

Teco Echo Enters Nation-Wide Contests For College Papers

Three Staff Members To Attend Convention Of CSPA In New York

The TECO ECHO has entered two national newspaper contests which judge the merits of college papers and rate them according to high standards of journalism, Rexford E. Piner, editor of the campus newspaper, has announced.

The college weekly is a member of the teachers college division of the Columbia Scholastic Press association and is also a member of the Associated Collegiate Press. Copies of the TECO ECHO were forwarded recently to both organizations for critical judging.

Results of the CSPA contest will be released in March at the annual convention in New York. The convention will be attended by Piner, Lloyd Whitfield, sports editor, and Tommie Lupton, assistant editor. The Associated Collegiate Press is scheduled to release results in April.

At the CSPA convention last year the TECO ECHO received the Medalist, or highest, rating presented by the Association. The ACP gave the paper a Second Class rating last year. At the New York convention the three East Carolina delegates will attend panel meetings on important phases and problems of college journalism. The convention is to be concluded with a luncheon in the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel at which time several noted guests and speakers will be presented.

Founder's Day Tea To Honor Business Education Students

A Founder's Day tea to be given Sunday, February 11, at Ragsdale hall by members of the Beta Kappa chapter of Pi Omega Pi, national honorary business education fraternity at East Carolina, will honor a group of 75 students in the department of business education who have made outstanding scholastic records.

The anniversary of the founding of the local Beta Kappa chapter of the fraternity in 1944 is observed annually on the campus with a formal tea. Invitations to attend are extended to prospective members of the fraternity. Juniors and seniors with a 2.2 average or better in business education and sophomores and freshmen with a 2.5 average or better in business education are those invited.

Jane Allwright is president of the Beta Kappa chapter. Arrangements for the tea are being made by a social committee composed of Emma Dean Caffee, Shirley Pilkinton, Allan H. Berman, and Mrs. J. W. Wilkerson, faculty member.

Members Of High School Bands To Attend Clinic On Campus

Large Group Expected For Annual Meeting Says Chairman Carter

Selected members of high school bands in twenty-nine North Carolina public schools are scheduled to spend Friday and Saturday, February 2-3, at East Carolina attending the Eastern division of the All-State Band clinic. The program, including conferences, concerts, and social events, has been announced by Clinic Chairman Herbert L. Carter, director of the East Carolina Band and president of the North Carolina Bandmasters' Association, the sponsoring organization.

Student musicians from bands in schools of the eastern section of the state, band directors, and other guests will be present on the campus for the event. According to Mr. Carter, the

Needs Staff Members

The editor of the TECO ECHO is seeking students interested in working on the staff of the college newspaper. Particularly needed is a sports writer and a photographer. Other interested students are urged to join the staff or contribute articles on their own initiative.

Tadlock Will Serve As Frosh President For Rest Of Year

Edgar Tadlock of Windsor will serve as president of the freshman class at East Carolina for the remainder of the 1950-1951 term. Elected vice-president by his classmates last fall, Tadlock recently became top officer among the first-year students when Owen Bessellieu of Wilmington resigned the position of president to join the Navy. The president of the class entitles Tadlock to a seat on the Legislature of the Student Government association.

The new freshman president is specializing in physical education and the social studies at East Carolina, and is a member of the freshman basketball team. He is a graduate of the high school in Windsor, where he was a four-letter man in athletics, having participated in such sports as basketball, football, and baseball.

Phillips To Represent EC During College Day Program In Albemarle

Dr. Orval L. Phillips, director of the Bureau of Field Services at East Carolina, represented the college at a College day program staged Thursday of this week at the Albemarle, N.C. high school.

The event was sponsored by the Albemarle chapter of the National Honor society, of which Ed Patterson is president, and was the first College day to be held by the school there. Seniors from high schools throughout Stanly county have been invited to be present to enjoy the occasion. Dr. Phillips and representatives of other schools discussed with the seniors educational advantages offered by the colleges and various aspects of campus life and activities.

Garden Club Members In Greenville Visit Campus Greenhouse

Members of garden clubs in Greenville visited the greenhouse at East Carolina Friday afternoon of last week. Dr. Christine Wilton and Dr. Mary G. Caughey of the department of science welcomed the visitors.

Located to the rear of the Flanagan building and in the court between the east and west wings of the building, the greenhouse was completed late last summer. Members of the department of science have been at work during the fall and winter quarters on a collection of plants for use in the department. Among plans for the greenhouse is a permanent exhibit of plants and shrubs peculiar to eastern North Carolina, including both rare and common varieties. These will be arranged for display both in the greenhouse and in the area surrounding it.

Special To Seniors

A letter from U. S. Marine Corps headquarters states that senior college students, both men and women, who are interested in commissions in the Marine corps may attend two summer training periods next summer, and be qualified for appointment to commissioned rank next fall, if modification of the eligibility requirements now under consideration is adopted. At present, students who attend two summer training periods are eligible upon graduation.

We expect a Marine corps procurement officer to visit our campus during February to discuss these regulations and to interview interested students. J. D. Messick

Rutan To Appear Before Teachers In Florida Meet

Edward J. Rutan, faculty member of the department of English at East Carolina, has accepted an invitation to appear on a program presented by the Florida Council of Teachers of English in Miami, March 30-31. Arrangements for his attendance at the meeting and participation in the program were made through Mrs. Thelma McDonald, chairman of the council, and Ed Henderson, executive secretary of the Florida Education association.

The topic of Mr. Rutan's talk will be "Essential Language Skills and Good Teaching Procedures." He will speak before approximately 5,000 teachers in Florida schools. In addition, during the two-day session, he will conduct discussion meetings among smaller groups of English teachers.

Mr. Rutan is widely known in eastern North Carolina because of his work as a consultant in reading programs in public school systems. He has aided teachers and school officials in various counties, including Hertford, Greene, Pitt, Lenoir, and Pamlico, in planning programs on the development of reading skill. He is the author of several workbooks in English and of numerous published articles on the teaching of English.

Board Of Missions To Sponsor Second Overseas Caravan

The second Overseas Youth Caravan sponsored by the Board of Missions of the North Carolina Methodist conference is now being set up for work with Methodist churches in Europe next summer.

The 1951 caravan will consist of a maximum of 11 young people, in addition to the counselor, and the group will work with established Methodist churches and missions in Germany or other countries in the Geneva area, which includes parts of Europe and North Africa. They will do physical work if there is need for rebuilding of property, and work with youth organizations to strengthen and foster Christian brotherhood relationships.

Application for membership in the caravan may be made by college students or graduates and high school seniors.

Each individual will be expected to meet his own expenses, approximately $800 plus spending money, which in the average case would make the total cost at around $1000. For additional information about this project contact Miss Mamie Chandler at the Methodist Student center.

Stickers For Autos Being Distributed By Men's Judiciary

Gene Smith, chairman of the Men's judiciary, announced earlier this week that plans had been made to distribute, today, stickers for all automobiles on the campus.

Smith said the stickers would have the license numbers of the cars on them, and that all cars, whether driven by day students or students living on the campus, would be required to bear the stickers.

The action is being taken to make it easier for the Judiciary to check on cars driven by students in an effort to curb reckless driving, speeding and indiscriminate parking on the campus.

High School Day To Be Observed Here On April 6

East Carolina will hold its ninth annual High School day Friday, April 6. Invitations have just been issued to seniors in 437 public schools in 66 counties of the state.

Dr. Orval L. Phillips, director of the Bureau of Field Services at East Carolina, heads a student-faculty committee in charge of arranging the program for the day. Both educational and social activities will be included.

The chief purpose of High School day is to enable visitors to see "a college in action," according to Dr. Phillips. All divisions of East Carolina will operate as usual on High School day. Guests will be invited to visit departments of instruction, the Training school, the nursery school and the kindergarten, and to observe various student activities. Special exhibits are being planned to show through appropriate displays the types of work being done at East Carolina.

A large group of high school students is expected to be present to enjoy the occasion. Last year 2,600 young men and women, representing 114 schools in 44 counties of North Carolina, visited East Carolina on High School day.

A program will be presented by the local chapter of Future Teachers of America and the eighth grade of the Training school at the regular chapel assembly Tuesday at 12 a.m.

Selden Speaks As Theatre Dedication Is Held Here

'Our Town' Is First Major Play Produced In New EC Playhouse

East Carolina dedicated its new College Theatre Friday evening, January 19. A ceremony at which Professor Samuel Selden of the University of North Carolina was principal speaker and a presentation of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" by the Teachers Playhouse, college dramatics club, made up the opening-night program.

Performances of the play Friday and Saturday evenings of last week and Tuesday evening, January 23, marked the first major dramatic production to be presented in the new playhouse. Donald Blood of Greenville as the Stage Manager had the leading role in the Wilder drama, a Pulitzer Prize winner of several years ago. The supporting cast of twenty members included Joseph Congleton of Littleton, Carolyn Eisele of Statesville, Robert Craft, Jr. of Beaufort, Iris Aldridge of Winston, Elmer Williams of Washington, and Annette Hughes of Willard.

Samuel Selden Speaks
President John D. Messick of East Carolina presided at the brief dedication ceremony Friday evening and introduced Professor Selden and Dr. Lucile H. Charles, director of dramatic arts at East Carolina. Congratulating the college on its excellent program of dramatics and on its new theatre, which he described as one of the most beautiful in North Carolina, Professor Selden stressed the values of dramatic arts to both school and community. Dr. Charles spoke on the theatre as a "temple of democracy" and as an intellectual and spiritual force in society.

Among those who received special recognition during the ceremony were Clifton Britton, head of dramatic activities in the Goldsboro schools, who during his student days at East Carolina gave an impetus to the program of dramatic arts at the college, and Principal Frances Wahl of the college Training school, who gave valuable assistance in planning the decoration of the College Theatre.

Theatre Is One Of Best
East Carolina's new playhouse is located in an annex to the Training

Students Are Successfully Aiding March Of Dimes Says Browning

Plans Are Being Made For Opening Of Student Union

Plans are now being completed to open the Student union located in the basement of the Wright building in the next couple of weeks, Al Livesay, president of the Student Government association, announced this week.

"So far, we have only been able to obtain the use of one room, but next year we hope to have most of the basement of the Wright building," Livesay said.

This room in the rear of the building on the left hand side has been painted and equipped under the direction of the social committee of the Student legislature.

Students may use this room in the evenings to play games, to gather around the piano and sing, for a place to meet friends to have fun.

The additional space which will be allotted for this purpose next year will serve as reading rooms and other recreational rooms. Included in the plans under consideration for the use of these rooms is one whereby clubs may use a portion of the space for meetings and social activities.

Valentine Dance

The Commerce club will hold its Valentine dance February 10. The affair will be open to college students and their guests, says Allan Berman, president of the club, but only couples will be admitted. The semi-formal dance will begin at 8:30. Admission is $1.00 per couple.

Gets Assignment

2nd Lt. Hilton G. Styron

Hilton Styron Gets Assignment At Hill AF Base

Ogden Air Material Area, Hill Air Force base, Utah.—Second Lieutenant Hilton G. Styron is one of the college Air ROTC honor graduates who has reported at Hill Air Force base following completion of student officer training at Lackland Air Force base, San Antonio, Texas.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Styron of Davis, North Carolina.

Lt. Styron was a distinguished military graduate at East Carolina Teachers college at Greenville, N.C., and received a regular commission following his graduation with a reserve commission.

To receive a regular Air Force commission, an Air ROTC student had to maintain a scholastic standing in the upper third of his class and the upper 10 per cent of his Air ROTC unit.

The student was also considered for his participation in extracurricular activities and was passed by a USAF reviewing board after being selected by the professor of air science and tactics. Final approval for the regular commission came from the president of the college.

Lt. Styron, who is assigned to the statistical controls section of the Headquarters and Headquarters Squadron of the 25th Air Depot Wing, served in the Navy for three years during World War II. He is entitled to wear the American Defense Ribbon, Asiatic-Pacific Theatre of Operations Ribbon and the World War II Victory Medal.

Adult Education Courses Provide Much Opportunity

Through extension and adult education courses offered during the fall and winter quarters of the present school year, East Carolina is providing an educational opportunity to many students in eastern North Carolina, according to a recent report by Dr. Orval L. Phillips, director of the college Bureau of Field Services. A total of 526 students enrolled for work in these types of courses during the period.

Plans are now in preparation for both extension and adult education courses for the spring quarter, Dr. Phillips reports. Indications are that the number of students enrolled and the number of schools and counties represented will be increased at that time.

During the fall and winter quarters, says Dr. Phillips, 465 students were registered for extension classes. The present enrollment represents 123 schools in 34 counties of the eastern section of the state, as well as two nearby South Carolina schools.

At present East Carolina is offering for the first time a series of adult education courses given on the campus in four departments of instruction. Students now number 61, and a larger enrollment is expected for the spring quarter.

Drive On Campus Slated To Close With Annual Ball

by Faye Batten

Both effort and cooperation are being put forth on the part of various students and student organizations on the East Carolina campus to make this year's March of Dimes drive the most successful ever held in Pitt county, according to Dr. E. R. Browning of the business education department at East Carolina who heads the Pitt county committee for the national polio drive.

Members of the music department, the Jarvis Forensic club, the Commerce club, and the cheerleaders at East Carolina are to be commended for their earnest endeavors, Browning said.

In Browning's opinion, a group of music majors, under the auspices of Dr. Rudolph Willmann and Herbert Carter, and several members of the Jarvis Forensic club, under the direction of Dr. Meredith N. Posey, deserve special recognition for their work in the March of Dimes campaign. These students have been accompanying Dr. Browning to PTA and various school assemblies and to service clubs and presenting programs in connection with the campaign.

Commerce Club Campaigns

The Commerce club planned an extensive campaign. Under the direction of Dr. James White of the business faculty and Allan Berman, president of the Commerce club, a house-to-house canvass was carried out Thursday afternoon of this week. In addition to White and Berman, Claude Altman, Clement Gray, William Easterling, Vance Lockamy, Annie Lou Butts and Ann Baysden served in the capacity of group leaders in the canvassing of districts. J. B. Edwards, cheerleader from Winterville, is the director of the move carried on at all basketball games held in Wright gymnasium in which the cheerleaders support a lifted sheet and campaign for dimes to be thrown into it.

Radio Program Advertises

Miles Buck and Albert Harrington of the campus radio station conducted a commentary and program on the March of Dimes fund through the facilities of the Greenville radio station last night at 8:30.

Dean W. E. Marshall is in charge of faculty solicitations. A basketball game between the faculty members and the women's varsity here on campus may result from the planning of Neil Stallings of the physical education faculty.

Annual Dance Slated

The March of Dimes drive on the campus will close January 31 with the annual President's Ball, which is to be held in Wright auditorium in commemoration of the birthday of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and his efforts to curb infantile paralysis. Bob Lee and his orchestra will play for the dance.

The President's Ball, which will serve as a finale for the campaign, is being sponsored by the Greenville Lions club. Larry Averette, chairman of the group, reports that students may secure tickets from Herman Nelson, student manager of the Soda Shop, popular gathering place for the students on this campus.

Dr. E. R. Browning says that "the drive does look good." There is no set quota for the student groups, although Pitt county's goal is $12,000.

Special To Men

The following is a new release from General Marshall regarding the new basic policy for college students enrollments:

"Under the new policy a young man called by selective service during the academic year could continue his studies and still retain the right to designate his choice of service by enlisting in the period beginning 90 days before the termination of the school year and ending 30 days before the termination date. Services accepting enlistments during this two-month period would not call the student to duty until they had finished their school year."

TEACHERS PLAYHOUSE

The Teachers Playhouse, dramatics club at East Carolina, is to be congratulated for its recent presentation of Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer Prize play "Our Town." The product of their talents, which students, townspeople and friends witnessed at three performances, was obviously the result of many long hours of hard work and rehearsing.

The play was the first major production to be presented in the new College theatre. Prior to the first performance a dedication ceremony was held for the new playhouse. We feel that there could have been no more fitting tribute to the theatre than the play first given from its stage. The performances set a new high in dramatic achievement at East Carolina.

Every individual in the play, whether he had a minor or major part, played his part to the limits of his abilities. We do not feel that any one individual was outstanding in the performances—some parts were just longer than others. Everyone seemed to feel his part and play it for all it was worth. The members of the cast, each contributing what he had to offer, combined to present a truly outstanding production in a truly outstanding manner.

THE COMMERCE CLUB

The Commerce club may come in here with a few bows too. The club did a great job yesterday canvassing the city of Greenville to aid the Pitt county March of Dimes drive. Approximately 125 members of the organization took part in the canvassing.

The club recognized a worthy cause, and seeing the opportunity, pitched in with their time as well as money. It is "Life's Extras" that count says Archibald Rutledge and we believe the members of the Commerce club may have realized this yesterday as they gave to help others.

The Commerce club is one of the most active organizations on the campus and considers not only that which is important to itself but that which is important to others and the campus family. The club is at present considering the Honor System. They want to reach a decision as to whether they want it on this campus or not. The Veterans club, another energetic organization, has already reached a decision; it does not want to have an honor system at East Carolina. The honor system is important to every student on the campus and these two fine groups are displaying in all of their activities a spirit typical of their officers and members.

NEW TEACHERS' DORMITORY

Contracts awarded recently for the construction of a teachers' dormitory at East Carolina totaled $324,855. The new dormitory is designed to accommodate 42 persons. This means an expenditure of about $7,734 per occupant. It seems that with this much money each of those 42 people could have a comfortable four or five room cottage all to himself. The amount the new dormitory will cost is just too much for the number of residents it will hold.

TO NO AVAIL

It is realized that probably nothing will be done to remedy the situation, but it is felt that a few lines here are not entirely wasted in lamenting the undue noise in the dormitories at night. Even when there was a member of the faculty living in Slay hall there was so much noise it was difficult at times to concentrate on one's studies.

The situation is somewhat similar to that of persons breaking into the cafeteria lines. Much has been said on the subject; everyone sees the problem; yet no responsible group has been moved to action. There are clearly rules in the dorms which state that the unnecessary noise will not be tolerated. Yet absolutely nothing is done to control the noise. Similarly nothing is likely to be done about the cafeteria lines. The rules and regulations appear to us to be just so much "eye wash." We hold the opinion that the rules should be strictly enforced or those unattractive dorms be torn from the doors of the campus.

Those who really wish to have peace in the dorms should speak p. m. before they go to bed.

ETAOIN and SHRDLU

by Rexford E. Piner

We're beginning to hear from some of our boys who have gone into the service now. From Fort Meade, Md., comes the information that Ret. Chester L. Langley Jr. and Ret. Leon D. Ricks Jr. have been assigned to the 101st Airborne division at Camp Breckinridge, Kentucky. Ret. Gene B. Hedgepeth has been assigned to the 8th Infantry division at Fort Jackson, South Carolina. Both Langley and Hedgepeth are graduates of East Carolina.

We received a personal letter from a very dear friend this week who is a student at Davidson college. His gratifying words were as follows: "After having read the numerous copies of the TECO ECHO, which you have been kind enough to send Raynor and me, I must admit it is one of the finest college papers that I have ever read. I can go even further in saying that I sincerely believe it to be an even more outstanding paper than our own 'Davidsonian.' I assure you, with the same breath, that we take a great deal of pride in our 'Davidsonian.'"

Words as these from a lifelong friend are more valuable than all the honors a press association could bestow upon us for journalistic excellence. Opinions like these are the ones that count in the long run. Thanks for the compliments, Harper!

High Point college is offering a course in "Civilian Defense Against Atomic Bombs" the second semester and is giving three hours credit as an elective. From Chapel Hill we hear that the third annual jail management course for county and city jailers opened Wednesday. This course is sponsored by the University of North Carolina's Institute of Government and the State Board of Public Welfare. The course will only last through Friday.

Shades of Harvard! Bless ol' President Elliot and his elective system!

One of the high school papers that we get through exchange is sponsoring a contest "planned for all students to see just what their favorite jokes are." The students are to turn in favorite jokes which will be judged by a "board of experts." Brave, brave experts. We wouldn't try that here 'for nothin'. We can imagine what types of jokes would be submitted. Ah, those high school students are so young.

We sure do wish the extra line in the small dining hall would be reopened. Students returning to school this year were happy to see the new line, and it made conditions much more convenient. As it is now, we have to stand in line twice as long as seems necessary. Several students have talked with us about the matter and express similar sentiments.

The way some people drive on the campus they must think they're driving on the campus.

We're happy to see the Pirates using a different system lately. Seems to us our basketball team was too gentlemanly early in the season; it used a system which allowed the opposition to set up a defense before our team would try to score. "Now you boys come on down to this end and set up your defense; we'll wait until you're ready before we try to shoot." That's the way it looked to a lot of fans. They're glad to see the change too.

Who's Who At East Carolina

by Anne Jones

Jerney Minshaw

When it comes to the business of carrying on the financial ends of a publication, East Carolina's Jerney Minshaw ranks tops among college students. Minshaw has devoted the main part of his extra-curricular activities during his three years here to the business staffs of the college publications, The TECO ECHO and the "Tecoan."

Minshaw served as assistant business manager of the TECO ECHO, the college paper, during his freshman year and climbed on up the ladder of success to become business manager during his sophomore year. From here he stepped into the position of the business manager of the "Tecoan," college annual, in the current school year.

He accredits his interest in the college publications to Carl Connor and Bill Flanders, his roommates during his freshman and sophomore years.

Minshaw, who is carrying a double major in science, hopes to enter the dental school of the University of North Carolina in the fall of 1951. He is enrolled here as a pre-dental student. If for any reason he cannot enter dentistry school this coming fall, he plans to enter navigator school at Randolph Field, Texas.

Stantonsburg, North Carolina claims this young man as one of her sons. Being a farmer boy, Minshaw, who is only nineteen, is one of six boys in his family. He has no sisters.

He attended Eureka High school which is five miles down the road from Stantonsburg. In high school he served as chief marshal during his senior year.

Other activities which engage his time are the Circle K club, of which he is secretary and a charter member of the East Carolina branch; the Young Democrats club, of which he is treasurer and also a charter member; and Phi Sigma Pi.

Last summer Minshaw came to summer school and was a member of the Student legislature. He likes to tell this little story on himself. "One night the legislature was to meet. We invited Dr. Messick to our meeting which was scheduled to begin at 6 o'clock. At 6:30 Dr. Messick had not arrived so, having decided that he wasn't coming at all, I lighted a cigar. Then Dr. Messick walked in. He ended his story here so we do not know the outcome. Minshaw has worked in his home town drug store and at the present time is employed by the college soda shop, his official position at the soda shop being, in his own words, "thirteenth assistant to the assistant manager but I have hopes of getting a promotion after this quarter."

In New York last March at the Columbia Scholastic Press Association convention Minshaw went as one of a three-party delegation to represent the TECO ECHO at the convention. From what we were able to find out our friend almost got lost and ended up on a subway which took him to Harlem.

As for sports he likes best basketball and the Detroit Tigers. Other things which are fond of are pork chops, when it comes time to eat, and science, especially anatomy, when it comes to his books. Minshaw has made the honor roll four quarters since he entered school here.

Another thing of which he is particularly proud is the fact that he made "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" in spite of the fact he is just a junior.

As for his standing with Uncle Sam, he has a classification of 2-A with a deferment until June, and with a deferment until he finishes dental school once he gets in. He remarked, however, that he would probably end up as a recruit in the army. He has served in the National Guard for nine months.

No story of Minshaw would be complete without mentioning the fact that he has an eye on a certain campus co-ed. This "happy go lucky" fellow believes in taking life as it comes and making the best of it.

ROUND THE CAMPUS

by Bob Robinson

Orchids to the Teachers Playhouse—the performance of each of the plays in the production of "Our Town," was something that even an amateur play critic, like this columnist, would say was tops. The presentation was well directed, well acted, and well received by an audience that was aware of the time, talent and effort that went into the play. To all who had anything at all to do with the production, our congratulations.

Say, have you folks heard about the East Carolina "Coliseum"? That's the name all the boys have given the East wing of the Training school, and since it has been opened to college use, a lot of the basketball amateurs on campus have been putting in a few hours down there. It's really a nice gym, and the floor is not as large as the one in the Wright building so those of us who are in such good physical shape enjoy not having to do quite so much running. By the way, all the men's intramural contests are held there, and if you want to see some pretty fair basketball, drop down some evening when games are scheduled. Keith ("beard") Kilpatrick is doing a fine job of handling the intramurals this year.

If anyone enjoyed watching Lou Bello referee that Atlantic Christian ball game here more than "Groucho" McConaghey, they sure did have a fine time. We were in a position where we could see him, and every time the dynamic ref would call a play Mac would be up out of his seat doing a more than fair imitation of Bello's actions. Fact of the matter is, we rather enjoyed it—especially that score!

We know that Otis Bain wishes the stores downtown would have a sale on alarm clocks or some other "waking" device. If you would come over to Slay any morning around 7:15 you'd see Otis walking around the first floor knocking on various doors rousing up those who don't have clocks. I think that some of them have clocks, but have been known to sleep through the merry ringing of said instrument and have taken a few unplanned cuts. By the way, Otis, don't forget us in the morning!

I don't think Orville Floyd likes to be called "Coca-Cola"—It seems to be that she was the unfortunate victim of some of the aforementioned product being "spilled" one evening last week. Orvie, you shouldn't take it so hard; you know those "accidents" will happen, and Charlie didn't really mean to throw it!

Things were in somewhat of a dither up on the third floor of Slay hall Sunday morning—that's where "Hogjaw" rooms. It seems he went to the Elon-East Carolina game Saturday night and left his beloved Model "A" with one of his friends. The last the friend saw of it was Saturday evening when he left it parked near the Austin building. Everything got under control, though, when the lost "Cuddle-lac" was finally located in (if you'll pardon the expression) the Arboretum. Now what we're wondering is whether or not the friend really lost the car, or if he just didn't forget and leave it there?

We certainly do enjoy those Sunday afternoon "sessions" that are held immediately after the noon meal in the vicinity of the post office. You can usually expect everyone to be at his best as far as the wise-cracking goes and last Sunday was no exception. In fact, it was a pretty fair one—if you don't believe it, ask Cecil "Henry Ford" Winslow or Odell "Burl Ives" Wadford. It's always real nice to check all the chicks in their Sunday finery—you really wouldn't know some of those "queens" unless you looked the second time. Guess that works both ways, though. As we heard one young lady remark to another, "You certainly can tell it's Sunday—just look at all those dressed up men!" (Thank you, ladies!)

MILES BEHIND THE MIKE

by Miles Buck

The latest program in the family-type show is "Mr. and Mrs. Blandings" with Cary Grant and Betsy Drake as co-stars. It is based on the character created by Cary Grant in the movie "Mr. Blandings Builds His Dreamhouse." Another show which is worth listening to is "The Halls of Ivy" with Ronald Coleman as the college president. Coleman's humorous handling of the problems facing a college president makes smooth listening.

On the local scene there are some who think one "Pee-Wee" Whitfield should stick to acting and leave sports writing to others. We think he combines both very well. As a matter of fact, if he should forsake the sports editor's desk, we would be left in quite a hole.

Since Coach Porter installed the fast break we find the Pirate ball games much more interesting to watch. We didn't pretend to know about coaching basketball, but every one else around here wants to get in the act, so why should we be different. We like to see the home club in the win column and most of the arm chair coaches are of the opinion that we'll do it more often with the fast break.

There is nothing new in the popular record field this week, but for the collectors of classical records there are some new organ recordings available. Brahms' valedictory has been recorded by Mr. Ernest White at the organ of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin in New York City by Mercury. Op. 122, Eleven Chorale-Preludes are now on twelve-inch disks. On ten-inch Mercury's, Mr. White has recorded two works of Bach, Passacaglia and Fugue in C Minor and Pastorale in F major.

We don't know why disk jocks think they have to gab all the time to be popular, but apparently it's a disease with most of them. One of the few exceptions is an all-night diskier in Detroit. We think the all-night session is called "Dawn Patrol."

We may be going off the deep end now but we are voicing an opinion which is held by quite a number of men living in Slay hall. When the dorm was opened last fall it was supposedly a junior-senior dorm, but this apparently is not the case. The athletic department has certain rooms set aside for their men, which, as far as we are concerned, is a mighty fine idea, and most of the men they have put in Slay hall have been upperclassmen and gentlemen. Our complaint lies in the fact there are freshmen athletes living in Slay hall who seem to think it great sport to run up and down the halls shouting loud enough to be heard at Five Points. A certain amount of noise and good fun is expected in a men's dorm, but when it goes on day and night, week in and week out, something has got to give, and as far as we are concerned, it's high time the Men's judiciary gave these troublemakers their walking papers.

Did You Know That...

... this writer is grateful for all the fine things said to him and other members of the cast about "Our Town"? "Daily Life, Love and Marriage, and Death" are not uncommon factors in this world, but many of us feel that Thornton Wilder achieved the highest in poetic dramatic art with his treatment of these everyday things. This play will certainly go down through the literary halls of time as one of the most outstanding works of the first half of the 20th century.

... the sports editor of the TECO ECHO has a problem? It seems that Lloyd Whitfield was at the beach last summer and some pretty young lady painted his toes red. It is all worn off now except from his big toes. He is wondering if someone has the know-how as to getting rid of the polish. Suggestions will be welcomed.

... Harry May has just finished reading "Wuthering Heights" and is very much impressed with it? When asked why, he answered it was because everyone was so mean and bitter about everything in it, and it just reminded him of home, that's all.

... another literary fan on campus is the president of the YMCA? He told us that he considers Erskine Caldwell's "God's Little Acre" one of his favorite books and he often rereads it.

... Tar Heels have something more to be proud of, and that is Paul Green's latest accomplishment? He has dramatized Ibsen's "Peer Gynt" and it opens January 27 in New York with John Garfield playing the lead. Green is known to most of us for his symphonic drama "Lost Colony."

... another off-campus event which deserves mentioning is the return of Kirsten Flagstad to the Metropolitan Opera after an absence of almost ten years? Flagstad has been acclaimed the greatest Wagnerian soprano of all time, and American opera-lovers are fortunate to once more have the opportunity of hearing her. The opera is broadcast every Saturday afternoon over ABC.

... Miss Peggy Hampton, college librarian, made the observation that the library staff is suffering more from the wedding bells than from the draft? Cindy Rich and Ellen Buffkin have answered the call to the altar while Alton Dougherty has answered the call to arms.

... the International Relations club had as one of their speakers a few years ago Mr. Aubrey Shackell, formerly of Tarboro? Mr. Shackell was present when General MacArthur signed the peace treaty with Japan.

... "War alone keeps up all human energies to their maximum tension and sets the seal of nobility on those peoples who have the courage to face it."

TRADE BITS

Enrollment for Western Carolina Teachers college, as most all other colleges in the nation, has dropped. Registering for the winter quarter at Western Carolina were 593. Twenty men have withdrawn from that institution to enlist in the service.

Next year a chemical warfare unit of the Reserve Officers Training corps will be established at Wake Forest. The unit is expecting more than 1,000 students.

The Promenaders' club at Woman's college sponsored a square dance festival recently in which seven colleges sent groups to present different dances. The club plans to make the festival an annual event. Square dance teams from colleges in North and South Carolina attended the affair. Teams from Winthrop college in South Carolina, Western Carolina, UNC and Woman's college presented a program which included a variety of dances.

A new course, "Civilian Defense Against Atomic Bombs," will be offered during the second semester at High Point college. The course is to be offered in order that the civilians may know what to do to survive an atomic bomb attack. The course will be open to all students and it requires no previous knowledge of any form of science.

"The Lenoir Rhynean" of Lenoir Rhyne college has been hit hard by the Korean war effects. The editor has resigned to enlist in the Navy and the paper is running a notice that they urgently need one good sports writer, for the present sports editor is joining the Air Force.

Here's a joke we picked up out of a stack of exchange papers:

Colonel: "Why do you always close your eyes when you drink?"

Private: "The sight of good licah, suh, always makes my mouth watah, and I do not like to dilute my drink, suh."

Since we have already written about half of this column about boys joining the service and such, we have decided to dedicate the whole column to Uncle Sam this week. To end it all, we'll pass on the following few words that were printed in "The Hi-Po" of High Point college. They were:

Six Yanks were crouched in a Korean rice paddy when an enemy shell landed nearby, spraying them with mud and rice.

"We're in a tight spot here!" growled one of the soldiers.

"Brother," said a young man who had twice been married and divorced, "you're always in a tight spot when they start showerin' you with rice!"

Christians Bow To Bucs, 74-62

Field Goal In Last Five Seconds Gives Elon 75-74 Victory

After the lead had changed hands 20 times in the ball game, Elon's Dave Mondy swished a field goal through the nets with five seconds remaining to give the Fighting Christians a 75-74 hard-earned North State conference victory over East Carolina's Pirates in Elon last Saturday night.

As the two clubs battled it out for fourth place in the loop, the 2,500 fans went wild in the last five minutes as the two ball clubs could never widen their margin more than one point.

Elon Leads At Half

At halftime the home team held a 33-30 lead over the Pirates and increased the lead to five points after the intermission. They held a lead until midway the last period when the score read 59-50.

It was then that the Bucs caught fire and began to play one of their better ball games as they brought the score to 59-58 by slapping a pressing defense on the Christians. Charlie Huffman, East Carolina's sensational freshman forward, spearheaded the Buccaneers' scoring drive at that point.

Crowd Goes Wild

With the Bucs in scoring range of Doc Mathis' five, the Elon partisan crowd rose to its feet. The score was 68-67 in favor of Elon with 2:30 remaining. With 1:35 Toddy Fennell drove in for two lay-ups to give the Pirates the lead, 71-70. Mondy tied it with a free throw at 71-71, but the Bucs' playmaker, Toddy Fennell, put the Pirates back out front with a free throw, 72-71. Twenty seconds were left in the hair-raising battle when Sonny Russell put East Carolina out front again, 74-73. After a terrific pressing defense by Elon, Dave Mondy gained possession of the ball and shot from half-court with only five seconds remaining to give the Christians the victory, 75-74.

Dole, Thrift Are Guests At Annual All-State Dinner

East Carolina's All-state footballer, Roger Thrift, was a guest of the Greensboro Touchdown club-Daily News All-state football banquet Monday night at the Plantation club in Greensboro when the state's best collegiate and scholastic gridgers were honored for their 1950 performances on the gridiron.

The 22 college stars and the 22 high school heroes heard as the guest speaker, Frank Howard, coach of Clemson's triumphant Orange Bowl team. Coach Bill Dole along with Carl Snively of Carolina, Beattie Feathers of State, Peabody Walker of Wake Forest and Eddie Cameron, Duke university athletic director, were among the honored guests at the 13th annual banquet.

Thrift, one of the nation's top passers and winner of the most valuable player award in the North State conference, was awarded a gold football and a certificate for his outstanding pigskin performance while at East Carolina. Thrift will not be eligible for college ball next year because he has used his four years of eligibility. However, his football career may not be at end since the Cleveland Browns, professional football team, was recently given draft rights to the versatile athlete. Thrift was the only North State football player to be drafted for the rugged pro game.

Is It A Bird? No It's Fennell!

As Toddy Fennell (No. 14), Pirate co-captain cruises through the air after driving in from mid-court, Bobby Hodges (No. 19) stands by to follow up Fennell's shot. Fennell, who is widely feared for his courtwise driving ability and defensive play, hit for 19 points in that contest as East Carolina registered a 74-62 revenge victory over Elon's Fighting Christians here Tuesday night. Hodges was the top-pointgetter of the evening with 25 points.

'Coach Of Year' Johnny Long Featured In Whiteville Paper

(Editor's note: The following is a feature on Johnny Long written by Jiggs Powers, sports editor of the News Reporter of Whiteville, N. C.)

Long, boxing coach at East Carolina, was chosen as the "Columbus County Coach of the Year" by the newspaper and this excellent written article was passed on to the TECO ECHO by Mr. Powers.)

by Jiggs Powers

He's been around... has Greeley Long, the Piroway boy that is now coaching boxing at East Carolina Teachers college in Greenville.

Johnny, as he is better known in the mitt-game, is just 27 years old and is the newest addition to the "Columbus County Coaches Of The Year" circle. He will receive his B.S. degree in physical education from East Carolina next Spring and hopes to move right into the coaching-teaching field soon thereafter.

Many readers might wonder just why Johnny is nearing the end of a B.S. degree with the age spoken of above. Well, it can be remembered that this former Columbus resident took time out from his jaunts into the field of learning long enough to become one of the top professional boxers in the world. Here's the data on the why's and wherefore's of young Johnny's life, to date:

Attended TC High

Greeley was born near Piroway in Columbus county in 1923 and received his early and high school training at Tabor City High school from which he graduated in 1942. While a student at the Bordertown institution, coaching and promoting were track swimming, judo, wrestling, softball, and (of course) boxing.

Re-enters Pro Boxing

Having taken a short fling at the pro ring game prior to, and during, his hitch in the Navy, Greeley decided to return to that field following his discharge in 1946. He opened his career by battling out of Rochester, N.Y.; then fought out of Buffalo, Syracuse, and New York, N. Y.; Milwaukee, Wisconsin; Detroit, Toronto and Montreal; and many other centers of the North and East.

Was 7th In World

During his professional career, Long fought in 54 fights and lost only once—that a six-round preliminary in St. Nicholas Arena, in New York city. He was rated in Group 1 of the professional welterweights of the world, ranked as seventh by Ring magazine, the same year that he decided to retire and seek an education in 1947.

Having thought for some time about giving up the fight-for-pay game, the Columbus athlete finally did just that in 1947. He entered East Carolina in 1948 and began work on a phys-ed degree. He will be awarded this in May, along with a minor teaching certificate in social studies. He is a member of the Veterans club at East Carolina, as well as president of the Varsity club (the monogram organization). Long has the honor of being one of the charter members of the Southern Conference Boxing Coaches association, becoming a member when it was organized during his team's participation in the SC Boxing Tourney at Columbia, S. C. last winter. He is also a top student at East Carolina, having made the Dean's List on several occasions.

Has Fine Record

Beginning with a green and inexperienced group of performers in 1949, Long organized and coached the East Carolina boxers to a record of five wins and a lone defeat during the first year. His 1950 team had a 6-win 3-loss mark, but ran up against tougher competition in Southern conference meets. His crew lost to the University of South Carolina, the Southern champs, by only one point.

Among his top fighters, since going to East Carolina, have been two former Whiteville High mittmen—Redwan David, who graduated last spring, and Crowell Williamson, who is a member of his current squad. Homer Thomas, another ex-Wolfpack fighter, has also been a participant in the Pirate ring wars.

Having Troubles

Long, in his final year as student-coach at East Carolina, is having his troubles in getting his mitt team started this year. Several of the best men have been recalled to duty with the armed forces. The draft is expected to take even more. There are also rumors that the school will not support a boxing team this year. However, in spite of it all, Coach Greeley Long looks forward to another good year in collegiate boxing. He, and his Pirate Battlers, plan to carry on, somehow, the program that is among the most popular on the East Carolina campus.

Hodges Gets 25, Fennell Makes 19 In Revenge Win

by Tom Cox

In a North State conference clash held in Wright gymnasium Tuesday night, Coach Howard Porter's Pirates scored a 74-62 triumph over the Elon Christians. This was the Pirates' answer to last week's contest on Elon's home court, which saw the Christians edge the Pirates 75-74.

The Buccaneers scored first and maintained the lead throughout the first half, the score being 35-27 at the end of the first period. Elon rallied temporarily early in the second half and managed to surge into a 45-41 lead at one time.

The sharpshooting of Freshman Bobby Hodges and Captain Toddy Fennell soon pushed the Pirates into the lead again, and they were never headed. Hodges sparked on offense, pouring nine field goals and seven free throws through the hoop to score 25 points, and Fennell had a big night for himself, scoring nine baskets and one free throw for a total of 19 points.

Freshman Charlie Huffman followed closely with 13, and All-Conference forward Sonny Russell and Lou Collie rounded out the East Carolina scoring spree with 9 and 8 points respectively.

Forward Larry Gaither, with 16 points, paced the scoring for the visitors, and was followed closely by Kendall, with 15.

The victory over the Christians earned the Pirates a 5-4 won-lost record, and pushed them into fifth place in the North State conference standings.

Hilarious Cage Game To Be Held On Monday Night

The East Carolina faculty basketball team will take on a girls' team composed of campus coeds next Monday night at 8 o'clock in Wright gymnasium. Admission will be twenty-five cents, with proceeds going to the March of Dimes.

Plans are being made for a dance to follow the basketball tilt, but at press time nothing definite had been settled.

A capacity crowd is expected to attend the hilarious event, and Miss Nell Stallings, member of the physical education department, announced that the grudge battle would be played "by enough of the rules to make it look like basketball, then make up others to suit our convenience and comfort."

The drible derby promises to be one of the most colorful events staged in the local gym this season with each teacher wearing a costume of their own choosing. The professors were requested to bring an old antique gym suit if they can still get it in.

In describing the classic, Miss Stallings commented that it would be a miracle team for the teachers—a miracle if we play.

The program is being sponsored by the physical education department of East Carolina and originally called for a contest between the East Carolina All Stars and the Carolina Clowns. The Clowns, composed of such All-American football greats as Charlie Justice, Art Weiner and Irv Holdash, have written that they will not be able to play.

Athlete Of The Week

Freshman sensation Charles Huffman, a "push shot artist from Thomasville, is the TECO ECHO "Athlete of the Week."

Although in his first year at East Carolina, he has held a starting position at forward since the basketball season began, and he has developed early into one of the most outstanding players, exhibiting a brand of basketball seldom seen in freshmen.

Exploiting Huffman has poured 211 points through the hoop in fourteen games this season to lead the scoring for the Pirate quintet, and he ranks seventh among all the scorers in the North State conference.

In last week's game with Elon, Huffman set a burning pace for a losing cause by pumping 22 points through the basket to keep the Buccaneers in the game. In the return contest with the Christians on the home court Tuesday night, Huffman celebrated his twentieth birthday by contributing 13 points toward the Pirate victory.

It should not be omitted that Huffman is a fine team player and a great sport. No matter how rough the treatment he receives, he plays a clean game and always has a friendly word and a pat on the back for opponent and teammate alike.

A 1950 graduate of Thomasville High school, he starred in basketball, football, and tennis, lettering in each sport for three years. His basketball team won the South Piedmont conference basketball championship two years running, and Huffman made All-Tournament forward both his Junior and senior years. More honors came his way his senior prep year when he co-captained his football team and was selected as an All-Conference tackle.

After graduation from East Carolina, Huffman, who is majoring in physical education and minoring in social studies, hopes to teach and coach high school basketball and football.

Bob Hodges (19), high-scoring freshman guard of the Pirates, leaps high off the court to take a rebound from over the heads of three Elon opponents in the cage tilt here Tuesday night. In addition to his rebound work, Hodges was top scorer of the scrap with a total of 25 points. Behind Hodges is Sonny Russell (14), sophomore forward for the Bucs. The Pirates scored a 74-62 win over the Elon team which had eked out a one point victory in a previous meeting of the two teams. (Photo by Rexford E. Piner)

ALUMNI NEWS

District of Columbia Chapter

Willis Smith, newly-elected U. S. Senator from North Carolina, was speaker at a buffet dinner meeting of the District of Columbia Alumni chapter on Wednesday evening at the Hotel Carlyle in Washington. Honor guests also were John K. Slear, president of the North Carolina Society in Washington, and Mrs. Slear and Robin Sides and Douglas Pearson, two high school students from the district schools.

In his talk, Senator Smith pointed out the advantages of their education, not only to the alumni but to their children in meeting the ever-increasing difficulties encountered by modern civilization. He expressed confidence in and admiration for East Carolina's president, Dr. Messick, and noted recent progress of the college.

At the business meeting following the dinner, the chapter voted to support a scholarship fund, named for the chapter, and set up on a continuing and revolving basis. Heading the committee for the remainder of the year is Henry Oglesby. On the committee are James Worsley and Mary A. Whitchard. Joe Biegs was appointed as chairman of the Feb. 17 dance committee. Assisting him will be Mary A. Whitchard, Vance Chadwick, Mrs. Layton Miner (Sarah Johnson) and James Worsley.

Raleigh Alumni Hear Dr. Frank Dr. A. D. Frank, head of the Social Studies department, was guest speaker at the annual banquet of the Raleigh alumni chapter on Monday evening.

The meeting, which was presided over by Annie Laurie Melvin, took place in the S and W Cafeteria. Mrs. Clem Garner (Ruth Blanchard) brought greetings from the Alumni association. Ruth White, dean of women, told of the expansion program at the college.

Dr. Frank, who was introduced by Miss Mamie E. Jenkins, a member of the original faculty, who remained at the college until her retirement, spoke on "Education in Time of Crisis." He told how man has been faced by crisis in the past and how the human race has improved through hardships.

Dr. Frank assured the alumni that East Carolina is training young men and women to meet the present situation.

Purple and gold decorations were used on the table. Arrangements for the dinner were made by Mrs. John Harris (Elaine Tunnell), Mrs. J. E. Swick (Margaret Trexler), Mrs. John W. Harris (Rachel Stone), and Mrs. E. L. Hester (Eleanor Cuthrell).

Other guests were Mrs. Lonnie W. Rogers (Nancy Brantley) of Charlotte and Mrs. A. D. Frank of Greenville.
