Twelve Play Organizations Take Part In Festival Here

Programs To Include Sixteen One-Act Plays Announces Dr. Charles

Twelve drama organizations in eastern North Carolina are meeting at East Carolina college this week participating in the annual Eastern Regional Play Festival. During the three-day meeting which began on Thursday and closes tomorrow, five programs including the presentation of sixteen one-act plays are being given. Dr. Lucile H. Charles of East Carolina college, chairman of the festival, announced.

The event is sponsored by the Carolina Dramatic association, the Department of Dramatic Arts of the southeastern district of the North Carolina Education association, the Carolina playhouse of East Carolina college and four Greenville groups—the city high school, the Little Theatre guild, the Wesley players and the Rose School of Speech.

Participants include five high school dramatic organizations, three community theatres, two college drama clubs, one church group and the private school of speech.

In addition to the sponsoring organizations, dramatic groups taking part in the event are the Little Theatre guilds of Washington and Wilson, high school dramatic clubs at Monticello, Pantego, Oak City and Wilson, and the Atlantic Christian college players.

The purpose of the festival, Dr. Charles states, is "to have fun and learn together." After each program of plays, an evaluation meeting based on the idea that "every play is an individual, and every production is being held. Directors of plays are giving talks on their productions, and the audiences are invited to share in discussions.

Performances are open to the public without an admission charge. The schedule of performances remaining in the College theatre is: tonight at 7:30 p.m.; Saturday at 10 a.m., at 2:30 p.m., and at 7:30 p.m.

Jarvis Forensic Members Attend Hickory Tourney

Delegates representing the Jarvis Forensic club of East Carolina college participated in the South Atlantic Forensic tournament in Hickory Thursday through Saturday of last week.

Sponsored by Lenoir-Rhyne college under the direction of Dr. Albert Kiser of the faculty there, the annual contest brought together teams from colleges and universities throughout the Southeast.

East Carolina students who took part in debates last week were Mitchell Salsed and Ray Sears of Greenville, Donald Gaylor of Magnolia, and Reginald Jordan of Washington. They engaged in several rounds of debates on the national intercollegiate query for the present school year, Resolved, that the Federal Government Should Adopt a Permanent Program of Price and Wage Controls.

Foreign Language Frat Makes Plans To Attend ACC National Congress

Seven student members of the Sigma Pi Alpha foreign languages fraternity at East Carolina college will attend the Twenty-first National congress of the organization at Atlantic Christian college tomorrow. The East Carolina delegates will represent the Phi Sigma chapter at the college here.

Mrs. Marguerite A. Perry of the East Carolina foreign languages department; Ralph C. Deal of Greenville, formerly head of the department; and Robert Lee Humber of Greenville have received invitations to attend a meeting of the national roster of the fraternity Saturday morning in the Library at Atlantic Christian college. The roster is made up of outstanding teachers of French and past presidents of the national fraternity. Mrs. Perry will give at an afternoon business session the response to the address of welcome to delegates.

Wesley Foundation Elects Upchurch To State Council

Waylon Upchurch of Sanford, a junior at East Carolina college, was elected to the State council of the Wesley foundation which held its annual conference in Raleigh recently. He will serve as president of district one.

Eighteen students from East Carolina attended the conference. They were Dot Howard, Thomas Pierce, Shirley Clark, Willa Dean Lindsay, Robert S. Vickey Jr., Anne Carlson, Mattie Huber, Laura Ann Kirvin, Waylon Upchurch, Michael Raynor, Donald Roebuck, Elaine Smith, Robert Gardner, Leland King, Freddy Alford, Charles Cherry, Lois Ann Myers, Jack Howard and Mamie Chandler, counselor.

Dr. Samuel E. Stumpf, associate professor of ethics, school of religion, Vanderbilt university, was guest speaker for the conference. Meetings were held in the Fairmont Methodist church, near the campus of State college. The Wesley foundations of State college and Meredith college were hosts to the conference.

Approximately three hundred students from the following colleges attended the convention: East Carolina college, Atlantic Christian, Presbyterian Junior college, Louisburg, Pembroke, University of North Carolina, Duke university, North Carolina State and Meredith.

NOTICE

The committee for a liberal religious group composed of students, faculty and townspeople, organized under the auspices of the American Unitarian association, announced a meeting for the discussion of tentative plans. The group will meet at 3 p.m. Sunday, March 9, at the home of Dr. W. S. Krausnick at 701 East Fifth street. The purpose of the organization will be to serve all religious liberals and humanists opposed to authoritarian creeds, especially those persons not affiliated with other church groups.

French Students In High Schools Complete Contest

Many students of French in North Carolina high schools completed last week their registration as participants in the National French contest, sponsored by the American Association of Teachers of French and scheduled for April 25.

Mrs. Marguerite Austin Perry of the East Carolina college foreign language department, who heads the contest in North Carolina this year, has announced that a number of schools in the state have already arranged for their students of French to take the tests in the national competition. Students in all secondary schools of the state are eligible and are invited to enter the contest.

Air Force Officer Interviews Candidates For Pilot Training

Dean Leo W. Jenkins announces that Major Ralph J. Ferree, USAF, of North Carolina Military district, Raleigh, will be at East Carolina college March 18-19 to interview applicants for pilot training, and for the aircraft observer course of the new program for training young men to become commissioned officers skilled in navigation, bombardment, radar operation and aircraft performance engineering.

Basic training lasts 27 weeks, and is taken by all students. The advanced phase of training varies in length depending on the specific course pursued, but all successful candidates are commissioned at the same time after approximately 52 weeks of training. Graduates of this program may be assigned as crew members of bombardment, transport,

Eileen Farrell Appears . . .

. . . In Concert On Campus

Soprano Soloist Sings Here In March 19 Entertainment

Eileen Farrell, young American soprano, will sing on the East Carolina college campus March 19 in Wright auditorium, in a performance that will give the local music lovers the opportunity to hear a singer who last season established a record for the number of solo performances and the number of engagements during a single season with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony. In five engagements Miss Farrell sang a total of 61 performances, more than any artist in the 109 years of that great orchestra.

Miss Farrell helped make theatre and concert history when she went with the Philharmonic on its celebrated first trip from Carnegie hall to the stage of the Roxy on Broadway in September 1950. Later in the season she appeared in the American premiere of Darius Milhaud's "Les Choéphores," in the Easter Sunday All-Wagner program, and in the leading feminine role in the Philharmonic's brilliant concert version of Alban Berg's great modern opera, "Wozzeck."

Studies In New York

Eileen Farrell is American-born and American-trained. She comes originally from Willimantic, Conn.

Campus NCEA Unit Selects New Officers At Faculty Meeting

East Carolina college faculty members chose new officers of the campus unit of the North Carolina Education association Monday of this week at a faculty meeting. Dr. Ed J. Carter, director of the Bureau of Field services, was elected president for 1952-1953, to succeed Alice Strawn of the home economics department, who headed the unit during the present school year.

Other officers for the coming school year are Dr. James Poindexter of the English department, vice president, and Nell Stallings of the health and physical education department, secretary.

Her first teachers were her parents who had been headliners in vaudeville as "The Singing O'Farrells." After studying in New York, Miss Farrell broke into radio and for several years was guest on most of the top musical programs of the day as well as star of her own show, "Eileen Farrell Presents" with symphony orchestra. Conductors and concert managers soon discovered that her golden voice needed no microphone. Recital and orchestral engagements followed that have put Eileen Farrell "at the very top of the ladder," to quote the New York Post.

In her March 19 performance, Miss Farrell will offer a program representative of the wide range of styles of which she is capable. Although the critic of the New York Herald Tribune labelled her "one of the two greatest dramatic sopranos of our time," she is actually a "spinto" soprano.

Record As Solo

The works that Miss Farrell sang in her record-breaking 61 performances as soloist with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony last season are representative of the great range of her repertoire. At the Roxy theater on Broadway, she sang the ever-popular "One Fine Day" from "Madame Butterfly" and "The Last Rose of Summer." Her two numbers, according to the times, "had the crowd as excited as if Bing or Frankie had been the singers."

In her annual recital tours and appearances with leading symphony orchestras, she has won renown for her ability to interpret music of all periods, schools and styles and, as her East Carolina concert will demonstrate, she is at perfect ease in Italian, German and French, as well as in English.

Faculty Member Plays In Recital Wednesday Night

Gladys Reichard, mezzo soprano, faculty member of the department of music at East Carolina college, will appear in a song recital Wednesday, March 12, at 8 p.m. in the Wright building. The program will be sponsored by the college department of music as one of a series of faculty recitals for the present school year.

Elizabeth Drake, pianist, of the college music faculty, will be Miss Reichard's accompanist. The two East Carolina artists have appeared together in several recitals both on the campus and in Greenville and other eastern North Carolina towns.

For her recital, Miss Reichard has chosen a varied group of selections including compositions by Purcell, Bizet, Wagner, Rachmaninoff and Beethoven. Of special interest locally among her selections will be the "Rain Sonata," a song composed by George E. Perry of the East Carolina music faculty.

AFROTC Unit Presents Queen At Third Annual Military Dance

Cuthbert Directs Musicians At Two-Day Contest-Festival

Approximately 1500 student musicians from high schools and junior high schools in eastern North Carolina are gathering at East Carolina college today and tomorrow for the annual meeting of the Greenville district of the State High School Music contest-festival. Dr. Kenneth N. Cuthbert, head of the department of music at East Carolina, is director of the district contest-festival here.

Twenty-two counties of the North-eastern district of the North Carolina Education association are represented on the campus. Included in this area are the counties of Beaufort, Bertie, Camden, Carteret, Chowan, Craven, Currituck, Dare, Edgecombe, Gates, Greene, Hertford, Hyde, Lenoir, Martin, Pamlico, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Pitt, Tyrrell, Washington and Wilson.

Preliminary To Festival The district meeting is a preliminary to the state contest-festival scheduled for Greensboro, April 22-

25. Those student musicians whose work is judged of superior quality by judges here will be eligible to enter the state event later this spring.

Choral groups and students of voice and piano are participating in the program Friday morning and afternoon in the Austin building on the campus. Judges of performances by vocalists will be Dr. Alpha Mayfield of Greensboro college, Donald B. Platt of Davidson college, and Paul Peterson of Salem college. Robert Carter of East Carolina college is evaluating the work of piano students.

Bands will be presented in a program tomorrow morning in the Wright building. Their performance will be judged by Dr. Joseph Wilson of High Point college, Kenneth R. Moore of Davidson college, and Paul R. Bryan of Duke university.

EC Groups Play Dr. Cuthbert has announced two programs by music organizations at East Carolina which will be given in honor of visiting students and will be open to the public.

The East Carolina orchestra, a college-community group, and the Varsity Men's Glee club will make their first public appearance for the year in a concert this evening at 8 o'clock in the Austin auditorium. Dr. Cuthbert is director of both organizations. The Women's chorus, directed by Dan E. Vornholt, will also be presented in a group of songs during the evening.

The College Concert band, with Herbert L. Carter as director, and the College choir, directed by Dr. Karl V. Gilbert, will give a program tomorrow afternoon at 1:15 in the Wright auditorium.

EC Publications Sends Delegates To GSPA Meet

Six students from East Carolina college will represent the campus newspaper, the TECO ECHO, and the college yearbook, the "Tecocan," at the Columbia Scholastic Press association in New York March 13-15.

The meeting is an annual event sponsored by Columbia university and is attended by student editors and staff members of publications in schools, colleges and universities throughout the nation. The East Carolina students are members of the division of the organization devoted to a consideration of the problems of publications in teachers colleges.

Representing the TECO ECHO in New York will be Tommie Lupton, Greenville, editor; Edwina McMullan, Greenville, assistant editor; and Lloyd Whitfield, Kinston, sports editor. Staff members of the "Tecocan" who will attend the press meeting are Charles Shackelford, High Point, editor; Roy Creech, Snow Hill, business manager; and Julian G. Butler, Kelford, staff member.

Representative Chosen From Four Nominees Picked By Squadrons

Honorary Cadet Colonel, or "Queen of the ball," will be presented at the Third Annual Military ball to be held March 14 in Wright auditorium. She will be selected from a nominated list of: Joyce Bagley, Squadron A; Lois Bland, Squadron B; Janet Shore, Squadron C; and Hazel Smith, Squadron D.

Under the supervision of the newly elected Officers' club president, Charles T. V. Jones, each squadron elected one sponsor who is currently enrolled in school here. On the night of the gala affair the Queen will be selected. Last year's Queen was Evelyn Virginia Moore, of Fort. Smith, Va.

A formal social affair, the ball is held yearly for the entertainment and enjoyment of Air Force ROTC cadets and their guests. It is sponsored by the Cadet Officers club whose membership is composed of advanced AFROTC students.

The first Ball was held in 1949. Major Lomax L. May, professor of air science and tactics at the college, stated, "It is hoped that the ball club will continue to make it an outstanding social event until it becomes a traditional part of the entertainment program of this rapidly growing institution of higher learning in North Carolina. All Air Force cadets are invited to cooperate with the Cadet club in making the annual Military ball a success and a most enjoyable occasion for all concerned."

Committees have been appointed and are now working on preparations for the dance.

EC Science Club Presents Mobile Program At ACC

Atlantic Christian college Science club will be host to members of the East Carolina Science club March 13, at which time the local club will present their annual Mobile program. This year's topic is "Light and Sight."

Included in the program are demonstrations on parts of the eye, the blind spot, a test for color blindness, strength of glass as shown by use of atmospheric pressure and surface tension, the nature of light, color and what causes it, the electric eye and its use and the Tesla coil. Students participating in the program will be Norwood Elliot, Wade Jordan, Barbara Williamson. Also making a trip will be Science club President Jennie Cannon and the club advisor, Dr. T. H. Eaton and R. M. H.

The Mobile program was presented this year at the Science meeting Tuesday night. It was given at Snow Hill by Dolores Eisele, Dolores Eisele, and Pete Williams.

Other students on the year's program are: Olene Curis, Dill Estep, Alesse E. Frances Marshall, Frances Radcliffe, son and Elizabeth.

At the club meeting Roland Jones,boro, was chosen as treasurer of the relations of O. Debris, O. Debris, O. Debris.

To The Students

Students who wish to run for any one of the Student Government offices may announce their candidacy in letter form to Sara Jo Hege, SGA secretary, by March 13 at noon. Thus far only a few have announced their intentions of running for an SGA office, and it is my hope to see more interest and more participation in the coming election, which will be held March 17. The candidates will be presented at a student assembly program in Austin auditorium on March 14. We are looking forward to a bigger and better election this year.

EC Library Staff Gives Assistance To Public Schools

Assistance given to public schools by the East Carolina college library and its staff is discussed in the article "A Motto in Action: East Carolina college—'To Serve'" published in the February, 1952, issue of "North Carolina Libraries," official publication of the North Carolina Library association.

Elizabeth S. Walker, the author, is head cataloger in the college library here.

Services of the East Carolina Library to public schools of the state, especially those of the eastern counties, include, according to Miss Walker, workshops in library work conducted for teachers and librarians by staff members of the East Carolina Library and visits to schools with the purpose of observing conditions and helping to organize libraries and to improve those already organized.

Where personal contact is possible, states Miss Walker, the college library "tries to reach through the mail and post." Packages of book catalogues and lists of books she says, are sent to schools of the state.

VERSE OF THE WEEK

Draw nigh to God and He will draw nigh to you.—James 4:8

Sound Off East Carolina

High School day at East Carolina (April 4) is rapidly approaching, and we hope that we can really put on a big show for the many seniors that will be on our campus. We realize that invitations have been mailed out to all the high schools in the state and that practically every detail has been taken care of, but there is nothing like the students here now personally telling high school seniors back home that they are looking forward to seeing them here on High School day. Now is the time that the county organizations should be busily working.

All the county groups might be interested in knowing what we found out this week down at the Registrar's office. The college has on file the names and addresses of all students who have written here for information concerning East Carolina. The names on file are those which have not sent in their application for enrollment here. If the different presidents of the county organizations would drop in at the Registrar's office and look through the files and take out the names of students in their district, the county groups could personally contact these seniors to try to raise their enthusiasm about entering East Carolina next fall.

When High School day does roll around evident here should get up with the group in his home town and really show them the college and what we have to offer in the way of a home educational institution. The success of High School day cannot be left up to a small group. Success will come only through the effort of all. Our college will not continue to be broadcast about what we have to offer until we will not worry about that, for East Carolina will continue to grow as long as the student body maintains its present attitude.

Campus Elections

At the end of year when all campus organizations are thinking about the election of officers, the work of the club next year is a serious matter. The organization is interested in such club. As everyone is well aware, it is the officers who are the backbone of the organization. The good leaders the officers are the ones who are the backbone of the organization. The importance of the matter how small it may seem, is a vote for a certain person is your vote. The person is your choice. The person who is chosen to be the officer is the one who is chosen to be the officer. The person who is chosen to be the officer is the one who is chosen to be the officer.

Question: Does a woman rise when introduced to another woman?
Answer: A woman rises when an introduction is made by or to an older woman. Just how much older a woman should be before a younger woman rises when introduced to her is a delicate matter. One wise person has said, "A person is old when he is ten years older than you are." Ten years seems enough of an age difference for the girl in her teens or the young woman in her twenties to acknowledge. Of course, if Miss Thirty still thinks of herself as a young girl, rising for her might be a bit of a nuisance. Usually women of the same age do not rise when being introduced to one another. A hostess, however, rises to greet all her

Ye Editor's Say

by Tommie Lupton

We take it that everyone enjoyed the Ray Anthony dance last Wednesday night. That sure was a good way to start off the spring quarter, and we think that if such a practice were continued for future spring dances everyone would be pleased. Probably good bands can be scheduled much cheaper in the middle of the week, and a dance in the middle of the week does not interfere with studies that early in the quarter. The March 19 performance on the Entertainment series concludes this year's programs. We think that the Entertainment committee should be commended for their selections this year, for on the whole we think that the entire student body has thoroughly enjoyed most of the programs.

Next week is the week—that is, for us. What we mean is that three of us from the TECO ECHO and three from the college annual will be leaving for the Columbia Scholastic Press convention in New York. There will be no paper that week nor the next. In other words this is the last publication until March 28.

We hope that all of you are talking up the East Carolina High School day program scheduled here for April 4 when you are home on weekends. We want our college to continue growing, and the only way for it to do so is by the cooperation of us students in spreading the word around that "we do have the best college in North Carolina."

A loss to Elon and the coming spring weather have pushed basketball out of the limelight, but pretty soon the Pirates will open the 1952 baseball schedule. We hope to be seeing you all "out at the ole ball game."

For the past five years an unusual newspaper situation has existed at Smith college, Mass. Two papers, the Current and the Sean, weekly compete with each other for circulation and news beats. Last week, on the Current's fifth anniversary, a merger of the two papers was announced. According to the college treasurer, there just wasn't space. It was not "financially feasible." Said the Current, "Perhaps if room enough on campus for both the student body, the alumnae, the friends of the college believe as we do, that two papers are a unique and vital contribution . . . something may yet be done. . . . We have tried our best to serve Smith college."

Noting that college youth has recently been accused of being irresponsible, silent and slap-happy, the Kansas State Collegian declared: " . . . Please, please, accuser, don't stop when you've stoned college youth sufficiently. Please note that we're not alone. And because we're not, all your challenges for us to change will be of little avail, unless you couple them with a challenge to all Americans. It's a national problem, not just singling out college youth." However, "Because our faults seem to be the common faults of Americans, that must not be an easy excuse. We must be willing to face the accusations hurled at us and either prove them false, or try to remedy our ways if they prove true."

Who's Who At East Carolina

by Janice Hardison

This year's "Mr. Representative Student Teacher" is a novelty in one sense of the word. Carl Willis of Wilmington is the first major in grammar grade education among men at East Carolina to receive the title.

Carl Willis

When Carl entered here in the fall of 1949, he went on record as a business education major. The New Hanover high school graduate remained in business and social studies only one quarter, and today he has every intention of someday becoming principal of a grammar school. Perhaps it is fortunate for the kids that Willis decided he would like working with eighth graders. "They interest me," says the soft-spoken senior, and he has more to say.

Enjoys Teaching

Practice teachers are screaming by the end of each quarter that they can't possibly stand it another day. Carl takes quite a different view. "I had a fine time," he says. "In fact, if there were an elective in practice teaching, I would take it this quarter." Carl states further that both he and the eighth graders at the Training school enjoyed his reading class, and that they responded well to his teaching of arithmetic.

Though Carl has every intention of becoming a teacher, he doesn't know how soon it will be. "I might go into service," he explains, adding that he hasn't made up his mind whether to enlist in the Air Force or go via regular draft. He will graduate in May with a B.S. degree.

Active On Campus

Though Carl is mainly interested in becoming a good grammar grade teacher, all of his time hasn't been devoted to that single purpose. He has an excellent scholastic record and has been very active in a number of campus organizations. This year Carl is vice-president of the Canterbury club and treasurer of the YMCA. He also held offices in both organizations last year, in addition to serving as historian for the FTA. Willis has been a member of the YDC and the International Relations club. The FTA has elected him reporter for the present school term.

Though Carl has never joined the Teachers playhouse he has taken part in a number of workshop productions. He likes to read very much, and any good novel enables him to relax in perfect serenity. He has no "favorite author or book, but rather prefers to explore every one imaginable.

'East Carolina Grand'

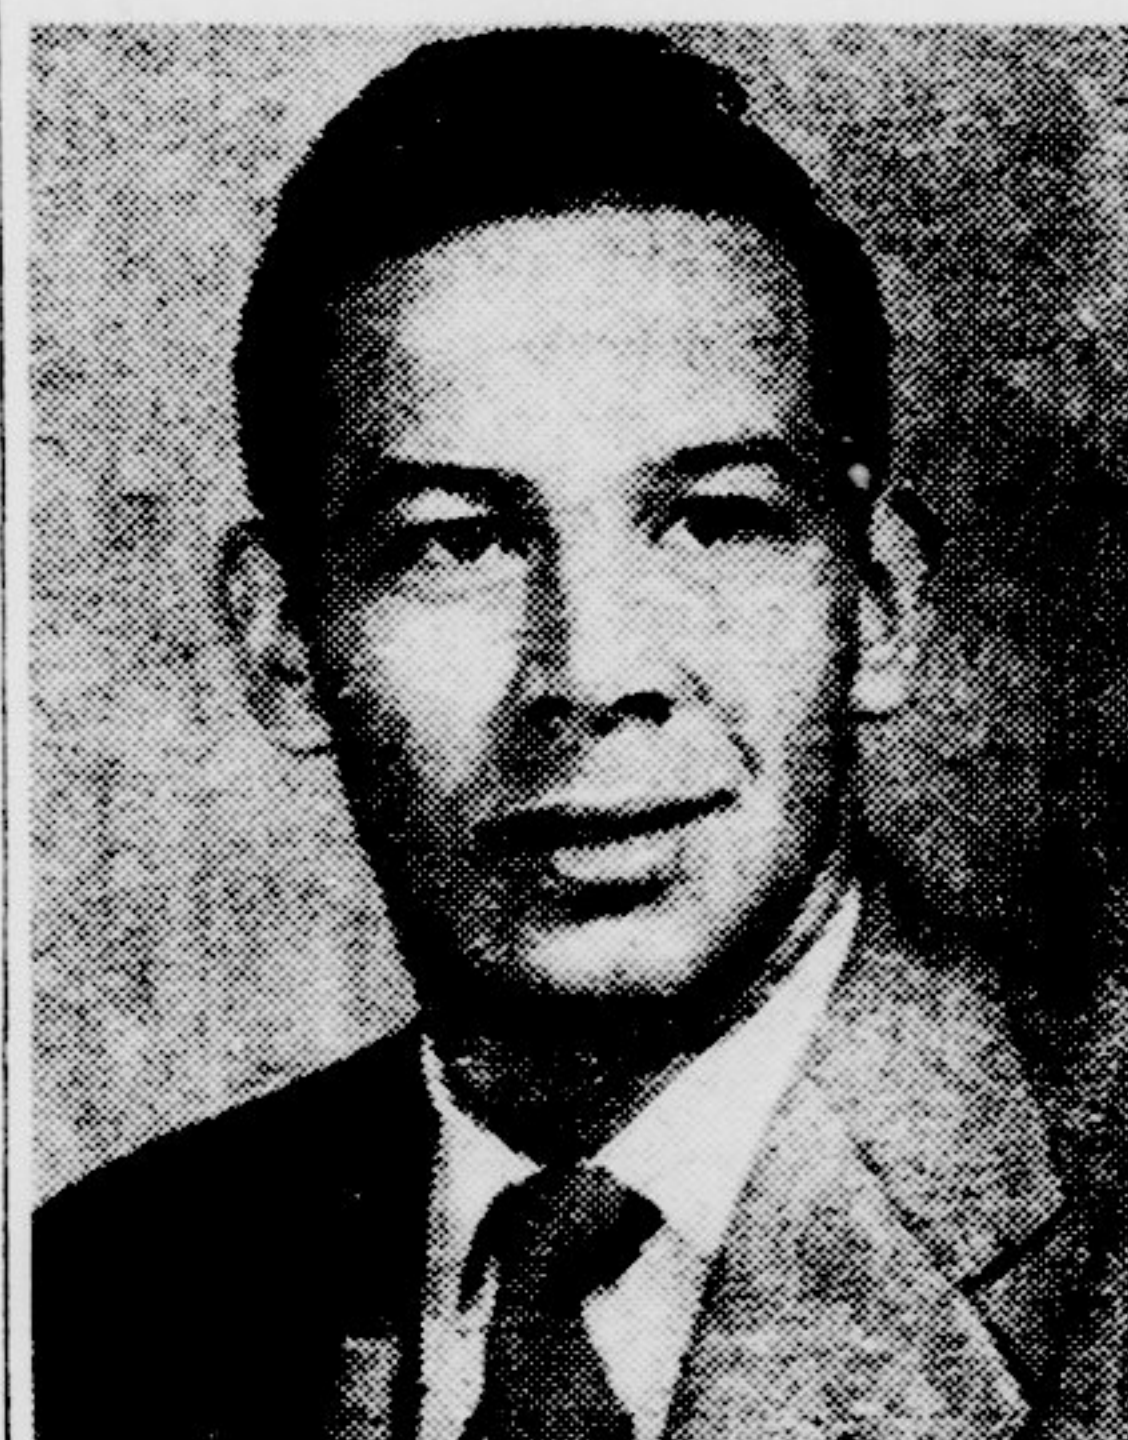

Carl thinks East Carolina is a grand college. He has always wanted to be a teacher, and two of his Wilmington friends recommended this as "the Place." He has started work on his Masters degree, so he won't be gone forever when he leaves in May. He plans to return for his M.A. "eventually."

Willis says of his most recent honor, his selection as "Mr. Student Teacher," "I was surprised to be nominated, much less selected." You don't have to talk, or rather listen, very long to find out that he is devoted to the teaching profession. Though his selection as "Mr. Student Teacher" came as a surprise to him, you get the feeling that his friends and his students expect that he is well adapted to the role. One thing is certain. His aim is to become a really good teacher, and his past efforts are evidence that Carl Willis will be just that. Good luck and congratulations, "Mr. Student Teacher, 1951-52."

Group From Indian College Visits Local BSU

by Lib Paté

There was much fellowship and activity at the Baptist Student center last Sunday when a group of visitors came from Pembroke State college for Indians. After the worship services a large group of students stopped by the center, signed their names on the register and became a part of the Christian fellowship.

Lindy Martin

Looking around we saw many new faces and friendly young people. We introduced ourselves to and met about twenty-one people from Pembroke, some of them being Harvie Brewington, BSU counselor, and Mrs. Harvie Brewington; James A. Jacobs, registrar and mathematics professor; Miss Belle Whyte Cole, dean of women; Grady Martin, agriculture professor; Dr. G. R. Swain, head of the English department; and Lindy Martin, state BSU president and senior at Pembroke.

As we moved from one part of the Center to another we noticed students preparing the picnic lunch which was served on the lawn, though most of us came back into the "house of fellowship" because its warmth was a welcome contrast to the coolness outside.

Some of us carried our plates downstairs and joined those eating around the ping-pong table. We exchanged many ideas and everyone seemed to thoroughly enjoy both fellowship and food. Soon the ping-pong table was in use again—this time for the game.

changed many ideas and everyone seemed to thoroughly enjoy both fellowship and food. Soon the ping-pong table was in use again—this time for the game.

As we wandered upstairs we saw many enthusiastic conversationalists, and others were busy placing chairs for the program to be given by the Pembroke students. On the stroke of two, the topic "What Christianity Demands of Us" was announced. Sub-topics were intellectuality, morality, sociality, spirituality and those developing these topics were Lindy Martin, Bernice Brooks, BSU president, Josephus Locklear, Thadys Oxendine and Eula Mae Dail. Solos were rendered by Daphne L. Jones and Robert Earl Jacobs. The students kept our attention for forty-five minutes with some worthwhile thoughts and information.

A brief tour of the campus preceded the farewells. It was a happy afternoon of fun, fellowship and worship with the guests from Pembroke.

Girls Make Less Raids On Those Piggy-Banks

by Janice Hardison

A progressive movement on the part of women living in the college dormitories has cut piggy-bank raids to a minimum this year.

A new and quite different financial arrangement is responsible for the few money worries that girls have had during the past term. By money worries we mean the door-to-door canvasses for contributions for this or that charity fund. This year's system replaces none, for it is the first one. It was dreamed up and democratically voted in by the residents of the women's dormitories last year.

The first "incidentals fee" was paid when girls checked into their dormitories last fall. In effect the decision required every girl to pay an additional fee of one dollar to be set aside for "incidentals" as the name of the fund implies. These incidentals include such items as contributions to charitable organizations, the annual dormitory teas and homecoming day decorations.

Everyone Contributes
A check-up after registration day revealed that the fee was paid one hundred per cent. Every dormitory resident had made her contribution to the development of a greater and more extensive social program in the dormitories, which, incidentally, is the stated purpose of setting aside the fund. With an actual account on hand for the first time, further steps were necessary. Each house has for some years been electing a treasurer, and this year she was to have a real duty.

Each house committee and its counselor made out a budget providing for the various activities which had previously been financed by a lot of foot work and door-rapping. This was to prove a sure fire method of equalizing expenses.

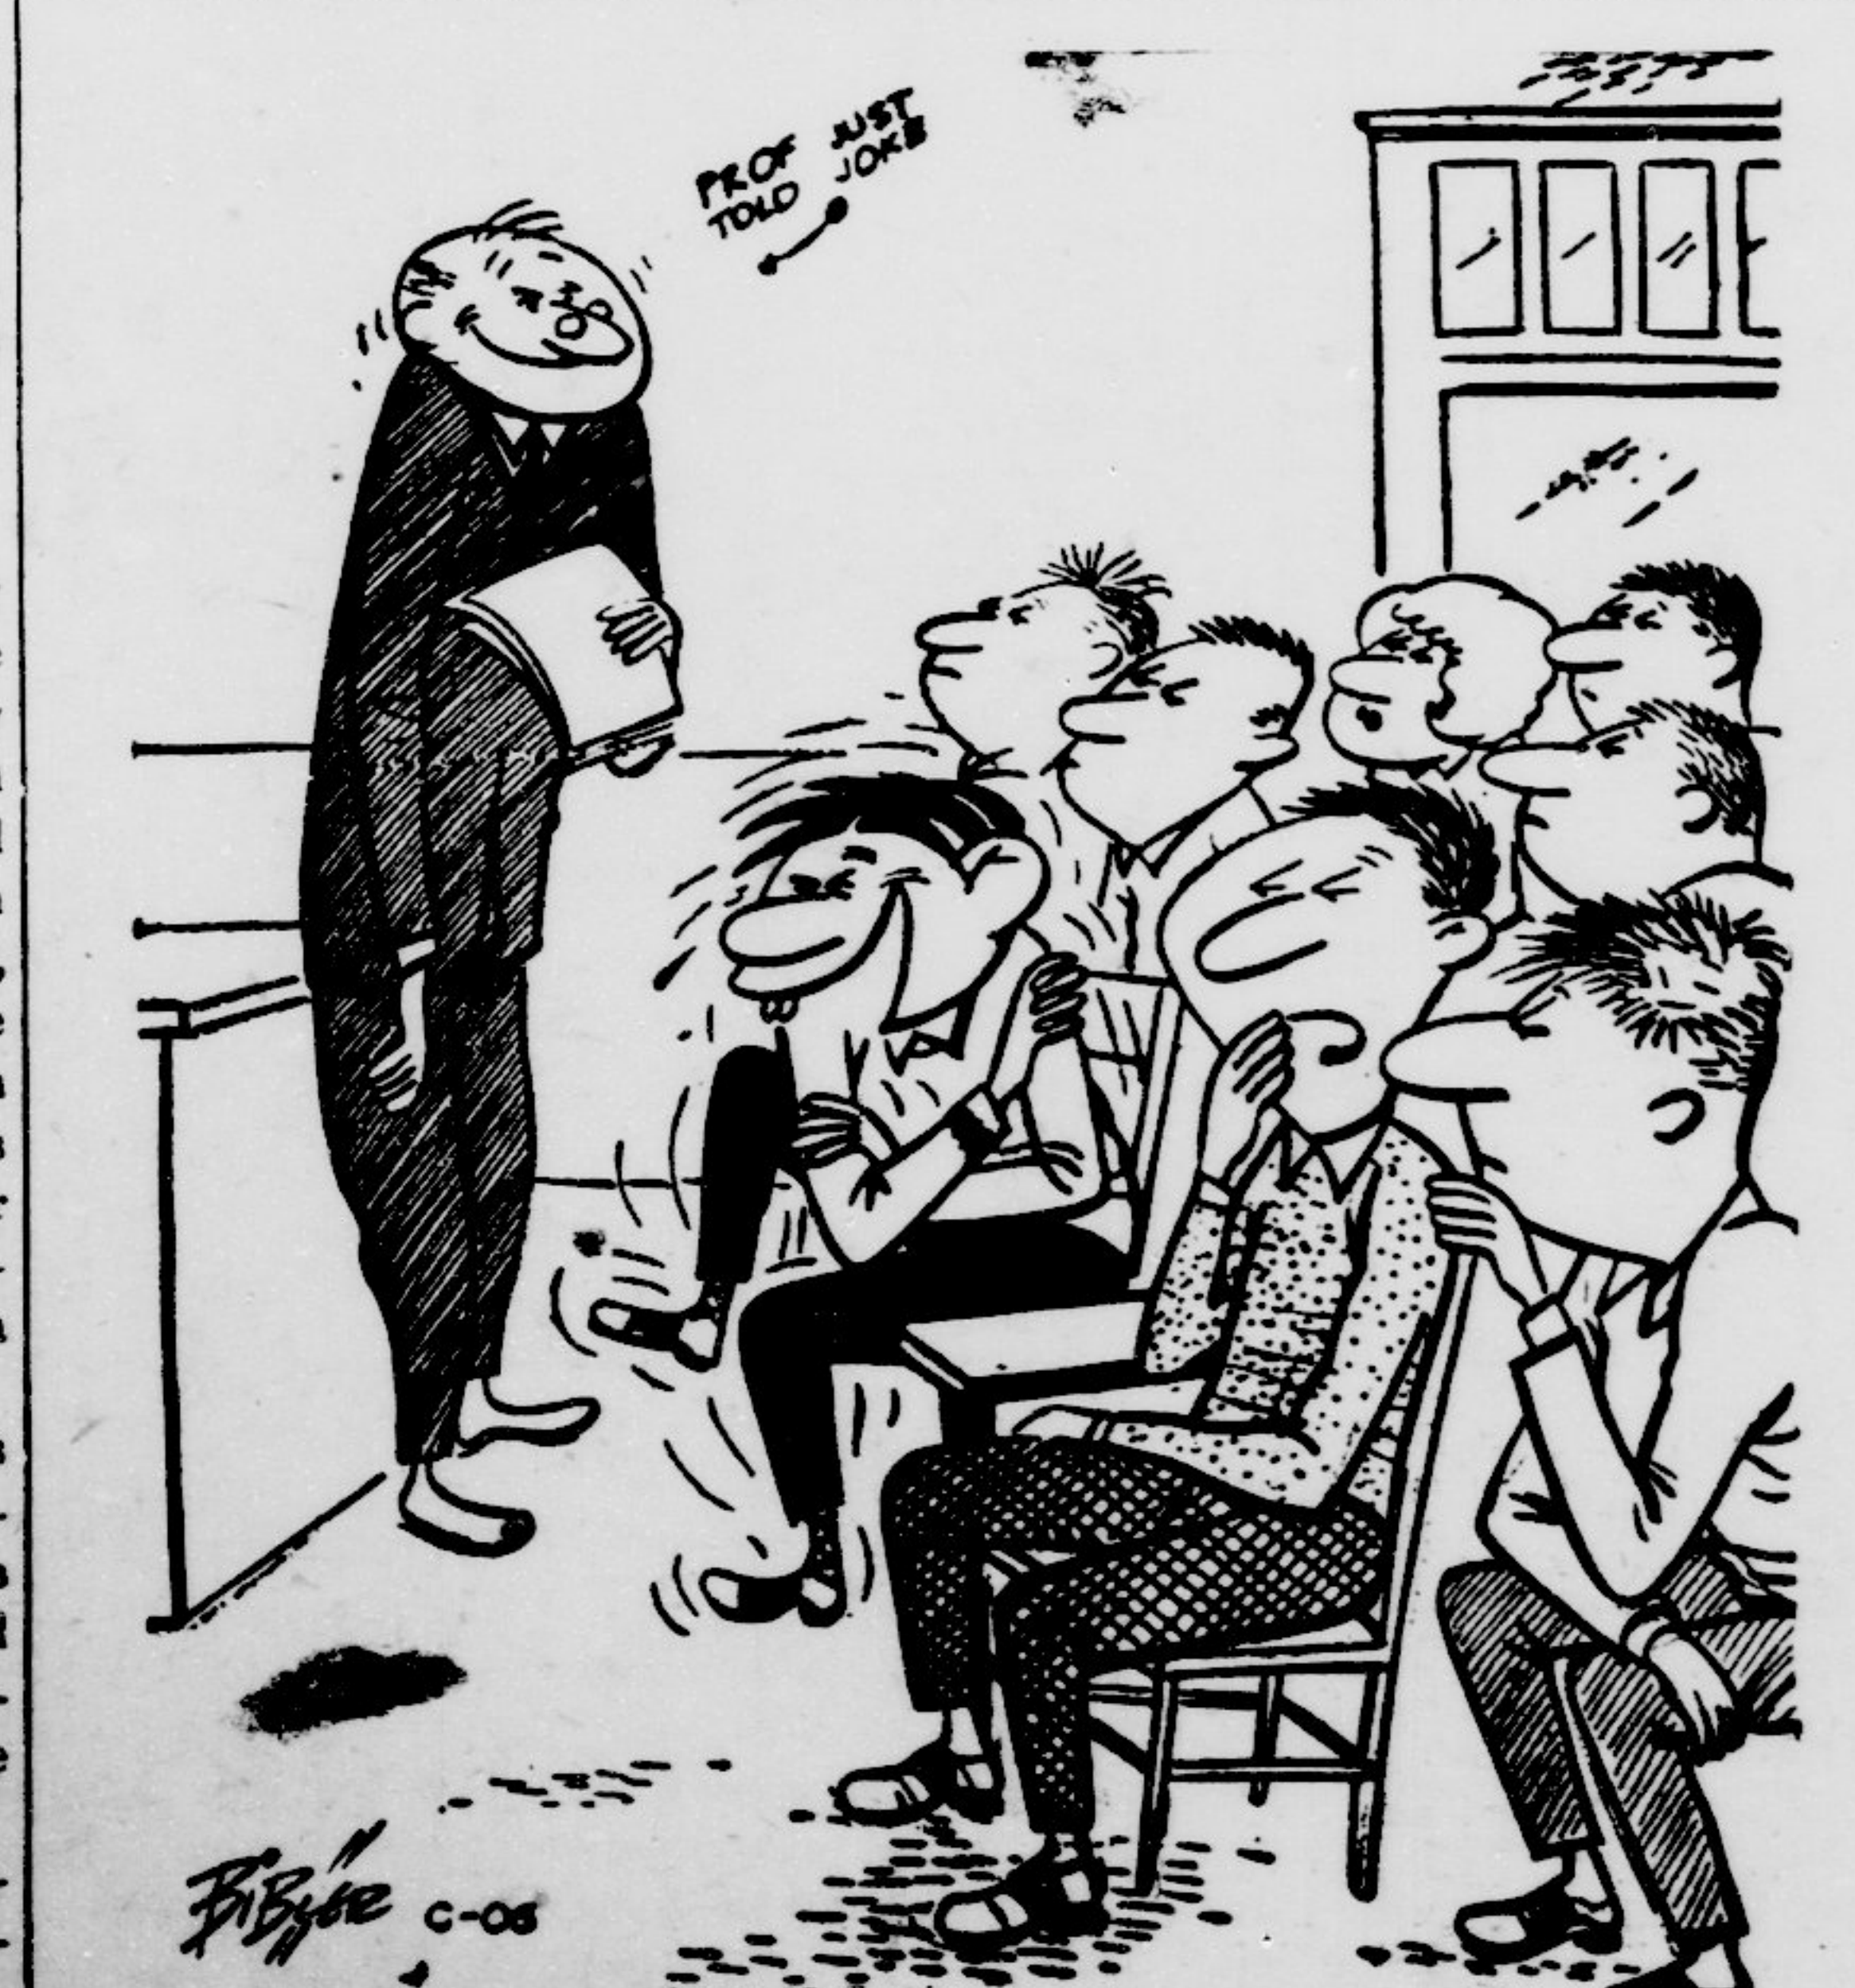

A sample budget has these expenses itemized as follows: Homecoming decorations, dormitory tea, Christmas party; drives to include Red Cross, WSSF, March of Dimes, Christmas seals, all others, flowers in case of bereavement. A given amount was set aside for each item and when the need for each has arisen only one step has been necessary. The treasurer is notified, she withdraws the amount from the student budget office and makes the entry in the dormitory books.

Solves Money Problems

By this well organized plan money problems have been solved quickly and easily during this year. Miss Ruth White, dean of women, feels that it is the easiest way to finance activities in a college dormitory. "It gives a feeling of assurance in any undertaking," she says.

This school year is not too far from its end, and there will be a small balance left. The residents of each dorm will decide at a meeting how the remainder will be spent. Cotten hall, operating on the largest budget, has recently enjoyed a coffee hour financed by its fund. That was during exams when everybody needed a break. This and other activities have been enjoyed throughout the year with the majority of the participants never realizing where the money came from. It's like our tax system, only it's more fruitful. And it is proving a very successful way to eliminate those periodic piggy-bank robberies.

"He'll be th' only guy in history to laugh himself to a college degree."

TIMELY TOPICS

by Bob Hilldrup

It seems like every time we turn around a week has gone by and it's time to sit down and bang out another column. It isn't the typing that's so hard; it's the sitting and staring at the beautiful yellow walls we have in the TECO ECHO office and trying to think of something to write. In case you all don't know, a yellow wall is very uninspirational.

It's bad enough that what is written in this column upsets the people in North Carolina, or for that matter even in this country; but when we start receiving letters of criticism from foreign countries we really must have made some people mad! We refer to a letter received the other day from Germany. Because of certain limitations we cannot reveal its contents but at least it's nice to know that the paper is getting around.

The author of this column took off on a jaunt home this weekend and ran into a most interesting character. Being a poor man, said author was traveling via thumb. The first ride that he received turned out to be from a man who is a member of the organization which is our pet hate. The result was that for almost fifty miles our poor, struggling newspaperman had to listen to the glories of the Ku Klux Klan. Of course a ride was a ride and we were in no position to turn one down but in all seriousness it made us wonder how grown people can act so silly. The man concerned was obviously well educated and well informed, and yet he persisted with such childish prattle as the KKK being "the glory of the South," "a social necessity," etc., etc., etc. We tried to listen with an open mind and yet to save our lives we could not find a single scrap of intelligent reasoning in his entire argument. We guess it takes all kinds to make a world, but we could do with a few less of certain types.

Where's That Western

What most college students don't know about geography would fill several university libraries, a New York Times survey indicates.

The paper gave a geography test to about 5,000 students in 42 colleges. Some old misconceptions of how the world is laid out were turned up.

For example, when asked to name the countries bordering Yugoslavia, some students named Belgium, Egypt, Manchuria, Portugal and even Canada. Only two per cent, incidentally, could closely estimate Canada's population.

Less than half the students could approximate the United States' population. Many thought it was 500 million or more, while some placed it in the billions. (1950 census estimate of U.S. population: nearly 152 million). Five per cent could name the states bordering on the Atlantic coast. Many states as far inland as the Mississippi were mentioned.

So far few college papers have commented on this survey. The Kansas State Collegian called the results "appalling" and added:

"The wild guesses show that our college men and women are deficient in basic facts about our country and the world. . . . A refresher course on basic geography would be a fine subject to require of all students in order for the men and women to be 'wide-awake' and intelligent citizens."

The survey indicated that geography is seldom required by major schools. Less than five per cent of the nation's college students take even one geography course, according to the study.

What's A Perfect Date

The Hasting Collegian, Hastings college (Neb.) asked some of the coeds what they consider to be an ideal date. Some of the answers:

"The ideal date doesn't have to be good looking or have a lot of money to rate high with me. I think that it is loads of fun to sit home and pop corn or listen to records. I think that this certain fellow should by all means be friendly to both young people and old. . . . Consideration and good manners are also important."

" . . . One who is a good mixer, a good dancer, a good looker and preferably a good athlete."

" . . . Someone you can be at ease with and not be afraid of his taking your actions wrong."

" . . . I like the fellow who has big ideas about what he wants to do in life and works hard to reach those goals. I like a fellow to be changeable, that is to say, one who switches from one mood to another."

" . . . One who can make you have a good time and at the same time show you he is having fun. Good looks, money and reputation do not necessarily make a fellow a perfect date."

" . . . Someone with a super personality . . ."

Where's Your Intelligence

The Davidsonian, Davidson college, thinks students are intellectually lazy. It declares:

"In the realm of social relationships with each other, the student falls down intellectually. In most conversations in the fraternity and the dormitory, the cultural and intelligence level is below college standards.

"We seldom say significant things to each other, and when someone does say something important, the recipient usually doesn't recognize it. Now this doesn't mean we have to go around with sour faces attempting to solve the world's problems all the time, but when a more enlightened individual brings up such a topic, we should at least know what he's talking about—and few of us do."

SPORTS ECHO

BY LLOYD WHITFIELD

A depressing week reached its climax for Coach Howard Porter's inconsistent East Carolina Pirates last Monday night as the college stepped into the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball tournament to be held in Kansas City next week. The Christians, coached by Doc Mathias, dumped the Bucs out of contention 75-67 in a contest played at Elon. The battle had originally been scheduled for Tuesday two weeks ago but was postponed due to icy weather in the Piedmont area of the state. Incidentally, Mathias used to coach at East Carolina following his duties at Grainger high school in Kinston.

On Thursday evening of last week the Pirates were upset in the opening round of North State tournament play as fifth seeded Lenoir Rhyne college dumped the Bucs 85-73 and then went on to win the finals and the loop crown. The Bruins will definitely be the club to watch next season with practically all of this season's squad returning. Only two will be lost and the rest are freshmen and sophomores. Tony Sellari and Jim Newcomb will be gone, but there are candidates waiting to replace them. Sellari is the man who beat the Pirates last week as he set a new North State individual scoring record for tourney play with 36 points. Before the event had ended he was named the tournament's most valuable player, an honor which he also captured when he was a freshman ace.

Bears Win As Darkhorse

The loss to Lenoir Rhyne was not so hard to take on the home front for the Bears had been termed as a darkhorse, along with Guilford, and had not met the Bucs in regular season play. They had also upset High Point's defending champions earlier in the campaign. Also, the defeat meant that Coach Porter could bring his team home a couple of days early and prepare for the all-important NAIB playoff against Elon.

A defeat at the hands of Elon was heartbreaking on the local scenes for the campus was in high spirits and predicting that Sonny Russell would have a good chance for Little All-American honors if he were given the chance to perform before the nation's leading sportswriters in Kansas City.

Even though the Pirates dropped the thriller to their arch rivals, Toddy Fennell and Lou Collie wound up their four year career here in a blaze of glory as they performed brilliantly before the small gathering. Both have received praise both far and wide in their playing years here and their basketball feats will not be forgotten. Fennell captained the Buccaneer cagers for the past two years and served as playmaker. A hustler all the way and in fine physical condition, he was named to the All-tournament team last year in Statesville along with Collie.

Collie won the hearts of the fans in his first season here as he amazed the opposition with his shooting accuracy and rebound power, even if he was only 5' 11". In his freshman year he was named to the All-tournament team.

Let's Look At The Records

A glance at the records find that the Buccaneers won sixteen and lost nine for a .642 percentage. In conference play the local ball club, described by the Greensboro Record after the High Point contest in the NAIB playoffs as playing a "lazy and careless type basketball," won ten and dropped four to finish in third place behind Elon and Appalachian. On offense the Pirates outscored the opposition 1823 points to 1671 points. They averaged 72.6 points per contest while holding the opponents to a 66.8 average. The highest number of points scored in one game totaled 90 against Camp Lee. Incidentally, the Camp Lee cagers have All-American Sam Ranzino performing with them now.

Alas! We might as well face it! Basketball season is over and we did not even get to use the new gym, nor win any tournament honors. However, Sonny Russell and Bobby Hodges were named to the All-Conference team. Now that it is all over let's be good sports and follow a fine ball club out to Kansas City and wish them all the luck in the world. We sincerely hope they carry the good reputation and high playing qualities of the North State loop out west. We believe they will, and if they get past the opening round of play watch the papers for some announcement concerning Ben Kendall and Don Haitheox for they will probably make the All-tourney team—at least one of them. GOOD LUCK, ELON—East Carolina followers are pulling for your fine ball club.

Elon Takes NAIB Title With 75-67 Win Over Pirates

Elon's Fighting Christians came through like true champions on the home court last Monday night as they took an early first quarter lead in the district NAIB playoffs over the East Carolina Pirates and went on to take a 75-67 win and advance to the national tourney beginning next Monday in Kansas City, Mo.

Ben Kendall, sophomore All-conference forward for the Christians, performed brilliantly before a small gathering in Elon's spacious Alumni gymnasium as he ran the Pirate defense ragged by tossing in shots from all sectors of the court to take high scoring honors for the evening with 25 points. Don Haitheox, the big center for Elon, tallied 14 points and only saw action in about half the game.

Once again it was the efforts of two big and smooth workhorses, Sonny Russell and Bobby Hodges, who led the East Carolina warriors in the Pirates' second attempt in as many years to win the district playoffs. The Bucs lost to High Point in the finals last year. Hodges tapped in 18 points and Russell continued his consistency by adding 15 points.

In the last game of the season which saw the Pirates trailing 36-34 at halftime, Lou Collie hit for eight points, Paul Jones for seven and Charlie Huffman for six. Huffman did a commendable job on the rebounds for the Bucs, particularly during the third period.

Athlete Of The Week

by Frazier Bruton

We didn't know when it would happen, but we think he has finally come out of it. The "sophomore jinx" which usually takes its toll with ball players in their second year seems to have released its grip on Charles Huffman, a 6-3 push and hook shot artist from Thomasville.

Last year's ball of fire sparked East Carolina's top flight team as a freshman. He just couldn't miss on that deadly push shot of his, but this year he has been hot and cold. Because of the deadliness of his push shot Huffman made the starting quint last year, but this year his shots have been less effective. With the season over it looks as if he has played out the jinx, and been rounded into last year's form, not only on his shooting ability, but also as a valuable rebound man. During the tournaments in which East Carolina played, Huffman seemed to have his better nights.

In the rough and tumble Elon game, which saw the Christians beat East Carolina 75-67, Huffman really put his 6-3 framework to work as he vaulted up around and under the backboards to get his paws on the basketball for the Pirates. Why, in the third quarter the Thomasville lad went nearly all of the rebounds which went East Carolina's way. His work under both backboards was a great help to the Pirates, no doubt, for they seemed to lack accuracy in their shots. Rebounds were their only source of point-getting. In that final game Huffman accounted for seven points and played his usual fine defensive game.

Huffman is a graduate of Thomasville High school where he starred in basketball, football and tennis.

Last year Huffman was the third high scorer for the Pirates with a total of 342 points in 26 encounters giving him an average of 13.1 points per game. In all expectancy the East Carolina fans were sizing this year's team up as possibly our best.

Now that the conference and tournament games have come and gone, East Carolina finished with a creditable third place position. There will be two vacancies in the Pirates' lineup next year with the graduating of Collie and Fennell, two ball-hawking guards. From our long view into the future we see an East Carolina ball club battling for the top in the 1952-53 basketball race with a hustling Thomasville boy having his best year at a starting guard position.

Fifth-seeded Lenoir Rhyne college pulled the surprise upset of the current basketball campaign last Saturday night as they walked away with the North State conference crown by leading High Point college all the way to register a 74-59 win in the finals of the North State three-day event held at Statesville.

The Bears, who knocked off East Carolina in the opening round and then beat sixth place Guilford in the semi-finals, took a commanding 12 point lead early in the first quarter and coasted on to the crown with ease. At halftime the Bruins were leading the defending champions 43-33 to the amazement of the some 1,200 spectators who witnessed the eight team classic.

Tony Sellari, the little Lenoir Rhyne forward, who set a tournament record when he scored 36 points against the Pirates in the first game, was high man for the contest with 17 points. Sellari was also top scorer for the tourney with 81 points, claiming an all-time high for the North State dribble derby.

Buccaneers Drop Tourney Contest To Bears, 85-73

Some 1200 spectators watched in amazement the opening round of the North State tournament as Lenoir Rhyne's fifth seeded Bears took an early lead over third seeded East Carolina college in the annual classic and went on to score an 85-73 upset win and snap an eight game Pirate winning streak.

Chiefly responsible for the surprise win of the year in the loop was Tony Sellari, a slender six foot forward for the Bruins, who set a new tournament scoring mark as he eased in 36 points for the evening's work.

The Pirates led only once in the unbelievable contest and that was in the opening minutes when they grabbed a 3-0 advantage. With Sellari and Paul Lojersberger leading the way, the Bears showed in 27 points in the second quarter to take a commanding halftime lead, 42-28. The two clubs battled on even terms in the third period as the Bucs outscored the Bears 20-19 but the locals were still trailing by 13 points.

Industrial Arts Group Meets

The North Carolina Industrial Arts association, scheduled to hold its annual meeting at East Carolina college April 5, will have as a special attraction on the program a project contest for students in schools of the state. The competitive event is the first to be arranged for industrial arts students in North Carolina.

Members of the association include approximately 125 public school teachers of industrial arts and men in vocational education work. William Rackster of Winston-Salem is president, and Paul E. Powell of East Carolina is vice-president.

The project contest will be open to industrial arts pupils in North Carolina schools. Entries, based on 27 different types of work, will be on display at East Carolina during the convention. Dr. Bing states that plans are being made also to exhibit the student projects at High School day at East Carolina, Friday, April 4, which is expected to bring to the college approximately 3,000 seniors in North Carolina schools.

Each student who submits a project for display at the Industrial Arts convention will receive a certificate. The two best projects in each type of work will be recognized with special certificates of merit. Prizes will be offered for class projects. A grand prize will be awarded for the best exhibit submitted.

Those projects judged as superior will be entered in the national contest in which students compete for the Ford award, offered each year in Dearborn, Mich., in an exhibition and contest sponsored by the Ford Motor company.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil
Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

"Take your hat in goat and scr-r-ram!" Sheedy's girl said. "I won't give you a date, but your hair sure gives me a billy-laugh!" But-but-but—"he burred. Said she, "Haven't you heard of Wildroot Cream-Oil? For well-groomed hair it can't be beat! Non-alcoholic. Contains Lanolin. Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test. Relieves dryness. Removes loose dandruff." So Sheedy got Wildroot Cream-Oil and now every gal wants to hoo in on his time! Better milk 29¢ out of your roommate and hoof it to the nearest drug or toilet goods counter. Buy Wildroot Cream-Oil, America's favorite hair tonic. And ask for it on your hair next time you go to your favorite barber shop. Then no other goat will get your nanny!
