The American business system and how it operates was discussed by Charles T. McNary of Greensboro before business education students at East Carolina college Tuesday evening of this week.

Student Pianist Noona Presents Compositions At Farmville Recital

Walter Noona of Norfolk, Va., student in the department of music at East Carolina college, will be presented in a recital of compositions for the piano in Farmville Sunday afternoon. He will play at 3:30 in the Benjamin May chapter house of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The young pianist has studied at the college during the present school year under Robert Carter of the department of music, and has been favorably received on a number of programs presented on the campus and in Greenville. This spring Noona won first place and a $250 prize in a contest for piano students sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers.

At the conference held in the Flanagan auditorium, Alfred L. Smith of Greenville, president of the Commerce club, introduced Mr. McNary, who is personnel director of Blue Bell, Inc., manufacturers of men's and boy's work clothes.

In showing how American business is organized and managed, Mr. McNary used a series of charts. He stressed such ideas as the profit motive as chief incentive, individual initiative, competition with others, investments by large numbers of people and the creation of more and better goods to meet the needs of the public.

The accomplishments of our system, he said, are shown by the progress of the last hundred years. In this period, he stated, American business has discovered more raw materials for manufacture; developed more efficient buildings, equipment and tools; and greatly increased production.

The American competitive system and the freedoms enjoyed in this country have enabled American business, he said, to surpass that in various other countries which top the United States in number of workers.

Senior Soprano Presents Recital Monday Evening

Alison Hearne Moss, soprano, will be presented by the department of music at the college in her senior recital next Monday evening. Mrs. Moss will sing in the College theatre at 8 o'clock. George E. Perry of the college faculty will accompany her at the piano.

Mrs. Moss' program for Monday evening is composed of a varied selection of compositions in English, Italian and German. Among her songs are included "Voi lo Sapete" from Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana," Tosti's "La Senenata," Wagner's "Der Engel," two Schumann songs and a closing group of songs in English.

Air Force Offers Commissions To Fill Specialist's Openings

The Air Force is offering direct commissions to fill openings for 1,500 critically needed specialists, according to information received by Major Lomax L. May, Professor of Air Science and Tactics, East Carolina college, from Headquarters, Fourteenth Air Force, Robins Air Force base, Ga.

Qualified specialists are particularly in demand in communications, procurement, control and production, special investigation, legal, weather, psychological warfare, engineering and scientific fields.

Officer shortages also exist in many additional specialties, it was further announced.

Dependent on the individual applicant's age, education and experience, the direct commissions are being awarded specialists in grades ranging from second lieutenant to lieutenant colonel. Selected applicants will be ordered to active duty by June 1952.

Applicants for the various officer specialist openings are required to possess at least a bachelor's degree along with further qualifying experience in his particular field.

A limited number of engineering students graduating this spring, however, will be offered appointments as second lieutenants. An overall quota of 336 engineering student second lieutenant appointments is available for the months of June, August and October.

Engineering student second lieutenant appointees will be required to attend officers' basic military course at Lackland Air Force base, San Antonio, Texas, followed by additional technical training.

Former army personnel who have served a minimum of six months as officers, or in the three top enlisted grades, however, will not have to attend the basic military course.

Information regarding the specific educational and experience requirements for these various Air Force specialist fields may be obtained by Personnel Procurement, 14th AF Headquarters, Robins Air Force base, Ga.

The Air Force ROTC unit at East Carolina college was awarded the highest rating given to such units as a result of the annual inspection recently conducted here.

Members of the inspecting team from Headquarters, Fourteenth Air Force, Robins Air Force base, Ga., were Colonel Adrian W. Tolson, Major Otto F. Jacobson, Captain James B. Stanley, and Technical Sergeant James Hensley.

During the two days spent at East Carolina, April 10-11, the team inspected the Unit Supply section, the Administrative section and the Operations and Training section, and conducted conferences with President John D. Messick of East Carolina and other college officials. On the final day a parade and review were conducted, including individual inspection of cadets on the drill field.

The inspecting team came to East Carolina from Duke university and the University of North Carolina, where they had previously inspected the Air Force ROTC units located at those institutions.

The East Carolina unit has approximately 400 cadets undergoing training at the present time. Fifty-one cadets are scheduled to receive appointments as second lieutenants in the United States Air Force at the end of the spring quarter at the college, May 19, 1952.

Expanded Facilities Provide New Laboratory In Library

Wendell W. Smiley, librarian at East Carolina college, announces that new quarters and expanded facilities have recently been provided at the college for a curriculum laboratory. This division of the college Library is used primarily by East Carolina students preparing to teach. It is also open to teachers in the field.

The curriculum laboratory is both a library and a workshop. Located on the second floor of the Library, it includes a collection of books, visual aids, tests, pamphlet boxes containing materials useful to teachers and other types of instructional equipment.

Materials represent, Mr. Smiley states, many areas of instruction, such as mathematics, science, reading and other language arts, guidance and visual education. Students in methods courses at the college make use of the laboratory in the preparation of their work.

'Magic In The Studio' Theme Of Festivities On Thursday Evening

East Carolina's Queen of the May will be crowned at 6:15 p.m. on May 1, in the College stadium and will reign over a court of attractive and outstanding women chosen by the students to represent their classes.

The court members will be attired in identical style pastel evening gowns with white net over-skirts and stoles, and will carry spring nosegays. The maids of the court will be attended by young men of their choice wearing formal evening clothes.

The program, "Magic In The Studio," honoring the Queen and her court, is an original dance drama with gay and colorful dances created by the Modern Dance class. Bill Goodson, the artist, falls asleep and as he sleeps he dreams, and as he dreams his studio awakens. The characters he has created on canvas, his pallet and paint brushes, all dance to waltz time. When the artist awakens, he finds his studio, though a little backward, is quiet. The theme music for the drama is "Artist's Life" by Strauss.

Twins Open Program
Nina and Joan Stillman, twin seniors, in yellow and purple page costumes, will officially open the festival. Music for the coronation will be furnished by Dolores Matthews followed by a brass ensemble directed by Herbert Carter of the music department. The College choir, directed by Dr. Karl Gilbert and accompanied by Miss Matthews, will sing an Irish air, "I Love My Love In The Morning."

Al Harrington will be the announcer for the court and Ralph Rives will be the narrator for the dance drama. The program will open with the Dance of Greeting and will close with the Dance of Farewell danced by Elizabeth Riddle, Nellie Gardner, Glenna Thomas, Kay Johnston, Julia Spears and Shirley Clark.

Students in the Community Recreation class have been busy painting stage props and making costumes. They will also serve as stage hands. Those in the methods class have made the many attractive posters exhibited on the campus.

In the true English May custom, the crown will be fashioned of a garland of tiny flowers, and the May Pole will be topped with a nosegay. The crown bearers will be Pennywards and Freddie Hinnant, Joan Kelly will drop flowers in the path of the Queen. The marshals will serve as ushers.

The May Pole dancers, Thomas, Julia Spears, Elizabeth Eiddle, Ann Smith, Ann Goodson, Lottie Stephens, Kay Johnston and Patricia Hensley, will participate in the festival.

The general festival and dance plans and program will be held in the gymnasium. The members of the Sandford and Mrs. of the page.

Heath Pitches Three Hitter For 3-2 Win Over Navy Team

Coach Jack Boone's prize freshman left-hander, Rodney Heath, took the mound against the Norfolk Naval receiving station in Norfolk, Va., Monday and hurled the East Carolina Pirates to a 3-2 win as he set the service team down on three hits, while his teammates were busy supporting him with 14 hits.

Going into the top half of the ninth frame the score was tied at 2-2, but the Bucs scored the winning run in that inning as Heath led off with a single and took second on a sacrifice by second baseman Dick Hoskins. Major Hooper, who hit safely in his first three trips to the plate, flied out to leftfield. With two outs Heath came charging home for the score when Norfolk's second baseman, booted Gaither Cline's grounder.

The Pirates' 14-hit attack was led by Paul Jones, W. C. Sanderson and Major Hooper, each collecting three singles. East Carolina ab r h po a e C. Pirates Split Series With Montclair Nine

After Montclair State Teachers college of New Jersey had taken the opening game of a two-game series, 9-4, the East Carolina Pirates bounced back the following day to take a 4-3 win behind the four-hit pitching of sophomore hurler Jim Piner.

The opener of the two-day inter-sectional clash saw the Pirates suffer their first defeat after six consecutive wins as the mound staff issued 12 walks and the local batsmen could not gather enough hits. Fred Soles, Pirate outfielder, led the Pirates at the plate as he collected two of the locals' six hits. A. J. Rose, the starting Buc hurler, was credited with the loss.

In Thursday's encounter Buc Coach Jack Boone sent Jim Piner to the mound. He set the Montclair nine down on four hits for a 4-3 win. Although Piner walked eight and four errors were committed behind him, he came through in the clutch to stay out of serious trouble.

The Pirates opened the scoring in the first inning with two runs, but the visitors tied things up in the second with two tallies. With two runs in the seventh, the Pirates clinched the game, as John Hamilton tripled and scored on Piner's squeeze bunt. Cecil Heath, who got three singles in four trips, singled, stole second and scored on a hit by Fred Soles.

Bucs Add Seventh NS Loop Victory In Guilford Win

East Carolina's Pirates scored their seventh North State conference win against one defeat by downing Guilford 5-3 in a game played on the local diamond last Friday.

Sophomore righthander Jimmy Byrd gave up only four hits in setting down the visitors. He hurled hitless ball until two were out in the seventh inning when Calicut singled.

A walk to Fred Soles with the bases loaded in the seventh forced in a run that gave the Pirates a 4-1 lead and what proved to be the clincher.

Cecil Heath, Pirate shortstop, paced the locals at the plate with three hits in four attempts. None of the visiting Quakers could touch Byrd's offerings for more than one hit.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

"YOUR HAIR looks as though it's been in the rein, deer," a campus Caribou told Sheedy. "If you want to horn in on the sororities, it might behoof a man of your ilk to try Wildroot Cream-Oil, America's Favorite Hair Tonic. Contains soothing Lanolin. Non-alcoholic. Grooms hair neatly and naturally all day long. Relieves annoying dryness. Removes moose, ugly dandruff. Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test!" Paul got Wildroot Cream-Oil and now no girl wonders whether he's man or moose! If your moose is cooked by unruly hair, collect a little doe and take a taxi-dermist to the nearest drug or toilet goods counter for a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil. And ask for it on your hair at the barber shop so your deer won't think you've let herd down. (What she'll say will be moose-ic to your ears!)

The first act of "Queen's Hall" was first presented before several audiences last year. Act two, recently finished by Rives, was written at the request of many people who saw the original presentation.

Characters who appeared in the complete production at the College theatre were: Lena Taylor as Maria; Imogene Jeanette as Eleanor; Marion Chesson as Connie and Bette Carroll as Aunt Kay.

The scene of the drama is laid on a large plantation in Halifax county before and after the War Between the States. It is a story of love, courage and sacrifice as found in the hearts of the people who dwell in "Queen's Hall."

Pitt Schools Enter Contest

Ten Pitt county schools entered contestants in a typewriting contest at East Carolina college yesterday. Sixty-four students participated in competitions arranged for beginners and for advanced students.

The contest, the first such event to be held at East Carolina, was sponsored by the department of business education and the Beta Kappa chapter of Pi Omega Pi, national honorary fraternity for students of business education. Mrs. Dorothy Lewis Wilkerson, faculty member of the college department of business education, was in charge of arrangements.

Schools which have accepted an invitation to take part in the typing contest include all county schools which offer courses in typewriting.

Commerce Club Elects Annie Lou Butts Head

Winning in a run-off election, Annie Lou Butts was selected to head the activities of the East Carolina Commerce club next year as she won the presidential post over John Edwards in last week's voting.

Johnny Johnson, vice president; Betty Sue Branch, secretary; Patsy Aiken, assistant secretary; Jackie Sears, treasurer; Grace Baker, Teco reporter; Maggie Gatlin, TECO ECHO reporter; and Mitchell Sauced, parliamentarian, were the other officers chosen.

They are Ayden, Belvoir, Bethel, Chicod, Farmville, Griffin, Grimsland, Pactolus, Stokes and Winterville.

Thirty-six beginners and twenty-eight students took part in two contests. Papers submitted were scored by the International contest rules and will be figured on the basis of net words per minute. Advanced students took a test at 1:30 in the afternoon, and beginners at 3:15 in the department of business education in the Flanagan building.

At a dinner meeting at 6:00, which closed the day's program, awards were presented to competitors with the highest ratings. The school making the highest average score for both beginners and advanced students received a cup. The individual students making the highest score in each event received medals and the boy and the girl who have the highest scores for their school were given certificates of merit.
