have to them. -Make many friends. By so doing your college career will provide lasting satisfaction.

East Carolina Teachers college is glad that you have chosen this as your college. May this be a happy and successful year for each and every one of you. Remember that we are here to help you, so don't hesitate to let us know your needs.

Ruth White,
Dean of Women

To the Editor:

Will you please express in the TECO ECHO our appreciation to the members of the YMCA and YWCA for their invaluable service in helping the new students to register? We are also particularly indebted to Johnny Long and Harvey Stull for their assistance in helping through the entire registration period.

Sincerely yours,
J. K. Long,
Registrar

SPORTS VIEW

BY LLOYD WHITFIELD

The king of winter sports, football, is the topic of a sportsman's conversation, and baseball is fastly being ousted from the sports world. Such a move is brought with pleasure on the sports front at East Carolina where Coach Bill Dole is sending 26 lettermen through spirited two hour daily drills.

The local Pirates will make some loud noises in the North State conference this season—and why not with such high morale, but still, Dole is in the building process and no championship team is predicted for 1950. However, the Bucs will be stronger due to a year's valuable experience and the 10 weeks spent during winter drills.

PIRATES WILL BE STRONG ON OFFENSE

Offensively speaking, the locals will be plenty strong. Last year they were able to score at least twice on the opposition on most occasions. This year the Dole men will have the same backfield that worried so many clubs in 1949. Spearheading the scoring power is All-Conference Roger Thrift who can sling passes as smooth and as accurately as a baseball player. Regarded as one of the best bulls-eye passers in the state, Thrift will be playing his last year at the quarterback position. Sandy Siler, a sophomore, shows great possibilities as being a great passer as Thrift.

With lettermen Ed Tanner, Dwight Shoe, and Frank Maennle filling in at offensive end, it appears that the Bucs will take to the air on most occasions.

However, with two great halfbacks, in the persons of Jack Benzie, Bill Darby, and a plunging 224-pound fullback, Tom Swain, the Pirates will be mighty potent on the ground. Aiding Benzie and Darby will be Johnny Daughtry and Jack Britt. Britt did not see action last year due to an injury to his knee. Darby, Benzie, Maennle, and Siler will do the kicking.

On defense the Bucs will positively be stronger in all positions due to Dole's building process and the big boys who are all veterans.

Bobby Hodges, 222-pound All-State tackle for two years in prep school at Kinston, will probably see plenty of action at offensive end and defensive guard.

The guards will be Leon Ellis and Reggie Byrd, with Kieth Melton and Freddie Aldridge slated to see plenty of action. Don McKenzie and Mickey Berman will see action at tackle.

BUCK WILSON LEADS CENTERS

Leading the centers is Buck Wilson, a 197-pound senior. Pete Prominski and Frank Madigan earned their monograms last year and will be valuable in aiding Wilson.

From this corner things look extremely good for a winning team at East Carolina, but do not expect anything too great yet. Other clubs in the conference have magnificent prospects for a good season also. Elon, for instance, started a rebuilding program last year and soundly trounced the Bucs before a homecoming crowd of 4000 fans. They will be tough this year along with Lenoir-Rhyne and Appalachian.

DOLE WORKS HARD FOR WINNING COMBINATION

Coach Bill Dole is working awfully hard trying to build a winning combination. Thus far he has done a great job barring all obstacles he has had to face. This is his second year at East Carolina, and in a few years he will have a football team that will bring home plenty of victories. Remember, when winning days do start here, Bill Dole started from scratch in 1949 and has come a long way.

Dole has coached many winning teams and is regarded as one of the top coaches in this section of the South. Aiding Dole with his coaching duties are Jack Boone and Keith Kilpatrick. Kilpatrick is a newcomer to this coaching staff and hails from Kinston. Last year he played tackle for the Bucs. Boone is head baseball coach and has been working the line hard trying to get them in top condition for tonight's opener.

Pirates To Open Against Naval Team

Dole Thinks NS Football Will Be Improved In 1950

Says Lenoir-Rhyne, Elon Will Probably Be Loop's Strongest

by Byrd Humphries

William Dole, East Carolina's head football coach, believes that the brand of football in the North State conference is steadily on the upgrade. Although Dole has little to say on the subject, Elon and Lenoir-Rhyne will probably offer the most trouble. Considering last year's record, East Carolina will field a stronger team, backed by valuable experience.

Dole is not disappointed with the performance of the new boys, but "the older players have more experience." Some of the freshman prospects will see a lot of action.

As for the outcome of the Naval Apprentice school game, he merely refers to the 26-21 Pirate victory last season.

Dole is a native of Kalamazoo, Michigan where he played football in high school. He received his B.S. degree at West Virginia and his M.A. at New York university. He also attended Michigan State and Columbia. During college, a knee injury brought a sudden stop to his football and baseball career.

After producing a championship squad at Bluefield, West Virginia, Dole went to Fayetteville, N.C., on a recommendation from Carl Snaveley. During his three-year coaching period here he made a record of 28 wins, one tie, three losses and two state championship clubs.

Any athletic team usually reflects the personality of its coach. Therefore, if conscientious coaching and a fighting spirit mean anything the opposition will find the Pirates a tough lot to defeat.

Chief Cheerleader Picked As 20 Try For Cheering Team

Tall, slim Jack Everton, Pirate basketball star for the past four years, was selected as chief cheerleader for 1950-51 as more than 20 East Carolina students tried out for yell leaders Monday afternoon at the Wright building.

To work with Jack are ten others who were chosen by cheerleader advisors, Miss Margaret Tiffitt and Miss Nell Stallings. They are Pat Crumpler, Lou Yates, Joan Britt, Peggy Barrow and Drusilla Bain.

Other Pirate cheerleaders are Janet Shore, J. B. Edwards, Ramona Sawyer, Hazel Burke and Robert Williams.

There were four substitutes or alternates chosen. They are Johnnie Frisette, Frances Jean Davis, Annie Frances Riddick and Jean Mohorn.

Meetings are held once a week for the students who lead the cheers, but until football season opens the meetings will be held more often, stated Miss Stallings.

Head Coach Confers With Two Grid Stars

Ex-East Carolina Net Star Back To Guide Local Squad

Good Year Expected On Courts With Much New Talent On Campus

Bob Williams, tennis star at East Carolina in 1946 and 1947, has returned to the tennis fronts here and will guide the local netters to what may be their first championship in two years. Williams, who should be rated on the All-timers net squad, brought with him some of the most outstanding scholastic swatters in the state who graduated in 1949.

Williams wants to see a victorious squad at East Carolina and has recruited North Carolina's doubles champion, Bud Wallace of Goldsboro. Goldsboro has been state champs for about the last four years in a row, and Wallace has been their No. 1 man. Joe Hallow, also of Goldsboro, will add strength to the locals. Hallow was No. 2 man at Goldsboro and was North Carolina prep singles runner-up.

From Kinston comes its No. 1 man, P. A. Cameron. Cameron plays a consistent game and was runner-up in the city-wide men's division. Francis Gay of Raleigh will also join the local net squad. Gay was No. 1 man for the Capitol City.

Veterans returning are 1949 No. 1 man Art Holland, Dick Palmer and Dave Jones. Williams also is eligible.

Williams is busy now drawing up a schedule and will have it completed in a few weeks. In approximately two weeks Williams plans to start fall drills to give the newcomers college experience. As soon as drills start a notice will be posted to let all interested students try for the squad.

SIDELIGHTS

by Byrd Humphreys

Rome was not built in a day and neither is a football team.

This year's spirited Pirate club will be leaps and bounds ahead of last season's squad in weight, experience and general knowhow. It is an accepted fact that a team which has devoted sixteen weeks to out-of-season drills plus the regular three-month game season will be much improved.

Although the Bucs lost four games last year they received due praise from opponents, fans, coaches, and the like. Dole proved his boys had scoring power, for in no game were they held scoreless. Elon, who threw a 216-pound line against the Pirate stone wall linebackers, could not hold them away from pay dirt. In the Appalachian game the Bucs showed their determination by pushing over two touchdowns in the first half after they had been trailing by 21 points.

Roger Thrift, All-Conference quarterback, will certainly give all challengers trouble when he slings to Ends Eddie Tanner and Dwight Shoe, while on the ground Benzie, Daughtry, Swain, Darby and Siler will kick up clouds of dust. Clearing the way will be "Doc" Smith, Ellis, Byrd, and other capable linemen.

Dole will use the two-platoon system and neither squad will be a push-over.

From the sidelines it looks like East Carolina will have a scoring outfit when they open the pigskin season tonight against the Newport News Apprentice school there.

New Press Box Erected

A new press box will be erected in the college stadium for the first home game. It will be enclosed in glass and will seat 26 people. Here is a welcomed addition to the stadium!

In a few weeks the spotlight will be on tennis also.

Player-coach Bob Williams has obtained some of the best talent in the state. Add these fellows to last year's veterans and East Carolina will put a hot crew in the race for the net championship.

Well buddies, this is all the gossip the ole scribe could round-up for this week's column—not many names are news, but keep your eye on the "Sidelights" 'cause there will be some news coming your way as soon as the grid season gets in full swing.

Price Appointed As Head Manager For Grid Season

Student managers for the 1950 football season have been announced and Bob Price, a veteran of last year's manager crew, has been appointed as head manager.

Price, a junior from Rocky Mount, was manager of the baseball team last spring and has proven himself of the great responsibility the job requires.

Dole Believes His Squad Is In Good Shape Physically

by Lloyd Whitfield

Coach Bill Dole sent his East Carolina Pirates through their last scrimmage last Monday afternoon in preparation for the Friday night when the Bucs will invade the Newport News Apprentice school. Kickoff time is set for eight o'clock.

Dole, who has been sending his squad through heavy workouts since September 1, believes his charges are in good physical condition, and is pleased with the small number of injuries sustained.

Nothing is known of the strength of the Apprentice, but the Bucs came out on the victorious end of a 26-21 score last season. However, the opposing team is expected to have some great football talent and will be a tough foe with whom to open the schedule.

To Use Two-Platoon System

The Pirates will use a two-platoon system, and Dole plans to use plenty of reserves. On offense the locals will start Tom Swain, a 222-pound junior, at fullback. Jack Benzie, a brokenfield runner, will start at left halfback with Johnny Daughtry, a hard charging runner, starting at right halfback. At quarterback will be All-conference Roger Thrift, who will carry the brunt of the Pirate scoring hopes with his passing accuracy.

Starting at offensive end, Dole will use Eddie Tanner and Dwight Shoe. Both have the reputation of being good pass receivers. Dennis Smith and Bill McDonald will hold down the tackle positions, and at guards Leon Ellis and Reggie Byrd will be the starters. Buck Wilson will fill in at the center position. Wilson, one of the five seniors on the squad, saw limited action last year due to a leg injury.

Defense Unit

On defense Dole plans to call on Frank Maennle, converted from fullback, and Bob Bradley at ends. Buck Hardy and Wallace Robinson will be used at tackle. Filling in beside them will be Mickey Berman and Don McKenzie at guard. Johnny Smith and Frank Madigan will back up the line. Sandy Siler, who will also see action on offense, and Bill Darby are the defensive halfbacks. Bill Smith at fullback rounds out the Bue defensive starters.

Assisting Price are Hoover Britt and J. C. Fields, both newcomers. Britt, of Fairmont, played defensive ball for Richmond university last year but is not eligible for play at East Carolina. Fields is a sophomore from Goldsboro and a member of Jack Boone's baseball squad.

Trainer for the Pirates is Robert "Doc" Wichter of Stumpy Point. Wichter is a sophomore and has had experience in the medical field. He served as chief pharmacist's mate in the U.S. Navy and Coast Guard.

AROTC Unit Gets Boost With Two New Instructors

In addition to the large number of enrollments in the Air Reserve Officers Training Corps unit this quarter, the unit has been further strengthened by the arrival of Major Alfred E. Baucom and Technical Sergeant Robert W. Spicer. Major Baucom is serving as assistant professor of air science and tactics and as instructor in the advanced course of the AROTC. Sgt. Spicer is operations sergeant and assistant instructor of the AROTC.

Major Baucom comes to East Carolina from Walker Air Force base, Roswell, New Mexico, one of the stations of the Strategic Air Command. He has been a member of the Air Force for over seven years, sixteen months of which was spent overseas in the Asiatic-Pacific theater of operations. During this period of overseas service, Major Baucom participated in 102 combat missions flying as a member of a B-29 medium bomber squadron. He holds, in addition to other awards, the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with one cluster.

Former East Carolina Student

Major Baucom makes his home in Fayetteville, N. C. He attended East Carolina Teachers college for a period of one year prior to joining the Air Force.

Sgt. Spicer was assigned to the local unit from the 2585th Air Force Reserve Training unit at Miami International airport, Miami, Florida. A member of the United States Navy during the war years, he enlisted in the Air Force in 1947.

Deferment Policy

Justifiable cases. For delays in excess of 30 days, either the reservist or the institution may forward a written request along with documentary evidence supporting the request to the headquarters issuing the orders. Normal delay will be for six months, after which the case will be reviewed if further delay is asked.

If delay is fully justifiable, delay will be authorized before the individual leaves home. In doubtful cases, the reservist may be required to appear before a deferment board, which are set up at Air Force processing stations, for a personal hearing. Appeals from decisions of the deferment boards will be referred to the Command Appeal board at the Continental Air Command.

Army Procedures

Members of National Guard units which are ordered into federal service will forward requests for delay in call to the commanding officer of the organization called. The request

Upperclassman Aids New Students At Registration

The "Big Sister" program, sponsored by the YWCA and the YMCA at East Carolina, made the first day of college life less confusing for members of the freshman class. "Big Sisters" among upperclassmen wrote their "Little Sisters" welcoming letters during the summer months and were on hand to lend assistance when the new students arrived on the campus. A corps of "Big Sisters" also guided freshmen through the intricacies of registration. Pictured here are Catherine Hill of Deep Run (right) sophomore home economics student, giving directions during registration in the Wright building to (left to right) Verona Sparrow of Deep Run, transfer student, Howard Hudnell of Oriental, and Rebecca Ann Pate of Chicod, freshmen.

will be forwarded to the adjutant general of the state concerned. All requests for delay should be supported by written evidence showing the individual's student or faculty status.

Members of the organized reserves who apply for delay will forward requests through the unit instructor of the organization, who will in turn forward the request to the commander of the Army district issuing the orders.

Reservists not assigned to organized units will be ordered to duty individually. Requests for delay should be addressed to the commanding general of the Army district which issued the orders.

Initial deferments from active duty may not exceed six months, but extensions may be applied for when the deferment expires.

In all cases where requests for delay are denied or have not been acted upon by the reporting date, the reservist must comply with original recall orders.

Music Education Club Gets Seat On Legislature

The Music Education club, an organization consisting of music majors and minors, was admitted to a seat on the Student Legislature at a called meeting of the Legislature held September 7.

After being an active organization on the East Carolina campus for the past several years, the Music Education club applied for a seat last spring. L. B. Starling, president, will attend all future meetings of the Legislature.

The main purpose of the music organization is to stimulate and develop interest in music for members of the club and all other East Carolina students.

Other officers of the club, in addition to Starling, are: Ed Reynolds, vice-president; Madeline Hodges, secretary-treasurer; and Annette Hughes, reporter.

Wife Head Football Coach Joins Faculty

Mrs. W. E. Dole of Greenville has joined the faculty of the department of health and physical education at East Carolina as a part-time instructor. She will conduct work in the modern dance.

Mrs. Dole is a graduate of West Virginia university and holds the master's degree from New York university. She taught as a critic teacher at West Virginia university and served as head of the women's physical education department at Concord State Teachers college, Athens, W. Va. She is the wife of W. E. Dole, head football coach at East Carolina.

Baptist Students Will Hold Vespers

According to Milan Johnson, chairman, vesper services began this week at the Baptist Student center located one and a half blocks up Eighth street from the campus. Vespers will be held each evening Monday through Thursday from 6:45 until 7:00. Every one is invited to attend these devotional periods which include meditation, music, interpretations of religious masterpieces, and brief talks by students and faculty.

The Vesper room was recently made into a small chapel which will seat from forty to fifty people.
