Twenty Six Campus Leaders Selected For 'Who's Who'

Charles Wagner's Production Of 'La Boheme' To Play On Campus

Puccini's Opera Considered One Of Best Beloved

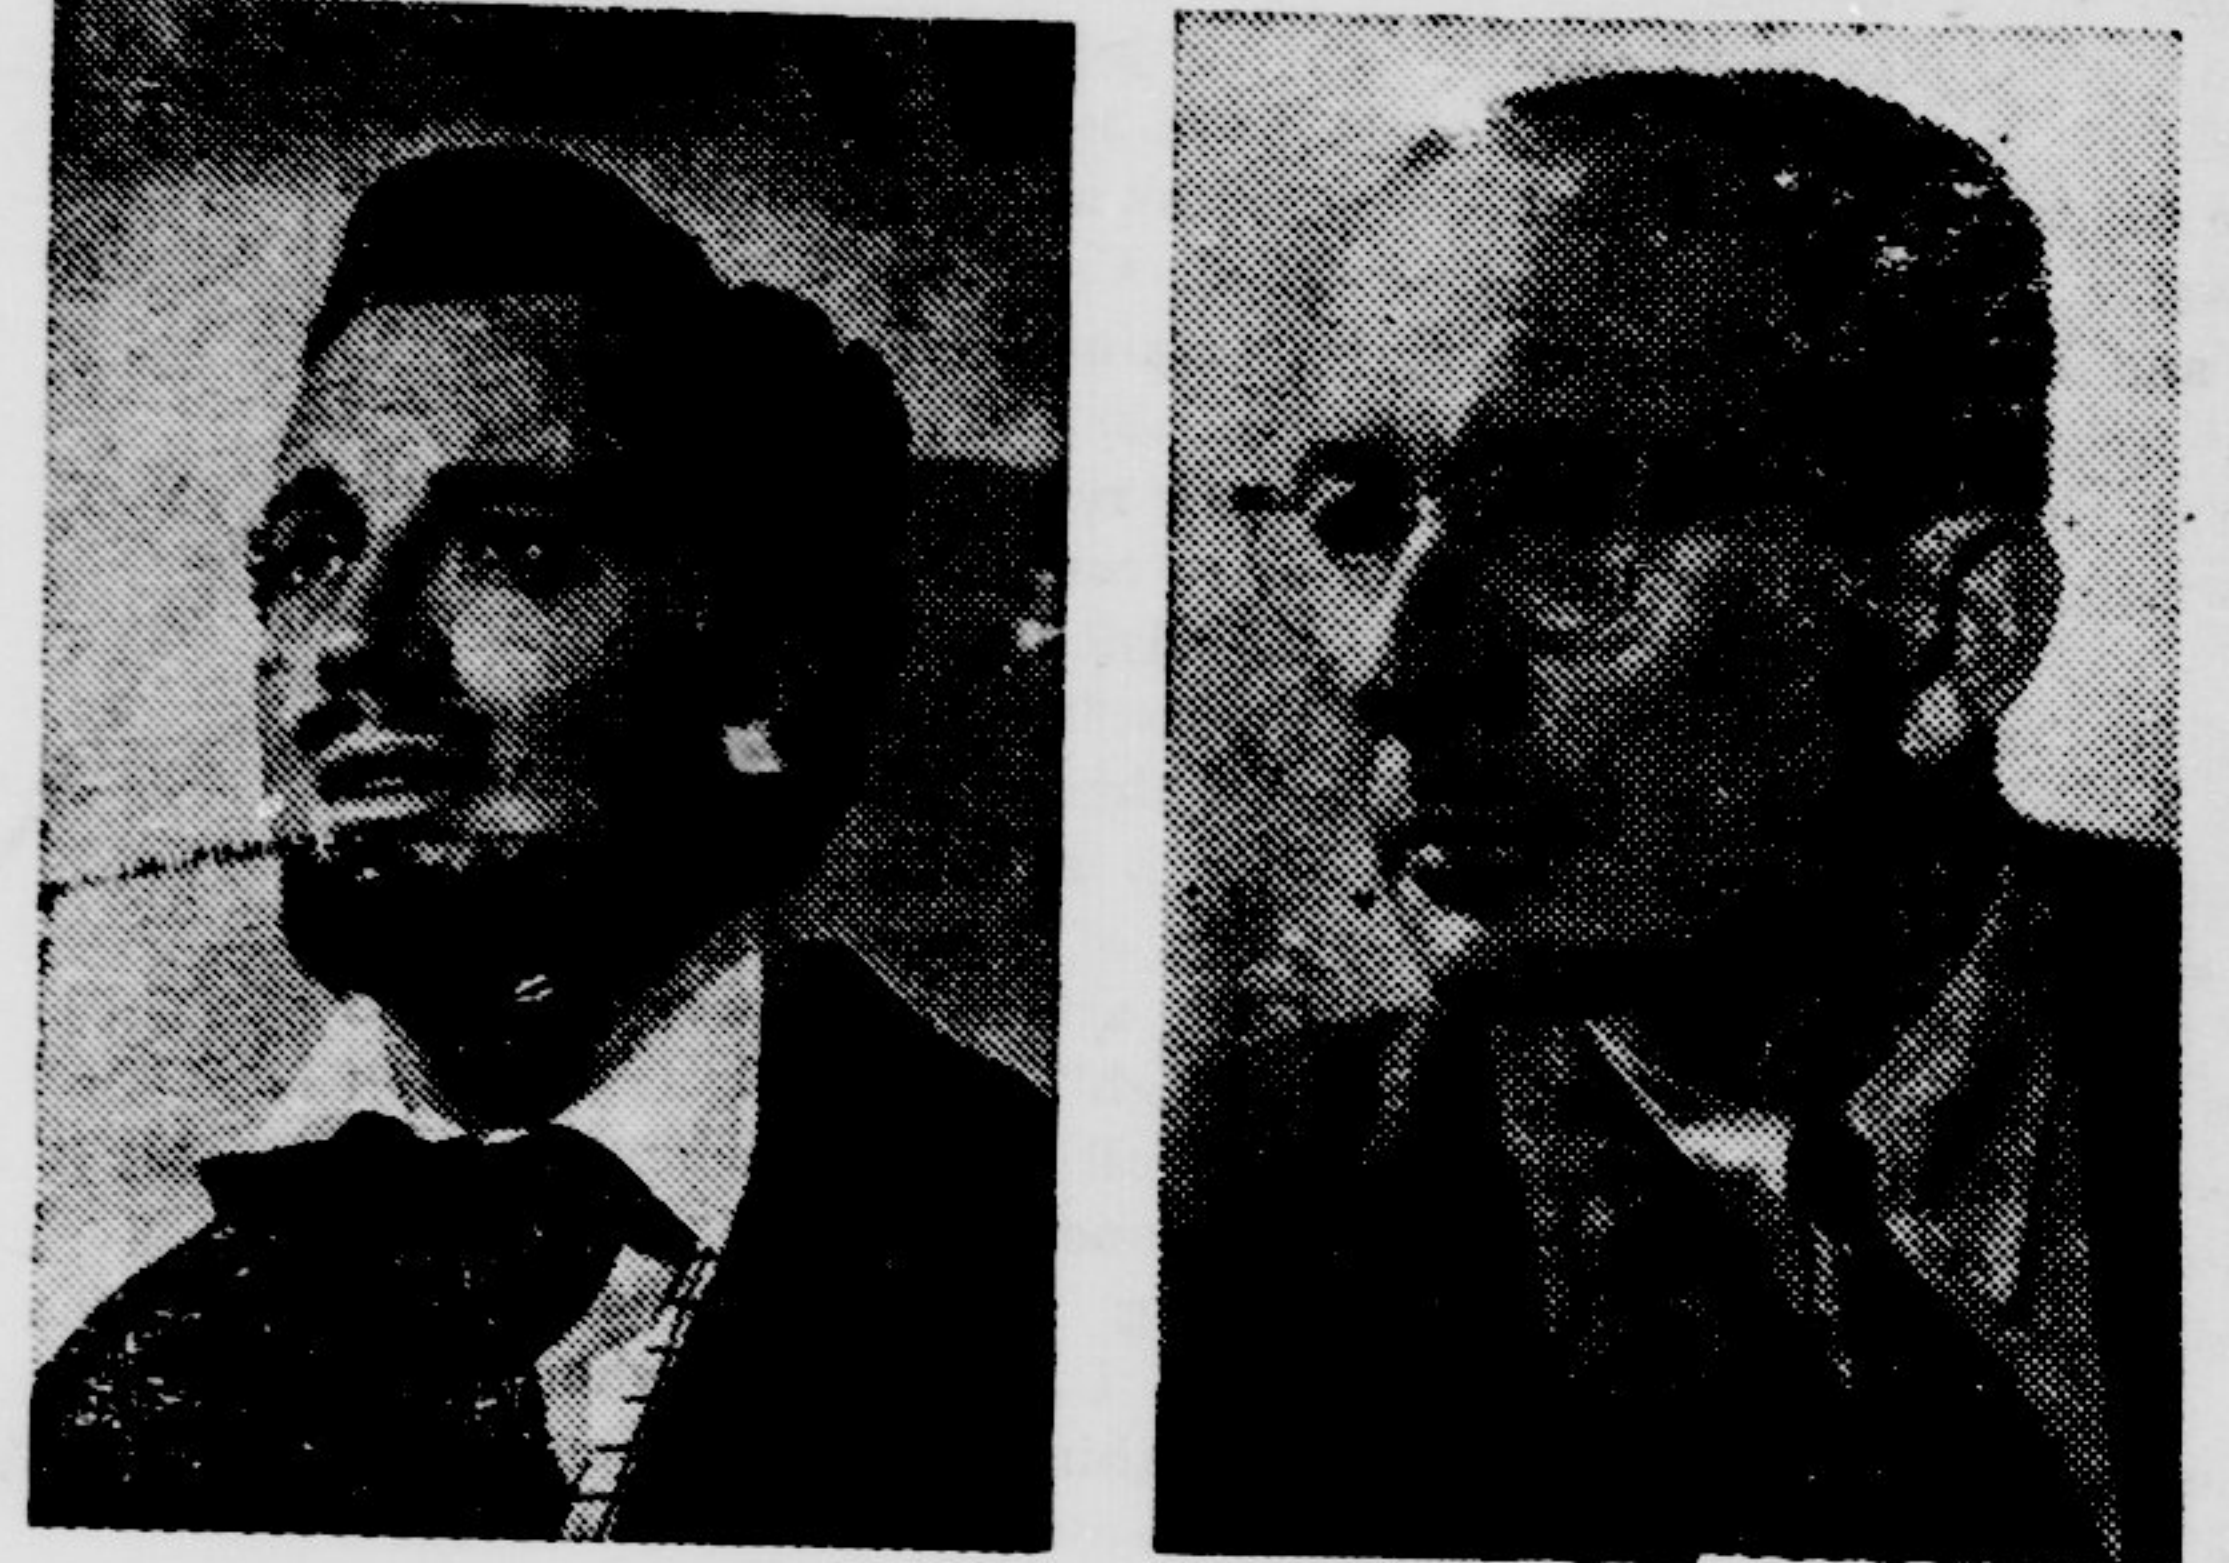

Charles L. Wagner's production of the opera "La Boheme" will play at East Carolina November 29 at 8:00 p.m., in the Wright building, the leading roles of Rodolpho and Mimi being sung by Davis Cunningham and Marguerite Lamb. Paul Breisch, a native of Vienna and one of the most distinguished of present day operatic conductors, will direct the production.

"La Boheme" has been one of the most appealing and best beloved of operas. It is a gay, but tragically sentimental musical treat written by Puccini. Puccini poured some of his finest melodies and richest orchestrations into this work, and he put a wealth of characterization into his plot.

The plot of this opera is set in the Latin quarter of Paris, and is the story of a frail French lady who needs a rich lover to give her the wealth of her desire, but falls in love with a poor poet. She leaves her love for the poet for the love of the man who can give her luxury. But when the lady tires of her superficial way of living and returns to the love of her heart for the fulfillment of her wish to die loved and forgiven. Davis Cunningham, who will play the male lead in "La Boheme," is a Pittsburgh born tenor who was reared in the Philippine Islands. He attended Western college in Ohio, majoring in music. During the past operatic season, Cunningham has won highest critical praise for his singing and acting of operatic roles on television, as well as on the stage.

Marguerite Lamb, born of a musical family in Youngstown, Ohio, will play the female lead in Puccini's opera. An alumna of Greenbrier college and Julliard School of Music, Miss Lamb made her debut in opera last fall. She was forced by circumstances beyond anyone's control to sing her first role without a single rehearsal. She rose to the occasion, scoring a magnificent success there and in many subsequent appearances. The role of Musetta, a grisette, will be sung by Graciela Silvain. Other supporting roles in the opera will be handled by Frank Cappelli, Richard Torpe, William Wilderman and Ralph Black.

To Appear Here In 'La Boheme'

Three Students Entertain Members Of Circle K Club

Members of the Circle K club at East Carolina, campus branch of Kiwanis International, at a dinner meeting Tuesday evening, November 7, heard a program of music by three students at the college and held a brief business session. Bernard Ham and Ernest G. Black of Portsmouth, Va., and Malcolm Wester of Goldsboro entertained those present with a group of selections for a trio of instrumentalists.

Thirty members attended the meeting, at which President Mays of Greenville presided. Wendell W. Smiley, college librarian, and Dr. John Reynolds, faculty sponsor of the club, were guests.

Circle K members voted during a business session to assist the Greenville Kiwanis club in presenting its annual minstrel. December 12 was set by Circle K as Ladies Night, when a dinner for guests will be given. A report on the sale of Pirate flags showed that 250 of the banners have been sold by the club for use at campus athletic events. The proceeds will be used to further the sports program at East Carolina.

Members Of Vets Club Hear Dr. Pasti Talk About Tour Of Europe

Dr. George Pasti, of the East Carolina social studies department faculty, spoke informally Tuesday night, November 14, of his recent tour of Europe, at a banquet meeting of the recently reorganized Veterans club. Dr. Pasti told of the English concepts of Americans.

Al Kreker entertained the group with "Shortnin' Bread" and other musical selections.

Robert Wechter, vice-president of the Veterans club, told of the plans under way to get "Ace" Parker of Duke university to visit here and show movies of the Duke football games in the near future.

President Charles Self expressed his thanks to the members of the club for such a large turnout and said he was looking forward to other dinner meetings during the remainder of the school year.

George Perry Elected Head Of Northeastern District Music Clubs

George E. Perry of the faculty of the department of music at East Carolina has been elected district director of the Northeastern district of the North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs. He will continue in office for the next two years.

Faculty Member Gives Lecture-Recital To Club

Beatrice Chauncey, faculty member of the department of music at East Carolina, gave a lecture-recital on "The Flute and Flute Literature" before members of the Greenville Music club Tuesday evening, November 14. The meeting was held at the city Woman's club.

Assisting Miss Chauncey in the recital of music for the flute was David Gilbert of Greenville, Gilbert, a high school student, is a member of the Greenville High school band and the East Carolina orchestra, which was organized and is conducted by Dr. Rudolph Willmann of the East Carolina faculty. The young flutist has also played with the college band. Elizabeth Drake of the East Carolina faculty, pianist, accompanied Miss Chauncey and Mr. Gilbert.

Miss Chauncey, whose home is in California, joined the college faculty last year. Her work is largely supervision in the Greenville city schools. The program before the music club included solo selections by Miss Chauncey and arrangements for two flutes and piano made up of numbers by Bach, Mozart, Bizet, Debussy, and other composers.

Methodist Center Is "Home Away From Home"

"Hail, hail, the gang's all here," this may be the title of a most familiar song, but we think it is a good term to use in connection with the Methodist Student Center. That big white house on the corner of Fifth and Holly streets, just across the street from Wilson Hall, is the place where the gang gathers for fun, fellowship, friendship, worship and a snack to eat. For many of the students on our campus, the Center has become a "home away from home."

During the summer months when most of the students of East Carolina were idling the afternoons away in their favorite swimming places, the workmen, painters and carpenters were giving the Center a new face. The outside of the building was painted and some much needed repair work was done to the roof.

Many and varied are the activities which go on around this home for college students. For instance, for those who like drama there is the group known as the Wesley players who sponsor play productions and parlor readings of plays. Besides this, the work of the day is carried on by the students working under different committees such as worship, recreation, publicity, personal and music.

The "Mom" of this home is none other than its director, Mamie Chandler, better known to all students as just plain "Mamie." It is to her that the students look for advice, encouragement and understanding. "You just can't get in and out of the place without speaking

College To Have Five-Day School Week Next Year

It was decided at a faculty meeting held November 7 that effective with the opening of the fall quarter, 1951, the school week will run from Monday through Friday, and only graduate and senior-graduate courses numbered 300G, will be offered on Saturday.

Instead of coming on alternate days as at present, most of the courses will run five days a week. A course coming five days a week for the quarter will carry five hours' credit.

"In this way students will concentrate on fewer subjects each quarter, thereby having more time in each area of interest," stated Dr. John D. Messick, president of East Carolina. Summer school this year will run as it has in previous years with there being two terms of six weeks each, carrying three quarter-hour credits for the term. The new system will start with the beginning of the fall quarter in September, 1951.

How the new system will effect the students already working towards a degree has not been worked out by the administration, but work is being carried on at the present time in the working out of the five days a week plan.

Wilbur Jones Reveals Eight Beauty Contest Winners For Yearbook

The names of eight students of East Carolina have been announced by D. Wilbur Jones, editor of the "Tecoan," college annual, as winners in a beauty contest sponsored by the yearbook as a new feature to be included in its pages when it is published in the spring quarter.

Notice

The Teachers Playhouse will present The Old Lady Shows Her Medals tonight, Friday 17, at 7 o'clock in the Flanagan auditorium.

Courses In Adult Education Will Be Taught Next Quarter

East Carolina will initiate a series of courses in adult education, effective with the beginning of the winter quarter on November 27. Dr. John D. Messick, college president, has announced that work will be offered on the campus and in towns and communities within a radius of approximately 70 miles of Greenville. Ten departments of instruction will participate. The classes offered will include both credit and non-credit courses and will be part of the program of extension work of the college.

President Messick recently stated that the adult-education courses have the aim of serving the public. The classes have been planned, he stated, with the idea of "enriching the aptitudes and interests" of the people of eastern North Carolina. He explained further that the program is designed to reach as many people as possible among those who may be interested.

The plan to offer courses in nearby towns, as well as locally, will bring the work to many unable to attend classes at the college, he stated. Courses for credit and those which may be taken on a non-credit basis will also, it is hoped, meet the wishes, tastes, and needs of various people who wish to profit by the work, Dr. Messick said.

The departments of instruction will offer work as follows: foreign languages, French, and French Civilization (taught in English); science, various courses to be taught on the campus, where laboratories are available; social studies, world affairs (non-credit only) and history; industrial arts, woodworking, on the campus or in localities where adequate workshop facilities are available, and other courses given locally or off the campus; health and physical education, first aid, and games, recreation, or community recreation; home economics, child development, and clothing; English, speech, grammar, and philosophy; art, clay modeling, china painting, and basketry; music, appreciation, history of music and others; and mathematics, courses as needed.

In addition to these specified courses, others may be available on demand. Those who are interested in the adult-education classes may receive further information from Dr. Orval L. Phillips, director of the Bureau of Field Services, East Carolina Teachers college. Both individuals and groups who are interested are asked to get in touch with him.

Students Chosen For Outstanding College Records

Twenty-six students of East Carolina have been selected from the student body of East Carolina to represent the college in the annual published work, "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." The names were released this week by W. E. Marshall, dean of men and director of student affairs at East Carolina.

Chosen by a special committee of students and faculty members are students who have outstanding records in scholarship, leadership, and participation in extra-curricula activities and who give indication of future usefulness to business and society.

Seven Juniors, One Grad

Seven of the honored 26 are classified as juniors at the college, one is a graduate student and the remainder are of senior standing. Those selected for the publication are: Otis G. Bain, junior, chairman of the SGA Social committee; Evangeline Baker; Mary Lou Braxton, secretary of the SGA; Patricia A. Davis; Leon Ellis, president of the Senior class; McDonald Eure, president of the Varsity club; Jack Everton, graduate, head cheerleader; William H. Flanders, treasurer of the SGA; Hogan Gaskins, first vice-president of the SGA; Mary Lois Jester, junior, chairman of Women's Judiciary; and D. Wilbur Jones, editor of the "Tecoan."

Number Determined By Enrollment

The number of students to be selected from each college is determined by the number of students enrolled at the college. Last year 20 students from East Carolina were selected to be listed.

The first publication of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" was released 16 years ago for the school year of 1934-35. Since that time it has received endorsement from colleges, universities and other organizations, both public and private.

Each of the students selected for this honor will receive a certificate of recognition awarded by the organization and presented at the school. He is also listed in the publication under the college from which he was nominated.

Placement Service Provided

A student placement service is provided by the organization for assistance in making employment contacts of supplying other recommendations.

The organization lists over 600 colleges and universities, from all over the United States and Canada, in its membership.

Five Members Of IRC To Attend Convention

Five East Carolina students will be on the campus of Western Carolina Teachers college at Cullowhee Saturday and Sunday, November 19 and 20, representing the local International Relations club. These students will attend the convention of the North Carolina state organization of the IRC. They are: Carl Smith, president of the East Carolina club, Evelyn Littleton, Sadie Deans, Gene Hart and Johnny Johnson.

Annual Sadie Hawkins Day Dance To Be Held In Wright Auditorium

The annual Sadie Hawkins day dance, sponsored by the East Carolina Science club, will be held tomorrow night in the Wright auditorium from 8 until 11:30 o'clock when the Lil' Abner and Daisy Mae of the campus will be selected. Admission will be fifty cents per person.

The entire theme of the annual Science club project will be centered around Al Capp's Lil' Abner, and will supposedly take place in "Dog Patch." There will be a contest for the best Lil' Abner and Daisy Mae, as everyone is urged by the club to come dressed hilariously.

Features of the dance will include a cakewalk and several other booths. Tickets for the Sadie Hawkins day dance are being sold in advance as well as at the door. The annual dance is sponsored by the Science club in order that they might carry on projects for the year without asking for appropriations from the Student legislature.

Dr. Lucile Charles Is Guest Of Woman's Club

Dr. Lucile H. Charles, director of dramatic arts at East Carolina, was a guest of the Woman's club in Ayden Tuesday evening, November 7, and participated in the program offered at that time. Dr. Charles gave a series of readings and described for members of the Ayden club the new Little Theatre soon to be opened in the Training school on the college campus. Mrs. Benjamin Domain, chairman of the home and garden department of the club, introduced Dr. Charles.

"Prove all things; hold fast that which is good. Abstain from all appearance of evil." 2
Thessalonians 5:21-22

BE AN EAST CAROLINA BOOSTER

Jack Hedgepeth, class of 1950, who during his undergraduate days won many friends and boosters for East Carolina is still carrying on the good work though he is many miles from his alma mater. Jack is now stationed at the processing center, Brooks Air Force base, San Antonio, Texas, and it is here our story starts.

Jack met a Lt. John Proctor, a graduate of University of Texas, and they talked about college days. In the course of the conversation Jack found out Lt. Proctor was coming to Pope Air Force base, Fort Bragg, so he told the lieutenant to come to East Carolina and look up Ed Casey.

Last Saturday afternoon, while Ed was taking the usual Saturday afternoon nap, the lieutenant walked in and introduced himself. They went to the game that night and Ed said he cheered louder than the rest of the student body. Ed wanted to leave the game early, but Proctor would have none of it. Ed said he has become a Pirate fan for all time. He likes our college and looks forward to coming back for another visit.

It would seem that we never know what effect we may have on people that we meet along the way. Each of us can be an East Carolina booster no matter where we go after we leave our alma mater.

NEW RECORD SET

The TECO ECHO takes pride in announcing the establishment of another record. This quarter ten issues of the student newspaper have been published. The largest number published in one quarter heretofore was nine during the fall quarter of last year. It is hoped that the pace will continue, and that a record will be set for the year. Last year 25 issues were published. If the trend continues, at least 27 issues will appear this year.

26 NAMED TO "WHO'S WHO"

The names of 26 students of East Carolina have been released this week as those selected to be included in the 1951 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." Along with the majority of the student body the TECO ECHO wishes to extend to them a sincere congratulations.

There will be complaints and criticisms of the choices. That is to be expected. There were complaints last year. There always have been disagreements, and there always will be disagreements. It must be understood that everyone cannot be pleased all of the time. If there is need for a new method of selecting those to receive the honor, then let there be constructive criticism and sincere investigation to learn the facts and difficulties involved. Then let there be changes if need be. Until then, unfair criticisms and slanderous remarks about persons who have received the honor should be foregone.

Those students who were named to "Who's Who" are, according to the committee that selected them, the acknowledged leaders of the campus. They were selected as a result of outstanding work and the good names they have made for themselves at East Carolina. It is hoped that they will continue to deserve the distinction that they have received. Again, the TECO ECHO congratulates them.

COMMENTS

The TECO ECHO was happy to see the Industrial Arts club get a seat on the Student Legislature recently. Another club which should be eligible for a seat soon is the Veterans club which was just recently reorganized. The Vets had a seat last year. . . . The pep rally Thursday night was one of the best of the season. It must have been inspiring to the graduating members of the football team to hear their coach speak of the many fond memories he hopes they will carry with them. The East Carolina Pirates play their last game of the season tonight. . . . We regret that some members of the Student Legislature are finding it difficult to sit through a complete session. Every meeting there are several who leave before the meeting is over. They are not doing the jobs they were elected to do. Other members of the Legislature, who stay for the meeting, have just as much studying to do as those who leave early.

Who's Who At East Carolina

by Anne Jones

From cowboys to politics is the theme of the activities of Evelyn Littleton of Jacksonville, North Carolina. Her days here at East Carolina have been taken up with the International Relations club, serving as its secretary last year, and with the Young Democratic club, serving as a member of its executive board.

Last year she was a member of the college debating team which took part in a tournament in Hickory, and then in the Grand National Forensic tournament held at Fredericksburg, Virginia, last Easter. Miss Littleton loves to debate and to talk, and says she enjoyed her work with the Jarvis Forensic club very much.

Evie, as her friends call her, loves to travel and hopes someday that she may be lucky enough to find a job which will send her off to many foreign countries. She added, however, that she would probably teach and get involved in local politics, on the side, of course.

This weekend she'll be off on a trip to West Carolina Teachers college where she will represent East Carolina at the North Carolina International Relations club convention being held there. She attended a similar conference last year at Guilford college.

Evelyn is majoring in social studies and minoring in Spanish. She is a member of Sigma Pi Alpha, the national honorary foreign language fraternity. At the present time she is also secretary-treasurer of the North Carolina, Virginia and Tennessee Regional Division of the International Relations club.

She went to White Oak High school and graduated as valedictorian of her class. She is now a junior here at East Carolina.

Evelyn likes to cook and she likes to eat. She has a good sense of humor and often talks with her hands and eyes. Her secret desire is to be an actress some day. She has a peculiar habit—when she can't find something, she says someone stole it.

One of her friends described her as just one big question mark. Another said she was just a play girl and that none of them could understand how she got to be "Miss Who." They told us that she had two more ambitions: one to go to school all her life, and the other, to find her ideal man (one who would travel all the time so that she could go with him). Definitely interested in politics, she would argue with a sign post, then pull the sign post up and argue with the hole. That's what her friends think anyway.

Now let's go back to politics again, Evelyn said, "My rebel spirit is still fighting the Confederate cause which I know is lost like myself." This reminds us that over in her room are Confederate flags on all sides, plus cowboys, and a Mexican sombrero given to her by a Spanish girl friend for Christmas. Her friend bought it in Havana.

While a freshman here she worked with Mrs. Garner in the Alumni office. She liked this work very much. She was also a member of the Young Women's Christian association that year.

Believe we mentioned something about cowboys—yes, she is crazy about cowboys and cowboy movies, especially those starring John Wayne. She also likes serious movies which contain plenty of dramatic action.

Right at the present her favorite book is "1984." She never knows these days whether she is living in 127 Jarvis or in 101. From what we could gather 101 is a torture chamber or something of the like.

Evie has a boy friend who goes to State college where he is majoring in agriculture.

Witty, dependable, humorous, gay, charming are only a few of the many adjectives which one might use to describe Evelyn Littleton. She is really a swell girl and a true friend.

The Peanut Gallery

by Susan Smith

It's always refreshing to see someone with the courage and ambition to try something original and creative, even if it is not perfect. Last Friday night the Workshop play was "Just One Dance," written and directed by Ralph Rives, junior from Enfield. Considering the play from the playwright's point of view, it was well constructed, basically. It was, however, a little on the sentimental side, just a little too much so. Some of it seemed to be trite and shallow. The play left things a little unsatisfying, a little vague, but this could be fixed with a little work on the latter part of it.

The staging of the play was quite good in many respects. The set was colorful, attractive and appropriate. The off-stage sound effects and music blended well with the lines of the play and had a very impressive effect. The stage patterning (use of areas of the stage for different acting purposes) was well worked out and balanced.

The costumes added a nice effect to the play. While they were not entirely authentic, they gave the idea. Ralph had done well by his characterizations. They seem to have been the saving grace of his work. One tended to forget the loose ends of the play in the interest in his people. We do congratulate Ralph on his work and his fine spirit in producing a creative work.

If we may (the editor says its okay, so I guess it is), we'll stick in a word off the subject. Many of the students must have noticed in the store windows uptown the paintings done in the East Carolina art department. They certainly are eye-catching and many of them are quite good. The merchants really have shown a willingness to cooperate in such things.

While visiting the dentist not long ago, this writer got into a discussion with said dentist (as much as anyone can with a drill in his mouth). In the course of the discussion he asked if I didn't attend East Carolina. My reply: "Ugh" (the drill at the time being in full force). "They've got a singing bunch of girls over there. They sang here (Goldsboro) last week, and I don't know when I enjoyed anything more." Them's nice words for any East Carolinian to hear, and it just goes to show that the music department is representing the campus well.

MILES BEHIND THE MIKE

by Miles Buck

Homer Thomas claims the weather Saturday night was bad for business. He says it's pretty hard to convince people they ought to buy ice cold drinks when it's freezing. Coffee sales were pretty good. His main trouble Saturday night was lack of people at the ball game.

This is the season of the year that eye trouble becomes prevalent. Freshmen usually become victims of this disease just before examinations. One must explain low grades to father and eye trouble is a convenient out. Try it, and see if it works.

The end of the quarter is being felt in the library, it seems to be full most of the time now, even on Sunday. We were down there last Sunday afternoon and at one time there were almost sixty people on deck. The slaves are grinding out the term papers now, and this slave was among them. We have often wondered why students wait until the night before the deadline to start work on these necessary evils, but we do the same thing. If anyone has an answer to the aforementioned problem we'll buy it.

Sunday afternoon just at dusk the sound of the chimes rang through the chill afternoon air. The playing of the alma mater and other well known numbers, the stuff nostalgia is made of, are the things one remembers most after college days are over. To those who heard the bells, chalk up another item for the memory book. We are told the reason the bells were played was to honor Dr. Messick, our president. It was his birthday. We send our belated best wishes to our prexy.

Monday afternoon the acrobats were working out on the lawn in front of Wilson and a small group had gathered to watch the show. One member of this elite group was missing. A good crowd had gathered, and then one Bill Cole made a grand entrance. All joking aside we think this little group does a fine job of entertaining the crowds at the football games and it does take constant practice to perform the fancy tricks of tumbling.

One of the main disadvantages of the cold weather last week end was the partial elimination of the Sunday beauty parade. The parade was there, but the men couldn't gather outside to get the full benefit of the young ladies on parade. We are still in favor of warmer weather especially on Sunday.

If you wish to do some Sunday morning quarterbacking, the Sunday gathering at the dining hall is the place to do it. You can get first-hand information on our own games and second and third-hand information on the other games played around the country. In any event, it is pleasant company. Try it some Sunday.

Have a happy holiday, don't eat too much turkey and don't worry too much about fall quarter grades.

ROUND THE CAMPUS

by Jean Head

It won't be long before our first vacation will be here. This quarter has really slipped by, but we imagine that for the girls in Cotten, especially, the time hasn't come any too soon.

Otley Hockaday, Mary Ann Hancock, Pat Davis, and Janie Starling are among the girls who can breathe a long sigh of relief, 'cause practice teaching is nearly over.

Otley, Mary Ann, and Pat may even sigh longer and louder 'cause it's all over for them. They are among seniors who will be leaving after this quarter. We know the years have been a struggle, but there was probably enough enjoyment mixed with the struggles to make them happy, unforgettable years.

Everyone reports that Gen. Krupa is everything he's said to be. The dance last week seemed to be a big success, and the girls were mighty tickled to have the chance to stay out till 12 o'clock.

The boys in Slay have been having trouble keeping the nickels in the drink machine. There must be an "old crook" around someplace, hecause the money container has been taken off for the past two weekends!

Vic Bell will agree also that there's some dirty work going on, 'cause someone has borrowed and forgotten to return his vehicle. If anyone knows the whereabouts of a "faded" red bicycle, 1933 model, Vic will be very grateful for a tip. It's a long walk to class on these cold mornings.

Quoted from a last week's issue of the "Greensboro Daily News": "The High Point College Panthers are continuing efforts bent toward stopping the great Roger Thrift, with his sensational aerial ability." Roger certainly should be commended for his outstanding performances this year.

Overheard in the Y store this week:

Soph: "Who asked you?"
Frosh: "Mother and Daddy."

To the Editor:

It has just dawned on me that ten years have passed since I entered my senior year at East Carolina.

I must say that it seems like yesterday that I was drinking coke and eating "nabs" in the Y store; however, one must face realities and accept a fact, ten years have passed. I would like to make a comparison

Did You Know That...

by Don Blood

... when the Commerce department was organized in 1936, it consisted of two courses taught by two teachers, in two rooms, on the third floor of Austin building? The courses were typing and accounting; the equipment in the department included twenty-five typewriters on desks made by the college manual arts department and two tables for the accounting classes.

... Austin auditorium was the scene of a lovely wedding several years ago? The auditorium was very elaborately decorated, and the guest soloist rendered three vocal numbers including "Just Before the Battle, Mother," "Lord You Said the Night Too Long," and "But I Wake Up Singing." The bridal procession entered the auditorium to familiar strains of Chopin's "Funeral March." It was a womanless wedding sponsored by the Varsity club.

... Slay hall was named in honor of the late Dr. Donald James Slay, who for twenty-four years was a leading figure in the growth and development of the college? He served as the head of the science department and as the college dean.

... in 1946 there were only 96 men students registered for the winter quarter while the present male population at East Carolina is over 900?

... there are now four vocal groups on campus? The oldest being the Woman's Chorus which was organized several years ago by Miss Augusta Kuykendall; the College Choir, founded by Dr. Karl Gilbert; the College Singers which was organized by Mr. Dan Vornholt; and the Men's Glee club which is in its first year, directed by Dr. R. R. Willmann.

... Helen Flynn, alumna of the class of '44, is now on the staff of the Women's Home Companion? This month she has a section devoted to various ways to fix tuna fish. You girls who are looking forward to the time when you will be feeding a husband will do well to look at Miss Flynn's article.

... Bob Weston has some thoughts for those who face a quarter of practice teaching and do not know how to take it? Bob tells us that he went into his practice teaching just as a matter of course, because it was required, but when he started he discovered that it really was a boon to teaching. The interesting part of it for him is the daily observations of the students, and the meeting of various situations. From all these experiences Bob has decided that he is very happy over the idea that he has chosen teaching for a profession. Bob graduates this quarter from East Carolina into Uncle Sam's army.

Tomorrow night East Carolina will have its annual Sadie Hawkins dance. West Carolina Teachers college had its Sadie Hawkins dance Thursday night and we'll bet they had the "real McCoy," since most of them are probably from the mountainous sections of the Tar Heel state. Dogpatch judges will try to determine the best Daisy Mae and Lil' Abner up at West Carolina.

Our own college is not the only North State school that is rapidly growing, for up at Appalachian State Teachers college work was recently begun on two new dormitories with one being for girls and the other for boys. The total cost of the two new buildings will be over a million dollars.

We read in the "Old Gold and Black" from Wake Forest that a new club had been formed on their campus. The club is a Birthday club that meets every Thursday night in the cafeteria. Members are a few third year law students, some Bostwick coeds and some other residents of a fraternity house. Whether anyone has a birthday or not, the group celebrates a birthday, with presents, a cake and speeches. Maybe we should start celebrating a few birthdays at East Carolina. It would give us something else to do.

In a romance column in "The Lenoir Rhymer," we ran over the letter that is printed below. It went like this:

Dear Aunt Hankie,
The only reason I came down from the hills to school was to get went with, but so far I haven't been. What have these girls got that I don't have more of?

"Mt. Girl"
Dear "Mt. Girl,"
Shoes?
Yours for Romance,
Aunt Hankie

Just recently 26 East Carolina students were named in "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." West Carolina had 11 students chosen for this distinguished honor. The publication lists over 600 colleges and universities from all over the United States and Canada. The number of students selected from the various schools is determined by the enrollment of the school.

Several of the college newspapers in the state printed articles on grading systems. Some of the systems discussed were the letter, the numerical, a plus-minus and a system in which you make honor, pass or fail. The system thought best was the latter, because it was thought that the students would try to get more than a grade out of the course.

"A penny for your thoughts."

SPORTS ECHO

BY LLOYD WHITFIELD

The Buccaneers played a great ball game last weekend against High Point, and those fans who were brave enough to withstand the rain and the entire ball game were provided with plenty of thrills. They also saw a preview of the 1951 Pirates in the last half when Dole elected to use his reserve strength as much as possible. Looking especially good of offense were Sandy Siler and Jim Stanley. Siler is the lad who is supposed to fill in the shoes of Roger Thrift next year at quarterback. Siler looked exceptional as he hit his receivers for two out of three passes. Stanley, a freshman from Washington, N.C., proved his running power as he cracked and drove his way through the Panther secondary for a couple of first downs and numerous yardage every time he carried the ball. Stanley can drive hard and certainly can get off some beautiful runs after he gets into the opposition's secondary.

Howard McAdams, who has seen action on a reserve linebacker, played a great game from his position as he brought down the ball carrier on several occasions with tremendous force. Bobby Hodges, a freshman from Kingston, played his usual outstanding game as he broke through the High Point line play after play. Aside from being in on numerous tackles, the big 222-pounder managed to block two punts. Dop McKenzie, Al Auerback, Frank Maligan and Wallace Robinson raised a stubborn defense for the opposition and made several tackles behind the line of scrimmage.

THRIFT SCORES FIRST TD IN TWO YEARS

East Carolina's leading contender for Little All-American honors, Roger Thrift, scored his first touchdown in two years when he crashed over from the one during the first quarter on a quarterback sneak to put the Pirates out front by the score of 6-0. Thrift may not have scored in two years, but he has passed for more touchdowns than he could have managed to score in three years if he had been the best runner in the nation. We do not know what his future plans are, but we do know that he is a brilliant prospect for professional football. That guy can really throw that ball.

Reggie Byrd and Eddie Tanner are probably through with football for 1950. Both boys have been hampered by injuries all season. Byrd has dislocated his shoulder three or four times in a month, and it happened again Saturday night, so it is probably all over for him. Eddie Tanner, whose parents were on hand from Portsmouth, Va. to witness the battle, watched their son be carried from the field when he re-injured his knee. Tanner has seen limited action all season due to a wrenched knee sustained in the opening game of the 1950 season. He hurt his knee again Saturday night and will definitely not see action against Atlantic Christian.

BATTLE OF THE BOHUNK TROPHY IN COLLEGE STADIUM TONIGHT

The battle for the highly-regarded "Bohunk trophy" will be staged tonight at 8 o'clock when the Bucs cross swords with the Atlantic Christian Bulldogs. The Bulldogs have not been too fortunate in conference competition this season, having failed to register a win within the North State all season. Therefore, the Bucs should be favorites tonight. However, when these two ball clubs tangle in any sport, no matter what the odds are, brother, don't take them. Anything can happen since both clubs are such bitter rivals. Last season the Bucs were heavy favorites to take the Bulldogs into camp easily, but the final score was 6-2 in favor of East Carolina.

As far as the Bohunk trophy goes, the Bucs want that trophy something awful. The visitors won it from East Carolina last season when they beat the baseball team. It was the first time in two years the bucket had left this campus. We want it back tonight, and this writer predicts a 32-6 victory for East Carolina.

The cheerleaders did a commendable job Saturday night at the High Point game, but they did not get a chance to strut their stuff using pom-poms because of the rain. They did, however, have some new yells which were original. More power to them, and may they get twenty more yells before the end of the school year.

Pirates After Bohunk Tonight

As Pirates Defeat High Point In Rain 26-0

East Carolina co-captain and offensive fullback, Johnny Smith, picks up a first down for Coach Bill Dole's gridders in the contest with High Point's Panthers. Aiding in the interference on the left is George Graybill, and quarterback Roger Thrift, No. 36, is the man coming in from the rear. East Carolina won easily over the Panthers 26-0.

Some 1500 shivering and umbrella-covered football fans braved the bone-chilling weather last Saturday night to watch Coach Bill Dole's East Carolina Pirate roll over High Point college, 26-0, and register their sixth victory of the year against three setbacks. It was the Bucs' fourth North State conference victory compared with two losses.

Aside from ten passes thrown by East Carolina and seven by High Point, the battle was a hard-fought ground game on a mud-covered gridiron. Highlighting the running attack for both squads was three-time All-conference Bill Lloyd of High Point. Time after time the rugged, blond-headed fullback carried through the middle of East Carolina's line for numerous yardage. A 60-minute man, Lloyd proved his football abilities, as well as carrying the brunt of the offense for the Panthers. He was the defensive standout also.

Buc Defense Halts Early Drive
The locals' rough defensive squad halted two first quarter drives by the hard-running backs of High Point to account for a scoreless first quarter. The brilliant running of Lloyd kept the ball in Pirate territory from the opening kickoff until the start of the second period.

Bobby Hodges broke through the Panthers' offensive line to block a punt, one of the two big 222-pounder broke up, and Al Auerback recovered making it first and ten for East Carolina on the Panthers' 49-yard line. With Jack Britt and Co-captain Johnny Smith running the ball, the Pirates carried down to the visiting eleven's one-yard line. After a sustained march of 51 yards, Pirate Quarterback Roger Thrift thrilled the shivering spectators when he carried over on a quarterback sneak. It was Thrift's first score in two years, and completely fooled the High Point defense. Thrift, a highly-publicized passer, seldom runs the ball.

Johnny Smith Scores Second TD
With time running out in the first half, and the Pirates leading 6-0, Thrift passed to End Dwight Shoe on the 33, and behind some splendid blocking, Shoe raced to the five-yard line to set up the second tally. On a hand-off from Thrift, Johnny Smith drove around left end to score from the five. Buck Hardee, extra point specialist, split the uprights to give East Carolina a 13-0 halftime advantage.

Bill Darby, Pirate halfback, made a great return of the second half kickoff when he took the kick on the 15 and drove straight downfield to his own 42-yard line. Thrift began throwing the pigskin and hit Maennle on the Panthers' 41 for a first down. On the next play, Shoe gathered in a pass which carried to the visitors' 26. With Jack Benzie and Britt running the ball, the Bucs moved to the 11, and then Thrift spotted Maennle in the end zone and East Carolina moved out front 19-0. Hardee's kick for the extra point was good.

Hodges Sets Up Final Tally
On the first play of the fourth period, Bobby Hodges again broke through the Panther line to block a punt on the High Point six-yard line. Don McKenzie recovered and the Bucs were on their way to another score. Tom Swain, big 222-pound fullback, carried over in two plays to give the Buccaneers a 26-0 lead.

Coach Dole elected to use his reserves most of the last period, and they came through in fine style when they drove deep into Panther territory time after time. However, the wet weather brought several fumbles.

Appalachian's Jack Groce Has Tallied 68 Points In Race

Playing two games in three days, Appalachian's Jack Groce scored three times to move out front in the race for North Carolina's scoring lead with 66 points. A brilliant running halfback, Groce tallied twice against Presbyterian Thursday, and scored once Saturday night against Atlantic Christian.

Gene Robinson, defensive halfback for Lenoir-Rhyne, who led the scoring pack last week, fell into third spot with 54 points. Fullback Steve Trudnak of Lenoir-Rhyne passed Robinson with 64 points to fall two points behind the state leader, Groce, and to nail down the second position.

Deadlocked for third place with Robinson is Elon's Pete Marshburn. Each has 54 points. Tom Powers of Duke, the lad who broke an all-time collegiate scoring record when he tallied six touchdowns in one game, is fourth in the scoring.

East Carolina's Frank Maennle is tied for the fifth spot with Don Kirkpatrick of Lenoir-Rhyne and Jack Mounie of Duke with 42 points each. Maennle scored a touchdown against High Point last week to stay in the top bracket; however, Dwight Shoe fell into the sixth bracket with 36 points when he failed to score for the second consecutive week.

In the extra point department, Appalachian's Bill Cross took advantage of an extra game to increase his lead to 31 points, which includes two field goals. Mike Souchak of Duke has the largest total points for a place-kicker with 32. However, 12 of the Blue Devil end's markers came through the touchdown route. The Pirates' Buck Hardee has split the uprights for 24 points in the point-after department. Six of his points came through field goals.

Atlantic Christian Current Holder Of Cherished Trophy

The battle of the cherished "Bohunk Trophy" will be staged at College stadium tonight at eight o'clock when Coach Bill Dole's East Carolina Pirates take on the Atlantic Christian Bulldogs in an annual grudge affair.

The coveted "ole oaken bucket" is one of the most cherished awards in North Carolina as far as these schools are concerned.

Athlete Of The Week

Co-captain Thomas C. "Buck" Wilson, the most underrated football player at East Carolina, has been selected the TECO ECHO "Athlete of the Week."

Wilson, a 6-foot, 195-pound husky, has been playing outstanding football at center with the Pirates for four seasons. During his first two years, he alternated at defense and offense. Last season he settled for defense alone, and this year it has been all offense—and a lot of it—for the Chapanoke, N.C. senior.

Statistics acclaiming the merits of pivots are few, but statistics are not needed to prove that Wilson has been carrying out his ball-handling chores smoothly, efficiently, and creditably. Coach Bill Dole says that "Buck is a fine leader, has wonderful team spirit, and is one of the best centers that I have ever coached."

He has been elected co-captain by his teammates, which is further evidence of his leadership ability and of his popularity among the boys who know him best. Modest, he lists as his greatest football thrill a play in which two of his teammates, Thrift and Maennle, were the stars. It was the Buccaneers' last touchdown in this season's game with Elon: Thrift, being rushed hard, faked back and whipped a pass downfield to Maennle, who, after some fancy stepping, gathered in the pigskin for the score.

Not confining his extracurricular activities to football, Wilson played base-ball for two years, and has been a member of the Varsity club for all of his four years at East Carolina. He holds membership in the Cadet Officers club and in the Veterans club, and lists hunting as his hobby.

As a three-letter man at Perquimans High school in Hertford, he won letters each of his last three years in football, baseball and basketball.

Graduating at the end of this quarter with a major in geography and a minor in physical education, Buck intends to go into flight training in the Air Force, where he hopes to learn to pilot multi-motored aircraft.

Kilpatrick Says Intramurals To See Improvement

(Editor's note: Kieth Kilpatrick, director of intramurals at East Carolina, writes his views on the present effectiveness of the current program, and he hopes it will improve with the expansion of facilities.)

TO THE SPORTS EDITOR:
The students at East Carolina want a good intramural program, they should have a good intramural program, and they're going to get one—beginning winter quarter.

The chief reason for poor programs in the past, I believe, is the fact that there were so many other activities interfering, which prevented a full and complete intramural program. For instance, the fact that we have, at present, only one gymnasium, and that building is being used for many activities other than athletic programs. A good intramural program cannot be carried on properly with this type of interference, which disrupts the whole setup. It's no one's fault. Nothing can be done about it until the new physical education plant is completed. I have been told, however, that when the intramural basketball schedule is set up, the complete schedule will be played with no obstacles barring the way.

There has been much interest expressed concerning intramural touch football. I hope a league can be organized. We will definitely have intramural basketball, table tennis, softball and tennis. I am open for suggestions and would appreciate hearing the views of the students here at East Carolina concerning a good intramural program, which is vital and necessary to a well-balanced college program.

Kieth Kilpatrick
Intramural Director

It is currently resting in the hands of the Bulldogs as the result of an astounding upset they pulled over Jack Boone's baseballers in the spring of 1950. Tension has steadily been mounting at East Carolina for the contest, and it promises to be the greatest grid affair staged in Greenville this year.

According to each team's individual record, the Pirates should be favored to win over the visiting Bulldogs but as in previous years, statistics in the fight for the "ole wooden bucket" are disregarded. The Wilsonites will definitely be up for the battle with a desire to keep the Bohunk and avenge a 6-2 licking handed them last year by Dole's charges.

The Bulldogs have been rather unfortunate in conference play, not registering a victory in four outings. In eight games this season, they have won two. In conference play they tallied 20 points and yielded 89 to sport one of the top defensive clubs in the loop. On the whole, Atlantic Christian has scored 76 points and the opposition has tallied 150.

Meanwhile, Coach Bill Dole sent his East Carolina Pirates to work Monday for tonight's big game with Atlantic Christian. Fresh from a 26-0 victory over High Point, the Pirates spent most of the week sharpening up their pass patterns and working on the post.

End Eddie Tanner and Guard Reggie Byrd watched the workouts from the sidelines due to injuries received in the High Point contest.

It will be the final game of the season for the Bucs and the final game for Roger Thrift, a demon on the gridiron at East Carolina for two years. Playing their last collegiate game will be Buck Wilson, Billy Smith, Johnny Smith, Frank Maennle, Bill Darby, Leon Ellis and Tom Swain.

Regional Play Festival Will Be Held On Campus In March

The Eastern Regional Play festival of the Carolina Dramatics association will be held at East Carolina early in March, according to an announcement by Dr. Lucile H. Charles, director of dramatic arts at the college. The event will bring to the campus representatives of schools from the eastern section of North Carolina for a series of play productions and a program of evaluation of their dramatic work.

East Carolina's new Little theatre in the Training school on the campus will be used for the festival. Recently completed, the theater is considered one of the most excellent in the state in design and in stage equipment.

Plans for the festival were begun here Saturday, November 3, when Dr. Charles, chairman of the committee in charge, met with representatives of various schools and dramatic organizations of this section. Present for the meeting were Mrs. Howard W. Mims of the Greenville High school; Mrs. J. H. Rose of the Rose School of Speech in Greenville; Mamie Chandler of the Wesley Players of Greenville; Claude B. West Jr. of the Greenville High school; Jack Howard of Oak City; Douglas Swink of the Charles L. Coon school in Wilson; and Dr. Elizabeth Utterback of the Department of English at East Carolina.

Others who will participate in planning and staging the festival at the college are Mrs. Doris Halsworth of Atlantic Christian college, Dr. Lucile Turner, director of the East Carolina department of English; and Alton Finch of the New Hanover High school in Wilmington.

Sponsoring the Eastern Regional Play festival will be East Carolina Teachers college and the department of Dramatic Arts of the Northeastern division of the North Carolina Education association. The meeting will be one of a series of similar events held throughout the state under the general direction of the Carolina Dramatics association.

Executive Members Of BSU Meet, Plan Open House Sunday

At a meeting of the Baptist Student union executive council this week, plans were made for a vesper room dedication service at the Baptist center Thursday evening, November 30. George Starling, music chairman; Milam Johnson, Vesper chairman; and Doris Edwards, BSU president, will soon complete plans for this special service.

Open House at the Student center is planned for Sunday afternoon, December 3, for students, faculty and townspeople. Jack Painter, student center host, and Janie Parker, student hostess, will head committees in planning details.

Plans are also in the making for the annual Christmas caroling Friday, December 15. This is one of the main emphasis of the BSU and has become a tradition. Last year approximately 125 students participated.

East Carolina Music Group Gives Recital In Austin Auditorium

Rutan Will Take Part In English Council Program

E. J. Rutan, faculty member of the department of English at East Carolina, has accepted an invitation to appear on the program to be offered at the 40th annual convention of the National Council of English Teachers in Milwaukee, Wis. November 21-25. The general topic of a series of conferences at the convention is "The Ways Language is Learned and Used: Considering Adaptations and Solutions." Teachers from all parts of the nation will attend.

Mr. Rutan will be a discussion leader November 23 in a panel on the subject "What Are the Values of a Full-School Language Program?" His remarks will be based on the idea that both thirteenth and fourteenth grades are needed in the public schools. The two extra years should be added to the present curriculum, according to Mr. Rutan, in order that students who are now inadequately prepared in English will have an opportunity to extend their period of training and so to be better fitted for daily living.

This suggestion, to be advanced at the National Council, grew out of his work as a member of the Curriculum committee of the National Council of English Teachers as well as his activities as a teacher in the East Carolina department of English and a consultant on teaching the language arts in various public schools in eastern North Carolina.

Marshall Helms Is Speaker At Faculty Lecture Club Meet

Marshall Helms of the science department of East Carolina spoke Thursday evening, November 9, at a meeting of the Faculty Lecture club of the college. His talk on "Atomic Disintegration Particles" was given in the Flanagan building and was heard by a group of approximately 25 members of the group.

Dr. Hubert Coleman, program chairman of the club, introduced Mr. Helms. The timely talk was illustrated by a series of demonstrations given by Mr. Helms to illustrate the scientific principles which he discussed. Following the talk, Mr. Helms answered questions posed by members of the club.

Plans were begun at the meeting for two lectures by Archibald Rutledge, internationally known naturalist and author, who will speak at the college under the sponsorship of the Faculty Lecture club November 30. Through the cooperation of the college administration, he will address students at a special assembly program during the morning; and he will speak to club members and their guests in the evening.

Jenkins, Irons Urge Students To Acquire Excuses For Absences

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, dean of the college, and Dr. Fred Irons, college physician, have issued notices stressing the importance of getting absences because of sickness excused.

"Only illness of the student, serious illness in his immediate family, representation of the college in a recognized activity or a like important matter will be interpreted as an emergency justifying additional class absence. Application for approval of additional class absences must be made within one week after the student returns to class," is quoted from the college catalog. If the student is absent because of sickness he must get an excuse either from the infirmary or his parents stating the illness. A day student who has paid infirmary fees must get an excuse from the infirmary.

To The Editor

To the editor:
I should like to urge all students to read the "Class Absence Regulations" that appear on pages 57 and 58 of the current catalogue. Particular attention should be given to regulation (2) that states: "Application for approval of additional absences must be made within one week after the student returns to class." Students living on the campus must present letters from the Infirmary in all cases of illness. Students whose permanent homes are in Greenville must present notes from their family doctors. Representation of the College in the recognized activities will be interpreted as a reason for justifying class absences.

Teachers Visiting Training School To Observe, Confer

Several groups of teachers from schools in the eastern section of North Carolina have visited the Training school at East Carolina recently, or plan visits within the next few weeks. According to custom, classrooms at the school are open to them and teachers are available for conferences and discussions.

Teachers in the Pender county schools have arranged a series of weekly observations and conferences in the Training school which began November 1 and will continue through December 8. The visits have been arranged through Gertrude Styron, supervisor of Pender county elementary schools, and to date four teachers from the county schools have visited the campus school each week this month.

Farmville Teachers Observed

Farmville teachers observed classes at the Training school November 15 and today. Arrangements for the visits were made by Arnie Lee Jones, supervisor of Pitt county elementary schools.

German Family Sent Christmas Packages By Wesley Foundation

Gifts, wrapped in the traditional American style of red ribbons and flowered paper, were mailed this week to a German family by the Wesley Foundation as a part of its Christmas program. The gifts included blouses, a sweater, and a life-like baby doll with a layout of clothes made by one of the girls on campus.

This family lost all of its male members in World War II. It consists of the mother and three daughters. The Prigol family lives in Stuttgart, Germany, and at the present time are able to support themselves. Right after the close of the war the Wesley Foundation helped this family by sending food and clothing to them.

Ralph H. Rives of Enfield is the chairman of the group. Assisting him are Peggy Monroe, St. Pauls; Catherine Stephenson, Willow Springs; Annette Hughes, Willard; Patricia Williams, Wilmington; Donald Hatch, Mt. Olive; Jeannette Hamilton, Magnolia; Priscilla Hynson, Washington; and Gene Hart, Kinston.

a trip to various European countries last summer. She described the tombs erected to unknown soldiers in England, Scotland, France and Italy, and gave other comments on present conditions abroad.

Yearbooks for 1950-51 outlining chapter activities for the coming year were distributed to members. The booklets, bound in yellow and bearing a Pirate decoration, were prepared by a committee headed by Mrs. Fred Owens (Mildred Matlocks).

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Dorothy Willard Johnson, Mrs. S. E. West (Vivian Smith), Christine Johnston, Frances Smith and Mamie Ruth Tunstall. The patriotic motif was carried out by miniature American flags used as decorations on the refreshment plates.
