Five New Personnel Assigned To Staff Of Air ROTC Unit

Additions Will Enable Unit To Train Maximum Of Nearly 400 Cadets

Major Lomas L. May, commanding officer of the Air Force ROTC Unit at East Carolina college, has announced the assignment of new instructors and administrative personnel to the unit for the 1951-1952 term. Five new members have joined the staff and have begun their work for the fall quarter.

"The additional personnel," Major May states, "will enable the Department of Air Science and Tactics to train a maximum of nearly 400 cadets at the college. During the school year 1950-1951 the enrollment of the Cadet Corps was 286, and the demands of students for AFROTC courses are constantly increasing." Approximately 400 students have enrolled for the fall quarter this year.

In addition to the specialized operation of Air Force Administration and Logistics offered during the past, Major May adds, cadets may choose to major during the present school year in a new option entitled Flight Operations. The new option is offered for the Air Force officer candidate who particularly desires to undergo pilot, navigator, bombardier, or radar operator training after getting his commission as 2d Lt. USAF, upon completion of the Air Force ROTC course.

New members of the AFROTC staff announced by Major May include Capt. William R. Young, South Pittsburg, Tenn.; First Lt. William R. Roney, Washington, D.C.; Master Sgt. Herbert H. Salls Jr., Lakeland, Fla.; Master Sgt. Ira H. Barry, Aurora, Ark.; and Staff Sgt. Floyd F. Freeman Jr., Concord, N.C.

Capt. Young is a graduate of Middle Tennessee State college, Murfreesboro, La. Roney, a graduate of the United States Military Academy, West Point, received further education at Virginia Polytechnic academy and George Washington university School of Law.

Sgt. Salls' previous duty station was Donaldson Air Force Base, Greenville, S. C. where he was sergeant major of the 375th Troop Carrier Wing. Before coming to East Carolina, Sgt. Barry served with the 24th AFROTC at Olathe, Kansas, and recently attended the Academic Instructor Course at the Air University, Maxwell AFB, Alabama. Sgt. Freeman comes to Greenville from Pope Air Force Base, where he served in the Comptroller Section of the 415th Air Base Group.

Major May also announced recently that Master Sgt. Bruce C. Baxter, stationed with the East Carolina unit for the past three years, has been transferred to Headquarters, 14th Air Force, Robins AFB, Macon, Georgia.

NOTICE

There will be an all college assembly in Austin auditorium Wednesday morning, September 19, at 11 o'clock. The speaker will be Tzvetan Litov, a Bulgarian church leader. There will be no classes during that hour.

Baptist Students Here Participating In Vesper Services

Having begun this week, each Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evening, vesper services will be held from 7:45 to 7:00 at the Baptist Student Center on Eighth street.

Ramona Outlaw, Kinston sophomore, is in charge of planning and promoting these worship periods which include music, meditation, interpretation of religious masterpieces, and brief inspirational talks by students and faculty members.

Last week many of the approximately 950 Baptist students enrolled at East Carolina dropped in to see the newly decorated recreation room, to enjoy a game of ping pong, to play pool, to pitch horseshoes, to try their hand at badminton, or to introduce themselves to the BSU counselor. Others seemed attracted to the snack bar or the kitchen. Fellowship between former students and new ones prevailed.

At this week's meeting Jack Painter, Farboro senior, who is president of the organization, praised the council for the very enthusiastic beginning of the BSU activities. Frances Dixon, enrollment vice-president, reported that this beginning is evidence that this may be the best year in the history of the organization.

Teco Echo Staff Draws Up Plans For Year's Work

Present plans for the publication of this year's TECO ECHO, as drawn up by the staff members this week, include the circulating of 28 issues for the students of East Carolina college.

Serving as editor-in-chief this year will be Tommie Lupton, who served as assistant editor last year. Annie Lou Butts will handle the business end of the paper again this year, and Lloyd Whitfield will fill the capacities of sports editor for his second straight year.

Staff Assistants

Assisting the editor in his editorial duties will be Janice Hardison. Andy Meeder, J. W. Browning, Ann McCrary, Mary Frances Ellers and Tom Cox will give aid to the editor in the news department.

Whitfield will have a staff composed of Jessie Ann Rice, Jack Scott, Gene Russell, Elsie Harrelson and Frazier Bruton.

In the advertising department there will be Edna Massad, Peggy Joyce Bowen, Grace Sanderson, Charlotte Humphrey, Mary Gillette, Janet Davis and Marty MacArthur to lighten the duties of the business manager.

Positions Open

At a later date specific titles will be given to the various members of the staff. There are many openings left for students who would like to help in publishing the TECO ECHO. Of special need are students who are interested in writing straight news.

The TECO ECHO already belongs to the Associated Collegiate Press and the Columbia Scholastic Press association. In the budget request for this year, the editor requested money to join the North Carolina Collegiate Press association, which will give closer contact with state newspapers.

Baptist Student Union To Open Forum Series At First Meet Tonight

Frances Barnes, forum chairman of the Baptist Student Union, will preside tonight at the opening meeting, which will initiate a series of weekly forums and discussion groups to be held on Friday evenings this quarter at the center on Eighth street.

Tonight's speaker, Beverly Neilson, a 1951 Wake Forest college graduate who is taking courses in primary education at East Carolina this year, will share with those present some of her experiences as a summer student missionary in Hawaii. Beverly, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Neilson of Greenville, was sponsored as a young people's worker in Hawaii this summer by BSU's of North Carolina colleges and universities.

Preceding the forum each Friday night there will be a dutch supper prepared by members of the BSU and served at six o'clock at the Baptist Student center.

Students Wait In Line To Pay Registration Fees

Students are shown above as they wait in line to pay their registration fees for the fall quarter at East Carolina college. Freshman registration was held September 4 and 5 with the upper classmen filling out their schedules on September 6. At the deadline of this paper, the complete tabulation of the enrollment for the term had not been compiled, therefore the figures could not be released.

Messick Addresses Freshmen During Orientation Exercises

East Carolina Prexy Bases Talk On Ideals Of Individual's Freedom

East Carolina college initiated its Twenty-third Annual Orientation program for freshmen Tuesday, September 4 in Wright auditorium.

President John D. Messick of the college spoke at the opening assembly period for the fall quarter, which was attended by a group of approximately 1000 freshmen, transfer students and faculty members. Bringing an inspirational and challenging message to newcomers, Dr. Messick based his talk on democratic ideals of freedom and the worth of the individual.

"Each of you," he told his audience, "is a personality. Each of you is capable of achievements of great merit. Each of you was born in a free world. Each of you can be highly successful in life and can contribute much to others." The East Carolina President advised the freshmen, however, that success depends upon effort and upon ambition to do one's best even in the small duties of everyday life.

During the opening days of the quarter a group of selected upper-classmen, including major student officers, assisted staff members at the college in welcoming freshmen to the campus, acquainting them with various phases of student activities, and assisted them in the preparation of class schedules.

Dr. Orval L. Phillips, registrar, reported that more applications to enter East Carolina were received prior to the opening of the fall quarter this year than ever before during a similar period. All dormitory space is filled, and many students, both men and women, who were unable to secure accommodation on the campus have rooms in Greenville homes.

Freshmen were busy through Thursday following a schedule of varied activities. Included were a series of general assemblies, meetings with faculty advisors, medical examinations, instruction in the use of the college library, and registration for courses. The testing program for freshmen, carried out each fall was given Wednesday morning, September 5.

A Saturday evening social with freshmen as honor guest completed the many activities marking the opening of East Carolina's forty-third regular session.

Faculty Wives Group Gives Dinner In Honor Of Faculty Newcomers

The Faculty Wives club of East Carolina college sponsored a dinner Monday night, September 3, for all faculty and staff members and their wives or mothers to honor all new additions who have joined the campus force this fall.

The dinner was held in the North dining hall on the campus at 6:30 with the program theme being "First Day at School." Charles Self, student legislative president, presided as master of ceremonies during the affair.

The entire evening's entertainment was informal, and the members attending became acquainted with each other through the use of the given name only.

Gifts were given to each new faculty or staff member participating in the dinner through the compliments of the Merchants association. Each acceptor of the gifts received a bag full of gifts from the various members of the merchants association.

Mrs. H. A. Coleman is president of the Faculty Wives club and Mrs. W. E. Dole served as chairman of the program committee for the dinner.

Committee Makes Plans For Annual Homecoming Day

Homecoming day for alumni of East Carolina college will be held this year Saturday, October 6, according to an announcement by James W. Butler, alumni secretary. Plans for the annual event are already in progress and a full program of activities will soon be announced.

Mr. Butler and Dr. E. J. Carter, director of the Bureau of Field Services at East Carolina, have been chosen as co-chairmen in charge of activities for the day. A meeting of the Homecoming day committee will take place during this week to complete arrangements for the celebration.

Members of the committee include, in addition to the chairmen, eleven members of the college staff and two student representatives. Faculty members and administrative personnel serving with Mr. Butler and Dr. Carter are Dean of Women Ruth White; Mrs. Ruth Garner, Gertrude Irby and Edith Zinn, student counselors; Dean of Men Clinton Prewett; Mary H. Greene, director of the News Bureau; Elizabeth Hyman, Eunice McGee, Louise Williams, and Dr. W. E. Marshall, faculty members; and W. E. Dole, football coach. Charles Self of Greensboro, president of the Student Government Association, and Sarah Peedin of Selma, representing the Women's Judiciary, are student members.

Henry Oglesby of Washington, D. C., president of the East Carolina Alumni association, and other officers of the organization are scheduled to be present for a meeting of the Alumni council on the morning of Homecoming day.

According to custom, the campus will be gaily decorated for Homecoming day, and students in the college dormitories will compete with each other in making their buildings colorful and attractive. A parade along the campus driveways, a luncheon in the college dining hall, and a Homecoming day dance are among events included in present plans.

Chief event of the day for many will be a football game between the East Carolina Pirates and the Elon team. The contest will be the first home game of the season for the Pirates and is expected to attract a large crowd of spectators to the college athletic field here.

Pingel Authors Poems

"Catalyst," a volume of poems by Dr. Martha Pingel of the faculty of East Carolina college, is a publication of the Exposition Press of New York, and not the Expression company, as erroneously was stated in a release of the college News Bureau.

The book, a collection of forty-five poems, went on sale in a Greenville book store within the past few days. Experimental in form and varied in subject matter and emotional tone, the poems are attracting interest and attention here. Dr. Pingel has been a member of the department of English at East Carolina for the past four years.

East Carolina Staff Grows As Many Changes Occur

Noted Churchman To Deliver Talk Before Assembly

Tzvetan Litov, one of the foremost church leaders in Bulgaria, will speak at a student-faculty assembly in Austin auditorium at eleven o'clock Wednesday, September 19.

Mr. Litov was born in Pleven, Bulgaria, in 1909. Upon graduation from college in Bulgaria he was sent by the Methodist church to study at the theological school in Frankfurt, Germany, where he graduated in 1932. He was ordained as dean and elder in the Methodist church by an American bishop. From his ordination in 1932 he served as minister for fifteen years of the largest Methodist church in Sofia.

For 12 years the Bulgarian church leader was a member of the editorial staff of "Zornitza," Bulgaria's oldest newspaper which is a joint publication of all Protestant churches in Bulgaria, and was for two years assistant editor of the "The Christian World," a monthly publication of the Methodist church in Bulgaria. He was director of the Methodist youth organization for three years, and secretary of the Supreme Council of Protestant churches in Bulgaria.

Entering the United States in 1947 with a scholarship from the Methodist church for the purpose of study at Emory university in Georgia, Mr. Litov has lectured extensively before civic and church groups.

Mr. Litov has been involved with the trial by the communist regime of fifteen Protestant ministers in Bulgaria, which resulted in a sentence of life imprisonment for a number of his associates. He has been lecturing throughout the United States under the auspices of the National committee for a free Europe.

Honorary Membership To Mark Twain Society Awarded To Dr. Pingel

Dr. Martha Pingel of the East Carolina college department of English has received notification of her election to honorary membership in the International Mark Twain society, an educational and cultural organization. Honorary membership, which is not available to the general public, is conferred upon "those entitled to recognition in the various fields of endeavor" and upon authors in public recognition of contributions to literature.

Dr. Pingel, is the author of "An American Utilitarian: Richard Hildreth as a Philosopher," published by the Columbia university press, and of "Catalyst: An Interpretation of Life," a recent publication of the Exposition press. She is secretary of the North Carolina Philosophical society.

The International Mark Twain society has been described as "the League of Nations of Literature," and its membership includes many distinguished men and women. "The Mark Twain Quarterly" is its official publication. Collections of materials and of books are kept by the Society at the Jefferson Memorial, St. Louis, and at the Library of Congress in Washington.

Entertainment Series For Year To Include First Drama Quartette

The entertainment series for the year 1951-1952 has been announced by Mrs. James S. Fleming (the former Miss Ellen Rion Caldwell), chairman of the entertainment committee.

First in this series will be a concert by the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra on November 8. The renowned Agnes Morehead, Charles Boyer, Charles Laughton, and Sir Cedric Hardwicke will appear at East Carolina on November 29. Sometime in February the famed dancers, Frank and Ryder, will perform here. Miss Ellen Farrell, dramatic soprano, will sing on March 19. At a later date, the name of a dance orchestra, which will appear on the campus in the spring, will be announced.

There once was a maiden of Siam, Who said to her lover, young Brian, "If you kiss me, of course You will have to use force— But surely you're stronger than I am."

New Members Include Music Director, Dean And Alumni Secretary

East Carolina college includes among new staff members who this week began their duties for the 1951-1952 term Dr. Kenneth Cuthbert, director of the department of music; Dr. Clinton Prewett, dean of men; and James Bulter, alumni secretary. In addition, seven new faculty members in various departments of instruction, a librarian at the Training School, and a dormitory counselor and coordinator of student social affairs have joined the East Carolina staff this fall.

Dr. Cuthbert headed the department of music at Illinois Wesleyan university at Bloomington before coming to East Carolina. A graduate of the University of Wisconsin and of Teachers college, Columbia university, from which he holds the doctor's degree, he has had a wide experience in music as teacher, conductor, and performer. He has served as assistant and as instructor in music education at Teachers college, and has played professionally in symphony orchestras and concert bands. He served for three years in the Army Air Force. Dr. Cuthbert succeeds Dr. R. R. Willmann, director of East Carolina's department of music for the past four years, who resigned during the summer and is now engaged in farming activities in Texas.

Dr. Prewett, the new dean of men, is a native of Georgia, and a graduate of the University of North Carolina, from which he holds the doctor's degree. He has taught in the public schools of Oklahoma and at the University of North Carolina. The position of dean of men was formerly held by Dr. W. E. Marshall, who returned this fall to full-time teaching in the department of social studies at East Carolina.

James Bulter, for the past eleven years executive secretary of the Goldsboro Chamber of Commerce, has begun his duties here as alumni secretary. He replaces Mrs. Ruth Garner, who became this fall a member of the staff of Dean of Women Ruth White.

Scoring Of Quizzes Will Be Facilitated By Use Of Machine

Scoring of a battery of tests given annually to new students entering East Carolina college is being done on the campus this fall for the first time by means of an IBM test scoring machine. The equipment, installed during the summer, is now available for testing programs in the college and, on payment of a small fee, in public schools of this area.

New students at East Carolina have just completed a series of tests given under the direction of Dr. Hazel Taylor, director of testing at the college. In administering the examinations, she was assisted by approximately fifty faculty members.

Adjustment inventory, English placement, reading, and psychological tests have already been given to new students. Study habits and interest tests are scheduled for later this term.

Results of the fall testing program are used in assigning freshmen to sections of English composition courses in which the work is suited to their needs and in organizing work in remedial reading for students who require special instruction. Scores and other data are made available to faculty counselors and to other staff members.

Teachers See Exhibition Of New Library Books

Teachers in the Training school at East Carolina college saw an exhibition of recently acquired books and were guests at a tea in the school library Tuesday afternoon of this week.

Elizabeth S. Walker of the college library staff was hostess. Mrs. Lily R. Carr, who became librarian at the Training school this fall, and Wendell W. Smiley, college librarian, were special guests.

Approximately a hundred new books for young children were on display in the Training school library during the afternoon.

Letters To The Editor

WELCOME TO OUR CAMPUS

We are happy to have all of our former students back, again, and to welcome the students who are here for the first time to our great family of 1951-52.

I trust that each of you has had a pleasant vacation, and that you are enjoying the many associations with students and faculty at East Carolina college. Great things lie ahead of you this year, and in the years to come. There will be occasional detours which will impede your progress. Disappointments and set-backs will come to many, but faith, courage, and integrity will enable you to meet them and emerge a stronger person, as you progress through life. Do not expect success without much concentration, study, imagination, and great effort on your part. The world is looking for people with character and ideas, and for those who place duty ahead of everything else.

All of you students should consider your aptitudes and interests, and project your thinking ten to fifteen years from now to see what you wish to do at that time; consider seriously whether you are headed in the right direction. Then budget your time so that you include all activities and periods that will enable you to emerge the person of personality you are capable of being.

Some fields of teaching are wide open, while others are over-crowded; consider your chances of employment. Teachers of elementary education, sciences, the languages, mathematics, industrial arts and home economics are needed throughout the country. Also, many professions, such as dentistry, public welfare, medicine, health, nursing, technicians, and engineering, need outstanding people. The fields of social studies, and coaching are pretty good. Why not consider some of the areas where teachers are in demand whether you are a freshman, sophomore, junior, or senior, if you wish to teach.

The college offers a program of athletic events, clubs and departmental organizations, a concert series, and other interesting activities. Make yourself a part of campus life; avail yourself of the opportunities which will help prepare you to be a well rounded individual for civic life when you leave college. Go to the church of your choice, and to the YW and YMCA meetings; you will find friends ready and eager to help you. You will also find the faculty and staff helpful and interesting in you at all times. I, myself, shall be happy to have you come to my home or office at any time I can be of assistance. If you have a problem, let it be known; that is the only way we can help you.

We are happy that you are here. By enrolling at East Carolina college you inherit a tradition of friendliness and service. Your college campus is a pleasant, healthful environment. Contribute your part in helping the college continue to be a pleasant, wholesome citadel with high standards of scholarship, social decorum, and aesthetic appearance. Great things are expected of you.
J. D. Messick.

Freshman Class:

With a great deal of pleasure that I hope that everyone of you to our friendly campus will hope that you will come to know East Carolina as I, and many others have.

Well for you to become aware of your responsibility in our complex world. You must consider seriously the values and values of our time.

The past has contributed as a stepping stone to the future. It will be of great help to you in the future. It is a stepping stone to the future. It is a stepping stone to the future.

Ye Editor's Say

by Tommie Lupton

No Saturday classes seems to be a very pleasant thought, but as far as the every day tasks of the student body are concerned, the schedule upon which we are now operating seems to be a burdensome one. Unless you were lucky in arranging your schedule, you probably have four classes practically every day to the week. With assignments in each class each night, the students on the whole will have to really struggle to keep up. Such a schedule does not leave much time for extra-curricular activities. We just live for the week-ends.

The one-way traffic sign on front campus seems to aid greatly when the traffic is heavy. Traffic could not have moved at all during the first couple of days of school with cars being permitted to enter the drive from both ways. We tip our hats to the campus authorities who had the sign put up. Use in the future under similar circumstances will facilitate traffic problems on our campus greatly.

The staff of the TECO ECHO is attempting again this year to continue publishing a weekly paper. Students who have had journalism in high school or college or students who would like to try to learn a little about the tasks of publishing a college weekly newspaper will be more than welcomed by the editor and his present staff. Staff meetings are being held at the present time on Monday evenings at 7 o'clock and last for only about thirty minutes. Our doors stay open at all times. Drop in to see us, won't you?

Being missed on the East Carolina campus this year are two long-time faculty members who have retired, Miss Dora Coates and Mr. E. C. Hollar. Both will be missed by the students and the faculty.

Readers of this paper who are wondering why there appears no story on the present enrollment at East Carolina will like to know the reason. The total figures had not been completed before our deadline for material, so it was impossible to present deadline is Wednesday and registration ended Thursday.

'Bobbie'

Has Kittens

In Cotten

by Janice Hardison

"Bobbie" never was a very feminine looking cat, but "Bobbie" has had kittens!

In case you hadn't heard, Bobbie is the orphan of the girls in Cotten hall rather unofficially adopted as they started arriving last week. He was tagged "Bobbie" rather than "Tom," as ordinarily stray cats are, because he—excuse me, she—hasn't a sign of a tail.

It seems that everybody but the freshmen knew it was illegal to keep pets in the dormitory. The result was that everytime Miss Zinn put poor "Bobbie" out in the cold, some kindhearted soul turned him—I mean, her—right back in again.

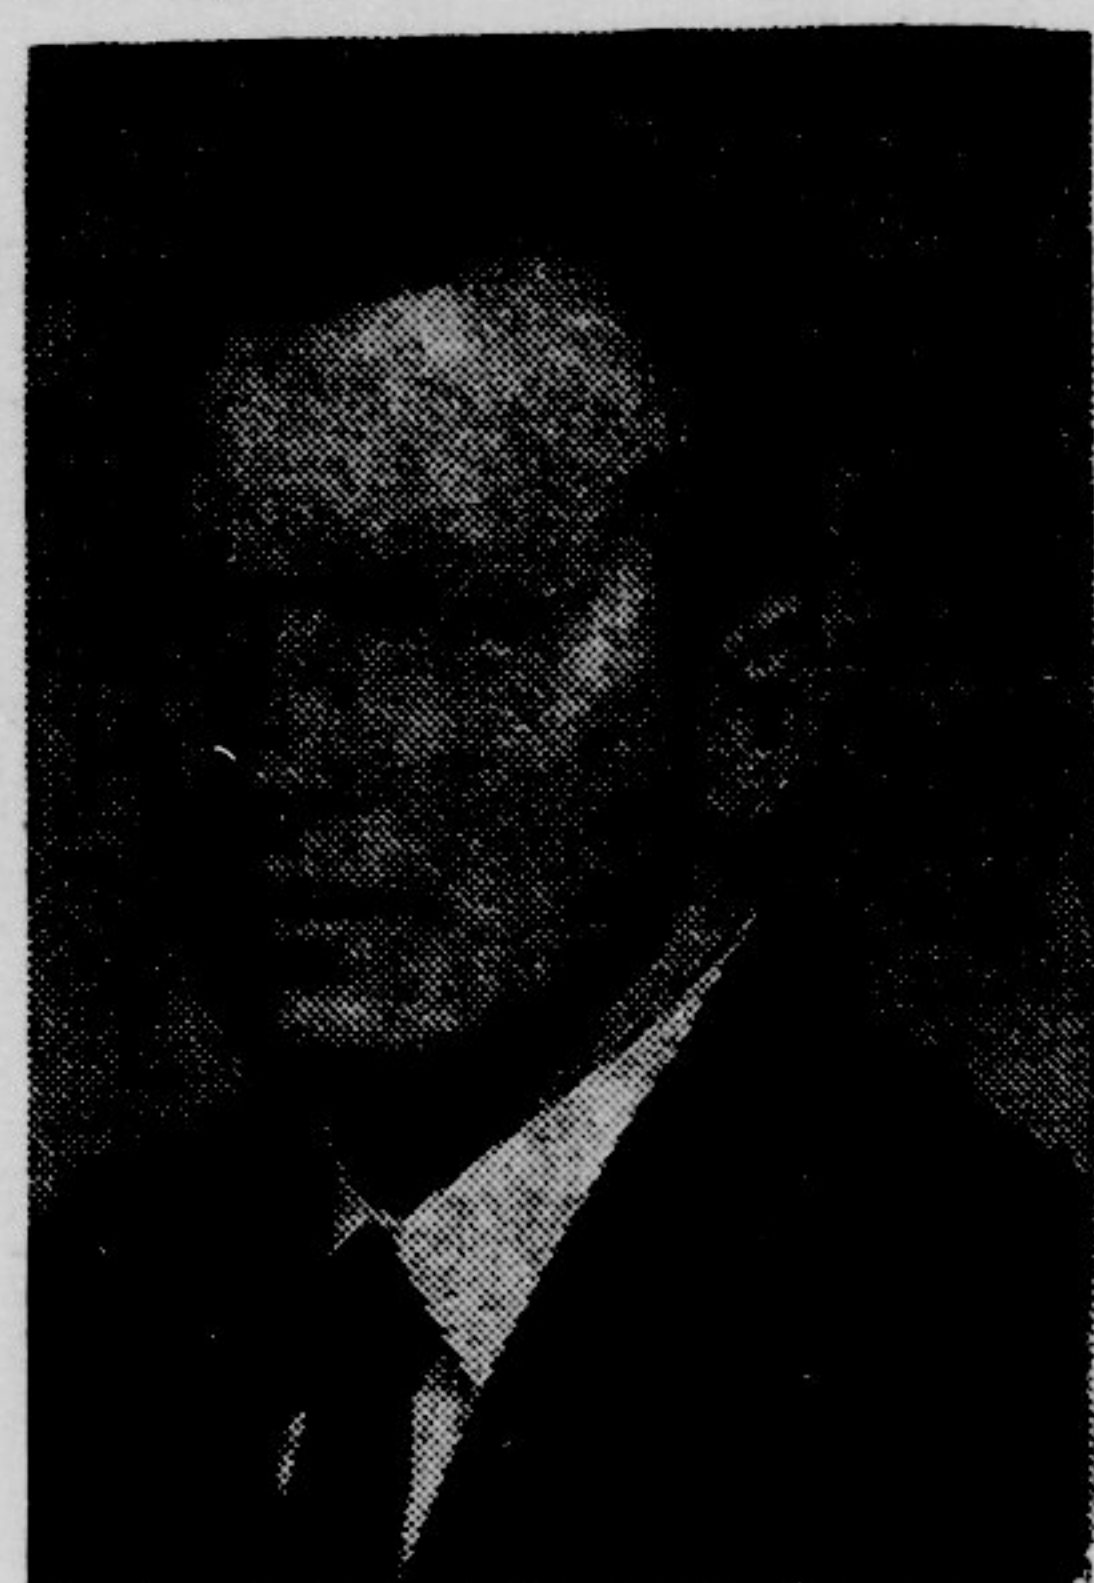

During six full days last week everybody was busy pampering and spoiling "Bobbie," opening doors, feeding, and help him up and down stairs. Then Sunday came. Nobody had time to notice "Bobbie." Parents and boyfriends were running all over the place; Cotten hall became Greenville's Grand Central station. And what did "Bobbie" do? Yep, "Bobbie" slipped quietly into a second floor closet and gave birth to three tiny kittens.

Choosing the busiest Sunday possible, "Bobbie" borrowed room 367 from Martha Benton and Joanne Lucas without asking anybody and had his—uh, her—kittens in the corner closet. On Sunday night after all the company was gone, the line formed down second floor corridor as the girls waited their turns to get into room 367 to see "Bobbie's" family. Thank goodness "Bobbie" has patience, for that flash light was shined on her kittens in the corner nearly a thousand times! Only Miss Zinn was disinterested. It was a repeat performance for her. You see, the same thing happened when she was at Syracuse university.

But the story doesn't end there—not at all. On Monday morning Miss White called one of the freshmen to take the kittens away. When she went to room 367, "Bobbie" was gone! A short time later, she called that a cat was in the corner closet and had long been gone. Because they were so interested in "Bobbie," they had been so interested in "Bobbie."

Who's Who At East Carolina

by Janice Hardison

Bob Bradley

A tall, good-looking young man with curly, almost red hair opened the front door, smiled warmly at a total stranger who was going out, and took several long strides toward a cushioned couch in Cotten hall parlor. Everyone inside, except perhaps a few unobservant freshmen who had been at East Carolina only a week, recognized the neatly clad athletic frame immediately.

It's no surprise, for Robert O. Bradley, better known as Bob, has been around the campus for some time, and students have been well aware of his presence since his arrival.

Those here during the past summer school session will remember him as the guy they unanimously elected president of the Student Government association for the summer quarter. Members of the sophomore class of 1949-1950 will recall that he's the same Bob Bradley who was vice-president of their class. Sports enthusiasts recognize him as the Bob Bradley who's been playing good football with the Pirates for the past three seasons, and seniors this year are proud that he has made another come-back as president of their senior class of 1951-1952.

But the story actually goes back much further than that. Though he now calls Rocky Mount his home, Bob left his excellent athletic record at Boyden High School in Salisbury, where he played both football and basketball for three years.

Upon his graduation from high school in 1946 he was offered an athletic scholarship to either Appalachian State Teachers college or Catawba college, but Robert Bradley had other ideas. Deciding college would have to wait, he chose to enlist in the United States Navy. For two years he remained in service, spending some time in Bermuda. Bob knew nothing at all of East Carolina Teachers college (as it was then) until he got out of service. Although his scholarship was still available at either Appalachian or Catawba, he came to Greenville upon a suggestion from his parents "just to look the place over." The other two colleges were really too close to home, he decided, and East Carolina had as much to offer. "It had such a friendly atmosphere," was the statement Bob made in describing what he found.

His decision was easy, and in the spring of 1952 Robert Bradley will receive his degree in Physical Education and English from this college.

His stay at East Carolina has been crammed full of activity. In addition to having held the afore mentioned offices, Bradley is a member of the Veterans club, the Varsity club, and the Circle K. He has been a member of the Air ROTC unit and will be commissioned a second lieutenant upon his graduation. A major in physical education, Bob has played football for three full seasons already, and East Carolina fans are expecting big things from him again this season.

A friendly, easy-going chap, Bob says he likes to fool around with cameras. "If I have a hobby, it's photography," he says. If you ask him if he plans to teach, he'll say "no" at once. Again Bob has something else in mind. He says his next affiliation will be with the American Telephone and Telegraph company in the "administrative end" of the business, he is quick to add.

While he's earning his degree, Robert Bradley will go on making friends at East Carolina and proving himself a leader. When he graduates next spring, many persons who have known him may well say, "That guy's going places," because they've seen his ability in action right here!

ROUND THE CAMPUS

by Mary Frances Eilers

Everyone is back once again to Dear 'Ole East Carolina. There are old faces missing, but seen over the campus are about 700 new faces. After about two weeks nearly everyone seems to be getting back into the grind, or do they?

Very readily many changes were noted about the campus. After many years the college Post Office has obtained new boxes. They have doors that will lock and the glass is not even broken out of them. Guess everyone will get to open his own mail now.

Painters and repairmen seemed to have been kept busy during the summer months. The inside of Wright auditorium looks like a new place with the newly painted walls and woodwork. A couple of the dormitories received a much-needed coat of fresh paint.

Work has progressed on the new teachers dormitory, as can be seen by the students who take their strolls through the beautiful East Carolina woods. Eventually, with all the building that is going on around the campus, there will be no woods for the students to take their strolls in. Wait a minute! Didn't the college purchase about 35 acres of land back of the campus? Ah! New stomping grounds!

The corner by Cotten hall and the Administration building looked like Times Square with all the traffic congestion when the new students were arriving on campus. Cars were parked double and triple and a Greenville traffic cop had to come over and straighten things out.

Our football team has headed South to tangle with a strong Mississippi Southern grid team. We send with them our regards and wish them luck and success in their opening game. It will be October 6 before the first Pirate's home tilt will be played, so here's wishing them luck till we can go out to the game to give our support.

Having mentioned a few good changes that have already been made, we would like to bring to mind a change that still needs to be made. That is the job of redecorating the Women's Day Student room in the basement of Austin. Compare it with the Men's Day Student room.

When the new sidewalk on the front campus is finished, students will not have to be so careful about stamping their toes as in the past. The roots of the mighty oaks had caused the old sidewalks to rise up about two or three inches in places.

Past 'ECHO' Editor Contributes Guest Column

by Carl G. Conner

And then, we must not overlook the faculty marriages. There were the Flemings, the Helmses and Perrys. You will find a full story elsewhere in the ECHO. But, there is a side angle. Two of the young ladies who married were roommates of Miss Mary H. Greene, advisor of the ECHO and director of the news bureau. Now there is news circulating that Miss Greene has quite a waiting list just dying to room with her. She has favored Miss Walker of the library staff this term. Better sign up, ladies!

Time and tide change all things and six months away from East Carolina has left this writer slightly behind. But, with the assistance of the secretary (of the SGA, no less) it didn't take long to get back in the "know what" of our Alma Mater.

East Carolina never ceases to be the "Coastal Plains Marriage Institute." Wedding bells clanged so often and so loudly during the past six months that most people returned to college with the dull throb still lingering. There was the marriage of our SGA treasurer of 1950-51, Bill Flanders, to Eloise Tucker on September 2. Bill is now Lt. Flanders of the USAF, stationed in Louisiana.

Jerney Minshew, ex TECO ECHO business manager, ex Tecoco business manager, and SGA treasurer was married to Sadie Deans on August 31. Sadie was first assistant treasurer during the summer, so her advancement to general manager of the Minshew company is quite a step forward. Jerney will be leaving soon for the Air Force, he hopes.—Well, at least he is leaving.

was adopting "Bobbie" and her family.

Ann Crumpler, with assistance from Ann Osburn, had removed them to the campus storage warehouse, where they are being cared for until Ann gets a chance to take them home. It is with regret that the residents of Cotten hall bid "Bobbie" and her family "goodbye," but everybody is happy they're moving to the country.

Ann Crumpler, they're entrusted to the care of Mrs. Ruth Garner. She's been carried on in that capacity for the past few years. She may now be seen in Fleming hall as counselor.

East Carolina is on the upward grade and anyone who doubts that statement should see Dr. Messick and find out the number of students who withdrew their applications because there was neither dormitory rooms nor rooms out in town. And while you are taking a look, take one at Coach Dole's pigskin team this year. The Greensboro Daily News and the News and Observer recently featured it as the dark horse team of the conference, and the team most likely to take the top place this season. The alumni are behind you, Coach Dole!

At last the men day students of East Carolina are getting some attention. Drop around and take a look at their study in the basement of Austin building, if you don't believe that. It is one of the best looking studies on the campus. And incidentally, thanks to the SGA of last year and to the government of two years ago who started the project.

And talking about Ye Ole Editor, Tommie Lupton, graduate of Greenville High school, is doing you that service this year. While at Greenville, Tommie put out a Medalist paper, so here are best wishes for a successful year and paper.

Quite a number of old timers were visiting about the campus during the weekend. The Minshews returned, and Mrs. Minshew is going to try to concentrate on studies this year. Our best wishes, Sadie! We know you'll make the best of it. Mary Kimsey Perry, graduate of the 1951 class, is now assistant home demonstration agent in Chowan and Perquimans counties. She is at present located in Edenton. Roger Thrift, the most valuable player in the North State conference last year, was seen about campus with Janet Shore last weekend. Roger is coaching at Murfreesboro High school.

The Alumni are proud of the adoption of James Butler as secretary. Likewise, they are proud of the work which Mrs. Ruth Garner has so efficiently carried on in that capacity for the past few years. She may now be seen in Fleming hall as counselor.

Here's best wishes for the Student Government association this year. And from the looks of things, they are off to a good start. They have a working president, as well as other officers. For truly efficient work, the SGA needs the assistance of every student.

Permit this writer to add this line. There is a big freshman class this year, and we who have gone before are proud of you. Help the college, alumni and older members of the student body to remain proud by being the most active class in the history of the school. Work hard and do your part to promote the Alma Mater of which we are so proud.

Dr. Holt: Do you know why there are so many squirrels on campus? Student: Because there are so many nuts, I guess.

We have a beautiful campus but it is only with your help that we can keep it so.

You have come to college for a purpose—to develop yourselves to live useful lives. It shall be our constant aim to help you in every way that we can, so please don't hesitate to call on me and the members of my staff for any assistance that we might render.

While here I hope for you success in your studies, acquisition of friends, achievement in culture and tranquility of mind. May the days be filled to the brim with challenging experiences that bring satisfaction in living.

Dean of Women

NEW STUDENTS:

The invitation of the Editor of The TECO ECHO to express, through its columns, a word of welcome to our new students is a privilege for which I am grateful.

By now, every student who enrolled in East Carolina this fall for the first time has realized that our welcome to you is cordial and sincere. It may be that you arrived on the Campus with the feeling of being a stranger among a buzzing confusion of busy faculty members and old students who were so much occupied with their own affairs that they have not given more than a passing thought to your coming. This is far from being true. The fact is we have been looking forward to your coming for sometime. We are glad that you are here. Welcome to East Carolina! Please enjoy freely its privileges and opportunities.

J. K. Long.

NEW STUDENTS:

Welcome to our great college. We all sincerely hope that your stay here will be both profitable and enjoyable. As we plan for the coming year, we are naturally cognizant of the world situation. Perhaps the question most prominent in your thinking is, "What will this year bring?" We are greatly concerned about the world situation and hope for a solution based on honor and decency. In the meantime we all owe our nation our best efforts. We must meet our problems and responsibilities with renewed vigor. This is a period when maximum effort and tremendous cooperation is essential. Let us all keep our attention focused on worthwhile objectives and strive at all times to do our best.

Leo W. Jenkins, Dean

To All New Students:

I would like to take this opportunity to welcome all of you who are new to our campus, and I sincerely hope that you will feel free to call upon my staff and upon me, if at any time we can be of service to you. We urge you to take advantage of the many opportunities which are offered at East Carolina college in addition to your classroom work; for instance, spiritual, social and all extra curricula activities. We hope that you will investigate full the many opportunities furnished for the formation of lasting friendships, principles for living, and a well-rounded life. May your stay with us be most beneficial and pleasant.

Orval L. Phillips,
Registrar

Dear Students;

You probably feel by now that any further words of welcome or greetings from anyone at this institution would be overdoing it. However, we do wish to emphasize the fact that our office is concerned primarily to your general welfare. Indeed, all the personnel of this college are likewise concerned.

We want you to avail yourselves of the particular facilities on this campus which seem equipped to meet your needs. Aside from the student personnel offices, particularly the Dean of Men and the Dean of Women, please consult with other members of the faculty and student body at any time that you feel it might be profitable to do so. The instructors at this college will appreciate the opportunity of coming to know you as an individual. Here at Greenville you can forget statements sometimes made by pseudo-sophisticated high-school students about "apple polishing," "boot-licking," and other such terms. It is only common sense for you as opportunities are presented through out the next four year for you to come to know your instructor and for him to know you as a person. You take part of this responsibility yourself.

Remember that college life can be a pleasant educational experience. Simply conduct yourself as an intelligent student and you will not violate any rule of the college. Come by our office on the second floor of the Administration building and talk with us when you have time.

Clinton R. Prewett,
Dean of Men

Bucs Open Season At Mississippi Southern

SPORTS ECHO

BY LLOYD WHITFIELD

Greetings sports fans!! It is time to settle down to the old grind and begin to convey the sporting news of the East Carolina flagship to you for nine months. There is so much to write about in the college's athletic program this year that it will be a pleasure to spend nights at the typewriter.

The 1951-52 athletic campaign will be the most exciting yet with improved facilities and the addition of some of the nation's top colleges to the schedule. For instance, in football, Coach Bill Dole compiled the roughest card ever attempted by a Pirate eleven. Tomorrow night the Pirates open the season in Hattiesburg, Miss., against Mississippi Southern and then return home to begin work for the next two games to be played with a couple of the nation's top-notch service teams, the Newport News Apprentice school and Norfolk Naval Air station. The season closes on November 24 down in Charleston, S. C., against the highly regarded Citadel, a member of the strong Southern conference. The Bulldogs are the team that upset Steve Wadiak and the University of South Carolina last year.

First Home Contest Three Weeks Off

East Carolina fans will have to wait until October 6 to see the Pirates on the home field. That marks the date of the college's gala homecoming affair when a big, bruising Elon team comes here. Besides having to fight a rough schedule, the Buccaneers have a fight of pride on their hands—North Carolina's leading sportswriters have billed the locals as the North State conference's finest team.

How such could even be considered is a mystery to many students, as 12 lettermen are gone. Included is Roger Thrift, one of the top passers in the nation. Still, Coach Dole has a husky bunch of holdovers with the football know-how. There are 16 of them, and they love the game. There is still a top-notch passer around in the form of Sandy Siler, Dwight Shoe and Bobby Hodges serve as two of the best ends in the state. Hodges is a serious contender for Little All-American honors before he graduates three years hence. With these boys still around the Pirates figure to be a dangerous passing team once again. Lyn Grissom, a transfer from High Point, will be able to help the attack with his bullet passes.

The Pirate running attack threatens to be better than it was in 1949 and 1950. Its ace runners, Johnny Daughtry and Illard Yarborough, will be counted on to spearhead the ground attack.

Defensively the home ship has some mighty big boys who are fast and can show their weight around pretty well. They tackle hard and work together as a hard-charging unit with plenty of ability.

Reports have it that this year's squad is going to be much better than previous ones. It seems that there are quite a few experienced candidates out for the squad from some of the larger high schools in the state. These people will have some good ideas and our only hope is that they are utilized.

School Spirit Needs Considerable Improvement

With such an array of football talent and an improved schedule East Carolina will begin to gain nation-wide attention in collegiate circles, and there is one thing that this paper would love to see bettered—that being the school spirit and the cheerleaders. All last year this column was pulling for an improvement in the cheering squad, and will continue to do so until a little advancement is made. It is only fair to the students and to the athletic teams.

A well-groomed and coordinated cheering aggregation adds so much color and life to a football game, and even adds in increasing attendance. One of the main faults that we find with the cheers is that they do not practice enough.

A Mammoth Pep Rally Could Be Arranged

Here is our idea of a good pep rally which could certainly be used for homecoming purposes. Start things rolling at about seven o'clock with a huge parade beginning downtown at the post office. The cheerleaders would lead the review, followed by the band. Then the procession would include floats made by each club in the school, with judges being chosen to select the best decorated float. Following the floats would be the numerous hot rods on the campus and a flock of students carrying banners and kerosene torches.

The parade would proceed to the auditorium where the football team and coaching staff would be seated on the stage along with a guest speaker. After the students had settled down in the building the cheerleaders would get things underway by giving out with a few yells and then the presentation of the head coach. He in turn would introduce the football players and make a brief speech. Following would be the guest speaker who would only be allowed to talk for about fifteen minutes.

After a few more yells the rally would end with the singing of the alma mater. It would even be possible to get the local radio station to carry this program or transcribe it.

Such a rally would promote such interest as you have never seen. Adults and tourists alike would join the parade and probably decide to attend the game because of the keen interest being shown by a group of high-spirited college students.

Such is what this college needs and we hope to see it before we graduate one year hence. If such a rally is planned this writer would be glad to aid in its organization in any way possible.

Also, new yells have got to be arranged! The college does not have over ten that they can do. It would also aid to the beauty of the thing if the cheerleaders had purple and white pom-poms at each game.

These things are badly needed, and we must have improved school spirit even if the cheerleaders have to practice every day (which is the case in most schools). We hope we have offended no one, for that was not our intentions. If anyone disagrees with what has been said in this column, drop us a line or drop by the office and express your discontents.

Fullback Daughtry Heads For Trouble In Scrimmage

John Daughtry, East Carolina's hard-charging 194 pound fullback, is shown getting off one of his long runs in a practice scrimmage. The session was held the first day of practice and was open to the public. It marked the only open drill that was held during pre-season practices. Daughtry performed well before the estimated 400 fans and drew rounds of praise from his teammates for his caliber of play against Duke university in a scrimmage held in Durham last Saturday. The Wilmington lad is a junior and played at defensive halfback last year, but Dole saw fit to run him at fullback in '51. Daughtry will be heavily counted on to carry the brunt of East Carolina's ground attack tomorrow night in Hattiesburg, when the Bucs meet Mississippi Southern. That contest marks the season's opener and will be broadcast over the local radio station at 8:45 p. m., eastern standard time.

Pirates Chosen As Favorites To Capture North State Title

Before it was time for people to begin thinking about football, North Carolina sport dopesters had begun to pick East Carolina as the little giant of the North State grid conference. It is true that Coach Bill Dole is going to guide a formidable grid machine and, as usual, will be considered for the championship. However there will be some strong competition.

At that, the Pirates will still have a team that will continue its practice of tipping over a favorite or two. Coach Dole has announced that he does not want the fans to be too optimistic over this year's season because 12 lettermen are missing. Included in the graduates is Roger Thrift, one of the nation's fanciest passers in 1950. His replacement might not be hard to find, for Dole has some fine pigskin slingers in Sandy Siler, Lyn Grissom and Webb Boyd.

Another thing that worries the Pirate coach is the stiff schedule he has arranged for his team. It is the toughest card ever attempted by the college and it looks as if a number of defeats are already in the books.

With High Point and Atlantic Christian dropping football Dole began to look for replacements on his schedule and came up with two top-notch teams, Mississippi Southern and The Citadel.

He has been working since early last spring to ready for the tough opening game with Mississippi team at Hattiesburg, Saturday night. The following two games are with two of the best service teams in the East, Naval Apprentice and Norfolk Naval Air Station. Both games are to be played in Virginia. Pirate fans will get their first look at the local team October 6 when Elon comes here for a gala homecoming affair.

It is evident that the schedule is rough and that 12 of last year's varsity will not be around, so do not count on a powerhouse. There are still 16 lettermen around who are all protected from the draft by being veterans or by being in the Air Reserve Officers Training Corps. The question, however, is whether or not these boys will be as strong as people think.

It looks as if East Carolina will again be a passing team with its quarterbacks being aided by two of the state's top ends, Bobby Hodges and Dwight Shoe. Both are strong candidates for the All-North State conference squad. Hodges who saw action at defensive end last season will probably pull double duty this year. Shoe has been around for two years now, and fans are firmly convinced that he is one of the best.

At the tackle slot Dole has four lettermen and a host of promising newcomers. Veterans include Bill McDonald, Bob Bradley, Don McKenzie and Al Auerback. Capable replacements are Thurston Callahan, Archie Congleton, Henry Fordham, Bobby Thomas and Nick Kanos.

Dennis Smith, John Stuart, George Graybill and Jesse Aldridge lead the returning guards. They are aided by Don Gargus.

The center position seems to be one of Dole's chief worries, but after a scrimmage against Duke it seems that two freshmen, Willie Holland and Pete Meadows will handle the offensive duties along with Frank Madigan.

Line backers include Luke Taylor and Claude King, two vicious tacklers. Taylor returns for his second year while King is a newcomer, but his feats are not unheard of for he was one of North Carolina's top prep stars in 1950.

In the backfield there are only four familiar faces around, Jack Benzie, Jack Britt, John Daughtry and Sandy Siler. However, they have splendid replacements in Lyn Grissom and Illard Yarborough. They are transfers from High Point and will see plenty of action this year.

A freshman quarterback from Gastonia showing great promise is Boyd Webb. He has the know-how and ability to make a fine quarterback plus being a top-notch passer. Thomas Allsbrook will see plenty of action along with Jimmy Harris.

At the fullback position there is a hard-running junior from Wilmington, John Daughtry. He impressed sports writers and coaches in a scrimmage against Duke last week. His reserves will be Gaither Cline and Thomas Canady.

Coach Dole Praises Work Of Freshmen On Pirate Team

In search of new talent for the East Carolina football team, Coach Bill Dole searched the state last year and attended high school bowl games. He came up with some of the state's top gridders who show promise of being steady performers for the Buccaneers.

He is proud of the newcomers and their ability to play football, and comments that "the freshmen on this year's squad are not only good athletes but are also good students." The inside dope on each new protege coming from Dole is as follows:

Claude King, 190 pounds, 6-2, from Wilmington, "is a fine all-around athlete. Besides his services at end, he'll be used to kick-off some."

Larry Rhodes, 6-1, 197 pound end from High Point, "is an exceptionally good end and will see lots of action this year, both offensively and defensively."

Bobby Thomas of Henderson, "picks a lot of weight (240 pounds) on his 5-9 frame and is good on defense from the tackle post."

Nick Kanos, 6-2, 208 pound guard from Fayetteville and Willie Holland, 6-0, 221 pound guard from Wilson, "will both be used as substitutes on offense this year."

Gaither Cline, 5-10, 188 pounds from Gastonia, "will be used to punt and back up the line." Gaither is also a baseball player.

Thomas Canady of Manteo, "is extremely fast, but won't see much action in the backfield until his sophomore year." "Buddy" is 5-10 and weighs 170.

Boyd Webb, 6-0, 158 pounds from Gastonia, "should develop into a fine quarterback and safety man. He is also a fine baseball player."

Paul Gay of Wilson, "needs a little experience but is a very good prospect."

Battle Non-Conference Eleven Tomorrow Night In Hattiesburg

High Point Stars Transfer Services To East Carolina

by Jim Ellis

Thirty-three members of the East Carolina college football team left Greenville early Thursday morning for Hattiesburg, Mississippi, where they will open their 1951 grid schedule Saturday night against powerful Mississippi Southern.

The Pirates spent Thursday night at Mobile, Alabama and planned to arrive on the Mississippi Southern campus Friday in time for a light work-out. Friday and Saturday nights will be spent in Hattiesburg with the return trip home via chartered bus to get underway Sunday morning. They will spend Sunday night in Mobile and are expected to arrive in Greenville sometime Monday.

In addition to the 33 players, Pirate grid machine are Illard Yarborough and Lyn Grissom.

Yarborough, the Prince Charming of the '51 grid aggregation of Coach Bill Dole's Pirates, played end for the Black Bisons of High Point high school and continued the flanker position for two years at his home town college. During the two year stay in High Point's collegiate circles, Yarborough was a stalwart on both offense and defense.

A true lover of the game, Yarborough stands six feet tall and tips the scales at a well-distributed 175 pounds. He is currently running at offensive halfback for the Bucs. Described as a conscientious, steady performer, the popular junior is a comet on offense with the drive and stamina of a bull. He is also a rock on defense with the alertness of a cat.

Lyn Grissom, the other half of the duo, is a 5' 10", 165 pound lad who operates from the quarterback position with Sandy Siler, but is expected to see more action at the safety position.

Another conscientious performer with a will to produce at his best, Grissom is a brilliant passer. An agile ball handler, he is an asset on short passes with supreme accuracy. He will serve as a capable and experienced replacement for Siler when his services are needed on offense.

There are two members of the Pirate squad, Doc Smith and Al Auerback, who were injured in last Saturday's scrimmage with Duke and at the present time both are question marks. Smith, the 218 pounder from Chocowinity who plays offensive guard and defensive tackle, has a bum shoulder while Auerback, a defensive tackle suffered a sprained ankle.

Mississippi Southern is a school about the same size as East Carolina and is located in Hattiesburg, a city of approximately 30,000. The Southerners were champions in their conference last year and have sixteen lettermen back for duty this year. Pre-season rivalry from the school indicates that they have a big squad which is highly regarded throughout their part of the Mississippi valley.

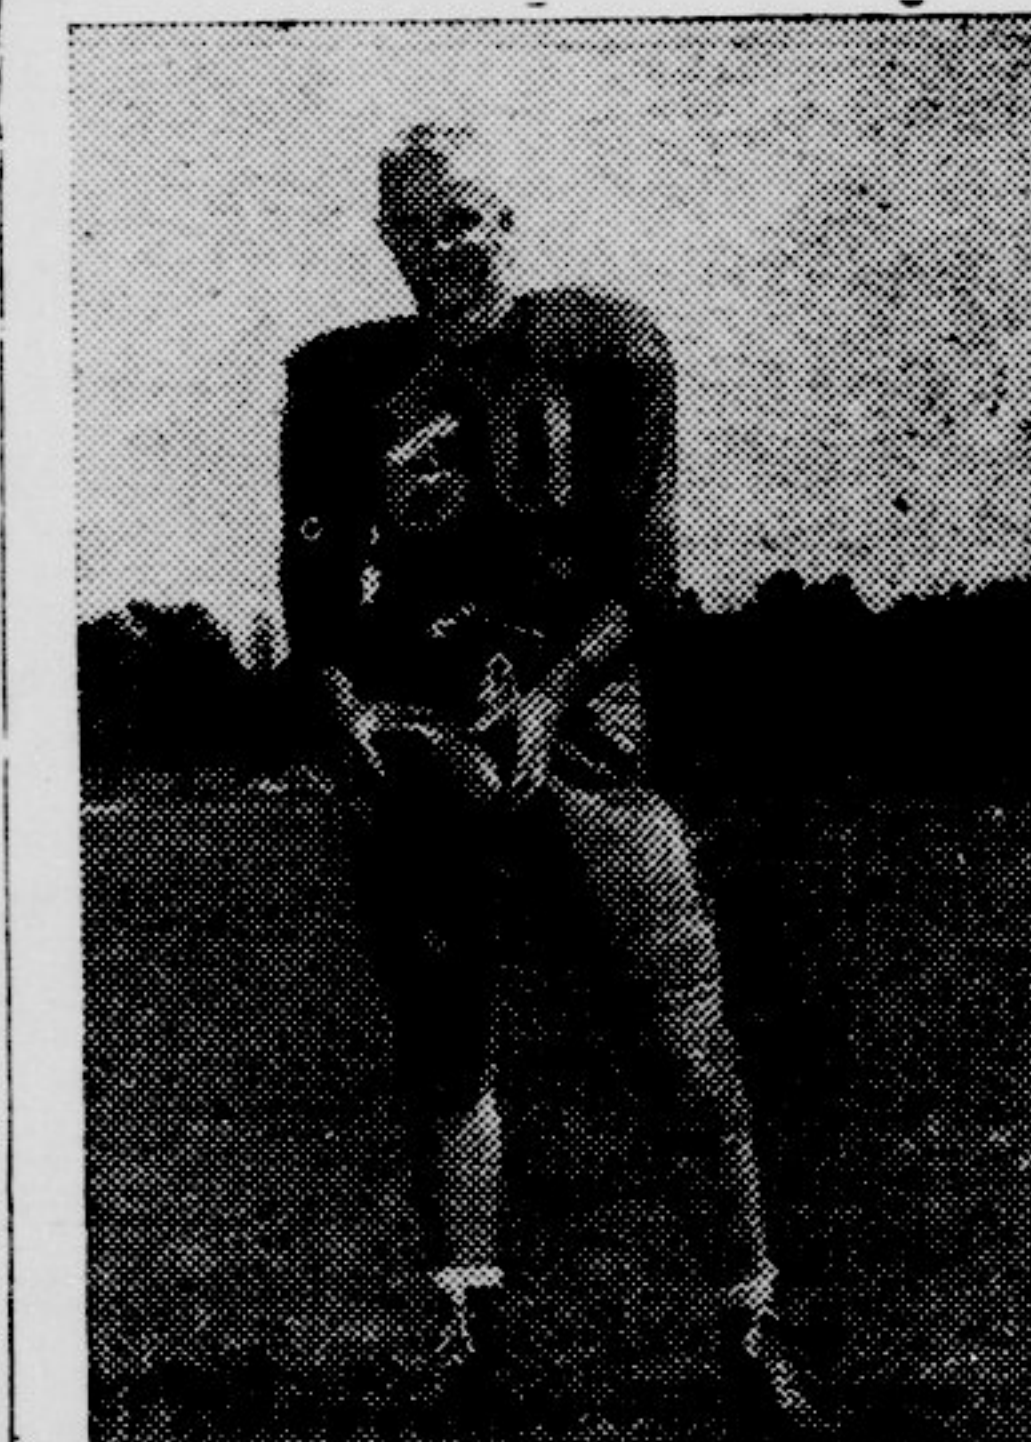

The work-outs which the Pirates have had this week indicate very little change in the probably starting line-up which has been forecast since practice began September 1.

This lineup would have Bobby Hodges and Dwight Shoe at the ends, Bill McDonald and Don McKenzie at the tackles, Doc Smith and George Graybill at the guards and Frank Madigan at center. The backfield will have Sandy Siler at quarterback, Illard Yarborough and Jack Britt at the halfbacks, and John Daughtry at the fullback slot.

The players making the trip are: Al Auerback, Jesse Aldridge, Archie Congleton, Frank Madigan, Dwight Shoe, Doc Smith, Tom Allsbrook, Bob Bradley, Sandy Siler, Cecil Winslow, Jimmy Harris, Claude King, Larry Rhodes, Boyd Webb, Gaither Cline, Nick Kanos, Illard Yarborough, Bobby Hodges, Jack Benzie, John Swart, Bill McDonald, McKenzie, Lyn Grissom, Pete Meadows, Sonny Callahan, George Graybill, John Daughtry, Jack Britt, Luke Taylor, Mike Kovack, Doug Bruton and Johnny Brown.

Dole will be accompanied by coaches Buck Hardee and Flash Morrison. Managers Herb Creif, "Teddy Bear" Wadford and Walter Culbreth will also make the trip along with trainer Larry Kincaid and publicity director Al Wadford.

Sandy Siler

Sandy Siler, a junior from Siler City, will be Coach Bill Dole's number one quarterback tomorrow night when the Pirates meet the strong Mississippi Southern eleven in Hattiesburg. This will be Siler's first year as Dole's top field general. He replaces the great Roger Thrift who was lost to the squad because of graduation. Siler is an accurate passer and will be counted on to be the Bucs top scoring weapon this year.

Gymnasium Nears Completion

Work on East Carolina's new modern Health and Physical Education plant is steadily making progress. This building is located directly behind the football stadium.

Dr. N. M. Jorgenson, director of the Department of Health and Physical Education, stated that work on the basketball sub-floor would definitely get underway this week. The seats to the balcony, which is to accommodate 2500, have already been installed and only the finishing touches are lacking to the balcony itself.

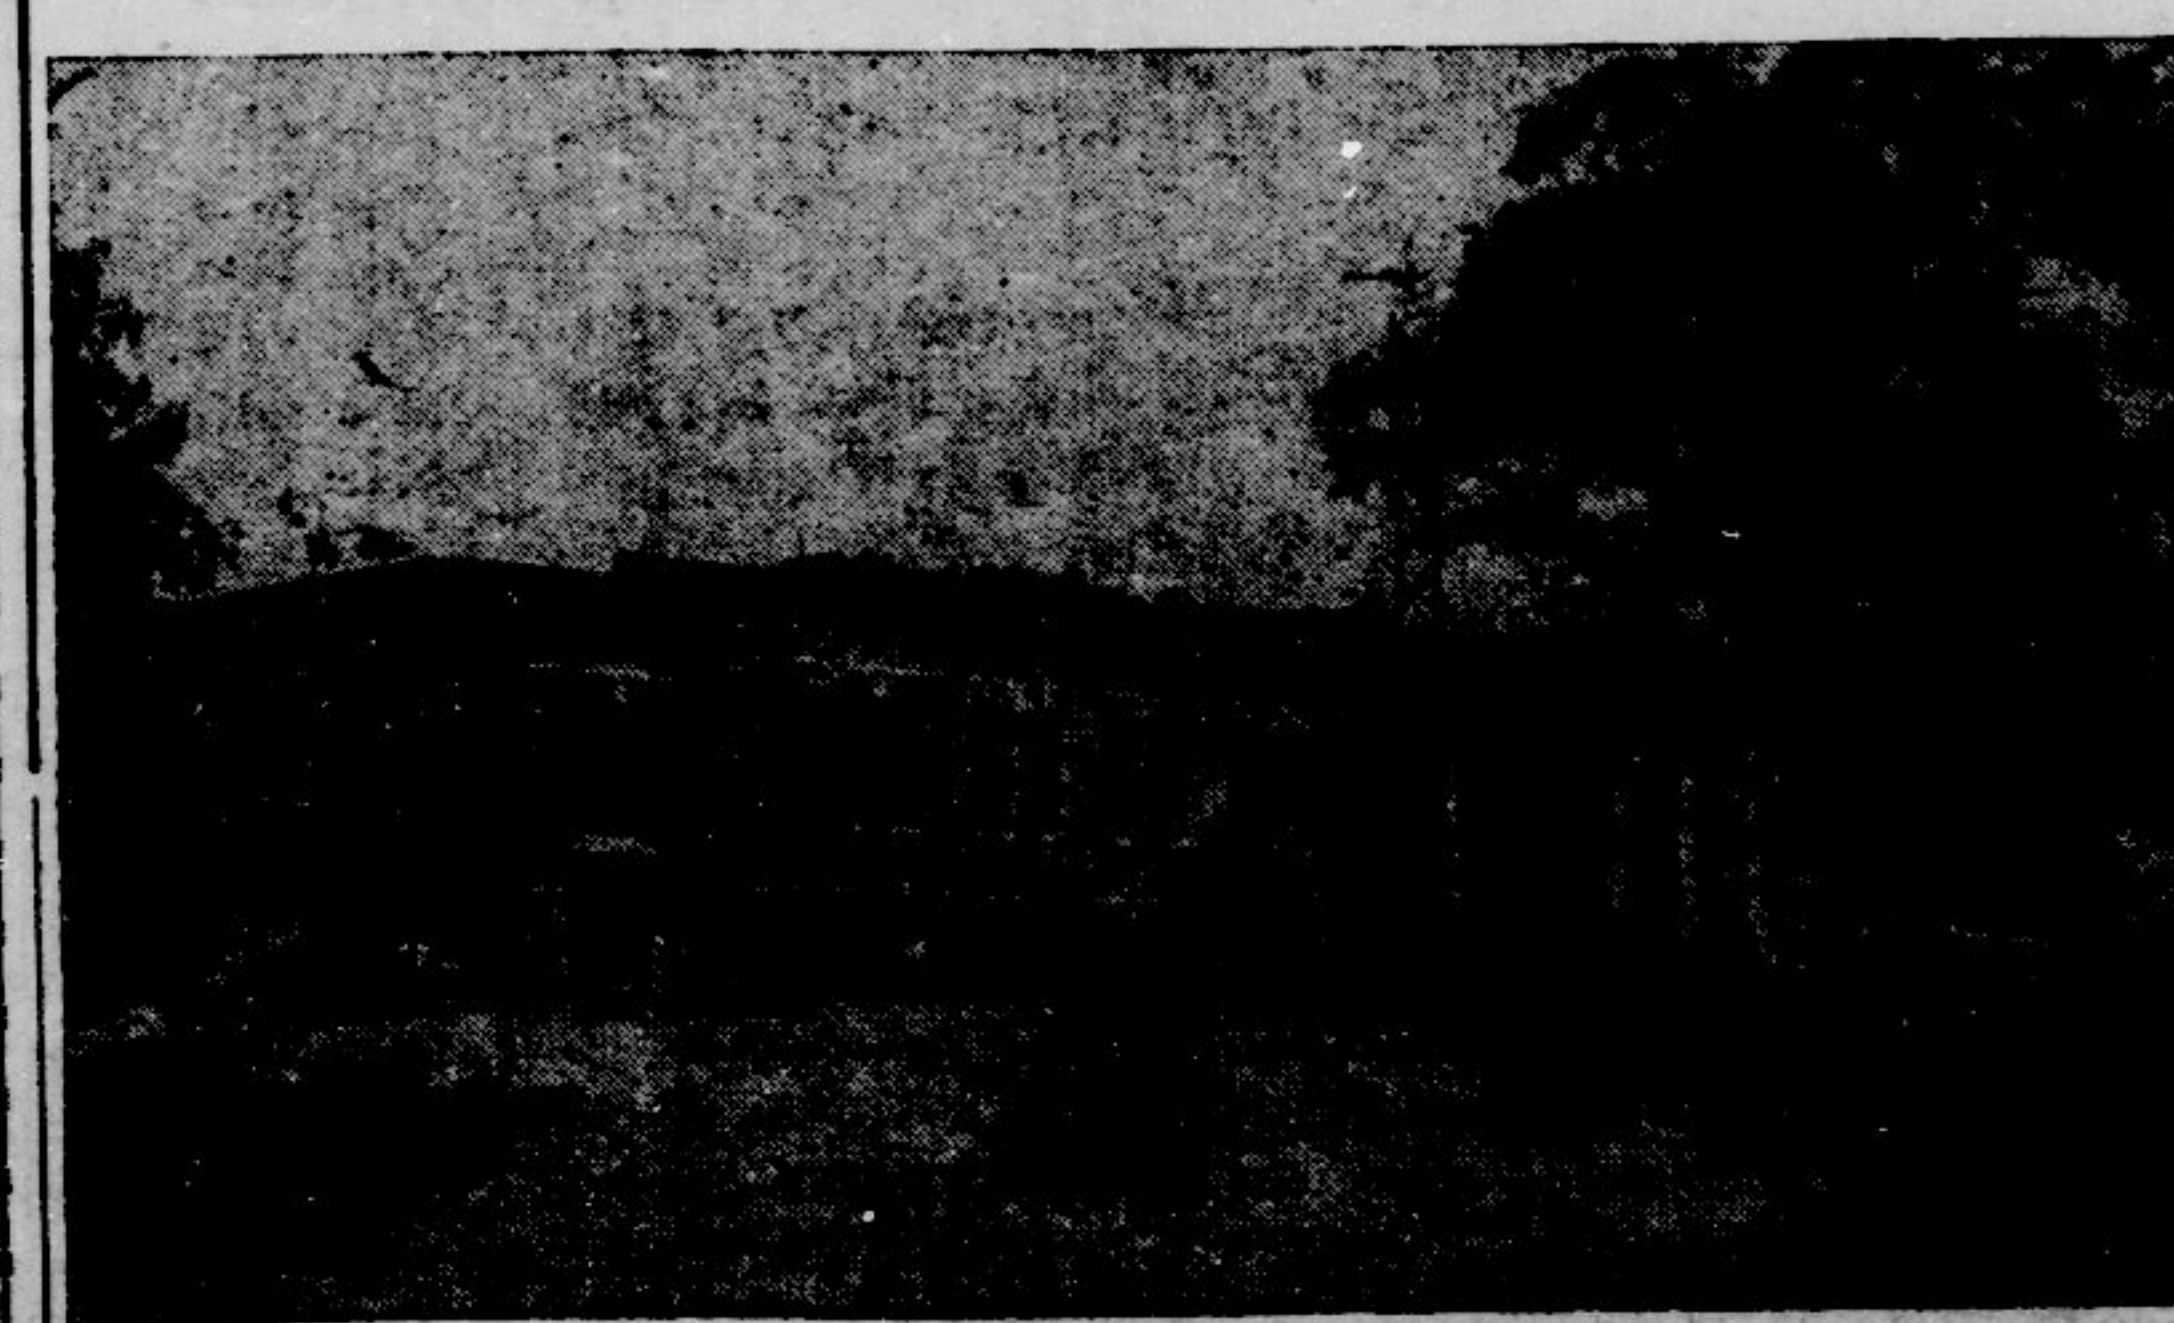

The swimming pool, which is to be equipped with excellent diving facilities, is also nearing completion. In addition to a pool and a glazed maple basketball court, the handsome new brick structure will contain three classrooms, one dancing studio, one apparatus and boxing room, five equipment rooms, three men's and two women's dressing rooms and three offices. Fortunately, all these rooms have been partitioned off and work on their completion is slated to begin shortly.

The roof has been completed and the landscaping of the grounds has begun.

The plant is to be occupied by the Department of Health and Physical Education.

Not A Madhouse, Just Freshmen Registration

From the looks of the above scene, there seems to be a mad scramble for something, but in reality, it is just a shot during the freshmen registration that took place September 4 and 5 on the campus. There were student helpers to aid the new students in the making out of their schedules. Upper classmen registered on September 6 and classes began the following day.

East Carolina Sponsors Summer Workshops

East Carolina college sponsored during the two summer terms of 1951 a series of nineteen workshops, conferences, institutes and special courses. These were planned with attention to the needs of public-school teachers and administrators, and all were well attended by both students registered at the college and visitors from localities in various parts of the state.

Of particular interest was a conference in special education, which centered attention on speech-defective and hard-of-hearing children, and a clinic in remedial reading for slow learners. Mrs. Dorothy W. Perkins of the East Carolina faculty directed the work in special education, and Dr. Mark Karp of the State Teachers college, Paterson, N.J., was present on the campus to direct the reading clinic.

Camp Crabtree, state park near Greenville, N.C., was chosen as the site of a camp counseling course held May 2 and of an outdoor education workshop held July 29-August 10. These were directed by Dr. Charles G. Shaw and Nell Stallings of the department of health and physical education.

Workshops during the summer sponsored included a supervision workshop, directed by J. E. Miller of the State department of Public Instruction; a family life workshop, directed by Dr. Jessie McNeil, director of the department of home economics; a language arts workshop, directed by Edward J. He also expressed the hope that the unit would be furnished with blue uniforms for all basic students sometime during the year. Further the PAS and T stated that 202 basic deferments had been allocated to the local unit with all advanced students automatically being deferred.
